M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg, from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meakin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R R Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maake, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R F Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Pomona Hill Nurseries.

OVER A MILLION
FRUIT TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
SHADE TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
ROSES, SHRUBS, &C.

Send for catalogue. Address

J. VAN LINDLEY,

POMONA, N. C.

EASTER MUSIC

EASTER SELECTIONS, containing bright, new Carols, and a Responsive Service. Music by Celebrated Writers of Sunday-School Songs. Price 5 cents, post-paid.

THE LIVING CHRIST. Service of Song and Responses, prepared by J. R. HALL. Price, 5 cents post-paid. We call attention also to: "The Lord of Life," "The Risen Messiah," "He Lives," "Death's Conqueror," "The King of Love," "Savior Victorious," "Easter Morning," &c., Price, 5 cents each, post-paid.

••• CANTATAS. •••

UNDER THE PALMS. By Butterworth and Root. Price 30 cents, post-paid.

FLOWER PRAISE. By Burnham and Root. Price, 35 cents, post-paid.

FESTIVAL OF THE FLOWERS. By Burnham and Root. Price 30 cts, post-paid.

MUSICAL VISITOR, for February, will contain Easter Anthems. Price, 25 cts. a copy.

Catalogue of Easter Music of every description mailed free on application. Address,

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,

CINCINNATI, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

Tortured Disfigured Humiliated

By unsightly skin and blood diseases.
Is there hope of cure?
CUTICURA RESOLVENT
Is the greatest of skin purifiers,
As well as blood purifiers.
Because of its peculiar action on the sores,
It is successful in curing
Torturing, disfiguring, humiliating humors,
When the usual remedies and even
The best physicians fail.
Entirely vegetable, innocent, and effective,
It especially appeals to those who have Suffered long and hopelessly.
It acts upon the liver, kidneys and bowels as well as upon the skin and blood.
Its use during the winter and spring
Insures a clear skin and pure blood,
As well as sound bodily health.
It is the only Purifier acting on the Skin and Blood at the same time.

Sold throughout the world. Price, $1. POTTER DRUG & CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin and Blood Humors," free.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 25 cts. 2 to 6 sold in a house. Sample postage paid, five cents. FORSHEE & CO. Cincinnati, O

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 05 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		8 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		6 22 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 05 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 48. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma.		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 42. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 49 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 39 p m
	No 14. Daily
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 26 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	15 55 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.39 a m, Greenville 8.22 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.05 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 8.50 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m., arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.20 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4.10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.20 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Sup't.

J. R. KENLY, General Manager.

T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

New Testament Studies—No. 4.

BY RIGHT G. MOORE.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW.

1. Author. The first gospel, though not expressly assigned to Matthew until the close of the second century, has always been ascribed to the apostle whose name it bears. He was the son of Alpheus (Mark 2: 14) and a native of Galilee. He held office under Roman appointment as receiver of customs at the sea of Tiberias (Matt. 9: 9). There he was called by Christ to active discipleship and his name (Matthew and Levi being here identical) appears in the four lists of the apostles: Matthew 10: 3; Mark 3: 18; Luke 6: 15; Acts 1: 13. Little is recorded of him by the evangelical writers, and little is certainly known. One tradition says that after our Lord's ascension he preached eight years in Judea and then travelled extensively, laboring incessantly, to finally suffer martyrdom in Ethiopia. From another tradition we are led to infer that he lived an ascetic life, sustaining himself on nuts, berries, and vegetables, and died a natural death. The only accurate knowledge we have concerning Matthew is that recorded in the New Testament.

2. Language. A tradition was received in the early church to the effect that Matthew wrote in Hebrew. Hence some have inferred that our Greek gospel, generally accepted as original, is only a translation. It is very probable either that the tradition is unfounded or that Matthew also wrote his book in Greek, so that the first gospel attained its present form in the apostolic age.

3. Composition. Matthew was evidently written only a short time before the fall of Jerusalem in A. D. 70. Opinion is divided as to the place of composition. Some critics assert that Matthew wrote during his stay in Judea; others, with perhaps more reason, claim that he wrote outside of Palestine.

4. Design. It was written primarily for Jewish converts to the Christian faith, both within and beyond the borders of Palestine. This is very clearly shown by its peculiar phraseology and the familiarity with Jewish ideas and customs which it assumes.

5. Characteristic Features. (1) Great stress laid on prophecy, and the book is a record of constant and frequent fulfilment. (2) It is closely connected with the Old Testament and properly marks the transition from the Old Theocracy to the New. (3) It presents Jesus of Nazareth as the founder and ruler of a kingdom: the phrase "kingdom of heaven," peculiar to Matthew, is used 33 times in the book. (4) The arrangement of its matter is topical rather than chronological. (5). It has less spiritual insight than the other books, and was called the "somatic," or bodily, gospel. (6) It is the only gospel in which is found the word church. (7) It is remarkable for its full reports of the discourses of Christ. Six of these are specially prominent: chapters 5–7, 10, 13, 18, 23, 24–25. (8) It is mainly devoted to the record of our Lord's Galilean ministry.

6. Contents. A clear analysis of the book is quite as essential to its devotional reading as to its systematic study. The following outline is convenient and comprehensive.

I. EARLY YEARS.

1. Genealogy—birth.
2. Visit of the Magi—flight into Egypt.

II. GALILEAN MINISTRY.

3. John the Baptist—baptism of Jesus.
4. The temptation—ministry begun—call of the four.
5, 6, 7. Discourse: Sermon on the Mount.
8. Miracles: leper, centurion's servant, Peter's wife's mother, stilling the tempest, two Gadarene demoniacs.
9. Miracles: paralytic, Jairus' daughter, two blind men, demoniac—call of Matthew, —fasting—sending out twelve.
10. Discourse: commission and instructions to the twelve.
11. Message of John the Baptist—impenitant cities—Christ's thanksgiving prayer.
12. Plucking grain—Miracle: withered hand—warning to Jews.
13. Discourse: Parables of the kingdom—rejection at Nazareth.
14. Death of John the Baptist—miracles: feeding five thousand, walking upon the sea.
15. Unwashed hands—miracles: Syrophenician woman's daughter, feeding four thousand.
16. Leaven of Pharisees—Peter's confession—Christ foretells his death and resurrection.
17. Transfiguration—miracle: demoniac boy—the tribute money.
18. Discourse: The church and its duties.

III. CLOSING EVENTS.

19. Divorce—blessing little children—the rich young man.
20. Parable: laborers—sons of Zebedee reproved—miracle: two blind men near Jericho.
21. Triumphal entry—cleansing the temple—cursing the fig tree—Christ challenged—parable: wicked husbandmen.
22. Parable: marriage of king's son—wise answers of Christ.
23. Discourse: Invective against the scribes and Pharisees.
24, 25. Discourse: The last things.
26. Christ anointed—treachery of Judas—the last supper—Gethsemane—the arrest—before the Sanhedrin—Peter's denial.
27. Death of Judas—Christ before Pilate, —crucifixion—burial—guarding the tomb.
28. Resurrection—appearance to women—report of the guard—appearance to the eleven on a mountain in Galilee.

State Aid.

Editor of the Recorder:—I thought when I left the law and entered the ministry, that I should never raise my voice or use my pen in any political controversy again, and hoped my life might be spent without entering this kind of work; but I reserved to myself one privilege, or rather, I have never believed that I had a right to surrender that, viz., the right, or rather, duty, to contend for "religious liberty." Hence I have seized my pen, believing, as I now do, that if the tendency, in some directions, of our State is not checked, that we will have to fight over again the battles of religious liberty so gloriously won by our ancestors a century ago. It is true we may fight upon different battlefields, but with the same enemy. He may be clothed in the garments of education, with the widow's wail upon his lip, and the orphan's tear upon his cheek, but unmask him, and we see the monster "stealing the livery of heaven to serve the Devil with."

Having been whipped in open conflict, he returns in disguise; and thus disguised, he has misled many innocent and good people, and by his tears and garb have made them his followers, who are arrayed under his banner, believing that they are fighting for education and for the orphans, while in reality they are only forging chains to again bind religious liberty, and making bolts and bars for "Bedford jails," or growing withes for "Newbern whipping posts."

"Ah," sneers some, "he fears a ghost." Yes, I fear "annexation of Church to State" as the lamb fears the shadow of the eagle, and from a similar cause: the lamb has no pleasant recollection of ancestral associations with the eagle, nor have I any pleasant recollections of ancestral associations with "Church and State." Now to be plain, the friends of religious liberty are up in arms against the legislation pertaining to the State University and the Orphanage at Oxford.

Not that they are opposed to Chapel Hill if run as a University and not in competition with colleges and academies, and when it has its ministerial educational clause stricken out, nor are they opposed to helping orphans, as the institutions they have erected for the benefit of orphans fully testify; but they are unalterably opposed to supporting either by taxation under existing circumstances.

We do not believe that a State has the right, moral or legal, to appropriate funds raised by taxation to the support of an institution over the control of which its citizens have no voice. We believe that all work done in the name of Christ should be done by Christians in the spirit of Christ without State aid. "My kingdom is not of this world," says the Master. As to the University, we doubt the legality and assert the injustice and impropriety of taxing the private property of one class to run the institution of another class, in competition with the private institutions of the State. It is "protective tariff run to seed." It is taxing me to support an institution, in competition with, and run to the detriment and ultimate abolition of an institution, in which is embodied and taught the fundamental principles of religion as I believe it, which embraces the worship of God according to the dictates of conscience. This I am deprived of by State legislation, which forces me by taxation to destroy my own institution, as any one of common sense must know that no private institution unaided by State help can compete with Chapel Hill while it is thus fed by thousands from the public treasury, and is still crying for more.

Therefore Chapel Hill must be made a University, and lifted up and out of competition with the private institutions, or the private institutions must go. Now which shall it be? Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, which shall it be? Are you ready to see Wake Forest, Trinity, and Davidson go down before the triumphal march of the enemy of religious liberty, and let him have use of Chapel Hill to inculcate and indoctrinate your sons with the poison which will ultimately paralyze all opposition to the encroachments of the enemy of religious liberty until your descendants are again deprived of worshiping God as conscience dictates? If so, you are degenerate sons of nobler sires, and deserve to be priest-ridden, and have a keeper of your conscience appointed. But I hope for better things from you; therefore, let us with a united front say to Chapel Hill, keep your hands off of our institutions. Keep your hands off of our churches and everything pertaining thereto, for we will submit to nothing that smacks of Church and State. You say this is uncalled for and out of place; if so, what right has the State, by legislation or otherwise, to educate a minister or minister's son simply because he is such? Can any State do this by taxation without infringing upon the hallowed and zealously guarded confines of Church and State? And if they can thus infringe with immunity, will not the same law with the same construction tax us to feed that minister or son after he is educated? And would not that denomination or preacher that would ask for one, ask for and then claim the other? And would not they who accept the one accept the other?

Then whither are we drifting? And when, if not now, shall we call a halt? Now what I have said are my own observations, and I alone am responsible for them (but I believe they are shared by thousands of the lovers of religious liberty), and I know it is time to call a halt.

Now we want no legislation for ourselves. "My kingdom is not of this world" forbids it, and the church or kingdom that cannot endure without State aid or legislation in its behalf, is not and cannot be the church or kingdom of Christ and ought to perish.

Now I expect this article will incur the displeasure of the management of the Oxford Orphanage and the University and some may condescend to reply, but, gentlemen, give us something else than sentimental talk about a "glorious record," "honored alumni," etc., and lack of patriotism, nor blubber about the inhumanity of those "narrow-minded bigots." These things never filled a purse, dried an orphan's tear, nor built an institution of learning, nor erected an orphan asylum, nor fed a hungry soul. Give us something else more substantial, or we will be compelled to follow our present convictions.

J. W. POWELL

Mildred, March 1, 1894

Sir Walter Raleigh's Hymn.

The accounts usually seen of the life of this brave and brilliant, but for the most part unfortunate courtier of Queen Elizabeth, fail to bring out the pious features of his character, and consequently it is not generally known that he was a man of positive religious sentiments and had a clear apprehension of the plan of salvation through faith in Jesus Christ. It may be that, in the providence of God, the disappointments and misfortunes of life were specially sanctified to his spiritual good. Some allusions in the second and third stanzas of the hymn seem to indicate as much. This hymn, written during his first imprisonment, manifests a strong and intelligent faith and an earnest and abiding Christian hope.

To my own mind it is particularly gratifying to discover this decidedly Christian element in the character of the man whose name is so intimately connected with the early history of North Carolina, and which is borne by our capital city; and supposing it will be equally gratifying to many others in our State, I ask the republication of the hymn:

"MY PILGRIMAGE.

Give me my scallop-shell of quiet,
My staff of faith to walk upon,
My scrip of joy—immortal diet—
My bottle of salvation,
My gown of glory, hope's true gaze—
And thus I take my pilgrimage.

No cause deferred, no vain-spent journey,
For there Christ is the King's Attorney,
Who pleads for all without degrees,
And he hath angels, but no fees.
And when the great twelve million jury
Of our sins with direful fury
'Gainst our souls black verdicts give,
Christ pleads his death, and then we live.

Be thou my speaker, taintless Pleader,
Unblotted lawyer, true Proceeder;
Thou giv'st salvation even for alms,
Not with a bribed lawyer's palms;
And this is my eternal plea,
To him who made heaven, earth and sea.

Blood must be my body's balmer,
While my soul, like faithful palmer,
Travelleth toward the land of heaven,
Other balm will not be given.

Over the silver mountains
When spring the nectar fountains,
There will I kiss the bowl of bliss,
And drink my everlasting fill
Upon every milken hill;
My soul will be a-dry before,
But after that will thirst no more."

Some fifteen years after the composition of this hymn, Sir Walter was, for some cause, just or unjust, again arrested and cast into prison and condemned to death. On the night before his execution, which occurred on Oct. 29th, 1618, he wrote the following sad and touching lines in his Bible and left it in his cell. They breathe the same spirit of Christian resignation and hope:

"Even such is time, that takes on trust
Our youth, our joy, and all we have,
And pays us but with earth and dust;
Who, in the dark and silent grave,
When we have wandered all our ways,
Shuts up the story of our days:
But from this earth, this grave, this dust,
My God shall raise me up, I trust."

The hymn and these valedictory lines ought to be put into the hands of all the children in the schools and in the homes of North Carolina.

J. L. CARROLL.

Chapel Hill, Feb. 27, 1894.

We often hear people say there is only one good cough medicine and that is Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the specific for colds.

Humility is the first lesson we learn from reflection; and self-distrust the first proof we give of having obtained a knowledge of ourselves.—Zimmerman.

Premature baldness may be prevented and the hair made to grow on heads already bald, by the use of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

Pride is observed to defeat its own end by bringing the man who seeks esteem and reverence into contempt.—Bolingbroke.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing Cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife or injections of carbolic acid, which are painful and seldom a permanent cure, and often resulting in death, unnecessary. Why endure this terrible disease? We guarantee 6 boxes to cure any case. You only pay for benefits received. $1 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Guarantees issued by our agents.

CONSTIPATION Cured, Piles Prevented, by Japanese Liver Pellets the great LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR and BLOOD PURIFIER. Small, mild and pleasant to take, especially adapted for children's use. 40 Doses 25 cents.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, E. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 15 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 55 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 20 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	†4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	6 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 35 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 53 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	5 30 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 30 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 08 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 30 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 25 a m	1 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 55 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 30 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 3.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.05 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:20 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:05 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 3. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville June	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 19 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 50 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 37 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 12 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			1 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			1 50 p m
Lv Climax			3 35 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 35 p m

Trains No 3 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. C. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.				No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar	11 45 a m
3 20 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 25 a m
3 53 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 08 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 32 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	9 25 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv	6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	6 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	6 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	5 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	4 23 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	3 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	3 30 a m
11 20 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv	3 18 a m
11 50 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	2 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv	1 55 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv	12 15 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv	11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv	10 25 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv	10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv	9 00 p m
6 18 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv	8 02 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv	7 26 p m
8 50 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'n	Lv	5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Cent'l	Lv	4 45 p m

No. 41.		PASSENGER & MAIL.		No. 38.
3 00 p m	Lv	New York	Ar	1 20 p m
4 30 p m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar	10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv	†Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar	7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv	Old Point	Ar	7 00 p m
8 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth	Lv	6 00 p m
9 35 a m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	5 45 p m
12 03 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	3 09 p m
12 15 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	2 50 p m
12 59 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	1 09 p m
4 19 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Ar	7 20 a m
7 20 p m*	Ar	Fayetteville	Lv	3 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar	Wilmington	Lv	5 03 a m
5 00 a m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 p m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers, Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charlotte; No 41 Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, &c., apply to Ticket Agent or A. J. Conlin, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
L. J. MYERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
JNO. C. WINDER, Gen. Man.

In Scribner's Magazine for March, Joel Chandler Harris contributes his second article on "The Sea Island Hurricanes, Ban Ferree, one of the editors of the Engineering Magazine writes practically of "The High Building and its Art, and William Henry Bishop, Octave Thanet, George W. Cable and Geo. A. Hibbard contribute the fiction. Other excellent articles, poems and splendid illustrations make the number complete as a magazine of to-day.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers Keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

The University Magazine for February opens with a sketch of Judge William B. Rodman, with portrait; H. L. Ferguson, U. S. N. writes interestingly of Life at the Naval Academy, Mr. W. S. Primrose contributes an historical paper on Peace Institute, and Prof. Toy, on Luther's Translation of the Bible. Mr. Lee's contrast of Carlyle, Macaulay and De Quincy is exceeding well executed undergraduate work. The number as a whole is very good.

An Asthma Cure at Last.

(Special to Ministers of the Gospel.)

European physicians and medical journals report a positive cure for Asthma, in the Kola plant found on the Congo river, West Africa. The Kola-Importing Co., Vine and Baker Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio, are sending free trial cases of the Kola Compound by mail to all sufferers from Asthma, who send name and addresses on a postal card. A trial costs you nothing.

Ministers of the gospel are invited to apply for special free treatment. Send card, letter-head or cutting from religious paper, showing your name as in the ministry.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

A training-school for nurses is to be established at Fayetteville.

Rev. Dr. Pritchard proposes to organize an anti-cigarette club at Charlotte.

The Southern Metallurgic Mining Company has been organized at Salisbury.

Prof. Hendren, Superintendent of the Elizabeth City graded school, has resigned.

Dr. L. L. Sapp has been acquitted of the charge of murder of one Lamar at Kernersville.

The trustees of the Oxford Orphan Asylum will elect a successor to Dr. Black March 30th.

Jno. D. Brevard, a well known Asheville merchant has assigned. Liabilities $20,000; assets, $30,000.

Mad-dogs have created considerable excitement at Durham and other parts of the State recently.

A colored woman confessed that she had killed her infant child, having been arrested at Durham recently.

It is stated that more than fifty new buildings are in course of construction or under contract in Raleigh.

Grover Cleveland was in our eastern waters two weeks ago, and now the Vice-President is in Asheville.

Dr. Wood, who resigned as Superintendent of the Insane Asylum, Raleigh, is succeeded by Dr. G. L. Kirby.

Several of the recent Alleghany county lynchers have been arrested. It is said there were 150 men in the party.

The negro train-wrecker, George Brown, has been arrested, convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

The First National Bank of Wadesboro and the Bank of Anson have consolidated. The latter was a State institution.

The President has nominated Geo. W. Knott for postmaster at Oxford and Thos. J. Lowry for postmaster at Mt. Airy.

Cardinal Gibbons will attend the dedicatory services of the new Catholic church at Belmont, near Charlotte, on April 11th.

Secretary Harrell says the prospects for an unusally large attendance at the next Teachers' Assembly at Morehead, are very good.

The Erwin Cotton Mills of Durham have enlarged their capacity to 18,000 spindles, making it one of the largest mills in the State.

Mr. J. T. Deans has been elected Superintendent of the Odd Fellow's Orphan Asylum at Goldsboro, to succeed Wm. C. Whitfield, resigned.

Ben. Freeman, a negro train-hand, was caught between two log-trucks on the Cashie and Chowan R. R., near Windsor, on the 8th and crushed to death.

Bishops Hargrove of Tenn., and Fitzgerald of California, and Hon. T. J. Jarvis will deliver addresses at the next commencement exercises of Greensboro Female College.

The University Press has been established at the State University. There are now three periodicals published at Chapel Hill in connection with the University in addition to catalogues, etc.

The Aberdeen mills of the Page Lumber Co., are working to fill an order of a Pittsboro, Pa., firm for 4,000,000 feet of lumber, this being the largest contract ever placed in our State.

Hon. W. A. Montgomery of Raleigh has accepted the invitation of the Ladies' Memorial Association of Raleigh to deliver the annual address, May 10. His subject is [illegible] Wm. D. Pender.

The water-works system of Newbern will be in operation in sixty days.

State Geologist Holmes thinks the "Narrows" of the Yadkin River in Montgomery county is the site of the best water-power in the State, and is trying to devise plans for utilizing it by means of electricity.

Mr. B. B. Buffalo was seriously injured in Raleigh last week by a bale of cotton falling on him from a wagon. He is seventy years old, but we are glad to know that there is little likelihood of permanent injury.

Mr. Savage D. Trenholm, for many years a resident of Flat Rock, Henderson county, committed suicide recently by cutting his throat while in a fit of insanity. He was a native of South Carolina, and belonged to one of the most prominent families in the South.

The Railway Commission has adopted the following rule, to take effect immediately: Whenever shipment is offered at a point where there are two routes over connecting lines to its destination it shall be the duty of the railway company making the shipment to forward the same by the shortest route, unless the rate charged over the longer route does not exceed that of the shorter, or unless otherwise ordered by the shipper.

The case of S. H. Threadgill, administrator of G. P. Threadgill, against the commissioners of Anson county for the payment of certain coupons, representing interest on bonds issued by the county for the benefit of the Wilmington and Rutherford Railroad, was recently tried at Richmond county Superior Court. The jury gave the plaintiff a judgment for $6,537.43, the full amount of his claim. The county's attorneys appealed the case to the Supreme Court.

General News.

Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot, is dying.

Gen. Jubal A. Early died at Lynchburg, Va., March 2d.

Gladstone has resigned as Premier of England, and Lord Rosebery succeeds him.

The State of Virginia has attached the features of the Australian ballot law to her election laws.

The liquor dispensary at Chester, S. C., was robbed, and an attempt made to burn it on the 10th inst.

An attempt to recover the old war-ship Kearsarge, recently wrecked and abandoned on Roncador reef, will be made.

Congressman Wilson, recently prostrated with typhoid fever, has passed the crisis of his illness, and is now convalescent.

The Richmond and Danville R. R., is making efforts to induce immigration South. It reduces its rates to genuine settlers.

Moraes has been elected President of Brazil, and it is thought that when he assumes the duties of his office peace will be declared.

The New York State Senate committee has begun investigation of the charges that the New York police are partisan at the polls.

The preliminary trial trip of the first battle ship of the new United States navy—The Indiana—was very satisfactorily held last week.

Judge McAdam of New York has lately decided that a newspaper has no right to publish pictures of persons without their consent.

The Postmaster General has secured the co-operation of Canadian authorities in preventing operations by the Honduras Lottery Company.

The Tariff bill, after a month of consideration has been placed before the entire Finance Committee of the Senate, with several amendments.

The extraordinary session of the Colorado Legislature called by Governor White failed to enact any laws of importance, and cost the State $75,000.

The Protestant pastors of Memphis, Tenn., are publicly denouncing the Roman Catholics, and defending the American Protective Association.

Gov. Foster of Louisana has appointed congressman Buchanan to succeed Senator White, recently appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

Jno. Y. McKane, the New York political boss at Gravesend, convicted of election frauds, has been sentenced to six years' imprisonment in Sing Sing.

Peter Albert, a sailor, was drowned near Norfolk, Va., on the 8th inst., in an effort to save a cabin-boy who had fallen overboard. The boy was rescued.

A new outbreak of bomb throwing anarchists caused a great sensation in Rome last week. One man was killed. The anarchists have not been arrested.

The courts have decided on a technicality that the local option election held at Roanoke, Va., last September, and carried by the better element of voters, is null and void.

An American Protective Association lecturer against Roman Catholics was recently shot in Texas. His injuries were not great, and the assailant was placed under arrest.

The vestibuled train of the Norfolk & Western Railroad met with a serious accident near Buchanan, Va., on the 8th inst. The engine ran into a land-slide, and was thrown down a forty-foot embankment, killing the engineer and injuring the fireman.

The discussion of the Pension appropriation has engaged the House of Representatives for the past few days. The probabilities are that the usual appropriation will be reduced.

The yellow fever is raging in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. About one hundred deaths occur daily from the disease, and the besieged state of the city renders medical aid very difficult.

Jos. Dorgan, the crank who sent a threatening card to Vice-President Stevenson, was recently tried for violating the postal laws, found guilty and sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment.

A recent cyclone caused great loss of life and property on the island of Mauritius. A railroad train was blown from the track into the Coromandel river, killing fifty persons and injuring others.

Wheat and silver have reached their lowest selling prices in our history in the last few days. It is stated that in some localities wheat is being fed to hogs. The 1893 crop of wheat was 32,000,000 bushels less than in 1892.

It is probable that the seignorage bill in some form will pass Congress. It is said the President will veto it; if not, its operations will restore conditions somewhat like those of the Bland-Allison act, which preceded the Sherman law, until the seignorage is exhausted, which will be about two years.

It is estimated that under the tariff, income tax and internal revenue laws as amended in the Senate the annual receipts will be $411,000,000, against $385,000,000 received under the laws relating to the same objects in 1893. The annual expenses of the government during the year are variously estimated from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, that the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Mt. Olive ch, Stokes Co, $5.00; Ephesus ch, Person County, 12.00; Liberty Asso, 5.00; W M S, Elam ch, W Chowan, 9.00; D L Gore, Wilmington, N C, 50.00; Capehart's ch, West Chowan, 10.00; Bethany ch, ditto, 8.00; Mt Adar ch, 1.00; Morehead City ch, 10.75; Ansonville ch, Pee Dee, 1.20; Pleasant Hill ch, King's Mountain, 1.75; Holly Grove ch, West Chowan, 9.00; Pittsboro ch, Sandy Creek, 11.28; Scotland Neck ch, Tar River, 50.00; Dr John Mitchell, Wake Forest, 5.00; W M S, Sanford ch, 52c; Elizabeth City ch, 4.75; Taylorsville ch, Alexander, 8.00; Meherrin ch, West Chowan, 5.60; J P Woody, Person County, 2.00; Seaboard ch, 8.00. Total, 215 85. Previously reported, 1,004.84. Total this year, 1,220.69.

Foreign Missions—Wilmington W M S, Eastern, $4.16; Elizabeth City ch (Japan), 3.07; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 13.45; W M S, Newbern ch, 5.00. Total, 25.68. Previously reported, 984.75. Total this year, 1,010 43.

Home Missions—W M S, Greensboro ch, $5.00; Ansonville ch, Pee Dee, 80c; Kinston S S Mis Soc, 1.86; New Hope ch, Eastern, 1.20; Wilmington W M S, ditto 2.09; Bethel ch, Flat River, 20.80. Total, 31.75. Previously reported, 367.54. Total this year, 399.29.

Education—Dr J W Carter, Raleigh, $20.00; High Point ch for R T White, 5.00; R H Jordan, Charlotte, 18.00; Juniper Springs ch, Little River, 75c; Kinston ch, 15.00. Total, 58.75. Previously reported, 479.21. Total this year, 537.96.

Orphanage—Greensboro church, $5.00; S S, Morehead City ch, 9 02. Total, 14.02. Previously reported, 272.82. Total this year, 286.84.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, March 10, 1894.

Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
BreakfastCocoa
which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

"When millions affirm that
Beecham's Pills
(Tasteless)
are the great remedy for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, it becomes almost a duty to give them a trial."
25 cents a box.

ADVANCED AND ADVANCING.
INTERNATIONAL—INDUCTIVE.
BAPTIST LESSON HELPS.

PRICES are MARVELOUSLY LOW. There are NONE CHEAPER and a fair trial will convince you that there are NONE SUPERIOR.

PRIMARY GRADE.
PICTURE LESSONS	3 cents per quarter;	12 cents per year.
PRIMARY QUARTERLY	2½ " "	9 " "
OUR LITTLE ONES	6½ " "	25 " "
NEW PRIMARY QUARTERLY.
TWO YEARS WITH JESUS	2½ " "	9 " "
INTERMEDIATE GRADE.
INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY	2½ cents per quarter;	9 cents per year.
SUNLIGHT, Monthly	2 " "	8 " "
" Semi-monthly	4 " "	16 " "
ADVANCED GRADE.
ADVANCED QUARTERLY	2½ cents per quarter;	10 cents per year.
BIBLE LESSONS	1¼ " "	5 " "
YOUNG REAPER, Monthly	2½ " "	10 " "
" Semi-monthly	5 " "	20 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
JUNIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES	2½ " "	10 " "
SENIOR GRADE.
SENIOR QUARTERLY	6 cents per quarter;	24 cents per year
OUR YOUNG PEOPLE	10 " "	40 " "
THE WORKER	1½ " "	6 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
SENIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES	6 " "	24 " "
TEACHERS.
BAPTIST TEACHER	12½ cents per quarter;	50 cents per year
SUPERINTENDENTS.
BAPTIST SUPERINTENDENT	6¼ cents per quarter;	25 cents per year

The above are club prices for five or more copies to one address.

THE COLPORTER.
In clubs of twenty copies, 5 cents per year; single copy, 10 cents per year

SAMPLES FREE.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut Street;
BOSTON: 256 Washington Street; ST. LOUIS: 1200 Olive Street;
NEW YORK: Times Building; DALLAS: 365 Main Street;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Avenue; ATLANTA: 66½ Whitehall Street.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

Every Man A Capitalist.

You can become a capitalist at once by laying by a small part of your yearly income and investing it in a Tontine policy of the

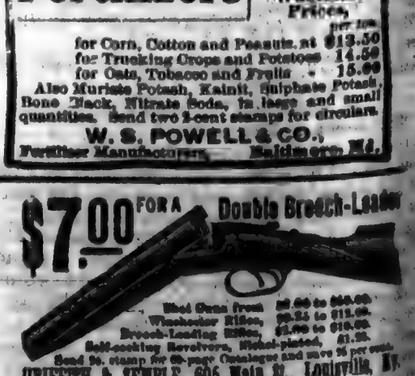
Equitable Life

For $20 you can instantly secure a capital of $1,000 (or for $200 a capital of $10,000), thus acquiring an estate which you may leave to your heirs, or retain as a fund for your own support in old age, if your life be prolonged.

Such a step will prompt you to save, will strengthen your credit, will increase your confidence, will preserve you from care and will give you lasting satisfaction.

The Plan is Simple.
The Security Absolute.

It is the perfect development of the life policy. To-day is the right time to get facts and figures. Address



W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas.
ROCK HILL, S. C.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers,
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

FERRY'S SEEDS
Are just what every sower needs. The merits of Ferry's Seeds form the foundation upon which has been built the largest seed business in the world. Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 contains the sum and substance of the latest farming knowledge. Free for the asking.
D. M. FERRY & CO.,
Detroit, Mich.

Hard Times Fertilizers
To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash
Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices,
per ton.
for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00
Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars.
W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

$7.00 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Shot Guns from $6.00 to $60.00.
Winchester Rifles, $9.25 to $12.00.
Breech-Loading Rifles, $2.00 to $10.00.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $1.25.
Send 2c. stamp for 68-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.
GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 605 Main St., Louisville, Ky.

A Helpless Cripple from the Effects of La Grippe

Read in this paper the letter of venerable Archdeacon Yates of Missouri, whose little child was "a distorted cripple." Sufferers will be interested in our printed matter. It is mailed FREE.

ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO., Washington, D. C. or ELECTROLIBRATION CO., 845 Fourth Ave., New York.

Completely Cured by the Electropoise.

How a Baby was Saved.

AN INTERESTING STORY FOR PARENTS.

A CHILD THAT WAS BORN WITH A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION—PRONOUNCED INCURABLE BY THE LEADING PHYSICIANS OF HAHNEMANN COLLEGE—SAVED BY A MIRACLE.

[From the Philadelphia Inquirer.]

From time to time there have appeared in the leading and most reputable newspapers of the country marvelous accounts of many wonderful cures that have been effected by a medicine called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These statements have been made by some of the best known men in business circles, church circles, and have been backed up by their affidavits. The Inquirer is pleased to add another to the list and gives the story below, properly vouched for.

Little Ettie Moncrieff is the daughter of Mrs. Helen Moncrieff, who resides with her sister, at 748 Wharton st., which is a neat little bakery. The reporter found Mrs. Meek herself behind the counter and she said:

"My sister's daughter, who is now a year old, was afflicted from her birth with a spinal affection, and the doctor who attended her said she could not live. We had two other doctors to attend her. They also said she could not live. Finally I took her to the Hahnemann College. That was four months ago, when she was eight months old. The examination was made in the presence of a room full of physicians and students. The Professor lectured on her case, saying it was a very rare one, and that in such cases there was very seldom a recovery. It was, he remarked, the most peculiar case that was ever brought to his attention.

"I brought the child home immediately, believing, as the Professor and the others had said, that she couldn't live. In fact, at one time, we thought that she was entirely gone. She was unconscious, with scarcely perceptible pulse or breath. Several times she was in an almost equally helpless condition and we looked for her death hourly.

"Then I called to mind how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People had once cured me of the after effects of the grippe, and the miraculous recoveries I had heard of and read about of people cured from paralysis in various stages, and even from physical deformities. I told my sister that since all the doctors had abandoned the child, and she seemed to have no chance for life, it could certainly do no harm to try the Pink Pills to see if they could possibly repeat their other wonderful cures. She couldn't move at that time, both her arms and legs being affected. But we began that very night giving her the Pink Pills, letting her have one pellet a day divided into three parts. On the third day we could see that she was improving. Before that it was hard to get her to take food. At the end of two weeks we saw great improvement in her. We continued giving her the pills more than a month. After we ceased giving her the Pink Pills, however, she seemed a little less happy and healthy, and we soon began using them again. Now she is a cheerful, beautiful child in splendid health. She has entirely recovered from her spinal and other troubles. She sleeps well and takes her food well. For a child of her age she seems to be as strong and healthy as could be expected. When we hold her by the arm or she is at our knees she can stand, and for a child who was once deprived of all power of spine, arms and legs, this seems wonderful. We cannot have the slightest doubt now that she will grow up a strong, healthy child."

Mrs. Meeks made the following affidavit to the above:

Sworn and subscribed before me this sixth day of May, A. D., 1893.

JAMES F. ROONEY, [SEAL.] Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription, and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

The income tax is well discussed pro and con in the March Forum, by David A. Wells, economist, and W. S. Hall, M. C. We have noticed "Recent Railroad Failures and their Lessons." "The Stability of the Great Religious Sects," "A Religious Analysis of a New England Town," "The Duty of Educated Men in a Democracy" and "Lowell in his Letters," among other timely articles, are of especial interest.

The North American Review presents an attractive table of contents in the current number. The Secretary of the Navy treats of the House Representatives and the House of Commons, an American and English comparison, the author of "The Heavenly Twins" writes instructively of the "New Aspect of the Woman Question," leading business men discuss "Home Industries and the Wilson Bill," and Prof. R. T. Ely, the well-known Professor of economics is very instructive on Natural Monopolies and the Workingman. Other articles are worth reading.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

The continual breaking of lamp-chimneys costs a good deal in the course of a year.

Get Macbeth's "pearl top" or "pearl glass." You will have no more trouble with breaking from heat. You will have clear glass instead of misty; fine instead of rough; right shape instead of wrong; and uniform, one the same as another.

Pittsburgh. GEO. A. MACBETH CO.

McClure's Magazine contains an article on "The Late Prof. Tyndall," by Herbert Spencer, the frontispiece being a portrait of the latter. The "Human Documents," which are nothing if not interesting and instructive, concern Andrew Lang, essayist and critic, J. T. Trowbridge, the adventure-story writer, and the philologist and author of many works relating to Biblical character, Earnest Renan. The "Identification of Criminals," the second instalment of Stephenson's weird novel, two good short stories, and an article, "The Glamour of the Arctic" by A. Conan Doyle, constitute the remainder of this attractive number.

A Cripple from La Grippe.

Dear Sir:—Last winter my daughter was attacked by la grippe and through the ravages of this mysterious disorder, reduced to a helpless cripple. From a bright, rosy, handsome child she became in three weeks so weak, emaciated, and in shape so distorted, that words fail me to adequately describe her condition. By accident I learned of the Electropoise, I purchased one—more through desperation to leave no means untried, than through any belief in its efficacy. I confess, I thought it something on the order of a liver-pad, "made to sell" and a sort of mild humbug. It was with more than half way skepticism I applied it, in accordance with directions. Day by day as I observed the marked improvement in my daughter, my doubts vanished. In eight weeks after the first application of the 'Poise my little girl was fully restored, enjoyed sound sleep, a good appetite, and is now in the possession of vigorous health, and as to her figure, there is no trace even that she had the first stages of spinal curvature, or la grippe, which causes it. I used the 'Poise in my family as a tonic and preventitive. I would not be without it under any circumstances. I feel that it has solved many a hygenic problem, and is to solve more, as the time goes on. Given your able little book, a 'Poise and common sense enough to put on a pair of rubbers, I think any disease can be mitigated, and if taken in time, destroyed. I have recommended the Electropoise to many of my friends, and I am glad to say where my advice has been followed and one purchased, good results have always followed. Thanking you for all your kindness,

I am very faithfully yours,
HORATIO GATES.
Ven. Archdeacon of West Missouri.
Kansas City, Mo., December 21, 1893.

MARRIED.

ROBARDS—HUMPHRIES—On Feb. 21st, 1894, at the residence of Mrs. C. F. Humphries in Oxford, N. C., by Rev. J. S. Hardaway, Mr. Henry J. Robards and Miss Mary E. Humphries.

COWAN—THOMPSON—On February 21, 1894, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. T. J. Cobb, Mr. P. A. Cowan of Lauriburg, N. C., and Miss Rachael E. Thompson of Chadbourn, N. C.

DIED.

YATES—Sister Ella F. Yates, wife of Bro. C. C. Yates, operator at Manly, N. C., died on the night of Jan. 25th, 1894, at the age of thirty-six years.

Sister Ella professed hope in Christ at about twelve years old, and soon thereafter joined the church, and she lived true to her profession till her death. She was a lovely woman, and made friends wherever she went. She leaves a husband and two children to mourn their loss. Weep not loved one, she is not dead, but sleepeth, awaiting the resurrection morn, when husband, children, father and friends will meet to part no more, if we are prepared. Let us be of good cheer; we shall meet again by and by.

JNO. C. BURNS.

FLEMING—Mrs. Lucy E. Fleming, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. McKaughan, was born May 6th, 1865, and died at the home of her parents, near Rockford, N. C., Jan. 16th, 1894. Her father's house—like that of Obededom—was one in which the divine peace and blessing dwelt, and under their influence she developed into a beautiful life and character. She became a member of the Baptist church at Rockford in July, 1880, and lived close to its rules and doctrines, and exhibited on all occasions the strongest evidence of a consistent Christian faith and piety. She was devoted to the church, and took a true woman's part in all its work and interests. In Sunday-school she did her part well, and her voice was always heard in the choir. She was very happily married to Mr. J. C. Fleming on Thursday evening, March 16th, 1893, and on the same day of the tenth month thereafter she yielded up her sweet life to the death angel. She bore her illness with great patience from beginning to end, and was conscious of her sufferings until a short while before life became extinct. Yes, the end came, and it was peace that passeth all understanding. She fell asleep and awoke in heaven.

It is but human to weep when the heart is broken or lacerated, but refrain, dear ones, for ye know not what incalculable joys are hers in that city of rest. Like David, you can go to her, but she cannot return. You mourn not as they without hope.

Her remains were laid away in the cemetery at Rockford Jan. 18th, after the funeral services had been conducted in the church of her choice by Rev. E. J. Adams. We bear the husband, parents, and other members of the family our deepest sense of feeling in this sore affliction, sharing with them in their sorrow, and would place an immortelle upon the grave of a noble Christian and truly lamented friend. HER FRIEND.

Rockford, N. C., Jan. 29, 1894.

Tributes of Respect.

Bro. Sherman Peed died at the residence of his eldest son, Simeon Peed, in October, 1893. His funeral was preached by Dr. R. H. Marsh from the Tally Ho church, and he was buried in the family burying plot, with Masonic honors.

Bro. Peed was nearly seventy-five years old, and had been a faithful member of Tally Ho church for a number of years. A worthy servant in the Master's vineyard, a zealous worker for the cause, a true Christian in all things, his death deprives our church and Sunday-school of an able member.

The following resolutions of respect were adopted by the church and Sunday-school of which he was a member:—

1. That we, the church and Sunday-school, recognize the loss of a punctual member and a true Christian; a man who was humble in spirit, consistent in conduct and faith.

2. That while we miss him, we will not mourn, believing that our loss is his gain; and bow in humble submission to the divine will.

3. That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his family, and pray that they may not forget the example of our deceased brother.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our minutes, and a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

ANNIE L. THOMPSON.

Stem, N. C.

The undersigned committee, appointed to draft suitable resolutions upon the death of our departed Bro. John Goss, submit the following:—

Resolved 1. That Tally Ho Baptist church deeply feels the loss of such a valuable member. He was loved and respected as a brother, and while the church fully realizes the loss of such a brother, we feel that it would be irreverent to murmur at this decree, coming from a kind and loving Heavenly Father; for we, as humble followers of him, and as church members should humbly submit to his most holy will.

Resolved 2. That Bro. Goss having lived to an old age, it is sweet and comforting to think of him while among us; always trying to serve, in an humble way, the Heavenly Master, attending church regularly and ever willing to do what he could to advance the cause of Christ upon earth and for the salvation of souls.

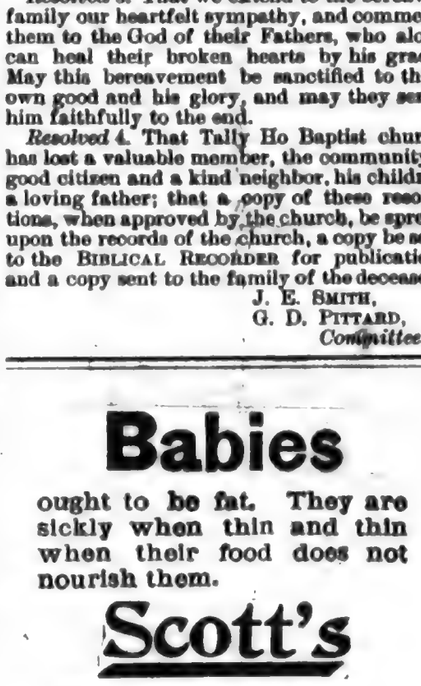
Resolved 3. That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to the God of their Fathers, who alone can heal their broken hearts by his grace. May this bereavement be sanctified to their own good and his glory, and may they serve him faithfully to the end.

Resolved 4. That Tally Ho Baptist church has lost a valuable member, the community a good citizen and a kind neighbor, his children a loving father; that a copy of these resolutions, when approved by the church, be spread upon the records of the church, a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

J. E. SMITH,
G. D. PITTARD,
Committee.

Babies

ought to be fat. They are sickly when thin and thin when their food does not nourish them.



Scott's Emulsion

the cream of Cod-liver Oil and hypophosphites, makes babies fat and well, strengthens growing children and nourishes mothers. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

Lovely Complexion.

Pure, Soft, White Skin.

Have you freckles, moth, black-heads, blotches, ugly or muddy skin, eczema, tetter, or any other cutaneous blemish? Do you want a quick, permanent and absolutely infallible cure, FREE OF COST to introduce it? Something new, pure, mild and so harmless a child can use or drink it with perfect safety. If so, send your Post-office address to

MISS MAGGIE E. BILETTE,
194 Vine Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.

Our Periodicals ARE THE PROPERTY OF THE

Southern Baptist Convention.

Our Board Was established by the Convention. Is controlled by the Convention. Seeks to advance the work of the Convention.

Our Series Is the Mission Training Series. . . .

The Quarterlies, the Teacher, and Kind Words have each their missionary features, presenting to teachers and children the work of the Convention at home and abroad.

The Profits of the Series help to place

Sunday School Evangelists

in many of our States.

Somebody Must Work for the Children.

We make our periodicals as good as the best in contents. We make them good enough in form for the use to which they are put. We do not waste money on mere ornamentation of periodicals that are used a little while and thrown away. We think the money better expended in living men of loving hearts, going through our States, seeking to advance our Sunday-school work.

THE NEED FOR SUCH WORK IS VERY GREAT.

PRICES.

The Teacher	50 cents a year	Kind Words—
Advanced Quarterly	10 " "	Weekly	50 cents a year
Intermediate Quarterly	9 " "	Semi-monthly	25 " "
Primary Quarterly	9 " "	Monthly	16 " "
Lesson Leaflet	5 " "	Child's Gem	25 " "
Picture Lesson Cards	16 " "	Bible Lesson Pictures	$5.00 " "

The Young People's Leader .....40c. a year.

When ordering for one quarter, divide above prices by four. Terms cash. Broadus' Catechism, 5 cents apiece in any quantity; Manly's, larger, 75 cents a dozen; smaller, 50 cents. Reward Cards, Sunday-school Record Book, etc., etc. Specially pretty line of Reward Cards.

Baptist Sunday School Board,
T. P. Bell, Corresponding Secretary. Nashville, Tenn.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 46 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

After the

GRIPPE

Is Over

Many persons find that their general health has been impaired. Effects linger in the system which, if not promptly met and removed, may, and often do, result in great danger. These effects are indicated by such symptoms as a lingering cough, disordered digestion, nervousness, pains and general weakness, with loss of energy.

Royal Germetuer

Is the greatest of all remedies in such cases. It acts so pleasantly, and yet so promptly and surely, that it almost imperceptibly sweeps out of the system the causes that produce these troubles, and restores the vigor of joyous health. This is the experience of thousands who have tried it. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, harmless always, and Cures WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

$1.00 per bottle, 6 for $5.00. All druggists. Manufactured only by

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO.,
ATLANTA, GA.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased, vs. Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson her husband, now residents of the State and city of New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated in Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.

This March 5th, 1894.

CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. (Successors to) SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms free. Please mention this paper.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

1894.

Spring Business

On the Basis of the New Wilson Tariff.

Now on sale our new lines of High Novelty Suitings, Colored Dress Goods, Black Dress Goods, Fancy Dress Silks, Velvets, White Goods, Laces, Embroideries and Printed and Dyed Cotton Dress Fabrics in assortments larger than ever.

Selling Dry Goods by mail is a special feature of our business. Our mail orders are filled by trained people who do nothing else.

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

OUR FREE DELIVERY.

Cash with Order of $5.00 and over, we deliver goods free (except furniture and crockery) to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

123 and 125 Fayetteville St.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Important to Farmers!

Yes, it is very important to all farmers to plant the best and earliest seed potatoes they can buy. To do this, they must buy the EARLY SIX WEEKS, the earliest now in cultivation. If farmers would plant this potato they would always get their crop in market in time to get seven and eight dollars per barrel. We planted this potato for the last two seasons, and selling our crop for nine dollars per barrel. This potato grows so quick the Esquimaux would almost have time to mature a potato crop if he planted the Early Six Weeks. In the South two full crops can be grown in one season. Its size is large and handsome. We have one thousand barrels for sale. One lb. 40 cts.; 3 lbs. $1.00; by mail, postpaid. Peck, $1.10; bushel, $3.00; barrel, $7.00; by freight or Express. Send your order in at once before they are all sold, and give them a trial. Address all orders to the

ROANOKE SEED COMPANY,
Roper, N. C.

Moller Celebrated Pipe Organs

From $300 to $10,000.

All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eight states. Reference, Editor of this paper.

M. P. MOLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

The Home Circle.

Over it All.

Over it all—the care and the fret,
The mixture of joy and sad regret,
The anxious thought and the burdened heart
The bitter loss and the cruel smart—
Over it all—this puzzling dream—
His glad love shines with holy beam.

Over it all—the hope and the fear,
The struggle for right when wrong is near,
The kind intent, though the words be cold,
The prayer for patience and love's sweet hold—
Over it all His justice lies Unchanged by sudden or dark surprise.

Over it all—the day and the night—
The hours of dark, the seasons of light,
Mistakes and blunders and faults and all
The pitiful cries from those who fall—
His kindness waits to help and bless
With a father's touch of tenderness.

And He sees it all and reads aright
As we cannot do with blinded sight,
And we dare not blame, we dare not chide
When others falter to turn aside;
We see in part, we know but in part
The human thought and the human heart;
And 'tis well to leave to His own care
The open judgment—it must be fair—
And gave him thanks that over it all
His mercy answers His children's call.

—Anna Wilson Simmons.

How to Treat a Horse.

FROM THE STANDPOINT OF A HORSE.

When a man drops from sheer exhaustion or illness, promptly seize an end board or a cart stake, and pound him on the head and on the ribs. If this does not recuperate him, kick him violently in the stomach. This treatment will restore him, if persistently administered.

If a man finds his load too heavy and feels that it will seriously strain him to proceed, kick off a fence board and knock him down—and hammer him thoroughly with the board. This will give renewed energy, and he will make no more fuss. But do not on any account reduce the load. That would look too much like common sense, or humanity, and he will be likely never to balk when over-loaded.

If a man refuses to drink when you offer him water, don't give him any for two days. That will "teach him" to be thirsty at any time you find it convenient to attend to him. It is a good plan to ply the whip frequently on a man who is at work. No matter if he is doing his best, hit him now and then on "general principles" and to prevent him from taking any comforts. If his load is not heavy, oblige him to go enough faster to make up for it. Work him hard enough to bring down the average life of man one half, as is done with horses. If no whip is handy, use a club.

Tie your man's head back in an unnatural position, with his eyes up toward the sun. This will give him a "fine appearance," and "prevent stumbling." Of course he will not be able to do so much work in this fix, but it makes him wretched, so it's all right.

If it is not perfectly convenient to feed a man, who is working for you, at noon, let him go without it, and, by active use of the whip, secure as much work as the food would have secured. Of course it wears out his vitality and distresses him, but that is no matter.

Put tight shoes on your man and keep them there until he is very lame with corns. To change his shoes often costs money, not much, but some, and lameness and misery are of no account if you can save a dollar's worth of shoes in a year.

When you hire a man, do not be hampered by any humane notions. Get all you can out of him. True nobility consists of getting money, not in decency, or kindness, or what some noodles term "character." Get money, even if it is bloodstained These are correct principles, I am sure, for I learned them when a colt from my master, who treated all his horses on this plan—and don't he know what's what!—Chicago Humane Journal.

Children who are puny, pale, weak, or scrofulous, ought to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That builds up both their flesh and their strength. For this, and for purifying the blood, there's nothing in all medicine that can equal the "Discovery."

In recovering from "grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength. For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, dyspepsia, biliousness, scrofulous, skin, and scalp diseases—even consumption (or lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages—the "Discovery" is the only guaranteed remedy.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Long Life.

There can be little doubt that a man's occupation has much to do with the length of his life. Freedom from hereditary taint, general temperament, habits of life, age and general physique, together with a man's occupations, form the basis on which all insurance companies calculate their risks. So important do they consider this question of occupation that tables have been issued based on wide observation and careful investigation.

The largest mortality rate among indoor occupations is found among liquor sellers. In fact, some first-class companies refuse to insure barkeepers at all. The cause is found in the fact that most barkeepers are hard drinkers.

Clergymen, on the other hand, are considered very good risks. Investigation has proven that the death rate is the lowest among the clergy of the Episcopal church, while the mortality is the highest among the priests of the Roman Catholic church. Why this should be is hard to tell. The tables of the insurance companies volunteer no explanation of the fact. It would seem as if clergymen rarely worked themselves to death. Perhaps it is a clear conscience that make them live so long. They are at the head of the list of men who are likely to reach a ripe old age. Forty-two out of every one hundred ministers live to be seventy.

Next to the clergymen come the farmers. Forty out of every one hundred farmers live out their three score years and ten. Butchers, however, are short lived, the hazard of this occupation coming next to that of the bartender. It seems to be a kind of poetic justice that he who lives by taking life should soon lose his own life.

It is more dangerous to be a stonemason than it is to be a carpenter or a painter. Drummers, in spite of the popular reputation as to their dissipation, are a long lived set of men, ranking third. Thirty-three per cent. of our military men live to be seventy, while only twenty-nine per cent. of our lawyers, twenty eight per cent. of our artists, twenty-seven per cent. of our teachers and twenty-four per cent. of our doctors live to see seventy.

This list overthrows many popular notions. It would seem as if war was a very safe occupation. In fact, military men make such excellent risks that many insurance companies waive all the usual restrictions when the case of a soldier is considered. On the other hand, physicians, who know more about the laws of hygiene than any other class of people, rarely live to be old men. Can it be they take their own medicines?—The Watchman.

The First Offer.

A clergyman was visiting a man of business and the following conversation substantially occurred:

"It is true," said the merchant, "I am not satisfied with my present condition. I am not 'of a settled mind in religion,' as you express it. Still I am not utterly hopeless. I may yet enter the vineyard, even at the eleventh hour."

"Ah! your allusion is to the Saviour's parable of the loitering laborers who wrought one hour at the end of the day. But you have overlooked the fact that these men accepted the first offer."

"Is that so?"

"Certainly; they said to the lord of the vineyard, 'No man hath hired us.' They welcomed the first offer immediately."

"True; I had not thought of that before. But then the thief on the cross, even while dying, was saved."

"Yes, but it is likely that even he had never rejected the offer of salvation as preached by Christ and his apostles. Like Barabbas, he had been a robber by profession. In the resorts to which he had been accustomed the gospel had never been preached. Is there not some reason to believe that he, too, accepted the first offer?"

"Why, you seem desirous to quench my last spark of hope."

"Why should I not? Such hope is illusion! You have really no promise of acceptance at some future time. Now is the accepted time! Begin now."

"How shall I begin?"

"Just as the poor leper did when he met Jesus by the way and committed his body to the great Physician in order to be healed. So commit your soul to him as a present Saviour. Then serve him from love. The next—even the most common—duty of life that you have to perform, do it as a service to him. Will you accept the first offer? Your eyes are open to see your peril. Beware of delay!"

"You are right; may God help me! I fear I have been living in a kind of dreamy delusion on this subject."—Kind Words.

Rev. O. L. Stringfield of Raleigh, N. C, says: "Five boxes of Japanese Pile Cure cured me after 12 years' suffering." Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, Raleigh, N. C.

Advice to Boys.

Horace Mann gives this bit of advice to boys: "You were made to be kind boys—generous, magnanimous. If there is a boy in school who has a club foot, don't let him know you ever saw it. If there is a boy with ragged clothes, don't talk about rags in his hearing. If there is a lame boy, assign him some part of the game that does not require running. If there is a hungry one, give him part of your dinner. If there is a dull one, help him to get his lesson. If there be a bright boy, be not envious of him, for if one boy is proud of his talents, and another is envious of them, there are two great wrongs, and no more talent than before."—Ex.

Life is sweet as nitrous oxide; and the fisherman dripping all day over a cold pond, the switchman at the railway intersection, the farmer in the field, the negro in the rice-swamp, the fop in the street, the hunter in the woods, the barrister with the jury, the belle at the ball, all ascribe a certain pleasure to their employment, which they themselves give it.—Emerson.

Small Farms.

The most successful farming, as a rule, is to be found upon the farms of small area, say such as contain on an average not more than forty acres. A small farm, well cultivated, is generally both pleasanter and more profitable than one of greater extent. Many farmers could make more money, and do less hard work at the same time, by cutting their farms in half. The amount sold would permit improvements upon the smaller area that they are not now able to undertake. Figure this out this winter, you men who have more land than you can till, and see if it is not true that you would be better off with somewhat less.—Exchange.

W. P. Drop, druggist, Springfield, Mass., writes: "Japanese Pile Cure has cured a lady 7 years afflicted; could not walk half mile in last 3 years; now walks any distance." Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

House Work as an Exercise.

To keep the complexion and spirits good, to preserve grace, strength and agility of motion, there is no gymnasium so valuable, no exercise more beneficent in result than sweeping, dusting, making beds, washing dishes and the polishing of brass and silver. One year of such muscular effort within doors, together with regular exercise in open air, will do more for a woman's complexion than all the lotions and pomades that were ever invented. Perhaps the reason why house work does so much more for women than games, is the fact that exercise, which is immediately productive, cheers the spirit. It gives women courage to go on living, and makes things seem really worth while.—Medical Record.

IT PREVENTS THE ENTRANCE of disease—pure blood and an active liver. How explained? The circulation of the blood is the great highway over which the germs of disease travel, the liver is the quarantine through whose gate any dread disease may or may not pass, as the liver chooses.

Are you watchful? Is your blood in order and your liver active, so as to repel disease? If not, you will find in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery just the help you need. It comes to your assistance when you have such warnings of impure blood and inactive liver, as pimples, boils or carbuncles; or a feeling of lassitude, weakness and despondency. When your flesh is, from any cause, "reduced below a healthy standard," you've only to take the "Discovery," which will set all the organs into vigorous action and build up both flesh and strength. Avoid nauseous preparations of Cod Liver Oil. They add fat, but not wholesome flesh or healthy tissue.

A BIG OFFER

has many takers. That's the case with Messrs Edwards & Broughton's N. C. Manual of Law and Forms, the second edition of which is now ready.

The text has been revised up to 1893. Magistrates and County Officers find this volume absolutely indispensable. The book contains five hundred pages and covers the entire ground up to date thoroughly and satisfactorily. The price by mail is $3.00. Send for a copy. Address

Edwards & Broughton,

Printers and Binders, Raleigh, N. C.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.

Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

HAGEY'S KING HEATER,

A WOOD STOVE,

CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

The NEWEST of all Heating Stoves! The CHEAPEST of all Heating Stoves! The BEST of all Heating Stoves!

The MOST ECONOMICAL Heating Stove ever invented and placed on the world's market!

We call your attention to our patent HAGEY'S KING HEATING STOVE, made of the best American Russia iron and best wrought sheet steel and lined with charcoal iron, ornamental and suitable for bedroom or parlor. We do not hesitate to say it is the best, cheapest and safest quick heater ever offered.

It is KING HEATER because it devours the whole woodpile, burning knots, chunks, chips, trash and anything that will go into the 13-inch opening at the top.

It is KING HEATER because it will warm the whole room in five minutes.

It is KING HEATER because no fire can fall from it.

It is KING HEATER because the ashes do not need removing but once a month or six weeks.

It is KING HEATER because one or two knots or chunks will run it twelve hours in cool weather.

It is KING HEATER because the fire is everlasting.

Call and see the STOVE, or write for circular and testimonials.

SASH, DOORS AND BLINDS. "ALL RIGHT" COOK STOVE, LIME, PLASTER, CEMENT, RIMS, SPOKES AND HUBS, GUNS AND PISTOLS. HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Julius Lewis & Co., Raleigh, N. C.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR

A POLICY

—IN THE—

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Secty-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
Best Lapel Copper and E. India Tin.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr.
Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

AGENTS $75 A WEEK AT HOME, using or selling PRACTICAL PLATING DYNAMO. The most modern method, used in all factories to plate new goods. Plates gold, silver, nickel, etc., on watches, jewelry, table-ware, bicycles and all metal goods; fine outfits for agents; different sizes; always ready; no battery; no toy; no experience; no limit to plating needed; a great money maker. W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 16, Columbus, Ohio.

Chas. M. Walsh, Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.

Petersburg, Va.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some hint as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

Wood's Seeds Tested and True.

They can always be depended on to produce the finest Vegetables and Flowers and successful Farm crops.

Wood's Seed Book

tells you when to plant, how to cultivate, and all about the best Seeds, together with much valuable information about profitable crops, both for the Garden and Farm. Mailed free. Write for it.

The Largest Seed House in the South. T. W. WOOD & SONS, Seedsmen, Richmond, Va.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1894. Number 37.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WE who so often use the very common shibboleth, "The People," seldom think what that popular slogan signifies. It has of late years changed its meaning, having become a watchword, a war cry,—the mask of the demagogue as well as a shield of the patriot. Not every patriot uses it now; all demagogues do, however. The phrase is in itself a testimony to the ultimate power of the lower classes,—a power, however often seemingly illusory and baseless, however often usurped, that no one can afford to despise in a government theoretically of the people; for it will become practically so some day. But the most common present usage of the phrase does not necessarily signify the majority of the nation's citizens; "the people" now means merely those classes which have not that voice in the direction of public affairs that seems lawfully theirs. At any rate it means this on the lips of the public speaker. It never embraces the rich, never the contented, seldom the "cultured," and never for more than a brief day the dominant class; but it always does mean those who are dissatisfied, those to whom present conditions are irksome, whether they are in the majority or not. Of course this usage of the phrase is illogical, for the people is the nation—every citizen;—but as a shibboleth it is very expressive. The patriot feels surer of his efforts if he can think that the people will applaud his work; the demagogue knows that the people deluded are the only means of self-aggrandizement. The people's power is always recognized; and in this is consolation. As long as men call upon the people to support them in their efforts for betterment, whether their purposes are deceitful or honorable, there is certainty that every deserving cause of "the people" will eventually have a hearing before the nation, there is hope for the illusive government of, for and by the people. If they who call themselves "the people" now should realize their ideals to morrow, there would be a newer "the people" the day after, and they would have the right to use the shibboleth until their ideals have been tested. Over and over again thus, as long as the power of "the people" as a war cry is recognized, the schemes of every class for betterment will be tried until discontent ceases. But as long as there is discontent, "the people" will be the discontented; if the poor are dominant, the rich will be "the people," if the rich, the poor. And the power of the war-cry of either will eventually overcome the other. In a democratic government, it seems to us, political stability is out of the question.

A RECENT public execution for murder, and a proposed public execution of two murderers in our State, has revived the question of the propriety of public hangings. On consideration of the question, we are led to ask: Does the criminal suffer the penalty of the law in expiation of the crime? or is the penalty imposed for a terror to possible or would-be evil-doers? We trust that, while it is granted that the law should be made a terror to evil-doers, no one will hold from a practical standpoint that public imposition of the penalty is the only means of impressing the presumably guiltless with fear of the law. Viewed in this light, public executions are unnecessary. But let us grant that in the case of the highest of crimes—murder—it is necessary that all men be impressed with the condignness of its penalty, would the ghastly spectacle of the gallows serve this end any better than more civilized means? The moral element need not, and would not, see it; and those who would are prompted by curiosity, and are callous to its impressiveness. They are apt rather to become contemptuous of the scene through familiarity, than fearful. The public execution would serve no end even here. Does any one—however densely ignorant—commit murder in ignorance of the penalty? One may have hopes of escape unapprehended, or through the now too loose meshes of the law, but the man does not live in our country who is capable of the crime and liable to its penalty who does not know that death is that penalty; and a century of public executions would not make one more certain of it. Have not regardless papers published miserable details of enough executions to reach all people? Or, if not these, is there any one who has not had the benefit of a report of public trials and the death sentence? In no way can it be shown that public executions serve the only end that is claimed for them, and therefore they should be abandoned. The frequency of crime is a result—if it can be ascribed in any way to the law—of the length of time that elapses between the crime and the punishment. The potential criminal knows the law and the penalty, but there is hope for immunity for so many months that the final end is terrorless.

IT WAS discovered some weeks ago that the old Louisiana State Lottery, which a righteous people had driven from their country into the less regardful Central America, was preparing to carry on operations in Florida, under a pretence of an establishment and a charter in Honduras. The press of the land thundered against the lawless effort most ominously, petitions at once began to circulate, Congress was called on to explore the insidious designs of the arch enemy, and our Postmaster General even made some vague and mysterious arrangements with Canadian authorities, with the effect that the weak and broken Lottery was suppressed—forever, we hope. But all this strikes us as incongruous on the part of the press and the petitioners. There is a lottery in New York, a great deal more harmful and far reaching in its effects than was the old Louisiana affair in its palmiest days; but seldom a word is spoken by the powerful petitioners and righteously indignant papers against this species of games of chance:—we speak of the stock and "futures" gamblers of New York City, who have patrons in almost all cities of our land. New York has recently closed its pool-rooms because they conflicted with race-track gambling—being the means by which one could remain in the city and gamble on and hear the progress of each race in its various stages. Of course this interfered with the owners of the track, horse owners and book-makers, and by them it was stopped. The prohibiting law was a business and not a moral one, and its makers say never a word against the "future" dealers, who are far more objectionable than mere lottery proprietors, in that they are equally immoral, and also dangerously influence the prices of our two greatest crops—cotton and wheat—and one of our most abundant products—pork. It is laudable to fulminate against the lottery, but we believe such reforms should not be confined only to gambling places that are honest enough to call themselves by their proper names. Begin with the future dealers. Then attack the less dangerous race-tracks and pool-rooms and lotteries. Start at the head, let Congress strike the death blow, clear itself and the administration forever from the suspicion of Wall street domination, and we will not ask for further legislation for some time. But some one cries "class-legislation." So was the closing of the mails against the lottery, except that the present class is baser, richer and more powerful; so is the execution of the murderer class legislation, but he is too poor and powerless to excite the cry. This is a country of the majority, and that which benefits the majority should be done. The greatest good to the greatest number should be the motive of all law, whether a poor and unpardonable criminal is legislated against, or a great and powerful aggregation of gamblers. No one can doubt that morally and commercially a strict anti-option law would help our nation.

IT IS the custom of all nations to pension those of its soldiers who have suffered for them, and we would be untrue to our sense of the gratitude one should feel for another who has defended him should we advocate illiberal pensions for the Federal soldiers. They have won their countries gratitude, and they should have full and free evidence of it; but we do protest against the present almost endless pension rolls and exorbitant pensions. During the last fiscal year, ending June 30th, we paid to alleged ex-Union soldiers for various disabilities, widows and children of dead soldiers, $158,155,343 51. This was paid to 1,357,021 pensioners. Since 1861, $1,576,503,544 42 has been paid for the same object. If this amount had been applied to the national debt, all of which was practically incurred by the civil war, the debt would have been wiped out, and we would have besides a balance of $400,000,000. Such enormous figures are in themselves evidence of fraud. The fact that of the 2,778,304 men whom the various Northern States furnished for the war, 966,012 are drawing pensions through disability or widows is enough to convince that something is wrong. In the first place, of the latter number many thousands never smelt the smoke of battle, who are now drawing pensions for disability, never having served the country in the remotest degree.

It may be interesting to note the rise and marvelous growth of pensions. In 1870 the amount paid to pensioners was $27,780,811 81; in 1880, $57,240,540.14; in 1893, $158,155,342.51. General Grant, than whom none was more loved by the Union soldiers, and than whom none had greater cause to court the favor of the soldiers, considered $30,000,000 adequate appropriation for pensioners, and during his terms in the presidency the amount was never more than two millions above that amount. To-day it is five times Grant's estimate, and there are 700,000 applicants for pensions and nearly one million pensioners greedy for more and larger pensions, knocking at our treasury doors. The figures speak for themselves; there was never a more stupendous fraud in our national affairs than our pension system. Were it remedied, were the annual appropriation reduced to an honest basis—say $50,000,000,—the tariff problem would be half settled, and an issuance of bonds would be out of the question. But the pensioners and the greedy pension agent control about two million of our voters, and that is a political power that a party must respect, if it would obtain success. It is fraud, stupendous, colossal fraud, and growing daily. To us its correction is as important as the tariff, for it is not only a political but a moral question.

New Testament Studies—No. 5.

BY HIGHT C. MOORE.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK.

1. Author. The second gospel was uniformly ascribed by tradition to "John, whose surname was Mark," (Acts 12: 12), John being his Jewish and Mark his Roman name. He belonged to the tribe of Levi, and was the son of a certain Mary of Jerusalem. He was a nephew of Barnabas (Col. 4: 10) and Peter's son in the gospel (I Peter 5: 13). The companion of Paul and Barnabas on their first journey (Acts 12: 25), he was the cause of sharp contention and temporary separation on their second (Acts 15: 36–40). Still he was faithful to Paul, and is named as one of the apostle's fellow-laborers during his first imprisonment at Rome (Philemon 24). He was the companion of Peter at Babylon (1 Peter 5: 13) and of Timothy at Ephesus when Paul for the second time was lying in prison at Rome (2 Tim. 4: 11). Tradition tells us that, at the request of Peter, Mark went on a mission to Africa and founded the church at Alexandria, the Egyptian metropolis. He also visited adjacent countries and prevailed on multitudes of idolatrous barbarians to embrace the tenets of the Gospel. Returning to Alexandria he found his foes hungry for his life. During Easter solemnities they entered the church and bound him with cords and dragged him through the streets and over craggy localities until he expired, when they burnt his mangled body. His friends buried his bones and ashes, which were afterward removed to Venice, where he was adopted the tutelar saint and patron of the state.

2. Origin. In all probability Mark wrote his gospel under the superintendence of Peter. Many facts show the incidents to be supplied by an independent witness, and ample evidence proves Peter to be that witness. "The gospel really begins with his call, culminates in his confession, and closes with the message from the risen Lord to 'his disciples and to Peter.'" Peter's modesty caused the suppression of noteworthy particulars connected with himself which are related in the other gospels, and his humility dictated the fullest record we have of his faults and failures. Some of the facts given are also naturally referred to Peter as the source of information.

3. Design. Mark wrote his gospel primarily for Gentile readers. This is clearly manifest: (1) He explains Jewish customs and Aramaic names and expressions. (2) He omits the genealogy of Jesus, does not mention the Law, and in his own narrative makes only a single quotation from the Old Testament. (3) He defines localities, well known to the Jews, which would be appropriate only to foreign peoples.

4. Composition. As in the case of the other Gospels, it is impossible to assign a precise date. It was probably written within five years before the destruction of Jerusalem, whether before or after Peter's death we do not know. Some think Cæsarea was the place of composition, but it is more likely that this honor belongs to Rome: (1) Mark reduces money to Roman currency. (2) He introduces Pilate as no stranger, apparently, to his readers. (3) He employed frequent Latinisms in his work.

5. Facts and Features. (1) Mark writes only of our Lord's ministry, covering a period of three years from the baptism to the appearances after resurrection. (2) Special stress is laid on the works rather than the words of Jesus. (3) Eleven retirements of Christ from the public gaze are here recorded. (4) The effect of Christ's teaching and miracles upon the people is carefully noted. (5) The incidents, though presented concisely, abound in rich and minute details. (6) The present tense is very frequently used instead of the past. (7) It is the oldest of the four gospels and represents the earliest form of the gospel history. (8) It has no preface or conclusion. (9) It alone tells us that Christ was a carpenter, that he gave Simon the surname Peter, and that he would not suffer any man to carry any vessel through the temple. (10) "The most striking literary characteristic of the second gospel is its picturesqueness."

6. Contents. The following outline of Mark is abridged with new arrangement and slight modifications from the fuller analysis by Professor Stevens.

I. BAPTISM, TEMPTATION, AND GALILEAN MINISTRY.

1. Ministry of John the Baptist—baptism of Christ—the temptation—departure from Judea—call of the four—Sabbath in Capernaum—preaching tour.
2. Paralytic—call of Matthew—fasting—plucking grain on the Sabbath.
3. Withered hand—fame of Jesus—choosing the twelve—warning the Jews.
4. Parables of the kingdom—stilling the tempest.
5. Gadarene demoniac—Jairus' daughter.
6. Rejection at Nazareth—sending out the twelve—death of John the Baptist—feeding five thousand—walking the water.
7. Discourse: Unwashen hands—Syrophenician woman's daughter—deaf and dumb man.
8. Feeding four thousand—the blind man—Peter's confession—Christ foretells his death and resurrection.
9. Transfiguration—demoniac boy—discourses with the disciples.

II. CLOSING EVENTS IN JUDEA.

10. On divorce—blessing little children—rich young man—Christ prophesies of himself—blind Bartimeus.
11. Triumphal entry—cursing the fig tree—cleansing the temple—Christ challenged.
12. Parable: The wicked husbandmen—wise answers of Christ—the widow's mite.
13. Discourse: The last things.
14. At Bethany—Passover preparations—the last supper—Gethsemane—the arrest—before the high priest—Peter's denial.
15. Before Pilate—the crucifixion—the burial.
16. The resurrection—appearances to the disciples.

Talks on Medicine—No. 4.

BY A RETIRED PHYSICIAN.

DISEASES AFFECTING THE RESPIRATORY SYSTEM.

We begin now to consider some of the more common diseases with which we are likely to be afflicted. And in order that we may keep together, let it be known that we shall group diseases under four heads: Respiratory, Circulatory, Digestive, and Nervous.

The first disorder under the head "Respiratory Disorders," which I want us to consider, is BAD COLDS.

Perhaps one of the most common disorders in the family is what we call "bad colds." They are more frequent in winter than in summer, but when they occur in summer, they are always more severe than in winter. Some people are more subject to colds than others. The reason consists in the delicacy of the mucous structure. It is not a sign of health to be subject to colds. Some have argued that it is a strong symptom of a consumptive state when one is constantly "catching cold." This may not be true, but is always a sign of an existence of a catarrhal state, which calls for attention, lest it may result in something serious. Those who are predisposed to colds should be careful to avoid exposure—should never allow themselves to be exposed to sudden changes without being prepared by a sufficient amount of the proper kind of clothing—should be careful about sitting with their backs to cracks and key-holes. Henry Ward Beecher once said that the most dangerous practice in the world was sitting in a hot room with the back to keyholes. No doubt but that this is true.

Another practice which helps doctors, wrecks health, and fills graveyards, is remaining in a crowded church for an hour breathing hot air, and then going out without proper clothing and breathing cold air; wearing rubbers in cold and taking them off in warm weather, or wearing them on the streets or out of doors and failing to take them off when one comes in doors. Then little thoughtless acts have contributed to ruin the health of many a man. I know some preachers who wear their rubber-shoes all the time in doors and out, and yet are very earnest in talking of "self-murder." The fact is, in my judgment, rubber-shoes have ruined more people than they have helped.

STAGES.

There are two stages in the clinical history of a cold whether head or chest. First, the running stage, or the stage of introduction, when the sufferer is introduced to its existence, but most especially to his nose. O, how one does dread the "nose-wiping" and sneezing period! This usually lasts for about twenty-four hours. Then comes the second or consolidating stage, when the unwelcome guest takes off his grip-sack and sits down for business.

TREATMENT.

These stages are very important from the standpoint of treatment. With the proper care the majority of colds can be checked. The time to act is in the first or running stage. The following is the best method known: Upon going to bed, take a hot foot-bath with enough mustard in the water to redden the skin. After this, take quinine, five to ten grains, and antikamnia, five grains, and go to bed. Next morning, take again quinine, five grains. This, in nine cases out of ten, shortens, if not entirely breaks up a cold. No fear need be entertained about taking the antikamnia in the dose recommended. It is as harmless thus administered as the quinine. If the antikamnia cannot be obtained, a good plan is to take the hot foot-bath, and a cup of some hot tea and five grains of quinine on going to bed, and quinine again on rising next morning. When the second stage has arrived, if it be a chest cold, there will usually be a cough; if so, it needs to be treated. By all means, don't allow it to continue, when in the majority of instances it can be so easily checked. The following cough mixture, while not capable of explanations theoretically, will act sometimes like a charm in breaking a bad cold cough and sometimes old chronic coughs which have baffled the entire range of medicine: Sweet spirits of nitre, paregoric, sweet oil and mucilage of accosia, equal parts of each. Take of this mixture well shaken up from a half to a tablespoonful every three or four hours. If the stomach will not take the oil, substitute simple syrup. I have often found paregoric alone in teaspoonful doses sufficient for such coughs. A good household remedy is a tea made of horehound, mullen and sweet-gum balls, with enough sugar to make a syrup. To this might with advantage be added a little paregoric, and taken every three or four hours. If, after this, your cough continue, go for a doctor. In no case should you tamper with patent nostrums. These cough mixtures on the market are, some of them, dangerous. You had better trust your family doctor: he is your best friend.

For a head-cold in the second stage, when there is a good deal of mucous being discharged, the best thing I know to stop it is to wash occasionally the nostrils with a solution of salt and soda, say a half teaspoonful of each to a cup of warm water. This will check the formation of mucous and likewise dissolve that which is already formed. Don't get scared to death now when you have a cold. If, after taking everything, you find no relief, take as a final resort a full dose of time, and when it has done its work, you will perhaps be well.

Dr. Broadus on Alien Immersion.

We have found the following from Dr. Jno. A. Broadus going the rounds of the Baptist press. It is a sensible disposal of a troublesome question.

"I have received a number of inquiries from the Pacific coast about what is called alien immersion, and have always replied to substantially the following effect: I think it highly undesirable that persons previously immersed by Pedobaptists or Campbellites should be received as they stand, into a Baptist church. I think they ought to be baptized when received, for the sake of good order and to prevent any troublesome questions from afterward arising. I think that the candidate, even if satisfied with his previous immersion as a baptism, ought to be willing to be baptized now to satisfy the church and give no trouble hereafter; and that if he is not willing, the church can do without him. But I know that a great many Baptist churches in large portions of our country do receive such persons without baptizing them. So, if I were a member of a church to which such a person applied, I should earnestly urge that he ought to be baptized; but if the church should decide to receive him without baptizing, I should not feel bound to leave the church or make trouble on account of the decision."

You know as well as I do—better a great deal, for it is yourself that is in question—that at each time when your heart and conscience have been brought in contact with the offer of salvation through faith in Jesus Christ, if you had liked you could have opened the door and welcomed his entrance. And you know that nobody and nothing kept it fast except only yourself. "Ye will not come to me," said Christ, "that ye might have life." Men, indeed, do pile up such mountains of rubbish against the door that it cannot be opened, but it was they that put it there; and they are responsible if the hinges are so rusty that they will not move, or the doorway is so clogged that there is no room for it to keep open. Jesus Christ knocks, but Jesus Christ cannot break the door open. It lies in your hands to decide whether you will take or whether you will reject that which he brings.—Alexander Maclaren.

Prayer sets the soul particularly near to God in Jesus Christ. It is then in his presence, and being much with God in this way it is powerfully assimilated to him by converse with him; as we readily contract their habits with whom we have much intercourse, especially if they be such as we singularly love and respect. Thus the soul is moulded farther to the likeness of God, and is stamped with clearer characters of him by being much with him.—Archbishop Leighton.

It is a serious thing to die. It is a more serious thing to live. So as it is a great and glorious thing to die, it is a thing greater and more glorious and God like to live a resigned, active and blessed, if not happy, life.—Schiller.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21, 1894.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

THE PASTOR AS A CRITERION.

"Like priest, like people," is a pleasing alliteration that is significant of much more than we generally think. It refers to the Roman Catholic priests and churches, and was applied first in accounting for the depraved and morally and religiously corrupt countries where Roman Catholic influences are predominant. Unsettled and uncertain Italy, pitiable, struggling Spain, war ridden Brazil, and weak and misled Mexico, are even to-day cited as examples of the effect of Roman Catholic domination on nations; and their deplorable condition is usually accounted for with the alliteration, "Like priest, like people." And there is more truth in it than may be thought. The Roman Catholic church sets up the priest as an example to the people, establishes the pope as an infallible representative of Christ; and it is not surprising that Roman Catholics are no better than their corrupt priests. But how is it with Protestants—with Baptists? Do we consider our pastors ideals? Are their examples to be followed? Are their acts Christian criterions?

Every man, unless he be an extreme egotist—and even then exception is not probable—makes an ideal of some being. We may not be conscious of it, but human influences are most potent in shaping human character. Every man influences the rising generation for good or evil. We read a book—a biography, say—and may not be particularly impressed,—but it will very probable influence our life. But living books are far more influential, and equally more dangerous. Human beings are not original; they are always followers individually, and especially is this true in the formation of character and the direction of actions. If some one, whom we esteem, or who commands general respect, pursues a certain course unchallenged, we naturally assume that we, who are lesser than our ideal, can do the same things under similar circumstances. And thus it is we feel immunity in following our pastor, unconsciously idealize him, and by imitating his actions make the expression, "Like priest, like people," applicable to ourselves.

The peculiar and delicate relation of the pastor to his flock has been the subject of much dissertation. The pastor is the nominal leader and guide of those who have called him to preach God's word to their edification, comfort and guidance; and this position commands that confidence and respect which lead naturally and imperceptibly to imitation—idealization in a modified form. But it may, and it may not, be safe to imitate him. Speaking generally, pastors are better—more godly—than their flocks. They have given themselves to Christ's service, have felt called of him, have studied his word more, are less exposed to worldliness, and for many other reasons are in a position that church-members consider "good enough for them." But, while thus the pastor may be followed, the pastor's errors are never an excuse for his flock's sins. We are apt to cite the actions of our pastor as criterions whereby our own are excused. This is a mistake. However Christ-like the pastor may be, however worthy a leader he may be, however apparently Christ is in him, there is but one whose actions can be followed with immunity,—but one who is the Christian's model and ideal—Christ. That the pastor has done anything questionable, however favorably the rest of the world regarded the act, is no reason why one can do the same thing if a Christian conscience prompts otherwise—if one is convinced that the pastor was wrong. He is human; Christ is divine and unerring, and a Christian's only exemplar.

But the pastor's nominal leadership, although he preaches Christ as leader and Saviour, will make him liable to imitation; and here we do not feel that a caution to the pastor will be out of place. He is a minister of Christ, he is in many respects a leader, and for these reasons he should be most guarded in his actions. He must follow Christ, and for the sake of those who follow him unconsciously, must be as Christ-like as possible. We do not believe that a greater responsibility rests on human beings than to be taken as an example. The pastor moulds character in his every act. What he does is very apt to be generally considered as legitimate, in spite of all that can be said in behalf of following Christ. But if he follows him, if he could show Christ in his every act, no injury would result from imitating him. Still, it is not safe to consider the actions of the best pastor we know as criterions, for the pastor is, as we said, only human, and liable to error; and, therefore, Christians should have only one ideal,—Christ,—although, of course, they should have the same confidence, love and respect for the pastor, as they would for any servant of God who served them in Jesus' name.

However laudable the lives of our pastors may be, however much we love and revere them, there is only one whom we can safely follow, and his life was so simple, and is so simply told, that none can mistake the motive and the meaning of his actions. And let no one say that the fact that some human being has erred is reason for any action of ours. As it is now, we only wish that "like pastor, like flock" could be truthfully said in reference to our churches; but if all seek Christ, the only Christian ideal, our wish will be most happily realized.

It is noticeable that of late years total abstinence pledges and temperance lecturers have almost disappeared from the land. And the reason is not far to seek: a good cause has been smothered in a platform. It is unnecessary to say that we unqualifiedly condemn the liquor evil, that we regard it as one of our country's most deplorable misfortunes, and that any possible means of annihilating it would meet with our approbation. We do not, however, believe that a moral question, although it is in some aspects physical and social, is a ground for formulating entire platforms destructive to political and social principles. We do believe that the question is one of education; that a campaign against the traffic by the churches and the schools, and all well-meaning people, will eventually drive the barrooms and the liquor sellers from our land. We do believe that a total abstinence pledge is better than a vote; that a sermon or a lecture against the evil is more far-reaching and surer in its effects than a campaign speech. We wish to day that the time and money that have been consumed in political campaigns, which disregarded the value of temperance pledges and lectures, and relegated them to the past, had been used by advocates of temperance. The churches and the schools—the greatest agencies for all good—are the great means of wiping out the traffic. A campaign for Christianity, which embraces temperance, if it means anything, is the great need.

Two or our contemporaries which differ with our views on the Sunday paper seem to think that all Sunday papers are wholly bad. One draws an analogy between them and "every den of infamy." Another understands us as saying that there is more good than evil in them. The meaning of our reference was that if there was not "more probability of good" effect than evil in them, they should not be published at all. There is such a thing as week-day religion, and if we mistake not, Sunday religion is no better than it is.

We did say that the publisher of a Sunday paper, which we presumed was wholesome, committed no sin if he observed the Sabbath; we were trying to show that while the publisher did no mechanical work on the Sabbath in making a Sunday paper, that one would have to work all day Sunday to get out a Monday issue. If his paper was unwholesome, as, for instance, the analogous (?) bar-room, he equally commits sin in publishing it on Wednesday. "He who furnishes the opportunity for sin" is not guiltless; but with us that was not at all the question, as we excluded unwholesome papers as not guiltless on Wednesday as well as Sunday, in the beginning of our editorial. We know that there are unwholesome papers, but we do not get them.

Brethren, be sure you do not misrepresent us before you speak of perversion of moral sense, and do try to draw analogous analogies before speaking of illogical justifications.

BRETHREN, the time is short; the call is urgent. Every Missionary Baptist church and every pastor and every church member in North Carolina, should do something for the State Mission debt, and do it quickly. Some will not help, for they cannot; but we hope that every one who decides to let this urgent call pass, will be sure that they are unable to do anything before they decline to give;—give your prayers and faith anyway.

Twelve days from the date of this issue the opportunity to help, when help is most needed, will be lost. Bro. Durham has now in pledges and cash about four thousand dollars toward the five thousand dollars. The probabilities are that many of these pledges will be null and void for the want of your encouragement and assistance. The debt should be paid; the missionaries should have their money; and it is the duty of North Carolina Baptists to see that it is paid, and now is the best opportunity that we will have. Let Bro. Durham hear something hopeful from you, brother pastor.

It appears that the oft-predicted and much hoped for revival wave, that has been known to follow former seasons of financial stringency, widespread poverty and worldly failures, is upon us. Revivals in Chicago, in New York and Brooklyn, and in the Central West have been very abundant of results in recent months, and it seems now that our own section is resting under God's blessings. We hope and pray that there may be such an outpouring of the Spirit as our country has seldom experienced. We need it all over the land, all over the world. There is not a town in our State, no, not a district but that it needs the gospel light more abundantly. We hope that others will pray and prepare for it.

Whether the season is to be one of remarkable developments or not, we know that our brethren throughout the State are accustomed to do more revival work in the spring and summer than in winter, because people can more easily attend them in these seasons. In view of this we wish to urge upon our pastors, though some may think us narrow therein, to preach doctrinal sermons before or during or immediately after revival services. As Bro. Mills says, a plain, definite system of religion is the wholesome one for converts to grow up in. The usual revival preacher has time only, or takes time only to exhort the unsaved and the back-sliden to turn from their ways. It is necessary that they have edification also, and this devolves on the pastor. Candidates for membership in any church, should know what that church holds to be true before they are united with it; if they are not there is probability of disagreement, coldness, and eventual need of another revival. A Baptist should be a Baptist through and through. For this reason we do not approve of union revivals. Definite doctrines are helpful to active work, and they should be preached occasionally for the benefit of church-members as well as candidates.

Since we announced with general approbation that the discussion of mission methods was closed in the RECORDER, after having offered our columns freely for discussion of the subject, we have received several communications for and against the "new mission movement."

Very recently we received three articles written by China missionaries, two for and one against the gospel mission, but as we, in our opinion, have given a full hearing to both sides, and have concluded that the present is a time for deeds, not words, they will not be published. We regret to disappoint our esteemed missionary friends, but we think our readers everywhere will agree with us that a reopening of the question after the gospel missionaries have entered on the work, would be anything but profitable to any one concerned. The RECORDER prides itself on its missionary letters, and we hope that no one will understand from this that we will not be glad to give our readers the benefit of any news or narrative or doctrinal letters they may send us.

We have considered the question prayerfully and deliberately, and are convinced that our duty is to support the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, as we have endeavored to do throughout our career. We wish North Carolina Baptists were united on missions—something that we cannot afford to differ on long,—and we believe that division will not exist after a reasonable time,—but having closed our columns to the discussion because we thought such a policy served best the interests of both sides, we shall not intentionally attempt to bias any one for or against. It is too late to decide the matter on paper.

We wish every boy and girl in the world, and in North Carolina particularly, could be raised in families that believe in good books and good literature. Our race would be an entirely different one in a generation if this were the case. Reading is greatly to be encouraged, and the cheapness of books and papers place them in the reach of many who now think they cannot afford them. We seldom read the life of a man who has died good and great but that it is mentioned that he had the advantage and made the opportunity for reading in his early life. There is many a man who worked all day on the farm and read a few good books at odd times, and grew up a leader. They make men, they make leaders, and the boy who doesn't read will be very apt to be a follower and a dependent all his life.

An Easter number of a Baptist paper, in embellished covers, is something strangely and incongruously new under the sun; yet one came to our office in this shape last week. We wonder if our brethren of The Baptist—the Baltimore one—have been eating only fish and eggs and wearing sackcloth and attending mass, high and low, this "lent." And in what manner will they "keep" "good Friday!" Verily, these be times.

NEWS FROM THE BRETHREN.

"BLUE MONDAY."

I have often heard the preachers talk of this noted day. Recently I had one of my own. I had nothing to do. The day was beautiful and the town at which I stopped was peaceful and quiet. As my custom heretofore had been, I made my way to the office of a brother learned in the law, and on this day he was given to prophecy. Among his first questions was this: "Did you get a return ticket when you started here." I told him I did, and that I also had money enough to pay for my dinner. To my great relief he did not press his examination further, but seemed somewhat reconciled to my presence in the town.

I was soon on the go, with book and pencil in hand, to renew subscriptions, many of which had taken on a second year's growth. I walked and I walked, and when the sun was down I had had no use for either pencil or book,—a whole day gone, and not a cent for expenses. Just as I was giving up, I found a brother who had unfortunately discontinued his paper, and was due a balance on subscription. He was a jeweler, and I suppose my situation excited more or less his compassion, and he generously proposed to give me a watch in settlement of his account. I took it at once, for altogether I was in a taking humor. I asked him particularly if it would keep good time. I wanted to be at the depot when the train came, and so I was, and was soon in my seat in the train, and on my way to spend Tuesday in

ROCKY MOUNT.

This town has grown greatly for the last year. A number of new and costly warehouses have been built, and the leaf tobacco trade is now one of the prime industries of the town. The bringing of the Coast Line Railroad shops here has added greatly to the business of the place. Quite a number of handsome residences are now being built. Capt. Devine's residence is here, and Sister Devine is a great help to Bro. Howell in the work of the church. The brethren are greatly pleased with the faithful work and excellent preaching of Bro. Howell. The work here is exceedingly hopeful.

David L. Ward, one of the brightest boys who ever graduated at Wake Forest, after having spent ten years on the "crest" of western civilization, is home again to spend the remainder of his days in the Old North State. The "go west" doctrine needs to be taken with some caution as well as enthusiasm. However, we extend to Bro. Ward a hearty welcome to his place among us. We need many more like him to develop and shape the best interests of North Carolina.

Only a few years ago the section through which the W. & W. R. R. passes between Goldsboro and Wilmington produced nothing except turpentine and cotton. Now on either side of the road can be seen fine fields of strawberries, asparagus, and in many places tube roses, which are raised in great quantities. These things, along with many varieties of trucking, have taken possession of this entire section. The farmers were never so prosperous as now. The railroad authorities have already arranged to run a special train with refrigerating cars to accommodate the shippers of this section.

I spent Sunday with Bro. L. R. Carroll at

WARSAW.

The grip took the "under hold" on this good brother, and gave him a rest of several weeks. He is now nearly well again, and anxious to get out to his work. For some months he has visited several churches in the Eastern Association which were without a pastor. These churches are now slow to look out for any more preaching than they get from Bro. Carroll, and those who know him will not be surprised that this is the case. No man in the State is better posted on the history of missions than Bro. Carroll. With his knowledge of the Bible, and his rich Christian experience, there is no wonder that people should listen to him when he talks. So many preachers are grazing on the hedge rows, instead of going in and devouring the rich pastures in the Book of all books.

AT CLINTON

I found a good number of brethren waiting to renew their subscriptions to the RECORDER. Bro. Meeks feels encouraged with the progress the church is making. They have an excellent Sunday-school, which is doing much to develop the younger members of the church. Clinton has suffered much within the past few years with fires and other reverses, but these things result in good. Fires and funerals often do much to improve and enlarge towns that would otherwise stand still for years.

On taking leave of Sister L. R. Carroll she said, "Here is $5.00 our Missionary Society thought of using for another purpose, but we have decided to send it Bro. Durham to help out on the debt he is trying to raise."

It was a real pleasure to spend a few hours with brethren Poole and Bland at Burgaw. Bro. Poole is halting for awhile to learn his duty, whether it be to remain on the mission field in the Eastern Association, or go to other fields to which he has recently been invited.

This mission work is pressing sorely on the mind and heart of Bro. Bland, and if Bro. Poole should decide to leave that section it is to be hoped that some one capable of doing the very best work will take his place.

Bro. Lamberth is just coming to feel at home in GREENVILLE.

The brethren there are delighted with him as a preacher and pastor. The children on the streets and in the homes seem to know him and love him. His congregations are large, and the interest in all of the work seems to be growing. Bro. Lamberth has one or two preaching places in the country, and he thinks there is a bright prospect for the work in this part of the Tar River Association. I am on the track of Bro. John Mitchell. He has just gone through this section in the interest of the Board of Education. The people here are glad he came, feel more interested in his work than they did before they knew him.

Bro. W. H. Ragsdale has a fine school for boys here. This is his best session. He has over fifty in attendance. Quite a number of the boys are well advanced, and will soon be ready for college. Bro. Ragsdale has been a successful teacher. Dr. Hufham says he was born to govern boys. He is active in his church, and most helpful to his pastor, and has lost none of his love for his alma mater. Wake Forest will receive some bright and promising boys from this school.

Bro. I. A. Sugg, who has been in bad health for several years, is well again. He will be remembered by many of the brethren in the State as the brother who did so much for the erection of the Memorial church in this place. We note with much pleasure his restoration to health, and hope he may use now more than ever the fine talents he possesses in such a marked degree.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Read Bro. Willingham's statement in this issue—then act.

....Rev. C. M. Donaldson of Norfolk has decided to enter the evangelistic service.

....Rev. S. B. Barnes took charge of the Hill Side church, Bertie county, 10th inst.

....The Hominy Baptist church, of the Western Convention, has called Rev. E. J. Morgan.

....Dr. John A. Broadus will spend part of the summer vacation preaching in Detroit, Mich.

....It is stated that Rev. R. G. Pearson will hold union revival meetings at Lexington shortly.

....The Norfolk Moody and Sankey meetings are in full blast; great congregations in attendance.

....Mr. Richard J. Biggs of Baltimore was in Raleigh Sunday, having come to North Carolina to enter his son at Wake Forest College.

....The Baptists of Hickory have secured an acre lot in the western part of their town, and will proceed immediately to erect a chapel thereon.

....At last accounts, we are glad to announce, our aged brother, Rev. Jesse Howell, was still living, with some probability of recovery.

....Dr. Broadus will preach the dedicatory sermon of the handsome new Grace Street church, Richmond, Va., (Dr. Hatcher pastor,) next Sunday.

....Rev. R. E. Peele succeeds Rev. J. T. Jenkins as pastor of the Brooklyn Baptist church, near Wilmington. He takes charge the latter part of April.

....General Neal Dow of Massachusetts, known widely as "the father of prohibition," recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday amid general congratulations.

....Mr. Meserve, the new President of Shaw University, has arrived in Raleigh, and takes charge immediately. We extend him a warm welcome to the State.

....Nothing makes the RECORDER happier than to be the means of the diffusion of the news of God's blessings on the work all over the State. Let us have the news, workers.

....The meeting at Wake Forest, in which Rev. W. C. Tyree is assisting Pastor Gwaltney, is progressing finely. We hope to have a full report of it in our next issue.

....Evangelists Needham and Bliss, accompanied with trained singers, are holding meetings in Richmond preliminary to the Moody meetings, for which a great tabernacle has been erected.

....Rev. J. M. Bennett received three members into Silver Hill church, Davidson county, at a recent service—two by baptism, one by letter. Bro. Bennett also baptized at Holloway's recently.

....The following from Brother G. W. Greene of China sounds home like: "Next week I go to Tsing Neu to attend the Association. If anything of special interest occurs I will report it for the RECORDER."

....Rev. J. D. Hufham of Tarboro has been called to succeed Rev. J. L. Sproles at Shelby. We congratulate the Shelby people on the wisdom of the selection, and hope that our brother will see fit to accept.

....We would appreciate it very highly if those of our subscribers who are in arrears would send us part of what they owe. We should not be expected to wait on them without some evidence of good faith.

....It has been announced that the Adams property of Raleigh will not be purchased by the trustees of the Baptist Female University. We deplore the troubles that are confronting our brethren, and are glad to know that steps are being taken to erect a suitable building in order that the school may be opened next fall.

....We are glad to note the continued success of Rev. C. A. Jenkens in Goldsboro. The last issue of the Headlight speaks of his recent sermon on "Little Things" in most complimentary terms.

....Rev. M. A. Adams was compelled to relinquish his series of meetings in the Monroe church, we learn from the Journal, on account of sore throat. Up to the close of the meeting much interest was manifested.

....Rev. R. M. Luther, D. D., has preached a series of twenty-five sermons on the "Holy Spirit," in the South Church, Newark, N. J.—Watchman. And twenty-five more would not exhaust the glorious theme.

....The Ebenezer (colored) Baptist church, Charlotte, we learn from the Observer, is nearing completion. It has a large Sunday-school room in connection, and it will be one of the finest colored people's churches in the State.

....Rev. S. B. Yoder of Sonoma, N. C., writes to the W. N. C. Baptist that in a recent meeting which he and Rev. C. Brown conducted at Pleasant Grove, Tenn., there were 100 professions of religion and ninety-eight additions to the church.

....It is stated that Bro. Van Deventer of Henderson is favorably considering the call to Reidsville. The Reidsville brethren will support Bro. Royall independently, but have decided to forward its money through the regular Board, we are very glad to learn.

....Rev. W. C. Newton, son of the beloved missionary to Africa, Rev. C. C. Newton, and at present a student of Wake Forest College, has declined a call to the Clayton pastorate, but will preach there once a month until a pastor is secured.

....We regret that Miss Alice Ferrall, assistant and music teacher in the Aulander Female Academy, is still confined to her room with rheumatism. We hope she will soon be up again. Her mother, Mrs. A. L. Ferrall of Raleigh, spent last week with her.

....Miss Adelaide M. Dixon, youngest daughter of Rev. Thos. Dixon, Sr., and Rev. J. Ernest Thacker, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Oxford, N. C., were united in marriage at Shelby on the 14th, the father of the bride officiating. We extend best wishes.

....Miss Emma Humphries, who was educated at LaGrange, Ga., and was for a while teacher at the Orphanage, will go to China this fall, when it is thought her support can be arranged for, we learn from a letter by Rev. F. M. Royall in the Sampson Democrat.

....Rev. J. W. Abernethy was ordained to the Baptist ministry at Matthews, near Charlotte, on the 16th, Dr. Pritchard delivering the ordination sermon. Revs. J. B. Richardson, M. A. Adams, W. W. Johnson and Dr. Pritchard composed the ordaining presbytery.

....We have received and read with profit a gentle and Christianly, and withal straightforward and convincing little pamphlet by Rev. O. L. Hailey of Oxford, Miss., entitled, "Why they did not join the Methodists." It is a faithful report of an actual experience.

....Now and then we read that some members are vowing that they will not enter a church because the pastor has said something with which they did not agree. It is a sad commentary on Christianity, and sadder still on Baptists, who give every one a right to an honest opinion.

....Forty-one persons representing seven nationalities have joined Dr. A. C. Dixon's Brooklyn church since Feb. 1st. The Brooklyn Eagle calls it a cosmopolitan church, and states that in it was begun the great revival which has done so much good in Brooklyn and New York.

....Rev. L. M. Curtis writes that Hon. J. C. Scarborough, Superintendent of Public Instruction, will speak at Aulander, Bertie county, on the night of April 12th; at Republican church, Friday the 13th; at Windsor, Friday night; and Saturday the 14th, at Ross' church.

....The Congregationalists are in the lead in giving, among the denominations of this country. They last year averaged $4.28 per member. The Moravians came next with $3.85 per member. We refrain from giving the figures for the Baptists. Brethren, let us do better.—Western Recorder.

....Rev. C. J. F. Anderson writes from Siler City: "Our cause is steadily progressing here. I expect to begin a meeting with this church in April, and will have the assistance of Bro. J. T. Jenkins." Bro. Anderson's pastorate includes also Carthage, Sanford and Cool Spring Baptist churches.

....Our readers will be glad to know that the Supreme Court has decided in a recent case from Monroe that any town or city has the right to pass an ordinance making it punishable for any person under twenty-one years of age to enter a bar room. No one doubts what is the duty in the matter, and now that the right is established we hope all our towns and cities will adopt such an ordinance.

....We greatly regret to announce that Bro. R. T. Bryan's health has been so much impaired by his ardent labors all over the South since he came from China, that the doctor has ordered him to rest. Surely no man ever earned a rest, if Bro. Bryan hasn't. His appointments will be filled, some of them by Dr. Willingham, and others we hope will be provided for.

....The RECORDER would like to publish extended descriptions of weddings for the sake of its personal friends, but it cannot, in view of the fact that its space must be used for matters of more general interest. We could fill up a page with accounts of marriages almost any week, and no good be done. However, we are glad to publish announcements of marriages when they are sent.

....In one year's pastorate at Monroe Bro. Adams has seen added to his church eighty members, while twenty-four have been lost to his membership through letters, deaths, etc. The amount of contributions was $1,973 28. Bro. Adams held 285 preaching and prayer meeting services, and made about 1,000 pastoral visits during the same time. Doesn't this account for the success of the year?

....Bro. J. E. Hutson has been holding some excellent meetings in the "peanut country." For eighteen years in succession he has held protracted meetings with some of those churches, and they are more eager to have him do this for them now than ever before.—Religious Herald. This is striking testimony to a recent editorial in the RECORDER on evangelistic methods.

....We regret to chronicle the death of Mrs. Sallie Horton, widow of Capt. Jeptha Horton, which occurred at her home in Raleigh on the night of the 14th inst., aged nearly seventy-three years. She had been a faithful member of the First Baptist church of this city more than fifty years, and died, after a painful illness, in the full Christian hope. She left three children, Capt. John W. and Henry Horton and Mrs. John Beckham, to whom we extend sincere sympathy.

....A postal card came to Richmond the other day for Dr. J. B. Jeter. As this old servant of the Lord has been in glory for over ten years, we naturally conclude that the writer of that postal is considerably belated. He lives in North Carolina, and is a Baptist, and that goes to show that there is one man in North Carolina who has not fallen into the hands of Bro. J. C. Caddell, the wide awake and efficient agent for the BIBLICAL RECORDER.—The Baptist, Baltimore.

....A great concourse of workers was gathered at the recent undenominational Detroit Missionary Convention. Its delegates were largely college students and missionaries, and speeches were made by some of the most prominent mission workers in the land, Drs. Gordon, Willingham and Bro. Bryan being of the number. The Convention was a result of a movement started only a few years ago among college students, and has for its motto, "The evangelization of the world in this generation." We believe there were two delegates in attendance from Wake Forest College.

....Dr. L. G. Broughton began a series of meetings in the Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle on Tuesday evening of last week. From the first the meetings have been largely attended, and given much evidence of the presence of the Holy Spirit. Bro. Broughton doesn't stop work at any time of day. Service at noon, service in the afternoon, and service at night, have been the order. At present it is impossible to state the number of professions or the extent of the work. Bro. Broughton's pulpit power is indisputable; he knows what and he knows how to say. The meetings will continue through this week.

....Dr. Carter announced last Sunday morning that he had secured the promise of the assistance of Dr. P. G. Elsom of Fincastle, Va., in a series of meetings in the First church during April. Dr. Elsom has met with much success in the State of his residence, and also, we think, on one or two occasions in North Carolina, and no doubt his efforts in Raleigh will be profitable. Bro. J. F. Love will be here shortly to aid Bro. Hunter at the West End; the Tabernacle is already being greatly blessed through Bro. Broughton, and if Bro. Stringfield will begin a revival at his promising Third church, our cup will be full. It really looks like we Raleigh folks might have a glorious "revival wave" this season. God grant it.

Bro. Willingham's Appeal.

I write to urge upon all pastors and churches that you come to our help within the next few weeks, as you know our Conventional year closes April 30th, preparatory to the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention on May 11th. We want, if possible, to go to Dallas out of debt and prepared to send a number of men and women who are waiting, out to the foreign field. We must not hold our hands in indifference, but let each one of us arise and do what we can and we will rejoice in the results.

With best wishes, yours fraternally,

R. J. WILLINGHAM, Cor. Sec.

Ashe and Alleghany Union Meeting.

The Union Meeting of the Ashe and Alleghany Association met with Forest Home Baptist church, Ashe county, N. C., Saturday, Dec. 30, 1893. At 11 o'clock a. m., introductory sermon by Rev. E. Blevins.

After organization, the following queries were discussed:

1st. Duties of churches to pastors. Opened by brethren R. L. Shoaf and H. A. Eller.

2nd. Duty of pastors to churches. Opened by Rev. E. Blevins.

The next session of this body will meet with New Hope Baptist church, Alleghany county, N. C., on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April, 1894. Introductory sermon to be preached by Elder I. M. Carter.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

1st. Duty of deacons. To be opened by brethren R. L. Shoaf and Allen Jones.

2nd. The New Testament on giving. To be opened by Rev. I. M. Carter and Bro. W. C. Fields.

3rd. How money should be used. To be opened by Revs. E. Blevins and E. Tucker.

4th. The Scriptural teaching on missions. To be opened by Revs. T. M. Duncan and E. Tucker.

The churches of the Ashe and Alleghany Association are requested to send two delegates each to this Union Meeting.

JAMES ELLER, Mod.

M. F. CARTER, Secretary.

About to Fail.

It pains me deeply to write the above three words, but duty demands it. I state the case as the facts to day—Saturday, March 17th—present the prospects. The pledges to pay off the debt on the Board have been taken according to the Convention's proposition. These are conditioned on securing by April 1st the full amount, $5,000. I can now see, I think, where about $4,000 are to come from; but where the other needed $1,000 are to come from, I cannot see. I have heard from all parts of the State, and know, I think, about what will be done. It now looks like the proposition may fall for the lack of about $1,200 or $1,000. Shall we lose the $4,000 for the lack of $1,000 additional? This is the serious question before us now.

A good sister at Lowell sends one dollar and says: "I send one dollar, and am praying that five hundred other sisters will do the same." Shall this woman's prayer be answered? Will you, reader, help answer it? There is now one visible hope of success. We can succeed, if will each, in the next ten days, send one dollar for this object. Some two years ago, in response to a letter, about two thousand persons, in ten days, each sent one dollar to the Treasurer. Cannot you be one of the twelve hundred, each to send one dollar now? You know best. Please do so, if you can. Many are praying for success in this proposition. Some are making real sacrifices. Enclose one dollar in a letter, saying "for the debt," and mail it to J. D. Boushall, Raleigh, N. C.

TWELVE HUNDRED RECORDER READERS

EVERY PASTOR

is most earnestly and affectionately asked to call attention to this "one dollar" proposition next Sunday. Success now and here will make all the work of the year larger and better.

SINCE THE ABOVE

was written, complaint has been made by a beloved brother about one paragraph in my statement last week; and as it is possible others have put the same construction on the language that offended the brother referred to above, I most gladly give the statement complained of, and make the needed explanation, viz.:

"SOME OF THE PASTORS have not yet been heard from, but they will do their part. They will each give of their personal means, and do much to bring this work before their churches and to impress their people with its importance just at this time. If it is desirable, a list of the pastors that do nothing on the Convention's proposition can be published later on. I would not like to give it to the public now. They may yet put this object before their people, and do well."

Many pastors, business men, doctors, lawyers and farmers have written that they could not help with this proposition; and they have told why they could not now aid this work.

I have been more deeply touched by some of these letters than by any of those promising help. One says:

"Up to date on last year's salary, I have received $455 60. For 1894, I do not expect more than $450. This will give a good idea about the condition of money matters in my charge. I never have seen the like in this county. We cannot raise half the usual contributions for anything."

This brother has presided over the Convention, and is as true as any man in the State, and he gives the reasons why his churches cannot help now. He is a country pastor. Another says:

"My people are so severely strapped financially, that it is just out of the question to make any calculations for money now. No man sympathizes more with the Board than I do, but I am unable to help now. I pray the Lord to open a way out of this trouble."

This brother is Moderator of his Association, and if there is is a better man on earth, I do not know who he is. Another says:

"It is utterly impossible for me now to collect money for any purpose. I would gladly do my part under other circumstances, but can neither give myself nor secure money from any one else."

When this brother cannot get money from his churches, it is because there is no money there; and, I think, if he had the money, that he would gladly pay, if need be, every dollar of the debt.

One of the best young preachers and pastors in the State, after telling the condition of his people, as an explanation why they could not help now with this special proposition, says:

"I make these explanations that my people may not be misunderstood."

A pastor, who in January wrote that his church could do nothing, did well the first week in March. Another pastor, who on Feb. 2nd wrote "I can't promise anything; my people are so crippled that they can't do," wrote March 18th (received to-day, March 20th), and says: "I took a collection to-day for the debt, and got over fifteen dollars, and the ladies added ten dollars, making a little over twenty-five dollars." This is just as I indicated last week it might be, and hence, I then said it was premature to state why any pastor or church could not help on this proposition, and said, "if it is desirable," that is, later on, if these pastors who have given me the reason why their churches could not aid in this work, desire it, I would gladly state their reasons through the RECORDER that their people might not be misunderstood.

I give these extracts from more than one hundred such letters now in this office on this subject. From ten churches, where there are individuals from whom we should have received as much as fifty dollars, come letters from the pastors and individuals, giving the facts about bank and business failures, most of them occurring, too, since the Convention in Elizabeth City, so involving brethren who would have aided us, that they cannot do it. Then, too, more than fifty churches in the Convention are now building new houses of worship, making heavy repairs, or paying off old debts, and their pastors and individuals from many of them have written how gladly, under other circumstances, they would aid with this proposition; but they have said they could do nothing now for it.

When I wrote the statement last week, I was hopeful, but I then saw that the whole $5,000 might not be secured. I knew if the $5,000 was not secured, when many had done so well, and some had given up their expected trip to the Southern Baptist Convention in order to give fifty dollars here and now, that there might be a disposition to blame those who had not helped with this special proposition, and that it might, therefore, be simple justice to these pastors and churches, and to the work, for me to give extracts from the letters from these faithful men stating why they could not help this special work.

I am in possession of the facts and know that this failure is not from indifference or opposition to the work. They are as true and as deeply anxious as are those who have promised aid. I am sorry I left the language open to a double construction, as I see it is, after my attention has been called to it. I am the last man in the land to "pop a whip" over pastors. I could have no respect for myself in doing it, or for pastors who would allow it. But please remember to send the one dollar, just one dollar.

C. DURHAM.

From Greensboro.

Dear Recorder:—Things are moving along slowly at Greensboro. The work has progressed along all lines, but as you know this is a very hard field to work and a hard force to train. The growth has been very encouraging indeed, but the decrease is sometimes very discouraging; for example, we have received eleven this year, and dismissed by letter ten. This is one thing that has made Greensboro a hard place for a pastor to develop. Then again we have been overshadowed and opposed by a strong Pedobaptist influence; however, we have been greatly blessed and there has been development in our interests here, and it is said that our average congregation is now larger than any other in the city. Notwithstanding the financial depression and discouragements which have touched very severely some of our people, yet we have tried to increase our contributions to general benevolence.

Things in the Beulah Association are seemingly at a stand. We have several pastorless churches and much missionary territory unoccupied. We greatly hope that Bro. Van Deventer will come to Reidsville. It is the leading church in our Association and might be a great power for good in our section.

I have just enjoyed a very gracious meeting with Dr. Broughton in Roanoke. The Calvary church of which he is pastor is young and vigorous. The people are wide awake and are now engaged in building a splendid house of worship. Broughton has great crowds, and the brethren say he is doing a great work in Roanoke. The progress of the church indicates that he is doing great good. Broughton is growing as a student of the Bible, and as a preacher of the gospel he is doing much to bring men to Christ and to build them up in Christ.

May God's blessings rest upon the RECORDER and editors.

CHAS. A. G. THOMAS.

Greensboro, March 7, 1894.

Ordination of Rev. Sam. J. McLeod.

On Friday, March 2nd, 1894, a presbytery convened at Pleasant Grove church, Robeson county, for the purpose of examining and ordaining Bro. Samuel J. McLeod to the work of the gospel ministry.

The presbytery organized by appointing Elder I. T. Hedgpeth, Moderator, and Elders Jas. A. Smith, W. A. Humphrey and Hugh Harrelson composed the presbytery. The writer was requested to act as Secretary. The sermon was preached by the Moderator from 2 Tim. 4: 1, 2. A searching examination was then gone through with by the presbytery. The ordination prayer was then led by Elder W. A. Humphrey; laying on of hands by the presbytery. The charge was then delivered by Elder James A. Smith. The Bible was presented by Elder W. A. Humphrey. Right hand of welcome by the presbytery. Hymn, "Go, preach my gospel." Benediction by the candidate.

D. W. MCGUGAN, Secretary.

Twenty-seven Cents Foreign Mission Money.

Dear Recorder:—You will find enclosed twenty-seven cents, which you will please turn over to the Convention Treasurer, to be applied to the Foreign Mission work. It is money that belonged to my two little boys who died—one January 5th, and the other January 12th, of diphtheria. They were my two youngest boys, and I had hoped that the Lord would have raised them up and called one or both of them into the ministry. But the Lord knows best; Jesus has called them both to his arms. And they are forever at rest.

Inasmuch as it was not the will of the Lord for either one of them to enter into his vineyard to labor, I trust that these pennies may be blessed of God to the salvation of some precious soul who may enlighten a host of the benighted ones.

God bless the RECORDER.

Yours in Christ, D. J. HARRIS.

Sparta, March 6, 1894.

A New Baptist Church at Creedmore.

Creedmore is a depot on the D. & N. R. R., about seventeen miles from Durham—nearly the same distance from Raleigh and Oxford and a little farther from Henderson. It is in the midst of one of the finest tobacco belts in the State, and indeed a fine soil for the production of grain and grasses, as has been fully demonstrated. The products of the country, for a considerable area, are brought to this place for shipment to other markets. Two stores of general merchandise, a saddlery and an undertaker's business, all are in fine prosperity with the outlook for business to grow at this place as a centre for this beautiful farming section. The absence of mud with a bright sandy loam will make the place attractive for settlers. The water is excellent.

The present population of Creedmore is something like one hundred and twenty-five inhabitants. Out of this number one dozen are members of Baptist churches. The writer by request met these faithful servants of the Lord last Thursday night (March 8) in the parlor of Dr. Sanderford, a thorough going Baptist and popular physician, to consider the advisability of trying to build a Baptist church there. There are three Baptist churches within three miles and a half of the place in different directions, but their influence seems not to have fully reached Creedmore. If it was formed by striking a radius of two miles from the place, we would encircle some six or seven hundred people, and out of the whole number, perhaps, we would not find more than sixty or seventy church members, all told, of every sect. Some others are the Lord's children but out of duty because out of the church. This destitution with the future outlook for the town and the Baptist cause at this place, lead all present to believe that a Baptist church should be built at once and the organization effected as soon as possible. Whereupon an aged veteran of the Master's cause, generously offered the building lot and the lumber for the body of the church. In addition to this about three hundred dollars in cash donations were secured at once. A building committee was appointed to begin at once and to push the work to completion. One of the prettiest lots in town was selected for the building and it was unanimously decided to build a house 28x54 feet with 18 feet pitch, which when finished will be an honor to the little town as well as the Baptists of the surrounding country. It will take about three hundred dollars more to complete the house, and the Lord's people who have a little money in the Lord's treasury for church building, cannot serve him better than to send a part of it to Mr. S. C. Lyon at Creedmore for this purpose. All contributions will be duly acknowledged. The people have done what they could. They need help. Who will come up to the help of the Lord in building this house? The church will never be an expense to the Board of Missions, but will be thoroughly missionary in spirit, and helpful from the beginning. We have never seen a plainer call for the establishment of a church. The people all are in hearty sympathy with the enterprise, even of other denominations, and have contributed liberally. "Honor the Lord with thy substance" by helping these brethren.

C. W. BLANCHARD.

East Durham, March 14, 1894

From Boonville.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—The work at this point seems to be in a progressive condition.

The "storm" of which I spoke in my last letter is still raging, but I am glad to tell you that the disturbance is not in the church, but outside—some who are not friends to the Baptist cause have been using every influence to split our church. But our church seems to be in good working condition, growing stronger and stronger, and more united.

I would like to have Bro. Caddell visit us, think he could do a good work.

Our church is not so strong in number as some village churches, about 175 members, but they believe in the pure gospel. They are strong in the faith and warm in Spirit.

Only a few weeks ago—Feb. 18—we were all made sad from the loss of one of our dear Sisters, Mrs. Lucy Eavens. She died the 17th ult., and was buried on Sunday the 18th. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor. Sister Eavens was a true soldier of the Cross. She bore her sufferings without murmuring and died the death of the righteous. A good mother, a faithful wife, and a true Christian.

To-day we were called upon to attend the burial of a dear sister, just in the bloom of youth, Miss Emily Castephen of Nebo, N. C. Her body was interred in the Boonville cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. J. Angell, in the presence of a large congregation. She was a consistent member of the Baptist church at Nebo. It is the Lord's work and we must say "thy will be done." "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

J. E. GRIFFIN.

Boonville, March 19, 1894.

A Seventieth Anniversary Surprise.

On this, the 13th day of March, 1894, a number of persons met at the home of Sister Amanda Meadows, it being her seventieth birth-day. It was quite a surprise. She had no idea of the meeting until the company began to enter her home. Among the company were sixty-seven children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, one brother whom Sister Meadows had not seen in about forty years, sixty-two neighbors and friends who were not invited.

A long table was soon spread in the yard and loaded with well-prepared food. The "hard times" was forgotten for the time.

All seemed to enjoy the occasion very much. Our aged sister will never forget this surprise on her seventieth anniversary. It will ever be an oasis in her memory.

P. CARVER.

"Thoughts"

BY M. P. M.

"CHRIST IN THE CONSTITUTION."

Senator Frye and Representative Morse have each introduced a joint resolution in their respective ends of the Capitol to recognize "Christ in the Constitution." My opinion is that the preachers who are working the matter are about out of a job. Christ said, "My kingdom is not of this world." The place he wants is in the hearts of men and not in the Constitution.

I have received a copy of the "Christian Amendment," begging for money to "create sentiment" in favor of the proposition. I am like the Methodist preacher, being examined for ordination, was by regeneration, "I am agin it." If men would honor him in their lives, and if preachers would honor him by preaching the "old gospel," that would be honor quite sufficient. It is an effort to unite Church and State, and opens the floodgates for the establishment of religion by law. Let every Baptist stand by his colors and say we will not interfere with the religion of the Jew or any one else, as for that matter. "Them's my sentiments."

"BRO. EATON'S CONTRACT."

The erudite and versatile editor of the Western Recorder has "stirred up a hornet's nest" by his inquiry into the reasons for the existence of two Baptist papers down in Texas where the editors "love (?) each other audibly," and his further promise to invade even the Old North State with his investigation. The Doctor's real purpose is not far to seek; he has a superfluity of papers in his own State, and would no doubt be glad to have some inquiry made as to the wherefore of their existence. Let him solve the question as it relates to his own bailiwick, and then we will hear him for others. There can be but one question in this whole matter, "Is there a field?" Baptist journalism is a great power and is needed more and more, and no one man can occupy all the field, or pre-empt it. As to the wisdom of starting a paper in a territory already occupied, at least in part, with commendable effort to do more, there is serious question; but as to the right in the matter, there is no question. When started, the question to be decided is "how best to use it" with least possibility for friction.

"TAKING MY BEARINGS."

It is important in changing locations to see that the "sun gets up in the right place." It is often quite arbitrary about the matter, and so it takes some time to get things straight. I am in Gastonia, and I am trying to take "my bearings" and determine "where I am at," although I am not unacquainted with the town and its people. The first thing a Baptist does when he gets to a place is to look up the Baptist church and find out about it. I am aware that there are a great number of people who are registered as Baptists who always wait for some one else to do the "looking up," but they are only second or third class Baptists, and I am not running on that line. When I looked into things, I found a live Baptist church with a live pastor, though with the antiquated and uncommon name of "Jones." You have heard that name before, perhaps.

And then I found a live prayer-meeting and a live Sunday school, and in fact things are alive all around. Only one trouble on the surface—Bro. L. L. Jenkins who has been the "wheel-hoss" here for some years has sold out his banking business in part and will go to Wilmington to start a bank. Jenkins is a team and the church will give him up reluctantly. The pastor reports forty Baptists in town without letters, and still they come, and yet additions in this way are very frequent and the pastor gives them "no rest day nor night," and they will get letters in a time as all good Baptists do.

"BRO. MACDUFFIE'S DIFFICULTY."

I was interested in the article of Bro. McDuffie on young people's societies in a recent number of the RECORDER. His testimony is valuable, because he went from a country where there were no societies, and so has been convinced by observation as was this writer. But I did not start out to endorse his statements so much as to notice the difficulty he mentions in connection with young people's societies in the South. I do not see the difficulty as he does, as I think "bearing testimony" a very small portion of the work to be done by a Y. P. S. From many other things can they gain strength, interest and efficiency besides those he mentions as furnishing the difficulty. It is true that a training in public speaking is to be desired for our boys and young men, but the main features of such a society, as seems to me, is thorough indoctrination in Baptist principles and their enlistment in active Christian service, and there are many ways in which such training can come, some of which Bro. McDuffie mentions. Concert of action in Bible and other study as well as organized effort in Christian work are points not to be overlooked. I am glad our brother has written. I want the question studied from every standpoint. Of course, we cannot adopt the methods used in the North to which he makes reference, but we can adopt our own methods.

Do You Have Asthma?

(Special to Ministers of the Gospel.)

If you do, you will be glad to hear that the Kola plant, found on the Congo river, West Africa, is reported a positive cure for the disease. The Kola Importing Co., Vine and Baker Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio, have such faith in this new discovery, that they are sending out free by mail large trial cases of Kola Compound to all sufferers from asthma, who send their name and address on a postal card. Write to them.

Ministers of the gospel are invited to apply for special free treatment. Send card, letter-head or cutting from religious paper, showing your name as in the ministry.

Condition of the University.

EXTRACTS FROM PRESIDENT WINSTON'S REPORT TO THE TRUSTEES.

NUMBER OF STUDENTS.

The total number of students enrolled during the year is 385. The number last year was 316, the year before 248, and three years ago 198. In three years there has been a gain of 187 students.

The area of patronage includes fifteen States and one foreign country, as follows: Arkansas, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Florida, Kentucky, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and Japan. The number of students from North Carolina is 352, being more by fifty-nine than the largest enrollment in the history of the University. There is reason to hope for continued increase in the number of students as well as the area of patronage. The State of North Carolina should supply at least five hundred students, being an average of only five from each county: and our sister States could easily furnish five hundred more.

MORALITY.

My acquaintance with the University as student and teacher extends through twenty-eight years, and I cheerfully testify that I have never known less vice, immorality, idleness and disorder than during the present year. This remarkable and most wholesome condition has been brought about through the voluntary and harmonious operation of faculty and students, with entire absence of petty restraint and annoying surveillance on the part of the faculty, and of hypocritical pretense or petty annoyance on the part of the students.

The University is not a factory where character, culture and physical power are made to order and worn like outer garments. Rather is it a vital organism where men grow daily into large stature by self-effort, and absorb into their inner selves the strong nourishment that feeds only those who earn it.

HEALTH AND SANITATION.

The health record of the year is very remarkable—only one case of serious illness has arisen. Not a death has occurred, nor has any contagious disease prevailed. The epidemic, la grippe, has scarcely touched the University; although it has prevailed to some extent in the village. The vigorous out door athletic life of the students, their regular habits, the absence of vice and extravagant living, together with the perfect sanitary arrangements recently made, have doubtless caused us to be blessed with this exceptionally fine record.

SCHOLARSHIP—ADVANCED WORK.

It is gratifying to note a large increase in the number of students pursuing advanced courses of study in the various departments. These courses afford facilities for original investigation and require a degree of culture and proficiency beyond that essential to the Bachelors' degrees. During the present year 101 students have pursued twenty one advanced courses in the following departments: Modern Languages, English, Latin, Greek, Moral Philosophy, Sanskrit, Chemistry, History, Geology, Biology, Electrical Engineering, Surveying and Law.

It should be the policy of the University, as rapidly as possible, to increase and strengthen its advanced work in all departments. But the proper accomplishment of this end will require a very material enlargement of income. The teaching force of the institution is already taxed to its utmost limit.

A SUMMER SCHOOL AND SUMMER COURSES OF UNIVERSITY INSTRUCTION.

One of the duties which the University owes the State is to aid in developing its general system of education. This duty can be performed most efficiently by educating competent teachers, who by their work and influence will gradually elevate the entire school system. To this end was established in the University last June by your honorable body a department of the History and Philosophy of Education, presided over by Prof. Edwin A. Alderman, recently of the State Normal and Industrial School for Women. Twenty students are now in attendance in this department, of whom five have already taught school, twelve contemplate teaching next year and perhaps longer, while eight have selected teaching as a permanent profession. The work of Prof. Alderman in this department, as well as in the department of English and History, has added greatly to the power and usefulness of the University. After consultation with Prof. Alderman and other members of the faculty as well as with various educators throughout the State, it seems advisable to establish a Summer Normal School at the University, lasting through the month of July and furnishing free tuition. An opportunity for professional culture and inspiration will thus be afforded many teachers who are unable to leave their schools in order to attend the regular sessions of the University. Several members of our faculty have consented to teach in such a school; and besides the normal instruction referred to, we have arranged a series of University Summer Courses, in English, Modern Languages, History, Civics, Mathematics, Physical Geography, Geology, Biology, Latin, Greek, and Political Economy. It will be necessary to employ some of the teachers essential to this instruction, and I respectfully ask that $300 be appropriated to meet the general expenses of the Summer Normal School and the University Summer Courses; also that this instruction be open to women as well as to men, and with the additional understanding that no part of this sum shall be paid our own Professors.

THE LIBRARY—A GIFT OF TWENTY THOUSAND VOLUMES—A PERMANENT ENDOWMENT FUND.

It gives me pleasure to announce that the Dialectic and Philanthropic Societies have donated to the University their joint libraries of about twenty thousand volumes, and have suggested a plan for the permanent endowment of the library. This donation is one of the largest and most valuable ever received by the institution. It is made upon certain conditions embodied in a communication from the Societies and herewith transmitted. I sincerely hope that the donation will be accepted, and that some suitable testimonial may be given the Societies in grateful appreciation of their generosity.

The Wood Medical Library, which was donated last year by Mrs. Thos. F. Wood, as a memorial to her husband, and which contains twelve hundred volumes and about thirteen hundred pamphlets, has been catalogued and placed upon the shelves.

HOW THE LIBRARY IS USED—NEED OF A LIBRARIAN.

It may be interesting to quote from the Librarian's report some statistics illustrating the manner in which books were used by the students during the months of September, October, November and December, 1893. During these four months, 2,200 volumes were taken from the library by students and read in their rooms. The classification, according to topics of the books thus used, is as follows: Biography, 129 volumes; education, 67 volumes; fiction, 882; historical fiction, 100; history, 160; literature, 183; mythology and art, 25; mathematics, 4; miscellaneous, 29; bound periodicals, 189; mental and moral philosophy, 73; poetry and drama, 108; science, 43; travel, 24; medicine, 25; French and German, 3; jurisprudence, 14; books of reference, 7; religion, 66; Greek history and poetry, 6; Latin history and literature, 20; political and social science, 38.

DONATION OF CHINESE AND JAPANESE WARE BY MRS. WILLIE P. MANGUM.

Mrs. Willie P. Mangum of Washington, D. C., has donated to the University a valuable collection of Chinese and Japanese ware, collected by herself and husband during twenty years' residence in those countries. On a recent visit to Washington, I had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Mangum and seeing a portion of this collection.

THE UNIVERSITY AND THE COLLEGES.

I beg to say in conclusion that I have observed with much sorrow efforts making to arouse denominational opposition against the University. The University is conducted neither against the interest nor for the interest of any particular denomination. It is a State institution, whose benefits and privileges are freely offered to the youth of all denominations. Were it otherwise, it would not deserve to exist.

Its influence and its positive teaching are distinctly religious, but it can no more be denominational than the legislative, executive or judicial departments of the State. The University desires the prosperity of every college and school in North Carolina. It recognizes the fact that the State has urgent need for them all; and that their halls would be filled to overflowing if they could attract even a fraction of the young men in North Carolina who sadly need college culture and training. It is the earnest desire of the University to work harmoniously and sympathetically with all the colleges, for it recognizes them as self-sacrificing, earnest and most valuable co-laborers in the field of higher education. There is abundant work for all. Let the State properly endow the University, and the denominations will quickly endow the colleges. What we need is not opposition and obstruction, but construction and co-operation.

FOR THE RECORDER.

Hast Thou a Talent?

BY A. E. CROOM.

Hast thou a talent, improve it,
Guard it with precious care;
Never hide that precious gift,
Or droop in dark despair.
But up, arouse, prove to the world
That by rich talent given,
Thou may'st not here reap thy reward,
But it will bloom in heaven.

Hast thou a failing, despise it,
Pluck from thy heart the weed,
That chokes the good which there would flow,
A bloom of life indeed.
Cast all aside that would degrade,
Ne'er let it grow with thee,
But be thou circumspect in life,
As all men ought to be.

Hast thou a virtue? foster it,
With others let it grow,
And walk the path of honesty,
As all men ought to do.
It may be hard and painful, too,
But do not look behind;
Live thou on earth a goodly life,
And die in peace of mind.

Morganton, N. C.

For Wakefulness,
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. A. D. McDonald, Wilmington, N. C., says: "I find eight drops taken in water, on going to bed, will rest the brain and cause a quiet sleep."

The Lord never depends much on the church-member who can, but will not, pay his honest debts.—Ram's Horn.

O. L. Rice, Mendota, Ill., writes: "Have used your Japanese Pile Cure and found it a sure and permanent cure." Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Three things to hate—cruelty, arrogance, ingratitude.

Chronic coughers are stupid bores and should be forced to use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the only infallible remedy.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Bartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

MELLIN'S FOOD FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS.

TRADE [illegible] MARK.

THE ONLY PERFECT Substitute for Mother's Milk.

Denver, Colo.

Gentlemen:—I can attest the good qualities of Mellin's Food, for I have as healthy and strong a baby as one could wish. She has always eaten Mellin's Food.

Yours truly. MRS. H. R. CLISE.

San Jose, Cal.

Sirs:—I am using Mellin's Food, and it agrees with my baby. It is the most satisfactory I have tried, and I am well pleased with it. MRS. FRANK WARDHASS.

SEND for our book, "The Care and Feeding of Infants," mailed Free to any address.

Doliber-Goodale Co., Boston, Mass.

Musicians Read!

SUNLIGHT and SHADOW. By Julian Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Each is a gem. Price, $1 Postpaid.

LESSONS IN AUDITION. By Helene Sparthahn. A book on a new plan, to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical language. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.

ST. CAECILIAN COLLECTION. By C. F. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price, 40 Cents Postpaid.

ANTHEM CROWN. The latest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. By H. P. Danks. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.

Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be reasonably saleable.

THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, 1-4 New York, 1-4 Chicago.

Pomona Hill Nurseries.

OVER A MILLION
FRUIT TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
SHADE TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
ROSES, SHRUBS, &C.

Send for catalogue. Address

J. VAN LINDLEY,

POMONA, N. C.

Saved Her Life.

Mrs. C. J. WOOLDRIDGE, of Wortham, Texas, saved the life of her child by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"One of my children had Croup. The case was attended by our physician, and was supposed to be well under control. One night I was startled by the child's hard breathing, and on going to it found it strangling. It had nearly ceased to breathe. Realizing that the child's alarming condition had become possible in spite of the medicines given, I reasoned that such remedies would be of no avail. Having part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses, at short intervals, and anxiously waited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and, in a short time, she was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day, and I do not hesitate to say that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved her life."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Prompt to act, sure to cure

FREE by return mail, full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW & IMPROVED TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These only are the genuine MOODY TAILOR SYSTEMS. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make any garment, in any style, to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address, MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 37 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	3 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 20 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 18 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma. ...		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 56 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m. Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.50 a m, Greenville 8.32 a m; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.50 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.16 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m. Spring Hope 5.20 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m; arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4.10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.20 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Sup't.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

A Few Thoughts.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I have been a reader of the RECORDER for many years. Sometimes I see sentiments expressed in it that I do not endorse, editorial and otherwise. It would be wonderful if this were not so. I do not deem it my duty to keep all the brethren straight. I could not do it; neither can you. Sometimes I see articles from brethren holding official positions under the Convention—articles that I think are damaging to the cause specially represented by said brethren. I can only regret that a good cause should be wounded in the house of its friends. There is sometimes a very strong impulse to debate, but I keep it under.

The rule is, the RECORDER brings me lots of good things every week, and there is in this, as in other matters in life, much more to be thankful for than to whine about. There are four good departments in the paper: The brief, pointed, and generally sensible editorial articles on the first page; the editorial and personal item columns on second and third pages; some unusually good articles in the body of the paper, (Prof. Potat's are just excellent); and lastly, the choice selections on the last page. Well, in regard to the RECORDER, I am much like a friend of mine is by cabbage. He says he thinks cabbage are excellent boiled for dinner, but not near so good then as taken cold for supper. Yet he thinks that about the best way is to warm them over for breakfast.

Your reflections (first page) in the RECORDER of March 7th on the liquor traffic suggest some thoughts to me.

I am in principle and practice a prohibitionist. Yet I would not advise nor vote for prohibition in a State or other corporation unless there was a public sentiment back of it; for, as a rule, in a free government like ours, any law without this backing is a dead letter—is useless. But whenever a fair majority shall have been educated up to this point, touching this destructive traffic, I am for it and its rigid enforcement. Virtue and intelligence in the people are essential to self-government in the State as in the person.

It has for many years been a kind of wonder to me how our people have allowed this monster traffic to have a name and existence in our land, or in any other Christian land, as for that. The liquor traffic is a menace and an enemy to all good, and the aider and abettor of all evil. If we are not ready for complete prohibition, then I am for the next best thing to it that we can get.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA DISPENSARY LAW.

It was my pleasure to spend the last year or two in South Carolina, and I had fair opportunity to judge of the dispensary law. I did not join the Tillmanites nor the anti-Tillmanites. I am not a partisan; but in my humble opinion the dispensary law is by far the best regulation of the traffic I have ever known. I go farther, and assert that never within my observation, has any law of so much merit met with such bitter opposition from otherwise so good people. The truth is, as I see it, the law has had no fair showing, not because it is a bad law, but because B. R. Tillman championed it. And for once some of the best people in the State are in league with the ardent dram-drinkers, the bar-rooms, the wholesalers, and the liquor associations and breweries all over the country! In spite of all this, many, very many, who at first opposed the law, and on principle, having seen much of its merits under difficulties, now endorse it.

Such a law enacted by North Carolina would, in my opinion, be a blessing, for it would have a much fairer showing. Here campaign fevers intermit. There for the last four years they have not even remitted perceptibly. An objection might be raised in this State as there, that it dishonors and humiliates the State to go into the liquor business. The facts are, however, that this State is already a partner in the traffic and is already disgraced. No open bars at night; no selling at all to men already partially drunk; no selling to minors, (there is no earthly inducement); no screens to hide the deviltry behind; no string bands nor gaming tables to allure the young, are some of the merits of such a law.

For consistency's sake, if no other, let the State cease to be a partner in this criminal business—a State whose governor, once a year, at least, calls on the people to cease their bustling business and spend that one day in thanksgiving to Almighty God for his mercies. It seems to me we need no farther proof of God's mercifulness than we have in his forbearance with such hypocrisy. The traffic in intoxicants is indeed, as you say, a great moral and social curse. With this view I have penned these thoughts. May God speed the day when this right arm of the devil shall be completely broken.

J. M. WHITE.

Call for the Horse Brand of Johnson's Magnetic Oil. It has no equal for the diseases of horses and cattle. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Have You Read It?

It is told of Franklin that at one time in Paris he was greatly ridiculed for his love of the Bible, and that he made up his mind to find out how many of the scoffers had read it. He informed one of the learned societies, of which he was a member, that he had come across a story in pastoral life in ancient times that appeared to him very beautiful, but he would like the judgment of the society upon it. On the evening appointed Franklin had a reader of finely modulated voice read to them the book of Ruth. They were in ecstacies over it, and one after another rose to express gratification and admiration, and the desire that the manuscript should be printed. "It is printed," said Franklin, "and is part of the Bible."—Ram's Horn.

The church lives, but man soon dies.

Literary.

The Beautiful Flower Garden. By the well-know Boston artist, F. Schuyler Mathews. W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia. 195 pages. 50 cts., postpaid.

The text of this unique book is illuminated with 197 sketches from nature and six half-tone plates, showing complete artistic designs in gardening. Four plans are given,—two for laying out a narrow city lot and two for the country, where more space is available. The planter has the choice of four designs for beds. A striking design is what the author calls a color weel, made up of sixteen colors. The directions for culture are plain, simple, and accurate, the work of a professional grower, Mr. A. H. Fewkes, who has worked in collaboration with the auther.

To introduce this book, the price per copy for the first edition has been put at 50 cts., postpaid, which is actually less than cost of production.

Messrs. Burpee have also issued an attractive monograph, "All About Sweet Peas," by Rev. W. T. Hutchins, a recognized authority on the subject; price, postpaid, 20 cts.

The New Directory for Baptist Churches. By Edward T. Hiscox, D. D. 16mo, 604 pp. Price, $1.50. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

There has for a number of years been no dearth of manuals giving full information in regard to the polity and distinctive features of the Baptist denomination. Among the authors of these, Dr. E. T. Hiscox has easily stood first, as his "Short Method," "Star Book," and pre-eminently, his "Church Directory," will bear witness—the last named having obtained a circulation of sixty thousand, and being still in demand.

It seemed desirable, however, that a new work should be prepared containing the salient features of all these, and yet more comprehensive that either of them, so that within the covers of one book any one desiring it can have all needed information concerning the doctrines and methods of our denomination. We have this in "The New Church Directory for Baptist Churches," prepared by Dr. Hiscox. It is exhaustive in its method, complete in its information, clear in its statements, conservative and careful in its positions, and contains all that is needed for correct knowledge and guidance in reference to our faith and practice.

All who desire such a compendium cannot mistake in securing this. Indeed, so complete is it in its discussions, and so intelligent in its treatment, that it is likely to be a standard authority for many years. It should find a place in the libraries of all our ministers, and of our intelligent members.

The Ancient British and Irish Churches. Including the Life and Labors of St. Patrick. By William Cathcart, D. D. 12mo, 847 pp. Price, $1.50. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

History is being rewritten. Many questions supposed to be settled are being re-discussed, and the verdict hitherto pronounced is undergoing reversal. So misconceptions regarding our Puritan ancestors are in process of correction, and the pre-founders of our Baptist churches, the Anabaptists, are emerging from the unjust aspersions cast upon them by their unchristian enemies, and revealing themselves to us as true men they knew themselves to be.

It was time that some one should do the same work for our Christian ancestors of the British Islands. Roman Catholic historians have dealt with their records as the Roman Catholic church did with themselves. They have suppressed what they could not pervert or appropriate. And so it has come to pass that most supposed the Christians of Roman and Saxon Britain to have been Romanists, and the ancient foundations of Bangor, and Whitby, and Iona, and Lindisfarne, to have owed their origin to the pope.

Dr. Cathcart shows the baselessness of this claim. No one of them was Romanist, and the papal emissaries won by chicanery what better Christians than they established by devotion. There were Bible schools and missionary centres, and the men who controlled them, Aidan, and Columba, and St. Patrick, as well as the men and women who went out from them, were Bible Christians, believing in grace and regeneration, and the New Testament ordinances as therein prescribed. And Patrick himself was the noblest of them all. Cleared from the mists that superstition has cast about him, neither a fanatic nor a fraud, he is seen to be a humble follower of Jesus, substantially a Baptist, seeking the salvation of those who had enslaved him, and winning thousands of the Irish, not to Rome, but to Christ.

It is worth much to have this work done. Dr. Cathcart has devoted years of his life to the task. He has gone to the original sources of information, and host of authorities substantiate the statements made. Copious indexes have been prepared, putting the material of the volume at complete control. The work is a credit to the author and publishers, and will remain a standard on the theme of which it treats.

"Sufficient Unto the Day."

"Do you gain anything by these great day's works?" a middle-aged woman asked her neighbor, a young woman who had done her family washing, and at three o'clock in the afternoon was found at the ironing-board.

Frankly the young housekeeper answered: "No; and I was wondering, as you rang my bell, why it is that I am usually left by the procession. I believe that by overdoing one day, I am unfitted for the days which follow."

"Then take your rest, my dear; you lose nothing, but gain much by an afternoon of cessation from housework. Sewing may prove a partial rest, in that it affords a contrast, but after such a laborious task as family washing, be sure that you lie down for a little, no matter if you are not sleepy. I have practised the afternoon rest for many a year, and more than half hoped, as I rang your bell, that you were taking a good nap, and would not hear me."

As the comfortable, healthy and handsome woman took leave of her young admirer, the former whispered, "Reserve a part of your best self for other years; sufficient unto the day is the work thereof." And the ironing waited for ironing day.—Housekeeping.

It is not by regretting what is irreparable that true work is to be done, but by making the best of what we are. It is not by complaining that we have not the right tools, but by using well the tools we have. . . . Life, like war, is a series of mistakes, and he is not the best Christian nor the best general who makes the fewest false steps. He is the best who wins the most splendid victories by the retrieval of mistakes. Forget mistakes; organize victory out of mistakes.—F. W. Robertson.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

The current number of the Century is of unusual excellence. "Tuileries under the Second Empire," accompanied with a striking portrait of Empress Eugenie, a descriptive article, "The Madison Square Garden," "The City Tramp," "The Suppression of Bribery in England," with other instructive articles, and several attractive stories, among them an instalment of Mark Twain's "Pudd'nhead Wilson," all handsomely illustrated make the magazine all that could be desired.

TRULY ASTONISHING.—Miss Annette N. Moen, Fountain, Minn., says: "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has had a wonderful effect in curing my brother's children of a severe and dangerous cold. It was truly astonishing how speedily they found relief after taking this preparation."

A man may have large worldly success, and none of the success which Christ requires. No true judgment can be formed by outward appearances; for these often, like the shell of a nut, may seem indicative of a sound condition, but on cracking it, no kernel is found within.—Christian Inquirer.

Whatever may be the cause of blanching, the hair may be restored to its original color by the use of that potent remedy, Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

A revival that does not end in more home Bibles daily opened and read, is open to suspicion.—Selected.

Japanese Pile Cure is the only one that can be guaranteed, as it is the only cure. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh.

Look upon the bright side of your condition; then your discontents will disperse. Pore not upon your losses, but recount your mercies.—Watson.

All our city fathers say: Use Salvation Oil, the greatest cure on earth for pain, for rheumatism and neuralgia. 25 cents.

To see the hand of God in all things and events, and calmly to leave the results with him, this is the glory of Christianity.—S. H. Calhoun.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Luxuriant Hair

WITH a clean, wholesome scalp, free from irritating and scaly eruptions, is produced by the CUTICURA SOAP, the most effective skin-purifying and beautifying soap in the world, as well as purest and sweetest for toilet and nursery. It clears the scalp and hair of crusts, scales, and dandruff, destroys microscopic insects which feed on the hair, soothes irritated and itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, and nourishes the roots.

Sold everywhere. Price, 25c. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston. "All about the Skin and Hair," free.

VITAL TO MANHOOD.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain, causing Insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses, Involuntary Losses, Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of brain, Self-abuse, over-indulgence. A month's treatment, $1, 6 for $5, by mail. With each order for 6 boxes, with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantee issued by agent. WEST'S LIVER PILLS cures Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Constipation.

GUARANTEES issued only by
JOHN Y. MACRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	8 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 36 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	8 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	1 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 08 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 25 a m	1 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:20 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:20 p m and 8:35 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 39 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL. HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex. Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville June	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Marion		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 55 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 30 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 49 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 13 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Marion		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 55 p m
Ar Ramseur			4 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Marion with S. A. D., at Bennettsville with C. C. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. H. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.				No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar	11 45 a m
3 20 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 25 a m
3 53 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 02 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 29 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	9 25 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv	6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	6 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	6 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	5 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	4 22 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	3 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	3 20 a m
11 30 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv	3 15 a m
11 53 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	2 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv	1 55 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv	12 19 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv	11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv	10 26 p m
4 31 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv	10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv	9 00 p m
6 18 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv	8 06 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv	7 28 p m
8 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'n	Lv	5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Centr'l	Lv	4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.	No. 38.
2 00 p m	Lv New York Ar	1 20 p m
4 30 p m	Lv Philadelphia Ar	10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv †Baltimore (Bay Line) Ar	7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv Old Point Ar	7 00 p m
8 00 a m	Ar †Portsmouth Lv	6 00 p m
9 25 a m	Lv Portsmouth Ar	5 45 p m
12 03 p m	Ar Weldon Lv	3 00 p m
12 15 p m	Lv Weldon Ar	3 00 p m
12 39 p m	Lv D Henderson Lv D	1 09 p m
4 10 p m	Ar Raleigh Lv	11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv Raleigh Ar	11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv Sanford Lv	9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar Hamlet Ar	7 39 a m
7 20 p m†	Ar Fayetteville Lv	5 47 a m
11 00 p m†	Ar Wilmington Lv	5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar Charlotte Lv	10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 a m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charlotte, N. C. Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

†Daily. ‡Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information, tickets, or connections, apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cooke, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
C. T. MYERS, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. R. WINDER, Gen. Supt.

Work at Chinese New Year.

A recent RECORDER contained a very excellent article on Chinese New Year, written for Nashville Christian Advocate by a Chinese preacher. If readers remember that article, I may make my explanation of customs connected with that festival very brief. The Chinese months are lunar, always beginning with the new moon. The New Year is at the new moon of January, if it is late in the month, or at the new moon of February, if it is early. This year it was February 6th. At that time every Chinaman expects a holiday and new clothes. They put on their best, and walk around, some for a day or two, some for a week, and see the sights. Usually most of our work ceases during that time. The Christians observe a week of prayer, meeting at their various churches every day. No boats run, and so country work is suspended. Dr. Graves and Bro. Simmons usually go to the chapel and preach, finding that the people, being at leisure, are the more ready to come in and listen. This year it was too far for me to go with them every day, as I live nearly two miles farther from the chapel than they do. My teacher must have holiday, so my studies were in part suspended. But I had heard that this was a good time to sell books, and I concluded to try. Just back of my house is a canal, and on the other side a street of the Chinese city. This is usually thronged with people intent on business. The morning after New Year, there were similar throngs, but intent on seeing the sights and enjoying a holiday. I seized an armful of books and crossed the bridge into this throng. As soon as I began offering my books, they began buying, and before I had gone one hundred yards I had sold out. I had fifty or more booklets, telling how to worship God, which are sold at one cash (one tenth of a cent) a piece. When I offered these for sale, they were taken as fast as I could take the cash and hand out the books. I returned and got another armful and soon sold out. Later I made a third expedition with like result, and returned too tired to attempt anything more. The next day I found an old schoolsatchel, packed it full of books and strapped it on my shoulder, filled my pockets, and took what I could on my arm, and in a little while I sold them all. At first I wore a black derby hat, but the mischievous boys amused themselves with knocking it off, so I put on a cap very similar to those worn by the Chinese, and the boys lost part of their fun. Thus I continued for four days, when I found that the people were returning to business and the opportunities for selling were not so good.

Some of these books were New Testaments and smaller portions of Scripture. These are furnished by the American Bible Society at a mere nominal price. I sold New Testaments at two cents, half the New Testament at a cent and a half, Psalms at one cent, Gospels and smaller books at half a cent. I also sold some tracts at from one to four cash, which is nearly the cost. On country trips I have worked hard at market towns, selling as long as my strength would allow and thinking I had good success, if I sold enough to amount to 300 cash. The colporters of the American Bible Society, whose movements I have been directing for two years, rarely sell more than one thousand cash worth in a month. One day I sold 700 cash worth, and in four days 2,100 cash worth. To-day I went to one of the chapels to preach, and took fifty booklets along to sell on the way. After selling about half of them, I saw it was nearly time for preaching and I put the rest in my pocket. Returning I sold the rest while going a few steps. If I had had books and had had the time, while going this distance, say three-forths of a mile through retired streets, I could have sold 150 or 200.

When missionaries first came to China, the Chinese feared and suspected them so much that they would scarcely receive a Christian book when it was given to them. But by and by they lost their fear of foreigners, and the Chinese nature came out to take everything given to them and ask for more. So every man would take a book when it was offered, and often tear it up without reading it. But it is found now that if a man buys a book he will usually read it. Well dressed men hold out their hands for books and ask us to give them, but they do not care enough to pay one cash for one. About twenty years ago Bro. Simmons introduced the custom of selling books, and now no one gives them away except under peculiar circumstances. At first much selling was done in Canton city, but I suppose it was felt that all had had the offer of books, and so little had been done in this direction for some years. When we go into villages we always take books to sell, but here rarely. But now a new generation has grown up, and I find they are more ready to buy than ever in the villages.

To day when I returned and reported the result of my work, my wife said there was room for the exercise of much faith in connection with these books sold. This is true of all Christian work everywhere. Men may plant and water, but God only gives the increase. But it is peculiarly so here in Cairo. I tried to preach to twenty or thirty people to-day. I may never see a single one of them again. I tried to tell them of the way of salvation through the merits of Christ, and some of them listened and seemed to understand. God knows how much any one understood and believed. Still more of these books. In no case did I see a man's face long enough to recognize him again. Once a woman stood behind a screen and sent a little girl to the door to buy two books from me, one containing the Gospels and Acts. All these books, I send on their way, praying God to use the truth therein to the accomplishment of his purposes in the salvation of souls. Each day as I went out, I asked him to give me such success in selling as was consistent with his will. If a man repulsed me, or looked angry when I offered him a book, I went on to the next with only a feeling of sorrow that he refused to read the good news of salvation. For many years this work of distributing Scriptures and other Christian books has gone on. Thousands have bought them and read a little about the way of salvation. I cannot but hope that when the secrets of all hearts are made known, that many will be found who have believed in Jesus to the saving of the soul.

I met an old man at Shin Hing last winter, whose history encourages such a hope. When he was a boy some one gave him a Christian book, a paraphrase of part of the New Testament. The title page is gone, and none of the Chinese scholars here or in Hongkong have ever seen a book like it. It may be a translation made by some of the missionaries in India, for the Chinese whom they met. Carey and his associates made a Chinese version, but this was not it, as will appear in a moment. This man read the book, believed it, and became a Christian at heart. But the book said little about baptism or the duty of a public profession, and he continued a Christian in secret from his youth till he was past fifty. A few years ago he was induced to attend a class held by Bro. Simmons at Shin Hing. They studied one of the Gospels, and when the subject of baptism was read, its importance was explained. This man saw his duty and was baptized, and is now a quiet but faithful member of the church. I can but hope that there are many similar cases. I hope to see a great wave of revival influences sweep over China, which shall bring to light many secret believers, and bring many others to the truth as it is in Jesus.

G. W. GREENE.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will cure you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

Norfolk Notes.

THE MOODY MEETINGS.

Dear Recorder:—Permit a short news letter. The big Moody and Sankey meetings opened in this city last night in the great Armory Hall with a crowd of about 3,000. There are 500 singers in the choir, and the music is simply grand. Mr. Sankey, seated to the right of Moody before his little Estey organ, delights the vast audience from time to time with one of his sweet solos.

After several songs rendered by the choir, interspersed with prayer, Mr. Moody, fat and chunky, slowly rises and delivers a brief and practical talk on "The Bible," about the same with which he opened his meeting years ago. I learn that Mr. Moody does not feel the need of preaching other than the old sermons so long as God continues to bless them so abundantly. Are not ministers often too sensitive as to the repetition of Bible truth? An eminent professor of Rochester Seminary once remarked to his homiletic class: "Young brethren, don't hesitate to repeat. Preachers too often neglect the duty of repetition in their pulpits." Depth of impression is often better than variety of impression.

All the preachers and churches are united in the work, and let every reader of these lines offer at least one earnest prayer for the "Moody meetings."

Our Baptist cause in these sea side cities was never more prosperous. All the churches are led by faithful, aggressive pastors, and all the churches are full of people and full of work.

A new Baptist weekly, viz, The Atlantic Baptist, begins its career here the first of April. Drs Owen and Speight are at the helm of this new enterprise, and this means pluck, push, popular. With two such men at the front—one, engineer, the other, fireman, and plenty of coal—this new Baptist engine must have a successful run. It shall have our best wishes and co-operation.

Now a word personal. I have decided to make Norfolk my fixed home and to devote my time in future to revival and evangelistic work among the churches, as God may open the way. For years my heart has been drawn in this direction. It is a work I very much love, and my success in meetings held with fellow-pastors and on my own fields in the past has deepened the conviction that this should be my special work. This decision has not been taken without much prayer and the advice of noble brethren who feel I have special gifts for the work.

I already have engagements for part of the summer in Virginia, and would be glad to correspond with any of my North Carolina brethren who may desire aid in meetings.

C. N. DONALDSON.

47 Windsor Avenue,
Norfolk, Va., March 15, 1894.

Clayton.

When a short time since, Bro. W. C. Newton of Wake Forest came and preached for us, we thought that at last we had found some one to fill the place of our well-beloved pastor, Rev. R. R. Day, who died last summer, and for whom we have never ceased to grieve. We liked Bro. Newton from the first, and when the church called him, he was given a large and unanimous vote. Last Sunday, when he told us he could not accept the call, sorrow filled our hearts. But we were somewhat consoled when he was at last persuaded to come every month and preach for us until we could get a pastor. We feel that great good can be accomplished by having him with us. He possesses the rare gift of being a fine reader. Indeed it is worth a good deal to hear him read a chapter from God's Word, and not one idle, careless listener can sit in his presence. He is not a loud talker, but he has a clear, ringing voice which penetrates to the utmost corner of the house. Some of our older members are very deaf, but they all say they can hear every word Bro. Newton speaks. Last Sunday he talked to us about "Life," mortal and immortal, and it seem to us that while he spoke in words of burning, thrilling earnestness and power, we could feel the refreshing influence of the eternal fountain, welling up within our inmost souls. His walk and conversation prove a life and heart consecrated to the Master's service. He already has charge of several churches, and is also pursuing his studies at Wake Forest, and he did not wish to take on too much work. He is young, but was reared in a minister's home, and understands thoroughly every duty and obligation of a pastor. We trust that God will provide for him to be with us for many months to come, and we look upon him as our pastor, hoping that some time he may indeed be such. And wherever he goes, we ask for him heaven's richest blessings, and prophesy for him a place at the top.

H. H.

This State gets $1,024 from Virginia as the sum due as the latter State's half of the expenses of re establishing the boundary line between the two States, and interest for six years.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, that the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Forest Home ch, Ashe and Alleghany, $10.00; W C Fields, Sparta, N C, 10.00; N H Jones, ditto, 5.00; Jas Ellis, Berlin, 10.00; J Kivett, Mt Pleasant ch, 25c; J A Kivett, ditto, 25c; Jas B Williams, ditto, 25c; Geo R Williams, 25c; C L Kivett, 5c; Suffie and Vondela Kivett, 10c; Cashie Baptist ch, 15.48; H A Tilley, 89c; W M S, Goldsboro ch, 10.00; Goldsboro ch, 10.00; Salem ch, Pasquotank County, 4 50; Sunbeams, Apex ch, 5.12; W M S, Carthage ch, Sandy Creek, 5.00; Antioch ch, 8.00; Boonville ch, 3.25; Shelby ch, King's Mountain, 20.00; Pilot Mountain Asso, 35.00; Pine Forest ch, West Chowan, 5.00; Pine Forest W M S, ditto, 5.00; Enon ch, Catawba River, 1.10; Fishing Creek ch, Nash County, 1.64; East Branch ch, Yadkin, 2.50; Mrs J. S Earney, Lowell, 1 00; Mt Pleasant ch, Sandy Run, 2.00; Green River church, Green River Association, 5.00; Norwood church, Pee Dee, 4.50; Marion ch, McDowell County, 4.00; Beaufort ch, Atlantic, 8.00; Murfreesboro ch, 1.00; Jackson ch, 2.35; Jackson S S, 2.23; W M S, Warsaw ch, Eastern, 5.00; Rock Fish ch, Cedar Creek, 1.02; King's Mountain ch, King's Mountain, 1.70; Holly Springs ch, Raleigh, 2 42; Seaboard ch, 5.65; Mt Carmel ch, 5.83; Riggsbee's ch, 2.00; Zion ch, King's Mountain, Galatia ch, West Chowan, 4.00; Bethel ch, 1.00; Rich Square ch, 9.15. Total, 244.48. Previously reported, 1 220.69. Total this year, 1,465.17.

Foreign Missions—Apex ch, $1.46; Apex Sunbeams, 2.41; Roberdel ch, Pee Dee, 5.00; Saron ch, ditto, 3.50; Brown's ch, Tar River, 8.29; Red Banks ch, Pilot Mountain, 2.50; Norwood ch, Pee Dee, 3.14; Ramoth Gilead ch, Chowan, 10.00; W M S, Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, 6.35; Shiloh Mis Soc, Chowan (Miss Knight), 10.00; Wake Forest ch, 6.60; S S, Enon ch, Flat River, 4.00; Rich Square ch, 10.00; D J Harris, Sparta, 27c. Total, 73 52. Previously reported, 1,010.43. Total this year, 1,083.95.

Home Missions—Sunbeams, Apex ch, $2.41: Roberdel ch, Pee Dee, 2.50; Ramoth Gilead ch, Chowan, 10.00; Beaufort ch, Atlantic, 5.00; Sandy Run ch, W Chowan, 8.04; Murfreesboro ch, 3.75; W M S, Warren Plains ch, 2.76; So Yadkin Asso, 3 00; Rich Square ch, 3.42. Total, 40.88. Previously reported, 399 29. Total this year, 440.17.

Education—Antioch ch, $8.00; Ramoth Gilead ch, Chowan, 10.00; Seaboard ch, 1.81. Total, 19.81. Previously reported, 537.96 Total this year, 557.77.

Orphanage—Enon ch, Catawba River, 77c. Previously reported, 286.84. Total this year, 287.61.

Sunday-schools—Pilot Mountain Association, $70.00; F A Tobey, 1.00; S S, Corinth ch, 2.54. Total, 73.54. Previously reported, 256.52. Total this year, 330.06.

CORRECTIONS: In the RECORDER of March 14th, Mt, Olive ch, Stokes County, is credited with $5.00 for State Missions. The amount should have been $5.85.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, March 17, 1894.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."
A box of BEECHAM'S PILLS
constitutes a family medicine chest.
Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Giddiness, Fullness, Swelling after meals, Dizziness, Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, and all nervous and trembling sensations are relieved by using these Pills
Covered with a Tasteless and Soluble Coating
Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a box.
New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

ADVANCED AND ADVANCING.
INTERNATIONAL—INDUCTIVE.
BAPTIST LESSON HELPS.

PRICES are MARVELOUSLY LOW. There are NONE CHEAPER and a fair trial will convince you that there are NONE SUPERIOR.

PRIMARY GRADE.

PICTURE LESSONS	3 cents per quarter;	12 cents per year.
PRIMARY QUARTERLY	2½ " "	9 " "
OUR LITTLE ONES	6½ " "	25 " "
NEW PRIMARY QUARTERLY.
TWO YEARS WITH JESUS	2½ " "	9 " "
INTERMEDIATE GRADE.
INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY	2½ cents per quarter;	9 cents per year.
SUNLIGHT, MONTHLY	2 " "	8 " "
" SEMI-MONTHLY	4 " "	16 " "
ADVANCED GRADE.
ADVANCED QUARTERLY	2½ cents per quarter;	10 cents per year.
BIBLE LESSONS	1½ " "	5 " "
YOUNG REAPER, MONTHLY	2½ " "	10 " "
" SEMI-MONTHLY	5 " "	20 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
JUNIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES	2½ " "	10 " "
SENIOR GRADE.
SENIOR QUARTERLY	6 cents per quarter;	24 cents per year
OUR YOUNG PEOPLE	10 " "	40 " "
THE WORKER	1½ " "	6 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
SENIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES	6 " "	24 " "
TEACHERS.
BAPTIST TEACHER	12½ cents per quarter;	50 cents per year
SUPERINTENDENTS.
BAPTIST SUPERINTENDENT	6½ cents per quarter;	25 cents per year

The above are club prices for five or more copies to one address.

THE COLPORTER.
In clubs of twenty copies, 5 cents per year; single copy, 10 cents per year

SAMPLES FREE.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut Street;
BOSTON: 256 Washington Street; ST. LOUIS: 1100 Olive Street;
NEW YORK: Times Building; DALLAS: 345 Main Street;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Avenue; ATLANTA: 30½ Whitehall Street.

The Fundamental Principle of Life Assurance

is protection for the family. Unfortunately, however, the beneficiaries of life assurance are often deprived of the provision made for them, through the loss of the principal, by following bad advice regarding its investment.

Under the Tontine Installment Policy of

The Equitable Life

you are provided with an absolute safeguard against such misfortune, besides securing a much larger amount of insurance for the same amount of premiums paid in.

For facts and figures, address

W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas, Rock Hill, S. C.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash

Good Fertilizers

at the Lowest Wholesale Prices, per ton.

for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars.

W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

D. and C. ROSES

Will grow anywhere, with a little sunshine, water, and care. You can learn how to grow them, and every other flower of import, from our

New Guide to Rose Culture for 1894. If you so request, we will send free, this book and a copy of our Floral Magazine, "Success with Flowers."

The Dingee & Conard Company, West Grove, Pa.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,

Manufacturing Stationers,

Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as

Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.

Writing Pads,
all Grades.

PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.

PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.

Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.

Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.

RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased,
vs.
Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson her husband, now residents of the State and city of New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated in Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.
This March 5th, 1894.

The flower has no second chance. If you would at first succeed, be sure and start with
FERRY'S SEEDS.
Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 contains the sum and substance of the latest farming knowledge. Every planter should have it. Sent free.
D. M. Ferry & Co.,
Detroit, Mich.

OUR NEW BOOK

is a large handsome pamphlet, just received from the printers. Whether you are interested in the Electropoise or not you should read it, as there are scientific facts that every intelligent person should know. Write for one.

ELECTROLIBRATION COMPANY, 845 Fourth Ave., New York.
Successors to Atlantic Electropoise Co, Washington, D. C.

Electropoise
(TRADE MARK)
"ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN" BY ABSORPTION
"cures when all else fails."

A Sad Bereavement.

Last Saturday (10 inst.) the wife of Col. O. H. Dockery and his son William were buried at the same time. Mr. William Dockery had been sick for several days with pneumonia. From the first, the disease was very violent, and grew in virulence until the end. Mrs. Dockery was stricken with paralysis Tuesday night and was unconscious until the last. The heart-broken father knew that his son was in a dying condition at his home half a mile away, and yet he couldn't leave his dying wife to be with his beloved son in his last hour.

Mrs. Dockery died about seven o'clock Thursday night. Very soon after the death of Mrs. Dockery, the sad intelligence was brought that Mr. William Dockery had passed away. His death occurred about forty minutes after that of Mrs. Dockery.

Mr. Dockery was for many years a consistent member of the Methodist church. His pastor bore testimony to his upright, walk and his usefulness in his church. He died rejoicing that he had a Saviour's strong arm on which to lean. He leaves a wife and four small children.

Mrs. Dockery was a member of the distinguished Settle family, being a sister of the late Judge Thos. Settle. She was a highly cultivated woman, and could grace any circle into which she was thrown. She was twice married—first to Col. J. W. Covington, of which union three children were born, only one of whom, Mrs. Platt D. Walker of Charlotte, survives. God blessed Col. and Mrs. Dockery with two promising children, Oliver H., Jr., and Miss Carrie May. As was said above, Mrs. Dockery was a very cultured woman. This can be said in its truest sense. She had that adorning spoken of by the Apostle Peter, "the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price." She became a Christian early in life, and until her death was a faithful member of a Baptist church. She was not a negative Christian, but like her Master she "went about doing good." By her deeds of kindness she brought sunshine into many hearts and homes.

It was not the writer's privilege to have known her long; but his short acquaintance with her was very delightful, and will always be a bright spot in his memory.

As your readers all know, Col. Dockery and his wife had but recently returned from Brazil, where for four years the Colonel represented this country as Consul-General. They had gone to considerable expense in repairing their already beautiful country home, and expected to spend the remainder of their lives there together. Mrs. Dockery has gone home, not to the lovely home on earth, but "to that mansion in the skies across the river."

I trust that the pen of one who knew her longer and better than I will portray her life and character; but I could not refrain from placing this poor tribute on her tomb. May the God of all grace comfort the broken-hearted.

L. JOHNSON.

Golden Wedding and Family Re-union.

This interesting and enjoyable event, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. K. Vann and wife, was duly and appropriately observed at their residence, Sampson county, on the 15th day of February, 1894, by the family and a large circle of friends. This event not only marks the fiftieth anniversary of their family history, but also the seventy-third and sixty-eighth year of their ages. Both in remarkably good health and vigor. Mr. Vann has been an active member of a Baptist church for about fifty-five years and Mrs. Vann for near fifty years, and constant readers of the RECORDER for forty-eight years, which they love and prize next to their religion and their Bible.

Mr. Vann was for many years a member of the Executive Board of the Eastern Association with such faithful colleagues as D. J. Middleton and "Uncle" Ben Oliver of sainted memory. These brethren used to travel from seventy-five to one hundred miles by private conveyance through heat and cold to attend the meetings of the Executive Committee to transact the Lord's business. Those of the present generation can but poorly appreciate how much they owe to the self-denying labors of these old brethren. Others have toiled and we have entered into their labors.

Half century ago in the quiet days 1844, February 15th, Mr. Vann, a young man of twenty-two, and Miss Louisa of eighteen, were married at the home of the bride's father, Mr. Geo. W. Robinson of Sampson county. Of this union were born twelve children, four sons and eight daughters, ten of whom are living. Nine of the ten living were present. Mrs. H. B. Giddens of Clinton was absent on account of sickness, greatly to the regret of all.

The children are all married except the youngest son, Preston S., now at Wake Forest College. Besides these were present sixteen grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Also four of the eight original waiters, viz., Mr. Daniel Boney, Mrs. Jas. Ward of Duplin county, Mrs. Wells Taylor also of Duplin and Mrs. E. Cain of Sampson county. All of the number now living and many of their friends and neighbors.

Many valuable presents by their friends and children, too tedious to note here, were made, consisting of gold coins, jewelry, &c. In connection with this the bride of fifty years, true to her well-known characteristic, had prepared a sumptuous dinner, and if actions can be taken in evidence, this feature of the occasion was keenly enjoyed by all present.

Thus passed this most delightful occasion which is just cause for profound gratitude to the Father of Mercies for his benedictions which have marked their family history for fifty busy and pleasant years.

X.

Ingold, March 8, 1894.

This is "holy week" with the Episcopalians and Roman Catholics.

A "Taxpayer's" Plan.

Editor of the Recorder:—As the subject of State aid to the North Carolina University will be an issue in the approaching political campaign, I will say that I am certain that I voice the sentiment of many taxpayers when I say that they are willing the State should furnish the University at Chapel Hill the buildings and all that appertains thereto, keep them in repair, and pay the insurance on them, but nothing beyond this, as the institution is now conducted.

If, however, the trustees will establish a chair, or department, entirely above and independent of the branches taught in Davidson, Trinity, and Wake Forest Colleges, then for this special department we are willing the State should make a reasonable appropriation; otherwise, withdraw all money aid made from State taxes or State property.

TAXPAYER.

A Missionary Library.

Some time ago Rev. Fred D. Hale, pastor of the First church of Owensboro, Ky., wrote to the Mission Rooms of this city, ordering therefrom one copy of each publication on hand. His idea was to create in his church a missionary library, composed of the best literature which could be gotten on the fields which are occupied by our Southern Boards. This library of missionary intelligence was to be recommended and used in his church just the same as any other library.

The thought has occurred to our Mission Rooms Committee that doubtless if other pastors only knew how much literature there is within reach and how cheaply it can be purchased, they might also desire to invest and thus furnish an invaluable source of missionary information to all the members of their churches.

We therefore take this occasion to say to the pastors and indeed to the brethren and sisters at large of the whole South, that if Bro. Hale's idea seems to them a good one, they can purchase one copy of each publication on hand for the sum of $11. This will include a number of leaflets on each of the subjects treated on our Annual Mission Card. These subjects are Foreign Board, Home Board, Italy, Japan, China, Brazil, Africa, Mexico, State Missions, colored people, Indians, and Cuba. One leaflet on each of the above mentioned fields, four mission cards and twelve programs for missionary meetings are published each year, the price of subscription being only 30 cts. So that with an investment of $11 to begin with and 30 cts. annually thereafter, any pastor or church can be supplied with such a missionary library as cannot be duplicated anywhere else in the South.

Hoping these suggestions may be of benefit to many, I am very fraternally,

L. L. HENSON, for Com.

Maryland Baptist Mission Rooms, Baltimore, Md.

The seigniorage bill authorizing immediate coinage of $55,150,081, being the seigniorage on the silver purchased under the Sherman Law; also providing for the coinage of the remainder of the silver bullion in the hands of the government—about $127,000,000—as soon as the seigniorage is coined. The latter will be used to redeem Treasury notes, and will not increase the amount of currency. It is greatly feared by the friends of silver that President Cleveland will veto the bill; but there are grounds of hope that he will not.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

Statesville is to have another tobacco factory.

Mr. C. M. Busbee has been appointed postmaster at Raleigh.

The shad-fishing season has opened with good prospects in our eastern rivers.

About 200 Danish and Swedish families will locate in Camden county this spring.

W. Corbett, one of Wilson's largest merchants assigned last week; liabilities $20,000.

The Caraleigh Mills of Raleigh have ordered 3,000 spindles to increase the capacity of the mills.

Two physicians in our State have died recently—Dr. Guion of Newbern, and Dr. E. A. Anderson of Wilmington.

A man named Davis wanted for murder in Virginia has been apprehended in Warrenton, and returned to his State.

A large paint factory will be established at Charlotte. Two broom factories will be established in the same city shortly.

Jerry Roberts, yard conductor for the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., at Fayetteville was run over and killed by a shifting train on the 13th inst.

Mrs. I. T. Broach was found dead at her home near Pilot Mountain on the 15th. There are evidences of murder, and her husband has been arrested on suspicion.

The election of a superintendent of the Oxford Orphan Asylum is to take place on Tuesday, the 20th. A number of persons will be voted for, among them, Mr. W. H. Dodd of Raleigh.

On the 14th inst. all the houses except the dwelling on the farm of Mr. S. M. Bascom, nine miles from Raleigh were destroyed by fire, together with some valuable live stock, and farm products. It was of incendiary origin.

One hundred and fifty rifles and other equipments for the cadets of the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts arrived here this week. The uniforms will arrive next week, and regular military instructions and practice will begin.

The Monument Association has decided that the Confederate Monument shall be made of granite quarried at Mt. Airy. Its total cost is $35,000, ten thousand of which was appropriated by the State Legislature. The corner stone will be laid 21st of May next.

The third annual meeting of the State College Association will be held in Durham, March 23d, 24th, Dr. J. B. Shearer of Davidson College, President. The following papers will be read: "Preparation in English for College Classes," by Prof. B. F. Sledd, A. M., Wake Forest College; "Inter-Collegiate Athletics," President Holladay of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Raleigh; "Co education," by President L. L. Hobbs of Guilford College; "The Moral and Religious Basis of an Education," by President Crowell of Trinity. The meeting will be of great interest.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

MARRIED.

JACKSON—CLIFTON—On Tuesday evening, March 13th, 1894, at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. W. B. Harrell, M. D., of Dun, N. C., Mr. Marshall R. Jackson and Miss Annie Lou Clifton, second daughter of Col. Marion W. Clifton of Sampson county.

COCHMAN—PHILLIPS—On March 8th, 1894, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. W. H. H. Lawhon, Mr. Jos. I. H. Cochman of Moore county, N. C., and Miss Etta, youngest daughter of Rev. John Phillips of Chatham county.

DIED.

LINDSEY—At the residence of her grandfather, Mr. Jesse F. Taylor, about three miles north of Raleigh, N. C., on March 10th, 1894, little Mary Belle, infant daughter of Alvis and Anna Lindsey, aged two weeks and two days. God gave us the little treasure for only a few short days, and then he gently called his little lamb, "Come home." And we can safely say that she is "Safe in the arms of Jesus,

Safe on his gentle breast;
There by his love o'er shaded,
Sweetly her soul doth rest."

PARENTS.

HEADEN—Departed this life suddenly, of heart failure, on Monday, March 5th, 1894, Deacon Frank Headen, in the forty-eighth year of his age. Brother Headen had been a consistent member of the church for twenty-eight years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. In his death Rives Chapel has lost one of its best members. He leaves a wife and one adopted child to mourn their loss. May the Lord comfort them in this deep affliction. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. Gilmore and the writer. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

C. J. F. ANDERSON.

FLORA—Near Moyock, in Currituck, his native county, January 5th, 1894, Mr. Dennis Flora, the beloved and dutiful son of Richard and Patsy Flora, in his nineteenth year. He professed religion in early life and connected himself with the Shady Grove Baptist church. He lived a consistent Christian, and died in the faith, and has gone home to meet his dear father, who preceded him only a few years. He was afflicted all his life with heart disease. He was a good boy, and was very much attached to his elder brother, R. B. Flora. Equally ardent was his brother's love for him. Often have I heard him say, "Dennis shall never suffer while I live."

He was buried in the family burying ground beside his father, to await the resurrection. His funeral, by his and the family's request, was preached in Shady Grove church by the writer, to a large concourse of relatives and friends.

He leaves a mother, one brother, sister, and half brother, to mourn their loss. "He is not dead, but sleepeth." May grace be given to the bereaved ones.

P. S. C. DAVIS.

Tributes of Respect.

WHEREAS, It has pleased an Allwise Creator to remove from our midst our beloved treasure, Miss Annie Moore, be it therefore Resolved 1. That in her death our Society sustained a great loss in her prayers, sympathy and support; yet we calmly submit and recognize in it the will of an Allwise Providence.

Resolved 2. That we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy, and that a copy of this be sent to the family; also to the RECORDER, and a copy be spread on the minutes of the Society.

By order of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Warsaw Baptist church, Warsaw, N. C.

MISS JULIA JONES,
MISS ELLA BROWN.

Flesh

means strength to withstand chronic ailments, coughs, colds and disease. Sound flesh is essential to health.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, enriches the blood, builds up flesh and fortifies the system against sickness and chronic ailments. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists

Our Periodicals ARE THE PROPERTY OF THE Southern Baptist Convention.

Our Board Was established by the Convention. Is controlled by the Convention. Seeks to advance the work of the Convention.

Our Series Is the Mission Training Series.

The Quarterlies, the Teacher, and Kind Words have each their missionary features, presenting to teachers and children the work of the Convention at home and abroad.

The Profits of the Series help to place Sunday School Evangelists in many of our States.

Somebody Must Work for the Children.

We make our periodicals as good as the best in contents. We make them good enough in form for the use to which they are put. We do not waste money on mere ornamentation of periodicals that are used a little while and thrown away. We think the money better expended in living men of loving hearts, going through our States, seeking to advance our Sunday-school work.

THE NEED FOR SUCH WORK IS VERY GREAT.

PRICES.

The Teacher	50 cents a year		Kind Words—
Advanced Quarterly	10 " "		Weekly	50 cents a year
Intermediate Quarterly	9 " "		Semi-monthly	25 " "
Primary Quarterly	9 " "		Monthly	16 " "
Lesson Leaflet	5 " "		Child's Gem	25 " "
Picture Lesson Cards	16 " "		Bible Lesson Pictures	$5.00 " "

The Young People's Leader .....40c. a year.

When ordering for one quarter, divide above prices by four. Terms cash. Broadus' Catechism, 5 cents apiece in any quantity; Manly's, larger, 75 cents a dozen; smaller, 50 cents. Reward Cards, Sunday-school Record Book, etc., etc. Specially pretty line of Reward Cards.

Baptist Sunday School Board,
T. P. Bell, Corresponding Secretary. Nashville, Tenn.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [m r m]

After the GRIPPE Is Over

Many persons find that their general health has been impaired. Effects linger in the system which, if not promptly met and removed, may, and often do, result in great danger. These effects are indicated by such symptoms as a lingering cough, disordered digestion, nervousness, pains and general weakness, with loss of energy.

Royal Germetuer

Is the greatest of all remedies in such cases. It acts so pleasantly, and yet so promptly and surely, that it almost imperceptibly sweeps out of the system the causes that produce these troubles, and restores the vigor of joyous health. This is the experience of thousands who have tried it. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, harmless always, and Cures WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.

$1.00 per bottle, 6 for $5.00. All druggists. Manufactured only by

KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Important to Farmers!

Yes, it is very important to all farmers to plant the best and earliest seed potatoes they can buy. To do this, they must buy the EARLY SIX WEEKS, the earliest now in cultivation. If farmers would plant this potato they would always get their crop in market in time to get seven and eight dollars per barrel. We planted this potato for the last two seasons, and selling our crop for nine dollars per barrel. This potato grows so quick the Esquimau would almost have time to mature a potato crop if he planted the Early Six Weeks. In the South two full crops can be grown in one season. Its size is large and handsome. We have one thousand barrels for sale. One lb. 40 cts.; 3 lbs. $1.00; by mail, postpaid. Peck, $1.10; bushel, $3.00; barrel, $7.00; by freight or Express. Send your order in at once before they are all sold, and give them a trial. Address all orders to the

ROANOKE SEED COMPANY, Roper, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE, Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited. WM. F. FOX, Manager.

1894.

Spring Business

On the Basis of the New Wilson Tariff.

Now on sale our new lines of High Novelty Suitings, Colored Dress Goods, Black Dress Goods, Fancy Dress Silks, Velvets, White Goods, Laces, Embroideries and Printed and Dyed Cotton Dress Fabrics in assortments larger than ever.

Selling Dry Goods by mail is a special feature of our business. Our mail orders are filled by trained people who do nothing else.

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

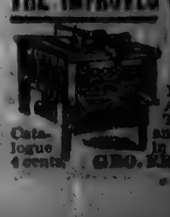
OUR FREE DELIVERY.

Cash with Order of $5.00 and over, we deliver goods free (except furniture and crockery) to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

123 and 125 Fayetteville St.
RALEIGH, N. C.

$12.00 to $35.00 a week can be made working for us. Parties preferred who can furnish a horse and travel through the country; a team, though, is not necessary. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Men and women of good character will find this an excellent opportunity for profitable employment. Spare hours may be used to good advantage. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 11th & Main Sts., Richmond, Va.



$7.00 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Shot Guns from $2.00 to $50.00. Winchester Rifles, $6.25 to $12.00. Repeating Rifles, $3.00 to $10.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, $2.50 to $5.00. Send 3c. stamp for 68-page Catalogue and price list.

GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 605 Main St., Louisville, Ky.

THE IMPROVED VICTOR INCUBATOR

Hatches Chickens by Steam. Absolutely self-regulating. The simplest, most perfect and cheapest Incubator Hatcher in the market. Complete Poultry and Egg Catalogue 4 cents.

GEO. ERTEL & CO., Quincy, Ill.

The Home Circle.

A Mother's Good-by.

Sit down by the side of your mother, my boy,
You have only a moment, I know;
But you will stay till I give you my parting advice,
It is all that I have to bestow.
You leave us to seek for employment, my boy;
By the world you have yet to be tried;
But in all temptations and struggles you meet;
May your heart in the Saviour confide.

You will find in your satchel a Bible, my boy;
It is the book of all others the best;
It will teach you to live, it will help you to die,
And lead to the gates of the blest.
I gave you to God in your cradle, my boy,
I have taught you the best that I knew,
And as long as his mercies permit me to live
I will never cease praying for you.

Your father is coming to wish you good by;—
O how sad and how lone we will be!
But when far from the scenes of your childhood and youth
You will remember your father and me.
I want you to heed every word I have said;
For it comes from a heart filled with love;
And, my boy, if we never behold you on earth,
Will you promise to meet us above?
Hold fast to the right, hold fast to the right,
Wherever your footsteps may roam;
O forsake not the way of salvation, my boy,
That you learned from your mother at home.
—Our Visitor.

Noah Webster.

There was nothing very wonderful in the circumstances of Noah Webster when a boy, nor in his early life. He was the son of a farmer, was well educated, being ready to enter Yale at the age of sixteen. In his junior year he was interrupted by the excitement of the Revolution, and joined his father, who was already serving in the war. A few years later, however, he finished his course.

When he had been graduated, and had reached home after commencement, his father presented him with a small sum of money, about equal in value to four dollars, and told him that for the future he must take care of himself.

In those days the most common means of gaining a living by young men of fair education were school-teaching and the practice of law. Webster chose the first of these, while he should prepare himself for the second. In the moments of time he could snatch, after his school duties were done, he studied alone, until a few years later he was admitted to the bar. Had he been idle, careless of time, or fond of self-indulgence, this end would never have been reached.

While teaching, he also prepared several school-books—a reader, a grammar, and also a spelling-book, which became very famous.

This spelling-book was bountifully illustrated by rude wood cuts. These must have greatly charmed the boys and girls who read of "The Country Maid and her Milk-pail," and "The Boy who Stole Apples;" and many a lad felt that the story grew too personal when he saw the account of the boy who went to the woods to look for birds' nests when he should have been at school.

This spelling book reached such an immense sale that it alone supported his family during the many years in which he was engaged on his dictionary.

We cannot follow him during his long life, but in his seventy-ninth year he wrote a letter which gives us glimpses of his life and habits. Of these he says: "I have never been a hard student, unless a few years may be excepted; but I have been a steady, persevering student." It is not the sudden strokes of labor, which come in fits and starts; it is not this which accomplishes great things, but the slow, steady work, day after day.

He tells us he was in the habit of rising half an hour before the sun, and making use of all the daylight, so that he rarely used lamp light at all. Apart from saving his eyes, this must have been a great means of preserving his health. With daylight his work ended, and his body and mind were alike ready for rest.

Again, he says: "I was never, or rarely, in a hurry." Girls and boys, mark this well!—you who are hunting up hats and books, and hurrying to school at the last minute, leaving everything behind you in confusion. Is anything gained by it? Does it bring any ease or comfort to yourselves? Surely not. And the worst of it is that the habit of leaving everything to the last, and then rushing through in a hurry, will gain such a firm hold on you, as the years go by, that it will vex and worry half the sweetness out of your lives. Let us read and remember the words of Noah Webster: "I was never, or rarely, in a hurry."

Again, he tells us how, in Amherst, he cultivated a little land, made hay, and worked in his garden. And until late in life, he was in the habit of rising in the morning and making his fires through the house. Such exercise as he gained by these simple duties must have been a great gain to him in health and strength as he advanced in years. Such was his simple life while he performed a work which has made him famous.

At the ripe old age of eighty-four, Noah Webster's life closed, blessed by the peace and comfort of the Christian hope. Let us remember the life and lessons of this great man as we open so frequently the book which cost him such patient toil.—Young Folks' Friend.

An Emergency Closet.

We have known what it is to be aroused from a sound sleep by the terrible sounds of the croupy cough—at least, we who are mothers—and we have sometimes remembered with dismay that we had no ipecac or other remedy at hand. And some of us—I trust not many—have seen our teething babes go into convulsions in the middle of the night, when there was no fire in the kitchen stove nor hot water in the boiler. Lesser evils, too, as burns, cut fingers, and so on—how often, where there is a family of little children, do we have to doctor such ills!

After a good many tribulations for lack of the right thing at the right moment, I established in my home an emergency closet.

Its position recommended it most highly. In the corridor between my own door and that of the nursery it stood, and it seemed to have been made for nothing else, for it was shallow, with many shelves across one-half of its space, and the other half was reserved for hanging purposes.

The first rule I made was this: Nobody was to go to it except in an emergency. The next rule forbade anything being placed in it save by myself. The third and last one was that the key should always hang beside the locked door, beyond the reach of the little ones.

Having prepared my closet and announced my rules, I proceeded to arrange the interior and classify its contents.

The top shelf contained medicines, all distinctly and carefully labeled, and with good stout corks or glass stoppers in the bottles. Little boxes of ointment and salves stood well in view in one corner, and there were three spoons of three sizes called for in giving medicine. On the shelf below was a box of mustard plasters, a bundle of old linen, some of it cut into strips and rolled for bandages, and some left in large pieces as needed; a bundle of white flannel, old and soft; a pile of half-worn towels; another of old sheets; and a thin old blanket, to be put around a hot bath while giving it to a sick baby. On the same shelf, by the mustard plasters, was a jar of mustard, one of flax-seed and one of hops.

On the lowest shelf stood a coal-oil stove, a large copper kettle, and a deep tin foot-tub large enough to hold a child of two years with plenty of hot water to cover it to the neck. Here also were sponges of different sizes.

From the hooks hung several useful articles. A warm eider-down flannel wrapper, too faded to see daylight, but the very thing for a sudden tumble out of one's warm bed in the cold winter nights; other flannel garments of various sizes useful as wrappings for children, bags of herbs, bags of woolen rags, bags of old linen too far gone for anything but lint, and a number of other odds and ends, all having a distinct and well-known value. Having placed each article in its established position, I could go to my "emergency closet" in the dark, if needful, and place my hand on exactly what I wanted.

If my sisters who are house mothers will try my plan, I am sure they will acknowledge that it is a good one. For my part, I know not how I managed at all in the days when I had no "emergency closet."—Harper's Magazine.

Two Kinds of Women need Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—those who want to be made strong, and those who want to be made well. It builds up, invigorates, regulates, and cures.

It's for young girls just entering womanhood; for women who have reached the critical "change of life"; for women expecting to become mothers; for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; for every woman who is run down, delicate, or overworked.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, the money will be returned.

Choking, sneezing and every other form of catarrh in the head, is radically cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Preserving the Teeth.

Time was when dentists simplified their business by extracting a tooth as soon as it became troublesome, while the natural result that the owner's face lost its contour and winsome curves, writes Maude E. Murray in the Ladies' Home Journal. Now it is different. Dentistry has made great strides within the last twenty years, and we are the gainers. If the breath should be offensive consult the dentist and have the teeth put in order. If the trouble seems to come from the stomach take some simple corrective, and if that fails to sweeten it look for microbe growth in the mouth and war against it unceasingly. A few drops of any one of the many good antiseptic tooth lotions added to a half glass of water used for rinsing the mouth on retiring, will gradually ostracize these unwelcome dwellers. Mothers should be impressed with the importance of caring for the children's teeth from infancy. From the time the first teeth make their appearance they need constant care. Every morning the mouth and little teeth should be carefully washed with a soft sponge or cloth dipped in lukewarm water. If they begin to decay before the time arrives when nature intends the first ones to fall out, to be replaced by the permanent set, they should be filled by a dentist with white bone filling, or some soft preparation which will not require much cutting to hold it in place. This will preserve the baby's teeth as long as will be necessary, and will also preserve the shape of the face, as cannot be done if the teeth are drawn prematurely, thus allowing the jaws to shrink.

The Pharisee's righteousness consisted in not doing evil; Christ superadded that we must do good.—Clement.

Emerson says: "To be great is to be misunderstood." That may be true, but many small people are misunderstood also. A large portion, perhaps half of the trouble we have with each other, arises from misunderstandings. Could we but know the heartaches and the burdens of the people we meet we would be much more charitable in our judgment. Could we but see the hidden motive back of that strange act we would be less quick to criticise. Could we but understand the provocation we would turn another's wrath with soft and gentle answer many a time. Look out for misunderstandings. Give everyone credit for a good motive until you are sure they had a bad one. Count no one your enemy until he has proved himself one. Then heap coals of fire upon his head and win him by love for a friend.—Exchange.

Reason? Beecham's pills act like magic.

He that lives to live forever never fears dying.—William Penn.

A FEEBLE WOMAN—suffering from nervous prostration, excitability, or dizziness, the result of weakness, derangement, or displacement of the special organs—will find health regained after using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The one remedy—standing solitary and alone—for woman's weakness, which is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money refunded, is the "Favorite Prescription."

It's a powerful invigorating tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine. For women who are run-down and overworked; at the critical periods in woman's life—the change from girlhood to womanhood, and, later, the "change of life"—this is especially adapted to her needs; for it strengthens, regulates, and CURES.

Whether it's Catarrh itself, or any of the troubles caused by Catarrh, the makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 if they can't give you a permanent cure. They take the risk!

JOHNSON'S MAGNETIC OIL!
Instant Killer of Pain.
Internal and External.
Cures RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, Lame Back, Sprains, Bruises, Swellings, Stiff Joints, COLIC and CRAMPS instantly. Cholera Morbus, Croup, Diptheria, Sore Throat, HEADACHE, as if by magic.
THE HORSE BRAND, Especially prepared for Stock, Double Strength, the most Powerful and Penetrating Liniment for Man or Beast in existence. Large $1 size 75c., 50c. size 40c.
JOHNSON'S ORIENTAL SOAP.
Medicated and Toilet. The Great Skin Cure and Face Beautifier. Ladies will find it a most delicate and highly perfumed Toilet Soap on the market. It is absolutely pure. Makes the skin soft and velvety and restores the lost complexion; is a luxury for the Bath for Infants. It stays itching, cleanses the scalp and promotes the growth of hair. Price 25c. For sale by
JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

A BIG OFFER

has many takers. That's the case with Messrs Edwards & Broughton's N. C. Manual of Law and Forms, the second edition of which is now ready.

The text has been revised up to 1893. Magistrates and County Officers find this volume absolutely indispensable. The book contains five hundred pages and covers the entire ground up to date thoroughly and satisfactorily. The price by mail is $2.00. Send for a copy. Address

Edwards & Broughton,
Printers and Binders, Raleigh, N. C.

Plant Wood's Seeds.

The best vegetables come from the South, and the best vegetables grown there are produced from Wood's Seeds.
They are unequaled in quality, and will grow North, South, East or West—wherever they are planted. Wood's Seed Book for 1894 is a complete history of current progress in planting. It helps you to select the best things to plant and tells you the best way to plant them. Write for it, and current prices of any Grass, Clover, or other Field Seeds required.
T. W. WOOD & SONS, RICHMOND, VA.
The Largest Seed House in the South.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES,
RALEIGH, N. C.
Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:
We Want
YOUR OLD BOOKS.
The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:
You Exchange Even for Live Books.
We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints,
Oils,
Glass,
Sash, Doors, Blinds.
HARDWARE
Special
Large
Lamps
For Stores,
Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

Lime, Plaster,
Cement, Nails,
Iron, Steel.
STOVES
Best Goods,
Lowest Prices,
Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
234 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,
OFFER AT LOW PRICES
Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
FLY FANS, &c.
Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,
Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.
HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
F. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.,
Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Notice to Teachers
DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr.
Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

AGENTS $10 a day at home selling LIGHTNING PLATER and plating jewelry, Watches, Tableware, Bicycles, etc. Plate finest jewelry good as new, and on all kinds of metal with gold, silver or nickel. No experience. Anyone can plate the first effort. Goods need plating at every house. Outfits complete. Different sizes, all warranted. Whole time or spare time. Can make $5 to $10 a day to agents $5 up. Big profits, good seller. Circulars free. Write quick. Address
H. F. DeINO & Co. Dept. No. 6, Columbus, O.

Chas. M. Walsh, Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.
Petersburg, Va.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and name lines to be on stone. All work warranted first-class and as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1894. Number 38.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WHAT would become of us if the world heeded the divine dictum, "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," requires more than the faculty of prophecy to say. We may say with some degree of assurance, however, that we all would live longer—that life would seem longer at least;—with certainty that people would be happier and the world better. While this is true, it is not meant that we should be wholly indifferent to the future, but less indifferent to the present. Youth, wherever one finds it, is building air-castles, manhood universally seeks fore-knowledge, and often pretends that it has been obtained; dotage alone looks backward, and it, too, would peer even into eternity. We live in the future tense, inspired of hope. Does it not seem rather anomalous that the author of "Looking Backward," illusion of illusions, was dreaming vainly of a century hence! We are a race of trouble-borrowers, discontent with that which the Omniscient has declared sufficient, and we are suffering for it, physically and mentally.

Just now we have an excellent instance of trouble-borrowing in the world political,—most troublous of spheres! Our State press is planning for the political onset this fall, and weary editors are racking their brains for ideas, and exploring the depths of political history to prove that this or that plan is wise or unwise,—"planning and building and spoiling, and building and spoiling again." It seems to us that this is unnecessary. If voters there are to be converted—and heretofore there have not been many—no system or plan will accomplish their conversion. The generality of North Carolina citizens now look for facts with greater avidity than ever before; they relish arguments as they never have. If one party formulates a specific plan, another will compel it to a broader one; its nominees will not stand unquestioned on all political principles long. To-day's audiences not do only not heed, but they anticipate, question, demand and dispute. It is really quite irrelevant whether a constable or a member of the commons knows anything about the tariff or national finance, which they usually do not, but campaign audiences will make them express themselves on these matters before their votes are pledged; and although it is useless, they will govern themselves accordingly. Character is really the chief requisite quality of a State legislator, but the generality in our State are in a notion of disregarding this for pledges to certain principles, and they will have them.

THERE years ago a New England preacher wrote "White Slaves," a book that obtained considerable popularity for a time, but like others of its nature was quickly replaced by some other novel revelation. It treated of the sewing women of the tenements, the inspiration of Hood's lines,

"Sewing at once with a double thread,
A shroud as well as a shirt."

The revelations made by this writer were, indeed, ghastly; yet he saw only one side of the situation. There are others, and baser in that their slavery is of the mind and the soul, "white slaves," if we can use the hyperbolical term—slave—in our country; but they are dwellers in palaces, not tenements; yet they are sewing shrouds for themselves and others, which will hardly fall away in that other and better world. Investigation of this class might not reveal anything of ghastliness, but without search we may see many things repulsive and deplorable in the mid-light of our questionable civilization. The white slaves of fashion—pitiable time-servers—are quite sufficient substance for a volume of revelations, another of consideration and another of commentary. But, are they slaves? We have only to observe the changes in the manner of dress of "cultured society,"—the "one eye-glass and knee-pants" type,—to perceive the one answer to the question. Who tells society how it must dress? The Parisian demirep, the modiste and the milliner. Who tells it how to talk, to eat, to walk, to live? The Beau Brummels and their tailors. Is there a "woman of fashion" of your acquaintance who obstructed thoroughfares with six yards skirt last winter, and this winter with broad side sleeves, and voluminous neckwear to match, who did so before the demireps of Paris were paid by dress-makers to wear them. No, originality is unculture, sameness is "common." Is there an enervated male creature of your acquaintance who could have carried a cane by the ferule end and worn an ogle before some unaccountable "society" man set the style? The same tailors who necessitated copious trouser legs years ago, now compel their weak-kneed minions to wear long and hideous coats. Either requires more cloth than a common sense suit does, and in this is the inspiration of fashion's changes. There are wealthy men living to-day, having had the opportunity of excellent educations, who would wear their hats upside-down if Englands tailors and lords would demand it as an evidence of culture. The wealthy sing the song of fashion, the poor sing the song of the shirt. It is a natural sequence.

IF THERE is anything that has to a greater extent injured the cause of the subjects of European rulers, a cause that was strengthening to mightiness in England, France and Germany, more than all else, more than all the efforts of monarchy, and the safe-guard of armed forces, it is the recent anarchistic outbreaks. Through the deviltry of the irresponsible seekers of no government, the efforts of the real strivers for local self-government have been seriously retarded. Those measures that were awhile ago promising, and generally well thought of, are now under suspicion, and will no doubt be retarded for years by the foolish and really purposeless bomb throwers and anarchistic publications. Some one has said that he had confidence in the accomplishment of the people's will because God made them, gave them needs and wills, and numbers and power. When Christ came on earth, among the remarkable things that he did was preaching the gospel to the poor and the common people,—something that the Pharisees didn't understand, nor favorably regard. But God does not sanction lawlessness, however imperfect law may be. He knows that partially good laws are better than none at all. The Great Teacher of reform never broke the Roman civil law nor urged disrespect of it, though it is recorded that he was quite independent of the Jewish moral code in healing on the Sabbath. So now, while each citizen should strive to further better laws, by no means should one attempt to teach disrespect for present law. He who does is liable to injure the best causes, and to no purpose. We are glad that there are enough true citizens among us to preserve our laws inviolable until better ones replace them. It is the part of unwisdom to teach disrespect of law. God does not sanction it, nor will good men heed such teaching. Quietness and calmness and patience and conservatism and godliness—the capability to "suffer and be silent"—are the expedients of those who seek betterment; and impetuousness, regardlessness and deviltry are their great enemies.

CAN THE writer discuss a matter—a platform plank—that appertains solely to one party,—and not seem partisan or meddlesome? We have been called on to discuss briefly the question—pity, indeed, that one exists—whether the late Chicago Democratic Convention declared for free silver coinage, and we hope we may do so without seeming partisan, as the matter is now rather out of date. We never heard a campaign speech of any consequence all last fall, and therefore are unbiased so far as to what this and that campaigner said. We read the papers desultorily, but do not think we studied the respective party platforms to any extent; and moreover, most of the papers we saw were too greatly engrossed with past records and future promises to materially bias us in this regard. Our views on the silver question have been expressed.

Let us bar any idea that the party purposed speaking "a various language" to varying sections of the land by means of the clause regarding coinage in its Chicago platform, which we hope at this late day need not be published. On reference we find these words: "The dollar unit of coinage of both metals (gold and silver) must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value." The solution of the question seems to us to lay in the word intrinsic. Does it mean bullion value or value as a coin? Universal or local value? Surely the former, else the qualifying word would have been "legal," "money," or "coined." Intrinsic value is the real value of the coin itself, not the value of the buying qualities that law may attach. In this light the platform declares for free coinage only at a greatly increased ratio—in other words indefinite bimetalism. That it had little hope of effecting this alone is evidenced by the mention of "safeguards of legislation" and "international agreement."

But if this is not satisfactory we have the further evidence of a member of the platform committee that the party did not intend to declare for free silver coinage; we have, moreover, the fact, which we learned from the Richmond Dispatch, that Mr. Patterson of Colorado presented a minority report, which was identical with that which we are now discussing excepting that it declared for "the free" coinage of gold and silver, instead of merely "the coinage," and it was defeated by vote. It seems to us, whatever any campaigner may have led any one to believe—and we do not know a public speaker that is wholly reliable in extempore efforts,—that this instance in which Mr. Patterson figured is sufficient evidence that the Chicago Convention did declare its disapproval of "free" coinage, even if the interpretation of the qualifying terms is not.

The Church a Good Society.

BY REV. S. M. BROWN.

It is now seventeen years since I left my dear old North Carolina home to cast my lot with our people in Missouri. I have been connected with the Central Baptist here, and for several years have tried to serve our Master in another position, which has afforded me some opportunity for observation. I will say further that during the first years after coming to Missouri, I served as pastor, and, so far as I can learn, organized the first "Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor" ever organized in our State.

I have written thus, that my brethren in my native State may observe that I have had at least the opportunity of observing some things in connection with the working of our churches, and from that standpoint may be permitted to say a word or two.

I must also be indulged in remarking my great gratification at the steady, uninterrupted progress of our Baptist people in North Carolina. In comparing the statistics of North Carolina Baptists with those of the Baptists of the great State of New York (statistics taken from the Year-Book of '92), it will be observed that the latter has only 131,123 members, while the former can boast of 243,354. Observe also that the whole population of New York in 1890 was 5,997,853 and that of North Carolina only 1,617,947. So that while my dear old State has not been so very "progressive" (?) in falling in with "movements" new and "taking," her dear people have been blest by their Lord and have gone steadily on taking the State for our people and our Masterr.

But I am to say that the church is a good society.

1. A good missionary society. Her commission from her Lord makes her such. "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." When she has accomplished her mission as an organization, there will remain no other peoples or tongues on earth to be evangelised by any other organization.

2. A good benevolent society. When the "poor saints" among the early Christians needed assistance, the appeal was made to the church as such—not to the "Ladies' Aid," the "Y. P. S. C. E.," the "B. Y. P. U.," the "Helping Hands," or the "Sunbeams."

3. A good "Christian Endeavor." The church covenant reads: "We engage, therefore, ... to strive for the advancement of this church in knowledge, holiness and comfort; to promote its prosperity and spirituality; to sustain its worship, ordinances, discipline and doctrines, to contribute cheerfully and regularly to the support of the ministry, the expenses of the church, the relief of the poor and the spread of the gospel through all nations ..... to seek the salvation of our kindred and acquaintances," &c.

4. A good Young People's Union. It is the only brotherhood founded upon a real basis of brotherhood. Its members are spiritually born unto the same family, a real union. Now if the church is all this—and more,—and if it has for its head and founder our blessed Lord who organized it for the purposes indicated above, why is it not amply sufficient for our young people and our sisters?

What forceful appeal can we as ministers make to our sisters and our young people from the standpoint of the society, which we cannot make from the standpoint of the church? Is the strength of our appeal from the standpoint of membership in the society the more forceful because it is new, or because the appeal can be addressed to the partisan spirit, or the present rising spirit of rivalry in some parts between men and women?

Is there any purpose for which our young members ought to hold a meeting from which our older members ought to be excluded? If the young people of our churches need to meet to study Baptist doctrine, practice, history, &c., about which our older ones are sufficiently informed, would it not be well to have our better informed brethren and sisters to meet with our young people to teach them and aid them? Or, on the other hand, if—as is the case in many instances—our younger membership is better informed than the older persons, is it possible for our old brethren to "learn any younger?" Shall we exclude them?

"But," says one, "have we not an exclusive meeting already in our Sunday-school?" Yes, in some instances, we have, but I am persuaded that in so far as our Sunday-schools are thus exclusive and contain, as they do in many instances, only the children, they are hurtful in many ways. Wherever the Sunday-school is thought of as a meeting for children and young people only, do not our older brethren and sisters suffer great loss, and do not the children go away from our regular preaching services, which are regarded as peculiarly the "old folks" service? Why should it be thought necessary to inaugurate or organize something to bridge the chasm between the Sunday-school and the church services? Why not attempt to bring all the members of the churches into the Sunday-school and to bring all the Sunday-school into the church services, so that there will be no chasm to bridge? It is my opinion that the Sunday-school ought to be the teaching service of the church, where the people of God gather on the Lord's day, bringing "their children" and the "strangers within their gates" together to study, teach and exalt God's Word in the public congregation, and that when the teaching service is over, parents ought to take their families and repair to the place appointed, and together listen at the proclamation of the gospel from the lips of God's called minister. This is the New Testament conception of the services of the churches. If we have departed from this conception, we had better attempt a return to it than to undertake to provide for an everlasting perversion of the Lord's way.

Another objection to the organization of these societies is the unavoidable disintegration of our forces.

Those who favor their organization claim that they are not intended to be organizations distinct from the churches; but it seems that they are. Why are they not? They become the unit of a separate family of organization clear up to the nation. The young people and the sisters have their local, district, State, and National organization, while the church is the unit of an entirely different line of organizations up to the nation. They are a distinct "species", "infertile" with the "original stock," and yet we frequently see one of these mongrel "sports" trying to display all the functions of the church.

Finally, There is nothing in the New Testament which can be construed into authority for these additions to the divine method. Sometimes we conclude that we know better than the Bible knows, but we are mistaken. "Ye being many members are one body" (organization). "That there be no schism (division) in the body; but that the members should have the same care one for another." "From whom (Christ) the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love."

Let every pastor strive to bring up all his members young and old, male and female, to engage in every good word and work; not by resorting to unscriptural or extra-scriptural methods, but by the proclamation of the same old gospel of the grace of God, to whom be glory in all the churches and all the world.

Kansas City, Mo., March 13, 1894.

Biographical Sketch of the Life and Labors of Elder George Pope.

Of the many noble, consecrated men of God who have lived, toiled and made great sacrifice for the establishment of the truth as Baptists hold it, was Elder George Pope.

After spending a life-time in the Master's vineyard and having gone to his reward, little or norecord is made of such service. The object of this communication is to preserve some history never before published.

Mr. Benedict in his valuable history mentions incidentally that he saw him and learned some things from him and says of him that he was a "man of sense and moderation."

His life-work was mainly in Davidson and surrounding counties. He figured conspicuously in the Sandy Creek Association.

His parentage and early life are hid in obscurity. His grandsons, now living in Davidson county, can give no information regarding him till we find him preaching the gospel of the blessed God, except that it was said that he came to the neighborhood of Abbott's Creek from up near Buffalow, a Baptist church by that name in Guilford county, which is now probably extinct.

He purchased a farm about midway between Thomasville and High Point, one mile north of the Richmond and Danville Railroad, on the Guilford side of the county line. The house built for him as a part of the contract, is still standing on the old homestead.

He wooed and won the heart of Miss Mary Hiatt. Of this union there were born six sons and two daughters, namely, William, Charles, James, Isaac, Whitfield, Phœbe, Mary and Jesse. Jesse was a preacher and removed to South Carolina.

Elder Pope's zeal for Baptist principles was so great that it is said of him in his family devotions, that it was customary for him to pray that his children, grandchildren and descendants after him might follow after him in the faith. I have observed that this prayer has, with scarcely an exception, been answered, though I would say that most of them hold anti-mission views.

I have been informed that all his children made a profession of religion and joined the church with him.

His daughter Mary, however, was headstrong and disobedient. On one occasion, contrary to the wish of her parents, she ran away and went to a dance. Her mother went and brought her home. She was finally excluded from Abbott's Creek church. I mention this to show his views on dancing. He was pastor of the church when she was excluded.

Just when he began preaching is not known. I find from the oldest record extant of Abbott's Creek church that when the first record was entered and the names of members enrolled, that his name was entered both as a member and as pastor. This was in January, 1788. We cannot know just how long he had been pastor when this record was made.

He continued as pastor without any interruption till September, 1813, when he and his wife were granted letters of dismission. The last hymn that he sung before leaving was "Hark from the tombs a doleful sound."

In 1811, the church granted him leave of absence to go and preach in the "lower part of the State," which was perhaps near South Carolina. He went to that State after leaving his old charge, and lived about four years.

He was, doubtless, a man of more than ordinary power. The principles, as believed and taught by the Baptists, naturally incalcate liberty of conscience in all matters of religion. He was, therefore, loyal to the American cause during the struggle for independence.

This naturally enough rendered him obnoxious to the Tory element. During the struggle men (who were found to be Tories) came to his house, telling his wife that they desired Mr. Pope to meet them at a certain school-house. He met them promptly, only to learn that they intended to kill him. He obtained their consent to preach before them for the last time. In the delivery of this sermon, some were convicted, and all more or less wrought upon, so powerful was the discourse. At the close, they told him to go home that they would never trouble him again.

He was not a poor man, for he gave all his boys a good tract of land, and yet, notwithstanding his ability to do this, he, like the Saviour, often walked to his appointments. One day walking on his way to church, he passed a man notorious for wickedness; the man called to him, offering him a horse and saddle, which was accepted. When he got back, he returned them. "No," said the wicked man, "as good preacher as you are ought not to walk, and I now make you a present of them."

He was possessed of a strong voice. He could be heard, oftentimes, for a mile delivering a discourse. He was not only a good preacher, but a good songster as well.

Mr. Benedict, who visited him in 1810, says that Elder Pope was greatly tried in his mind by the unusual appearance of the great revival which swept over several States about 1800—1803. But he saw such evident signs of a genuine work of grace, that he engaged in it and helped to promote it. During this extensive revival he baptised about five hundred persons.

When Abbott's Creek church was a member of the Sandy Creek Association, he was chosen Moderator of that body at least three times.

There is scarcely a doubt but that the thirty-one years or more of his life spent in the pastorate at that church was productive of untold good. Baptist sentiment prevails almost exclusively in that section, which never could have been but for the faithful presentation and defence of the truth. "And their works do follow them."

HENRY SHERIN.

Shall we be "Hit," or "Fed?"

A stranger had occupied the preacher's place at the evening service. One sister, who heard his sermon, was asked by a neighbor what she thought of the young man's effort, and the following dialogue occurred: "Did you like that minister?" "Yes, he preached the word of God." "Did he hit you?"

"'Hit' me? Why, no. Why should his preaching hit me? I am a Christian. I do not expect the preaching to hit me. I expect it to feed me. I would think I was a very poor Christian if the preacher had to keep hitting me instead of feeding me. If I were an unconverted sinner, I would be hit by the preaching, but now that I am a child of God the preaching feeds my soul." This woman, not long a Christian, and not learned in the wisdom of the schools, had found out a secret of which many Christians are still ignorant. The Christian who is being constantly hit by the truth of God cannot be yet a docile, obedient child; there must be something in his life on account of which he feels condemned.

It is the high privilege of the children of God to stand before the doctrines and precepts of God's word, not as unruly boys needing to be whipped, but as children, healthily hungry, who are eager to be fed by their father's bounty.—Rev. O. S. C. Wallace, in Young People's Union.

Wondrous is the strength of cheerfulness, altogether past calculation its powers of endurance. Efforts to be permanently useful must be uniformly joyous—a spirit all sunshine, graceful from very gayness, beautiful because bright.—Carlyle.

The only joy we have on earth is to love God and to know that God loves us. O when I think that there are souls who will die without having tasted even for an hour the happiness of loving God!—Fénelon.

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 28, 1894.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

BEING A BAPTIST.

We do not purpose trying to set forth in a short editorial what Baptists believe—something that has occupied more than one volume,—nor do we feel that a statement of distinctive Baptist principles would be beneficial, as all Baptist readers are supposed to know at least one, if not each of them, and those of our readers who are not Baptists, being editors, are hardly open to conviction of their importance. In fact, we think the day of inter-denominational controversy has met a timely and a happy end. There are matters in all relations, whether religious, moral, social, historical or political, about which people have "honest convictions," from which it usually requires more than human efforts to convert one. In these matters patience and time are more potent than logic and eloquence. We believe that organic "church union," or even federation, is not only impossible now, but would be unwholesome, because untimely. The different Protestant denominations are about equally headstrong, equally zealous, and in all charity let us add, about equally honest in their motives and their work; and there are good Christian like men in each of them. If one is conscientiously—honestly—a communicant of a separate sect from ours, we must respect his opinion and his claims if he lives up to them, however utterly groundless they may seem. We can do this and still maintain the proper zeal and respect for what we believe. We can let church federation and unity await its own good time; it is a matter in which our Lord is greatly concerned, and we may be sure he will not let his cause languish by reason of its not being effected in a day. We have need now more particularly to regard unity in the differing sects themselves, rather than the union of them all into one great body. It may not have seemed very apparent, but it is true that there is more than one type of Missionary Baptists, notwithstanding the clearness and simplicity of our creed, confession and catechism—the New Testament. They do not differ in preaching and principles, but in what is as important—practice.

There are in our churches to-day many of the "dip-and-be done-with-it" Baptists. They are very probably regarded as unharmful members, but often they are of little good except in increasing the strength of mere numbers. Morally, perhaps, they are unobjectionable; they are quiet, well-behaved, and live pious lives, but they do not take that interest in their church that they should. They seem to be of the opinion that the profession of faith and the ordinance of baptism—in that these two things are so often urged as the key to Baptist churches—are all that is necessary to being a Baptist. Let them recall the first Baptist, and contemplate the fact that he earned his title because he baptized, because he was a worker, not because some one baptized him. John the Baptist was not content with saving his own soul. A Baptist, in our opinion, is aggressive, is a worker; he forwards the Baptist cause because he is convinced that it is Christ's cause, and he forwards it not only by professing faith and accepting the ordinances of Baptists, but also by living and working to make his fellow-man a follower of and a worker for the same cause. He is a poor Baptist who is content to live, morally, professing to live according to Baptist tenets, and yet does not accept the whole faith and commission. There are other souls to save besides our own, and it is every Baptist's duty to make himself an instrument in saving them. Immersion alone does not make Missionary Baptists; professions do not; faith and regeneration do, but surely they make more active Baptists than we sometimes see.

Again, there are good, honest Baptists who do not seem to get exactly into the spirit of denominational objects and work. They are undoubtedly Baptists in every sense of the word, and yet they lack something. The New Testament is their rule of faith and practice, and surely that is all-sufficient. Yet while they may be good enough, and no one will criticise them, they lack interest in the work of the denomination as a whole, though as individual workers no one can complain of them. The trouble with them is that they do not keep posted; they are ignorant of Baptist affairs past and present, and are content to observe only the doctrines. They do not know enough of the labors of their brethren in the vineyard. All Christendom is said to be a brotherhood, and we hope it may really become perceptibly so; just now, however, we would rather have all Missionary Baptists convinced of their brotherhood. We want them to pull together, and surely they should, being in the same harness. Every Baptist should be acquainted with Baptist history from the beginning, and prepared for any occasion to defend it. We wish we knew more of it ourselves. Every Baptist should know what Baptists the world over are doing in the present time; they should feel an interest in the work everywhere as well as in their own home church. Doctrines and principles make good Baptists, but knowledge of Baptist history, how those doctrines and principles were struggled for and preserved, and acquaintance with present day Baptist progress would make them better—would make them broad, whole-souled, progressive, rounded Baptists, stronger as men and abler as servants of the Master. We have doctrinal unity; we need laboring, practical unity of effort.

QUESTIONABLE.

Reading a New York daily paper recently we were impressed with the modern custom (only in the North, we are glad to say,) of advertising church services and the attractions offered to make them interesting. What we have to say is more in the nature of warning and deprecation than otherwise. We hope that a good God may spare our churches—our religion—the humiliation of such methods, though it really seems that they are essential to the salvation of souls in New York, and if they are, we have no reason to complain of them.

On the same page with advertisements of dry goods, hotels, horse sales, etc., appear also advertisements of almost all sects represented in New York—Protestants, Roman Catholics, Christian Scientists, Hebrews and Islamites. But this is unobjectionable in a great city, where newspapers are the guideboards to strangers and wanderers; and any sect has a right to announce its services and subjects of worship. But let us look further: Numerous revival services—widely known as the "Evangelistic Campaign"—are advertised, and Bro. A. C. Dixon is very prominently mentioned in these. The preachers do not seem to confine their efforts to one church, but go from church to church, or lecture hall to opera house, in the same day. It was announced that Bro. Dixon would speak in a certain hall "every day at noon for ten minutes upon "Why I am a Christian," and at several other points on other subjects during the week. In addition to this he is serving a great pastorate with much success in Brooklyn. Yet Bro. Dixon alone seems an insufficient attraction for the New York people, although he is leading the "campaign." Other distinguished speakers are advertised to speak at the same time—and they are not of the same denomination either;—but these are not sufficient: Musicians, who are supposed to be of note, are announced, and to "cap the climax," final mention is made of a "Creole quartet." Of course all this goes to show the religious condition in New York. The people are so accustomed to being entertained and amused, instead of instructed, and of being offered special attractions and inducements that they will not even go within reach of the gospel for their souls' sake, or to hear the eloquence of preachers whom we would go miles to hear; they demand something of lighter nature than lectures and sermons; they have to be attracted by musicians, quartets, etc.; they demand a promise of sensual recompense for the trouble they undergo in hearing a distinguished Christian lecturer. It strikes us that these methods reflect sadly on the city, and to put it mildly, are questionable.

New York is a great city; it has some great men and great preachers in it; but it is greatly in need of missionary evangelization by missionary (personal) methods; so it seems to us.

"Penny-wise and pound-foolish" is the only expression that, it seems to us, does justice to some church methods. A Baptist congregation finds a destitute section; it contracts for a church edifice. Another congregation of a separate Protestant denomination perceives that the Baptists have made a wise move, are going to increase their numbers and influence; and it immediately purchases a lot in the same community, to serve the same destitute section. Two Christian churches are built where only one can do good work, and only one can be supported. The field will probably remain a charge on the hands of the rival denominations. Such are some of the ways the Lord's money is spent. Suppose that that money had been given to Foreign Missions, where rivalry is practically impossible. Would it not be more greatly blessed? Would not more have been done for the Great Cause? Would it not have been wiser even from a business—a worldly—point of view? The cry of the heathen is no uncertain evidence that we have not yet reached the point where money given in the name of the Lord can be squandered in rivalry to no purpose. If any of our churches have a surplus that they are holding to build a rival church with after some other Christian church has occupied the field, we recommend that they give it to one of the needy objects of the Convention. If you know of a field that ought to have the gospel, then spend money on it; but be sure you do it before any other church has gone to great expense for the same field. Use the Lord's money where it will best serve the Lord.

"What thou doest in secret shall be proclaimed from the house-tops." We have illustrations of this every day of our life. If there were no other evidence of an eternal and just God of reparation, the daily history of the world would be sufficient. The Creator does know, and does proclaim the good and the evil deeds of men from the house-tops. We sometimes think that the evil only is revealed, but it is because there is much more evil than good to be revealed, and also because envious beings prefer to hear and proclaim the evil in life to the good. No man's life is full of good deeds but that it is known. If they are not proclaimed from the housetops in life, they are the more manifest in death. We should endeavor to be unostentatious in good doing; but we need not fear that it will be known and admired of men as well as God sooner or later. "The evil that men do" is doubly exposed because men will reveal it, forgetting the good, even before the Almighty would. Both will be proclaimed. God knows the good and the evil, and sees them long before men do. What a blessed condition that is in which one can feel that, however great and many may have been the mistakes of one's life, he is conscious of having done his best! What a stimulus to good works—even if there were no other—is the knowledge that a just Judge knows our motives and deeds from the beginning, and that an impartial Searcher of hearts will make them known in his own good time.

It has been painfully manifest for many years that the seasons in which Christ's birth, death and resurrection are commemorated, are observed in any but a Christian manner. Christmas is a day of carnal privileges with many, and has excuse for existence only in that it is a day of joy for young people, and a season for the exercise of charity. It is not of Christian, but of heathen origin. But the Easter season, in which Roman Catholics and Episcopalians commemorate the death and resurrection of our Lord, while it is not characterized by the drunkenness and revelry of irresponsible people, is desecrated by the vanity of the members of the churches which instituted and now sanction it. In the cities it is the day of spring dresses and bonnets, of new styles and envy and rivalry. A striking evidence of this was in the advertising columns of one of our city dailies last week. The Jewish merchants were advertising new goods for Easter. Of course they showed their idea of the season; it was a money-making one. Yet theirs was about as commendable a use of the occasion as that of many of the church members, who indeed render it possible for the Jews to make such use of it.

We are rejoiced at the statement that our churches in North Carolina have given more for the various objects up to date than they did last year in the same time. We know we are not any wealthier, and therefore must conclude that we are becoming better. The fact is reason for encouragement to greater efforts. The Convention meets at Dallas in early May. We want North Carolina to stand before that body with a better comparative record than any of its sister States. The Lord's cause is greatly in need. We can do much to relieve it, and now is the time of all times. State, Home and Foreign Missions need the prayers of every Baptist in the State, and the financial help of every one who can give it. Bro. Durham must raise our State debt before April 1st; Bro. McConnell has called on us only once, but his cause is as needy as it is worthy of our help; and Bro. Willingham must go before the Convention with that burdensome debt minimized, and must have assurances that he can send out more missionaries this fall. We have done very well so far; let us rejoice and move onward to greater things. The Lord is calling.

Reader—brother pastor, brother, sister—devote half an hour to getting us a new subscriber this week. It may be quite an easy matter; it can't hurt any one. It will help you, the denomination, and the Recorder.

There were more than one thousand persons present in the Baptist Sunday-schools (white) in Raleigh on March 18th, 1894.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....We learn that Bro. C. C. Newton has reached Africa safely.

....Rev. Jno. E. White is assisting Bro. Watson at Norfolk in a meeting.

....Bro. Jones of the Gastonia church baptized two candidates on the 18th inst.

....Dr. Pritchard spent last week in Lancaster, S. C., holding a series of revival services.

....Rev. J. F. Love of Suffolk, Va., arrives here this week to assist Bro. Hunter in a meeting.

....The Western Recorder says Baptists are preaching the gospel in more than forty languages.

....Rev. O. L. Hailey has severed his connection with the Baptist and Reflector of Tennessee.

....The Baptists of Winston are preparing to erect a chapel in East Winston in the near future.

....Rev. L. Johnson was engaged in a series of meetings in Olivet church, Charlotte, last week.

....Rev. J. L. White of Asheville is this week at Hendersonville assisting Rev. D. A. Glenn in a meeting.

....Rev. C. W. Williams of Canada is serving the church at Murphy, Cherokee county, temporarily.

....Rev. N. S. Jones of Salisbury is assisting Rev. J. O. Alderman in a series of meetings at Concord.

....Rev. P. H. Fontaine of Elmo, Va., occupied the pulpit of the Main St. Church, Reidsville, on the 18th.

....We thank Bro. J. M. McManaway for several clippings—"Worth Repeating"—that appear in this issue.

....Dr. G. W. Sanderlin of Washington recently preached a fine sermon in Elizabeth City, says the Economist Falcon.

....Rev. J. T. Riddick, a student of Bethel Hill Institute, has been chosen to serve the Mt. Creek Baptist church.

....Rev. J. M. Gillespie writes from Henrietta, March 20: "We are having a glorious meeting at our church. It has been progressing ten days."

....One thousand Recorder readers by sending each one dollar to J. D. Boushall "for the debt," can turn what may be a defeat in to a great victory.

....Dr. M. B. Wharton's Norfolk church is building a chapel in that city that will be named in memory of Dr. Burrows. It will be dedicated next month.

....Rev. Dr. R. H. Whitaker the veteran editor of the Spirit of the Age, Raleigh, N. C., has retired, and is succeeded by Mr. R. C. Gulley of Franklinton.

....Rev. Dr. T. E. Skinner of Raleigh preached the Baccalaureate sermon before the graduates of three departments of Shaw University Sunday the 25th.

....We were very glad to see Bro. Van Deventer and wife in Raleigh last week. Bro. Van Deventer, much to the joy of his flock, has decided to remain in Henderson.

....Whatever is done "on the debt" according to the Convention's proposition, must be in the next five days. The money must all be in the hands of the Treasurer on Monday next.

....We hope the brethren who sent us extensive printed programmes of their Sunday-school conventions will pardon us for abridging them. We think we have printed all that is necessary.

....Some of our subscribers are unusually slow in renewing their subscriptions. Remember we are glad to credit you with any part of the subscription, if you cannot forward the whole amount.

....Dr. J. W. Carter closed at the First Baptist church in this city, last Wednesday night, a six months' series of Wednesday night talks on the first part of "Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress."

....Dr. J. W. M. Williams, who has been at Chapel Hill for the past three months, has returned to Baltimore and filled the pulpit of the First Baptist church of that city on last Sunday morning.

....A Convention that cannot afford a college and a paper, ought to disband and unite with one that can.—W. N. C. Baptist. Not necessarily, brother; yet, let it be granted in this instance. We bide our time.

....Rev. D. J. Harris of Sparta, we learn from the Caswell News, will in the near future occupy the Baptist parsonage at Yanceyville. Bro. Harris serves Trinity, Beulah, Kerr's Chapel, and Ruffin churches.

....We are glad to know that Edward, the son of Dr. Thos. L. Banks of Banks, N. C., and brother of Dr. Braxton Banks of Garner, has recently graduated from the University of Baltimore School of Medicine.

....In our next issue will appear the first instalment of "How far Ought the State to Undertake to Educate?" by a "Citizen of North Carolina." The discussion of the question will appear in six or seven successive issues.

....Mr. N. M. Lawrence of Tarboro has been selected by the board of directors of the Oxford Orphan Asylum to succeed Dr. Black as superintendent. Need we state that Mr. Lawrence is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church?

....The recent purchase of property in North Raleigh for a Baptist mission failed of judicial confirmation, the bid having been raised. The brethren had bought also the building formerly occupied by the Second Presbyterian congregation, for use in the erection of the new building, but other plans will now be adopted.

....We had a letter from Dr. Hufham last week in which he says his "heart is in the highlands," and that he will open his work in Shelby the first Sunday in May. Again let us congratulate Shelby and the West on securing Bro. Hufham.

....An imposter has been operating on the churches in the western part of the State. He is known to have used two names, "Jno. Marston," and Morrison, and has a testimonial, which must be a forgery, from D. L. Moody. Brethren, beware.

....Dr. Robert Ryland, the venerable Virginia servant of the Master, passed his eighty-ninth birthday on the 14th inst., and says in the Religious Herald that he is "hale, hopeful and happy." God bless him with many happy and hopeful returns of the day.

....We were glad to see Profs. Taylor, Poteat, Sledd, Lanneau, Carlyle and Sikes of Wake Forest College in Raleigh last week. All, except Dr. Taylor, were returning from Durham, where they attended the annual meeting of the North Carolina College Association.

....Here's what a good brother writes about Bro. Brown: "Money scarce, but tell Bro. Durham that the First church (Winston) is trying to raise some money for missions, and we never fail to do what our pastor asks us. Bro. Brown is getting better and better; he hasn't an equal in the State."

....Sunday, April 1st, Bro. Willingham requests us to announce, is desired to be observed as a day of prayer for missions. We believe Missionary Baptists should pray for the diffusion of the gospel every day; but let every pastor and every reader that sees this ask the Lord especially to come now to the help of this cause.

....At the commencement exercises of Yadkin Valley Institute, Rev. J. E. Greene, Principal, which takes place May 29th and 30th, Rev. W. R. Bradshaw will preach the annual sermon, and Rev. Hight C. Moore will deliver the literary address. Brethren Greene, Bradshaw and Moore are young Wake Forest graduates.

....Bro. L. G. Broughton writes concerning his recent Roanoke meeting: "Rev. C. A. G. Thomas of Greensboro remained with us ten days. His preaching was forceful from beginning to end. The entire church was greatly helped and more than fifty persons professed faith in Christ. Thomas is truly a fine preacher."

....Rev. J. L. Sproles of Shelby accepts a call to the pastorate at West Point, Miss., to enter on work April 1st. Bro. Sproles' ministry at Shelby has been blessed with the addition of 178 members, more than half by baptism. Bro. Sproles regrets greatly to leave the State, but thinks the Lord's will is for him to go. We wish him well in his new field.

....Brother C. W. Matthews of Norfolk writes under date of the 24th inst: "Moody leaves next week. The meetings have done good, but they have not been as interesting as was expected. Moody is great, but there is any amount of sameness about his preaching." Mr. Moody now goes to Richmond, where great preparations and expectations await him.

....A brother writes us: "Please correct the statement made in your last issue that our church (Main Street, Reidsville), will remit through the Board." The statement did not appear in the Recorder. We said the church in question had decided to forward its Foreign Mission money for Bro. Royall through the Board. Will our brother inform us if a resolution to that effect was not passed by the church?

....Dr. Broughton's revival services in the Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle came to a glorious close last Saturday. There have been about fifty professions, and the zeal of the congregation has been quickened. Rev. Simms baptized thirteen converts last Friday, and seven others presented themselves for baptism on Sunday; others will follow. Dr. Broughton's stay in our city has been a blessed one; he has made a lasting impression on many hearts for God's glory.

....The revival meetings conducted by Rev. W. C. Tyree of Durham with Pastor Gwaltney's congregation at Wake Forest College closed last Friday. We have heard competent judges say it was one of the finest meetings ever held at the College. The number of conversions is now indefinite, but the evidences of spiritual revival are very manifest. We thank God for his abundant blessings on Bro. Tyree's labors, and for sending him to North Carolina.

....Rev. G. W. Harmon writes encouragingly from Weldon: "The years of my ministry have for the most part been spent among some of the best of the saints, and my present field contains some of the 'salt of the earth.' I am now preaching a series of sermons on distinctive principles. I believe it to be the imperative duty of pastors to indoctrinate the people; the Bible enjoins it, the times demand it. After some years as pastor I am profoundly convinced that numbers do not guarantee strength." We heartily agree with our brother in this matter. Doctrinal sermons seem dull to some, but they are meat to the hungry.

....Rev. R. T. Bryan was in Raleigh last week to see a specialist in regard to his ear and throat, which have been very seriously effected of late. We regret to say that the doctors advise him not to participate in public exercises for at least a month. Bro. Bryan is very sorry that he could not fill his appointments which we announced some weeks ago, and wishes especially to tender his regrets to Brethren Van Deventer and Taylor, who were making extensive preparations for the occasion. At the time he was sick, and there was scarlet fever in his family. We earnestly hope that Bro. Bryan's health may be speedily restored, and that he may yet be enabled to fulfil many engagements in our State before returning to China. He is recuperating at his home in Durham.

....We take the following from a press dispatch from London, March 21st: "The members of Spurgeon's Tabernacle met this evening and elected Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, son of the great preacher, to be their pastor. The Rev. Dr. Pierson of Philadelphia, who was the rival candidate, received but 649 votes, against 2,027 cast for Dr. Spurgeon." According to this report there are not but 2,027 Baptists in Spurgeon's Tabernacle; they who voted for Dr. Pierson voted for an unimmersed pastor.

....The Wake Forest Student for March contains among others a thoughtful article, "Tennyson as an Evolutionist," by Prof. W. L. Poteat; the "University of Chicago from the Inside," by a graduate of Wake Forest College and a student at the University, Mr. Geo. W. Paschal; the "Revision of Creeds," being one of the essays of the Thomas Dixon, Jr., medal contest of last spring by the successful contestant, Mr. C. P. Sapp; "Irrigation in Arid America," by Mr. C. V. Brooks, an undergraduate. It is a good number.

....Another member of the First Baptist church, Raleigh, has been called to rest. Bro. Jno. H. Baker died, from injuries received in a fall, on the morning of the 23d. He had been a trusted employee of Messrs. W. C. and A. B. Stronach about twenty five years, and the esteem in which they held him is a great testimony to his Christian character. His funeral was conducted by Dr. J. W. Carter on Friday morning in the presence of a large gathering of friends. He leaves a wife and several children, whom we commend to the Heavenly Father in this sad hour.

....Hon. J. C. Scarborough, Chairman of the Executive Committee, has announced that the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College will meet in the Baptist Mission Rooms, Raleigh, N. C., Tuesday April 10th. Important business will engage the body and every member should be present. Among other things the following will be considered: Election of a President of the Board of Trustees; the needed arrangement to meet the proposition of the American Baptist Education Society; enlargement of the Faculty; the Law School.

....The last issue of the Baptist Union, with its gaudy "Easter" covers, is more Episcopalian than Baptist. It is enough for us. The organ of the B. Y. P. U. would teach our children to imitate Roman Catholics in the observance of Easter. North Carolina Baptists commemorate Christ's resurrection the first day every week, and while we are among them, there is a certainty that attempts of "modernized" or "improved" Baptists to gain a foothold will be opposed. If this is one of the accompaniments of young people's societies, North Carolina can and will do without them. Let us teach the children of Christ, but in the name of all that is good, do not lead them after Roman Catholics.

....Pres. Chas. F. Meserve, A. M., of Shaw University informs us that the annual commencement exercises will be held March 28th—30th as follows: Wednesday night, 28th inst., the Leonard Medical School and School of Pharmacy will graduate fourteen students, Hon. K. P. Battle, LL. D., of the State University delivering the address; on the night of March 29th the graduating exercises of the Law School will take place, R. H. Battle, Esq., a prominent member of the Raleigh Bar, delivering the address. Friday night following the Missionary Training School will graduate its first class, Dr. M. MacVicar of New York delivering the address. The occasion promises to be very interesting.

... In this issue Rev. S. M. Brown contributes one of the most excellent articles on the church and one of the ablest rebuffs to internal organizations that we have seen; Bro. Sheets writes interestingly of a unique life of "old times," and "Clerk" contributes a valuable historical paper—Organization of the Baptist church in Murfreesboro;—Dr. J. L. Carroll is timely in opening the discussion of representation at the Southern Baptist Convention, and Bro. Matheny, who also has something pointed to say regarding the educational policy of the State, suggests a plan of representation that possesses the merit of originality, if no other; one of the best and wisest of Southern Baptists—"W. A. M."—writes consolingly of the "Right Training of Children,"—an apparently simple and commonplace subject, but you cannot afford to fail to view it in the new light of this article; our good Bro. Stradley, for the first time in thirty years, is not exactly "on the track,"—he is doubtful about the Female University, but we think we can help him "right himself" in our next issue; Bro. Stringfield settles some doubts about the same matter; a China letter, interesting announcements of meetings, valued news letters too numerous to mention, not to speak of—well, we really believe you are reading a good paper this week!

The Meeting at Wake Forest.

Our meeting closed last night. The work began first among the young men. For more than a week before the regular preaching began, they were holding meetings of great spiritual power. I have rarely ever seen such a revival as we have here among the students.

Bro. Tyree of Durham came on the 16th and preached twice each day until the 23d inst. He preached the Word with simplicity and great earnestness, and God greatly blessed it. His style of preaching and manner of conducting each service is safe and all that any church could ask. It is thought that Wake Forest has never enjoyed a more genuine revival of religion. We are full of joy, and I trust of gratitude also. To the Lord belongs all the glory.

W. R. GWALTNEY.

Wake Forest, March 24, 1894.

Subscribers will please inform us when they fail to get the RECORDER.

The Baptist Female University.

For thirty five years I have been working with the Baptists of North Carolina. So far as I remember I have always been in accord with all their work. I love unity. But I am nearer out of harmony with some of my brethren now than ever before. I did not see in the beginning, neither have I been able to see yet, the propriety of undertaking to establish a "Baptist Female University." I am in favor of female education. I wish all our girls could take the full course in the schools we have.

But I understand by a university, a school that begins where colleges leave off, and advance students to higher degrees of scholarship. Now if there are girls enough in North Carolina, or even in adjoining States, who have graduated in colleges, and wish to extend their education, to support a female university in our State, then, I say with all my heart, let us have it. But is there any chance to have a university indeed—a school supported by college graduates? If there is I cannot see it. The difficulty has been, and still is, to get many of our girls to take even a partial, much less a full seminary or college course. And of the few who take the full course, there are but very few who want to take an extended course. These few from a great many States would have to be gathered together to support a university. But the few who do wish to take an extended course, can easily be accommodated. They can take a post graduate course in colleges, or go to institutions of higher grade in other States. I doubt whether there would be ten girls a year in North Carolina, who would want to take a university course.

A real university means something. It requires a president and teachers who are university scholars. A fountain cannot rise higher than its source. Something more than college training is needed for university teaching. Persons qualified for university teachers demand and command large salaries. This, with other necessary university expenses, makes education in such institutions costly. The expenses of a student at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, are nearly double what they are at Wake Forest College. Can we hope for patronage sufficient to meet such expenses? I think not, unless some rich person or persons will endow the university with at least half a million dollars.

But says some one, "We do not expect to reach so high a standard." Perhaps you do not. Such an expectation would be unreasonable. But not to reach it is to fall below the reality of a university. If then, we cannot have a real university, why have one only in name?

Some say, "We must have a school for girls of the same grade that Wake Forest College is for boys." Then you must call Wake Forest a university to make it equal to the one to be established in Raleigh for girls. Great complaint has been made against the State University of Chapel Hill, and the Normal School at Greensboro, because, instead of doing the higher and different kind of work they were expected to do, they have come down into sharp competition with other schools. And yet those who have joined in this complaint, are proposing to establish a school, higher in name, but yet will compete with schools already existing. If money and patronage enough can be secured to establish a university de facto, then I am in favor of it. I would be glad indeed, if it would be shown that North Carolina is able to lead all the other States of the Union; for, so far as I know, there is not a female university in America. I cannot see the propriety of our denomination, as such, establishing and supporting a school that is to compete with other schools in the State. If the proposed school is to have the money and the patronage of the whole State, then let it be what its name indicates, a university indeed. Let it be, in degree of scholarship, as far above other female schools, as Wake Forest College is above the academies, or as Johns Hopkins University is above Wake Forest College.

I have not written to provoke controversy, or to keep wiser brethren from doing what they think best, but simply to express my individual view of an important denominational question. I have written candidly but kindly.

J. A. STRADLEY.

Baptist Female University.

There not a Baptist Female school in the State that answers the purpose of our denomination. The old Chowan Baptist Female Institute at Murfreesboro is for the most part a local school, and grandly answers the purpose for which it was established years ago. Had it been more centrally located, it would have been long ago occupying a place equal to any female institution in the land. It will doubtless remain to the end of time doing a local but grand work in the training of young ladies. I want to say just here that the Trustees of that Institution hail with joy the establishment of the Baptist Female University. There is no such thing as antagonistic thought by any except by such as may wish to run a private enterprise at the great expense of having a large number of our Baptist girls attend Pedobaptist schools, or a larger number that attend none at all.

As has been stated before, the Trustees have secured a lot in the City of Raleigh, which has two buildings that can be utilized to advantage, but which are not large enough for school purposes. With the money paid for this lot, a large building could have been built outside of the city; and we have no doubt but we could sell the property now for the amount we paid for it. But the more we consider the advantages to the school, the better are we pleased with the site selected. It is Christian education we want for our daughters, and the Trustees have done well to keep this important feature in mind all the time. We cannot afford to deprive the boarding pupils of the religious advantages to be derived from regular attendance on the services of two of the most influential Baptist churches in the State. Many parents in the State know the concealed sorrow that comes to the heart when the son or daughter comes home with a certificate of graduation, but without a knowledge of Jesus as a personal Saviour. As servants of God the Trustees feel bound to take advantage of any and every influence for good to the pupils.

In order that we might be able to open the school the first of September, 1894, we secured a large building very near our buildings, which we meant to use for school purposes a year or two, but we learned first of March that we could not rent the building. We then tried to purchase the building, but could not do so at a price we were willing to pay. In this disappointment which we regard as providential, we appointed a committee to secure plans, specifications, cost of materials, &c., to present to the Trustees 10th of April with a view to erecting the needed building at once. This committee has found that there never was a time when materials could be obtained so cheaply—a most fortunate time to build. Owing to the great financial pressure now upon us, it would seem to some a most unfortunate time to undertake to raise money enough to erect such a building as we must have. When we look at the necessity for such a school as this is destined to be, and when we look at the hand of Him who has been leading in its establishment, we confidently believe He will send men and women to our help who will be willing to appropriate much of the goods intrusted to them to this great work. We depend upon God, through these men and women, and other friends of the work who are willing to struggle with us for its establishment.

Few days ago I told our dear sister, Mrs. Holleman, what we were trying to do, expecting her to give only a small amount. She said, "My husband has gone on to the better land, and it will not be long before I shall go, too. I have $475 that I can do without, that you can have." We are persuaded that there are many others in the State who have money or property that they "can do without." To these we appeal with confidence. We are permitted by the Legislature to own one million dollars worth of property which shall be exempt from taxation.

When can the school be opened? Certainly not the first of September, but perhaps in October. From what I have learned from the Trustees, every effort possible will be made to get the buildings ready to open the school this fall.

O. L. STRINGFIELD, Sec.

Raleigh, March 23, 1894.

Notes from Lenoir.

Dear Recorder:—Matters move on much as usual in our little town. Bro. E. F. Jones of Gastonia aided our pastor in a series of meetings. He did excellent preaching to the gratification of all who heard him. The meetings were largely attended—house packed every night. And while no conversions have as yet been reported, we feel that lasting good has been done our town. No high pressure means were resorted to, and we had the pure, simple, plain gospel, the preacher depending on the Spirit to move men to repentance. Doubtless "his word will not return unto him void, but will accomplish that whereunto it was sent." When we resort to the means of some of our modern evangelists, we affect to do a work that belongs purely to the Holy Spirit. We want to trust God, sow good seed, and depend upon him to mature a harvest.

Our Sunday-school is increasing in numbers and interest, and will reach one hundred, we hope, during the next quarter.

Bro. J. W. Powell in RECORDER of the 14th inst. speaks the truth regarding State aid to educational institutions. We of the western part of the State are thoroughly tired of being taxed for the support of institutions run in direct competition with our denominational colleges. As Baptists, Methodists, and Presbyterians, we have a laudable pride in our schools. To say nothing of the evident tendency to consolidation of Church and State, it is flagrant injustice and nothing short of class-legislation, at which we are all kicking, to be forced to work against our own interests. We would not be narrow, but insist that our State school move on out of the way of our denominational schools, or else get down off its State-aid and be like the rest of us.

J. V. MCCALL.

Lenoir, March 19, 1894.

A North Carolina Missionary in Siam.

It is generally known that North Carolina Baptists are represented by missionaries in China, Western Africa, Brazil and Mexico; but it may not be generally known that there has been a female Baptist missionary from this State to Siam.

Dr. McGilvary, returned Presbyterian missionary from Siam, informs me that both the wives of Rev. Mr. Eaton, the successor of Dr. Dean in Siam, were born and reared near Mebane, N. C. Mr. Eaton went to Siam as an unmarried missionary under appointment of the Northern Missionary Union. Miss Cheek was sent out as a single Presbyterian missionary by the Southern Presbyterians. They met in Bangkok, were married, and she became a Baptist. She died, leaving several children, who were sent to her sister in North Carolina, and Mr. Eaton has returned to North Carolina to look after his children, and has married his first wife's sister.

Brother and Sister Eaton are now at Mebane, and he would be glad while in North Carolina, Dr. McGilvary tells me, to talk to our churches on the Foreign Mission work. Perhaps he might be secured to address mass-meetings on missions, while Bro. Bryan is laid aside by sickness.

N. B. CONE.

If you want to be filled with the Holy Ghost, obey; if you want to keep filled, go right on obeying.—D. L. Moody.

Representation in the Southern Baptist Convention.

At the session of the Convention at Atlanta in 1892, I was appointed on a committee to consider and report upon the propriety of a change in the basis of representation that would reduce the size of the body to less unwieldy proportions. A majority of this committee had a conference at Mont Eagle, Tenn., during the summer following, but no report was agreed upon. Nor was the committee able to agree at a conference had during the session of the Convention at Nashville last May. So the Convention increased the committee by appointing upon it a member from each State within its bounds, with instructions to report at the ensuing session at Dallas, Texas. Now as the representative of North Carolina on that committee, I would be glad to have our brethren express through the RECORDER during the month of April their opinions on this subject. My own personal conviction is that the financial basis on which the Convention had been operating from the beginning should be continued, inasmuch as it gave it the character of a missionary society pure and simple, as opposed to an ecclesiastical machine which the numerical basis would make it, and at the same time preserve the right of churches and individuals contributing funds to determine, through their own representatives, what disposition shall be made of them. But I want to represent, as far as I may, the views and preferences of our people. So I invite a full and free expression of opinion through the RECORDER.

J. L. CARROLL.

Chapel Hill, March 26, 1894.

A Rift in the Cloud.

A rift in the cloud that has been down heavy upon us for the past ninety days lets in a little light, the wind has changed, and we now hope that on Monday, April 2nd, the sun will come out, and there will be thanksgiving in many hearts. Much can be done and will be done in the few days that remain for us to complete the Convention's proposition.

Let every one, therefore, who has pledged an amount towards the $5,000 to be paid "on or before the 1st of April," forward the same, without further notice, to J. D. Boushall, Raleigh, N. C.

Noah Biggs (the Lord's blessings be upon him) says:

"I see you are about to fail to secure the needed $5,000. It grieves me very much. I write to say, although I am hard pressed, I am willing, if you cannot do any better, to be one of ten, or any larger number, to pay whatever is, next Monday, lacking on the $5,000."

Where are the nine? WHERE ARE THE NINE?

It will take quick work. Last Sunday was not favorable for this object. But it is the Lord's work. It may be the Lord's will for you, reader, to help. Can you not do it at once? Send one dollar, if you can. Baltimore, Md., and China have been heard from. Bro. Richard J. Biggs of the former place sends two dollars, and China sends two dollars through Brother and Sister Bryan. This should stimulate us all. May the Lord give success. In haste,

C. DURHAM.

Delegates to Southern Baptist Convention.

APPOINTED BY THE BOARD MARCH 20, 1894.

C. E. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Gordan, J. S. Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. G. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. L. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O. L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, R. Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, S. F. Conrad.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATION.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honeycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Kesler; Raleigh, N. B. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

The other Associations, so far as we have been able to find out by a hasty examination of the minutes, did not appoint delegates at their last annual meetings. The Board is not authorized to appoint delegates for these Associations.

C. DURHAM, Cor. Sec.

To the Trustees of Chowan Baptist Female Institute.

There will be a meeting of the Trustees of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute at Murfreesboro at 10 a. m. on Tuesday the 10th day of April, 1894.

The lease of President Brewer terminates next June, hence it will be a very important meeting, and it is earnestly desired that every member of the Board attend the meeting.

R. P. THOMAS,
President Board of Trustees.

Rev. C. Durham preached at Aberdeen last Sunday morning and night. The brethren organized a Sunday-school, and expect to organize a church there on the fourth Sunday in May. Their prospects are good for a large Sunday-school and at an early day a self-sustaining church.

"In the Observatory."

BY M. P. M.

"REPRESENTATION."

As usual the question of the basis of representation in the Southern Baptist Convention "bobs up serenely" and demands consideration. It is a question hard to settle, and in fact cannot be limited except by the number who will attend. It is a great pity to deny any one the privilege of attending who really desires to do so. Like most brethren, I have an opinion about the matter and will proceed to "air it." Why not? That is what an opinion is for. I think that we ought to have three conventions in place of one. Some one will say, but that would call for three foreign secretaries and three home secretaries, which would be a heavy expense, while on the other hand the extra expense of attending these conventions would support the extra secretaries. If the territory was divided, we could have more of our brethren present, and it would not be long before each convention would be doing as much as we are now doing. Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina would be plenty of territory for one convention. It would represent 400,000 white Baptists, and that is enough for one body. Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Florida would represent 600,000 Baptists, and the territory west of the Mississippi river would make another convention. The time will come when such division must be made, and the sooner the better.

"PRESIDENT WINSTON'S REPORT."

There are three points in the above mentioned report which I desire to "touch upon" briefly. In doing so, I shall be frank and just to all parties concerned.

The first is on the question of advanced scholarship in the University. On this point I am aware that there is a difference of opinion among those who oppose the present methods of the University management, but I do not hesitate to express the earnest conviction that advancing the scholarship of the University will not relieve the difficulties now recognized by the friends of denominational colleges in the State. The only solution of the question, doing justice to all parties, is for the State to cease all effort in higher education and devote her money and energies to the education of the masses in the best possibly equipped common schools. But some will say, that will destroy our University. Not necessarily. If the wealthy men in this State want an undenominational University to which they can send their sons, then let them endow such an institution. They are abundantly able to do so, and in nine cases out of ten they are the only ones benefited by the present program. There is absolutely no justice in taxing the poor people of the State, many of whom are voluntarily supporting their denominational colleges, to provide higher education for the sons of rich men. It is on a par with a high protective tariff. There is neither justice nor right in the State furnishing higher education on any terms, and for one I am opposed to it in toto.

The second point I want to notice is the question of an appropriation for the education of teachers for our common schools. Of all the ridiculous propositions I have seen, this "takes the cake." One would think that our common schools are perishing for the want of highly educated teachers, while the truth is the fund appropriated for such schools is so outrageously small that no well qualified teachers would think of devoting themselves to teaching in the common schools for a living. It is not likely that we will secure any of these University educational teachers in our common schools unless it be in connection with a private school where the parent has to pay for so many extra studies that it costs him very nearly as much as if there were not any public fund. It is only another scheme to scoop in some more of the State's money and have a pretext for larger appropriations. There are plenty private and denominational schools in the State which are supported by tuition or private donations to educate all the common school teachers we need in the State.

The third is on the question of the University and the colleges. The President is very anxious to be on "good terms" with the colleges, and yet he would take every student out of them to-morrow if he could and had room for them. His efforts in the past three years bear out the preceding assertion. If the President is so anxious to have the colleges succeed, let him ask the State for no more aid and put his school upon its merits and let it so stand along with the others. If he wants endowment, let him go to the friends of such a school and ask it as the other schools have to do.

Bertie Union Meeting.

The next session of the Bertie Union Meeting convenes with Mars church. Elder J. B. Boone is to preach the introductory sermon, Elder T. T. Speight, alternate. Elder Reese to preach the missionary sermon, Elder Curtis, alternate.

Practical subject continued from last session, viz., "More frequent preaching for our churches, where are the advantages, and where may they be obtained?" To Bro. C. W. Mitchell and Elder E. T. Williams.

1. Practical subject: What is selfishness?—its effects, and how cultivated. Discussion to be opened by Bro. Levi Hoggard and Elder Curtis.

2. Exposition of 1 Peter 3. 18. To Bro. W. M. Outlaw and Elder Britt.

3. Exposition of Matthew 5. 23, 24. To Bro. F. E. Meyers and Elder Spruill.

4. What relation should Baptists sustain to the orphans? To Bro. J. Barnes and Elder J. E. Matthews.

A. J. CONE, Secretary.

Make Bro. Durham's "rift in the cloud" a little larger by sending a contribution towards the Convention debt.

The Right Training of Children.

"Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Prov. 22 : 6.

With equal truth Solomon might have said the converse of this statement is also true, "Train up a child in the way he should not go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." Yet, experience has shown rules subject to exceptions. Not always the carefully-trained children of pious households prove to be godly men and women, nor do the children from godless homes, not even from homes of vice, always turn out to be vicious men and women. One has observed but little who has not known cases of exception of both kinds. But all history shows such, in both instances, to be exceptional. Usually, the pious and godly are from pious and godly homes and are the result of careful and godly training, while the vicious are, for the most part, from godless homes and the result of a neglected or vicious training. And so rarely do we see the cases reversed that it becomes a matter of wonder and comment, on the part of everybody, when godly training results badly, or ungodly training, happily. So that, in popular estimation, the truthfulness of Solomon's assertion is not only not doubted, but is strongly confirmed, by the reception given, in the popular thinking, even to these exceptional cases.

But, it has occurred to me, that perhaps Solomon had a still deeper significance in his utterance than is usually brought out. Perhaps he meant to say (if not his principal point, nevertheless a point,) that the old almost uniformly return in death to the principles of their childhood's training. This was Archbishop Hughes' thought, when he said, "Give me the children till they are seven years of age, and I care not who has them afterwards, they will die Catholics." It is characteristic of old age to live in the past and especially to recur to the scenes and lessons of early childhood. Indeed, human life seems a circle in which old age and childhood bend together and touch for its completion. The soul, wearied with life's blasted hopes and disappointed expectations, goes back, with loving contemplation, to the peaceful hours of childhood, when, free from care, it looked forward to a landscape painted by the rosy fingers of hope, and athwart whose sun-lit glories no shadow wandered, and whose sure continuance was bodied forth in childhood's dreams and confided in with childhood's faith. Home scenes and home touchings, softened by distance and mellowed by the lapse of years, come upon it with an almost irresistible charm and power. Under their touch old principles revive, old feelings and sympathies re-live. If these have been from a godly culture, the soul sometimes throws off the sinfulness of mature years, breaks the fetters that Satan has so long forged, and with childhood's faith runs to the God of its early trust, and receiving the kingdom of heaven as a little child, sits at last "clothed and in its right mind at the feet of Jesus," a saved soul. This, it is believed, may be a not unimportant part of the meaning of the wise man's saying. If so, what an additional encouragement to parents to train up their children "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." To many who, in the fear of God, have prayed and labored for the spiritual welfare of their children, and who have seen them wander in the paths of sin and folly, it will surely be consolatory to think there is hope that, after old age begins to creep upon these loved ones, they will awake to their degradation and return to the godly counsels of their childhood and to the merciful arms of the God of their fathers. Such a hope would extract many a thorn from the pillows of dying saints planted there recklessly by hands that should have ministered peace to their departing spirits and soothed their death-couches with the cheering thought of a happy reunion "beyond the river." Surely such a hope we would not willingly lose. If Solomon meant to give us this, let us cherish it and redouble our diligence to obey God in the careful training for him of the young immortals confided to our charge, trusting him for results. W. A. M.

Leadvale, Tenn.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate
Makes Delicious Lemonade.

A teaspoonful added to a glass of hot or cold water, and sweetened to the taste, will be found refreshing and invigorating.

Love of Children for Parents.

There is perhaps no one thing which renders its recipients as happy, certainly nothing more beautiful to behold, than the tender affection manifested by children toward their parents, and it becomes more attractive and beautiful when the former have formed new ties and relations in life. How pleasing to see the lovely daughter, after she has become an idolized wife and happy mother, seize every opportunity to visit her loved parents, and by careful attention and a hundred other graceful and cheerful kindnesses, assure them that, though a cherished wife and a proud mother, she still holds a place in her heart sacred to the name of those who, by years of care and guidance, made her what she is to day, a noble, loving woman.

Years ago, speaking of this love between members of a family, an old gentleman present remarked, "Parents always love and express in some way affection for their children; and sometimes children for their parents." I was younger then and thought the old man soured or eccentric; but years of observation convinced me that the man was right. Children beyond their teens are too careless of showing any, or at least many, expressions of affection for their parents. A great reformation may be begun upon this line, and, as with charity, let us begin at home.—Mrs. Mary Felton.

Beecham's pills are faithful friends.

New Testament Studies—No. 6.

BY HIGHT C. MOORE.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE.

1. Author. Luke has always been universally regarded as the author of the book bearing his name. A sketch of his life must be gleaned from three sources: (1) From the book of Acts, written by Luke, we learn that he joined Paul on his second missionary journey at Troas and accompanied him into Macedonia (Acts 16) where, left by Paul, for seven years he preached the gospel in and around Philippi. He also went with Paul on his third missionary journey, finally arriving with him in Jerusalem (Acts 20, 21) and remaining by his side on the memorable voyage to Rome (Acts 27: 1). (2) From the writings of Paul we find that Luke was a physician loved and honored (Col. 4: 14). He is named by Paul (Philemon 24) in the list of his fellow-laborers during his first imprisonment, and when a second time the apostle lay in the Roman dungeon awaiting execution, Luke was his only companion (2 Timothy 4: 11), steadfast and faithful to the end. (3) The voice of tradition is more full, but less accurate and reliable. Luke was a Greek born in Antioch, Syria. He early studied medicine, and was a popular physician. He was also skilled as a painter, and is hence the patron saint of artists. He received fine training, was a good scholar, and a gifted writer. Won at first as a Jewish proselyte, he was afterward converted to the Christian faith under the ministry of Paul, and became closely associated with the great apostle. He died a martyr between 75 and 100 A. D.

2. Origin. A belief was current in early times that Luke wrote at the dictation of Paul, and that Paul referred to this work when he wrote of "my gospel," (2 Timothy 2: 8). That the third gospel is in some respects similar to the Pauline writings no one can deny. (1) There is verbal agreement in a few cases (compare Luke 22: 19, 20 with 1 Cor. 11: 23-25). (2) Prominence is given to humble outcasts and hated Gentiles; as, the call to the Gentiles, Christ's ministry in Samaria, the sinful woman, Zaccheus, and the praying publican. (3) In both cases the same wide reaching Saviour of all men is presented. But Luke's intimate association with Paul fully accounts for the Pauline character of the book, while the preface and subsequent sections indicate other sources of information than Paul, the careful research of Luke and his independent authorship.

3. Date. This is a matter of conjecture, but is partly determined by the date of Acts, which is a continuation of the history contained in this gospel. That book brings its narratives down to about 64 A. D., and Luke was composed only a short time before, probably while Paul was detained in Cæsarea.

4. Design. Written primarily for Theophilus, who was said to be a man of great authority at Antioch, it was intended for general circulation among the Gentiles, especially those in the Roman empire. (1) Topographical and other references, understood in Palestine, are explained. (2) The taxing under Quirinus is mentioned and dates are fixed by the year of the reigning emperor. (3) The scourging and ill-usage of Christ by the Roman soldiers is omitted.

5. Preface. The unique dedicatory preface, comprising the first four verses of the book, is in this age of historical criticism receiving special and merited attention. (1) It reveals the author as an accomplished writer, a careful investigator, and an accurate historian. (2) It shows that his object is to confirm the faith of Christians by placing the facts and truths they had been taught upon a definite historical basis. (3) It informs us that at the time of its composition there were current many written narratives of Christ which were based upon the testimony of eye-witnesses. These early accounts are not to be found among the existing Apochryphal Gospels, but are now all unknown and lost.

6. Facts and Features. (1) It is the fullest and most complete of the four accounts of the life and work of Christ, covering the entire period from the Annunciation to the Ascension. (2) The chronological order of the leading events is better preserved by Luke than the others. (3) Though Hebraisms abound, this gospel bears a striking resemblance to classic Greek. (4) It specially exhibits Christ's compassion for women, children, the poor, and sinners. (5) It relates with striking clearness the conversations of Jesus and the incidents connected with them. (6) "It is the gospel of a gratuitous and universal salvation; the gospel of hymns and prayers; the gospel of the publican and the outcast, and the weeping Magdalene, and the crucified malefactor, and of the Good Samaritan, and of the Prodigal Son."

7. Contents. The following outline will be found helpful in the perusal and study of the book:—

I. OPENING EVENTS AND EARLY YEARS.

1. Preface—annunciations to Zacharias and Mary—Mary's visit—birth of John the Baptist.
2. Birth of Christ—announcement to shepherds—circumcision—presentation—in the temple at twelve years of age.

II. BAPTISM, TEMPTATION, AND GALILEAN MINISTRY.

3. Ministry of John the Baptist—genealogy of Jesus.
4. Temptation—rejection—Sabbath in Capernaum—preaching tour.
5. Call of the four—miracles: leper, paralytic—call of Matthew—on fasting.
6. Plucking grain on Sabbath—miracle: withered hand—choosing the twelve—sermon on the mount.
7. Miracles: centurion's servant, widow's son at Nain—message from John the Baptist—Christ in Simon's house.
8. Preaching tour—parable: the sower—miracles: stilling the tempest, the Gadarene demoniac, Jairus' daughter.
9. Sending out the twelve—miracle: feeding five thousand—Peter's confession—transfiguration—miracle: demoniac boy—various sayings—departure from Galilee.

III. JUDEAN MINISTRY.

10. Sending out the seventy and their return—the good Samaritan—visit to Bethany.
11. Discourses: Prayer, warning to Jews, denunciation of the Pharisees.
12. Discourses: Hypocrisy, property.
13. Discourse: Galileans slain by Pilate—miracle: woman on the Sabbath—number of the saved—a reply.
14. Lessons on humility and love—parable: the great supper—counting the cost.
15. Parables: the lost sheep, the drachma, the prodigal son.
16. Parable: unjust steward—rich man and Lazarus.
17. Exhortations to love and humility—miracle: ten lepers—coming of the kingdom.
18. Parables: unjust judge, Pharisee and publican—blessing little children—rich young man—Christ foretells his death and resurrection—miracle: blind man near Jericho.
19. Zaccheus—parable: the ten pounds—the triumphal entry.
20. Christ challenged—parable: the wicked husbandmen—Christ's wise answers.
21. The widow's mite—discourse: the last things.

IV. CLOSING EVENTS.

22. Treachery of Judas—passover preparations—the last supper—Gethsemane—the arrest—Peter's denial—Christ before the Sanhedrim.
23. Before Pilate—the crucifixion—the burial.
24. The resurrection—appearances to two disciples on the way to Emmaus and the eleven in Jerusalem—the ascension.

The base of Ayer's Hair Vigor is a refined and delicate fluid, which does not soil or become rancid by exposure to the air, and which is as perfect a substitute for the oil supplied by nature in youth and health, as modern chemistry can produce.

Worth Repeating.

George C. Needham, the evangelist, commenting on the fact that pungent conviction of sin attends upon the work of his brother Thomas in Western Pennsylvania, pertinently asks: "Are we in the way of the sovereign Spirit with our trifling methods of modern evangelism? Are tricks and jugglery and forced manifestations, the stock in trade of some preachers, a sufficient compensation for the loss of that power which produces contrition, repentance, conviction, and real consecration to God? Some pastors and evangelists possess this power. Why not the rest of us?"

He who longs to be rich is like a man who drinks sea-water. The more he drinks the more thirsty he becomes, and never leaves off drinking till he perishes.

The institutions of learning which have wrought most in forwarding the religious denominations in whose charge they have been, are the ones which have been the most large and liberal in interpreting their denominational commission, the most devoted and fearless in ascertaining and teaching the truth, provided they have held this attitude, not only without losing the support of their denominations, but receiving it more and more as their broad policy becomes more pronounced.—Pres. E. Benj. Andrews.

The father who puts a slight on the law of the Lord, by habitually neglecting to read and teach it to his own children, need not be surprised if those children hate the law and go headlong to destruction.—W. E. Hatcher, D. D.

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts and warm handshakes—these are secondary means of grace when men are in trouble and fighting their unseen battles.—John Hall.

Good News for Asthmatics.

(Special to Ministers of the Gospel.)

We observe that the Kola plant, found on the Congo river, West Africa, is now in reach of sufferers from Asthma. As before announced, this new discovery is a positive cure for Asthma. You can make a trial of the Kola Compound free, by addressing postal card to the Kola Importing Co., Vine and Baker Sts., Cincinnati, Ohio, who are sending out large trial cases free by mail to sufferers.

Ministers of the gospel are invited to apply for special free treatment. Send card, letter head or cutting from religious paper, showing your name as in the ministry.

All the blood in the body makes the entire round of the circulation in twenty seconds, so that three times in every minute all the red globules of the blood, which are the oxygen-carriers, must each have its fresh modicum of oxygen.—Selected.

H. Heineman, Milwaukee, writes: "One box Japanese Pile Cure has cured me of a case of twenty-eight years' standing, after being treated by New York's best physicians." Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Longing desire prayeth always, though the tongue be silent. If thou art ever longing thou art ever praying. When stayeth prayer? When desire groweth cold.—St. Augustine.

Look out for cheap substitutes! Beware of new remedies. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has stood the test for nearly fifty years.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W E Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Hufham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs, Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR

A POLICY

—IN THE—

N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

Pomona Hill Nurseries.

OVER A MILLION
FRUIT TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
SHADE TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
ROSES, SHRUBS, &C.

Send for catalogue. Address

J. VAN LINDLEY,
POMONA, N. C.

Moller Celebrated Pipe Organs
From $400 to $10,000.
All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eighteen States and cities. Established 1869. Address
M. P. MÖLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 28. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 18 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma. ...		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 42. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 34. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 55 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.50 a m, Greenville 8.33 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.50 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.30 p m, 5.30 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.35 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4.10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.20 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Encouraging Report from Bro. Chappell.

1. Church and Sunday-school work. The preaching to the native church is equally distributed between Brother Hunnex and me. I have been trying to give special prominence recently to the cardinal doctrines of our faith in preaching to the church, hoping they would become more familiar with them and stronger in their religious convictions.

My Sunday-school class is composed of the native brethren and those enquirers who come regularly to hear the gospel. We use the International Series of Sunday-school Lessons, translated and published by Dr. Wm. Curtis of Peking. This work is systematic and thorough, and the class learn much of Bible truth.

2. Preaching in the heathen in the large chapel or church building four evenings per week, two conducted by Bro. Hunnex, and two by me. From January 1st to the middle of July I was able to preach at least twice a week, and sometimes oftener, to good-sized and attentive audiences in this chapel. Through this period, there were a few regular inquirers, who studied the Scriptures with me in my home. Of this number I recall two whom I think the Spirit of God was teaching. They professed to believe Christ.

About the middle of July we were advised by the doctor to leave for Japan, on account of Mrs. Chappell's health, and were gone two months. During this time there was a gradual falling off in the audiences, and the inquirers, whom I reluctantly left, were all gone when I returned. This was due in part to causes over which we had no control, but in fact to the loss the work must sustain when a missionary leaves his field for a few weeks. But the audiences have since gradually increased to a fair size, with good attention.

3. Preaching in the street chapel. I opened a street chapel on a street called the Siao Ma Teo this last spring. The people came in great crowds, and my chapel was too small to hold them; but as no larger one could be rented at that time, I continued to preach with good success, though sometimes on hot days the room was almost suffocating. Many boatmen resort there, and artisans and shopkeepers. Some of my listeners had come from long distances; and many of these boatmen come from various provinces. There were a few who came to see me, and talked about the gospel from this chapel. One was a man from Shausi, whom I hope the Spirit has led to a saving knowledge of the truth. He was persecuted by friends, however, and lacked the courage to be baptized at that time. The latter part of June I gave up the work in that street for a time because of the bitter hostility to the gospel which the preaching provoked in the owner of the house and a few neighbors. We hope to rent another house soon in a different locality on that same street, where we may be more kindly received by the neighbors.

4. Outside evangelistic work. (a) Regularly visited country towns and villages. My plan is to visit these regularly, but I have not been able to go as often this year as I hoped. Much work has been done among them, however. There are of these, in all, about twelve, in which I have preached frequently, sold and given away tracts and portions of the Scriptures. This work is very encouraging. They are growing more kindly disposed, and as their fears and prejudices gradually give way to respect and confidence towards us, they understand more of the gospel. Some places are reached by boat, and others by land-travel. In one place there are four who profess faith and want to be baptized, but they are evidently not ready to enter the church.

(b) Visiting more distant places occasionally, some of which had not seen a foreigner before, or heard the gospel. There is a very inviting field of unlimited size all around us, which might well employ the greater part of one missionary's time, and to advantage. This is the pleasantest of all the work I have engaged in, where you cultivate virgin soil and preach to those who hear the gospel for the first time.

5. Results. While we have had no baptisms this year, the work has been very encouraging. I believe souls have been saved. I have had a number of inquirers, some of whom, I hope, are saved. One of these cases I mentioned in a previous quarterly report. Another is a blind boy with whom I talked and prayed, and whom I believed to be a Christian; but who was not allowed to enter the church through the deceit of his older brother. But "the Lord knoweth them that are his," and we hope to reach this youth again. Others have heard and believed whom no one knows about save God.

I would add to the foregoing report, that the street-chapel preaching which was given up for a time has been renewed under fair auspices, the people welcoming us back and showing a better spirit towards us in that community than ever before. We are praying for and expecting great blessings on our work in that community the present year. Pray God that it may be so.

We begin this year with the smile of God resting upon us and our work. We are all well, our audiences are large and attentive, the Spirit of God seems to attend the preaching of his Word, and we feel that there are rich blessings in store for us if we have the faith to pray believing that we shall receive them. We ask that God's people will pray earnestly for an outpouring of God's Spirit on our work in Chinkiang this year.

L. N. CHAPPELL.

Chinkiang, China, Jan. 30, 1894.

Remember, my boy, you have to work. Whether you handle a pick or a pen, a wheelbarrow or a set of books, digging ditches or editing a paper, ringing an auction bell or writing funny things, you must work. If you look around you will see the men who are the most able to live the rest of their days without work, are the men who work the hardest. Don't be afraid of killing yourself with overwork.—Anon.

Report of the Womans' Central Committee of N. C. for Quarter Ending Feb. 28, 1894.

Anson Association—Sunbeams, Lilesville, $1.21.

Atlantic Association—Pollocksville, $8.59; Newbern, 30.78.

Beulah Association—Yanceyville, $3 00; Greensboro, 14.10.

Bladen Association—Galeed, $4.00.

Central Association—Perry's Chapel, $2.95; First church, Raleigh, 62.37; Hopkins' Chapel, 4.00; Wake Forest, 54.85; Youngsville, 1.35; Sunbeams, Wake Forest, 5.02.

Cedar Creek Association—Hope Mills, $2.12.

Chowan Association—Reynoldson, $4.33; Elam, 9.00; Gatesville, 3.00; Sawyer's Creek, 6.00; Elizabeth City, 4.18.

West Chowan Association—Mt. Tabor, $19.02.

Cape Fear Association—Whiteville, $3.60.

Eastern Association—Mt. Olive, $4 44; Sunbeams, Clinton, 2.90; Shiloh, 1.00; Clinton, 1.70; First church, Wilmington, 35.85; Masonboro, 1.75.

Flat River Association—Concord, $1.00; Henderson, 7.20.

Mt. Zion Association—First ch, Durham, $20.60; Mt. Pisgah, 6.88; Chapel Hill, 5.00; Mt. Gilead, 3.10.

Pee Dee Association—Sunbeams, Roberdel, $4.10.

Richmond Association—Children's Mis. Band, Rockingham, $5.65.

Raleigh Association—Tabernacle, $22.45; Garner's, 2 00; Holly Springs, 8.35; Sunbeams, Holly Springs, 3.75.

Robeson Association—Fayetteville, $84.79; Saddle Tree, 4.00; Back Swamp, 8.80; Long Branch, 1.14; Maxton, 15.00; Lumberton, 27.14; Sunbeams, Lumberton, 27.14; Big Branch, 75c.

Reedy Creek Association—Sunbeams, Pine Grove, $1.37.

Transylvania Association—Brevard, $4.20; Tar River Association—Scotland Neck, 16.39; Sunbeams, Scotland Neck, 1.37; Rocky Mount, 2.00; Sunbeams, Warren Plains, 1.65; Stony Creek, 2.00; Littleton, 1.35; Poplar Springs, 4.00.

Sandy Creek Association—Sandy Branch, $2.50; Carthage, 9.20; Pittsboro, 8.18.

No Association given—Mill's Creeks, $4.70; Thomasville, 28.60; Holly Grove, 8.80; Sanford, 52c; Rennert, 3 25; Mt Eliam, 50c; Ai, 15 50; Wadesboro, 1.80.

DIVIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Foreign Missions	$200.72
Home Missions	45.58
State Missions	86.79
Christmas offering	138.98
Education	10.00
Orphanage	72.99
Expense fund	4.45
Centennial Fund	6.52
Value of box for Home missionary	53.00
Total	$ 612.98

Number of new societies, 1; "Talks" sent out, 2,420; letters written, 25; tracts sent out, 200.

MISS FANNIE E. HECK, Pres. W. C. C.
MRS. J. A. BRIGGS, Cor. Sec. W. C. C.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

A Remarkable Production.

The following literary oddity contains fifty-eight words, one hundred and twelve e's and no other vowel:

We feel extreme feebleness when we seek perfect excellence here. We well remember men everywhere err. Even when Eden's evergreen trees sheltered Eve, the serpent crept there. Yet, when tempted, when cheerlessness depresses, when helplessness fetters, when we seem deserted—then we remember Bethlehem; we beseech the Redeemer's help. We ever need the rest the blessed expect.—Exchange.

The healing and purefying qualities of Salvation Oil render it the best article for the speedy cure of ulcerated sores. 25c.

"Do you know," she said, "that clock reminds me of you every time I look at it. Do you notice anything peculiar about it?" "Why—no; I really can't say that I do," he replied, as he drew nearer, "except that it doesn't go." Then he got red in the face, says the Washington Post, and in a few moments vanished.

When Jesus began to be a force in human life, there were four existent types on which men formed themselves and which are still in evidence. One is the moral, and has the Jew for its supreme illustration, with his faith in the eternal, and his devotion to the law of righteousness. The next is the intellectual, and was seen to perfection in the Greek, whose restless curiosity searched out the reason of things, and whose æsthetic taste identified beauty and divinity. The third is the political, and stood enthroned at Rome, where a nation was born in the purple and dictated order to the world. And the last is the commercial, and had its forerunner in the Phœnician, who was the first to teach the power of enterprise and the fascination of wealth. Any other man born at the beginning of the first century could be dropped into his class, but Jesus defied classification.—Rev. John Watson, M. A., in London Expositor.

According to Jesus, a well-conditioned child illustrates better than anything on earth the distinctive features of the Christian character. Because he does not assert nor aggrandize himself. Because he has no memory of injuries, and no room in his heart for a grudge. Because he has no previous opinions, and is not ashamed to confess ignorance. Because he can imagine, and has the key of another world, entering in through the ivory gate and living amid the things unseen and eternal.—Ibid.

Jesus was an absolute believer in character, and was never weary of insisting that a man's soul was more than his environment, and that he must be judged not by what he held and had, but by what he was and did.—Ibid.

There can be no finality in theology; this is one of its glories. Therefore, it must ever be an uncertain ground of judgment: this is one of its disabilities. There are only two departments in which the human mind can arrive at certainty: one is pure mathematics, and the other is pure ethics. There can be no place in the moral order where the man of the beatitudes will not be judged perfect.—Ibid.

"He that abideth in me and I in him the same bringeth forth much fruit," is Jesus' reconciliation of creed and character.—Ibid.

It is necessary that we should answer all the arguments of unbelievers against our faith. Some of the arguments relate to the conduct of professing Christians. We may not be able to defend the example which others set. It does not follow that we are to yield to the argument. We are responsible especially for the example which we set. If this is right, our argument is unanswerable.—The Workman.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is, unquestionably, the best preservative of the hair. It is also curative of dandruff, tetter, and all scalp affections.

Whatever may be the mysteries of life and death, there is one mystery which the cross of Christ reveals to us, and that is the infinite and absolute goodness of God.—Charles Kingsley.

Cases of forty years' standing where operations have failed, have been cured by Japanese Pile Cure. Guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Some people find it hard to think of eternal life or existence. Is it easier to think of God as perishing, or his promise failing, or his redeemed, upheld in his everlasting arms, falling away?

When traveling, always take a cake of Johnson's Oriental Soap with you; diseases are often caught from using hotel soap. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh.

God has made us to feel that we may go on to act. If, then, we allow our feelings to be excited, without acting from them, we do mischief to the moral system within us.—J. H. Newman.

No matter how much the wicked get, they only get it to lose, but whatever a good man gets he is going to keep. The devil cannot pick the lock that guards the treasures of the righteous.—Ram's Horn.

Yesterday is yours no longer; to-morrow may never be yours; but to-day is yours, the living present is yours, and in the living present you may stretch forward to the things that are before.—F. W. Farrar.

True peace consists only in the possession of God, and the possession of God here below is only to be found in submission to the faith and in obedience to the law.—Fenelon.

Life, however short, is made still shortest by waste of time.—Johnson.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Suffering the Tortures of Eczema

And yet lives in ignorance of the fact that a single application of CUTICURA will afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy and economical cure, when all other remedies fail. CUTICURA works wonders, and its cures of torturing, disfiguring humors are the most wonderful ever recorded.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Proprietors, Boston.

"How to Cure Skin Diseases," free.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 25 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 20 p m	5 50 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	†4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	8 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 05 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 35 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 08 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 50 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	2 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 30 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.06 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:35 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville June	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 57 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 13 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 50 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 55 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 55 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. H. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.				No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar	11 45 a m
3 29 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 23 a m
3 53 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 03 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 29 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	9 23 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv	6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	5 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	5 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	4 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	3 23 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	2 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	9 30 a m
11 20 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Ar	9 15 a m
11 52 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	8 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv	7 65 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv	12 15 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv	11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv	10 25 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv	10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv	9 00 p m
6 18 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv	8 05 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv	7 28 p m
8 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'rn	Lv	5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Centr'l	Lv	4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.	No. 33.
2 00 p m	Lv New York Ar	1 30 p m
4 30 p m	Lv Philadelphia Ar	10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv †Baltimore (Bay Line) Ar	7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv Old Point Ar	7 00 p m
8 00 a m	Ar †Portsmouth Lv	6 00 p m
9 35 a m	Lv Portsmouth Ar	4 45 p m
12 08 p m	Ar Weldon Lv	3 09 p m
12 15 p m	Lv Weldon Ar	3 00 p m
12 39 p m	Lv D Henderson Lv D	1 09 p m
4 10 p m	Ar Raleigh Lv	11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv Raleigh Ar	11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv Sanford Lv	9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar Hamlet Ar	7 30 a m
7 30 p m†	Ar Fayetteville Lv	8 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar Wilmington Lv	5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar Charlotte Lv	10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 p m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers, Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charlotte; No 41, Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 33 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. D. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, &c., apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Ochse, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
JNO. C. WINDER, Gen. Pass.

Organization of the Baptist Church in Murfreesboro, N. C.

The year 1843 is commonly known all over this eastern section of the State as the "wet year," but it is better known, in and around Murfreesboro, as "McNabb's flood." It was sometime during that year, one Elder Robert McNabb of Granville county, N. C., came to this place and commenced a series of meetings as best he could do under the circumstances. The Baptists had no house here in which to worship, but by the aid of friends a place was obtained, and the meeting commenced, for several days with little success; but with a determined and unfaltering faith in God, he continued the work, and after awhile the people were aroused, and came in from various directions in carts, wagons, gigs, on horseback, on foot, &c., until the town seemed to be filled with people crying, what shall we do to be saved? Nearly all of the time the rain descended in torrents, and with it the Holy Spirit, and such a religious awakening was never known in these parts. The oldest citizens of this section often speak of this great meeting. The seed from this effort fell in good soil which sprang up with an increase of an hundred fold to the honor and glory of God. Out of the results of this meeting sprang the dear little Baptist church in this place, which has been and is still instrumental in leading souls to Christ. A great many of the converts of this meeting connected themselves with the dear old church (the mother of many), Meherrin, which stands amid her stately oaks about one mile from town. On July 2nd, 1843, this church assembled in conference, with Elder Geo. W. Thompson, pastor, and Brother S. J. Wheeler, clerk. Visiting brethren were invited to seats. Elders Robert McNabb and Frey responded. Through a petition presented by these two brethren the Murfreesboro Baptist church was permitted to worship as a branch church in the town of Murfreesboro, with the understanding that her members must be enrolled at Meherrin, and that they were to render quarterly reports to the mother church.

On the next day, July 3d, the pastor, Bro. Thompson, baptized the following persons, and their names were enrolled as members of the branch: William Darden, W. E. Poole, Goodman Parker, Cardwell Farmer, Hardy Hedgepeth, Littleberry Futrell, Susan Spiers and Catharine McLenny; and on July 7th, Elder McNabb baptized and had names enrolled as follows: Samuel Polkinhorne, Henry A. Moore, David J. Blount, Lewis Spiers, Benj. A. Spiers, N. H. Hodges, Edward K. Jeggitts, Elizabeth Polkinborne, Susan Deans, Elizabeth Hodges, Martha Parker, and Rebecca Porter.

These brethren and sisters went to work at once, and with the help of some of the members of Meherrin, such as brethren Jacob Parker, James H. Lassiter, Joseph Rea and Sister Nancy Rea, and the then known friend of all religious denominations, Lewis M. Cowper, and many others, soon purchased a lot, built a house of worship, raised money and paid for it. On Nov. 5th, 1845, this house was dedicated to God. Elder Magoon of Richmond, Va., preached the sermon from Hag. 2: 9 (first clause), at 11 o'clock a. m. Elder J. V. Cosby preached at three o'clock, and Elder Magoon again at night.

It appears that this church labored as a branch church, under the pastorate and rules and regulations of the mother church until November, 1848—Rev. G. M. Thompson being pastor of both.

At a conference held with the mother church in November, 1848—G. M. Thompson, Moderator, and S. J. Wheeler, Clerk—the branch church in Murfreesboro was declared an independent church to transact her own matters as God might direct. The following named brethren and sisters were granted letters as constitutional members: Fanny Johnson, Elizabeth M. Bishop, E. T. Hatchel, Jacob Parker, Benj. A. Spiers, James H. Lassiter, Adeline A. Lassiter, Wade H. Adkins, Sarah Adkins, J. G. Rea, Henry A. Moore, Anastatia Carter, Susan Carter, Nancy Rea, Samuel Polkinhorne, Elizabeth Polkinborne, L. T. Spiers, Mary A. Thatch, G. D. Parker, W. E. Poole, Carter H. Wall, Thomas Spiers, Mary A. Spiers, Lavenia O. Spiers, Priscilla Carter, S. B. Poole, and Margaret Jeggitts. During this meeting six other letters were granted, making thirty-five. Some unknown brother remarked during this meeting: "Thus it is that this dear old church is bleeding herself for the benefit of others. After setting off five churches, she has this day sent thirty-five of her best members to others. May the Lord sustain us."

It was then ordered that a counsel of Elders and laymen be called to meet with the church in town to participate in the dedicatory service of the church independent. The 19th of November, 1848, was then set apart for that work. A great number of people assembled on this day; among them were Elders C. R. Hendrickson and William D. Pritchard from Elizabeth City, N. C., Elder A. McDowell from Wake Forest College, Elder G. M. Thompson from Meherrin, and Elder A. J. Battle from Buckhorn.

Elder C. R. Hendrickson was called to the chair, and Elder A. J. Battle acted as Clerk. Elder A. McDowell opened the meeting with prayer. Elder G. M. Thompson presented the letters granted by the mother church, and their names were enrolled as constitutional members. Articles of Faith, Covenant and Rules of Decorum were then read by the Clerk and approved by the body. This being done, the church was declared independent, and no longer amenable to the mother church. Elder C. R. Hendrickson preached the sermon, Elder A. J. Battle offered the constituting prayer, Elder A. McDowell delivered the charge, and Elder G. M. Thompson extended the right hand of fellowship. The names of Benj. A. Spiers and James H. Lassiter were then presented for ordination as Deacons by this council. Elder Battle preached, Elder Thompson offered the prayer, and Elder Hendrickson delivered the charge. After which the church partook of the Lord's Supper, administered by Elders Hendrickson and Battle. Then they sang a hymn and went out.

This little church was then left to the care of Elder G. M. Thompson, Pastor, Bro. L. T. Spiers, Clerk, and the Deacons elect. We know of but very few of these dear brethren and sisters yet living to tell of the struggles of this little church, namely, Jacob Parker of Warrenton, James H. Lassiter of Henderson, and Margaret Jeggitts of Murfreesboro. We trust that this little sketch may prove to them a source of heavenly comfort as they stand near the open door.

CLERK

Outlines and Questions.

At first thought one would say that the stories of the book of Genesis are the first known and the best known of all the Bible stories. As a matter of fact, however, only the most apparent and obvious lessons from these stories are comprehended by the child mind. In later life the desire for food for devotional thought as expressed in the New Testament teachings crowds out the more careful study of these early stories. As a consequence, their deeper religious teachings, and their character as great steps in the plan of a divine Being revealing himself to the human race which he has created, are seldom brought with force to the mind of the ordinary Bible student.

The International Lesson Committee, however, have this year allowed six months for the study of the book of Genesis. Shall we not be sure before leaving these stories, that we have gained from our study more than a repetition of our childhood impressions?

The American Institute of Sacred Literature offers its usual semi-annual examination upon the International Lessons, to take place in all parts of the world June 30, 1894. The Institute has prepared a comprehensive outline in two parts (one for each quarter) designed to present in brief form the connection and deeper purpose of these stories. The examination questions will be based upon this outline, copies of which outline will be sent free upon application, (postage should be enclosed) for distribution to officers, teachers and Bible class students in all schools filing an application for questions. A copy of the questions in two grades will be sent to individuals for ten cents, and to schools in quantities at the rate of one dollar for one hundred. Instructions for conducting the examination will accompany the questions.

Under such a simple arrangement thousands of schools should avail themselves of these outlines and questions. For a special fee of fifty cents students are allowed to send their answers to the Institute office for grading, and an Institute certificate is awarded all those whose papers reach an average of seventy per cent.

For outlines and questions, address The American Institute of Sacred Literature, Hyde Park, Chicago, Ills.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children who want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Robeson Baptist S. S. Association

This body meets at Lumberton Baptist church April 7th and 8th. The following is the program of subjects of discussion and opening speakers:

Saturday a. m.—How can we best accomplish the object of this organization? Rev. J. W. Cobb.

Afternoon.—How many Bibles should there be in a Sunday school? O. S. Hayes.

Should classes be confined to teachers of their sex? Prof. Jno Duckett.

What should be taught in the Sunday school? Rev. J. P. Price.

Sunday.—Sunday school mass-meeting, conducted by J. T. Winburn. Subjects: Little people and the Sunday-school—Prof. A. T. Rogers; Young men and the Sunday-school—E. K. Proctor, Jr.; Old Folks and the Sunday-school—Archie Johnson. Sermon at night by Rev. F. H. Martin. A large delegation from each Sunday-school in the Association is expected.

W. W. NYE,
REV. J. P. PRICE,
AMOS BRITT,
Committee.

FRANK GOUGH, President.
R. D. CALDWELL, Sec. and Treasurer.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, that the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Richard J Bigge, Baltimore, $3.00; Rev D C Murchison, Gulf, 1.00; Abbott's Creek ch, 3.15; Piny Grove ch, 3.00; Hephzibah ch, Raleigh, 3.00; W M S, Red Bud ch, 3 86; Cedar Grove ch, Orange County, 3.10; Macedonia ch, Guilford County, 3.00; Mt Hermon ch. 3.00; Damascus ch, Brier Creek, 3.10; Beaver Island ch, 3.00; Brassfields ch, Central, 6.15; St John's ch, West Chowan, 10.00; Mt Zion ch, Tar River, 5.00; Sandy Creek ch, 4.00; Antioch ch, 2.29; W M S, Green Level ch, 50c; Middleburg, N C, 3.56; W M S, Sutton ch, 3.20; Union, No 1. 1.35; Greensboro ch, 20.00; Ditto, W M S, 10.00; Bethlehem ch, 3.00; C P Harper, Duke's, Nash county, 3.00; Antioch ch, South River, 3.25; Sulphur Springs ch, 1.20; Forest Home ch, Ashe and Alleghany, 5.00; Warren Plains ch, 3.15; W M S, Scotland Neck ch, 10.00; Rich Square ch, 11.00; Newbern ch, 22.06; Eastern Asso, 115.00; J F Tuttle, 10.00; Pleasant Grove ch, Pee Dee, 3.57; Flat Rock ch, Central, 5.00; Clemmonsville ch, Pilot Mountain, 1.00; J C Ellington, Raleigh, 1.00; May's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek ch, 6.50; W M S, Morrisville ch, Raleigh, 7.30; Mrs R J Hickerson, 1.50; N E Parker, 1.50; Mrs N E Parker, 1.00; Cool Spring ch, Mt Zion, 2.25; Enon ch, 1 70; Colerain ch, West Chowan, 8.00; Cedar Falls ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Green Spring ch, ditto, 4.25; Zion ch, King's Mountain Association, 25.00; Raleigh Asso, 420.31; Tar River Asso, 525.00; Antioch ch, 6.25; Aulander ch, West Chowan, 3.90; Wake Union ch, 3.50; W M S, Cary ch, 5.00; Bethlehem ch, Sandy Creek, 2.53; New Salem ch, 2.23; Mt Gilead ch col, 1.90; W A Foushee, Mt Gilead ch, 5 00; Jas Q R Bryant and wife, ditto, 5.00; J H Ward, ditto, 1.00; J W Horton, ditto, 25c; M Seymore, ditto, 25c; Dr W H Edwards, ditto, 25c; Texanna Neal, ditto, 50c; Clement ch, Beulah, 8.15; Waughtown ch, Pilot Mountain, 7.14; Independence Hill ch, Meck & Cab, 2 50; R D Bridges, Bladenboro, 10.00; H C Bridges, ditto, 10.00; Lattimore ch, 5.00; Louisburg ch, Tar River, 25.00; Gardner's ch, ditto, 3.78; Connaritsa ch, West Chowan, 8.00; Hebron ch, 10 00; W M S, Mt Vernon ch, Central, 5.00; Spring Vale ch, Eastern, 3 00; W M S, Pollocksville ch, 3.50; Miss A Hickerson, 1.00. Total, 1,459 51. Previously reported, 1,465.17. Total this year, 2,924.68.

Foreign Missions—Eureka ch, Chowan, $12.00; Grape Vine ch, French Broad, 1.08; W M S, Mt Gilead ch, Mt Zion (Japan), 3.10; Ditto, Green Level ch, 1.00; Warren Plains ch, 6.19; W M S, Henderson ch, 7.45; Sunday-school Mis Society, Henderson ch, 1.68; Wake Union ch, 1.50; Bethlehem ch, Sandy Creek, 1.95; Stovall ch, Flat River, 10.35; Island Creek ch, ditto, 27.20; Broad Street ch, Winston, Pilot Mountain, 5.25; W M S, Buckhorn ch, W Chowan, 6.10; Buckhorn ch, ditto, 11.70; Holly Grove ch, West Chowan, 10 00. Total, 106 55. Previously reported, 1,083.95. Total this year, 1,190.50.

Home Missions—Brassfields ch, Central, $15.50; W M S, Green Level ch, 1.00; Clemmonsville ch, Pilot Mountain, 3.51; Enon ch, 1.70; Lewisville ch, 2 50. Total, 24 21. Previously reported, 440.17. Total this year, 464 38.

Education—W M S, Green Level ch, 50c; Clemmonsville ch, Pilot Mountain, 1.29; Colerain ch, West Chowan, 7.00; Aulander ch, ditto, 4.88; Bethlehem ch, Sandy Creek, 3.87. Total, 17.54. Previously reported. 557.77. Total this year, 575.31.

Orphanage—W M S, Green Level ch, $1.00; Aulander S S, 10.00; Wake Union ch, 20c; Bethlehem ch, Sandy Creek, 3.30; First ch, Raleigh S S, 15 00. Total, 29.50. Previously reported, 287.61. Total this year, 317.11.

Sunday-schools (for distribution of Bibles and Testaments)—Point Caswell S S, Pender County, $2.57; S S, Piny Grove ch, 78c; Shiloh S S, Raleigh, 38c; Beaver Dam S S, Union County, 25c; High Point S S, 1.32; Cool Spring S S, Chowan, 1.50; Raleigh Asso, 3.02; W M S, Green Level ch, 52c; Mountain Creek ch, 5,23; McAdensville S S, Gaston County, 2 75; S S, Four Oaks ch, 50c; Magnolia S S, 15c; Olivet S S, Chowan, 1.00; Newbern S S 5.00; Kinston S S Mission Soc, 2.36; North Wilkesboro S S, 50c; Sound Side S S, 2.10; Baptist Center S S, 1.01; Elam S S, 1.50; S S, Hickory ch, 90c; Hebron S S, South Fork, 1.00; Hester's ch, Flat River, 2.50; Waughtown S S, 2.00; Goldsboro S S, 3.68; Lenoir ch, Caldwell, 1.60; Lower Creek ch, ditto, 60c; First Baptist ch S S, Raleigh, 13.82; Warrenton S S, 1.87; Wake Forest S S, 11.25; First ch, Durham, S S, 5.60; S S, Dunn ch, 1.50; Mt Vernon ch, Central, 1.75; Gatesville S S, 1.20. Total, 80.61.

Ministerial Relief Fund—W M S, Green Level ch, 60c; Spring Hill ch, Pee Dee, 3.35. Total, 3.95. Previously reported, 134.89. Total this year, 138 84.

Students' Aid Fund, Louisville—Spring Hill ch, Pee Dee, $4.35.

CORRECTION: In last RECORDER, Jas Ellis, $10.00, for State Missions, is an error. It is the same amount credited to Forest Home church, Ashe and Alleghany Asso.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention,
Raleigh, March 24, 1894.

Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
BreakfastCocoa
which is absolutely pure and soluble.
It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

Worry tells, sadly, on woman's health and beauty.
Beecham's Pills
(Worth a Guinea a Box.) (Tasteless)
fortify the nerves and will help to banish many an anxiety.
Price 25 cents.

ADVANCED AND ADVANCING.
INTERNATIONAL—INDUCTIVE.
BAPTIST LESSON HELPS.
PRICES are MARVELOUSLY LOW. There are NONE CHEAPER and a fair trial will convince you that there are NONE SUPERIOR.

PRIMARY GRADE.
PICTURE LESSONS ..... 3 cents per quarter; 12 cents per year.
PRIMARY QUARTERLY ..... 2½ " " 9 " "
OUR LITTLE ONES ..... 6½ " " 25 " "
NEW PRIMARY QUARTERLY.
TWO YEARS WITH JESUS ..... 2½ " " 9 " "

INTERMEDIATE GRADE.
INTERMEDIATE QUARTERLY ..... 2½ cents per quarter; 9 cents per year.
SUNLIGHT, MONTHLY ..... 2 " " 8 " "
" SEMI-MONTHLY ..... 4 " " 15 " "

ADVANCED GRADE.
ADVANCED QUARTERLY ..... 2½ cents per quarter; 10 cents per year.
BIBLE LESSONS ..... 1¼ " " 5 " "
YOUNG REAPER, MONTHLY ..... 2½ " " 10 " "
" SEMI-MONTHLY ..... 5 " " 20 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
JUNIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES ..... 2½ " " 10 " "

SENIOR GRADE.
SENIOR QUARTERLY ..... 6 cents per quarter; 24 cents per year.
OUR YOUNG PEOPLE ..... 10 " " 40 " "
THE WORKER ..... 1½ " " 6 " "
INDUCTIVE SERIES.
SENIOR INDUCTIVE STUDIES ..... 6 " " 24 " "

TEACHERS.
BAPTIST TEACHER ..... 12½ cents per quarter; 50 cents per year

SUPERINTENDENTS.
BAPTIST SUPERINTENDENT ..... 6½ cents per quarter; 25 cents per year

The above are club prices for five or more copies to one address.
THE COLPORTER.
In clubs of twenty copies, 5 cents per year; single copy, 10 cents per year
SAMPLES FREE.
AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY.
PHILADELPHIA: 1420 Chestnut Street;
BOSTON: 256 Washington Street; ST. LOUIS: 1109 Olive Street;
NEW YORK: Times Building; DALLAS: 345 Main Street;
CHICAGO: 122 Wabash Avenue; ATLANTA: 66½ Whitehall Street.

ESTABLISHED 1865.
Chas M. Walsh, Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs &c.
Petersburg, Va.
I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

Musicians Read!
SUNLIGHT and SHADOW By Julian Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Each is a gem. Price, 61 Postpaid.
LESSONS IN AUDITION By Helene Sparmann. A book on a new plan to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical language. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.
ST. CAECILIAN COLLECTION By C. F. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price, 40 Cents Postpaid.
ANTHEM CROWN By E. P. Danks. The latest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.
Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be perfectly saleable.
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
Cincinnati, New York, Chicago.

Hard Times Fertilizers
To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash
Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices, per ton.
for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00
Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars
W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers. Baltimore, Md.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO.
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials, Prices and Terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers,
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased,
vs.
Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson her husband, now residents of the State and city of New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated in Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.
This March 5th, 1894.

Don't Lose Heart.
PLANT FERRY'S SEEDS this year, and make up for lost time. Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 will give you many valuable hints about what to raise and how to raise it. It contains information to be had from no other source. Free to all.
D. M. Ferry & Co.
Detroit, Mich.

Cures when all else fails—the ELECTROPOISE. Shall we mail you proof? The testimony of people you know. Electrolibration Co., 345 Fourth Avenue, New York.
Successors to ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE CO., Washington, D. C.

Pilot Mountain S. S. Association.

The next session of the Sunday-school Association will meet with Pilot Mountain church and Sunday-school on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April.

The Association at its last session authorized the Executive Board to put in the field a Sunday-school missionary and evangelist. Bro. S. F. Conrad has been selected for this work, and is now giving to it three-fourths of his time. The success of this work will depend upon our giving to it our hearty co-operation and support. We would urge the superintendents of the schools to see to it that delegates are appointed and a letter written giving full statistics of the school; also to raise the amount pledged and forward them to the Association.

PROGRAM.

Introductory sermon, Rev. H. C. Moore. Alternate, Rev. J. B. Richardson.

Report of Sunday-school missionary and evangelist.

1st. The relation of the church to the Sunday-school. Rev. H. A. Brown and T. M. Baker.

2d. The Sunday school as an evangelizing agency. Revs. C. C. Haymore and J. B. Richardson.

3d. Are the Sunday school helps an advantage in the study of the Bible? Dr. J. G. Watkins and T. S. Sprinkle.

4th. Spirituality as a qualification for teaching the lesson. Rev. W. H. Wilson and D. F. King.

5. General discussion on the evangelistic movement and work of colportage in the Association. Led by Rev. L. R. Pruitt.

L. R. PRUITT,
W. H. WILSON,
J. B. RICHARDSON,
S. F. CONRAD,
Ex. Com. S. S. Association.
H. A. BROWN,
Ex. Com. Pilot Mountain Ass'n.

The Sandy Creek Baptist Sunday-school Association.

The 5th annual session of this body convenes with Bear Creek church, Chatham county, one, or one and a half miles from Rickmond, on the C. F. & Y. V. R. R., on the fifth Sunday in April, next.

Every Sunday-school or church in the Sandy Creek Association is requested to send delegates with letters, giving statistics of their school for the past year. Brethren, please attend to this at once—duty demands it.

PROGRAMME

1. Introductory Sermon Friday, 12 m., by P. A. Furgison; Saturday 11 a. m., Sermon by W. H. H. Lawhon; Missionary Sermon Sunday, by O. T. Edwards.

2. Report on Orphanage, discussed by L. R. Dixon, Daniel Hannon and G. W. Harmon.

3. Report on Colportage—W. R. Fry, Leban Moon, and Wm. Rogers.

QUERIES.

1. What Relation Ought our Churches to bear to the Sunday-schools? C. J. F. Anderson, J. D. Hackney and G. A. Murchison.

2. How can we Have a Sunday-school in Every Church? W. N. Straughn, Jesse L. Smith.

3. What are the Advantages and Disadvantages of Our Sunday-school Literature? O. T. Edwards, Jones Jordan.

4. How to Run a Successful Sunday-school. D. R. Sears, W. C. Douglas, S. Gilmore.

G. L. MERRELL.

Franklinville, March 21, 1894.

Literary.

Murdered Millions—Is the striking title of a remarkable little book by Dr. George D. Dowknott. Every Christian and philanthropist should read it. It is introduced by the Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler, D. D., the well-known author and preacher.

Price, cloth bound, 7x4½, 96 pp., 30 cents. Paper covers, 15 cents—100 for $10.

Office of The Medical Missionary Record, 218 East 45th Street, New York City.

"A Light From the East" is a beautifully written tract on the pre millennial coming and reign of Christ by one of the most clear and accurate writers of the South. The author, Rev. A. P. Copeland, is distinguished for his accuracy of statement, clearness of thought, fairness of argument, and sweetness of spirit in all that he writes. Whatever the reader may think of the positions taken by the author he will not fail to find in it all the elements of Christian candor and lucidity of thought.—Texas Baptist and Herald. Send to Elder A. P. Copeland, Crawford, Miss., single copy, prepaid, 22 cts. five or more, 20 cts. per copy.

Mrs. M. A. Copeland, good and true, of Ascend, Chatham county, N. C., has lost her husband, her cook room and its contents were not long since burned, her son has died, and now her horse has died. She has nine children. If you can help her, it will be help extended to a worthy object, and thankfully received.

Rev. H. A. Bagby and wife have arrived in Brasil.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

The Charlotte trouser factory has commenced operations.

Mr. J. J. Vann an esteemed citizen of Monroe died last week.

The State Y. M. C. A. Convention meets at Wilmington next week.

A negro boy was run over and killed in Charlotte on the 23d by a shifting engine.

Mr. W. T. Cheatham has been appointed and confirmed as postmaster at Henderson.

J. E. Schoolfield, the layman evangelist, is holding meetings in the eastern part of the State.

Several whales were captured on our eastern coasts off Morehead last week. They yeilded rich returns to the fishermen.

Aldermen of the city of Charlotte have passed an ordinance taxing cigarette dealers $300 each, to go into effect April 1st.

Jasper Jernigan, aged 15 years, committed suicide near Dunn recently. Ill-treatment by his father caused the deed.

Dr. C. J. Geer, a physician at the State convict farms in Halifax county, has been stricken with paralysis and is dangerously ill.

Prof. Woodrow Wilson a distinguished member of the faculty of Princeton College lectured at Trinity College, Durham, last week.

Eight houses, a livery stable and a hotel were destroyed by fire at Franklin, Macon county, on the 23d. No insurance. Loss $15,000.

C. E. Crabtree, book keeper for the Z. I. Lyon tobacco factory of Durham, is missing. It is supposed he has "wandered off," being temporarily insane.

Congressman Bryan of Nebraska who has won a considerable reputation as an orator will deliver an address at the State Normal and Industrial School next commencement.

A fight between a professor and a student of Biddle University, a negro institution near Charlotte, has caused a general disruption among faculty and students, and the school is stated to be ruined.

We have received an interesting book "Biltmore Forest" being a comparative description of the Vanderbilt woods near Asheville before and after scientific improvements. It is a valuable work.

Messrs. J. D. Williams, president, and E. J. Lilly, a director, have resigned their connection with the Band of Fayetteville. Dr. H. W. Lilly, president, and Judge R. P. Buxton, director, succeed them.

The case of the State against W. S. Smith, ex cashier of the defunct Bank of New Hanover, Isaac Bates, ex president, J. W. Atkinson, W. I. Gore, and C. Giles, directors, has been not prosed, to the disappointment of many of the depositors. A technicality was the cause.

General News.

Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot and exile, is dead.

The political campaign has begun in South Carolina.

Congressman Hatch will introduce in the House at an early day a compromise "Anti-Option" bill.

The tariff bill is under the consideration of the Senate. The time of its passage is very indefinite.

Two valuable veins of gold bearing quartz have been discovered in Louisa county, Va. New York capitalists own them.

Last week was consumed by the House of Representatives in discussing the internal revenue and naval appropriation bills.

A half-million dollar fire occurred at Money Point, near Norfolk, burning lumber mills, plaining mills and lumber on 23d.

Chairman Wilson is still sick and very weak, but his condition is not dangerous. He will not resume his official duties for some months.

The Supreme Court of Colorado has decided that Gov. Waite's recent action in calling out the militia to assist in the removal of certain office-holders was illegal.

Senator Alfred H. Colquit of Georgia, who has been an invalid for two years, recently suffered a second stroke of paralysis, and is thought to be hopelessly ill.

Frosts last week, and on the 25th and 26th, seriously injured fruit prospects in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, and other States.

Three women and two men were killed by an explosion of dynamtte at Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 23d. The explosion occurred in the nitro-glycerine and dynamite works of the Acme Powder Company.

It is stated that Secretary of State Gresham has prepared a new China treaty, requiring Chinamen coming to the United States to register and have a certificate with their photograph on it; Americans going to China to have a similar certificate and photograph.

General Coxey, a wealthy stock raiser of Ohio, is making efforts to mass a "peace army" at Washington City to demand the issuance of fiat money in great amounts. He purposes starting from Ohio, and during a three months march to Washington City to gather about 100,000 men in his army.

Mello, the Brasilian insurgent, whose main strength, the navy, was defeated recently, has instituted an insurgent provisional government, with representatives from three Brazilian States. His forces are crippled and diminished, but he is still able to make considerable trouble.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion & Debility.

MARRIED.

RITTER—DICKENS—On March 20th, 1894, in Weldon, N. C., by Rev. G. W. Harmon, Mr. C. W. Ritter and Miss Mattie B. Dickens.

HARRIS—HUGHES—On March 20th, 1894, in Vance county, N. C., by Rev. J. A. Stradley, Mr. Ed. M. Harris and Miss Carrie Hughes.

JOHNSTON—TRUEBLOOD—On March 21st, 1894, near Weldon, N. C., by Rev. G. W. Harmon, Mr. J. J. Johnston and Miss Maud L. Trueblood.

WRIGHT—CLARK—On March 14th, 1894, at the home of Bro. James Clark, in Granville county, N. C., by Rev. J. A. Stradley, Mr. James W. Wright and Miss Addie M. Clark.

DIED.

JOHNSON—Died at the residence of her daughter Mrs. Burline Womble, in Raleigh, N. C., on Feb. 24th, 1894, Mrs. Smithy Johnson, aged about seventy years. She was a consistent member of the Fayetteville Street Baptist church. She died in the full triumph of faith. She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and two daughters. DAUGHTER.

JORDAN—Calvin Jordan was born November 20th, 1832, in Montgomery county, and died at his home in Rowan county in the triumph of faith in Christ January 21st, 1894. Mr. Jordan was a man of strong mind, of clear and decided views in business. In his younger days he merchandized in the county of his birth. His last years were spent chiefly as a tobacconist.

JAMES JORDAN.

MIDDLETON—In Duplin county near Warsaw, N. C., Feb. 22d, 1894, Thomas Middleton died in the eighteenth year of his age. His illness was brief, he being confined to his room about one week. His sufferings were severe, but he seemed to exercise patience and resignation all through his afflictions. He had not made a public profession of faith in Christ, but was regarded as a good boy—sociable and kind to every one. He was the son of Mrs. Mary Middleton, and was quite a comfort and help to his widowed mother. Sister Middleton and her family have our sympathy in their sorrow, and we would point them to Him who knows how to temper the wind to the shorn lamb, and to the Word of his grace which teaches that "all things work together for good to them that love God." B.

CLARK—The Lord in his goodness saw fit, in November 27th, 1893, to take from this earth to heaven, Bro. Samuel Clark.

For more than thirty-five years he was a faithful member of Concord Baptist church. So long as he was able to attend his church, his seat was never vacant.

During the four years which he spent in the civil war, I was told, there could hardly be found a truer Christian. From his conversion to his death, he walked so close to God, that wicked influences made but little, if any, impression upon him. He left a wife and several children to mourn his loss. But notwithstanding the fact that he lost a leg during the war, he provided well for his family, and left them a home, saved and provided for this purpose, that they should not be thrown out upon the cold world, after he was gone.

We extend our sympathy to his bereaved family and many friends. D.

LYON—The Lord in his wisdom, on Feb. 27th, 1894, took one of our deacons away, Bro. Norfiet C. Lyon. Bro. Lyon joined Concord Baptist church in 1857. At once he began an active work for the Lord. He was always ready to try to point a sinner to the Lamb who taketh away the sin of the world. He was so faithful that the church elected him a deacon, and for many years he was a deacon in truth. He was always present at his church meetings. Often when he was not able to attend church, he would say to his wife, "I must go, I cannot miss."

"A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our church,
And how can it be filled?

God in his wisdom has recalled,
The boon his love has given;
And though the body slumbers here,
The soul is safe in heaven." D,

HARRIS—We regret very much to learn of the death of Willie J. Harris, aged twenty-three years, the only son of Mr. J. W. Harris, near Vaughan, Warren county, N. C., which occurred January 22d, after a long illness. He leaves a mother, father, and two sisters, to mourn the loss of one that was very dear to them. We extend to them our heart's deepest sympathy. God knows best, and saw fit to take from us a promising young man just in the prime of life. One consolation we have is that he professed faith in Christ during his illness, and we should not grieve over our departed friends when we know they are at rest; but it is hard for us to give them up even when we know this. He will be badly missed by his many friends, and no one can ever fill his place in his dear mother's heart. Mother is a boy's best friend.

"A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled
The boon his love had given,
And though the body moulders here,
The soul is safe in heaven."

A FRIEND.

Tributes of Respect.

At a recent meeting of the Hamer Creek Baptist church, the following resolutions were passed in memory of Mrs. O. H. Dockery:

WHEREAS, Our Father has called from our number Sister Dockery, a valued member and Christian woman of rare excellence;

Resolved 1. That we bow in humble submission to the Divine will.

2. That we thus express our grief at her death, but rejoice in the hope of her eternal rest.

3. That we tender our heart-felt sympathy to the stricken husband and family, and pray God's richest blessings upon them.

4. That these resolutions be sent to the RECORDER, and be engrossed on our minutes.

ELI GREEN,
J. J. McLENDON,
S. D. BALLARD,
Committee.

Mangum, March 19, 1894.

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father to remove from earth to heaven little Belle Peal, one of our much-beloved pupils of the Baptist Sunday-school, therefore Resolved 1. That in the death of her, the Baptist Sunday-school of Bethel loses one of its brightest jewels, and her parents a loving, affectionate and devoted child.

2. That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved parents, brothers and sisters in this their sad hour of bereavement, and extend to them our heartfelt condolence.

3. That the Secretary of this school furnish a copy of these resolutions to the parents of the deceased, and that a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER and the Eastern Reflector with a request to publish.

"Sleep, little Belle, sleep, while o'er thy breast
Thy friends in sadness weep,
Let not their tears disturb thy rest,
Nor break thy peaceful sleep."

EFFIE GRIMES,
ROSA ANDREWS,
ANDREW J MOORE,
Committee.

WHEREAS, God in his providence has removed from us by death our beloved brother G. W. Rollins, who for fourteen years was pastor of our church, therefore be it Resolved 1. That in the death of Bro. Rollins our Sunday-school has lost one of its most faithful and earnest laborers, and the church one of the brightest lights and firmest teachers of its faith.

Resolved 2. That his work in our church, Sunday-school and families be held in grateful remembrance and worthy of imitation.

Resolved 3. That we, the Double Springs Sunday-school, tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, and while with them we deeply mourn his loss, who so justly won our love and esteem we humbly bow to the will of him who "doeth all things well," trusting that the great loss may be sanctified to our spiritual good.

Resolved 4. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on our Sunday-school record, that one be sent to his family as a token of our esteem, and one be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER, Forest City Ledger, and Rural Reformer, for publication.

J. B. HAWKINS,
W. W. WASHBURN,
J. L. GREEN,
Committee.

Do You Cough?
It is a sure sign of weakness
You need more than a tonic.
You need
Scott's Emulsion
the Cream of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites, not only to cure the Cough but to give your system real strength. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.
Don't be deceived by Substitutes!
Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

Wives and Daughters
Often lose the benefit of life assurance, taken out for their protection, because of ill-advised investments. Again, the intentions of the assured sometimes fail of realization through the prodigality of a son to whom the sudden possession of so much money proves too great a temptation.
The
Equitable Life
has provided against these contingencies by offering The Tontine Installment Policy. The premiums per thousand are much less than under older forms of insurance, and the amount is payable in 20, 25 or 30 annual payments, thus securing a comfortable income for the beneficiary. Write to
W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas,
ROCK HILL, S. C.

After the GRIPPE
Is Over
Many persons find that their general health has been impaired. Effects linger in the system which, if not promptly met and removed, may, and often do, result in great danger. These effects are indicated by such symptoms as a lingering cough, disordered digestion, nervousness, pains and general weakness, with loss of energy.
Royal
Germetuer
Is the greatest of all remedies in such cases. It acts so pleasantly, and yet so promptly and surely, that it almost imperceptibly sweeps out of the system the causes that produce these troubles, and restores the vigor of joyous health. This is the experience of thousands who have tried it. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, harmless always, and Cures WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS.
$1.00 per bottle, 6 for $5.00. All druggists. Manufactured only by KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO., ATLANTA, GA.

1894.
Spring Business
On the Basis of the New Wilson Tariff.
Now on sale our new lines of High Novelty Suitings, Colored Dress Goods, Black Dress Goods, Fancy Dress Silks, Velvets, White Goods, Laces, Embroideries and Printed and Dyed Cotton Dress Fabrics in assortments larger than ever.
Selling Dry Goods by mail is a special feature of our business. Our mail orders are filled by trained people who do nothing else.
Samples Cheerfully Sent.
OUR FREE DELIVERY.
Cash with Order of $5 00 and over, we deliver goods free (except furniture and crockery) to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.
W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co
193 and 195 Fayetteville St.
RALEIGH, N. C.

$7.00 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Shot Guns from $2.00 to $50.00. Winchester Rifles, $9.25 to $12.00. Breech-Loading Rifles, $2.00 to $10.00. Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $3.00. Send 2c. stamp for 68-page Catalogue and save 40 per cent.
GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 605 Main St., Louisville, Ky.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.
Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

The Home Circle.

Example.

We scatter seeds with careless hand,
And dream we ne'er shall see them more;
But for a thousand years
Their fruit appears.
In weeds that mar the land,
Or healthful store,

The deeds we do, the words we say—
Into still air they seem to fleet,
We count them ever past;
But they shall last,
In the dread judgment they
And we shall meet!

I charge thee by the years gone by,
For the love's sake of brethren dear,
Keep thou the one true way
In work and play,
Lest in that world their cry
Of woe thou hear!

—Selected.

The Story of a Rich Man.

Many years ago a lad of sixteen years left home to seek his fortune. All his worldly possessions were tied up in a bundle, which he carried in his hand. As he trudged along he met an old neighbor, the captain of a canal-boat, and the following conversation took place, which changed the whole current of the boy's life:

"Well, William, where are you going?"

"I don't know," he answered; "father is too poor to keep me at home any longer, and says I must now make a living for myself."

"There's no trouble about that," said the captain. "Be sure you start right and you'll get along finely."

William told his friend that the only trade he knew anything about was soap and candle making, at which he had helped his father while at home.

"Well," said the old man, "let me pray with you once more and give you a little advice, and then I will let you go."

They both kneeled down upon the tow-path (the path along which the horses which drew the canal-boat walked.) The dear old man prayed earnestly for William, and then gave this advice: "Some one will soon be the leading soap-maker in New York. It can be you as well as any one. I hope it may. Be a good man, give your heart to Christ, give the Lord all that belongs to him of every dollar you earn, make an honest soap, give a full pound, and I am certain you will yet be a prosperous and rich man."

When the boy arrived in the city he found it hard it get work. Lonesome and far from home, he remembered his mother's words and the last words of the canal-boat captain. He was then led to seek first the "kingdom of God and his righteousness" and united with the church. He remembered his promise to the old captain, and the first dollar he earned brought up the question of the Lord's part. In the Bible he found that the Jews were commanded to give one-tenth, so he said: "If the Lord will take one-tenth I will give that." And so he did, and ten cents of every dollar was sacred to the Lord.

Having regular employment, he soon became a partner; and after a few years his partners died and William became the sole owner of the business. He now resolved to keep his promise to the old captain. He made an honest soap, gave a full pound, and instructed his book keeper to open an account with the Lord and carry one tenth of all his income to that account. He prospered, his business grew, his family was blessed, his soap sold, and he grew rich faster than he ever hoped. He then gave the Lord two-tenths, and prospered more than ever. Then he gave three-tenths, then four-tenths, and then five tenths. He educated his family, settled all his plans for life, and gave all his income to the Lord. He prospered more than ever.

This is the story of Mr. William Colgate, who has given millions of dollars to the Lord's cause and left a name that will never die.—Kind Words.

Slang in Dress.

A puzzled girl says: "How can I be slangy in my dress?" writes Ruth Ashmore in a thoughtful article on "The Girl Who Uses Slang" in the Ladies' Home Journal. I'll tell you, and then you can see whether you are or not. The girl who, because lace frills are fashionable, has her frills wider than anybody else, who accentuates the width of her skirts, the brim of her hat, who, because pink roses are fashionable, has the greatest number of pink roses and the deepest in tone, this girl is slangy in dress. She is the girl whose dress tires you to look at. She is the girl, who the very minute she enters a room, makes you conscious of her presence by the noise of her skirts, and who gives you an overpowering sense of her having too much to wear. That is one type.

Another is the girl who, seizing the pretty fashion of cloth skirts, soft blouses and pretty jackets, makes it slangy by having the soft blouse developed into a loud, stiff shirt and the jacket made to look as much like a man's coat as possible. With this she wears a masculine tie, a stiff, plain hat, and unconsciously she assumes the manners of a man. But as she is not a man, she does not succeed in this.

A Good Suggestion.

If you do not think it will pay to go in for pure-bred poultry for yourself, why not invest a few dollars for the boys and girls, if they have a fancy in that line, and let them have the profits? Maybe that would be just the thing that would keep the boy contented at home. As it is, with nothing of his own on the farm, and nothing of especial interest to employ his spare time, he may get to thinking that he would be better off in town, clerking, may be, in the corner grocery store.—Hoe's Herald.

What One Woman Did.

A New England farmer in reduced circumstances contrived to eke out a living by selling vegetables from door to door in the nearest coast town.

A young daughter was his housekeeper, fellow-laborer in the fields and companion on the road. She was a bright girl, with a hunger for knowledge which her meager schooling had only served to set on edge.

When her father jumped from the wagon to go indoors and sell his wares she remained behind to watch the horse and employed her leisure moments in studying a Greek grammar. In the small, resolute head on her shoulders there was room not only for her father's accounts with his customers but also for inflections, conjugations and paradigms as dry as his sandy garden in a midsummer drought.

The father died, leaving to this silent, motherless girl a house and a truck farm but no money. She was forced to support herself, and, not knowing how to do anything else, she went on with the farm work and vegetable peddling.

She wore high top boots, dressed like a man, worked in the garden with hoe and rake as her father had done, took care of the horse and sold vegetables in town.

Toilsome as was her life, she had an antidote for loneliness—the study of Latin and Greek. She did not know how it was to be done, but she did not despair of fitting herself to be a teacher. Her well-thumbed grammar was always on the wagon-seat when she drove to town. Her voice could be heard on the road rattling off the conjugations of the verbs. When her supper was cooked and eaten she had an hour by candlelight over the classical authors.

An eminent lawyer, enjoying an outing in the coast town, caught sight of her in one of his drives. She had been hoeing corn, and while resting under a tree, was studying her favorite grammar.

The devotion of this hard-working girl to Greek excited his admiration. He made her acquaintance and offered her the position of private secretary in his office, with leisure for completing her education.

She leased her house and farm and entered the lawyer's employ. She had time for study and received superior instruction. Her eccentricities of dress and her rough, mannish ways disappeared. She became a lady of refinement and culture.

When her patron died she could command a fine position as a teacher of Latin and Greek. She now occupies an important chair in a New England school. Her vacations she spends in her old home, where she conducts a summer school for coaching boys for college.

Such a life shows what a woman can do when her will is a strong motor. The opportunity for abandoning her farm labor would never have come to her if she had not persisted in digging for Greek roots as well as Irish potatoes.—Youth's Companion.

More Potash Needed.

1. Fodder crops, pasture grasses, corn, clover and hay, all remove large amounts of potash from the soil, and these crops occupy a large proportion of our improved lands.

2. The urine of our domestic animals contains about four-fifths of the total potash of their excrements.

3. When urine is allowed to waste, the manure is poor in potash.

4. When manures are exposed to rains, much of the potash, being soluble, is washed away.

5. Nearly all the special fertilizers are especially rich in phosphoric acid and do not contain enough potash.

6. Superphosphates were the first fertilizers to come into general use among our farmers.

7. When the farmer buys a fertilizer, he still, nine times out of ten, calls for a phosphate.

8. As a result of the above conditions, our soils seem to be quite generally in need of more liberal applications of potash.

9. In the case of corn the need of potash appears to be particularly prominent.

10. For a good crop of corn the fertilizer used should supply 100 to 125 pounds of actual potash per acre; 200 to 250 pounds of muriate of potash or one ton (50 bushels) of good wood ashes will do this.

11. With ordinary farm or stable manure it will generally pay to use some potash for corn; 125 to 150 pounds of muriate of potash has given profitable results.

12. The liberal use of potash means more clover in our fields, more nitrogen taken from the air, more milk in the pail, a richer manure heap, and store-houses and barns full to overflowing. It means also a sod, which, when turned, will help every other crop.

13. For the potato crop, the sulphate appears to be much superior to the muriate of potash, promoting both yield and quality in much higher degree; 300 to 400 pounds of high-grade sulphate of potash furnishes enough of this element.

14. For oats, rye and grass, nitrate of soda applied just as the growth begins in spring has proved very beneficial; 300 to 400 pounds per acre should be applied.—Prof. W. P. Brooks, Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Purely vegetable—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're a compound of refined and concentrated botanical extracts. These tiny, sugar-coated pellets—the smallest and the easiest to take—absolutely and permanently cure constipation, indigestion, sick and bilious headaches, dizziness, bilious attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels.

They cure permanently, because they act naturally. They don't shock and weaken the system, like the huge, old-fashioned pills. And they're more effective. One little pellet for a corrective or laxative—three for a cathartic.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You pay for the good you get.

Introduce the Children.

It is a common oversight in too many households not to introduce the children to visitors. Guests are formally presented to the adult members of the family, but the younger boys and girls are either ignored altogether or else introduced in a general way without giving their individual names. This course is almost certain to result in awkwardness and constraint on their part, when grown. There is a difference between putting children forward unduly and giving them their just meed of recognition. And pray take pains, in making introductions, to speak the names distinctly, and, above all things else, do not omit their mention. How many of us have been annoyed to have a hostess greet an intimate friend, to whom we were entire strangers, with some such salutation as, "O Henry, so pleased to have you meet Miss Blank," leaving us to discover his surname as best we may. It is not a bad plan for the family to rehearse by themselves some of these little social formalities.—Congregationalist.

The Selection of Jurymen.

Great care, always and everywhere, should be given to the selection of jurymen. Unfortunately, there is a disposition among our busy men to evade jury duty. It is often irksome and always poorly paid; but it must be assumed. The evasion of this duty tends to weaken the popular respect for courts and their decisions. Where the local courts are presided over by an indifferent judge, with the State represented by an inefficient attorney and with a jury not of the best in the box, we have all the conditions present for a failure of justice. This is the atmosphere in which violent and unlawful punishment of crime flourishes.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Pray to God at the beginning of thy works, that thou mayest bring them to a good conclusion.—Xenophon.

A GENTLE CORRECTIVE is what you need when your liver becomes inactive. It's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Pellets; they're free from the violence and the griping that come with the ordinary pill. All medical authorities agree that in regulating the bowels mild methods are preferable. For every trouble of the liver, stomach and bowels, these tiny, sugar-coated pills are most effective. They go about their work in an easy and natural way, and their good lasts—they strengthen and tone up the lining membranes of the stomach and bowels, thereby promoting digestion. Sick and Bilious Headache, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Dizziness, are prevented, relieved, and permanently cured. They're the cheapest pill you can buy for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or your money is returned.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers. Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 43 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

MAGNETIC NERVINE.

Is sold with written guarantee to cure Nervous Prostration, Fits, Dizziness, Headache and Neuralgia and Wakefulness, caused by excessive use of Opium, Tobacco and Alcohol; Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, causing Misery, Insanity and Death; Barrenness, Impotency, Lost Power in either sex; Premature Old Age, Involuntary Losses, caused by over-indulgence, over-exertion of the Brain and Errors of Youth. It gives to Weak Organs their Natural Vigor and doubles the joys of life; cures Leucorrhœa and Female Weakness. A month's treatment, in plain package, by mail, to any address, $1 per box, 6 boxes $5. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circulars free. Guarantee issued only by our exclusive agent.

NO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

IN paint the best is the cheapest.—Don't be misled by trying what is said to be "just as good," but when you paint insist upon having a genuine brand of

Strictly Pure White Lead

It costs no more per gallon than cheap paints, and lasts many times as long. Look out for the brands of White Lead offered you; any of the following are sure:

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.

"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.

A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.

Philadelphia Branch, 521 South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES,

RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for Catalogue. C. S. BELL & Co., Hillsboro, O.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 25 cts. 3 to 6 sold in a house. Sample postage paid FREE. FOSHEE & Co., Cincinnati, O.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1894. Number 80.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 10.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps

"IF YOU would found durable institutions," Lacordaire once remarked speaking of the prized "Liberty, Equality, Fraternity" of France, "write above the word 'liberty,' 'obedience'; above 'equality,' 'hierarchy'; above 'fraternity,' 'reverence'; above the august symbol of rights the divine symbol of duty." This memorable sentence contains more of truth than many would attribute to it. They who know nothing of obedience are ignorant, unfit for and incapable of appreciating true liberty; they who enjoy equality before the law and of suffrage, use the latter only to institute a legislative hierarchy which they must obey; fraternity without reverence is the binding tie of banditti and anarchistic organizations; a government cannot guarantee rights without imposing corresponding duties. In this connection it is pertinent to recall Prof. Woodrow Wilson's sentiment in his recent lecture in this State. He is reported as saying that the people are not the authority of law and government, but the source of that authority. The tyrant may initiate drastic measures against the people's will, but if he is wise he will hearken to their cries, for with them forever lies final, though never actual, sovereignty; the legislator may be honest and manly, or quite the contrary, in opposing popular demands, but he must hearken to them or return to civil life, giving place to some one who is in accord with the people, for theirs is the final power, and by their will public men must rise and fall. But the people must also be subject to restraints: they have duties as well as power and privileges. It is their right to select makers of the law, it is their right to become makers of the law if they can, it is their duty to respect and protect the law once enacted. There has been no such thing as popular legislation since the Athenian democracy perished, in which all citizens in assembly considered how best to administer public affairs. There is now no possibility of enacting law that will be approved of all classes, yet the minority must acquiesce, in patient hopefulness biding its time. A good measure, true and right, will not perish by lapse of years. Civil order is impossible without law; law can only be enacted and enforced by hierarchy; the people rule only by means of the hierarchy which it is their right to elect; and the people in majority and minority are responsible for an amenable to the laws of their representatives. But the very imposition of law upon one is his title deed to "a freedom without which obedience is not obedience, nor citizenship citizenship."

THE "Coxey peace-army of the common weal," which purposes marching from Ohio to the National Capital and personally demanding of our representatives the enactment of certain measures, among them one authorizing the circulation of baseless greenbacks, has excited extensive comment and speculation, disturbed the even tenor of certain gubernatorial (and possibly presidential) ways, and, it is said, stricken some timorous Washington City officials with apprehension. General Coxey confidently hopes to aggregate 100,000 men during his three months' journey, and expects to maintain that number from and to their homes, if they have any. We think both his hope and his expectation groundless. We have no idea that he will mass a considerable number of men, and we are sure it is not in his power to maintain and control even an inconsiderable number. When his army has endured the labor and deprivation incident to a several hundred miles march of an army, there will be some occasion for hopes and apprehension. It is true, tramps make a profession of walking, but they go by easy stages, and preferably alone. Coxey cannot get farmers to join him; they are too sensible, they are in the midst of the sowing season, and moreover they have families who cannot subsist without their aid, whom it would be necessary to leave. So it is really a matter of tramps, most of whom have no citizenship.

The colossal purposelessness of the effort is sadly ridiculous. Imagine Senators hearkening to the clamors of tramps; Cleveland, who has faced unmoved multitudes on parade or in attendance at his inaugurations, diverted from his purposes by a 100,000 vagrants! Imagine Coxey, a horse-breeder, demanding anything of any one in the name of anything, not to mention revolution of financial policies of law-makers in the name of tramps! If Coxey were right, his methods would hinder rather than promote his cause. However, we believe he desires more notoriety than greenbacks, and having obtained this in good measure we shall expect him to retire to live on his fame and, perhaps, to seek political preferment for his self-sacrificing patriotism and good intentions in behalf of the great unemployed—not those who are temporarily so, but who make a profession of unemployment in hard and easy times.

THE disgraceful and deplorable libels of certain Senators—to which we do not choose to give credence, since evidence of them is only vaguely circumstantial, and we still have confidence in reputed honorable men—arising from long delay of the tariff bill in the sub-committee and the changes which they effected, have brought to our attention the chief popular argument of protectionists: protected interests increase laborers' and even independent farmers' incomes. It has been stated in various journals that certain Senators were laboring to continue the sugar bounty and the coal and ore tariff clauses on the Wilson bill, because they had vested interests in the industries which these provisions affected. Such accusations are very common. Senator Stewart and Congressmen Bryan and Pence have been persistently accused of motives of self interests and villanous hypocrisy for no other reason than that endeavored strenuously to effect a resumption of free coinage of silver, a product in which they were probably personally interested. Who believes the libel of the sugar-bounty and ore-tariff Senators cannot avoid that of the silver men: both being of equal reputation, and the evidence in either case being of the same nature—circumstantial.

Whatever one may believe of the prompting motives, it is contradictory to say that owners of industries are favorable to certain tariff provisions in personal interest, and that tariff insures increase of laborers' incomes. If it increased owners' incomes, nothing would remain for the employees. We believe that the manufacturers who clamor so for protection in the name of their employees are really prompted by motives of self-interest. A manufacturer, like most other employers, pays the least possible wages. Their wage rates are not adjusted according to ability to pay, but to supply and demand of labor. Wages would not increase if goods sold for twice the present prices, as long as laborers could be secured at present wage-rates. Protection serves rather to increase the income of the owner, who buys labor which cannot be protected save by restriction of immigration. The natural resources of our land and the Atlantic Ocean are sufficient protection for American industries, not to mention the necessary protection of a strictly revenue tariff.

THE efforts of the Secretary of Agriculture, Hon. J. S. Morton, to reform certain much-abused features of his department, are very commendable. Under former administrations the department of our government over which he presides has been used by representatives, and legally too, at great expense to send seeds, etc., to their constituents. It is supposed that in lieu of ability to make pleasing speeches, some legislators used the Department of Agriculture to maintain their popularity at home. The present administration, as stated in the President's message to the present Congress, is inclined to restrain these methods, and to make the department of more experimental and statistical nature than a free distribution bureau—an expensive instrumentality of would-be-returned legislators. The farmer has no more right to ask free seeds of the government than the manufacturer has to demand a supply of raw material. Both may expect the government to protect them from fraud, and to make reasonable efforts to make their labors more fruitful. Efforts are being made to secure National appropriation for the eradication of the "Russian thistle," which is a menace to certain Western and Northwestern crops. If appropriation can be secured for such an object we do not know why the government should not be expected to eradicate cotton-rust, "Colorado beetles," moths, and finally to protect merchants' goods from the damp of badly weather-boarded store-houses. Paternalism once instituted cannot be justly limited, and we do not know of a greater tendency to paternalism, barring protection, than the expectations of citizens that the government shall appropriate gums to help them. We cannot demand anything of our government save those certain inalienable rights, privileges and immunities provided in our Constitution. Exception may be made for obvious reasons in case of threatened invasion of the country by contagious diseases. While it may be wholesome for the government to bear the expense of costly and difficult experiments, for the benefit of large classes which could not otherwise enjoy such advantages, farmers have no more need than merchants of government-aid in their vocation.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

Is it possible to discuss in a calm and good natured way some grave and practical questions of public policy? The writer hopes so. At any rate he will make the attempt. In his own thinking he has reached certain definite and decided conclusions. But as he has pursued the lines of study and reflection which have led to these conclusions, his desire has been to see both sides,—to see them, too, in that "dry light" which Lord Bacon so strongly commends, and unobscured by the mists of prejudice.

When one considers the importance of these questions, the effect that his words may have, and the far reaching results of decisions which may be reached, he cannot deal lightly or flippantly with such grave matters, or consciously allow any selfish motives to dominate his judgment or dictate his language.

And has he not the right to expect candid and respectful consideration of the views which may be advanced? The fact that they are held by very many thoughtful men in many parts of our country would seem to demand that they should not be treated with ridicule or answered with epithets.

There are at present two widely divergent tendencies of opinion as to what is the wisest policy for a State to pursue with reference to the education of the young. In several States of the Union, each of these is claiming acceptance on the part of the people.

What are these two opinions? Briefly stated, they are as follows:—

1. That it is right and expedient for a State to undertake the education of all its youth, not only in the lower, but also in all the higher branches of instruction. And that provision should be made for this by taxation. And that if, as an incidental result of this policy, private or corporate institutions for higher learning be injured or destroyed, the State is not responsible therefor.

It may be remarked, in passing, before stating the other opinion, that, if it be right and expedient for a State to furnish for all its citizens adequate instruction,—technical, professional, scientific and literary,—in universities, colleges and academies, as well as in common schools, it would seem unnecessary for any private or corporate institutions to exist.

The late Prof. Mangum of Chapel Hill, N. C., published an "Open Letter" a few years ago in which he said: "If the State provides for secular education in a safe way and in a satisfactory degree, the church, in all its divisions, appears to have no reason to establish schools for such kinds of learning." If his hypothesis be admitted, he was beyond all question right in this conclusion.

Is there any good ground for asking men and women to put a voluntary tax upon themselves for the support of higher education when they have already been taxed by the State for the same purpose? The writer confesses that if it be right and expedient for the State to cover the whole field of education from top to bottom, and if the State can do it without violating the principles of religious liberty, he can see no reason for such an appeal.

And, moreover, if the people endorse this view, and accept the duty of providing for the higher education of all who may desire it, he does not think that complaint as to competition can be reasonably made by any individuals or corporations engaged in the same work.

If the whole field belongs to the State, and the State in the exercise of a right of eminent domain chooses to occupy it, others who may enter it do so at their own risk. The State may rightfully complain of any invasion of its monopoly, but, if the right of this monopoly be once recognized, no one has any good ground for objection to the incidental inconveniences caused by the State to individuals or corporations.

Some who, in the main, agree with the views of the writer are not willing to make such large concessions. But he cannot resist the conviction that they are necessary conclusions from the premises. As to whether the premises are true is another matter. This will be argued later on.

Some of those who favor State monopoly in education boldly announce their positions and even take the aggressive.

The position is clearly and frankly outlined by Acting President Frieze of the University of Michigan. In his report to the Regents in 1880 he said: "Every educational want should be provided for here at home just as perfectly as if no other State, nor any private institution, were in existence." And in his baccalaureate address for 1887 he is reported to have said: "The people of Michigan adopted at the first, as a fundamental principle of their State polity, the idea of universal education at public expense; education, not only of the Common School, but also in its higher grades, and in all its branches; education in all its breadth and compass. * * It (the State) can leave no part of it to other hands; as justly might it delegate to some private agency any other part of its functions, as any part of its educational system. As properly consign its judiciary to a private corporation of lawyers, or its financial affairs to a syndicate of bankers, as to leave its work, or any part of it, to private corporations of any kind."

Now it is not proposed to argue at this point the question whether this policy is the wisest for Michigan and the other States of the Northwest, for whose educational systems, both lower and higher, magnificent provision was made by Federal grants before these States were ever organized. Even from these, however, may be heard an undertone of protest.

Dr. W. B. Williams of Michigan, in a monograph on this subject, ("The Duty of the State," &c., Beacon Press, Boston, 1891,) writes:—

"Some years since, the President of a Christian College was invited to speak at a college alumni banquet in a western city, and he says, 'Just before the supper I fell into conversation with the President of the State University, who was to preside at the banquet. And, somewhat to my surprise, his frankness far exceeded his courtesy, and with considerable earnestness he argued that the State ought to control all education; that there was no need for any such institutions as I represented; and, said he, 'We mean to get you between the upper and the nether millstone and grind you out.'"

Dr. Williams continues: "Those who share these views * * seek to crowd the graduates of Christian colleges out of all prominent positions—such as superintendents of schools and principals of high schools—and to work in graduates of State institutions, that they may be the recruiting officers of those institutions. They belittle the work of the colleges, and use what influence they may have to turn students away from them, and to turn them toward the State institutions."

In his inaugural address in November, 1893, President Schurman of Cornell University appealed for an annual appropriation from the State of New York of not less than $150,000, and said: "* * Shall we, then, entrust the cause of higher education to private universities? No, they are in supply too capricious, in maintenance too precarious, in efficiency too variable, and in the charge for instruction they are too far beyond the means of the masses of the people. Denominational and private colleges belong to an era which is passing away."

In July, 1893, Dr. Ely of the University of Wisconsin delivered in Albany, New York, an address in which he said: "It is not proposed at the present time to discuss the question of the common schools, but it is simply asserted that least of all is there need of separate denominational institutions for the higher education."

President Ely quotes from President Jesse of the University of Missouri as follows: "It would be a good thing if the churches would sell out, even at a sacrifice, their colleges, and use the proceeds for theological schools near the best universities."

Dr. Ely elaborates and strongly advocates the plan proposed by Jefferson that "various religious denominations should group their educational efforts, so far as these touch the higher education, around the State universities of the country."

The address of Dr. Ely is, throughout, in admirable spirit. The Jeffersonian idea, along with the dangers which might arise from excessive centralization, would obviously have its advantages. The writer recalls the fact that, some years ago, when the question of the location of a theological seminary was under debate, he suggested in a religious paper that it might be wise to consider Jefferson's proposition, and to locate it at the University of Virginia. And if the "Michigan Idea" in education shall find acceptance with the people, and they shall consent to support all higher education by taxation, it will unquestionably be wise to adopt the course recommended by Dr. Ely. But it is hard to believe that when the matter is thoroughly understood, the people will assume this large responsibility.

There is, however, little room for doubt that the idea—in whole or in part—of State monopoly in higher education has taken root in the minds of some in our own State? And it is not difficult to discern indications of a purpose to inaugurate the Michigan plan—in whole or in part—either immediately or gradually and ultimately.

Those who favor it, it is believed, are not numerous; but they are highly influential by reason of their high character and their social and political position. No question is raised as to the honesty and sincerity of their convictions. As patriotic citizens, they believe that they are working for the good of the State.

As to to whether they are favoring and pursuing the best method to secure that good is certainly open for debate. And the whole plan ought to be thoroughly debated before final adoption if it is likely to destroy among us more education than it can create, and if, in its execution, public revenues are to be used which could be more wisely employed in lengthening the terms of the public schools.

It will be seen that the principles involved lie far deeper than any merely superficial questions as to comparative excellence of institutions or competitions at minor points. They involve in their decision the ultimate life or death of many institutions. Others, which may survive, will in the course of time be quietly side tracked, and the whole right of way will be given to a vast and complicated system under State control.

The writer is especially desirous of being understood to say, not that there is a purpose or intent to injure or destroy these interests, but that such results as have been suggested will be the natural outcome of causes which have already begun to operate.

The tendencies are too manifest to require much discussion. A large proportion of those who seek higher education expect to teach for a longer or shorter period. Free tuition and the monopoly of influence for appointment to positions in the graded schools will naturally draw the great majority of this numerous class to State institutions. And with the many young men who have political aspirations, the arguments used for attendance upon State universities are very potent. These and other motives will largely increase the numbers of students at the State institutions. This increase will be made a plea for larger appropriations from the State treasury. These, when granted, will multiply attractions. Then, as soon as it can be enacted by a legislature, unlimited free tuition will be granted to all State students. On the other hand, the patronage of the other colleges will continue to decrease. Their incomes from students' fees will gradually cease entirely. In the absence of any hopeful outlook for the future, buildings will cease to be erected, and endowments to be enlarged. Their corps of professors must be cut down to the limit of support afforded by endowments already secured, and those who remain will be compelled to instruct numerous small classes in several departments. The work done under these conditions will hasten the end, when a melancholy silence will reign in halls of learning which had been dedicated to higher education under Christian influence.

When, a year ago, efforts were made to secure an understanding between some of the State and private institutions, the writer believed that there was a field which it was not likely that any private institution would be able, at present, effectively to enter, and was in hearty sympathy with the efforts made at that time to remove existing friction by placing some reasonable limit to the work to be done both by the public and private institutions. These efforts met with opposition—perhaps with ridicule. A year of study and reflection has convinced him that the question is a far deeper and wider one than he at first thought. His own opinions have undergone more modifications than he expected when he began the investigation. He is now persuaded that, while compromises may be made and are perhaps desirable, they will only serve as temporary expedients. Either this claim as to the functions of a State in education must be repudiated by the people, or else very many private enterprises must die. He does not expect any immediate general acceptance of the views which he will attempt to present. He was so slow and reluctant in reaching his own conclusions, that he can afford to be very tolerant with those who may not agree with him. But he cannot help believing that, in the course of time, conclusions more or less similar to those which he has reached will generally prevail, or else that entirely different conceptions as to the functions of government will supplant those which are generally held.

If this first opinion can be sustained, and if the people of any State decide to accept the whole work of education,—the higher as well as the lower,—as one of the functions of their State, then those who control the majority of the colleges and academies for both sexes within that State may expect, not only to surrender the hope of larger and better equipment, but, in the course of time, to close their institutions entirely.

If the revenues of any State are to be used, not in order to, but in such a way as, to compete with colleges and academies in doing the work which the latter can do without cost to the State, their ultimate doom is sealed. They may struggle on for a few years, but the end will be only a question of time.

If, for instance, a State shall accept as one of its functions the whole duty of transportation (a policy, by the way, which Dr. Ely is said to endorse) and shall use revenues secured by taxation for cheapening the cost of the transportation of freight and passengers, private enterprises will be compelled to abandon that field.

Not a few people were amused when they read, last February, in a Raleigh newspaper which had thrown the weight of its influence against the colleges in their protest, the following editorial: "When we hear a Senator declare, on the floor of the State Senate, that a railroad enterprise, which would shorten the distance from one city in the State to another forty miles, should be prevented by legislation, because it might jeopardize the interest of the State in a railroad, it appears to us that it is time for the State to so husband her resources as not to allow them to defeat the enterprising spirit of her citizens. The State should never own property of a character to force on to become the rival of her own citizens in any field of enterprise. We state a principle which we believe to be sound."

Illustrations could equally well be drawn from other industries. Could any industry expect to maintain itself when brought into competition with similar industries subsidized by funds raised on such taxation?

The above remarks on the first opinion have been made, not in order to seek to

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 4, 1894.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

THE CHANGED CRISIS.

Half a century ago when Matthew T. Yates sought the Asiatic shores in the name of the Master, and since then until very recent years, the problem of evangelizing foreign lands was one of men who would undergo the dangers and deprivations and the self-sacrifice incident to a voyage to and work in foreign fields. The crisis was one of unanswered prayers for many workers. And indeed it even now requires an unusual gift of faith and grace to face the uncertain existence and the inevitable dangers and trying struggles that await the worker in unenlightened and heathen lands. But now men are ready and willing; the problem is not one of individuals, but of the mass of Christians. The engine is not slow moving for want of firemen, but of fuel. To-day workers are asking—praying—to be sent that they may do the Master's will, whereas Christian people formerly prayed for the faith and the grace to be willing to go.

Such is the change in the condition of affairs. And such a change—imperceptibly gradual, yet radical and decisive—is indeed a hopeful one; and it could not but be significant of much.

It is, first, a testimony, speaking wholly from a physical point of view, to the hope of progress, based on former progress, in foreign evangelization. If men and women did not believe after the thorough test of half a century that progress was being made, and that greater progress awaited greater efforts, the foreign fields would not now be dotted with mission stations, and workers would not ask that they be sent out. Men like success; it is always an encouragement and attraction. And if after fifty years there was no evidence of success in foreign missions, few would be the venturers abroad. But success is crowning the work of the missionaries, certainly and unmistakably from God, and this is one encouragement to those who are now asking the privilege of saving the heathen.

The change is an evidence, moreover, that God is sanctioning the foreign work. We might easily imagine when there were only a few missionaries that they were mistaken; that God had not called them, there being so many who felt no call, nor even an interest in the work. But the number has grown until no one can reasonably think that so many are misled. When we see men who have given unusual attention to the subject—young and promising men—declaring that it is their earnest conviction that it is the Master's will that they throw away whatever of hope of success they may have in their native land, and go to work and struggle with no hope of much earthly glory; when we reflect that these young men know as well as we that few are they who make famous names as missionaries, or even attain what men call success, we cannot but believe that God is calling them. When we have testimony of so many men and women that God has called them, we cannot doubt God's will in regard to us. He has effected the greater sacrifice, has accomplished the greater work, and now the final accomplishment is resting on the Christian world—every follower of Jesus Christ. This is the changed crisis, and this is the crisis which now confronts us.

A crisis is an extreme condition; a favorable outcome depends on action—prompt and decisive. When the physician tells us that his patient is about to pass the crisis, we are stricken with apprehension; when he hopefully tells us it is passed, hope rises. It is the turning point for better or for worse. And the "changed crisis" is entirely as critical as was the former one. To delay is dangerous; to delay God's called workers is more than dangerous. A missionary turned backward from his chosen work is discouraged, others are discouraged; the workers, who cannot make much progress without assurances of support and reinforcements, are disheartened. Delay imperils souls. We do not wish to go faster than God does. We are willing to measure our progress by the number of men that he calls. A certain kind of speed against a great grade with a greater burden, would be dangerous: the coupling pin might fail; but they are never broken for want of fuel and steam, and these are the present needs. We have workers of faith and grace and gifts and inspiration, worthy firemen,—but they have not sufficient fuel to feed the engine.

A change, largely significant, has been wrought. It is a basis for hope and encouragement and an assurance of success. A crisis is at hand, and a crisis means something—better or worse. It is the occasion for decisive action.

A BROTHER recently wrote us that in his opinion insufficient emphasis is placed on the fact that Baptist churches constitute the highest authority in the Baptist denomination. It is true: We have often seen the statement that the "Convention has ordered," "the Association orders," etc. Neither of these bodies order. The churches which constitute them may agree to give so much money to certain objects, may agree to mutually support certain aims, and the only thing that is ordered usually is that the minutes be printed.

The Convention cannot order churches to institute young people's societies, cannot order them to support certain objects and not others. It only suggests, endorses and recommends. It is not a body of ecclesiastical authority. It can order its officers, but it merely recommends and endorses certain things as worthy of the attention and support of the churches.

In this view of the matter—and it is the only biblical view—let us consider the proposals to consolidate the Disciples and Baptists. How can it be done? Suppose every D. D. and every pastor and every joint committee of the two denominations should recommend consolidation;—that would be the end of it, if our churches did not think it according to their ideas to admit the Disciples. Suppose every Association and every Convention should vote that a certain basis of union was satisfactory. Would not the individual Baptist churches regard their own opinion in the matter, and would they not be doing just what the Scripture teaches?

We would be very happy to give the right hand of fellowship to the Disciples; we will not say a word against their becoming Baptists, if they will only come in the right way—as candidates for membership in Baptist churches, and demanding no further concessions and privileges than any other candidates do. Baptists hold to the faith in the gospel of the Son of God as handed down by their fathers; let them hold that, though the world demands compromise. We have nothing that we are ashamed of; nothing objectionable to our God and Saviour, if we may believe our conscience. If the Disciples were anxious to become one with us, it would only be because they thought us right under God; and thinking thus, they would come without asking concessions and compromises.

Again, the greatest argument against numerical—the only right mode, in our opinion,—basis of representation at the Southern Baptist Convention is that it would make the Convention an ecclesiastical body. How it would effect this is not stated. It would require more than one session of the Convention and an unheard of number of delegates on any basis to take God-given authority from our churches. It is impossible for the Southern Baptist Convention to become a body of ecclesiastical authority and remain Baptist. Yes, we are united, but not bound in chains of law and power and authority:—united in the name of the Master and for the furtherance of his cause.

NO ONE knows God's purposes; but we should be forever grateful to him that Jesus has taught us how to do our best and trust in his wisdom. A Christian can have no trial with which one cannot find a parallel in the life of the Saviour; the way is dark without a knowledge of him. Men in trouble without his example are apt to revile and blaspheme him who gave it to us that we might have solace in every affliction, faith through every doubt, a bearer of every burden and hope in blackest darkenness. Christ's patient trust and silent resignation to the divine plan would have been a light to a troublous world, even if he were not more than a man. Such is a Christian's advantage over other men. Alas, how few are they who enjoy it freely! How often do we prefer human doubts and struggles to divine example! How much happier and better would the world be, if the world knew more of the Bible, more of the Son of God.

ACCORDING to the new "Baptist Year Book" (American Baptist Publication Society) which is indeed more thorough, if possible, in its departments this year than ever, there are 1,498 Baptist Associations in the United States; 25,354 ordained ministers; churches, 38,199. Received by baptism during the year 1893, 176,077; restored, 25,074; lost by death, 39,188, by exclusion, 47,650; Sunday-schools, 30,698; officers and teachers, 143,765; pupils, 1,430,985; total membership of churches, 3,496 988; valuation of property of our churches, $78,606,769; contributions, for missions, $1,467,398; education, $367,416; salaries and incidental expenses, $7,986,464; other objects, $2,789,588; making a total of $13,560,712, about $3 80 to each member. There are 667,519 Baptists in other countries.

Truly we are "a mighty host of the Lord."

WE promised to try to "explain away" some of Bro. Stradley's doubts in this issue. Bro. Stringfield is sufficiently clear in his article on another page regarding the pseudonym—University. According to Brother Stradley's definition there are few universities in the world, and they are not generally known. Johns Hopkins was intended as a university pure and simple, but it was so apparent that its endowment could be used to greater advantage in undergraduate work that the authorities determined to give the usual college degrees. The Baptist Female University is chartered under that name, and it could not now be changed without legislative consent. But is this a reason why the denomination should have no institution for the higher education of Baptist girls? If it is, there is reason for vast demolition of institutions for the higher education of young men all over the country. By general usage, the name University has come to signify an institution of higher education. The meaning of terms has been changed by common usage many a time before. So much for the name.

Bro. Stradley says "if the proposed school is to have the money and patronage of the whole State, then let it be what its name implies." The University asks the financial support and patronage of only the Baptist population of North Carolina. Wake Forest College was founded in a like expectancy, yet it is not a University. Our brother seems to think that the original object of the University trustees was to organize an institution that would not compete with other female institutions. There never has been hope of such an institution. There is no possibility of such a one in the near future. The Female University, like Wake Forest, like the Baptist denomination in North Carolina, will be slow of growth. It may be unfortunate in having an imposing name, but its name is only significant of its final aim, which is to gratify the desire of Baptist fathers and mothers in North Carolina to give their daughters higher education in a Baptist institution, which they may regard as their own. As Bro. Stradley says a fountain cannot rise higher than its source; nor should it. We do not desire to have the Baptist Female University to rise above the needs of the Baptist girls of North Carolina—above the Baptist denomination. Our understanding of the matter is that in the opinion of the Convention there was need of an institution for the higher education of young ladies, children of Baptists, in North Carolina, not that there was a sufficient number of young ladies in our State who needed or desired or could afford post-graduate education in a University.

Bro. Stradley says: "Some say, 'we must have a school for girls of the same grade that Wake Forest College is for boys.'" That is precisely the ground on which the friends of the Female University are building hopes. It is unreasonable to hope that in scholarship and equipments it will equal Wake Forest College from the beginning; but the time will come when the University does as good work for Baptist girls as Wake Forest now does for boys, and we will look upon it as proudly as we now regard Wake Forest.

Like Bro. Stradley, we have not written in a spirit of controversy; and we hope what we have written may be regarded as candidly and kindly as was the article of our esteemed brothr.

NOT THE least interesting part of the RECORDER is the little yellow label on the outside of your paper; some of our subscribers, however, do not seem to catch its significance, even though it is one of the means by which they receive the paper. We are very anxious to have the concise legend which it carries to be read by our readers this week. It is important to us. If you are behind, we would like to have you pay at least part of the amount due, but we are not going to cut you off in the midst of a feast of good things. You must read "How far Ought the State to Undertake to Educate" from beginning to end, if we have to give you the paper. And, by the way, have you tried to get us a new subscriber lately? Several have been quite successful in this direction in recent weeks.

WE ARE glad that our brother who confesses that he has been looking for a chance to disagree with us, has mistaken our statement and failed of his object in the very moment of exultation. He seems to think that we do not advocate "legal suasion"—or better, "legal force,"—in dealing with the liquor evil. We distinctly declared some weeks ago that we approved of local option methods—which are as much legal as any other. We do not believe in running men for office and voting for them on platforms that cover the entire theory of government. That was the kind of vote we thought unequal to a total abstinence pledge.

We publish a condensation of the Mississippi plan of local option in this issue. We know that something must be done—and speedily—to curtail and finally destroy the liquor evil. We know the liquor men are organizing to perpetuate the traffic, and we recognize that the longer we delay the greater grows their hold on our State. No plan can be suggested that has not some flaws and objectionable features; and we place this one before our readers that they may consider it with us,—not to destroy, but to strengthen. It is doing effective work in Mississippi.

WE HOPE the State press will read Dr. Taylor's article as it appears in this and future issues, and express their candid opinions of its premises, assumptions and conclusions. It is indeed a "grave and practical question of State policy" which is at issue, and a great deal depends on its solution; and the general public will have to solve it sooner or later.

We need hardly call the attention of our subscribers to the article;—its subject and author are both favorites with them. As a wholesome, excellently written, clear cut and logically invincible discussion, we do not believe it has its equal in all the articles that have appeared in the RECORDER. And, too, the thoroughly admirable spirit which pervades its every sentence should make it pleasant reading even to those who would not be convinced of the rightfulness, justice and wisdom of its conclusions and purposes.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

MT. VERNON SPRINGS.

The season when visitors begin to come in is here. The hotel and grounds are being fitted up, and those who come to spend the summer will find cool and inviting quarters. The people in this entire section are talking about the coming Chautauqua to be held there this summer. Many hope the time will be changed to July instead of August. This would enable the citizens to get ready for the opening of the school, which will be early in August; and besides, it would afford an opportunity to many brethren to be present who will be at the Associations in August.

I spent a short while at

ORE HILL

Brethren Cheek and Stroud were very kind, and aided me in my work. The wheat crop is very promising in all this section. The grasses and clover were never so fine, or so far advanced as this year.

Bro. O. T. Edwards is assisting in the school at Siler City. Quite a large number of boys are in attendance, and the school is making fine progress, as it has for several years past.

Bro. Edwards will re open the school at Mt. Vernon Springs this fall. A good situation and a good teacher ought to make a successful school.

AT PINNACLE

Bro. Ball has seventy five students. The building is first-rate, and the citizens here seem to be enthusiastic for the success of the school. Bro. Ball is proving a first-rate teacher and manager of a school. Sometimes the best work a teacher ever does is done before he gets experience. Three or four boys in this school are prepared for college, and will be at Wake Forest next session. This, like most of the small towns on the C. F. & Y. V. road, is building up with stores and factories.

One year has noted many changes in the appearance of MT. AIRY.

The large brick stores, factories, and handsome dwellings, give the place a decidedly city-like appearance. Apples, cabbages and butter can be seen in great quantity, sent down from the mountains. The tobacco factories are at work, and labor will find employment from this time on. A few years ago there was little if any western meat sent to this town, but now I see more here than in two towns of the same size in the eastern portion of State. How is this? Our eastern people learned several years ago that this sort of thing would not do. It may be that the western people will have to learn the same lesson.

Bro. Pruitt, as has been stated, has decided to leave Mt. Airy. He has done faithful and valuable work here for the past five years. This is one of our best churches, and Bro. Pruitt's successor will find much to encourage him in his work.

I spent Sunday in

GERMANTON,

and went out to Friendship to be with Bro. Crews. This is the finest country church in the Pilot Mountain Association. There is no better section in the State; the land is rich, the farms well cultivated, and the farmers are unusually prosperous for these times.

Bro. Crews has been pastor of this church for fourteen years. His people were never so devoted to him as now. The surprise to me is that they do not have preaching twice instead of once a month.

GERMANTON

is one of the oldest towns in the State. The old court house, which was the county seat for Stokes and Forsyth, is still standing, and has been converted into a store.

Bro. C. C. Haymore, several years ago, built an excellent church here. Up to that time the Baptists had no church here. Bro. Haymore was their pastor from the first, and is still with them. His congregations are good and the work hopeful. Men like Crews and Haymore, who are willing in a quiet way to go on and do their work, will always succeed, however unpromising the situation.

AT WALNUT COVE

brethren Lewis and Sledge showed me over the town and helped me to get some new subscribers. There is a splendid church building here, built by Bro. Conrad, who has done so much of this sort of work for the denomination. It pained me to see that some thoughtless boys had deliberately thrown rocks through a dozen panes of glass in the windows. It is hard to see why any one should find pleasure in this sort of thing.

Brother Blackburn's twelve-year old boy, while riding horse-back Saturday, March 31th, was so badly injured by the falling of his horse that he died Sunday morning.

Bro. Day, who is teaching here now, will probably return to Wake Forest next year and complete his course.

The fine railroad facilities would seem to insure the building of a considerable town here. A few years ago Dr. Lash, who owns the town largely, was offered $30,000 for thirty-two acres of land near the Norfolk and Western depot.

As we passed up the C. F. & Y. V. road a few days ago, fruit trees of every sort were in full bloom; now the fruit is all killed, and the wheat crop seriously injured.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Success—Thanksgiving.

....Rev. A. T. Howell of Rocky Mount was in Raleigh last week.

....Rev. D. R. Burton of Wilson, a prominent and aged minister of the Methodist Conference, is dead.

....Moody's meetings in Richmond are largely attended, and much enthusiasm is manifest in the work.

....A little more than a month till the Convention—let North Carolina be well represented in men and figures.

....We regret to hear of the continued serious sickness of the venerable Rev. Dr. Whitfield of Richmond, Va.

....Bro. N. B. Broughton of Raleigh is meeting with good success in a series of services at Union, S. C., with Bro. Booth.

....Miss Althea Bright, daughter of Rev. T. Bright of Forest City, has been selected as one of the teachers in our Orphanage.

....Rev. G. H. Church of Statesville is to aid Pastor Hilliard of Thomasville in a series of meetings the second week in April.

....A friend writes: "Bro. Edwards has entered on his work at Hamilton; his sermons are good and go to the hearts of the people.

....Rev. G. M. Webb's pastorate consists of Bethlehem, Shady Grove, Cherryville and Mt. Zion. He writes that his work goes on smoothly.

....The amount secured for State Missions and Sunday-schools is $5,582 38. Other amounts are on the way. Next week will give all the facts.

....We gratefully acknowledge receipt of an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of the University College of Medicine, Richmond, Va.

....We were glad to see Prof. Jno. B. Brewer of Murfreesboro in Raleigh last week. Bro. Brewer is in good spirits, and hopeful of the University.

....Rev. L. Johnson of Rockingham is expected to hold a series of meetings at Whiteville this week. The Whiteville church is without a pastor.

....In a personal letter last week, Dr. Pritchard says he is in a good meeting at Lancaster, S. C., with Bro. Tolson. He returned to Charlotte Saturday.

....Rev. J. Q. Adams of Wadesboro began a series of revival meetings in his Wadesboro church last Sunday, Rev. D. W. Key of Society Hill, S. C., assisting.

....Rev. P. G. Elsom, who has been holding splendid meetings with Bro. Ford of Newbern, began a meeting with Bro. Van Deventer of Henderson last Monday night.

....Rev. Jas. Plemmons recently held a two weeks' meeting at Bent Creek, Buncombe county, in which there were twenty professions of religion, ten candidates having been baptized.

....Rev. G. N. Cowan has entered upon his work at Webster. He has also been called at Sylva. We are glad to know that Bro. Cowan accepted work in our Convention.—W. N. C. Baptist.

....Thirty persons were given the right hand of fellowship in the Raleigh Baptist Tabernacle by Bro. Simms on last Sunday. They had joined the church and been baptized during the past month.

....Rev. Solomon L. Ginsburg, one of our Brazil missionaries, has been released from prison. Bro. J. J. Taylor, of the same field, who was stricken with yellow fever some weeks since, is recovering.

....We were mistaken in the statement that Rev. J. F. Love would be in Raleigh last week. He arrived last Monday. Rev. P. G. Elsom will begin his meetings with Dr. Carter the latter part of the month.

....In addition to the $10,000 bequeathed to Baylor College, Texas, by the will of the late Dr. J. B. Link, $5,000 was given to the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and $5,000 to the American Baptist Publication Society.—Baptist Courier.

....Rev. J. E. Greene of Booneville has changed his address to Crutchfield, N. C., although he will continue to preach and teach at Booneville. Correspondents take note.

....Rev. Dr. A. B. Dunaway of Churchland, Va., is assisting Dr. J. J. Hall of Norfolk in a good meeting. Dr. Hall's congregation, we are glad to learn, are contemplating the erection of a new church building.

....The magnificent new $70,000 Grace Street Church, Richmond, Va., Rev. Dr. W. E. Hatcher pastor, was dedicated with fitting exercises on the last Sunday in March, Dr. Jno. A. Broadus preaching the dedicatory sermon.

....Many of his North Carolina acquaintances will be glad to learn that Rev. M. V. MacDuffie's congregation of New Brunswick, N. J., have completed a splendid new house of worship, and worshipped in it for the first time last Sunday.

....Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D., pastor of the Brantly Baptist Church of Baltimore, and one of the editors of The Baptist, has received a call to the Epiphany Baptist Church of New York City, one of the largest Baptist churches in New York.

....Work on the Baptist chapel is progressing rapidly. The roof will be put on to-day, and the building will be completed next week.—Statesville Landmark, March 29. We are glad to note also that Brother Church is preaching doctrinal sermons just now.

....Rev. C. A. Jenkens of Goldsboro is assisting Rev. O. L. Stringfield in a series of blessed meetings at the Fayetteville St. Church of Raleigh. Great interest is manifested, and there are numerous professions. The meeting will be continued through this week.

....Rev. H. C. Moore writes: "Baptist affairs are looking up in the Twin City. The work at Broad Street is promising, and the First church is steadily moving forward with even brighter prospects than ever before during the sixteen years pastorate of Bro. Brown. Our force here numbers about six hundred."

....Rev. A. M. Simms of Raleigh, formerly of Texas, says he will be glad to give those who purpose attending the Convention any information they may seek. He is going by the route advertised in another column, and says he prefers it because it is less exposed to high water delays and dangers than any other.

....The sixth annual meeting of the American Baptist Education Society will be held May 23d. This is one of the greatest benevolent institutions in the land. It will have for discussion two very interesting topics at this meeting, viz: State aid for sectarian schools, and questions relating to denominational colleges.

....Dr. A. J. Battle, who has recently located in Wadesboro, N. C., is now at the post graduate college of medicine in New York, where he is taking some special studies in his profession. The Doctor has for several years enjoyed a fine practice in Johnston county, and we wish him continued prosperity in his new field of work.

....In justice to The Baptist, Baltimore, Md., we desire to say that its publishers didn't know the difference between attaching significance to Christmas and Easter; also that they have not been wearing sackcloth, and have eaten fish and eggs only when they could afford them. They kept "good" Friday "not a whit more" holy than any other day. Does Gibbons sanction such inconsistency?

....Rev. A. B. Caudle of Waxhaw writes: "We held our first service in our new house at Hermon on the third Sunday in March. The house when completed will be one of the best country churches in the Union Association. This house has been built by a few workers, there being only twenty-four members, and they, with some outside help, have built the house. We are glad to know also that Bro. Caudle's work at Waxhaw is in good condition.

....The meetings held by Rev. G. P. Bloom of Virginia with Rev. Rufus Ford's Newbern congregation are proving very successful. A large number of conversions are reported, and as an evidence of general interest the business houses were closed on Thursday last during the day services in order that employees might attend. There have been more than fifty professions, and Bro. Ford writes: "The whole town is moved, many sinners converted and Christian people edified."

....The Board has had, for several months, under consideration a change in the scale of salaries of our missionaries. In some places they can live much cheaper than in others. What we do, we wish to do after careful consideration and investigation, getting the views of the missionaries themselves. Some of them do not draw all that is allowed them. Others, from peculiar circumstances, need more. They are our brethren, and we wish to deal with them as brethren.—Foreign Mission Journal.

....We clip the following worthy tribute to Judge Lea from the Charlotte Observer: Another North Carolinian dies in a sister State, after gaining great popularity and distinction. Chief Justice Benjamin James Lea died March 15th, at Brownsville, Haywood county, Tenn. Judge Lea was a native of Chatwell county, born January 1, 1833; graduated at Wake Forest 1853, and moved soon after to Tennessee; taught school for a few years and at the same time studied law, in which profession he soon acquired a deserved eminence. He was Attorney General for eight years, Speaker of the Senate, and at his death Chief Justice of the State, having been elected by the largest majority ever given in Tennessee. He was an able jurist and a Christian gentleman. This State and his alma mater, Wake Forest, have reason to be proud of him.

....In this issue appears the last of Judge Winston's series of practical "Talks on Law." We do not hesitate to say that these talks have been more widely read than any series of articles published in North Carolina in many years. We have been gratified to see them republished and otherwise commended by many of our State contemporaries. Moreover, they have met with the favor of many of the legal profession. Judge Winston has done our readers and the general public a lasting service, and we are glad to announce that he will continue to contribute to our columns. Occasional "Talks on Medicine," which have already become popular, will replace the regular law articles.

....On the evenings of the 28th, 29th and 30th of March, respectively, the commencement exercises of the Leonard Medical School and School of Pharmacy, the Law Department, and the School of Missionary Training of Shaw University, were held. There were seven graduates in medicine and six in pharmacy, seven in law, and four, all females, in missionary training. On the evening of the 28th the invocation was offered by Dr. Thos. E. Skinner, after which J. H. Alston delivered the salutatory address, which was followed by an oration by I. L. Roberts. Hon. Fabius H. Busbee of Raleigh delivered the degrees with appropriate remarks. On the same evening the representative speaker from the School of Pharmacy was C. F. Crews, Hon. Kemp P. Battle delivering the address to the graduates. The exercises of the Law Class were held on the 29th, opened by Rev. M. W. D. Norman. G. W. Kilgore delivered the salutatory, C. H. Alston, O. A. Neal and J. F. Douglas followed with fitting orations, and J. C. Robertson offered the valedictory. Hon. R. H. Battle of Raleigh delivered the annual address, and Hon. J. B. Batcheler, also of Raleigh, presenting diplomas. Chief Justice Shepherd and Solicitor Pou also made remarks. On the evening following the Missionary Training School graduates closed the commencement exercises. Essays were read by two of the graduating class. Dr. MacVicar of New York delivered the address and President Messerve presented diplomas. The exercises were interspersed with music, and were thoroughly interesting, doing high credit to this great institution.

Attention, Churches.

In fifty days from this writing, the Southern Baptist Convention will be in session in Dallas, Texas. In forty days the Treasurer's books will close and the condition of our work will be decided for this year. Have you done your part? If you have not, will you not do what you can in the next thirty days?

Unusual demands in these hard times have been made upon our churches since the meeting of the Convention in Elizabeth City, and the churches have not failed to respond to the call. Now that the time for that special work is past, let us give ourselves earnestly to the help of our Foreign Mission work.

In 1891, in the last ten days, the churches sent to the Board $26,345.15. In 1892, in April, the Treasurer received $40,000. In 1893, in the last four days of the year, the Board received $34,233 41. It would be economy to send our contributions regularly through the year, but if we have not done so, let every church send a contribution th's month, and in this way meet the demands of the work.

Brethren, we are God's stewards, he bids us do this work with his money. The needs are great. Who will help?

R. VAN DEVENTER

Baptist Female University.

In answer to Bro. Stradley's article in this week's RECORDER, this needs to be said: There is but one University, strictly speaking, in America, and that is Clark's, at Worcester, Mass. This University has sixty pupils, thirty of whom receive free tuition. This is the only one I have been able to find that began and continued to exist as a University in the sense in which that name is used by some. It may be unfortunate that our proposed female school was chartered as a "University." If it be understood that there shall be only a University course in our school, surely we have no need for such a school either male or female. Such a school would not answer the demands of the Baptist State Convention. But it is very clear that we need an institution of learning at which young women may be prepared to fill positions as teachers in schools, colleges and universities. There are very many young men and women in the Old North State who are abundantly capable to be so trained that it will not be a necessity to "send North" to get teachers to fill the most responsible positions in our schools. We have been doing this for years, and at a tremendous expense. I have been informed recently that a music teacher in one of the female schools of this State gets a salary of $2,500 a year, and that the president of that institution regards this salary as a fine advertisement for his school. I do not know that this is true. One thing I verily believe to be true: that we have young women who could give equal satisfaction to patrons and pupils if they had a chance. It is well known that the cost of securing such an education is so great that those who would wish to teach cannot afford it. Only the wealthiest can afford to "go off," and these are rarely found in the school-room as teachers after they return.

Surely we need a school for our young women where they can make the most of themselves—a college and a university course, and at a cost within their reach. If we have not the right kind of material for first-class teachers, it would be well for us to find it out as soon as possible and get grace to submit to the inevitable; but in justice to our young women, let us give them a chance.

We would honor the men and women of other states and nationalities who have taught and are now teaching in our schools and universities. They have done good work in their different departments, and we promise to retain them as teachers until we can fill their places with our own sons and daughters.

Why such great ado about President Harper of the Chicago University as to his belief or unbelief in the Bible? He is only the president of a school of learning—higher education. Indeed, there is reason for greater ado than is being made, for we have come at last to see something of the influence of the schools on our holy religion. We want consecrated men and women to teach our children.

I suppose the greatest burden on our hearts to-day is to provide for our children. It requires but little study to find that none of us are able to do so except as we provide for the education of others. It is a law that cannot be changed, that no individual endowment of property or mental training can or will save our children from their environments. It is true, then, that he who makes the greatest provision for the children of others makes the greatest provision for his own.

A school-boy may be able to compute the worth of an educated woman in dollars and cents, but how much she is worth as an immortal being in her influence for good in the land can be computed only by Him who gave her the capacities she has.

O. L. STRINGFIELD.

The Debt.

As this article is being put in type (Monday) amounts are coming in by every mail, and a full statement cannot, therefore, be made about "the debt" till next week. It may help us to know that this special effort on "the debt" has not absorbed the contributions to Home and Foreign Missions, and that we now have the same chance to bring up these objects during April that we had last year.

From December 1st, 1892, to April 1st, 1893, (including acknowlegdments in RECORDER of April 5th) the Treasurer received for State Missions, $803.33; Foreign Missions, $1,301 93; Home Missions, $452 36; Sunday-schools nothing. Total for these four objects, $2,557.61.

From December 1st, 1893, to April 1st, 1894, (including amounts for Home and Foreign Missions and Sunday-schools crowded out of his RECORDER, April 4th) the Treasurer has received for State Missions $5,133 44; Foreign Missions, $1,236.85; Home Missions, $497.70; Sunday-schools, $449 94. Total for the four objects, $7,316.43.

From December 1st, 1893, to April 1st, 1894, the amount received for Foreign Missions is $55 57 less than the amount received during the same months of the year before, and for Home Missions the amount is $45 34 more than the amount received the year before during the same months.

THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION will meet in Dallas, Texas, May 11-15. The railroad rates are one fare for the round trip—see another column. The total cost of the trip will be about fifty dollars. My fifty dollars has gone into the debt and I cannot go, but will gladly serve the brethren in arranging for the trip. If you will let me know ten days before you start at what point you will wish your ticket all arrangements shall be made for you and the ticket shall be at that depot. The reports of the Home and Foreign Mission Boards must close at 12 o'clock, noon, April 30th, and whatever is done for missions should reach them on or before that time. These two objects are greatly in need of our immediate attention. Our churches in this State will, unless liberal things are done during this month, fall behind what they have formerly done for these objects. They have, in the past, done well during April. Rather than fall behind, let us all say, these departments of the Lord's work must go forward this year. This can be done, if all the churches unite this month in doing it. Nothing should conflict with collections for Home and Foreign Missions during April, and all amounts should reach the Treasurer on or before April 30th. The time for this work is short.

HOME AND FOREIGN

C. DURHAM.

S. B. Convention—Excursion to Mexico.

It has always been customary, when the Southern Baptist Convention has been held in Texas, to arrange for an excursion to the City of Mexico. We are now making such arrangements. The rates will depend upon the number who wish to attend. If any of the brethren or sisters anticipate such a trip, will they please send me their names immediately?

It may be unnecessary to state that the City of Mexico is one of the most interesting cities on the American continent. The trip to and from this city will be delightful. On going, the route will be via El Paso; on return, it will be via San Antonio.

We should be pleased to see many of our brethren at the Southern Baptist Convention, which meets at Dallas, May 11—15. Come see the only State that was a Republic before it came a State. Come and see the Alamo where Crockett and other brave Texans fell. Come, see the cow-boys on the ranches, the thrifty Texan farmers and the bustling cities. Come, brethren and sisters, and we will do you good.

One-half rates on all railroads to Dallas, Texas.

G. L. SEABOLDS,
Pastor First Baptist Ch., Dallas, Tex.

Dallas, Texas, March 28, 1894.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

Those Home-Mission Tracts.

At the request of a number of pastors, I have sent out some hundreds of pages of these tracts, but a good many sets still remain. If you really wish to know more about Home Missions, brother, and will drop me a card saying so, I will cheerfully mail you a set of seven tracts at my own charge. If after reading them, you feel that you are under no obligation to lay the work of the Home Board before your people, you need not and should not do so. If you fail to push the work from wilful ignorance, the Master may reckon with you for such neglect.

The special effort for State Missions is now over. Shall we not all lend a hand to overcome the far larger debt of the Home Board? No work that is upon us is more vitally important and none has been crowned with richer success. And yet while only one month remains before the Convention meets, North Carolina is several thousand dollars behind her usual contribution to this work. The situation will greatly improve if every pastor will only give his people an opportunity to make one contribution to this Board by the last of April. Later than this is too late for this year's record.

R. T. VANN.

A Foreign Mission Society.

On March 18th, 1894, a Foreign Mission meeting was held at Bethel Baptist church, Person county, in honor of one of her members, Miss Emma Humphries, who feels she has been called of God to carry the glad tidings of salvation to the perishing millions of China. Never before was this church called upon to offer one of her members as a missionary to a foreign field.

The meeting was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Beam, and was well attended by church and community. Great interest and zeal was manifest on the part of many who seemed to realize their duty to the heathen as they had not done before.

There were several appropriate and stirring speeches by the male members of the church and young ministers of the Institute. Miss Humphries also gave a touching little talk, in which she set forth her feelings in regard to her call to the work; that she had endeavored to shirk the duty for some time, but at last had given herself unreservedly into the hands of the Lord to be used for his glory. She confessed her faults which she said "are many," and, feeling a deep sense of her unworthiness and inability to be an effectual worker of herself, requested that her church pray especially that her heart be filled with the Holy Spirit.

As a result of this meeting, a Foreign Mission Society was organized with Mr. Ruffin Woody, President; Mr. W. P. Howard, Vice-President; Mrs. J. A. Beam, Treasurer, and the writer, Secretary. The officers will arrange for the future meetings and duties of the Society.

LUCY WOODY.

Bethel Hill, March 29, 1894.

Rates to Southern Baptist Convention.

The following are the rates fixed by the So. Pas. Association to Dallas, Texas:

From Asheville, $34 80; Charlotte, 36 30; Durham, 36 30; Fayetteville, 36 30; Gastonia, 35 70; Gibson, 36 30; Goldsboro, 37 80; Greensboro, 36.30; Hamlet, 36 30; Henderson, 36 30; Maxton, 36.30; Monroe, 36.30; Raleigh, 36.30; Sanford, 36.30; Salisbury, 36 30; Selma, 37.30; Wadesboro, 36 30; Weldon, 37.30; Wilmington, 37.30; Winston-Salem, 36 30.

O. F. GREGORY.

Baltimore, Md., March 31, 1894.

Dr. O. F. Gregory, one of the secretaries of the Southern Baptist Convention, and all the Maryland delegation; Drs. John William Jones, R. J. Willingham, H. H. Harris, and a number of other Virginians; Dr. Simms of Raleigh; Rev. R. T. Bryan and a large number of North Carolinians have selected the following route to Dallas: Richmond and Danville to Birmingham; K. C. M. and B. to Memphis; Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas; M. K. T. to Dallas. This route affords superior facilities and the quickest schedules for handling the delegation. There is no "official" route to the Convention, statements to the contrary notwithstanding. Persons desiring sleeping car accommodations will notify Dr. Oliver F. Gregory, Baltimore, Md., without further delay. Arrangements have been made for an excursion from Dallas to Mexico. The cost of this trip, it is thought, will not exceed $91. For further information, address John M. Beall, 930 E. Main street, Richmond, Va.

From Rev. S. J. Porter in Brazil.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Our work is moving on nicely here now, and the Lord is blessing us. Some time ago we succeeded in finding a nice large hall for services, but it now really seems that we must seek one still larger if we hope to accommodate the crowds who press to hear the Word of life. Last night our hall was full while a number stood at the door. My heart is glad. The dear Lord is with us, and is clearing up the way before us. We need workers. Who will come?

The young school-teacher, of whose recent baptism I wrote you, now wishes to preach the gospel. I am teaching him English and also instructing him more fully in the gospel and the doctrines of the Baptists. He promises to be a useful worker.

Bro. Taylor and family from Rio are here with us now. He is trying to recover from the terrible effects of yellow fever. He is yet very weak, but can sit up some now.

Pray for the work in Brazil.

God bless you and all the brethren in North Carolina. I enjoy reading the RECORDER so much. Fraternally,

SAMUEL J. PORTER.

Juiz de Fora, Brazil, Feb. 28, 1894.

West Chowan Association.

Bro. R. T. Bryan, one of our missionaries to China, and Bro. Durham, the Secretary of our Board of Missions and Sunday-schools, have consented to visit our Association and speak on missions.

At a meeting of the pastors held at Aulander, March 27th, it was arranged for these brethren to speak at—

Coleraine	April 25,	at 11 a. m.
Aulander	" 26,	"
Sandy Run	" 26,	at 7 p. m.
Hebron	" 27,	at 11 a. m.
Murfreesboro	" 27,	at 7½ p. m.
Robert's Chapel	" 28,	at 11 a. m.
Elam	" 29,	at 11 a. m.
Jackson	" 29,	at 7½ p. m.

Let us make special efforts to hear these brethren. At the appointments, services will be held both morning and afternoon.

C. W. SCARBOROUGH.

A Great Calamity.

The severe freeze that covered the Southern States on the nights of the 25th and 26th of March, was a great calamity, the extent of which it is difficult to measure.

The killing of the corn and cotton, thus necessitating large replanting, the destruction of fruits, pears, apples, peaches, plums and grapes, and in many cases the injury done the trees and vines, the ruin of the young melon crop, and the utter desolation of the family and market gardens, coming in times of fearful financial pressure, are enough to dishearten our people. It is estimated that a million of dollars will not cover the loss in Georgia alone.

In some of these States, particularly in Georgia, strong efforts have have recently been made to relieve their State Boards of debt, and the month of April has been set apart as the one to take collections for the Home Mission Board.

This calamity will inevitably cut short the contributions that would have been made. The Board in its great need will sorely feel this diminution of its receipts. We appeal to our brethren of the more Northern States of the Convention, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee to so increase their contributions as, if possible, to make up this deficiency.

I. T. TICHENOR.

Atlanta, Ga.

Literary.

A Light From the East" is all that it claims, being among the most concise and cogent treaties ever offered to the Christian reader on the pre-millennial coming and reign of Christ. Each proposition is clearly stated and demonstrated under the burning rays of divine truth. While it has gone into ten or eleven States, no adverse criticism has appeared. It is just the book to lead every lover of truth into clear views of God's Word on the coming of Jesus. Send to Elder A. P. Copeland, Crawford, Miss., prepaid, single copy, 22 cts., five or more, 20 cts. per copy.

The Palm Tree Club; or, How Three Girls Grew. By Mrs. R. M. Wilbur. 16mo, 224 pp. Price, $1.00. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

The scene of this story is laid in New England, and the narrative is told in Mrs. Wilbur's well known happy manner. The interest of the reader will be sustained throughout the entire book, and the lessons contained therein cannot fail to be beneficial, while the incidents related will prove very entertaining. This book is not the exclusive property of the girls, but the boys will be interested in the account of Ted's Fourth of July celebration, and the disastrous, almost fatal result because of which he had but little enjoyment from his summer vacation to which he had looked forward with so much pleasure.

Delegates to Southern Baptist Convention.

APPOINTED BY THE BOARD MARCH 20, 1894.

C. R. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Gordan, J. S. Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. C. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. H. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O. L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, B. Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, B. F. Conrad.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATIONS.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honeycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Kesler; Raleigh, E. E. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

The other Associations, so far as we have been able to find out by a hasty examination of the minutes, did not appoint delegates at their last annual meetings. The Board is not authorized to appoint delegates for these Associations.

O. F. GREGORY, Cor. Sec.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes causes of both and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

prove, at present, that it is not best for a State to undertake to cover the whole educational field, but only to show how fundamental are the principles involved, and how far reaching are likely to be the results of the policy.

It is believed that this opinion, when its underlying principle is tested and its necessary tendencies are made manifest, can be defended only on a paternal theory of government.

And it will be shown hereafter that its adoption would greatly increase the difficulty of dealing with the claims made by Catholics for distribution of public funds appropriated for education.

2. On the other hand, there are those who believe that it is not wise for a State to undertake functions which can be equally well performed by private or corporate parties; that a State should maintain a system of public school instruction for the children of all classes; that this amount of educational work by the State cannot be done by private enterprise, and is justified on the ground of its necessity for the protection and preservation of the State, and on this ground alone; that the needs of this common school system are so great and pressing, at least in the South, that the State should spend all of its revenues which are available for educational purposes for the supply of these needs; that larger and better results can be secured in higher education under the voluntary system than under any other, and that the use of revenues derived from taxation of all the people for the education of only a few is not in accord with the genius and equity of free institutions.

It is now proposed to discuss these two opinions which represent, as will be seen, very different conceptions as to the proper functions of a State. No reference will be made to the several colleges established by Federal grants for technical instruction. The same principles do not apply to these as to institutions established and supported, in whole or in part, with means raised by taxation. And no discrimination will be made between the education of young men and young women. It has often been said of late that if it be right for a State to provide for the education of young men, it is also right that it should provide equally good education for young women. The writer believes that this claim can be sustained. And it will also be seen that it is believed that there is as good ground (if not better) for the support by the State of secondary education in academies as of the higher education in colleges and universities. And, moreover, it will be assumed that the State, having undertaken this work, is committed to supply all the demand which may be made upon it. In other words, that the institutions for doing work in higher education must be sufficiently large or sufficiently numerous to educate all who may apply. There may be no discrimination against any individual who can comply with prescribed conditions.

It is proposed to ask and to try to answer three questions:

1. Is it right for a State to undertake to supply all the demand for higher education within her borders?

2. Is it expedient for a State in the present condition of North Carolina to undertake to do so?

3. Is it possible for a State to supply the kind of training desirable for her youth without committing itself to some special form of religious belief?

(To be continued.)

Good Times Ahead.

No doubt about it, we are rapidly leaving "hard times" in the rear, and those who are working for good times and expecting them are already enjoying a fair degree of prosperity. If, however, things are not moving satisfactorily, write to B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., and they will give you a business opportunity that will prove a surprise and delight.

A Reasonable Request.

The following correspondence explains itself:

Dear Sir:—I have taken your paper ever since you have been editor. During the past year there were two or three articles, editorial, that I entirely disapprove of, and unless you can give me assurance that nothing of the kind will occur again, I cannot continue to take it. ——.

If you can arrange an electrical, magnetic, hypnotic, clairvoyant, telegraphic, magical, spiritualistic, or miraculous apparatus by which you can infuse into the brain, soul, or spirit of the manager of this paper your hereditary endowments, impulses, experience, and complete intellectual outfit, in place of what exists there, we can guarantee if the said apparatus is continually in operation, day and night, waking and sleeping, there will not be a line in the editorial departments of this paper during the next year that you will not fully approve;—unless you fall into error and find it out.

Failing in this, we shall be unable to make the guarantee, and will probably have to bear the burden of losing your subscription. —N. Y. Advocate.

The active principle of tobacco is an alkaloid called nicotine. This is a colorless, volatile, oily liquid, with a strong odor and a burning taste. It is almost as powerful a poison as prussic acid. A single drop administered to a rabbit killed it in three and a half minutes. This is the poison which tobacco users take into their systems.

All disease of the skin cured, and lost complexion restored by Johnson's Oriental Soap. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's druggists, Raleigh, N. C.

Talks About Law—No. 28.

BY JUDGE R. W. WINSTON.

THE LAW OF PARTNERSHIP.

The combination of capital or labor or skill by two or more persons for the purpose of business and for their common benefit, is the definition of a partnership.

We sometimes see after the name of a firm the word "Limited." This means that the liability of certain partners is limited to the amount of capital put into the business by them.

For, it is well known that if one be a general partner in any business, he is liable for the debts of the firm even to the extent of his entire individual estate.

Sometimes one becomes to be and is a member of a partnership when he does not really know it and indeed does not deserve it. For example, we read in the books that a man, owning certain buildings, agreed with another man that each would put two hundred dollars into the mercantile business, that the latter would conduct the business, and that the former would get no rent except one half the profits of the concern and no other interest in the business. Of course the owner thought that he was no partner, and yet he was held by the courts to be such

Again, one may became a partner when he does not put any money or other thing into the concern, but simply permits the use of his name. Having one's name printed on the sign or on the envelopes and letterheads, or on the delivery-wagon of the firm; or indeed holding one's self out to the public in any way as a partner will fix the relationship on one.

A silent partner is one who furnishes capital, but is not active in the business. The reason why one who participates in the profits is fixed by the law with this relationship of partner is because it would be a fraud on the creditors to permit the profits and assets to be taken from them by a person who proposes to gain all and risk nothing.

Our courts at first held that the landlord and his tenant were partners in the usual case of the landlord "running" the tenant and "going halves" in the crop. Such ruling would have greatly injured agriculture. Very soon the opinion was overruled. The statute says expressly that they shall not be so considered.

Recently "The Sampson County Alliance Store," Mr. Clute its manager, purchased fertilizer of the Durham Fertilizer Company. Failing to pay for the same, it was sought by suit to hold about twenty farmers liable as partners in the concern. But our court held that as the County Alliance had accepted the provisions of Chapter 105 of the Private Acts of 1889, and the Alliance store was operated under the provisions of that act, the concern was a corporation, and the farmers not partners, and hence not liable. But for that act of the Legislature, they would have been liable.

For quite a while it was held by the English courts that participation in the profits of a concern constituted the participant, in all cases, a partner. And this is now the rule, except in cases where, under the contract, the profits are looked to as a means of ascertaining the compensation to be paid.

And even in these excepted cases, the margin is so narrow, that it is quite dangerous for one to accept a part of the profits unless he is also willing to be a member of the firm.

What are some of the consequences of the formation of a partnership? Why your partner has as much right to contract debts, in the course of firm business, and bind the firm as you have; and if he make such a contract, it will bind you, although he agreed not to make any debt without your consent. He can sign the firm name to notes. He can do anything in the course of the firm business authorized by the contract of partnership

Indeed, if your partner were to do any unlawful act, in pursuit of the firm business, you would be answerable in damages, in many cases, although not present at the time and not consenting to the same. As we have already seen, in the event of a failure, your property as well as the firm property is bound for the firm debts. After the creation of the partnership, good faith is required on the part of all the partners.

And if any partner violate the contract of copartnership in an essential particular, and thereby render it impossible to carry on the business, equity will dissolve the same and place the whole property in the hands of an officer of the court called a receiver. So the permanent insanity of a partner is a cause for dissolution. Or the death of a partner, in which last event, the surviving partner or partners alone conducts the business. Such surviving partner cannot continue the business permanently; but he may contract new debts, binding on the firm, if necessary to finish up or complete some work begun by the firm before the death of such member. But only in like cases may debts be contracted binding the firm after the death of a partner.

If a partner agree to give all his time to the firm business, and, instead, carry on a rival business, he may be made to divide the profits of his new undertaking with his partners.

Nor can a partner use the firm assets to pay his individual debts. This would be a fraud on the creditors of the firm; and thereafter the firm could recover the amount so misappropriated.

Sometimes one man will be a secret partner in a firm; and, perhaps, goods will be sold to the concern, and at the time of the sale this fact will be unknown to the vendor; even in these circumstances, when credit is not extended on the strength of the name of the secret partner, he will be liable.

Another apparent peculiarity about a partnership is the fact that after it has been dissolved or ended by mutual consent, if goods are bought in the old firm name from parties in the habit of trading with the firm, the retired partner is still answerable unless the fact of the dissolution is brought to the knowledge of the party selling the goods.

Nor will a notice of dissolution, put in a newspaper, be sufficient to prevent a recovery unless it is brought to the actual attention of the party. Just such a case arose in Raleigh a few years ago. The firm had dissolved. Notice had been put in the papers. Thereafter, goods were purchased in the old firm name of parties who had no knowledge of the dissolution. The retired partner was held liable.

Winding up a partnership by the process of the courts is an equitable proceeding. Therefore justices of the peace cannot try cases of this kind. Nor can one partner sue another partner in the court of a justice of the peace during the continuance of the partnership.

As between the partners themselves, no statute of limitation runs, until the debts are all paid and the affairs are settled, after which they are not partners.

As we have heretofore seen, the statute does not run against one occupying a confidential or trust relationship to another, until something has been done to render the relation adverse.

Suppose that an insolvent person were a member of a solvent firm, might the creditors of the insolvent man sue the firm? Not at all. But, by proper proceedings, no doubt, the creditors might ask a court of equity to wind up the affairs of the partnership, and, after paying all debts, to apply the proceeds belonging to the insolvent member to the demand of the creditor.

A very interesting discussion appears in the 71st Reports. It was claimed that Mr. McDowell owed Sloan & Co. a debt. Also, that when McDowell contracted the debt, he had an understanding with Mr. Sloan that the articles bought should be credited on an individual bond of McDowell's against Sloan. Finally, Sloan & Co. sued McDowell. McDowell set up the above facts and asked judgment against Sloan. The court said that he was entitled to it. Say the court in substance: The general rule is that a claim of a defendant against one party is not a set-off against a claim of the partnership against him.

But there are four exceptions to the rule:

(1) Where partnership agreed to it.

(2) Where the partnership has been settled, and a surplus in favor of the defendant.

(3) Where the indebted partner is insolvent, outside of his interest in the partnership.

(4) Where one partner only agreed to it. But this last exception is really not good, in the light of subsequent decisions, and in the argument of the court in Sloan's case.

We spoke in the beginning of a limited partnership. In our State one may be a limited partner in any concern. To do so, however, he must comply with the law as laid down in Vol. II. of the Code, Chapter 31.

Among other things, the contract of copartnership must be registered, so as to give notice to the world. The amount to be paid in must be stated on oath, and all the other formalities of the law must be strictly complied with. On the whole, from what we see in the courts, we may remark of a general partnership that it ought not to be lightly entered into, but seriously, soberly and discreetly.

The use of Hall's Hair Renewer promotes the growth of the hair, and restores its natural color and beauty, frees the scalp of dandruff, tetter, and all impurities.

The Wine Merchant and his Business

A wine merchant, who had made a fortune by his business, sold it, just when his son had reached an age when he could have stepped into his father's place.

A friend said in surprise, "Is it true that you have sold your business?"

"Quite true."

"I thought," said his friend, "you would have put your son into it."

"No; I have sold it mainly to keep my son out of it."

"Why so?"

"I don't wish him to be exposed to so much temptation."

"But," said his friend, "you have been all your life in it yourself, and have always kept straight."

The merchant looked at his friend for a few second in silence, and then said, with a serious look:

"I have kept straight, Mr. D., in spite of temptations that would have carried me to the bad long ago, if I had not stood firmly against them. It was desperate work. I sometimes wonder that I got through; and I tell you frankly, I would never put into that business any one I cared for. I wouldn't expose my boy to the same temptations—no, not for all the money, twice over, that I have made it."—Selected.

Any one possessing, even in a moderate degree, a knowledge of the resources of the English language, can make known any idea the human mind can conceive or that slang ever expressed, in chaste words and a style which can elevate the uneducated hearer or reader, and not degrade the cultivated. Many use slang under the impression that it is more forcible. That can be so only when there is no force in their minds.—The Christian Advocate.

There are more disease and contagion, more unhappiness and more reprehensible conduct that have their inconception in kissing than in almost any other custom in which people can engage.

A student of philosophy once said to President Wayland: "Doctor, I don't believe I have any soul." "Possibly not, possibly not, young man," said the doctor. "You ought to know. I have one. Good day, sir."—The Standard.

Is your blood poor? Take Beecham's pills.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Louges, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W E Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY —LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W G Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

INFLUENZA,

Or La Grippe, though occasionally epidemic, is always more or less prevalent. The best remedy for this complaint is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"Last Spring, I was taken down with La Grippe. At times I was completely prostrated, and so difficult was my breathing that my breast seemed as if confined in an iron cage. I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and no sooner had I began taking it than relief followed. I could not believe that the effect would be so rapid and the cure so complete. It is truly a wonderful medicine."—W. H. WILLIAMS, Crook City, S. D.

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral
Prompt to act, sure to cure

Pomona Hill Nurseries.

OVER A MILLION
FRUIT TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
SHADE TREES,
ORNAMENTAL TREES,
ROSES, SHRUBS, &C.

Send for catalogue. Address
J. VAN LINDLEY,
POMONA, N. C.

TALKS WITH MOTHERS.—No. 2. FEEDING THE BABY.

Much is written at the present day about the care and feeding of infants by people whose only capability for dealing with the subject is a fertile brain, and whose only aim is to appear in print; every mother knows how unsatisfactory and fallacious such advice is when she attempts to follow it. How to feed the baby is the greatest problem met with in the happy state of motherhood, and upon its solution depends the health, the happiness and the life of the child. If the mother is able to nurse her child, the question of feeding is practically settled; if she is not, she should be guided by those who have had successful experience in feeding babies and not allow herself to experiment with different foods. There are scores of artificial foods offered for sale, but the best is none too good for the baby. Eminent authorities who have thoroughly investigated the subject of infant feeding, and scientists who have analyzed infant foods, unite in pronouncing Mellin's Food to be the only perfect substitute for mother's milk. It is palatable, nourishing and strengthening; the weakest stomach will retain and digest it, and the puniest child will thrive upon it beyond the mother's fondest expectations.

For convalescents, consumptives, dyspeptics and the aged, Mellin's Food is also of incalculable value. It is a food, not a medicine, and the system receives the nourishment it demands for its daily needs. For those severely ill Mellin's Food will sustain the failing strength and promote a speedy recovery when convalescence has been established.

GIVE THE BABY
MELLIN'S
FOOD
FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS.
THE ONLY
Perfect Substitute for Mother's Milk.
SEND for our book "The Care and Feeding of Infants," mailed free to any address.
DOLIBER-GOODALE CO., BOSTON, MASS.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	2 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson.....	3 05 p m		6 25 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 20 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 18 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 05 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 48. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma. ...		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		5 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 45 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 30 p m
	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson.....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 56 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch read leave Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.50 a m, Greenville 8.22 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m: Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.20 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.30 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4.10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.20 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

My Experience with Young People's Societies.

I do not think they are the only means of developing the gifts of our young people, but I do think they present one way.

That they are capable of abuse, I do not doubt, and so is most every other good thing. As important an institution as that of church treasury was abused by the first treasurer; shall we, therefore say let us have no treasury in our churches? The ordinances—baptism and communion—clearly defined as to their meaning by the Lord and Apostles, have been perverted, shall we, therefore, abolish them?

I am not afraid that they will weaken the power of the church. I do not believe that their existence threatens the sovereignty of the churches. I am quite sure that the advocates are as true Baptists and will go as far in the defense of the truth as those who oppose them.

I want to state in a few lines some of my experience in these meetings.

They give the pastor an opportunity to keep in touch with the young.

That something should be done to check the drifting tendency of the young from our churches is generally conceded. In a city of 10,000 inhabitants, there were 3,500 young men; by actual count, twenty-nine were church-members. In another city of 20,000, there were 3,500 young men, and twenty-nine of them were church-members.

In a city of 17,000, with 3,000 young men, 1,121 young men entered forty-nine saloons on Saturday night between seven and eight o'clock.

One of the great daily papers said of a certain city: "Among young men of character and position, it is not considered good form to attend any place of religious worship."

We are told that one-third of our young men belong to the churches, and four-fifths of the convicts are young men. I am persuaded that these sad facts represent only one side of the situation, but they show the need of doing something to turn the tide towards the churches.

May we not find the cause in the feeling that the churches are not in sympathy with the young, and may not this condition of the churches be due in part to the position of the pastors.

Men are growing old, and the conservatism of mature years may cause us to lose our hold on the youth. We may say we will not grow old, that the things which please us now shall always please us; but that is a delusive sentiment. We are in not in sympathy with any attempt to hide the marks of years, but we do favor "age as a lusty winter, frosty but kindly." In years, we may be far away from the youth, but in kindly interest and sympathy, we may and should keep in touch with them.

Charles Lamb writes of the "fine old pedagogue revolving in a perpetual cycle of declensions, conjugations, syntax and prosodies, daily renewing the occupation of child hood, and rehearsing the fact." While thus engaged, the present slipped away, and he found himself and his green coat out of touch with the new condition.

The pastor has to face a similar danger. The quiet of the study, the genial company of books,

"Sterling in worth, in friendship most sincere;
Here talk I with the wise in ages gone,
And with the doubly gifted of our own;
If love, joy, laughter, sorrow, please my mind,
Love, joy, grief, laughter, in my books I find,"

will beguile him to neglect other duties, and he will find himself out of sympathy and unfitted for the social part of his life work.

The young people's meeting presents an opportunity to help the pastor.

I do not think I expected this result when I started the work among the young. I felt this work would be another demand upon my time. I was conscious that I would have to take some time from other work in which I was interested. I knew the work would make demands upon my physical and spiritual life, but I was in the ministry for service, and had charge of this church to strengthen it at every point possible, but I do not think I expected to be directly benefited.

I attended one meeting with a burden on my heart. I came away without it. The meeting led by a boy and conducted by boys was hopeful, which is an uplift, but that was not the greatest help. The last five minutes were spent in repeating some of the promises of the Lord. The boy acting as chairman repeated Psalm 55: 22, "Cast thy burden on the Lord." It came to me like a voice from God. Another boy quoted John 14: 1, "Let not your heart be troubled." It came to me as a message from the Lord. A girl modestly quoted Matt. 11: 28, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden." No one saw me but the Lord, but I did go to him and found rest. The boys and girls I had led to the Saviour led me to him. Those to whom I had given a welcome when they came into the church were lifting from my heart some of the cares and taking out of the way some of the rough places.

That single experience was enough to make me a life long friend to young people's meetings.

In these meetings the young are trained for usefulness in the church.

I do not say this is the only place, but it is one good place for training. In my church with not more than fifty young men and boys, the benefits of these meetings have been most marked.

One young man, now preparing himself to preach, offered his first prayer in public, and stood up for the first time to speak for the Lord in these meetings. He told me they led him into the ministry. The present efficient superintendent of our Sunday-school was developed for the position in these meetings. The chairman of our S. S. Missionary Society, one of the most liberal givers in our church, started in these meetings. The chairman of our committee on missions, a position of vital importance to the work, made his first start in these meetings. So from these meetings, opposed by some, and not favored even in the local church by many, have given leaders for prayer meetings, for mission work, for Sunday-school work, and one to preach the gospel of the Son of God.

I close with an earnest plea for the young. Keep in touch with them, brother pastor. Help them to fit themselves for positions of usefulness in the work. Give them a chance to help you, brother pastor.

R. VAN DEVENTER.

Henderson, N. C.

A Suggestion for Young People's Societies.

There seems to be a general feeling among the brethren to the effect that our Baptist young people need to know more of our denominational history. Having recently conducted a "denominational rally" in the society of which I am a member, and found it profitable and interesting, I venture to give a suggestion to the young people's societies in our Baptist churches.

Suggestion: Have in your society a denominational rally. Do it in this way: Get some ten or a dozen of the young people and prepare five-minute papers on the following subjects:

1. Who are the Baptists, and where did they come from?
2. What do we know of the Baptists in the United States, their struggles and victories?
3. What is the main purpose of the Baptist denomination, and what does it stand for?
4. What connection have the Baptists here had with the cause of Foreign Missions?
5. What interest have the Baptists taken in the cause of education?
6. What part have they taken in securing religious liberty?
7. What have Baptists done for the world?
8. By what names are Baptists known in history?
9. What progress have Baptists made in this country?
10. Give the number of Baptists in the world, and tell where they are found.
11. Relate some pleasing and edifying traditions of our Baptist forefathers.
12. What is the message of God to Baptists to day?

In our denominational rally, all the papers read were prepared by myself, though read by the young people. The papers were afterwards read at the regular church prayer meeting for the benefit of the entire church. But it was not necessary for the pastor to prepare the papers. Let the pastor tell the young people what books to read to get reliable information. I found Dr. Lorimer's recently published address, and Dr. Armitage's History of the Baptists full of needed information. The study will be helpful.

A meeting conducted on this plan might be held on the subject of "systematic benevolence," or upon "church discipline," or upon "Bible biography."

Utilize the suggestion in your society, and let all the papers be permeated with Christ's spirit.

PHILOGENET.

Religious Training of the Young People.

We shall see more and more, I think, the wisdom of the Southern Baptist Convention in leaving the matter of organizing the young people in the hands of the churches. There can be no doubt that something is needed for the better training of many of our young people. It is the pressing need of the hour. Each church ought to know the needs of its own membership and of the young persons not members, for whose evangelization and training it is largely responsible. Some churches may not need anything beyond what they already have for the accomplishment of the desired results. If so, they are to be congratulated.

Some persons are greatly agitated about the multiplication of organizations, societies, &c., in the churches. Why call the young people's meeting a society any more than the Sunday-school? It is only a step farther. It is the church making use of a training agency—the church working for the benefit of its own membership and those whom the Holy Spirit may qualify for membership in the future. Hundreds of our young people know scarcely anything about the Bible, about the history of the Baptists, their distinctive principles and their glorious success. As a consequence of this ignorance, many of them come to think by and by that "it makes no difference what church they join."

Many churches as such are directly responsible for the drifting of their young people from the faith of the fathers. Our children are not born with Baptist notions in their heads. These come as a result of a conscientious teaching of the Scriptures after they are older. Now, if there is any good reason for the existence of Baptist principles in the world, there is reason why the churches should seek to plant these principles in every way possible. It is time to be tired of organizations that do not teach any "definite system of religion." The young men and young women who change their views as they change their clothing to suit the weather or the company they are in, are generally those whose training has been neglected.

The aim of the young people's meeting should be to instruct, train, develop, indoctrinate. Encourage all to read a certain portion of the Bible, "find out" everything they can about it—have persons appointed to explain, to illustrate, to make stand out in living forms the great Scripture truths. Study the doctrines one by one, read the struggles of our fathers in the past—tell them to the young "over and over again." Tell of the missionaries and encourage them to inquire about their work. One great object should be to stimulate inquiry along the line of Scripture doctrine, church history, missionary labors and Christian work in general.

Do not be alarmed about organizations. Where one church has suffered on account of too much organization, ten have practically died for lack of it. It is the raw, untrained militia who are frightened when the battle is raging. Let us have system in every department of church work. Let the young people stand by their church—work mightily in it and through it. Let them be grounded in the faith and built up year by year; let them be trained in right methods of work for the glory of Him who "died for all, that they who live should not henceforth live unto themselves."

H. A. BROWN.

Winston, N. C.

A Great Man.

Rev. Dr. Broadus recently related the following incident, during a Sunday-school talk in Detroit:

An old man used to sweep the street-crossings for gratuitous pennies, near the Houses of Parliament, for many years. One day he was absent. Upon inquiring, he was found by a missionary ill in a little attic chamber, barely furnished with cot and stool.

"You are lonely here," the missionary said. "Has any one called upon you?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "several persons have called—Mr. Gladstone for one. He called and read to me."

"Mr. Gladstone called? And what did he read?"

"He sat on the stool there and read the Bible to me."

What a beautiful position! The greatest statesman in the world sitting on a stool in an attic reading the word of God to a street-sweeper! Great men lose none of their greatness by kindness to God's poor.—Ex.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

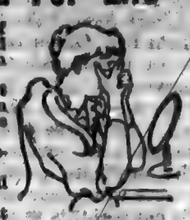
A Congregation Makes the Pastor.

If your preacher is not quite up to the measure of the stature of your ideal; if he is not so elegant as Robertson, or entertaining as Beecher, or eloquent as Brooks; if he lacks somewhat on the social side, and is a little slow and awkward in making friends, the poorest of all remedies is criticism or censure. For all ordinary ministerial failings an ounce of co operation is worth a pound of criticism; a gill of sympathy more than a gallon of censure. Any sincerely pious man of ordinary talents can be made into an efficient, successful pastor by a congregation; and any man, however good and gifted, can be made a failure by the congregation. A congregation may be known by the sort of pastors it makes.—Christian Standard.

These hard times are forcing people to do a good many things they did not know they could do. Extravagances and luxuries that seemed necessary are laid aside, and impossible labors have become every day matters. Strange as it might seem at first, nearly all these changes are in the direction of good health, honest industry and good morals. This is the silver lining to the cloud.—Central Baptist.

God has not promised to supply our wishes, but our needs according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus. And our Father in heaven knows what our needs are, and he has promised to withhold no good thing from us. "The eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears are open unto their cry." Therefore let us exalt his name together. Seek peace and pursue it.—The Christian Visitor.

To be pure in mind, be pure in habit.



Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

"Disfigured For Life"

Is the despairing cry of thousands afflicted with unsightly skin diseases.

Do you realize what this disfiguration means to sensitive souls?

It means isolation, seclusion.

It is a bar to social and business success.

Do you wonder that despair seizes upon those sufferers when Doctors fail, standard remedies fail, And nostrums prove worse than useless? Skin diseases are most obstinate to cure.

CUTICURA REMEDIES Have earned the title Skin Specifics, Because for years they have met with most remarkable success.

There are cases that they cannot cure, but they are few indeed.

It is no long-drawn-out expensive experiment. 25c. invested in a cake of CUTICURA SOAP Will prove more than we dare claim.

In short CUTICURA WORKS WONDERS, And its cures are simply marvellous.

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

VITAL TO MANHOOD.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain, causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses, Involuntary Losses, Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of brain, Self-abuse, over-Indulgence. A month's treatment, $1. 6 for $5, by mail. With each order for 6 boxes, with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantee issued by agent. WEST'S LIVER PILLS cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Constipation. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div

CONDENSED SCHEDULE,

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 10 a m
" Burkeville	3 41 p m	3 40 a m
" Keysville	5 24 p m	5 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	‡2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	‡4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 20 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	‡6 05 p m	‡4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	6 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 05 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 55 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 06 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	‡5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	3 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 05 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		9 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	‡8 35 a m	‡12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 08 a m	1 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 50 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

‡Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.30 a m and 5.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 p m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R. leave Oxford 5.00 a m, daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:20 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 14. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville Junc	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 42 a m
Lv Climax	1 42 p m
Ar Greensboro	3 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	3 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	5 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 38 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 50 a m
Lv Climax			5 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 37 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville Junc	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 08 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 06 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 25 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 30 p m
Lv Climax			3 35 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 25 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.				No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar	11 45 a m
3 20 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 35 a m
3 33 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 02 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 02 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	9 46 a m
5 36 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	9 25 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv	6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	4 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	6 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	5 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	4 22 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	3 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	3 20 a m
11 20 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv	3 15 a m
11 53 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	2 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv	1 55 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv	12 18 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv	11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv	10 25 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv	10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv	9 00 p m
6 18 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv	8 05 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv	7 23 p m
8 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'n	Lv	5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Centr'l	Lv	4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.			No. 38.
3 00 p m	Lv	New York	Ar	1 23 p m
4 30 p m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar	10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv	‡Baltimore (Day Line)	Ar	7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv	Old Point	Ar	7 00 p m
8 00 a m	Ar	‡Portsmouth	Lv	6 00 p m
9 35 a m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	5 45 p m
12 06 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	3 09 p m
12 15 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	3 09 p m
12 39 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	2 39 p m
4 10 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Ar	7 50 a m
7 20 p m*	Ar	Fayetteville	Lv	8 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 p m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charleston; No 41, Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line, daily, (daily except Sunday. S. Restaurant. D. Dining.

For information relative to schedules, &c., apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cocke, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
JNO. C. WINDER, Gen. Manager.

A Card from President Winston.

To the Baptists of North Carolina:—Various communications have appeared recently in the RECORDER and other papers, suggesting either directly or indirectly that the University is not friendly to the Baptist people and their interests. There seems to be a feeling in some quarters that the success of the University means the failure of Wake Forest College. Such a result has not been produced in other States, nor does it seem likely in North Carolina. On the contrary all of our colleges have flourished together. From 1868 to 1875 the University was practically closed. But Wake Forest did not flourish during this period. With the re-opening of the University in 1875 began an educational revival. Since then Wake Forest has not decayed in proportion as the University has grown. On the contrary it has doubled the number of students and trebled its endowment.

As an educator and a citizen of North Carolina I rejoice that Baptist philanthropy, Baptist energy and Baptist self-sacrifice, in establishing and endowing Wake Forest, have added over a quarter of a million dollars to the educational wealth of the State, thereby enabling some two hundred young men annually to enjoy the benefits of higher education. Instead of aiming to cripple or destroy such a college, I would rejoice to see twenty like it in North Carolina. The State is made richer and our people are made better by all its schools and colleges. There is need for every one of them and more. I rejoice in the prosperity of the A. & M. College, with its two hundred students, of Trinity, of Davidson, of Wake Forest, of Elon, of Guilford, of Yadkin, of North Carolina College, of Catawba, of Weaverville, of Rutherford, of Peace, of Salem, of St. Mary's, of the Greensboro Normal and Industrial, of the Greensboro Female College, of the Oxford Seminary, of the Chowan Institute, in short of all schools from the log-cabin up. There is need for every school or college that has students.

Were I a Baptist, I would rejoice in the success of the State University; I would rejoice and be exceeding glad that so many Baptist boys are enjoying its great opportunities; that the two best scholars in the University are Baptist boys, devout church members, boys in humble financial condition, one a painter the son of a painter, now educating himself by loans from the Deems Fund and from private sources; I would rejoice that so many of the leading trustees and that five full professors in the Faculty are Baptists. I would thank God and take courage that the Baptists are seising and using such fine opportunities for culture and improvement. I would tell my people that they needed not only Wake Forest College and a great Baptist Female University but also the A. & M. College, the Normal and Industrial School for women, the University of North Carolina, Judson College and as many others as we could use for the improvement of Baptist boys. I would cry out "open wide the doors of learning and let the Baptist boys and girls go in."

I have never desired nor attempted to toll away students from Wake Forest. Last summer my clerk distributed 25,000 catalogues, circulars and pamphlets (all printed) in North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina and Tennessee. They were sent broadcast. About ten thousand went to pupils in schools and colleges, among them Wake Forest. I did not single out Wake Forest nor any other school or college. I ordered them sent to all. I neither expected nor desired to entice students from other colleges. As a matter of fact there is only one student in the University, pursuing non-professional studies, who came from Wake Forest. My purpose was to advertise our professional schools and graduate courses. Were it possible, I would put a University catalogue in the hands of every man and woman, every boy and girl in America. The fact that such documents were sent to the son of the President of Wake Forest College ought to show their wide distribution and the entire absence of hidden designs on my part. I distinctly state that I have never knowingly solicited any student to come from Wake Forest to the University. On the contrary I have distinctly advised several not to come.

University scholarships have been given, and loans made and students canvassed for without inquiring as to whether they were Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Friends, Hebrews, Moravians, church-members or non church-members. The University has been freely offered to all. The Baptists are as welcome here as any body else. They cannot afford to turn their back on the University, and they are not doing it. Should they do so, they would deprive their own boys of splendid opportunities now freely offered them.

Let Wake Forest educate all the boys it can. Let the University educate all the boys it can. There are more poor boys than both can help. There are five thousand boys of means waiting to be inspired with love of learning. There is abundant harvest for all the reapers. The University will soon establish a Commons Hall with free lodging and board at cost for needy boys. The poor Baptist boys will be welcomed here too. I shall never refuse to help a poor boy because he is a Baptist, and I shall hail the day when Wake Forest College furnishes education entirely free, with a roll of five hundred students and an endowment of one million dollars.

GEORGE T. WINSTON.

Chapel Hill, March 31, 1894.

Absolutely Free.

A BUSINESS EDUCATION TO ONE WORTHY GIRL OR BOY IN EACH COUNTY.

The Georgia-Alabama Business College, Macon, Ga., which is heartily endorsed by press and pulpit, now generously proposes to give to one worthy boy or girl in each county of North Carolina a thorough business course without charge, as it has recently done for those of Georgia. All interested should apply at once.

Evangelistic Work in the State.

Dear Recorder:—I was glad to see a word from Bro. Oliver relative to the evangelistic work in our State. I very much favor a movement in this direction, and believe the time has come when our churches should act. But these evangelists are needed, not so much for our established churches, as for the destitute portions of our State—those places where our missionaries are laboring. Of course, this work would not entirely support him, but with a little help from the State Mission Board, it would.

I am glad that Bro. Jenkens has seen the need of this work, and, together with Bro. L. R. Carroll, has begun it right in the heart of the destitution. Bro. Jenkens has some special gifts in this direction, and churches needing his services would do well to write him. It is well to say right here that he is entirely dependent upon this sort of work for his support.

R. E. PEELE.

Baptists and Easter.

Dear Recorder:—I want to thank you for your stand in regard to Baptists turning Episcopalians and Catholics in our way of observing Easter. When it gets to be all form and no religion, why I think it gets out of line with Baptist principles.

If Baptist churches and Sunday-schools must get up something to attract a crowd of sightseers—if our religion isn't worth anything, or if it isn't there, then it is time to go with some who bear one of the other names. When we turn to be Episcopalians or Catholics in principle, then we should let the Baptists alone!

I was truly glad not to find any account in the Wilmington papers of Baptists celebrating Easter. Every other denomination was mentioned, and most of their churches described as to floral decorations, music, &c. Let us hope the Baptists commemorated the day by serving the Lord.

And yet I think I can never be convinced that Baptists should march their members and Sunday-school children upon the rostrum to recite speeches and "picnic it" on Easter Sunday.

A. G.

South Yadkin S. S. Association.

This body meets this year with Jerusalem church, Davie county, on Friday, April 27th, 1894. The program is as follows:

Introductory sermon—Rev. W. J. Hopkins.

1st. Would an active colporter be beneficial to our Sunday-schools? If so, what should be his qualifications, and how supported? J. M. Ballard, W. J. Wyatt, J. M. Wiseman.

2nd. Is the music in our Sunday-schools as good as it should be? If not, what is the remedy? G. L. White, Jacob Stewart, S. J. Tatum.

3rd. Are our church-members doing their duty toward the Sunday-schools? If not, why not? N. S. Jones, J. B. Holman, A. M. Yoder.

Each Sunday-school is entitled to five delegates—three appointed by the church, or Sunday-school, the superintendent and clerk being delegates by virtue of their office.

The schools are urgently requested to send a full delegation and a full report.

We want every superintendent to be there. The pastors are all expected to be there; and not make themselves conspicuous by their absence as in the past.

Any visiting brethren will be welcomed.

We are intending, with God's blessings, to have a good meeting—one that will benefit every one who attends. So let us all go, and by intermingling our thoughts, encourage one another in this great work.

R. W. WOODWARD, Sec.

Liberty Union.

This body will convene at Liberty church on Friday, April 27th, 1894.

PROGRAM.

Introductory sermon by Rev. H. Sheets.

1. Is opposition to Sunday school work found in the Bible, or is it of men? Speakers—D. R. Myers, J. M. Hilliard.

2. Can Baptists consistently engage in union schools where the whole truth is not taught? Speakers—C. W. Davis, Thomas Carrick.

3. What are the chief elements in a successful Sunday school? Speakers—C. M. Wall, A. P. Snider.

4. The proper training of children—to what extent should the Sunday-school supply this? Speakers—J. M. Bennett, G. W. Henderson.

JAMES SMITH, Mod.

D. R. MYERS, Clerk.

Mt. Zion Union Meeting.

This body will meet with the church at Mt. Pisgah on the 27th of April, 1894. The meeting will be devoted exclusively to Sunday-school work.

J. F. MACDUFFIE, Chairman.

East Durham, March 27, 1894.

Scuppernong Union Meeting.

The Scuppernong Union Meeting convenes with the church in Columbia, Tyrrell county, on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in April, 1894. We hope all will attend that can do so.

H. A. LITCHFIELD, Sec.

Japanese Liver Pellets are small but great in their effects; no griping; 50 doses 25 cts. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drugstore, Raleigh, Raleigh, N. C.

The Shelby congregation gave Rev. J. L. Sproles, who is now on his way to West Point, Miss., an appropriate farewell reception last week.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, that the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Liberty Asso, $18.67; N B Broughton, Raleigh, N C, 25.00; H M Cates, Mt Pisgah ch, 1.00; Cartledges' Creek ch, Pee Dee, 1.03; Sweet Water, N C, 7.55; W M S, Galeed ch, Bladen, 5.00; Miss Dora Watford, 1.00; Mrs Dr W B Watford, 1.00; Wm B Watford, 1.00; Mt Zion ch, Kings Mountain Asso, 3.00; Mt Sinai ch, ditto, 1.25; Poplar Creek ch, 2.60; Palmersville ch, Stanly, 8.00; Albemarle ch, ditto 6.52; Poplin's Grove ch, ditto, 2.00; Anderson's Grove ch, ditto, 1.43; Tryon Street church, Charlotte, 50.00; Hillsboro ch, 50.00; Sandy Run ch, West Chowan, 10.40; First ch, Durham, 80.00—(of this amount the Ladies Missionary Society contributed 10.00, and the Young Ladies Missionary Society contributed 10.00); Bethel ch, Flat River, 29.50; O B Stroud, 1.00; A Friend to Missions, 2.00; Spring Hill ch, 4.90; Mineral Springs ch, Sandy Creek, 3.00; Sandy Branch ch, ditto, 1.81; "A Richmond Brother," 10 00; J L Memory, Whiteville, 5.00; Scotland Neck ch, Tar River, 2.00; Rev C W Scarborough, 8.50; Murfreesboro ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Dr T E Skinner, Raleigh, 2.00; Rockford ch, Yadkin, 1.50; New Hope ch, Central, 1.75; J A Buxton, Jackson, N C, 1.00; Littleton ch, 11.19; Union ch, W Chowan, 8 00; Sunbeams, Selma ch, 2.00; W M S, Wake Forest ch, 15.15; Magnolia ch, So River, 60c; S S, Southport ch, 2.72; D I Watson, M D, 1.00; Warrenton ch, 17.25; Bethlehem ch, 1.00; Westfield ch, 7 00; Woodville ch, Perquimans Co, 5.00; Cool Spring ch, Chowan, 3.15; Reynoldson ch, Chowan, 2.60; Beulah ch, ditto, 1.25; Mt Olivet, N C, 1.00; "A Sister," Kernersville, N C, 1.00; Wadesboro ch, Pee Dee, 58.75; W W Bridges, So Yadkin, 1.00; M T Sanders, 25c; King's Creek ch, Caldwell, 1.00; Lenoir ch, ditto, 1.00; Lower Creek ch, ditto, 1.00; W M S, Thomasville ch, Liberty, 7.00; Ditto, Whiteville ch, Columbus, 5.00; Scotland Neck ch, Tar River, 9.00; Rev D McLeod, Washington, 1.00; Manly ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Big Spring ch, 50c; Mt Carmel ch, Montgomery Co, 3.58; Jas A Johnson, Barclaysville, 1.00; Saxapahaw ch, sent by John C Moore, 1.30; Gastonia ch, 4.00; Margarettsville ch, 6.00; Kenansville ch, Duplin Co, 3.50; D J Whichard, 1.00; J J Chery, 1.00; Dr D L James, 1 00; J H Lamberth, 1.00; Gethsemane ch, 2.25; Fort Barnwell ch, Atlantic, 3.50; Dunn ch, 10.00; Laurel Springs ch, 2.00; J T Burgess, Scott's Cross Roads, N C, 2.00; Beck's ch, Pilot Mountain, 5.00; Mrs E D Yates, 1.00; Mrs Rose Powell, 50c; Pinkney Oliver, Dalton, N C, 2.00; Healing Springs ch, Ashe and Alleghany, 5.00; A Graybeal, 5.13; Waxhaw ch, Union, 5.00; Ex Com, Mt Zion, 50.00; Miss Ida Scott, Long Creek, 2.00; Rev C Durham, Raleigh, 50.00; Elm City ch, Tar River, 8.00; L Hofler, Gatesville, N C, 1.00; Mrs M McLeod, 1.00; Sandy Creek Asso, 2 25; Mrs J A Bryan, Kenansville, N C, 1.00; W M S, Youngsville ch 3.55; Cape Fear ch, Cedar Creek, 3.90; Sandy Plains ch, 1.75; W M S, Pollocksville ch, 1.20; Island Creek ch, Flat River, 4.00; High Shoals ch, Sandy Run, 8.00; Pleasant Grove ch, Green River, 2.00; Silver Creek ch, Green River, 10.00; Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, 3.00; Ditto, ditto, 1.30; W M S, ditto, ditto, 8.10; Marsh ch, 2.21; Concord ch, Flat River, 12.15; Ditto, W M S, ditto, 1.85; Bear Creek ch, 4.00; Oak Ridge ch, 6.50; Rowan ch, 1.59; Ebenezer ch, 5.00; Rehoboth ch, 2.00; Pleasant Grove ch, 2.00; Maple Springs ch, Tar River, 3.56; Old Fort ch, 95c; Hector's Creek ch, Little River, 1 65; Cleveland ch, So Yadkin (Mrs J H Walters and daughters), 2 00; A E Sherrill, So Yadkin, 1.00; W W Sorrels, Glenwood, 1.00; Mount Elam church, Robeson County Association, 3.24; Mrs E A Little, Castoria, 1.00; Mrs Lora E Carr, ditto, 1.00; Mrs J J Scott, 1.00; Mrs S C Pearce, 1.00; Lawrence Cross Roads ch, West Chowan, 3.25; Roanoke Island Mis Soc, 8.00; Green Creek ch, 1.44; Harris' Chapel ch, Tar River, 7.17; Reedy Creek ch, ditto, 4.61; Quanker ch, 3.70. Lilesville ch, 5.00; Cleveland ch, 4.00; Cove Creek ch, 1.00; W M S, Leaksville ch, 5.00; Ditto, Rockingham ch, 10 00; Rockingham ch, 40.00; Miss E B Hunt, 1.00; Bayboro ch, 3.50; Mrs John W Moore, 1.00; W B Daniel, Epsom, N C, 1.00; Mrs Wm Dickie, 1.00; D H Dickie, 1 00; Y B Johns, 50c; J W Stokes, 20c; T J Hicks, 25c; Henry Falkner, 15c; Geo T Dickie, 3.90; S S, Magnolia ch, 4.00; Haw Bluff ch, 1.00; Bethel ch, Chowan, 10 54; Macedonia ch, 5.60; Yeopim ch, 8 85; A W Burfoot, 5 00; Corinth ch, Chowan, 5 00; Dover ch, Montgomery, 4.00; Mt Moriah ch, Robeson, 2 03; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 1.47; Mt Carmel ch, 3.00; Bethlehem ch, West Chowan, 1 75; Robeson Asso, 44 78; W M S, Magnolia ch, Eastern, 6 00; Mrs R P Hamblin, Magnolia ch, Eastern, 1.00, Miss Annie Gleason, 1.00; A L Holland, Kiser, 1.00; M H Holland, ditto, 1.00; Aberdeen Mis Soc, 3 00; Rev G L Finch, Biltmore, 1.00; Wilson ch, Tar River, 17.45; Friendship ch, Pilot Mountain, 8 00; W M S, Olivet ch, Charlotte, 10.00; Rev L M Curtis, Aulander, 5.00; Wm Pritchard, ditto, 5 00; Rive's Chapel ch, 4 00; Winton ch, W Chowan, 8.93; Mrs J W Pernell, 1 00; Emmaus ch, Sandy Creek, 3.25; W M S, Lilesville ch, 2.05; Pleasant Grove ch, 1 00; W M S, Sandford ch, 61c; W M S, Johnson ch, Eastern, 3 50; Wake Forest ch, 34 12; Oak Grove ch, Central, 2.10; Bethel ch, Little River, 5 00; Dudley Shoal ch, Caldwell, 3 26; Sandy Level ch, 6 00; Woodville ch, North River, 1.50; Mrs P H Smith, 1.00; Seaboard ch, 2.00; Scotland Neck ch, 1.00; Dr John Mitchell, 1.00; A W Early, 20 00; C W Mitchell, 30 00; Annie Smith, Viola, N C, 1.00; Henderson ch, 24.25; W M S, Henderson ch, 6.35; Mrs C C Corbett, 1.00; Maplesville, N C, by Mrs C P Harris, 6 00; J M Hollowell, 1.00; Rolesville ch, Central, 10.20; Ditto, W M S, ditto, 3.40; Youngsville ch, ditto, 9 55; Forestville ch, ditto, 5.75; Newbern ch, 27.94; Bethel ch, Sandy Run, 2.40; W M S, Wakefield ch, Raleigh, 2.00; Chapel Hill ch, Mt Zion, (debt), 50 00; Ditto, ditto, (regular), 10 00; W M S, Big Branch ch, Robeson, 10.00; Pleasant Hill, S C, 1.31; Smyrna ch, 5 00; Sharon ch, Tar River, 20.00; Mrs M D Baxter, 5 00; Weldon ch, Tar River, 16 00; W M S, Mt Olive ch, Eastern, 4 00; Rocky Mount ch, Tar River, 10 00; Mrs S J Drake, 2.00; Hebron ch, So Fork, 8 00; Jonesboro ch, Sandy Creek, 3 00; J L Grydes, 1 00; Monroe ch, Union, 23 00; Brethren in Raleigh—City Missions, 138.00; Juniper Springs ch, Little River, 1.25; W M S, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, 6.00; Columbia ch, Chowan, 10 00; Elizabeth City ch, Chowan, 50 00; H F Schenck, King's Mountain, 50.00; Roxboro ch, Flat River, 26 80; Rev Josiah Elliott's churches, Chowan, 50 00; Salisbury ch, So Yadkin, 10 00; J D Boushall, Raleigh, 50 00; Olive Branch ch, Flat River, 8 00; First ch, Winston, Pilot Mountain, 50.00; Green Level ch, Raleigh, 5.45; W M S, ditto, ditto, 3 05; Third ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 10 23; Beulah ch, Green River, 1.10; Members Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, 12 50; R R Barnes, Barnesville, 25 00; North Catawba ch, Catawba River, 5.00; Roberts Chapel ch, W Chowan, 11 00; Bell's ch, Cedar Creek, 5 92; Bethlehem ch, West Chowan, 40 00; Roanoke ch, ditto, 7.63; W M S, Henderson ch (additional), 50c; Mrs C P Harriss, 1.00; Fair Bluff ch, Robeson, 1 50; Bear Swamp ch, ditto, 9.50; Sunbeams, Goldsboro ch, Atlantic, 1.60; Meherrin ch, W Chowan, 5 50; Mrs Jno A Baker, Youngsville, 1.00; Rev L C Perkinson, 1 00; Pittsboro ch, Sandy Creek, 6.00; Dr M D Phillips, Dalton, N C, 2 50; First ch, Raleigh, Central, 131 25. Total, 2,207 76. Previously reported, 2,924 68. Total this year, 5,132.44.

[The receipts on the other objects will be given next week.]

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, March 31, 1894.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

Affairs are in a very bad way in South Carolina. The Evans Dispensary law is very obnoxious to some citizens, and it is requiring bloodshed to enforce it. In a conflict on Friday last between appointees of Gov. Tillman (called "spies") and certain citizens of Darlington, two men on each side were killed and few dangerously wounded. The Governor ordered out the State militia, but the "Governor's Guards" disbanded rather than obey. Eleven companies of State troops are said to be on the way from Columbia to Darlington. The people in that State are much excited. When cooler counsels prevail, the truth will be obtained. A Mr. Redmond of Durham, N. C., was one of the killed. His remains were sent home for burial.

Orange Page and Mary Smith who killed Rosa Haywood an aged woman near Raleigh in January were tried and found guilty of murder last week. Page was sentenced to be hanged in June, and Mary Smith was sent to the penitentiary on a life sentence. All these negroes.

S. R. House while in a state of irresponsibility made a desperate attempt at suicide in Raleigh on the 29th ult. It is thought that he will recover.

In a small fire in Wilmington on the 30th Emanuel Mitchell a Portugese was suffocated. His body was not recovered until the fire had been extinguished.

In the Spring

Those who would insure to themselves the greatest degree of safety, and the enjoyment of that good health which is life's greatest blessing, should be careful to do these two things:

PURIFY THE BLOOD
AND
TONE UP THE SYSTEM

For doing these things in the safest, surest and most pleasant way

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer

is pre-eminently the greatest of all medical remedies. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, acts like magic upon the blood and nervous system, expels all the waste, stimulates digestion and gives appetite, puts roses on the cheek and joy in the heart.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

$1.00, six for $5.00.

Manufactured only by KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash

Good Fertilizers

at the Lowest Wholesale Prices, per ton.

for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, as 2 to 1 $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars.

W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore Md.

A Wonder-working quarter is the 25 cents invested in a box of Beecham's Pills (Worth a Guinea a Box.) (Tasteless) —a medicine that in numberless cases, will give relief promptly.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,

309 Fayetteville Street,

Manufacturing Stationers,

Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as

Note and Letter Paper,

all qualities, both Folded or in Box.

Writing Pads,

all Grades.

PENS,

from the finest point to broadest stub.

PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.

Stationery Supplies

in endless variety.

Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.

RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased,
vs.
Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson her husband, now residents of the State and city of New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated in Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.

This March 5th, 1894.

FERRY'S SEEDS

Are just what every sower needs. The merits of Ferry's Seeds form the foundation upon which has been built the largest seed business in the world. Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 contains the sum and substance of the latest farming knowledge. Free for the asking.

D. M. FERRY & CO.,
Detroit, Mich.

DROPSY TREATED FREE. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases called hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of wonderful cures sent FREE. 10 DAYS TREATMENT FREE by mail. Dr. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, ATLANTA, GA.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.,
Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Price & Terms Free. Mention this Paper.

Christian Prohibitionists.

In using the term "Christian Prohibitionists" we desire to be understood, emphatically, as referring to those only who are truly in Christ, living the life in Christ here, because they have, through faith in him, "good hope" for the life eternal in heaven; and who believe that the suppression of the liquor traffic by legal statute is the remedy, the sovereign remedy for the terrible evils that afflict, and ruin, and curse, to-day our poor, weak, rum-besotted brethren, fallen "among thieves," "stripped and wounded," and lying "half-dead," and even worse, by the way side. They are our brethren. We dare not ignore the claim of the poor drunkard. He is our "brother," and the voices of hundreds and thousands of just such brethren as these, cry unto us day and night for help.

We do not, at all, include among the "Christian Prohibitionists," who are the chosen ones, that other large array of professors of religion, in and out of the various churches of our land, who, though in some part, declaring themselves against the rum-traffic, yet are always ready to go with the vote no matter which way it runs. We do not call them Christians. They are a stench in the nostrils of all men who love the heroic spirit—the only true spirit that stands firm and says "Here am I, send me." No; we have no words of commendation for the mere professor of the religion of the Lord Jesus.

But there are true men—"Christian Prohibitionists," really and conscientiously against the drink traffic; and we find three classes, or kinds, or grades of them among us. Two of these have recently spoken in the columns of the BIBLICAL RECORDER, and the other, the third, speaks now. The first says he is "unqualifiedly" against "the liquor evil"—that he regards it as "one of our country's most deplorable misfortunes" and that "any possible means of annihilating it would meet our approbation." So far, so good. But this brother is opposed to "campaign speeches" on the subject, and don't think it good to formulate "platforms" of principles in order to unite the prohibitionists to vote the traffic in drink, which is the traffic in souls, out of our land and country. In other words, he wants no party for prohibition to carry out the principles which he holds concerning the liquor traffic; and if we understand him rightly, he thinks total-abstinence pledges, or moral suasion, better than votes against the great evil.

The second class of "Christian Prohibitionists" is in favor of the suppression of the traffic by law, and would vote for it; but only after he could be assured that "there was a public sentiment behind it," for he is afraid that prohibition wouldn't prohibit, "in a free government like ours," and a prohibitory law without this, might become "a dead letter." And yet this good brother faithfully says, "the liquor-traffic is a menace and an enemy to all good, and the aider and abettor of all evil;" and it has been a wonder for many years "how our people have allowed this monster traffic to have a name and existence in our land, &c. Who are the "our people?" Are we not a part of them? And yet we allow "this monster evil" still in our land.

But there is still another, a third class of "Christian Prohibitionists" who not only desire the overthrow of the whole cursed drink traffic, but who know that this can only be accomplished by the aid of a party (call it political if you will) a party that will sink all other questions, for the time being, in this one great question of reform by the legalised destruction of the liquor traffic, State and National—entire prohibition forever. Let all Christians unite in one solid phalanx for this, and then we'll try for other reforms afterwards. Should not Christians vote as they pray? Thus doing, they will create in time, a public sentiment that will make itself felt among the evil-doers, and it would not be long delayed, we may be sure. May God speed the day when the Lord's people shall become a unit on this great and momentous question, and by their prayers, their wealth, and their righteous ballots, rid the Nation forever of this curse of dire curses, the traffic in drink.

W. B. HARRELL.

Dunn, N. C.

Features of the Mississippi Temperance Law.

The Mississippi law is a local option law; but it has several features that differentiate it from the local option laws of other States. One of these distinguishing features is its local election petition requirements. When a local option election has been held and a county has voted "For the Sale," it does not follow that a saloon can be set up anywhere or by anybody. The would-be saloon-keeper must present to the proper authorities a petition in his behalf signed by a majority of all the registered voters of the municipality, or supervisor's district, as the case may be. This petition must lie on file thirty days before it can be acted on, and must also be published for the same length of time in some local newspaper. Moreover, the names to this petition must be signed in full. G. W. Smith will not do; it must be George Washington Smith.

* * * * *

First, the people of a county decide by vote whether they will tolerate the traffic at all in the county. If they vote in the affirmative, then each community, whether in town or country, is allowed to decide the same question for itself, and also to decide into whose hands the traffic shall be committed.

Another notable feature of the law is that which relates to counter petitions. During the thirty days when the liquor petition is on file, any person may get up a counter petition. Any one who has had any experience in getting up petitions knows that there are a great many persons who will sign almost any kind of petition that is presented to them. They will sign a saloon petition to-day, and to-morrow they will sign a counter petition. The law provides that all names that are on both petitions shall count on the counter petition, but not on the other. Just here we see the rationale of the requirement that all names shall be signed in full. It is a well-known fact that saloon petitions are often fraudulent. They frequently contain the names of non residents, etc.

* * * * *

I wish also to say a word about the license fees. The license taxes imposed on the traffic are as follows: country saloons, $700; town saloons, $1,000; city saloons, $1,500. These are the dues to the State. Each county or municipality has the right to impose an additional tax of fifty per cent. Most of the counties and towns take advantage of this provision. This makes the schedule run thus: country saloons, $1,050; town saloons, $1,500; city saloons, $2,250. This high-license scheme was intended to sound the death knell of the country saloon.

* * * * *

In your cities, if a man gets drunk, a policeman is at hand to take him to the lockup. In the country, in our swamp region, we are often absolutely at the mercy of a "drunken mob." It was in response to such appeals as this that this measure was adopted. It has worked admirably. It can almost be said that the country saloon is now a thing of the past.

Let us suppose that the would-be vender of intoxicants has met his pecuniary obligations to the State and procured his license. What then? Is he now at liberty to dispense liquid damnation to anybody and everybody according to his own ideas of propriety? Not exactly. In the first place, there must be no secrecy about his work. No screens must be placed before his door.

The American citizen who has paid so highly for his vending privileges finds himself restricted also as to the character of his customers. Not only is he not allowed to sell to a drunken man; he is also forbidden to sell to a habitual drunkard, either drunk or sober. As to minors, he must not even allow them to enter his place of business.

Suppose the vender should make up his mind to ignore the law, what are the penalties that can be inflicted on him? Well, besides fine and imprisonment, there are other consequences to be contemplated. Besides being liable to indictment and prosecution, he may have a damage suit brought against him by any one who has suffered by his law-breaking. A father whose minor son has imbibed at his counter, or a wife whose husband has exchanged shekels for his poison, may claim heavy damages at his hands. Moreover, any chancellor (not necessarily the local one) may on complaint of any citizen cancel any license summarily, and the cancellation of the license does not require the refunding of the license money. * * *

It is my deliberate conviction that Mississippi is to-day the banner temperance State of the Union.—Rev. W. C. Black, in Christian Advocate.

From Brother Newton in West Africa.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—We are settled in our African home again, all quite well and full of work.

We arrived in Lagos just at the right time to escape one of the most fearful fever epidemics that ever passed over this tropical city. 'Tis said that twenty-five per cent. of the white population of Lagos died during the last twelve months. Eleven died during the month of January, 1894—seven of these were missionaries. The death rate in the native population was never greater. There were 190 buried in the Lagos cemetery during the month of January. Of course some were buried elsewhere. The great number of deaths is attributed to the excessively large rain-fall during the last rainy season.

We found our little church in Lagos alive. We met a warm welcome from all, and instead of having to kindle the fire and start the engine of church work, we had simply to fall into line with the members and move forward. There are some awaiting baptism, and others applying, as the result of their faithful efforts.

When we came to this mission in 1889, the Lagos church was as cold as an iceberg, and the whole mission at a low ebb. There had been no growth in two years, and nobody seemed to expect any. There were only ten or fifteen members in the Lagos church, and a little above fifty in the whole mission. Now how different we find matters! All are hopeful, and the mission is growing. There are seventy members in the Lagos church and 160 in the Yoruba Mission, besides one self-supporting church that numbers about 100. The members show a mind to work, not only at home, but to send the gospel to the regions beyond. They support missions at two villages several miles beyond Lagos.

The native Baptist church of Lagos has just completed a neat house of worship. It is of brick, and cost about $1,200.

The congregation at Agbari has finished its house of worship, and have regular services in it. This is the result of a village blacksmith's devotion to Christ. He has done most of the work himself.

The congregation at Hausa Farm has been greatly amazed with false teachers during the last year, but all is quiet there now, and the work moves slowly forward.

There are persons awaiting baptism at all of these places, and we hope to visit them in a few days.

These congregations in and around Lagos illustrate clearly what African Christians will do for themselves under rather trying circumstances. These people support themselves and build their own houses of worship, and they are poor. Surely this must be the work of the Lord.

In the political world the work of adding territory to European powers still moves on. The Governor of Lagos went up to Ijebu Remo to uncrown its king and attach his country to Lagos. The occasion of this raid was furnished by the abominable custom of offering human sacrifices. If the neighboring tribes offer human sacrifices, or indulge the luxury of cannibalism, it is made a pretext for interference on the part of European governments. There seems a mutual understanding that the native tribes are not to do these things. They have, therefore, to practice them secretly if at all. We saw a few days ago a man who was rescued out of the hands of an Ijebu Remo priest as he was in the act of preparing him for being offered up to the heathen god. A missionary happened to be passing near, and hearing his cries, ran to his relief and saved him from this horrid fate. The rescued man was brought to Lagos last week. The expedition went up this week. Only the strong arm of some European power has yet proven sufficient to break up these barbarous customs in some of the tribes.

News reaches us just now that the King of Dahomy has been captured by the French and will be banished probably to Algeria. This puts an end to one of the mightiest and wickedest kingdoms on this west. It outstripped all the other tribes in sanguinary rites, and in the power and despotism of its king. One of the most remarkable institutions of Dahomy was the famous Amazons or female soldiers. Notwithstanding they were women who by nature ought to be modest and tender, they are not wanting in courage and the heart to commit the most bloody deeds ever recorded of any soldiers. The Dahomians are described as "arrogant and servile, liars and boasters, cheats and thieves, bloodthirsty and vindictive, and showing scarcely the semblance of affection." This country is now open to the gospel. Does any one dare say they do not need it! Who will bear the call of God to give it them? The gospel faithfully preached by those whom God calls and sends, accompanied by the Holy Spirit which is promised, is the sure remedy for the ruined condition of Africa. God is opening the way.

The climate is dangerous will be the excuse of some for not coming to this work. Men work for European governments and trading-houses by living in good houses, taking proper medicines, frequent vacations spent in a better climate. There is a lesson in their example. When we learn the lesson and have the same zeal for the spread of the gospel that they have for carrying gin to Africa and making money, the gospel work will also be done, and Africa will be regenerated.

We Baptists of the South do not seem to grow up very fast into the idea that this African work is any of ours given to us in any special sense by the Lord. We may wake up after awhile to realize that we have let an opportunity pass unimproved. The field will be entered by some one if Baptists do not enter it.

Not long since three young missionaries arrived in Lagos from Canada, the United States and England respectively. They purposed going up into the Soudan seven hundred miles from here. Neither of them knew previous to starting that the others had any thought of coming to Africa. The one in Canada, starting first, was joined by another in New York and the other in England. They had no money, nor did they know where it was to come from as they had no society, board or even church to look to or stand behind them in the matter of support. The one in Canada was supplied by friends with money to get to New York. There the money to buy tickets to England came up from an unanticipated source. In England the expenses of the three were provided for to Lagos. Only one hundred dollars was left over to meet the most difficult and perilous part of the journey of seven hundred miles to the Soudan. Of course, that amount would not be sufficient; they would naturally be a little solicitous about what they are to do. This is relieved in a few days by the arrival of an unexpected check from Canada for five hundred dollars, and their immediate wants are provided for. This is a somewhat interesting case. It must have cost these young men near $1,500 to get their outfit (for they are well equipped) and reach their present stage. Yet they have met all along those who have furnished the means. They are devout and earnest young men and attribute all their help to the Lord.

If we know only the above facts, we shall look upon this as a most wonderful incident in missionary history, and could but feel that the Holy Spirit can help men to such an extent as this, but when we are helped to look beyond the supernatural appearances, we behold the real naturalness there is pervading it all.

These young men are non-denominational in doctrine and believe in faith healing. One might easily suppose that these erratic views, together with the apparent heroism of the undertaking of men and their own personal magnetism, have borne a part in securing liberal contributions for the time being.

They have all been sick since they have been in Lagos, and the journey to the Soudan has been delayed. One of them has decided not to go further at least now. Their faith has not proven sufficiently strong in this miasmatic fever-producing climate of Africa to do without medicines. Hence, they have resorted to them and lived. It remains yet to be seen what will be the result of their undertaking.

But we would rather not have to rely on movements of this kind to evangelize the Dark Continent. Our methods may seem slow and expensive, but they will not prove more so in the long run than these new and untried ones.

We must say, in conclusion, that we need men for our field in Africa, too. Let us pray the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into the harvest.

Very truly, C. C. NEWTON.

A Glorious Meeting.

Dear Recorder:—A glorious meeting closed at Henrietta Baptist church, in Rutherford county, March 21st. The meeting was conducted by the pastor, Rev. G. F. Hamrick, and continued ten days. The preacher, not only from the stand, but by visitation from house to house, urged sinners to repent and turn to God.

The church has been greatly blessed, its membership strengthened in the Christian faith, and backsliders won back to duty. The error of some hurtful teachings in this community had, by the aid of the Holy Spirit to be overcome in the minds of some who sought salvation in this meeting.

Not less than forty persons made a profession of faith in Christ. There were many anxious inquirers at the close of the meeting. The congregations were large and attentive. J. M. GILLESPIE.

Henrietta, March 22, 1894.

Changed from Burgaw to Magnolia.

Owing to the fact that Burgaw cannot at present receive it, the Eastern Baptist Sunday school Association is invited to meet at Magnolia on April 27th, 28th and 29th (fifth Sunday).

Let every Baptist Sunday school within our bounds send delegates and a report as to number of scholars, conversions and contributions during the year.

The committee on hospitality at Magnolia desire that as far as possible those expecting to attend will address either Miss Hattie Cox or John Hollingsworth, Magnolia, N. C. O. P. MEEKS.

Clinton, March 29, 1894.

MARRIED.

SAPP—JENKINS—On March 7th, in Concord, by Rev. J. O. Alderman, Mr. John S. Sapp of Concord and Miss Sallie E. Jenkins of Palmerville, N. C.

MANNING—COSTEN—On Wednesday evening, March 21st, 1894, at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. Chas. K. Taylor, Mr. Chas. M. Manning and Miss Ruth B. Costen, youngest daughter of Thos. W. Costen, Esq., all of Gates county, N. C.

DIED.

WEBB—It is said troubles hardly ever come single. This is true in many instances, and is felt to be true with sister Harriett Webb of Chowan county. Her husband died less than three years ago; last October her brother died; just before Christmas her mother died, and March 20th her son, James E. Webb, was brought home to her dead, having been thrown from a buggy while on his way from Edenton, and died in a few minutes afterwards. He was a good boy, always ready to do what he could to make others happy. He joined Yeopim church over a year ago, having professed religion in his own home while a prayer meeting was being held there by Bro. H. Bass and Rev. C. J. Jones. He was in the eighteenth year of his age. Many attended his funeral to bid him a loving farewell as he was laid beside his father to await the resurrection day. The Lord bless the sad home.

A. W. B.

Children

will not develop uniformly unless they get sufficient nourishment. They will be thin, weak, hollow-chested.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites, overcomes the tendency toward thinness and makes children strong and healthy. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

Can You Read The Future?

Do you know what your condition will be 20 years hence? Will your earning capacity be equal to the support of yourself and family? This is a serious question, yet, you could confidently answer "yes" if you had a twenty-years Tontine Policy in the

Equitable Life

A method which guarantees all the protection furnished by any kind of life insurance, and in addition the largest cash returns to those policy-holders whose lives are prolonged, and who then need money rather than assurance. For facts and figures, address

W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas,
ROCK HILL, S. C.

1894.

Spring Business

On the Basis of the New Wilson Tariff.

Now on sale our new lines of High Novelty Suitings, Colored Dress Goods, Black Dress Goods, Fancy Dress Silks, Velvets, White Goods, Laces, Embroideries and Printed and Dyed Cotton Dress Fabrics in assortments larger than ever.

Selling Dry Goods by mail is a special feature of our business. Our mail orders are filled by trained people who do nothing else.

Samples Cheerfully Sent.

OUR FREE DELIVERY.

Cash with Order of $5 00 and over, we deliver goods free (except furniture and crockery) to nearest Express Office or Railroad station.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

123 and 125 Fayetteville St.

RALEIGH, N. C.

ESTABLISHED 1866.

Chas. M. Walsh, Marble Works, Monuments, Tombs, &c.

Petersburg, Va.

I send designs to any address. In writing for them always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory. CHAS. M. WALSH.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE.

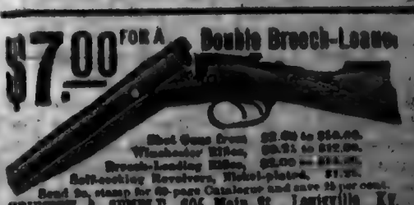
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Musicians Read!

SUNLIGHT and SHADOW. By Julian Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Each is a gem. Price, 60 Postpaid.



LESSONS IN AUDITION. By Mabelle Sparmann. A book on a new plan, to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical discernment. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.

ST. CAECILIAN COLLECTION. By C. F. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for every occasion. Will be given on approval to Choir Masters and Organists by accompanists in Gospel Meetings and the like. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.

ANTHEM CROWN. The latest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. By E. F. Danks. Price, 75 Cents Postpaid.

Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be perfectly saleable.

THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
Cincinnati, 54 New York, 54 Chicago.

$7.00 FOR A Double Breech-Loader

Shot Guns from $2.00 to $10.00.
Winchester Rifles, $10.25 to $12.00.
Breech-loading Rifles, $5.00 — $11.00.
Self-cocking Revolvers, Nickel-plated, $1.25.

Send 2c. stamp for 68-page Catalogue and save 25 per cent.

GRIFFITH & SEMPLE, 605 Main St., Louisville, Ky.

FREE by return mail. Full descriptive circulars of MOODY'S NEW & SIMPLIFIED TAILOR SYSTEM OF DRESS CUTTING. Revised to date. These only are the genuine MOODY TAILOR SYSTEMS. Beware of imitations. Any lady of ordinary intelligence can easily and quickly learn to cut and make a garment to any style or to any measure, for ladies, men and children. Garments guaranteed to fit perfectly without trying on. Address, MOODY & CO. CINCINNATI, O.

$25 to $50

The Home Circle.

The Waiting Time.

There are days of deepest sorrow
In the seasons of our life;
There are wild despairing moments
That o'ertake us in the strife;
There are hours of stony anguish
When the tears refuse to fall;
But the waiting time, my brother,
Is the hardest time of all.

Youth and love are oft impatient,
Seeking things beyond their reach;
And the heart grows faint with hoping,
Ere it learns what life can teach;
But before the fruit be gathered
We must see the blossom fall;
And the waiting time my brother,
Is the hardest time of all.

When the bloom of nature withers,
And the soul has weary grown
With its deep and nameless yearning,
Standing desolate and lone,
O, how painful is the blighting
That doth chasten and enthrall;
But the waiting time, my brother,
Is the hardest time of all.

When our faith hath grasped the promise
Of a rapture yet afar,
While the blissful vision tarries
O, how long the seasons are!
Ere the morn of glory dawneth
Night must spread her darkest pall;
But the waiting time, my brother,
Is the hardest time of all.

But at last we learn the lesson
That God knoweth what is best,
And a silent resignation
Makes the spirit calm and blest;
For we know the day is coming,
In the changes of our fate
When our hearts will thank him meekly
That he taught us how to wait.

There's a joy for every sorrow,
There's a song for every sigh,
When the waiting time is over,
We shall know it by and by;
For the rest that Jesus chooses
Never reaches us too late;
And the highest bliss of heaven
Crowns at last the hearts that wait.

—Anon.

A Rare Coin.

One of the rarest coins of the United States mintage is the famous 1804 silver dollar. Only nine of them are known to be in existence; and their worth may be inferred from the fact that one of them was recently sold for twelve hundred dollars. The market value of the coin differs in different catalogues, but the fortunate owner of one of these rare pieces may be sure that his possession is worth at least eight hundred dollars.

It is easy to say that the extreme rarity of the coin gives it its present fabulous value. It is only another instance of the law of supply and demand; the greatness of the demand arises from that kink in human nature that makes people want what they cannot have, but it is a harder task to account for the smallness of the supply.

According to the mint records, there were 19,570 silver dollars coined in 1804. Their disappearance is shadowed in mystery. The popularly accepted story is that they were shipped to Africa to pay the seamen of our fleet, then engaged in war on Tripoli. The glitter of the newly coined silver attracted the fancy of the natives who gathered them for ornaments as fast as they could induce the sailors to spend them. So the whole issue disappeared in the wilds of Africa.

This story reads suspiciously like a sailor's yarn. It is very improbable that the whole of the 1804 issue should have been sent to our African fleet. Granted that this to have been the case, however, it is absurd to declare that every man on board the fleet, from admiral to cabin boy, should have spent every dollar of his pay at the little port of Tripoli. Jack tars are notorious spendthrifts, but surely some few of the nineteen thousand dollars would have found their way home. Moreover, there has been no trace found in Tripoli of a single dollar of the many thousand said to have been sunk there by our jolly sailors.

It is far more probable that the entire issue was defective, and, after reposing quietly in the treasury vaults for a while, was reminted in the following year, dollars bearing the date of 1805 being common enough If such was the case, it proves that the accounts at the mint were poorly kept, as there are no records of the 1804 dollar being re-coined. Whatever may be the true explanation of the mysterious disappearance, it is undoubtedly true that the most pronounced "gold bug" would be pleased to own a few silver dollars stamped with the date 1804.—The Watchman.

Let it run, and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is here.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For severe coughs, bronchial, throat and lung diseases, asthma, scrofula in every form, and even the scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure.

It is the only blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Perfection is attained in Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents, by druggists.

Trouble's shadow is often of darker hue than the trouble itself.

Grandma's Glasses.

HOW LITTLE FREDDIE OBTAINED INFORMATION ON SEVERAL POINTS.

"Freddie, have you seen my spectacles?"
"Your gold rimmed glasses, gramma?"
"Yes."
"What you wear on your nose and see through?"
"Yes; where are they?"
"The glasses that grampa gave you?"
"Yes."
"For a Christmas present?"
"Yes; tell me where they are."
"Are they the glasses that you read the Bible with, gramma?"
"Oh, yes! I'm getting impatient, Freddie. Get them for me."
"Glasses that you read about David and Gerliah with, and the three children in the fiery furnace?"
"Yes; the same glasses. Tell me where they are, and quit asking so many questions."
"Do you want to read with them now, gramma?"
"No; I want to sew."
"What are you going to sew, gramma?"
"I want to hem a few handkerchiefs."
"For me?"
"No; for grandpa. Where are those glasses, you little torment?"
"You can't sew with the glasses, can you, gramma?"
"Of course I can. I can't sew without them."
"I thought you sewed with the sewing machine, gramma."
"O, you aggravating boy! Look right at me! Now tell me where those glasses are."
"Dunno."
"Haven't you seen them lately?"
"Nome."—Wm. H. Switzer, in Puck.

An Elephant's Sunshade.

On hot summer days in New York, when the mercury is well up in the nineties, it becomes almost a necessity to carry an umbrella, or shade of some kind, to protect ourselves from the burning rays of the sun. We should hardly expect, however, a native of India—residing in this city—to have the same need for a sunshade, particularly when the native is a huge Indian elephant. That an elephant should feel the heat in our climate seems rather absurd, but as he does, it is quite in keeping with the general intelligence of this animal that he should invent some means of protecting himself from it. The elephant inclosure in Central Park contains no trees nor shade of any kind, and on those hot days when the heat is almost unbearable, it seems hotter there than any place in New York. Grouped around the inclosure are nanally scores of persons, many with sunshades and umbrellas, intently watching the elephants. Some of the huge animals are carefully tossing hay upon their own backs, whilst others, whose backs are almost covered, may be seen peacefully resting. Newly mown grass is what the elephant prefers for this purpose,—perhaps because it feels cooler than hay,—but hay answers the purpose very well. How many visitors to the park on these warm days have realized that they were not the only ones carrying sunshades, and that the elephants were protecting themselves in like fashion!

The fact that elephants never attempt to thatch their backs with hay during the winter, although the same opportunities for doing so exist, seem to prove that they use the hay as a protection from heat. They may sportively throw a little hay about, but nothing more. However, in ly time, there are good and sufficient reasons for the animals adopting the same means of defense again; therefore, when the flies are fierce, the elephants cover their huge backs as on hot summer days.—Meredith Nugent, in St. Nicholas.

For Sick-headache, Etc.,
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

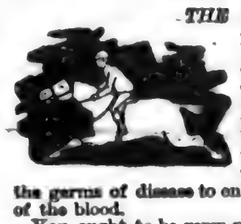
Dr. Wm. B. Conway, Blacksburg, Va., says: "I have used it in my practice for sick headache, dyspepsia, indigestion, innutrition of the brain and nervous system, and find it gives decided benefit."

The Humming of Telegraph Wires.

You have all heard the humming and singing of telegraph and telephone wires as you passed the poles along the streets. No doubt you have concluded that it is caused by the action of the wind on the wires, and given it no further thought. But it is not true, continues the Boston Journal of Commerce, that the singing is caused by the wind, and, if you are at all observing, you will notice that often the humming sound is to be heard these cold winter mornings when the smoke from chimneys goes straight up until it is lost in the clouds, and when the frost on the wire is as fuzzy and thick as a roll of chenille fringe. The wind has nothing to do with the sound, and, according to an Austrian scientist, the vibrations are due to the changes of atmospheric temperature, and especially through the action of cold, as a lowering of temperature induces a shortening of the wires extending over the whole of the conductor. A considerable amount of friction is produced on the supporting bells, thus inducing sounds both in the wires and the poles. When this humming has been going on birds have mistaken the sound for insects inside the poles, and have been seen to peck with their bills on the outside as they do upon the apple and other trees. The story is told of a bear that mistook the humming noise as coming from a nest of bees, and clawed at the pole, and tore away the stones at its base in the hope of finding the much-coveted honey.—Exchange.

Johnson's Magnetic Oil kills all pains whether internal or external. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drugstore, Raleigh, N. C.

Keep Lime-water in the House



Lime-water is a good thing to keep in the house. It is prepared in an easy manner by putting a layer of the unslacked lime in a wide-mouthed jar and filling it with cold water.

There is no danger of using too much lime, as the water will only take up so much, however much is put in. It takes only a few hours for the water to take up all the lime that is possible. After it has stood, say, five hours, the water may be drained off and more water added until the lime is all absorbed.

Acidity of the stomach is corrected by adding a little lime water to the drinking water. A teaspoonful of lime-water added to a glass of milk corrects the tendency which milk has to coagulate in the stomach, forming a hard indigestible mass. For this reason it should be added to the milk fed the little children, and nursing bottles should be rinsed with it. As a mild disinfectant there is nothing safer or better.—Exchange.

The rapidity with which croup develops, calls for instant treatment; and yet few households are prepared for its visits. An admirable remedy for this disease is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has saved hundreds of lives and should be in every home where there are young children.

Drudgery is the gray angel of success. Look at the leaders in the professions, the solid men of business, the master workmen who begin as poor boys and end by building a town to house their factory hands; they are drudges of the single aim—"One thing I do." Mr. Maydole, the hammer-maker of Central New York, was an artist. "Yes," said he, "I have made hammers for twenty-eight years." "Well, then, you ought to be able to make a pretty good hammer by this time." "No, sir," was the answer, "I never made a pretty good hammer—I make the best hammer made in the United States."—Wm. C. Gannett.

THE RACE IS WON—over to good health and rendered impervious to disease when the blood is pure and the liver active. For the liver is the sentinel which permits or forbids the germs of disease to enter the circulation of the blood.

You ought to be germ-proof against Grip, Malaria, or Consumption; you will be—if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

When your flesh is reduced below a healthy standard, when you are troubled with pimples and boils, or if you have dizzy, weak and sleepless, spells—its best to heed the warning.

Build up your strength, purify the blood, and set all the organs of the body into activity, by taking the "Discovery." It's guaranteed to benefit or cure all diseases resulting from impure blood or inactive liver, or the money paid is refunded.

There's no case of Catarrh so hopeless that Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cannot cure. The proprietors of this medicine will pay $500 for any incurable case.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers. Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and Two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing Cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife or injections of carbolic acid, which are painful and seldom a permanent cure, and often resulting in death, unnecessary. Why endure this terrible disease? We guarantee 6 boxes to cure any case. You only pay for benefits received. $1 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Guarantees issued by our agents.

CONSTIPATION Cured. Piles Prevented, by Japanese Liver Pellets, the great LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR and BLOOD PURIFIER. Small, mild and pleasant to take, especially suggested for children's use. 25 Doses 25 cents.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

THERE is but one way in the world to be sure of having the best paint, and that is to use only a well-established brand of strictly pure white lead, pure linseed oil, and pure colors.*

The following brands are standard "Old Dutch" process, and are always absolutely

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

*If you want colored paint, tint any of the above strictly pure leads with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.
Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free.

Philadelphia Branch, 421 South Front street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

THE IMPROVED VICTOR INCUBATOR

Catalogue 4 cents.

Hatches Chickens by Steam. Absolutely self-regulating. The simplest, most reliable and cheapest first-class Hatcher in the market. Circular free. GEO. ERTEL & CO., Quincy, Ill.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1894 Number 40.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

119 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 90.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps

A CURIOUS and despicable tendency among "literary" magazines, born of the popularity of the sensational newspaper and fostered by the marvellous popularity which they themselves have attained in very recent years, is the tendency to sensationalism—a universal cult just now. A story, which wouldn't have found a publisher in a time of great meagerness of literature, written by a dead, though none the less incapable Napoleon, is bought by the modern magazine editor at a great price, and heralded over the land in "fac-simile" of the original as an evidence of unprecedented enterprise, of which the editor proudly claims "the honor." Another exhumes the dust buried poems of Abraham Lincoln, and inflicts them on a morbidly curious public. Both the Napoleon story and the Lincoln poems were hidden from the public for very shame in their day, but now that their authors cannot reap any possible reward, publishers pay fabulous sums for them. Such perversion of the mediums of literature destroy whatever literary aspirations one may have. According to these methods, the would-be litterateur should first become a general or a president, then die and leave his literary efforts to his grandchildren and his memory, with the provision that they were not to be exploited until an unsuspicious public will be excited out of its wits to think that the dead author ever made other than military or political pretensions. This literary ghoulism is destroying future literature and warping present day efforts. These and other sensational tendencies, among them that of seeking how an author wrote his book, what he thinks of one thing and another, his favorite this and that, are utterly irrelevant in literature, and are to be deprecated in the name of an age in letters that was better and purer, and in hope of one that may be.

OUR only ground of hope—and it is an unspeakably doubtful one in this instance—that any proportion of present-day literature will find lasting recognition, is that the history of Letters teaches that a generation never appreciates its literature. We have standards and criterions even among our feeble effusions, but no one is so bold as to compare them with standards and criterions established before the day of living men that hold their high places unchallenged. Yet we must speak guardedly, for some "inglorious Milton" may be among us singing in a multitudinous waste of books and letters, only to sing for other generations the more gloriously. It seems to us, however, that circumstances do not permit such a hope. Bookmaking, essay-writing, rhyming, critique and article-writing never flourished as they now do. Books and Letters are abundant, the volume of our "literary output' is unequaled, but we are not makers of literature; we have no authors who will lie studied for their worth, or whose style will be considered worthy of preservation. Still our day is not wholly wanting in this respect. The short-story writer has indeed attained unapproachable superiority. But we have no portrayal of depths of emotion, no delineation of strength and simplicity of character, no meritoriously descriptive work, no combination of color, action, motive, inspiration and art that can be compared with the works of George Eliot, Dickens, Scott, Hugo, and others long since dead. Howells and his school are fair masters of the language, and they write tolerably entertainingly of life as they see it; but they, unlike their master, Thackeray, see only the inane, colorless and insipid life of artificial classes, and are incapable of his satire. A multitude of others cater to popular taste and write strongly with the correction of political, social and religious conditions as their motive, but their very object lacks the quality of permanency. And not one in two thousand attempts the historical novel, and even then its weariness long-drawn out is fatal. And in the places of Shakespeare, Milton and Tennyson, we have a multitude of drama and comedy writers that write for immediate financial recompense, and such writers are more mercenary than literary; no followers of Milton, because epics are too long for modern life, and Tennysons only in rhymes and shallow verses.

THE veto of the bill to coin the seignorage and to put to use the silver bullion now in the Treasury, is a disappointment to our section of the country. The bill itself amounted to very little, and was desirable as law only in that it was a concession to the advocates of silver legislation—a hopeful straw in the wind, and its veto is cause for regret in that it shows a determined prejudice against silver legislation for several months at least. President Cleveland was commendably frank and explicit in his vetoing message. His last words were hopeful: he claimed to be—with the rest of the country—a bimetalist, and hopes, yea, vaguely suggests that he will give good and sufficient evidence thereof before he retires. We believe him sincere—in fact he is a very frank public man; but patience is better than prophecy in the circumstances.

Some people can see "good in everything," and we hope that we may suggest something for encouragement in the veto. The bill was, in a sense, more of a makeshift, a measure of expediency and a subterfuge, though less objectionable because limited to the amount of bullion in the Treasury and therefore temporary, than was the repealed Sherman law. Many representatives voted for it, thinking that it would be a temporary barrier between them and the popular will. It is certain that if the bill had become law, Mr. Bland, the leader of the silver legislators, would not have made further efforts on behalf of silver legislation until all the bullion was coined—a year at least. As it is now, Senator Stewart has introduced a bill for the free coinage of silver, which will have to be met before summer is past. Thus unplaced men will have to declare themselves unreservedly for or against free coinage of silver, whereas the vote on the "Seigniorage" bill by no means determined their attitude. This issue will be forced on the Congress and the administration before another election occurs, and its friends and foes will be compelled to stand on the right and the left in the public gaze. There can be no loop hole, no pretext now. We hope the next coinage bill that is sent to the President will be unlimited and unqualified, in order that there may be a public demonstration of how all representatives stand, if for no other reason.

THE insubordination in South Carolina cannot be mentioned in other than deprecatory terms. The sovereign people of that State—with intentions that were unquestionably good—elected legislators who enacted the Evans Dispensary law, after long debate and deliberation. Now many people of the State, who cannot be said to be law-abiding in any light they may be regarded, have shown their preference for shedding their own and others' blood to observing that law. The Governor—whose office at least demands respect—has witnessed the humiliation of the State of which he is the chosen head, in calling in vain, in the name of the law, for the assistance of the militia, the oath-bound protectors of all civil law.

Whatever may be the merit and demerits of the Dispensary law—and we have expressed ourselves in this regard in a recent issue—every citizen who has raised his arm against that law, or used his influence to excite contempt of that law, has been recreant to the highest duty of citizenship, and has done himself, his State and his posterity an injury. Obey and uphold a law because it is law and for the sake of other laws, as long as law is the expression of the popular will in a free country, is a lesson that some South Carolinians have yet to learn. The ballot is the citizen's only legitimate weapon in our day and time, and we have no reason to think it is less safe and sure in South Carolina than elsewhere. The time to oppose the Dispensary system was when the election was held, and the time to oppose it again will be when the next election is held; but even then exhortation, discussion, logic and votes are the only legitimate means of opposing it. In the mean time it is the citizen's duty to do nothing to invalidate the operations of the law except through the courts, but rather to do what he may to allow the operations of the law to demonstrate its merits and demerits, and if they do not choose to pursue this policy—if they seek the sword—they shall meet the sword, if Scripture means anything. Gov. Tillman and his supporters have made serious mistakes of judgment, and the reported system of espionage is unwholesome and obnoxious. But he has made no mistake comparable with that which the belligerent citizens made in resorting to violence in their opposition to a law which was enacted by the representatives of the popular will. They have initiated a disregard of law, which teaches their children lawlessness, and which in a more developed state is positive anarchy.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK]

"Now, if the State provides for secular education in a safe way and in a satisfactory degree, the Church, in all its divisions, appears to have no reason to establish schools for such kinds of learning." From "Church and State," &c., by the late Prof. A. W. Mangum, Chapel Hill.

It was conceded in the first article that there is no need for corporate and private institutions of any kind for higher education, provided it be (1) right, (2) expedient, for the State to furnish all such education, and provided (3) that a State is at liberty to provide Christian education.

It remains, therefore, for those who are on the defensive against the policy of universal education by the State to examine carefully these three conditions.

First, then, IS IT RIGHT FOR A STATE TO UNDERTAKE TO SUPPLY ALL THE DEMAND FOR HIGHER EDUCATION WITHIN HER BORDERS?

Let it be remembered that the question under discussion here is in regard to the higher education. Few, probably, will raise any question as to the right and duty of a State to maintain a system of common schools for the instruction of children of all classes. It is almost universally conceded that education under the control of the State to such an extent as will enable the recipients intelligently to exercise the duties of citizenship in a goverment which is of and by the people should be maintained and controlled by the State. But it may add clearness to the argument against State control of higher education if some emphasis be given to the ground for State support of common schools. This ground is not, primarily, the benefit which accrues to the recipient, but the good which accrues to the State. This idea seems to be brought out in the following extracts from the writings and addresses of men whose opinions are worthy of the highest consideration.

Washington Gladden, in his "Applied Christianity," says. (page 288, ff. Houghton Mifflin & Co., 1887) "It is scarcely necessary to trace the close connection between the church and the school in the early New England commonwealths. From these came forth the impulse which has made education universal all over the Northern States of this Union; so that its schools are the earliest care and the loudest boast of every sprouting emporium and every noisy mart; so that the pioneer's axe loses its virgin edge upon the timber of which the log school-house is builded.

"The reasoned basis of popular education in the popular mind is twofold; it includes philanthropy and self-defence. A considerable number of our citizens recognize the latter as the only admissible ground on which a public school system can rest. Philanthropy they do not believe in; or at any rate, they contend that the State has no right to go into the business of philanthropy. But the right of self preservation does belong to the State, and if popular ignorance threatens its security, and even its very existence, then the State has the right to provide, and even to require, popular education. That this is a valid basis of State action on the subject, so far as rights go, will not be disputed."

And on page 300 he says: "It is sometimes said that the State owes to its children only the rudiments of a general education; that it ought to equip every citizen for the discharge of his political duties, but that it is not under obligation to teach men trades or professions; that the State is going a step too far when it undertakes to make men lawyers or doctors or carpenters or machinists. The objection is valid."

Ex Gov. Northrop wrote as follows several years ago for the Independent (New York): "Taxes for the education of children in Common Schools are founded primarily, not on the idea of benefitting children or parents, but on the broader view that the State has a proprietary interest in all persons and property within its bounds. The State has duties as well as rights, and one of these is the securing a good common school education to the children of all classes. It is the duty and right of the State to defend itself by a humanizing and civilizing education against what would otherwise become a degraded and dangerous class in society. Better than fleets and forts for security and prosperity is universal education, which is the supreme guarantee of our liberties, the condition of our prosperity, and the safeguard of our institutions. Universal suffrage without universal education means universal anarchy."

Ex Gov. Winthrop in his Yorktown Address expressed these views: "It is one of the great rights of a free people to be educated and trained up from childhood to that ability to govern themselves, which is the largest element in republican self-government, and without which, all self-government must be a failure or a farce. It is indeed primarily a right of our children, and they are not able to enforce or vindicate it for themselves. But let us beware of subjecting ourselves to the ineffable reproach of robbing the children of their bread and casting it before dogs, by wasting millions on corrupt or extravagant projects, and starving our common schools. Free governments must stand or fall with common schools. These, and these alone, can supply the firm foundation."

Prof. Woodrow Wilson says in "The State," (page 667, D. C. Heath & Co., 1893), "Popular education is necessary for the preservation of those conditions of freedom, political and social, which are indispensable to free individual development. And, in the second place, no instrumentality less universal in its power and authority than government can secure popular education. In brief, in order to secure popular education, the action of society as a whole is necessary; and popular education is indispensable to that equalization of the conditions of personal development which we have taken to be the proper object of society. Without popular education, moreover, no government that rests upon popular action can long endure; the people must be schooled in the knowledge, and, if possible, in the virtues, upon which the maintenance and success of free institutions depend."

Dr. J. L. M. Curry said several years ago before the Teachers' Association at Hartford, Conn.: "We felicitate ourselves that our experiment of self goverment has been thus far a success, and yet the glory that has been achieved only enhances the magnitude of the trust, the weight of the responsibility, to transmit unimpaired and fortified the representative institutions we have inherited. The basal idea of these institutions is the civil equality of man as man. Behind the ballot should stand intelligence. Such writers on the English constitution as Montesquieu and Blackstone, in writing on suffrage, concur that those should be excluded from voting whose situation is such that they cannot be presumed to have a will of their own, or what is equivalent, an independent and intelligent will. * * It seems a truism that education and the right of voting should be coextensive. One invested with this prerogative of freedom, having such potencies, should obviously be able to read the names on the ballot which accomplishes noiselessly in America what in other lands requires standing armies or a revolution. Mere suffrage is not a safeguard. * * It does not necessarily ensure peace, prosperity, or a virtuous administration. A mass of ignorant voters awakens fearful apprehensions. The adult illiteracy in the United States is appalling. Of the 1,580,000 illiterate voters in the United States, the Southern States furnish 317,281 white, and 220,022 colored. This illiteracy is a standing menace to republican institutions."

It will, therefore, be not only admitted but urged by the writer that it is both the right and duty of the State to maintain common schools for all classes of children.

It would seem that the same principles do not apply to the education of a limited number of its citizens by the State in academies, colleges and universities.

There are two very different views as to the proper functions of government. One is the theory of Paternalism; the other is the Laissez Faire (or "let-alone") theory. The former assumes that it is the duty, or at least the privilege, of a State to assume a fatherly relation toward its citizens, providing for many of their needs, and looking after many of their individual wants. This idea, where it still prevails, is the survival of the old notion of "The Divine Right of Kings," and it is not out of accord with patriarchal and monarchical theories of government. Protective tariffs, great pension systems, as well as government control of education in colleges and universities, and establishments of religion in State churches are the natural outcome of this theory. There is something fascinating about the idea until its claims are closely inspected, and not a few vigorous writers, especially in Europe, have sought to vindicate it. Strong sentimental appeals may be based upon it, but it will be found that if the fundamental principles of this theory shall once be admitted, the gap will be let down for unlimited interference by the State in every department of business. It is impossible to mark the point where one can say, "Thus far shalt thou come and no further." If a State may furnish education below cost to the recipient, because such education is a good thing for the individual to possess, why may it not furnish to its citizens blankets, agricultural implements, and other articles of utility and comfort? Even the familiar "forty acres and a mule" would not be so good a working capital for a young man or woman as a first class education.

Herbert Spencer, in his "Social Statics," (page 303, Ed. of D. Appleton & Co.) says: "The expediency-philosophy, of which this general state-superintendence is a practical expression, embodies the belief that government ought not only to guarantee men in the unmolested pursuit of happiness, but should provide the happiness for them and deliver it at their doors. Now, no scheme could be more self defeating, for no scheme could be more completely at variance with the constitution of things. * * To do anything for him (the citizen) by some artificial agency, is to supercede certain of his powers—is to leave them unexercised, and therefore to diminish his happiness. To healthily developed citizens, therefore, State aid is doubly detrimental. It injures them both by what it takes ('in the form of taxes') and by what it does."

If space admitted, many pages might be quoted from this eminent writer, in which, with great wealth of illustration, he argues against the paternal conception of government.

It, however, it should be claimed at this point that this higher education is given by the State, not for the sake of the individual, but for the good of the State, it will be a sufficient answer to show that all the needs of the State for higher education among its citizens can be abundantly supplied under the voluntary system, and without cost to the State. And this, it is believed, can be shown at another point in this investigation.

The fact, which can be shown, that there is more and better education in certain States where higher education is not supported by the State, than in the South, where for many decades the State-university system has prevailed, would seem to show that the care for higher education is not a necessary function of the State.

There is unquestionably need for teachers and for educated men and women as leaders in every community. If it were not possible for this admitted need to be supplied in any other way, it might be necessary for the State to undertake to do so. But that it could possibly be otherwise supplied is at least suggested by the fact that in the South the great majority of the teachers and a large proportion of the leaders have not come out of the State colleges.

It will be no answer to the argument which the writer is seeking to make to say that it can be used with equal force against government control of banking, the postoffice, and other functions of government which are universally admitted. It cannot be so used. If all of these enterprises could be safely and effectively managed without any governmental interference, it could fairly be used to overthrow the position taken in regard to State interference in higher education. It will be seen, therefore, that very much depends upon the answer finally given to the question: Can the higher education be as well cared for by private enterprise as by the State? It is hoped by the writer that he can show that it can, and that the State is subject to some necessary limitations from which private and corporate bodies are free, in their work for higher education.

The other theory is that it is not wise for a State to undertake any functions which can be as well performed by private or corporate enterprise. According to this view, a State should provide for the protection of all its citizens, administer justice, and insure the perpetuation of the liberties of the people. But, so far as possible, the responsibility of self-support, self-development, &c., should be left to the people themselves. In cases of great public need, where private enterprise will not or cannot enter the field effectively, it may become a clear duty for the State to do so. But this point should be carefully watched, as should also be the numberless enterprises which are sought to be justified by the "General Welfare" clause in our Federal Constitution.

It is believed that in proportion as any people are thrown upon their own resources and left free to develop along the lines suggested by their needs, self-interest, and sense of duty, while the State sees to it that no individual invades the rights of another in person or property, the highest general prosperity will result. Those who hold this opinion admit that the State is justified in supporting a system of public schools, because it is essential to the making of a self-governing people, and is a work of too much magnitude to be undertaken by individuals or corporations. But they do not admit that it is necessary, or, therefore, right for a State to undertake the support or control of higher education at all.

The contrast between the two theories is well presented by President Charles W. Eliott of Harvard University. The Address from which the following extracts are made was delivered several years ago before the National Educational Association. His subject was "A National University." The principles enunciated are, however, of universal application.

"In Continental Europe all universities are subsidized by government. Such is the custom of these countries,—a custom which is certainly not the outgrowth of free institutions. * * The general notion that a beneficent government should provide and control an elaborate organization for teaching, just as it maintains an army, a navy, or a postoffice, is of European origin, being a legitimate corollary to the theory of government by divine right. It is said that the State is a person, having a conscience and a moral responsibility; that the government is the visible representative of a people's civilization and the guardian of its honor and morals, and should be the embodiment of all that is high and good in the people's character and aspirations. This moral person, this corporate representative of a Christian nation has high duties and functions commensurate with its great powers, and none more imperative than that of diffusing knowledge and advancing science.

"I desire to state this argument for the conduct of high educational institutions by government as a matter of abstract duty, with all the force that belongs to it, for under an endless variety of thin disguises, and with all sorts of amplifications and dilutions, it is a staple commodity with writers upon the relation of government to education. The conception of government upon which this argument was based is obsolescent everywhere. In a free community the government does not hold that [illegible] or patriarchal—I should better say, God like position. * * The doctrine of State personality and conscience and the whole argument of the dignity and moral elevation of a Christian nation's government, as the basis of government duties, are passed

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 11, 1894.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

A MEANS OF INTEREST AND ZEAL.

It is indisputable that Baptists are not as well acquainted with themselves, their history, their cause and their objects as they might be; and that a deeper and broader acquaintance with these relations of their service would be exceedingly helpful. Self-absorption is not wholesome; it does not permit of comparison with other methods; it demands originality where imitation and improvement by comparison would be most expedient. The pride in ignorance of outside matters, which some profess, is not commendable, for ignorance is likely to father indifference. The more one knows of good and great Baptists the better Baptist one will be; for he has the paths and the example of strength to guide him. It would be a glorious achievement if every Baptist pastor were enabled by acquaintance with the Word, with doctrine and with history to combat and refute every aspersion on his denomination; it would be the more glorious if lay members were capable in the same degree. But in addition to this, acquaintance with Baptist work in all its departments develops interest and zeal, which are very desirable, even essential, while power to argue and confute is not so important.

There are many Baptists who do good and blessed work at home, but fail to look abroad for objects. Acquaintance with their individual church has developed that interest and zeal, which should exist for, and would come of acquaintance with all fields and departments. It is well for one to be a zealous home worker, for home work—among "the fatherless and widows in their affliction," and in revising inactive fields, extending influence, and otherwise—is the first duty of the follower of the Son of God. While this is well, it is not well enough. Macedonia still cries for helpers; aid and sympathy are needed elsewhere. One should not overlook his community for another; but one should not become so narrowed as to see only what is before his eyes.

A great theme in economics is "division of labor," one laborer having a small and limited part to do, the remainder of the fabric being handed over to other workers. Such work makes thorough specialists; each knows his part, but no one knows all about the entire industry. It is natural that these workers' abilities should become narrowed; and we would not have this to be the case in denominational work. A Baptist who believes in education and laudably supports it, yet gives nothing to the Orphanage, presents the condition of the laborer who has been confined to one branch of an industry all his life by the division of labor, which is necessary in the trades because one cannot afford to be out of work, or work for small wages through all the years that would be required to become completely master of an industry. But we can all master the fields of the cause without delay and waste of time or great expenditure of money. We need no division of labor in Christ's field; we need no warping and narrowing of duties and aims. Each of us needs to become an artisan in the entire work of our profession. Christ could have confined his ministry to one place, his occupation to preaching and baptizing, but it was not wise in his sight. He went about doing good, at home and abroad. He succored the poor and afflicted at his feet, he sought them out, he preached the Word to his own Nazareth; but more than this he sought other fields, in which he was more appreciated. His work at home and abroad expanded from one aim: the coming of the kingdom. His was a broad and thorough acquaintance, an unlimited interest and irrepressible zeal.

Significance has been attached to the recorded evidence that Christ was educated for one who was reared in Hebrew environment. He wrote with his finger on the ground, and his affirmative queries, "Is it not written," etc., repeated on many occasions, are sufficient testimony that he was versed in the inspired writings of Moses and the prophets. It may be added that the apostles were informed in some degree of the condition and progress of their work is an evidence that good workers ought not to become so absorbed in what engages them that the work of other laborers for the same cause is forgotten. No church and no individual should live to itself. The Bible is indeed sufficient for the consecrated servant of the Master. Yet we live in a day of great facilities and greater demand for news from all parts of the world. The reader comes in contact with the whole world, he has a broad field for sympathy and for objections. So might the Christian know of the acts of Christian workers all over the land. Such acquaintance is inspiration; it uplifts and spurs on to greater efforts; it teaches how to succeed by showing how others have succeeded or failed.

There is comfort and edification in good books. The work of a great and good author usually represents the thought, the study and experience of a lifetime. Full of knowledge, ripe with experience, rich with the philosophy of one who has suffered life's ills and rejoiced in heaven's victories, a good book cannot but edify and encourage its reader. Evil books are not to be tolerated, and in our day it is easy to distinguish between good and evil literature by their publishers, authors and reviewers.

We are always glad to see a Sunday-school using a library; it is evidence that the church will have intelligent, able and zealous workers when the children are grown. Books are powerful moulders of character and directors of minds, and one should be very careful in their selection and solicitous of their use and preservation. Churches may well buy a few books for the use of their members. A pastor cannot do all the teaching, nor should it be expected of him; there have been greater men than he, and many of them have left blessed works that will strengthen every Christian. A greater interest and zeal is sure to follow a larger and broader knowledge of the work. The need is not only for more home-workers, but for home-workers who are acquainted with and feel an interest in the work all over the world, for it is, in deed and in truth, the Field.

SEVERAL QUERIES.

A brother has written us that he is greatly troubled over efforts made by certain members of a Sunday-school, of which he is superintendent, to introduce a cornet and a violin into a choir where there is already an organ. He asks our advice. It is entirely a matter of conscience, there being no scriptural authority for any of the musical instruments in question. We know, however, that God was pleased with David's music—not so much with the music as with the spirit of the musician. We do not approve of a cornet in a choir; we could not countenance a violin in any extremity. The two latter instruments have by usage been relegated to sensual and sinful diversions, while the organ by usage and natural fitness has long been the instrument used in song-service. It is not necessary. The best music we ever heard—the combined voices of an entire congregation in a camp-meeting—was without instrumental accompaniment.

Another brother wishes to know if there is any authority for a pastor being chairman of a church finance committee. So far as we know there is none. In fact there were no finance committees in the time of the apostles. Judas carried the money, but he can only be regarded as a carrier—not even a treasurer, as we do not presume he had authority to dispose of funds. We think the wisdom of the matter depends on whether the pastor is a man of good judgment in finance. We would advise a pastor not to undertake such a responsibility; yet he is entitled to part in all church work as he is the apostle of the Good Shepherd; his voice should be welcomed and have due weight in all counsels.

Another wishes to know if a Baptist deacon, who is otherwise well and good in his church-office, should serve in the United States government service as a whiskey gauger. We speak for ourselves: we would not. For the reasons that we would be in temptation, in evil company, and might lead others to follow; that our example would not be wholesome in any respect; that our influence would be lessened, if not destroyed; that one should always be as far from evil as possible, except in rescue work; for the reason that we would not desire to make a living in connection with an instrumentality of so broad and dire woe; and for many other reasons that are obvious.

We endeavor to answer, to have answered, or find answers, to any proper queries that may be sent us. We hope, however, that no one will ask questions except for information, and that no one will question us to provoke controversy, or to humiliate some one who differs with them. And remember that publication of an answer does not make it infallible. We all have differences, just as we have various capacities and predilections.

After all there is but one essential in raising money for the Cause, and that is faithful prayer. And if that doesn't bring results, results should not be looked for. Societies and organizations in a church may raise more money than the church did without them; yet they pray more and work more than they ever did in the simple though more responsible relation of plain church members. Money raised in rivalry is not the Lord's money; for we surely are taught that God considers the motive of both giver and worker, and he never approves any effort for personal earthly gratification. Church fairs and church entertainments may make excellent financial showings, and possibly move some to giving who would not otherwise have given; yet they are fraught with dangers. If the energy which is expended in making them successful were confined to "old time" methods, we have no reason to think that the showing would not be a great deal better. We have always felt impressed with the sequence of faith, prayer and work. The first two cannot exist without inducing the other; the last can exist alone, but it will be vain and barren expenditure of energy. When we say we need more work we imply that there is need of more love and faith; for they are the base of all good works in the name of the Lord. Reader, pray for those objects to which you cannot give money; you can do work without finances, with only faith; and such work is sure and lasting, for it comes from God. Grow in grace and faith; pray "without ceasing," and the Master will take care of all else.

The depth of study and extent of research which Dr. Taylor has gone to in the preparation of his article is manifested in the numerous quotations from men of note and influence, past and present, which are incorporated into the discussion. It is generally thought that this is a new theory, and therefore dangerous. Dr. Taylor shows that it is more than theory, and the fact that it is endorsed by so many able minds is sufficient testimony that it is not an outgrowth of prejudice, but rather of principle and ripening wisdom. In the first paper most of the space was occupied in a statement of conditions and probabilities, and in subdividing the question into three basal questions. In this issue the first of these is taken up, and we wish especially to call the attention of our readers to the strong distinction made between public education for the protection of the State, and education at public expense for the benefit of only a few young men and women, as only a small per centum of them have in the past, in a majority of the States, become teachers. Moreover, as the author says, if corporate institutions provide a sufficient number of well qualified teachers for public schools—and he will show this with facts and figures in another paper—that a State should not go to expense to provide such teachers. It is to be regretted that the entire article cannot be placed before the reader at once, for doubtless in serial form some of its force is lost. However, if the reader will consider only what was said in the last issue as one reads the present instalment, and not anticipate matters, the logic of the argument will lose little of its force.

A brother recently wrote us that after trying faithfully to persuade some brethren to write articles favorable to organizing young peoples societies in our State, it seemed that while they favored the organization of them, very few felt constrained to write about it. The trouble is, only a very few have felt called on to say anything against them, and a discussion cannot live without two sides. If some one would write a violent protest against the societies, it would not be long before every brother in the State who favored them would come to their rescue. One never knows the number of his friends until in trouble. So, too, with the discussion of union of Baptists and Disciples. No one in our State up to this writing has taken it on himself to "fight" for either side, and the matter has languished, which is really fortunate; for some might have been led to approve the basis merely for the sake of differing. We hoped that the brethren would interest themselves in the question of "basis of representation" in the Southern Baptist Convention, and for this reason have pronounced our opinion in unmistakable terms. It seems that all the brethren either agree with us, or are unanimously with Dr. Carroll; two sides to the question have been taken, but there are no followers. Of course this means that North Carolina's vote, as stated by Bro. Carroll, will be cast in committee in favor of a financial basis. He cannot do otherwise after having stated his intention and asked for opinions in order that he might be guided.

Absence of proneness to dispute and indulge in controversy is really hopeful: it means more work and more harmony. At the same time honest discussion and presentations of views always helps, not only the work itself, but it improves the methods of work. A matter must be discussed in all its phases, and vigorously, or people will never become interested in it, and it will fall into disrepute from indifference.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS

....The Georgia Baptist Convention met in annual session last week.

....A Baptist church is in course of erection six miles west of Hickory.

....Brethren J. K. Fant and R. E. Peele began a meeting at Enfield last week.

....Pastor E. F. Jones of Gastonia had thirteen additions to his church on the first Sunday.

....Rev. J. D. Hufham expects to attend the next session of the Southern Baptist Convention.

....Rev. M. P. Matheny accepts a call to the work at Granite Falls and entered upon it last Sunday.

....Rev. C. A. G. Thomas was engaged in a protracted meeting in his Greensboro church last week.

....We are glad to note that Bro. Z. T. Broughton, recently of Greensboro, has taken charge of the University Press of Chapel Hill.

....Dr. A. B. Dunaway of Norfolk has been invited to deliver an address at the Chowan Baptist Female Institute commencement.

....We were glad to see Bro. G. W. Coppedge of Wakefield last week. He reported his field in good condition, and brought us a new subscriber.

....This fall is to be a time of political excitement, hence the importance, so far as possible, of holding your annual protracted meeting this spring.

....The new house of worship at Henrietta will be dedicated next Sunday, April 15th. Rev. C. Durham is to preach the sermon on that occasion.

....The revival meetings in Brooklyn and New York, inaugurated and led by Rev. A. C. Dixon, continue, especially in the latter city, with unabated interest.

....Pastor D. W. Thomasson has accepted a church in South Carolina, which makes him serve one in each State, since he succeeded Pastor Hoyle at Independence Hill.

....Rev. J. L. Sproles of West Point, Miss., writes: "I am well pleased with my new field. Will commence a meeting next Sunday (the 10th)." We hope to hear from him again.

....Pastor Cashwell is moving over the country in the interest of the house at Newton; he is in sight of success, and hopes to be in the new house by the fifth Sunday in this month.

....Rev. J. L. Bennett is rejoicing in the bright prospect of his church at Polkton. He recently received five additions by letter. Congregations are steadily increasing.—Union Baptist

....We learn from The Baptist that Dr. H. M. Wharton is holding revival meetings in Danville, Va., and will come further South. May he be persuaded to come to North Carolina.

....The time for the Southern Baptist Convention draws nigh. Texas is a long way off, but North Carolina has many relations in her borders, and a good representation may be expected.

....God be praised for the lifting of the debt on our Board of Missions and Sunday schools. It is the grandest achievement in the history of the Convention. It is sunshine to my heart and home.—J. D. Hufham.

....We are glad to learn that pastor J. A. Hoyle is able to do good work again, after a long sickness consequent on an attack of "grippe." He has two new churches in his field this year—King's Mountain and Long Creek.

....The Hendersonville Times says Rev. J. L. White's services in pastor Glenn's church have been unprecedentedly successful. Many have professed conversion and more than 100 asked for prayers. The meetings continued all last week.

....Rev. L. W. Overby has changed his address from Durham to Macon, and writes: "I am glad to say that Sandy Level church is about to get 'on the hill' again. We have added two members lately, and ask the prayers of the brethren."

....Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D., is endeavoring, says the Religious Herald, to raise a "fund" to be used for extending evangelistic work throughout the land. His idea is to supply good preachers to churches who wish evangelistic aid.

....We have received a copy of "Murdered Millions," a stirring little book designed to incite greater efforts for the propagation of the gospel of the Son of God. It can be had of the Medical Missionary Record, New York, for 15 cents.

....Rev. Dr. Pritchard preached to a full house at the North Side chapel last night. The new chapel has been a marked success, which shows the need there has been of a church in that locality for some time.—Charlotte Observer, April 7.

....Press dispatches state that a great conflagration is raging in Shanghai, China, one thousand houses having been destroyed, and the fire still beyond control. We hope that the report is exaggerated, and that none of our stations have suffered.

....Pastor Henry W. Battle of the First church, Petersburg, Va., one of North Carolina's most beloved sons, celebrated the second anniversary of his pastorate in that city last Sunday. We acknowledge receipt of invitation, containing an excellent picture of the handsome building. In Bro. Battle's last year's pastorate ninety persons have been received in to the church, sixty-five of whom were by baptism. On the first Sunday in this month Bro. Battle gave the hand of fellowship to twenty members.

....We were glad to have a pleasant visit from Bro. J. M. Beaty of Smithfield last week. It is always a pleasure to talk with brethren who are interested in church work. Bro. Beaty informs us that Bro. Poston is holding revival services at Smithfield this week.

....The Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College and of the Baptist Female University met in Raleigh last Tuesday. The Board of Trustees of Chowan Baptist Female Institute met at the same time. Our next issue will contain reports of the action of the Boards.

....The current number of the Seminary Magazine contains a picture of Dr. Willingham and a sketch of his life by Dr. Montgomery. Other articles by distinguished writers make the number very creditable. The various departments are instructive and interesting.

....We were a little previous in our announcement that Mr. Chas. H. Banes had succeeded the late Dr. Griffith as Secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society. He was serving temporarily at the time, and has now been elected to the position and has accepted.

....Dr. Thos. Hume of the State University delivered one his delightful lectures—"The Book of the Age, the Book of all Ages, the Bible"—at Pittsboro recently. Dr. Cobb, pastor, had him to assist in the ordination of two deacons of the church at the time of his visit.

....The appointments for Rev. R. T. Bryan and Rev. C. Durham in the Chowan and West Chowan Associations, from the 19th to the close of this month, have been recalled. Bro. Bryan is not yet able to undertake such work, and hence this postponement of these meetings.

....Rev. A. D. Hunter tells us that Bro. Love's services in the West End Mission are good and promising. There are many penitents and several professions so far. Bro. Love preached especially to the students of the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts on Sunday afternoon last.

....At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Deaf and Dumb Institution of Morganton Prof. E. McK. Goodwin was elected superintendent; D. R. Tillinghast, Z. W. Haynes, J. C. Miller, Ottis Betts, Mrs. Winston, Miss G. E. Welch, teachers. The institution opens this fall.

....Rev. M. V. McDuffie writes us from New Brunswick, N. J.: "At the final and farewell service held in our old church we took a thank offering from the people to liquidate a debt of $486, and the offering amounted to $542. How is that for gratitude for the Lord's mercy to us!"

....A letter from Sister Yates' daughter, Mrs. Seaman, received last Friday states that Sister Yates was very weak at that writing (March 8th.) She was exhausted by the long voyage, but hopes to gradually regain her strength. We pray that our dear sister may be spared many years.

....Rev. A. P. Hollifield has resigned the pastorate of the Zion church, and Rev. G. M. Webb of Shelby succeeds him. Brother Hollifield has served long and well. We are glad to know that Bro. Webb's promising young son, E. Y. Webb, has been chosen secretary of the Shelby Bar Association.

....We have heard that a young and promising pastor in North Carolina is giving his flock some "new theology." Look out, brother, you may have to devise a new method of raising a salary or a church debt, if your church becomes very ardent for "newness." Stand by "the old time religion!"

....It is stated that one hundred and forty-nine persons were added to the Baptist ranks in Richmond, Va., during the last month; and that Richmond has a larger percentage of Baptists in it than any other city. Perhaps that's why the capital of the "Old Dominion" is the most beautiful and the best city of any size in the country.

....We thank those of our friends who have sent us new subscribers recently; they have shown that all the Baptists in North Carolina who should read the Recorder have not been reading it. Reader, can't you bring in some more evidence. We are willing to receive subscriptions in parts, as may be convenient for the subscriber to remit.

....Rev. R. T. Bryan was in Raleigh on last Friday to see the doctor about his ear and throat. We very much regret to announce that the present state of Bro. Bryan's health is such that he is unable to participate in public meetings or do any of the work which he had planned. It is hardly probable that he can meet any of his appointments recently announced for the Eastern part of the State. May God speedily restore him.

....From the well edited and neatly printed monthly publication of the Monroe church, Bro. Adams, pastor, we learn the following: Contributions for last three months amounted to $464.70. The parsonage committee is making efforts to secure a lot on which to erect a parsonage. Prof. W. L. Poteat will lecture before the church on the 27th inst. on "The Silent Thirty Years of Christ's Life." We have heard the lecture, and can promise the Monroe people a rich treat.

....At a recent meeting of the Bethel Baptist church, a presbytery was invited for the purpose of examining, and, if found worthy, to ordain Rev. G. V. Tilley to the full work of the gospel ministry. The presbytery met, and after a satisfactory examination, unanimously voted his ordination. The ordination was proceeded with on the fourth Sunday in March. Dr. J. L. Carroll preached the sermon, Rev. J. C. Hoomt offered the ordaining prayer, Dr. Thos. Hume delivered the charge, Bro. J. W. Watson presented the Bible, and the candidate pronounced the benediction.

Facts About the Debt.

The Convention's proposition to secure on or before April 1st $5,000 for "the debt," has been, by the Lord's guidance and blessings, made a great and blessed success.

Some of the Associations, however, had debts on their mission work, brought over from last year, and their executive committees thought it best to use some of the money collected under this proposition to pay off their Associational missionaries, and to send only the proper vouchers to the Treasurer.

In other Associations, where the missionaries were very hard pressed to live, the executive committees paid out some of the money on the mission work of this year.

Some of the money sent to the Treasurer was designated by the donors for this year's work, and special places and men. The Board had no control, and desired to have none, over such matters. It could use only such cash as was sent to the Treasurer in paying off its debt of $3,000 to the missionaries, and $2,000 on "Sunday-schools." At its meeting January 23d the Board, by a formal resolution, determined to pay off the missionaries first. The resolution was at once given to the public, and was, so far as I know, approved by all. The $3,000 due the missionaries has been paid, the checks were sent on the 3d inst., and $750 has been paid on the Sunday-school department.

It will thus be seen that, while the special effort to raise the $5,000 was successful, $5,660.64 having been the total amount secured, in the time specified, for State Missions and Sunday schools, yet the whole debt on Sunday schools could not be paid for the reasons given above. Had the money all come to the Board, the debt on Sunday-schools would have been paid in full; but, under all the circumstances, the executive committees, perhaps, made the wisest disposition of their funds, and no one has a word of complaint to offer. The plan of work was wisely devised, fully understood, heartily endorsed, vigorously pushed by the churches, pastors, mission societies, individuals, in all parts of the State, earnest and continued prayer was made by many, and God gave his people the ability and the disposition to contribute. Now to him and for him be all the honor and praise.

Thanks, many thanks, to EVERY ONE who aided by prayer, suggestion, influence, work, or donation.

OUR PLAN

is to go to the Convention at Charlotte next December without debt, and I believe it can and will be done. The work of the year has been arranged to this end, and without some unusual and unforeseen difficulties, it will most certainly be done.

Now, with thankful hearts for what has been done, let us all do our best during this month for Home and Foreign Missions.

C. DURHAM.

A Few Words More.

I did not expect that my article on the Baptist Female University would call forth two replies in the RECORDER. I did not intend to awaken controversy. I only stated my views. I do not care to discuss the subject. I have only a few things to say, and then I am done with the subject.

I object to calling the proposed school a university. The editor of the RECORDER and Bro. Stringfield both admit in their replies that it may have been unfortunate in the Board of Trustees to call the school a university. It cannot be a university for a long time, if ever. I am opposed to the Baptists of North Carolina sailing under deceptive colors. Give the school a name in keeping with the facts represented. If you want a school of the same grade for girls that Wake Forest is for boys, then call it a college. Wake Forest is only a college. It is said that to change the name now, it would have to go back to the Legislature. Then go back and get it right.

When I spoke of the whole State being called on to furnish money to run this school, I meant, of course, the Baptists of the State. And here I would say, that I do not think the Baptists of the State should be called on to equip a school to do the same grade of work done by other female schools. If the Baptists of Raleigh want a female school, I have no objection to them having it; but if the Baptists of the whole State are to be called on to contribute money to it, then let it be as far above existing female schools, as Wake Forest College is above the male academies.

The editor misapplies my statement that a fountain cannot rise higher than its source. I meant by this that persons with only college training could not rise to the position of university teachers. I may be stupid or stubborn, but I do not yet see that my position is wrong. I stand now just where I did when I first thought the matter over.

I am glad to know that there are a few young ladies of Baptist parentage, who wish to take a more extended course of training than they can get in existing female schools.

The more I think about it, the more I incline to the opinion that the wisest and cheapest way to meet this demand is to establish at Wake Forest College a department where such young ladies can take a higher course of training. Young ladies who have finished the course in other schools would be old enough and sensible enough not to trouble the boys, or be troubled by them.

J. A. STRADLEY.

Some of our exchanges are trying to find out whether Dr. A. T. Pierson, the notable Presbyterian, has been immersed. A writer in the Advance (Congregationalist) says the fact does not seem to admit of any doubt. Dr. A. J. Gordon has publicly denied that he immersed him. Whether Dr. Pierson has been immersed or not, the fact that it must have been clandestine, and that he has never made it public, is sufficient to keep him out of a Baptist pastorate.

Brother N. B. Broughton in Union, S. C.

Dear Recorder:—On Sunday, the 25th ult., Bro. N. B. Broughton begun his labors here in our church and continued till last night. From the first service till the close, he grew in power and plainness in the presentation of the gospel. All concede that his last talk was his best. When he came among us, no one knew him but wife and I; but he is no stranger and never will be again.

The results of the meeting, as now discoverable, are most gratifying. I don't know how many professions there were. Our church at the close had received for baptism seven and restored one, five had joined the Presbyterian church, and there were some for the other churches. I know of still others for us.

Beyond this, there has seldom, if ever, been such another quickening among the Christians of this place among the churches. And just in this line is his strongest point, I think. His lay-preaching seems especially adapted to inspire other laymen with zeal and aspiration for the work.

Bro. Broughton left this evening for Morganton to attend a meeting of the Trustees of the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, carrying with him the love and prayers of the Christians of this entire town and community; but this unworthy pastor felt not the least suggestion of jealousy—may be that he is not a "preacher."

It was indeed a great delight to have him in our home, whom in other days we learned to love; but apart from this, his labors have been a benediction to our whole people. The future looks brighter, and the work here, delightful as it was before, is more so now. The Lord be praised for his coming, and may he be used of the Lord greatly at other places, and in his work at home.

Fraternally, J. N. BOOTHE.

Union, S. C., April 3, 1894.

A Disclaimer.

Dear Recorder:—I see an article from the pen of Bro. Stradley in your issue of March 28th, which, in the humble judgment of this scribe, hits the nail squarely on the head; and as one of the humblest of the Trustees of the C. B. F. Institute at Murfreesboro, I want to commend it, and ask the wiser and thoughtful brethren of our State to think seriously of what Bro. Stradley has said.

Who authorized Secretary Stringfield, in his article in the same issue, to say the Trustees of that institution (having reference to the Chowan Baptist Female Institute at Murfreesboro), hail with joy the establishment of the Female University? I have seen and talked with several of the Trustees, and not one of them think it a wise step, and how can they when the first step taken struck the institution under their charge a serious blow? The effect of the University can, in my humble judgment, do nothing less than hurt such institution in the work of preparing our daughters for usefulness in life. Our worthy Secretary of the University made a mistake when he said the Trustees of the school at Murfreesboro hailed with joy the establishment of the University. Yours sincerely,

A TRUSTEE.

Winton, April 3, 1894.

Two Faithful Men Gone to their Reward.

Dear Recorder:—Brethren Milton Stamps of Madison, N. C., and J. J. Dallas of Berry, N. C., two old and faithful soldiers of the Cross, have recently gone to their reward. The former was eighty four, and the latter about seventy-five years of age. They were modest and unassuming, but valuable and honored members of the church. Brother Stamps was one of the original members of the Madison Baptist church.

It was largely through the influence of Bro. Dallas that the Mt. Hermon Baptist church was organized.

These brethren were eminent for piety. They were dear lovers of the RECORDER, and everything that had for its object the furtherance of Christ's kingdom. Truly two good men have fallen. They died as they lived, trusting in the promises of God. They will be missed, but heaven is dearer to many of us since they have gone to rest. Each of them leaves a companion and children, but the separation will not be long. Soon we will greet them on the eternal shore.

W. H. WILSON.

March 30, 1894.

Commendatory Resolutions.

Sulphur Springs church in conference Saturday before the third Sunday in February, 1894, adopted the following:

WHEREAS, Elder J. W. Sledge of Cedar Rock, N. C., has served us so faithfully for the last eight years, and has so much endeared himself to us that we part with him reluctantly; yet a change may be for the best, and we cheerfully submit and say the Lord's will be done, and take pleasure in recommending him to the brethren and sisters as a faithful, efficient and worthy minister of the Lord, and pray that God's blessings may rest upon him, and choose for him his fields of labor and give him many souls for his hire.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, and the same be spread on our church record.

J. T. ROGERS,
J. A. SHEPHERD,
B. C. WILLIAMS,
Committee.
G. W. MAY, Mod.
J. L. ROGERS, Ch. Clerk.

The total amount received by the Treasurer for State Missions and Sunday-schools from Dec. 1st, 1893, to April 5th, 1893, was $803.33, and the total from Dec. 1st, 1893, to April 5th, 1894, was $5,865.64, just $5,057.01 more than was received last year in the same months.

Glad So Many are Going—The Recorder.

I am really glad that so many brethren are going as delegates to the Southern Baptist Convention. It is a long journey, and money is hard to get; but it will be a delightful trip. In order to go, three things are necessary—desire, clothing and money. Many of us have only got the first.

I have distributed all the sample copies of of the RECORDER you sent me, and have commended the paper. Some people who like the RECORDER have let it stop, because they say they cannot spare the money to pay for it. If they loved it as I do, I think they would say, "I cannot afford to do without it." A Baptist without his denominational paper is groping in the dark. He does not know what his brethren are doing, or what he ought to do. The reading of the RECORDER greatly increases the intelligence and usefulness of individuals and churches.

S.

To the Churches of the Pee Dee Association.

The Union Meeting of the Pee Pee Association will convene at Laurinburg, Friday before the fifth Sunday in this month. The programme will appear in due time. Churches wishing the next Association to meet with them will please send request by delegates. The naming of the place for the next meeting was left with the Executive Board. Up to this time only one church (Wadesboro) has asked for it. If any other churches want the Association to meet with them at its next session, commencing Thursday before the fourth Sunday in October, let them "speak now or hold their peace forever hereafter."

It is earnestly desired that all the churches send to the Union at Laurinburg the amount due for State Missions this quarter. By reference to the minutes can be seen the amount each church is expected to contribute for the year. If possible, please send one-fourth of the whole amount, as we greatly need funds to carry on the work within the bounds of our Association. We trust that all the churches will be represented; but those that are not will please send their contributions to State Missions to Bro. F. C. Allen, Treasurer, Wadesboro, N. C.

There will be a meeting of the Executive Board at some convenient hour during the session of the Union.

By order of the Board.

I. JOHNSON, Sec'y.

From Bro. Tobias Bright.

Dear Recorder:—Things are moving along up here in a normal manner, only the weather has been colder than usual for the last of March.

Bro. M. P. M. must be in an abormal state of mind. It seems that he wants three Southern Baptist Conventions. Why we can hardly run one, and what could we do with three? I guess that the brother did not have his bearings correct when he struck the S. B. C. question.

If I had been a member of the great Spurgeon Tabernacle of London, and Baptist as I am, when those 649 members voted for Mr. Pierson to become Spurgeon's successor in the pastorate of that church, I should have made a motion to withdraw fellowship from them. I don't know how it is in London, but we do not need men and women in American Baptist churches, who would vote for a Pedobaptist to be their pastor. My notion is, if a man is a Baptist, let him be one warp and filling, and make no compromise with heresy. This is a day of easy methods, but our great Leader says, "Watch," "try the spirits," etc.

After writing the above, and starting to my church at Waco, I met Bro. Cashwell of Hickory, N. C. Bro. C. was on an important errand, working for his struggling church at Newton, N. C. I also met G. M. Webb on his way to Shady Grove and Cherryville, where he gives to his people the pure gospel. Bro. W. seems to grow old gracefully.

Our congregations are good at Waco. We have a young people's meeting on Saturday night of our regular meeting. We are studying the New Testament. During the month of March, 15 young people read 972 chapters. A report is made, and we have songs and prayers, and the pastor lectures on some subject. The object is the development of our young members in the Christian life and in the knowledge of the Scriptures.

The Presbyterians have recently built a new church house at this place. It is a very neat building.

Some deacons were to be ordained at Zion church yesterday. Bro. T. J. Moss is pastor at Zion, and speaks of his church as being in a prosperous state.

TOBIAS BRIGHT.

Forest City, April 1, 1894.

Good Meeting at Hendersonville.

Dear Bro. Batley:—Our meeting closed last night (5th) with good results. Almost all in the town were brought under its influence. In the latter part of the meeting the business men closed their places of business day and night and came and heard the gospel. We have no idea how many professed faith in Christ for many came from the country. Up to this time we have received seventy (70) into the church. About ten of these came by letter and restoration.

Bro. White is a dear, good brother, a fine preacher, and wonderfully gifted in leading men to Christ. My people love him dearly, and no wonder they do, for he was so faithful and kind. May God continue to bless his labors. Fraternally,

D. A. GLENN.

Hendersonville, N. C.

All amounts in the hands of church treasurers, mission societies, and all collections made this month for Home and Foreign Missions should be forwarded in time to reach the Treasurer, J. D. Bonsball, by April 30th noon.

From Rockingham, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—As God is blessing our labor in Silver Run neighborhood I feel it my duty, as well as requested by the brethren, to report our work through the dear old RECORDER. Four weeks ago the Baptists had no church from Rockingham to Keyser and from Sayron to Fayetteville. So I have been informed to day we have a church with all outside work completed. Our house is 14 feet pitch by 28 wide and 42 long, 10 windows one door 4 by 8 feet high—good shingled roof, german siding, weather boarding, good floor from machine at Hoffman. Our Methodist brethren gave us the prepared flooring, and may God bless them. Bro. Thos. Wright preaches at Silver Run every second Sunday, and your humble servant every first Sunday and Saturday before. On last Saturday there were five accessions to the church by letter, and on Sunday morning I enrolled 50 names for Sunday-school. Among this number I received one old sister whose age was 80 years, others 50 and 60. May the blessings of God rest upon the church and Sunday-school. Yours in Christ,

J. H. AUSTIN.

"The South Carolina Dispensary Law."

Dear Recorder:—Under the above caption Bro. J. M. White takes it upon himself to say that, "for once some of the best people in the State (S. C) are in league with the ardent dram-drinkers, the bar rooms, the wholesalers, and the liquor associations and breweries all over the country." The charge is sweeping and unjust. As good and sensible a man as Bro. White need not, and ought not, to have written that. I write this not for controversy but because the charge misrepresents "some of the best people in the State." Bro. White says he joined neither side; then he should say nothing. He says further, that "many, very many, who at first opposed the law, and on principle, having seen much of its merits under difficulties, now endorse it." Again he's mistaken. Here are some of the facts as seen by those who see and know. The law did not go into effect till the first of last July. "Very many" of those who opposed the law were willing to wait and see it tested. But having seen it tested, or seen it at work, "very many" fail to see its "merits," because it possesses none. The dispensary is in no sense a good thing, but is certainly a less evil than the open bar-room. But being a less evil does not give it merit. Before the dispensary law was passed several of our counties were prohibition, or local option counties. Now, dispensaries, State bar rooms, are being established where liquor could not legally be sold before. Here, in Marion, we had local option, and liquor could not be sold even by druggists. Now, then, in the face of a strong petition against it, a dispensary has been established. The dispensary has been in operation here but little over one month and there has been more of the effects of drinking seen on the streets than I have seen here before in all the five years that I have lived here. "No open bars at night; no selling to men partially drunk; no selling to minors" would make the dispensary a less evil, but not a good thing. But this is not always true. Minors can get it through those who are not minors. Old topers, who have squandered their living by drunkenness, can buy it from the dispensary. I have seen dispensary bottles in the hands of such since the dispensary came to Marion. Two families have been bereaved and orphaned since the State, by gagging us, established the bar room here. To say people are in league with the liquor traffic because they oppose the dispensary is extremely unjust. "Many of the best people in the State" oppose the dispensary because they are opposed to the sale of liquor in any form. Those who oppose the dispensary are charged with being in league with bar-rooms, by bitter partisans of the law, but the charge is the sheerest sophistry, indulged for the want of argument. 'Tis true that the bar-keepers oppose the dispensary because it takes the business out of their hands. Of the two evils the dispensary is the less; but men who are opposed to the sale of liquor in any measure, and are prohibitionists from principle are not therefore in league with bar rooms as Bro. White unwittingly charges.

Nearly two years ago the people of the State polled a heavy majority for prohibition—many, like Bro. White, did not take sides—and instead of prohibition the State took charge of the business and gave us the dispensary—or forced it upon us. Therefore "many of the best people in the State" oppose the dispensary, from principle, because it is the sale of liquor for State revenue solely, and not "because Gov. B. R. Tillman championed it. Tillmanites opposed the dispensary. The dispensary has not the accompaniments of the bar room, and, in that respect, is preferable to a bar-room, as the less evil in immediate results to the community, but as a factory of drunkards, widows and orphans, in the long run, "many of the best people of the State" can see no difference in the new way and the old, as the new creates quite as much thirst for liquor as the old. Churches cannot retain a dispenser in their fellowship, no more than an old-fashioned bar-keeper.

Prohibition does not entirely prohibit the sale and use of liquor, neither does prohibition of murder entirely prohibit murder. But that does not argue that both murder and drunkenness are not lessened by prohibition. The best liquor law is to out law it, and severely punish those who sell it and those who drink it.

I have discussed neither Tillmanism, nor politics, but this purely moral question; not partisanism, but Christian ethics, upon Christian principle, in behalf of "many of the best people in the State." This and no more. M. J. WILLOUGHBY.

Marion, S. C., March 29, 1894.

Can Baptists and the Disciples (Campbellites) Unite?

This question is now being extensively discussed and strongly urged by some writers in Campbellite papers. They are giving the question much prominence by sending their papers to all the Baptist ministry throughout the country. In what is said I see the names of some prominent Baptist ministers given as favoring a union.

I have carefully read a number of the communications which have appeared, and I desire to say I appreciate the sentiment or desire for union, as I believe all who love Christ and his Word must, as the Scriptures are unmistakably against division into sects and factions among the followers of Christ. But to my mind, union with the Campbellites or Disciples, as their views of Scripture teaching now stands, is an utter impossibility. There can be no union of things which are squarely antagonistic to each other. The differences, as they now stand, are radical and irreconcilable.

First, our views of justification and theirs are radically different. We believe in justification by faith alone, while they teach that works are in order to justification—that no one is justified by God until baptism is performed. They discard legal works as being in order to justification, but say that gospel works are also. Baptists hold that works of no sort are in order to justification in the sight of God. In Gen. 15: 1—6, and the Apostle's argument drawn from the same, found in Rom. 4: 1—6 and Gal. 3: 6—14, is as clear as a sunbeam on this point. Their view of justification is anti-Scriptural and is utterly at variance with a multitude of Scriptures which declare the believer in Christ as free from condemnation. The Baptists believe in works in their place, and also believe in giving them all the prominence which the Scriptures attach to them, but not as in order to justify the soul in the sight of God.

But again, their (the Campbellite) view of the design of baptism as being a regenerating ordinance, that its purpose is to literally remit sin, and that also in the act new life is imparted to the soul, can never be accepted by Baptists. I know their theory is that the act when preceded by faith and repentance, pardon takes place in the mind of God, still it is the same thing—baptismal salvation.

As I understand Campbellism, there is very little harmony in quite a number of important particulars between their views and Baptists. When you analyze them, their views of repentance, they are radically different from ours. Also, of faith. In the statement of them, they would appear precisely alike, but in the light in which they are understood, they are very unlike.

Baptists can never accept their views of the Holy Spirit and his work. They claim that the Holy Spirit has spent all his force in the Word, and that apart from the Word the Holy Spirit exerts no influence whatever.

Then we can never accept their loose communion. While their doctrine forces them to unchristianize all Pedobaptists, yet they invite all who claim to be Christians, leaving the question of fitness to the communicants to decide for themselves.

While they claim to follow very closely the Scriptures, they invariably, as far as I have seen in their writings, change the order of stating repentance and faith from the order in which they are stated in the New Testament. The reason for this is found in the fact that they must carry out the theory or peculiar system of doctrine to which they are wedded.

I think I could have charity enough to accept and endorse all the good there is in them, and what they teach and hold, yet the differences are so deep and wide, that union is impossible.

To all who really want to understand them in their views and practices, I commend a little book entitled "The Campbellite Church," by C. N. Ray of Kirkville, Mo.

Many of our people are ignorant of their doctrine and are often unwittingly led to think they are the same in doctrine as the Baptists. They are with us in some points. They magnify the Scriptures as the supreme rule of faith and practice. They make prominent immersion only as baptism and discard infant baptism. They discard all sorts of manipulations such as the anxious seat, rising for prayer, extending the hand in token of resolution to reform, &c.

In their organized relations, they are very much alike us. I am satisfied they have done some good in that they have prompted a closer study of the Bible, and have caused some practices to be abandoned; but with the good, they have done a harm which eternity can never blot out. Souls deceived under the idea that in baptism their sins were blotted out, who have gone to eternity with their baptismal pardons, have realized a mistake which can never be remedied.

S. F. CONRAD.

Winston, April 5, 1894.

Rev. N. S. Jones of Salisbury made a pleasant visit to our office last Monday. He spoke in very high terms of his pastorate.

Rev. Rufus Ford writes from Newbern: "Baptized seventeen yesterday (8th). Others will follow. Received several 'stray Baptists.' One good which a genuine revival does is reaching stray Baptists."

Dr. N. B. Cobb writes from Dunn, April 9th: "Our meeting at Dunn has opened very encouragingly. A large congregation and three penitents last night at our second preaching service. We shall continue through the week with two services a day, one at 4 p. m., the other at 8 p. m. I am looking for Dr. Mundy from Wilson this afternoon. This is an important field and a genuine revival of religion is much needed. Dr. W. B. Harrell is sick with grippe. Several others are in bed with same disease."

A number of communications are crowded out of this issue. They will appear in course.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

enough under "Grace of God governments," but they find no ground of practical application to modern republican confederations; they have no bearing on governments as purely human agencies, with defined powers and limited responsibilities. Moreover, for most Americans, these arguments prove a great deal too much; for if they have the least tendency to persuade us that governments should direct any part of secular education, with how much greater force do they apply to the conduct by government of the religious education of the people. * * Now, if a beneficent Christian government may rightly leave the people to provide themselves with religious institutions, surely it may leave them to provide suitable universities for the education of their youth. And here, again, the question is by no means synonymous with the question, "shall the country have good university education or not?" The only question is, Shall we have a university supported and controlled by government, or shall we continue to rely upon universities supported and controlled by other agencies? * *

"We indeed want to breed scholars, artists, poets, historians, novelists, engineers, physicians, jurists, theologians, and orators; but first of all we want to breed a race of independent, self-reliant freemen, capable of helping, guiding and governing themselves. Now the habit of being helped by the government, even if it be to things good in themselves,—to churches, universities, and railroads,—is a most insidious and irresistible enemy of republicanism; for the very essence of republicanism is self-reliance. With the continental nations of Europe, it is an axiom that the government is to do everything, and is responsible for everything. * * This abject dependence on the government is an accursed inheritance from the days of the divine right of kings. Americans, on the contrary, maintain precisely the opposite theory, namely, that government is to do nothing not expressly assigned it to do; that it is to perform no function which any private agency can perform as well; and that it is not to do a public good, even, unless that good be otherwise unattainable. It is hardly too much to say that this doctrine is the foundation of our public liberty. So long as the people are really free, they will maintain it in theory and in practice. * * The fatal objection to this subsidizing process is that it saps the foundations of public liberty. The only adequate securities of public liberty are the national habits, traditions, and character, acquired and accumulated in the practice of liberty and self-control. Interrupt these traditions, break up these habits, or cultivate the opposite ones, or poison that national character, and public liberty will suddenly be found defenceless.

"We deceive ourselves dangerously when we think or say that education, whether primary or university, can guarantee republican institutions. Education can do no such thing. A republican people should indeed be educated and intelligent, but it by no means follows that an educated an intelligent people will be republican. * * Let us cling fast to the genuine American method * * in the matter of public instruction. The essential features of that system are local taxes for universal elementary education, voted by the citizens themselves; local elective boards to spend the money raised by taxation and to control the schools; and, for the higher grades of instruction, permanent endowments administered by incorporated bodies of trustees. This is the American voluntary system, in sharp contrast with the military, despotic organization of public institutions which prevails in Prussia and most other States of continental Europe. Both systems have peculiar advantages, the crowning advantage of the American method being that it breeds freemen."

The (English) Quarterly Review for October also presents a comparison between the working of the two theories: "This idea of the individual employing, in free conjunction with his fellow citizens, the social forms which he can modify at pleasure, instead of being employed and moulded by them, runs through American society from end to end. The originality of the American mind is shown precisely at this point, where it differs as much, to say the least, from the French, with their bureaucracy and their despotism, as it does from the conservative English. In all these varieties of government * * the small number who have held political office were not only authorized, but required to see to it that a given ideal should be realized by the people. They have been looked upon as creators of a definite type of education, of religious training, or of artistic culture, * * as charged with the responsibility of the nation in much the same sense as a father is charged with the proper bringing up of his children. So familiar and so sacred is this notion to Europeans, that any assault upon it, even now, is thought by most to be a token of a godless and prodigate disposition." But in America "the functions of a Church, or a University, or an Academy of Science and Art, all of which have been exercised directly by European governments, or under their supervision and influence, in America belong to private and voluntary associations, which last only so long as the individuals composing them think fit, and not a moment longer. * * Universities abound in America of varying excellence. * * But their quaint personal names would be proof enough, were any needed, that to private individuals their foundation has been due, as by private Boards of Management they are carried on. * * Their standing with the public depends solely on the success which they happen to achieve. * * Science, research, and intellectual training, when it passes the standard of the Common Schools, are no more established than is religion. Yet on this account, as Americans believe, and as Mr. Bryce repeats, the principle of individual beneficence has grown mightily. * * And throughout the country, hospitals and seats of learning, just endowed, seem to affirm the law which Mr. Spencer formulates, that, with free institutions, private persons will of themselves undertake all that paternal governments have attempted for the happiness of their subjects. The advantage, it is clear, remains with the American system."

It is, of course, conceded that the people of a State, in the exercise of their sovereignty, have the right to adopt the paternal theory of government, if they choose to do so. But if they do so, they must be consistent, and carry it out in practice in all directions. The giving of higher education by a State can be justified only on the principles of paternalism in State policy. Unless, therefore, they are willing to accept these principles, it is inconsistent, for the people to provide higher education by taxation. And practice which is not in harmony with accepted principles is not right.

(To be continued.)

New Testament Studies—No. 7.

BY HIGHT C. MOORE.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO JOHN.

1. Author. Although the authorship of the fourth Gospel has been hotly contested, there is little reason to believe that it was written by any one else than the "beloved disciple." John was the son of Zebedee and Salome. His father was a successful fisherman living at Bethsaida on the shores of the sea of Galilee. At first one of the disciples of John the Baptist, he with his brother James early enlisted among the followers of Jesus. He was probably the youngest of the apostles, and although the name assigned to the sons of Zebedee (Boanerges, sons of Thunder) indicates vehemence, it is likely that John possessed a warm, affectionate nature. He was known as the "disciple whom Jesus loved," and with James and Peter was admitted to special intimacy with our Lord, notably on the Mount of Transfiguration and in the garden of Gethsemane. With faithful zeal, he alone of all the disciples, save Peter, followed his Master through the various forms of mock-justice to the execution on Calvary. There the crucified Lord entrusted his weeping mother to the care of John. On the morning of the resurrection, John was the first disciple to reach the empty tomb. After the ascension he lived chiefly in Jerusalem, associated closely in his work with Peter. Upon the death of Mary about 48 A. D., he removed from Jerusalem to Ephesus, and began active measures toward the development and establishment of churches in Asia Minor. He was severely persecuted, and tradition says he was carried to Rome during the reign of Domitian and cast without hurt into a caldron of boiling oil. Thence he was sent to work in the mines on the isle of Patmos. When liberated on the accession of Nerva to the throne, he returned to Ephesus to prosecute his plans and protest against the numerous heresies of his day. He died about the close of the first century.

2. Date. John is the latest of the Gospels and perhaps also the latest of the New Testament books. It was written in the latter part of the first century, probably between 90 and 95 A. D. Early writers are divided on Ephesus and Patmos as the place of composition; the weight of evidence favors the latter locality where the apostle spent the declining years of his long life.

3. Design. The fourth Gospel was written primarily for the churches in Ephesus and western Asia Minor. Tradition says that John wrote his recollections of our Lord's life and teachings at the request of the churches which had grown up under his instruction and oversight. The author himself (John 20: 31) declares: "These things are written that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye may have life through his name." He unveils the divine nature of Jesus, and throughout the entire book he adheres closely to the doctrine given in the Prologue: "The Word was God ... and the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us."

4. Comparison with the Synoptics. The relation of John to the Synoptic Gospels is peculiar, and a few points of comparison may be noted to advantage. (1) Matthew, Mark, and Luke dwell chiefly on the life of Jesus in Galilee; John records the ministry in Judea. (2) John gives more numerous and decisive proofs of the divinity of Christ than the other Gospels. (3) Much of the matter of the Synoptists is given at second-hand; the record by John is that of an eye witness. (4) "In the first three Gospels the utterances of Jesus are terse and epigrammatic; in the fourth, they are discursive and argumentative." (5) John declares the deity and portrays the spiritual personality of Christ; the other Gospels lay their chief stress upon his works and teachings. (6) In John our Lord attends at least three Passovers; in the others, but one. (7) Aside from the Passion, John relates only three facts in common with the Synoptics: feeding the five thousand, the storm on the sea of Galilee, and the anointing of the Saviour's feet by Mary. (8) John is the latest of the Gospel writers, and his book may properly be regarded a supplement to the Synoptic Gospels.

5. The Prologue. Embracing the first eighteen verses of the book, "The Prologue divides into three paragraphs: verses 1—5, the Word as Life and Light; verses 6—13, the Word manifested in history; verses 14—18, personal witness to the glory of the Word. John, writing to Christian believers and Christian churches, begins his book by announcing in these three clusters of memorable sentences, (1) certain fundamental facts of the Christian faith, (2) the organic beginnings of that faith, and (3) the personal verification of the revelation on which it is based. The object of the Prologue as a whole appears to be to announce the leading truths and facts which the writer was to set forth in his history and his own personal relation to them."

6. Facts and Features. (1) John records seven visits of Jesus to Jerusalem. (2) Special stress is laid on the last utterances of Christ. (3) None of the parables of our Lord are given, and only seven of his miracles wrought before the resurrection. (4) A large part of the book is devoted to a record of the Passion Week. (5) The fourth Gospel abounds in striking metaphor to describe the character and work of Christ; as "True Vine," "Good Shepherd," "Bread of Life," "Light," &c. (6) The words employed by John are few, the language familiar; the style remarkably simple, and the thought specially profound. (7) In the noteworthy unity of its plan and composition, this work is not surpassed in the whole range of literature. (8) It faithfully records the testimony of numerous witnesses to the mission of Christ from the fearless Baptist, guileless Nathanael and hesitating Nicodemus to doubting Thomas and impetuous Peter. (9) John omits the predictions of our Lord concerning the destruction of Jerusalem and the dispersion of the Jews. (10) To John we are indebted for the first recorded discourse of Jesus (to Nicodemus, chapter 3) and for an account of his first miracle (turning water into wine, chapter 2: 1—11) and the first of his public acts (cleansing the temple, chapter 2: 13—16) (11) This book, remarkable alike for sublimity and simplicity, has justly been styled "the very crown and glory of the Bible."

7. Contents. The following outline of John, showing the general structure of the book and intended as a table of contents for reference and an aid to systematic study, is based on Stevens' analysis of the historical books of the New Testament.

I. THE GOSPEL PROCLAIMED.

1. Prologue—announcement of John the Baptist—Jesus the Messiah—the first believers—departure into Galilee.
2. First miracle—first cleansing of the temple.
3. Discourse with Nicodemus—John at Enon.
4. Samaritan woman—healing nobleman's son.

II. THE GOSPEL REJECTED.

5. Healing infirm man—discourse before Jewish rulers.
6. Feeding five thousand—walking on water—discourse: Bread of Life.
7. At the feast of Tabernacles—vindicatory discourse—Jews divided.
8. Woman taken in adultery—discourse with Pharisees—on spiritual freedom and sonship.
9. Healing a man born blind.
10. The Good Shepherd—at the feast of Dedication.
11. Raising Lazarus—withdrawal to Ephraim.
12. Mary anoints the Saviour's feet—triumphal entry—Gentiles seeking Jesus—the rejected gospel.

III. LAST DISCOURSES OF CHRIST.

13. Washing the disciples' feet—betrayal announced—discourse with the eleven begun in the upper room.
14. The promise of the Spirit.
15. The believers' union with Christ.
16. The work of the Spirit—promise of Christ's return and his people's victory.
17. The prayer of Christ.

IV. THE TRIAL AND CRUCIFIXION.

18. The arrest—in the highpriest's palace—before Pilate.
19. Before Pilate—crucifixion—burial.

V. THE RESURRECTION.

20. The empty tomb—appearance to Mary Magdalene—subsequent appearances in Jerusalem—conclusion of the book.

VI. SUPPLEMENT.

21. Appearance to seven disciples by the sea of Galilee—conversation with Peter—second conclusion of the book.

For Sleeplessness,

Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate,

and you who toss and turn all night, and long and long for sleep to come, will obtain it.

Never fear to bring the sublimest comfort to the smallest trouble.

Absolutely Free.

A BUSINESS EDUCATION TO ONE WORTHY GIRL OR BOY IN EACH COUNTY.

The Georgia-Alabama Business College, Macon, Ga., which is heartily endorsed by press and pulpit, now generously proposes to give to one worthy boy or girl in each county of North Carolina a thorough business course without charge, as it has recently done for those of Georgia. All interested should apply at once.

Breathe, asleep and awake, through the nostrils only. Open your mouth when you wish to eat and talk. Nature makes no mistakes. The nostrils were made to breathe through, not the mouth. When you leave a room, close the lips, and use the nose as God intended. More oxygen and ozone are thereby taken into the internal passages, the lungs will be more expanded, the chest broadened, your health better preserved and life lengthened. If you involuntarily open your mouth in sleeping, then bandage it until the habit of keeping the lips closed in sleep is acquired.

The cords of love are silken; and he who begins with setting before himself the largeness of Christ's gifts to him, will not fail in using these so as to increase them.—McLaren.

He that is careful not to do any more than his bare duty is doing less than his duty.

Consciousness of a mission is a great brace in a stormy day.

The Western Recorder gives the following spicy hit of a lad to a lady reprover: A lady reproved a boy for taking the eggs from a bird's nest. She said to him: "O cruel, heartless little wretch to rob a poor bird of her eggs." But the boy turned the tables on her with great effectiveness: "That's the mother bird you've got on your bonnet. Guess she won't care."

Tears are but finite; 'tis but awhile that we shall weep; after a few showers that fall from our eyes, we shall have a perpetual sunshine. In heaven the battle of tears is stopped.—T. Watson.

Every sincere wish and prayer for goodness is sure to help on our spiritual progress, directly or indirectly. By one road or another, it brings us nearer God.—Clarke.

The true Christian is like the sun, which pursues its noiseless track and everywhere leaves the effect of its beams in blessing upon the world around him.—Luther.

The way of the transgressor never was an easy one and never will be.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Bartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, S B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Fonshee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

Skin

diseases are caused by impure or depleted blood. The blood ought to be pure and rich. It is made so by the Cream of Cod-liver Oil. Scrofula and Anæmia are overcome also, and Healthy Flesh is built up. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Scott's Emulsion

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

Only the Scars Remain.

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

For the cure of all diseases originating in impure blood, the best remedy is

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 05 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	3 05 p m		5 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 66. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma.		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 20 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 50 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.50 a m, Greenville 8.39 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m; arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6 05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leave Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4 10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.30 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.

J. R. KENLY, General Manager.

T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

"In the Observatory."

BY M. P. M.

"HERE'S MY HAND, BRO. VANN."

My hand may not reach you for "a spell," but I am so well pleased with your discussion with the Messenger editor, and your manly plea for purity before heroism, that I hasten to start my hand in that direction. I am myself a "secesh" and hard to "reconstruct," and when a man is faithful in his defence of what he believed to be right, I honor him; but when that same man is such a sinner as was Gen. Early, I am under no obligations to cover up his sins, and I for one am glad that our beloved brother of Scotland Neck spoke out in earnest protest against such wholesale commendation as the Messenger perpetrated. I read carefully both sides, and if I am any judge, the Messenger did not maintain its position. This disposition to cover up the sins of men great in some respects, and hold them up to the emulation of our young men, is fraught with grave consequences, and deserves just such a scathing rebuke as the Messenger received at the hands of Bro. Vann.

"THAT PROMISE."

I promised some time ago that I would not always agree with the positions of the RECORDER, and if I don't "hurry up" and disagree with you, you will conclude that I "was just joking." I am not alike Bro. J. M. White—I believe in controversy, and am never afraid that any harm will come out of it, if it is done in the spirit of fairness; but I did not start out to write a disquisition on controversy, but to controvert the RECORDER'S position in the issue of March 21st on the "temperance question." There are two or three things which I want to put over against yours and see how they look together.

I believe in moral suasion, and I do not believe that this method of fighting the liquor traffic has fallen into disrepute. It is true that efforts are not now devoted to this line alone, and yet every address in the interest of legal suasion is a mighty appeal to total abstinence, and I am persuaded that efforts for the suppression of the liquor traffic have resulted in far more total abstainers than old methods.

The editorial in question is one in favor of moral suasion against legal force. It is not difficult to decide which is the more successful, and in which it is wisest to spend time and money. Take those States in which prohibition has been secured by legal enactment and compare these when they have depended in the main upon moral suasion, and there is no comparison as to the amount of liquor used. I am not speaking at second hand, but from personal investigation and observation, both in Kansas and Iowa, and yet these States have been handicapped because often the officers of the law, whose duty it was to enforce the law, were elected by a political party opposed to the law. Such experience has been a large factor in the formation of a political platform, not with one idea, but with this as the dominant one, and this I am constrained to believe is the only hope of our country, and while I stand by the question of moral suasion, I believe in the other also.

"OUR HANDS TIED."

I have not sent one dollar toward it from my field—not because I was indifferent, but because "my hands were tied." The same was true of most of the pastors in our Association. At the meeting of our Association in October, the Executive Committee expressed themselves as anxious to do as near all the mission work necessary to be done in our bounds without calling on the State Board, as possible, and therefore asked the churches to notify them how much of their contributions for Associational and State missions they would send to them. On the promise of these churches, they made appropriations for mission work, and hence our hands were tied, so we could do nothing in the special appeal. These facts I feel ought to be known in justice to the pastors and churches in this Association.

Buckingham's Dye for the whiskers is the best, handiest, safest, surest, cleanest, most economical and satisfactory dye ever invented. It is the gentleman's favorite.

From South Carolina.

Dear Bro. Batley:—I enjoy the weekly visits of the BIBLICAL RECORDER. I am taking six Baptist papers, and my wife thinks that the RECORDER is as good as any of them, and I suspect that she is about right. Some time ago I saw some resolutions from a local church, commending Rev. J. F. Tuttle and his good wife. They will commend themselves wherever they go. He and his good lady are well spoken of for their work's sake wherever they have labored.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

It was my privilege to spend a few days with the saints at Burlington the first week in last December, and to say that I enjoyed my visit, but faintly expresses it. Burlington has been a hard field for the Baptists, but the truth is mighty and will prevail. From the thirteen constituent members with which they organized six years ago last summer, they have grown to nearly two hundred. In the mean time a colony of thirty-five have been lettered off to form a new church. The majority of the present membership are poor people, but they are among the best people that I ever knew. With much self-denial they have erected a beautiful little church. Bro. J. H. Cates deserves credit for the prominent part he took in erecting this beautiful church. But the whole church deserves credit for their heroic sacrifices. They are trying hard to pay off the remaining indebtedness on the house. I hope they will succeed. Their pastor, Rev. J. G. Hocutt, is one of the most capable men I ever met, and is certainly a good pastor. During his two years at Burlington, his labors have been signally blessed. Everybody in Burlington look upon Bro. Hocutt as a consecrated Christian gentleman. Though feeble in body, he has a beautiful soul. May he yet be spared many years to work in the Master's vineyard.

G. S. DAUGHERTY.

The Baptists and Disciples Again.

Dear Brother:—Some weeks ago, we, the undersigned pastors, held a pleasant conference in which the points of difference and agreement of our respective churches were freely discussed. From this frank and candid expression of views it was evident to some extent that the Baptist and Disciples had misunderstood each other.

These points of agreement were noted and formulated into a statement, which was submitted to hundreds of prominent brethren in both denominations and also to several editors. In the replies which have been received, many accept that statement as a satisfactory declaration of their views, as Baptists and as Disciples, others suggest some modifications, or verbal changes for the sake of clearness, and a few reject the statement entire, giving as a main reason for rejecting it, that they fear that an effort to bring these two bodies together and into close fellowship might be attended with some confusion and provoke dissensions. These letters and communications have been carefully read, and the document alluded to has been amended as far as possible in accordance with the suggestions. The statement is not intended to be a compromise, or surrender of any gospel truth, but an expression of agreement in the interpretation of the Scriptures.

It is not intended as a creed for churches which have none, nor as a substitute for a declaration of faith for churches, which have such declaration, but only as a statement of agreement on many vital doctrines concerning which it has been thought there were wide and irreconcilable differences. It is given as information, being the result of a concensus of opinions of many wise brethren in the United States, sincerely sought for the sake of the truth. As to the use which may be made of it, that is left to every individual conscience, and to every local church which may feel concerned in the matter. It is certainly not designed to multiply sects, nor stir up bitter disputations, but rather to prevent misrepresentations and misconstruction, to allay strife, and, if possible, to solidify the kingdom of Christ, and bring his followers into closer fellowship, and to fill them more and more with that desire which he expressed in his prayer to the Father, "That they all may be one, that the world may believe that thou has sent me."

Yours very truly,

G. A. NUNNALLY,
Pastor Con. Bap church.
J. A. BROOKS,
Pastor Christian church.

Memphis, Tenn.

A STATEMENT OF DOCTRINAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE DISCIPLES AND THE BAPTISTS.

1. The word of God is an all-sufficient rule of faith and practice.

2 It teaches that there is one true God, revealed as the everlasting Father, the only begotten Son and the Holy Spirit, who made all things that were made.

3. It teaches that he made man in a state of innocence, who by transgression passed under condemnation, and condemnation has passed upon all men for all have sinned.

4 It teaches that God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, who died for our sins and was buried and rose again for our justification, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life.

5. It teaches that Jesus Christ ascended to the right hand of the Father, and is become the mediator between God and man, and has sent the Holy Spirit to convince the world of sin, of righteousness and judgment, and to regenerate and sanctify men by the Word of Truth and lead them to observe all thing whatsoever he has commanded.

6 It teaches that it is the duty of every man to believe on Christ as the Son of God and repent of his sins and be zealous of good works.

7. It teaches that they will be called and justified and glorified whom God hath from the beginning chosen unto salvation through the sanctification of the Spirit and the belief of the truth.

8. It teaches that there will be a resurrection from the dead and a final judgement, at which the wicked shall be forever seperated from the righteous, the wicked going away into everlasting punishment and the righteous into life eternal.

9 It teaches that a church of Christ, by which title an organized body of his followers should be known, is composed of person, who have gladly heard the gospel, sincerely repented of their sins and heartily believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, and have been willingly baptized.

10. It teaches that the ordinances appointed by Jesus to be observed in his church are: first, the baptism, symbolizing his burial and resurrection; second, the supper, commemorating his sufferings and death. The officers are: pastors, who are also called bishops or elders; and deacons, who are the stewards of the organized membership.

Excuses to God.

How sad the delusion that Satan is impressing upon the minds of many that they can give God an excuse for non-performance of duty, and that God will accept it. A greater falsehood never existed. When it is not within our power to perform an act, God does not require it; hence it does not become a duty. But when it is within our power, it becomes a duty, and God will accept no excuse for a non-performance of that duty. To this position we fear no successful contradiction. How little and insignificant appear the many and trivial excuses given when viewed from this standpoint! Many upon this plea are found absent from the house of God on the Lord's Day, absent from the prayer meeting, and absent from the Sunday-school.—Selected.

God's Wisdom.

In his own good time God takes his people out of the world. He could easily, if it so pleased him, keep them out of the reach of trouble; but he allows us to know the annoyances and sorrows of earth, and one reason is that we may know the abundance of his grace in the peace with which he can fill our souls. He gives us hope as the anchor of our souls, and he wills that we shall prove its power. We may sometimes be chargeable with little faith, but we are not called to any trial above that we are able to bear. Out of weakness God's people are made strong. While his providence tries our faith, his spirit is strengthening it.—Christian Inquirer.

The True Baptist Line.

To the Delegates and Visitors to the Southern Baptist Convention:—The relations between this line and the Southern Baptists have been so evenly pleasant, so intimate and so long continued, that to many of you it will be only necessary to announce that for the accommodation of those who wish to attend the Southern Baptist Convention, to be held in Dallas, Texas, May 11th—14th, 1894, we will provide for them on the same liberal lines as in the past, but to those to whom we may yet be strangers, we desire to say that these arrangements will consist of special trains composed of Through Free Reclining Chair Cars and Pullman Buffet Sleepers, accompanied from starting point to destination by competent, experienced agents of our line, whose sole aim will be to contribute to the comfort and pleasure of our patrons and serve them in any way necessary to achieve this end.

As endorsers of our competency to carry out fully all these arrangements, and our record for fulfilling to the letter all promises, we take pleasure in referring to our old friends who have gone with us in previous years. We will be pleased to have you communicate with us at your earliest convenience, stating whether you will desire sleeping-car accommodations, and from what station you wish to leave, when we will furnish you with full details showing departure of trains from your station, time enroute, arrival at Dallas, and rates of fare.

Remember there is no tedious and uncertain river transfer via the Cotton Belt route, as our trains cross the Mississippi on the wonderful steel Cantilever bridge at Memphis. Trusting we may be allowed to serve you, we remain, respectfully,

FRED. H. JONES, D. P. A.

Atlanta, Ga.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

It doesn't take much talk from a theatre going professor to choke the life out of a prayer-meeting.—Ram's Horn.

If out of order, use Beecham's pills.

Culture may polish, but it cannot change the grain or the wood.

This ought to be our endeavor: to conquer ourselves and daily wax stronger, and make further growth in holiness.—Thomas a Kempis.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cuticura SOAP

The most Effective Skin Purifying and Beautifying Soap in the World. The Purest, Sweetest and Most Refreshing for Toilet Bath and Nursery.

Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MACRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	DAILY. No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 10 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 2 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 20 p m	5 20 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	5 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	6 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 05 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 36 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 08 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	DAILY. No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 50 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	3 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 03 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*6 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	2 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 30 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a m daily except Sunday, 11:45 a m, daily, and 6:30 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL. HAAS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville Junc	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	3 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	3 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	5 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	6 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	6 33 p m
Lv Rural Hall	6 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bonnetsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 50 a m
Lv Climax			8 43 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv. Walnut Cove	11 43 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville Junc	4 35 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 58 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 08 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bonnetsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 06 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 55 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bonnetsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. R. KYLE, Gen Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.			No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar 11 45 a m
3 20 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar 11 25 a m
3 53 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv 11 02 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv 10 29 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv 10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv 9 25 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar 9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv 7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv 6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv 5 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar 5 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv 4 06 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv 3 29 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv 2 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv 5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv 10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar 3 20 a m
11 20 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv 3 15 a m
11 52 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv 2 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv 1 55 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv 12 13 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv 11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv 10 36 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv 10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv 9 00 p m
6 15 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv 8 06 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv 7 26 p m
9 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Eastern	Lv 5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Centr'l	Lv 4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.		No. 38.
2 00 p m	Lv	New York	Ar 1 20 p m
4 30 p m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar 10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv	†Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar 7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv	Old Point	Ar 7 00 p m
9 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth	Lv 6 00 p m
9 25 a m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar 5 45 p m
12 03 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv 3 09 p m
12 15 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar 3 00 p m
12 30 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv 1 09 p m
4 10 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv 11 13 a m
4 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar 11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv 9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Ar 7 38 a m
7 20 p m†	Ar	Fayetteville	Lv 8 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar	Wilmington	Lv 5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv 10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 p m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers, Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charlotte; No 41, Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with Through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, etc., apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cook, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH Traffic Manager.
L. T. MYERS Gen Supt.
JNO. C. WILL Gen. Man.

Rates to Southern Baptist Convention.

This body meets in Dallas, Texas, commencing May 11th, 1894.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THE BOARD.

The Board of Missions and Sunday-schools have appointed the following-named delegates to this Convention:

C. E. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Jordan, J. S. Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. G. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. H. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O. L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, R. Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, S. F. Conrad, J. B. Boone, G. M. Hackler, J. H. Morrisette, A. W. Early, O. J. Carroll, R. H. Moore, J. H. Austin, J. D. Hufham, G. M. Duke, J. T. J. Battle.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATION.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honneycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Kesler; Raleigh, N. B. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

RAILROAD RATES TO DALLAS.

The following are the rates fixed by the So. Pas. Association to Dallas, Texas:

From Asheville, $34 80; Charlotte, 36 30; Durham, 36 30; Fayetteville, 36 30; Gastonia, 35 70; Gibson, 36 30; Goldsboro, 37 30; Greensboro, 36 30; Hamlet, 36 30; Henderson, 36 30; Maxton, 36.30; Monroe, 36 30; Raleigh, 36 30; Sanford, 36 30; Salisbury, 36 30; Selma, 37 30; Wadesboro, 36 30; Weldon, 37.30; Wilmington, 37 30; Winston-Salem, 36 30.

I am glad to be able to announce that a rate of one full fare for the round trip has been authorized from all points in the territory of the Southern Passenger Association, and from all roads leading to Dallas, Texas, on the west of the Mississippi river.

Tickets to be on sale May 7th to 9th, inclusive, from all points east of the L. & N. R. R., and May 8th to 10th, inclusive, from points on and west of L. & N. R. R.

Tickets to be of iron clad signature form, of continuous passage going, and good for thirty days utmost limit returning.

O. F. GREGORY.
Secretary in Charge Transportation.
Baltimore, Md., Ayril 4, 1894.

Dr. O. F. Gregory, one of the secretaries of the Southern Baptist Convention, and all the Maryland delegation; Drs. John William Jones, R. J. Willingham, H. H. Harris, and a number of other Virginians; Dr. Simms of Raleigh; Rev. R. T. Bryan and a large number of North Carolinians have selected the following route to Dallas: Richmond and Danville to Birmingham; K. C. M. and B. to Memphis; Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas; M. K. T. to Dallas. This route affords superior facilities and the quickest schedules for handling the delegation. There is no "official" route to the Convention, statements to the contrary notwithstanding. Persons desiring sleeping car accommodations will notify Dr. Oliver F. Gregory, Baltimore, Md., without further delay. Arrangements have been made for an excursion from Dallas to Mexico. The cost of this trip, it is thought, will not exceed $21. For further information, address John M. Beall, 920 E. Main street, Richmond, Va.

SEABOARD AIR LINE COMMENDED.

In an honest effort to serve our brethren, we have carefully investigated the advantages of the various routes to Dallas, Texas, to attend the next session of the Southern Baptist Convention, and have selected the Seaboard Air Line to Atlanta, thence via Montgomery, Mobile, New Orleans, Shreveport and Marshall.

The Seaboard Air Line, with its connections, in our opinion, is in position to do the best things for the largest number of our delegates this year. We have seen personally Mr. Anderson, Mr. Bush, and Mr. Word, of these Systems, and have from them every promise of the best in every respect that can be done.

C. DURHAM,
Cor. Sec. Bap. St. Convention.
N. B. BROUGHTON,
Rec. Sec. Bap. St. Convention.
Raleigh, March 10, 1894.

N. B.—Delegates from Virginia can address Rev. Dr. M. B. Wharton and Rev. Dr. J. J. Hall, Norfolk, Va.; Rev. Dr. A. E. Owen, Portsmouth, Va.

ANOTHER ROUTE COMMENDED.

After carefully considering the various lines with a view to securing the best possible route to our next annual Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, 1894, we have determined to use the following lines:

Richmond & Danville to Birmingham, Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham to Memphis, the Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas, M. K. & T. to Dallas.

There is no "Official Route" for delegates to this Convention, statements of railroad agents and others to the contrary notwithstanding. This route via Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, (The Cotton Belt), Texarkana and Greenville, with its double daily through train service to and from Dallas, affords superior facilities for handling our people.

The Maryland and District of Columbia delegations will leave Washington May 7th, via Richmond & Danville R. R. Vestibule Limited, at 10:48 p. m. and be joined at the various points below by delegates from Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia.

The following will be the schedule of this vestibule train, round trip rate:

Leave Washington, R & D. R. R. 10:48 p. m. May 7, $38 30; Charlottesville 1:55 a. m. May 8, 36 80; Lynchburg 3:48 a. m. May 8, 36 80; Richmond 12:50 a. m May 8, 37.30; Danville 5:40 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Raleigh 1 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Goldsboro 6:54 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Salisbury 8:13 a. m. May 8, 35 10; Charlotte 9:35 a. m. May 8, 33 65; Spartanburg 11:37 a. m. May 8, 31 10; Greenville 12:28 p. m. May 8, 30 00; Gainesville 3:29 p. m. May 8. 26 50; arrive at Atlanta 8:55 p. m. May 8, 24 90; Anniston, Ga. Pac. R'y, 7:55 p. m. May 8; Birmingham 10:20 p m. May 8; Memphis, K. C., M. & B. R. R 7:25 a. m. May 9; leave Memphis, Cotton Belt route 7:45 a. m. May 9; Dallas, M. K & T. 7:00 a. m. May 10.

There will be special Pullman cars on this train for the accommodation of delegates and their friends. Those desiring sleeping car berths will please notify the undersigned at once in order that sufficient accommodations may by provided. The rate will be one first-class fare for the round trip as above, and sleeping car berths about two dollars per night.

At Memphis we will be joined by the Tennessee and Kentucky delegations, and from starting point to destination will be accompanied by experienced passenger agents of the several lines, who will see to our comfort and every convenience on this, which promises to be indeed a pleasant trip.

Fraternally,
REV. H. H. HARRIS, Richmond, Va.
REV. A. M. SIMMS, Raleigh, N. C.
REV. O. F. GREGORY, Baltimore, Md.

Why undergo terrible sufferings and endanger your life when you can be cured by Japanese Pile Cure; guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Western Union, Raleigh Association.

This body will meet with Inwood church, Saturday, April 28th, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m.

SUGGESTED PROGRAM.

Prayer and praise service, followed by organization. Recess.

1. Should a church enforce attendance of members at her regular meetings? If so, how?

2. Should a church compel her members to give of their means for church expenses? If so, how?

3. Wherein do Baptists differ from other Christian people?

4. A call to the ministry defined.

5. How can we give the gospel to the destitute "these hard times?"

6. How can we improve on our present methods of Sunday school work?

Sabbath services to be provided for by the Union.

As the meetings on Friday are generally thinly attended, the pastor (Bro. A. D. Hunter) and church request that delegates and others meet promptly at 10 o'clock on Saturday. They desire a good meeting. Let every church and Sunday-school be represented. Come, brethren, let us meet with them and do two days of good work.

J. M. WHITE

EASTERN UNION.

The next session of the Eastern Union of the Raleigh Association will be held with Blackman's Grove Baptist church, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 27th, 28th, and 29th, 1894. This is the church recently constituted at Blackman's Cross Roads.

PROGRAM.

Introductory sermon at 11 a. m., on Friday by Rev. R. C. Wallace.

Friday afternoon.—How to have the revival spirit in our churches all the year and at every service. Rev. Worley Creech.

Why do Baptist churches require of candidates for admission into fellowship, some evidence of regeneration before receiving them? Rev. F. H. Poston.

Saturday Morning.—What is our Scriptural authority for having Sunday-schools and neighborhood prayer-meetings? Who should attend and participate in them? J. M. Beaty.

Why do Baptists believe in, and give their support to missions? J. M. Broughton.

Saturday Afternoon.—Why do Missionary Baptists refuse to practice foot-washing as a church ordinance, and do not invite members of other denominations to their communion? O. C. Horton.

What does the Bible say about our giving of our means to support the gospel, and to help the poor? How often and how much ought we to give? N. B. Broughton and J. T. Holt.

Sunday Morning.—The Sunday-school: its importance for the old as well as the young. Short talks by several brethren. Service to be conducted by J. M. Beaty.

Missionary sermon at 11 a. m. by O. C. Horton.

It is hoped that every church in the Union will send a full delegation and a liberal contribution to forward our mission work.

O. C. HORTON, for Com.

Magnetic Nervine quiets the nerves, drives away bad dreams, and gives quiet rest and peaceful sleep. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drugstore, Raleigh, N. C.

The semi-centennial number of the University Magazine, due March 22d, will not be issued till the 23d of April. It will be a double number, profusely illustrated with views of buildings and grounds in 1844 and in 1894, portraits of the faculty of 1844 and 1894, an illustrated history of the Magazine, and very many other things of unusual interest. This number will be issued from the University Press at Chapel Hill.

Franklin County Union.

The next meeting of the Franklin County Union will be held with the church at Red Bud, commencing on Saturday before the fifth Sunday in April at 10:30 a. m.

QUERIES FOR DISCUSSION.

1. In what respect was man made in the image of God? Jno. W. Sledge, J. A. Coppedge.

2. What should be done with a member of the church who neglects or refuses to commune? Rev. George May, T. S. Collie.

3. What relation ought our churches to bear to the Sunday school? Rev. G. M. Duke, Rev. G. W. Newell.

4. Our Foreign Missions: their claims upon us. Rev. W. B. Morton, Hon. C. M. Cooke.

Sermon on Sunday at 11 a. m. by Rev. W. A. Smith. J. A. COPPEDGE, Mod.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

The April number of The Treasury of Religious Thought is on our table. It is the closing number of the eleventh yearly volume of this excellent magazine. Its intrinsic excellence and its age are indicative of careful work and of success. It gains in every way as the years pass, and it will enter on its twelfth year with unabated vigor and brightened hope.

E. B. Treat, Publisher, 5 Cooper Union, New York.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, that the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—W M S, Maxton ch, $8.05; Matt Currin, Oxford, 1.00; J S Hardaway, ditto, 50c; Elizabeth ch, King's Mountain, 4.72; Maggie Nutt Mis Soc. 1.00; Lisbon ch, 1.00; Shady Grove ch, 50c; Mars Hill ch, 25.00; Buie's Creek ch, 1.47; Tryon St ch, Charlotte, 10.00; W M S, Bladen Union ch. Cedar Creek, 2.00; Rock Spring ch, Tar River, 3 38; Elam ch, West Chowan, 40c; Lilesville ch, 5.00; Creeksville ch, 4 00; Etherton Wilson, Colerain, N C, 5.00; Round Hill ch, Green River, 25c; Rutherfordton S S, ditto, 1.00; Rev C B Justice, ditto, 45.00; A L Grayson, ditto, 5 00; Mrs J A Grayson, ditto, 1.00; Mrs E A Justice, ditto, 1 00; Mrs Julia Justice, ditto, 25c; Miss Annie Justice, ditto, 25c; Miss Virginia Grayson, ditto, 25c; Miss Myra Grayson, ditto, 5c; Mrs Hattie Callahan, ditto, 30c; Mrs Mary Mc Arthur, ditto, 50c; Mrs Q A Watkins, ditto, 50c; Mrs Carmila Washburn, 25c; C Worley, Nichols, S C; 10.00; Rev R Ford, Newbern, 1.00; Kinston ch, 25.00; S S Mis Soc, Cashie ch, 1.76; Ahoskie ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Mrs Agnes Askew, 1.00; R W C, Burgaw, N C, 1.00; Apex ch, 7.29; Sunbeams, Apex ch, 1.05; Salem ch, 70c; Lystra ch, Mt Zion, 91c; Pleasant Grove ch, Raleigh, 1.35; Sawyer's Creek ch, 25 50; Providence ch, Flat River, 2.46; Rev I P Hedgepeth, 50.00; Rev D W Thomasson, 5.00. Total, 272.64. Previously reported, 5,132 44. Total this year, 5,405.08.

Foreign Missions—High Point ch, Liberty, $5.00; Corinth ch, King's Mountain, 2 75; Union ch, 1.00; Manly ch, Sandy Creek, 4.06; Brush Creek ch, ditto 55c; Kerr's Chapel ch, Beulah, 3.00; Old Fort ch, 95c; Spring Branch ch, So River, 1.65; Friendship ch, Little River, 2.00; Lawrence X Roads ch, W Chowan, 40c; John's Chapel ch, 1.55; Bethlehem ch, West Chowan, 8.19; Germanton ch, Pilot Mountain, 2.26; Winton ch, West Chowan, 7.80; Flat River ch, Flat River, 4.60. Total, 45 85. Previously reported, 1,190.50. Total this year, 1,236 35. [These amounts were received up to last week. The following for Foreign Missions have been received up to this week]:

Mrs M E White, $1.00; Amis Chapel ch, Flat River, 11.20; Rocky River ch, Pee Dee, 2.28; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 12.00; S S Mis Soc, Cashie ch, 3.18; Fishing Creek ch, Tar River, 1.78; Oxford ch, 6 61; Ditto, Ladies' Aid Soc. 10.48; Bear Swamp ch, 5.00. Total, 53.48. Previously reported, 1,236.35. Total this year, 1,289.83.

Home Missions—Sweet Water, N C, $3.55; Manly ch, SandyCreek, 1.60; Brush Creek ch, ditto, 25 cents; Wilkesboro ch, Brushy Mountain, 1.44; Kerr's Chapel ch, Beulah, 2.00; Lawrence X Roads ch, W Chowan, 40c; Perry's Chapel ch, 3.60; Bethlehem ch, W Chowan, 7.16; W M S, Clinton ch, 1.41; Sunbeams, Clinton ch, 76c; W M S, Rock Fish ch, Cedar Creek, 2.15; Chapel Hill ch, Mt Zion, 10.00. Total, 33.32. Previously reported, 464.38. To this year, 497.70. [These amounts were received up to last week. The following have been received up to this time for Home Missions]:

Matthews' ch, Meck and Cab, $3.46; Greensboro ch, 10.00; Elam ch, West Chowan, 7.00; Rocky River ch, Pee Dee, 1.76; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 3.35; Mt Zion ch, Flat River, 12.75; Atlantic Asso, 57.00. Total, 89.32. Previously reported, 497.70. Total this year, 587 02.

Education—Manly ch, Sandy Creek, $3 98; Buckhorn ch, West Chowan, 14.75; Murfreesboro ch, ditto, 13.95; Winton ch, ditto, 20.00; Ditto, S S, ditto, 5.00; Ahoskie ch, ditto, 20.00; Harrellsville ch, ditto, 10.00; Bethlehem ch, ditto, 15.00; Edenton ch, Chowan, 20.00; Hertford ch, ditto, 12.50; Beren ch, ditto, 12.50; Yeopim ch, ditto, 7.50; Macedonia ch, ditto, 3.00; Elizabeth City ch, ditto, 30.00; Sawyer's Creek ch, ditto, 10.00; Corinth ch, ditto, 5.00; Ramoth Gilead ch, ditto, 10.00; Claude Kitchen, Scotland Neck ch, Tar River, 5.00; Wake Forest ch, Central, 4.86; Warsaw ch, Eastern, 5.50; Gatesville church, Chowan, 2.21; Brush Creek ch, Sandy Creek, 250; Cub Creek ch, Brushy Mountain, 3 06; Friendship ch, Little River, 1.30; Spring Branch ch, South River, 1.50; Lawrence X Roads ch, W Chowan, 1.10. Total, 227.80. Previously reported, 575.81. Total this year, 813.17. [These amounts were received up to last week. The following up to this time have been received for Education]:

Elam ch, West Chowan, $13.10; Rutherfordton ch, Green River (by J M Walker), 4.00. Total, 17.10. Previously reported, 813.17. Total this year, 830.27.

Orphanage—Manly ch, Sandy Creek, $4.56; Mt Tabor ch, West Chowan, 1.20. Total, 6.00. Previously reported, 317.11. Total this year, 323 17. [These amounts were received up to last week. The following up to this time have been received for the Orphanage]:

Bethlehem S S, $5.00. Previously reported, 323.17. Total this year, 328.17.

Sunday-schools (Bible distribution)—S S, Randleman ch, 85c; S S, Morven ch, 80; S S, Antioch ch, Atlantic, 5.00; S S, Yanceyville ch, 80c; S S, Bethel ch, 3.43; S S, Ross Grove ch, 1.00; S S, Trap Hill ch, Elkin, 1.00; S S, Beaver Dam ch, 1.00; Lystra S S, 2 00; S S, Roberts' Chapel ch, West Chowan, 7.47; S S, Corinth ch, 5.00; S S, Winton ch, W Chowan, 8 13; S S, West End, Raleigh, 2.81. Total, 39.29. Previously reported, 410.67. Total this year for Sunday-schools and Bible distribution, 449.96. [These amounts were received up to last week. The following up to this time have been received for Sunday-schools]:

S S, Bethel ch, 50c; S S, Barlow's Chapel ch, 1.50; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 2.00; Meherrin ch, West Chowan, 1.80. Total, 5.30. Previously reported, 419.96. Total this year, 455.26.

Colportage—S S, Mt Tabor ch, W Chowan, $3 50; S S, Eastman ch, 60c. Total, 4.10.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Pittsboro church, Sandy Creek, $3.48. Previously reported, 138 84. Total this year, 142.27.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, April 7, 1894.

Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
BreakfastCocoa
which is absolutely pure and soluble.
It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

The sower has no second chance. If you would at first succeed, be sure and start with
FERRY'S SEEDS.
Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 contains the sum and substance of the latest farming knowledge. Every planter should have it. Sent free.
D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

In the Spring
Those who would insure to themselves the greatest degree of safety, and the enjoyment of that good health which is life's greatest blessing, should be careful to do these two things:
PURIFY THE BLOOD
AND
TONE UP THE SYSTEM
For doing these things in the safest, surest and most pleasant way
Dr. King's Royal Germetuer
is pre-eminently the greatest of all medical remedies. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, acts like magic upon the blood and nervous system, expels all the waste, stimulates digestion and gives appetite, puts roses on the cheek and joy in the heart.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
$1.00, six for $5.00.
Manufactured only by KING'S ROYAL GERMETUER CO., Atlanta, Ga.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."
BEECHAM'S PILLS
(Tasteless—Effectual.)
FOR ALL
BILIOUS and NERVOUS DISORDERS,
Such as Sick Headache, Weak Stomach, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Liver Complaint, and Female Ailments.
Covered with a Tasteless & Soluble Coating.
Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a box.
New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE. RALEIGH, N. C.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere, such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased, vs. Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson husband, now residents of the State and city New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894; and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.
This March 5th, 1894.

Möller Celebrated Pipe Organs
From $400 to $10,000.
All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eighteen States and cities. Established 1849. Address
M. P. MÖLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.,
Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Price & Terms Free.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.
Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

Ministers' Conference and Robeson Union.

The Ministers' Conference and Robeson Union will hold its next session with Mt. Elim Baptist church, April 27th, 28th, and 29th.

MINISTERS' CONFERENCE—27TH.

11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. M. L. Kesler.

1 p. m.—What is required to constitute a Scriptural presbytery for the ordination of a minister or deacon? Discussion opened by R. A. Moore.

3 p. m.—What are the Scriptural duties and authority conferred on deacons in the government of the churches? Discussion opened by A. R. Pitman.

3 p. m.—What are the causes of unfruitfulness in the churches? Discussion opened by W. A. Humphrey.

ROBESON UNION—28TH, 29TH.

11 a. m.—Sermon, F. H. Martin. Collection for ministerial education.

1 p. m.—Addresses on ministerial education by J. A. Smith and I. P. Hedgpeth.

3 p. m.—What principles should govern the granting and receiving of letters of dismission from one church to another? Discussion opened by T. F. Toon.

Sunday, 9:30 a. m.—Sunday school addresses by John Duckett and J. W. Cobb.

11 a. m.—Sermon by R. A. Hedgpeth.

The churches will forward their contributions for Home Missions.

Flat River Union—Second Section.

The Union Meeting of the Southern Section of the Flat River Association will convene at Mt. Zion church, Granville county, April 28th and 29th, 1894.

Saturday, 10:30 a. m.—Devotional training of children by Rev. J. A. Stradley.

1 p. m.—Discussion: To what extent does conforming to the fashions of our day injure the cause of Christ? Rev. —— Smith and Bro. J. M. Phipps.

3 p. m.—Discussion: What does the proper observation of the Sabbath include? Bro. R. F. Hester and Bro. M. W. Veazy.

3 p. m.—Reports from the Sunday-schools and miscellaneous business.

Sunday, 10 a. m.—Mass meeting.

11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. J. S. Hardaway.

1 p. m.—Discussion: What are the needed qualifications of a successful Bible teacher? Bro. J. P. Riddick and Bro. J. F. Meadows.

3 p. m.—Discussion: Who are responsible for the indifference of church-members in the Sunday-school work? Bro. E. T. Paulson and Rev. J. A. Stradley.

It is earnestly hoped that every church in this section of the Association will send a full delegation. B. D. HOWARD, Com.

Yeopim Union Meeting.

The Yeopim Union expects to meet with the church at Beulah on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April. Introductory sermon by Rev. W. P. Jordan; alternate, Rev. A. W. Burfoot. Missionary sermon by Rev. J. R. White; alternate, Rev. Josiah Elliott.

SUBJECTS FOR DISCUSSION.

1. The Board of Education, its work and its needs. To W. B. Felton and J. E. White.

2. Ought our churches to oppose the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors? if so, in what way? To Edward Pierce and W. B. Waff.

3. In what particulars, do we differ from other religious denominations in doctrine? To H. Bass and C. J. Woodson.

JOS. T. WAFF, Clerk.

A Physician Talks.

THE REMARKABLE STORY AND AFFIDAVIT OF DR. LEWIS BLUNDIN.

AFFLICTED WITH PARALYSIS FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS—PRONOUNCED INCURABLE BY THE FOREMOST PHYSICIANS OF THE WORLD—A CASE OF WORLD WIDE INTEREST.

(From the Philadelphia Times.)

Many survivors of our late war left the ranks unwounded but with broken constitutions; an instance in point, is Lewis D. Blundin, a resident of Hulmeville, Bucks county, Pa. In relating his experience of the hardships he had encountered Mr. Blundin said: "I was born at Bridgewater, Penn., in 1841, and went through the war as private, sergeant and hospital steward in Company I, 28th Pennsylvania Volunteers. My service was active and while in Georgia I had an attack of typhoid fever, which left me weak and a ready victim for future disease. My kidneys were then affected and this finally developed into spinal trouble which dated through my army service. In 1866 I was mustered out with an honorable discharge and entered the Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia as a student. I graduated two years later with a diploma but did not practice. At that time I was living in Manayunk. One day, after I had graduated, I was lying on a sofa at my home in Manayunk, when I felt a cold sensation in my lower limbs as though the blood had suddenly left them. When I tried to move them I was horrified at the discovery that I was paralysed from my hips to my toes. The paralysis was complete and a pin or a pinch of the flesh caused no pain. I could not move a muscle. I called in Dr. William C. Todd of Philadelphia. He made a careful and exhaustive examination of my case, sounding and testing and finally announced that my trouble was caused by inflammation of the spinal cord, and that I would likely have another stroke of paralysis. I consulted Dr. I. W. Gross and Dr. Pancoast of Jefferson College, Philapelphia, who said that no amount of medicine would ever prove of the slightest benefit to me.

"One day last September I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I had used them for some time. I had always been troubled with a sort of vertigo after my first stroke of paralysis to such an extent that when I got out of my bed my head would swim and I had difficulty in saving myself from falling. My appetite was bad, digestive organs ruined and no assimilation of food. In addition to my many other ailments, rheumatism held a prominent place. By the time I had finished the first box of Pink Pills I was comparatively free from these minor ills. Relief followed upon relief with astonishing rapidity. First one ail would disappear; then another until the pills got to work upon the foundation stones of my trouble—paralysis. Before I had taken the six boxes of pills, I was sitting in my chair one afternoon, when I felt a curious sensation in my foot. Upon investigation I found it had flexed, or, in other words, become movable, and I could move it. From that time on my improvement was steady and it was not long before I was walking around on crutches with little or no discomfort. It was three years before taking the Pink Pills that I had been able to use the crutches at any time. My health is daily improving and I feel sure that Pink Pills have done me more good than all the doctors and all the medicine in the country and as they are not costly I can easily afford the treatment."

Sworn to before me this 15th day of May, 1893. GEO. HARRISON, Not. Public.

These pills contain in a condensed form all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood, and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature.

These Pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont., and are sold in boxes, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2 50, and are never sold in bulk or by the dozen or hundred.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

The Y. M. C. A. State Convention met in Wilmington last week.

The State Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum will meet in Raleigh in May.

The wife murderer, English, was lynched by a mob of 200 men near Bakersville last week.

The Salisbury Herald says a rich gold vein has been reached in the Bearn mine near Garfield.

Walter R. Henry Esq., Henderson, N. C., has been appointed consul to Curacoa, West Indies.

A joint stock company has been formed at Lexington to supply that town with electric lights.

Evangelist Fife of Charlotte has gone to Richmond to aid Moody in the Union Tabernacle meetings.

Jno. W. Gill has been appointed receiver for the C. F. & Y. V. R. R. He will retain the present officers.

Barn-burning has become so frequent in Chatham that the farmers are combining for mutual protection.

The Daily Press is the name of a creditable new Raleigh afternoon paper. We wish it abundant prosperity.

The sub committee of the House of Representatives have reported favorably to appropriate $75,000 for a public building at Winston.

Cardinal Gibbons, the Roman Catholic, will be in our State to officiate at the dedication of a Roman Catholic cathedral at Belmont, April 11th.

Alex. Rose, the Surry county lyncher, who was injured and captured, has turned State's evidence. True bills have been found against nine men all of whom are at large.

As a health and pleasure resort Asheville has become one of the most popular cities in the country. The American Physicians Association will establish a sanitarium there in the near future.

John Schenck, negro, whom many of the older generation remember as a politician of intelligence and influence in the sixties seventies, died near Charlotte on the 29th ult., aged seventy years.

Hon. T. W. Mason of the railroad commission has been chosen orator for the occasion of the corner stone laying of the proposed Confederate monument to be erected in the Capitol square of Raleigh, N. C. The date is May 12st.

A recent issue of the Manufacturers' Record says "land in lots of ten thousand acres and upward is being purchased in North Carolina, Florida, Georgia and other Southern States for colonies of settlers. It is stated also that the most hopeful signs of returning business prosperity are in the South.

The Board of Aldermen of Raleigh have passed an ordinance regulating the speed of railway trains within the city limits. The speed of trains must not exceed six miles an hour, and flagmen are to be placed at the street crossings. The matter of issuing bonds ($50,000) for street improvement was postponed for consideration at the meeting of the Board in May.

General News.

The Columbian fire insurance company of Louisville, Ky., has failed.

In a strikers' out break at Mine Town, Penn., ten men were killed last week.

Jane G. Austen, author, and Geo. Tickenor Curtis an eminent lawyer have died recently.

The President has appointed Thos. E. Benedict public printer. There were two candidates from North Carolina.

Governor Northen of Georgia has appointed Hon. Patrick Walsh, journalist, to succeed the late A. H. Colquitt as Senator.

Belva Lockwood, the noted woman lawyer and political aspirant, has been denied the privilege of pleading in Virginia courts.

A negro was lynched at Greesboro, Ga., on April 5th for a criminal assault on a white lady. He was taken from jail by the mob.

Coxey's peace army of the commonweal has successfully proceeded as far as Pittsburg, Pa., and now numbers more than three hundred men.

A bill to refund the cotton tax collected years ago from producers has been introduced in the Senate by Senator James Z. George of Mississippi.

The severe weather of the first of last week did great injury as far south as Texas. Nothing of consequence escaped injury from frost and freezing in North Carolina.

The sixth auditor of the Treasury under the present administration, J. W. Brawley of Pennsylvania has resigned. This is the first resignation of considerable importance under Cleveland.

Gov. Frank Brown of Maryland has practically vetoed a bill providing free schoolbooks in the public schools of that State. The matter will be an issue in the next Maryland campaign.

Congressman George has introduced a resolution reducing 20 per cent of all official incomes not protected from reduction by the Constitution, in view of the financial oppression. The bill is in committee.

In removing a wooden bridge to give place to an iron one near Radford, Va., recently, part of the structure fell carrying with it eight men, six of whom were killed out right and the others probably fatally injured.

The reunion of United Confederate Veterans will be held at Birmingham, Ala., April 25th and 26th. Business of the greatest importance will demand careful consideration during this meeting and the General Commander J. B. Gordon is very anxious that as many ex Confederate soldiers and sailors as possible be present.

Senator Wm. M. Stewart of Nevada has introduced a bill providing for the free coinage of silver. It lays on the table until the tariff bill is disposed of, which probably will not occur until June or later. Representative J. S. Henderson of the Seventh North Carolina District has introduced a bill to coin all the bullion in the Treasury—about $130,000,000.

The coroner's jury summoned to investigate the killing in South Carolina last week has reported as follows: That Constable McLendon killed Norment; that Cain killed Redmond, Redmond having killed Pepper. Troops have been withdrawn, and peace is restored. We may expect to get the whole truth about the trouble and its cause after the trial.

The Carnegie Steel Co. of Pennsylvania has had the contract for furnishing our government with steel plates for cruisers and battle-ships for many years. Recent investigations have brought to light a long series of systematic frauds practiced in the manufacture of the plates by under officials of the company. The company will be required to make full reparation.

MARRIED.

PERRY—LAYDEN—On March 29th, 1894, in Perquimans county, N. C., by Rev. Josiah Elliott, Mr. Bragg Perry and Miss Carrie Layden.

HOLDING—DAVIS—On April 4th, 1894, at Falls of Neuse in Wake county, by Rev. A. D. Hunter, Mr. Henry G. Holding and Miss Elma T. Davis.

DIED.

JOHNSON—In Sampson county, October 17th, 1893, little Ralph Ventis, son of Calhoun and Laura Johnson, aged nine months and thirteen days. Little Ralph did not stay here long enough to learn anything of earthly sorrow. As to sin, he knew nothing. The Lord took him while he was pure. "Suffer little children to come unto me, * * for of such is the kingdom of heaven." CHAS. F. H.

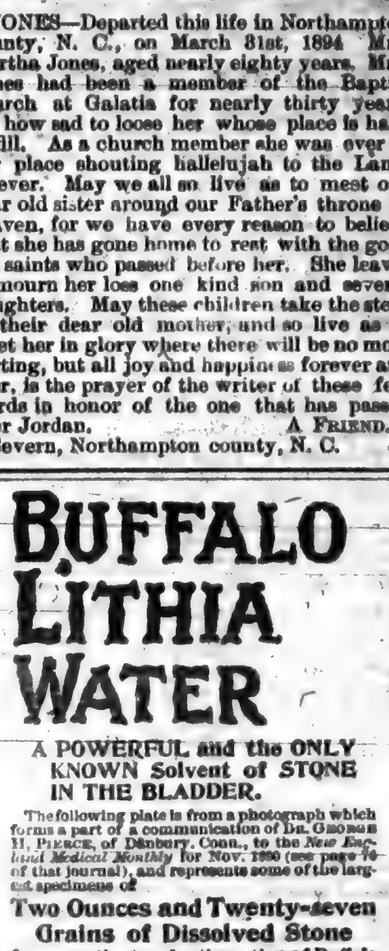
BATTLE—At Wake Forest, March 22d, 1894, Mrs. A. M. Battle. When the summons came, she was near the close of her seventy-fifth year. For more than forty years she had been a member of a Baptist church. Several weeks before she died, she saw that the end was near, and spoke of it with perfect calmness, and during the last few days joyfully awaited the last hour. The end was peaceful. She leaves two devoted sons, practicing physicians in the town of Wadesboro, and many warm friends at Wake Forest where she spent most of her life. W. R. G.

ALDERMAN—In Sampson county, Dec. 6th, 1893, sister Catharine Eliza Alderman, wife of D. W. Alderman. She was born Sept. 3d, 1822. She was for many years, and until her death, a consistent member of Bethel church. We feel that our loss is her gain, and that she has only gone to meet friends and to await the coming of others. "But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope. For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him; * * and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore comfort one another with these words."—1 Thess. 4: 13–18.

CHAS. F. HOPPER.

JONES—Departed this life in Northampton county, N. C., on March 31st, 1894 Mrs. Martha Jones, aged nearly eighty years. Mrs. Jones had been a member of the Baptist church at Galatia for nearly thirty years. Oh how sad to loose her whose place is hard to fill. As a church member she was ever at her place shouting hallelujah to the Lamb forever. May we all so live as to meet our dear old sister around our Father's throne in heaven, for we have every reason to believe that she has gone home to rest with the good old saints who passed before her. She leaves to mourn her loss one kind son and several daughters. May these children take the steps of their dear old mother, and so live as to meet her in glory where there will be no more parting, but all joy and happiness forever and ever, is the prayer of the writer of these few words in honor of the one that has passed over Jordan. A FRIEND.

Severn, Northampton county, N. C.



BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

A POWERFUL and the ONLY KNOWN Solvent of STONE IN THE BLADDER.

The following plate is from a photograph which forms a part of a communication of Dr. GEORGE H. PIERCE, of Danbury, Conn., to the New England Medical Monthly for Nov. 1890 (see page 76 of that journal), and represents some of the largest specimens of

Two Ounces and Twenty-seven Grains of Dissolved Stone from a patient under the action of Buffalo Lithia Water. Smaller particles, and a quantity of Brickdust deposit, Dr Pierce states, were not estimated.

DR. CYRUS EDSON,

Commissioner of Health, New York City, and President of the Board of Pharmacy.

"I have frequently made use of

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

in my practice, with excellent results. It is a potent remedy for correcting Rheumatic Diathesis. In a case of uric acid gravel, in which I recently prescribed it, its beneficial effects were apparent after the third dose. I have also prescribed it with great benefit in Bright's Disease of the Kidneys."

This Water has proved not less efficacious in BRIGHT'S DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS, GOUT, RHEUMATIC GOUT, RHEUMATISM, NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, &c.

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

is for sale by druggists generally, or in cases of one dozen half gallon bottles $5.00 f.o.b. at the Springs. Descriptive pamphlets sent to any address.

THOMAS F. GOODE, Proprietor, Buffalo Lithia Springs, Va.

What is Life Assurance?

An easy means of securing your wife and family against want in the event of your death.

A creditable means of securing a better financial standing in the business world.

The most safe and profitable means of investing your savings for use in after years.

All Life Insurance is good. The

Equitable Life

is the best.

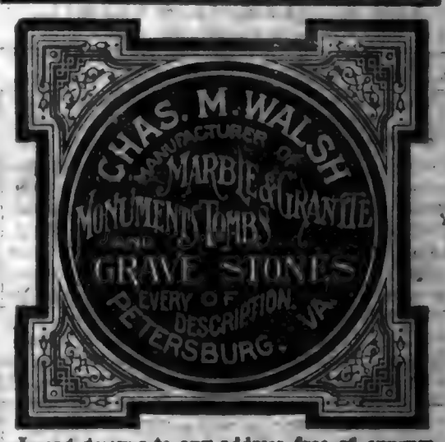
For full particulars, address

W. J. RODDEY, Manager, FOR THE CAROLINAS. Rock Hill, S. C.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. CINCINNATI, OHIO. SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c. Catalogue with 2000 testimonials, Prices and Terms FREE. Please mention this paper.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO., RALEIGH, N. C.,



Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory.

CHAS. M. WALSH.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,

Box 370, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.

WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Musicians Read!

SUNLIGHT and SHADOW. By Julius Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Each in a case. Price, 61 Postpaid.

LESSONS IN AUDITION. By Helene Sperman. A book on a new plan, to be used to prepare a class in concert for the development of musical [illegible]. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.

ST. CAECILIAN COLLECTION. By C. H. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price, 40 Cents Postpaid.

ANTHEM BROWN. By E. P. Danks. The latest Anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.

Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be perfectly saleable.

THE JOHN CHURCH CO., Cincinnati, 66 New York, 66 Chicago.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times as Farmers we will sell to them for cash Good Fertilizers at the Lowest Wholesale Prices, per ton,

for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 24.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 18.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 3-cent stamps for circulars.

W. S. POWELL & CO., Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 25 cts. 2 to 6 sold in a house. Sample postage paid FREE. FORBES & Co., Cincinnati, O.

BELLS

The Home Circle.

To My Little Grandchild in Heaven.

[Edna Miriam Curtis, born in Osaka, Japan, March 11, 1892, died March 20, 1892.]

Through blinding tears, I see
A bit of silken floss of dark-brown hair
Cut from thy head
When thou wert dead—
My little one!

And this is all I have,
For thou wert born so far across the sea,
I could not take thee in my clasping arms
My little one, so dear, so dear to me!
Nor see thy face
In which to trace
With keen delight, each day's new opening grace.

I could not see thee, dear,
Close nestled to thy fair young mother's breast,
Nor see her happy smiles and tears of joy,
Nor see my boy
In all the tender pride of fatherhood,
When first he took thee gently in his arms—
God's precious gift, so dear!

And all this time there stood
Outside the door, an angel sent from God—
Who doeth right—
And suddenly our little one was gone
Back to her heavenly home,
Out of our sight!

For them, struck dumb with grief,
Are precious memories of the little face;
The little hands and feet;
The dainty lips so sweet:
The lovely eyes that opened to the light.
But all I have is this—
To look upon, and kiss—
A bit of silken floss of dark-brown hair,
Cut from thy head
When thou wert dead,
My little one!

But thou art still my own,
And I shall some day see thy smiling face,
Shall clasp my little grandchild to my breast.
Be patient, Oh my soul! God knoweth best;
In some sweet day of grace
I'll see thy face,
My little one!

—Mrs. A. W. Curtis, Raleigh.

Farmer Jones Sneezes for Luck.

One day last week Farmer Jones sat on his stone fence to let his horses rest after an hour's steady plowing. Mentally, Mr. Jones is very like his horses—slow but sure. Out of the hazy nebulm of facts and figures, it takes a long time for him to formulate an idea; but once evolved it has come to stay, and if action is required, it means action for him.

"Kee-hash! Kee-hash!" sneezed Mr. Jones, six times in succession.

"Sneeze on Thursday, they say that's for good luck," said Mr. Jones to himself; "but it would be a good deal more like my luck this year, to have a bad cold coming on in my head, so as to stay the whole winter. But, come to think, Mr. Rankin said in his Thanksgiving sermon there wasn't any such thing as luck, and that every, single, simple little thing was ordered by God. It's a hard doctrine and sometimes—seems to me"—and the good farmer drew out his words meditatively, and stopped and pondered over them several minutes with deeply knitted brows.

His next remarks seemed totally irrelevant, yet his train of thought had logically led to them. "And next Sunday they are going to take up another, and an extra Home Missionary collection, to make up what's behind, and pay back what the head officers in New York have borrowed, so as to keep their word good to the poor home missionaries out West here, and not have them suffer this winter. And that's business, too; but five thousand dollars is a big lot of money in these hard times"; and there was another long pause.

"And in the summer—let me see, in July it must have been—I gave five dollars, one for me, and one for wife, and one for Jane, and the other two for some of the poor members, so as to make a dollar a head for every member of Shiloh church. Seems to me I did my share then, and if other folks had only done theirs"—

Another silence, and then his remarks took the form of a discussion between two persons, that reads as if he rudely interrupted, but each dash represents a season spent in thought—

"And now the preacher and the Lord want me to give some more—

"But I had such bad luck with my crops this year, wheat failing so, and corn only half a crop—

"But the oats I put in where the wheat was, got a proper good stand, and brought most as much money as the wheat would; and the corn is so good a price that the half crop sells for most as much as a full one—

"But stock is so low, and grass was so scarce—

"But what hay there was is better than most years; and not a head of horses, or hogs, or cattle has been lost by sickness, or strayed, or been stolen—

"And it has been so dry there's been no sickness in the family and no doctor's bills, and when I set that against what I paid Dr. Green two years ago, when we had a wet season, and big crops, and lots of money for them, but every one of us down with malaria, and a hundred dollars clean cash out of pocket for it—

"And then no death among all my kinfolk, far and nigh, the whole year, and father and mother both spared to me, and both over eighty—Simeon Dobson Jones," said he, springing excitedly to his feet, "you've had good luck all this whole year, and have been going around and whining about it, and complaining against the Lord all the time. You haven't been dealing as fair with your neighbors! You call yourself a Christian, and you haven't even been honest toward God!

"If I live till next Sunday I'll put in five dollars for a sin offering; plant that down!" and he stuck the butt-end of his whip stock sharply into the ground; "and five for a trespass offering, and plant that too! and five more for an offering of first fruits, and another five for a thank offering. And I'll tell wife she can give all she feels like, and then I'm afraid it isn't half what I ought to pay, but it makes me feel good already," and as he strode with an unusually quick pace to his plow, and, seizing the handles, started up his horses, he said, with a laugh:—

"These six sneezes did mean good luck after all."

Will somebody else please sneeze!—M. H. Jaquith.

A Marked Boy.

Years ago there lived in the interior of New York a boy, the son of a farmer, who also worked at the trade of a potter. The boy was a marked youth, because he did with his might whatever he undertook. He was a leader in the ordinary sports of boyhood; and, whenever the farm or the pottery relaxed their hold upon him, he would be found repairing some damaged article or devising a new implement.

His father was poor, the farm was small, and could only be enlarged by clearing up the primeval forest. The boy was anxious to acquire knowledge, but his services were so necessary to his father that he could not be spared to attend the winter term of the common school. But the boy was in earnest. With the aid of his brother, one year his junior, he chopped and cleared four acres of birch and maple woodland, plowed it, planted it in corn, harvested the corn, and then asked, as his compensation, to be allowed to attend school during the winter. Of course the father granted the wish.

When the boy was seventeen the father's pottery business had so increased as to demand a more extensive factory. A carpenter was hired to build the new building, and the boy assisted him. So familiar did he become with the tools and trade that he determined, with the aid of the younger brother, to erect a two-story frame dwelling house for his father's family.

The two boys cut the timber from the forest, planned and framed the structure, and then invited the neighbors to assist at the "raising." They came from far and near to see what a lad of seventeen had done. When every mortise and tenon was found to fit in its place, and the frame was seen to stand perfect and secure, the veterans cheered the young architect and builder. From that day he was in demand as a master carpenter.

That boy was Ezra Cornell, the founder of Cornell University.—Evangelical Messenger.

A Wife's Soft Answer.

"We were married thirty-seven years," said Mr. Gardiner Andrews, and in that time my wife never gave me a cross word. But I shall never forget the first time I chided her. It was on a Sunday morning, when we had been married two years. I found a button off my shirt, and threw it across the room.

"Sew a botton on," I said in a brutal voice. She was a good Christian woman, and she got a button and sewed it on.

"And what did she say?" asked a little bristling woman, with snapping eyes.

"She said, 'Forgive me, husband, I had a great deal to do yesterday, and forgot it, but it shall never happen again.'"

"Oh!" said the man, fixing his eyes on the picture of his dear wife, "her gentle words almost broke my heart. I could have gone down on my knees to ask her forgiveness. She made a different man of me, and the world has been a different place since she died."

There was a silence as he finished speaking, interrupted by a general clearing of the throats, and a confused snuffling as if we all had bad colds, and the little woman's snapping eyes looked suspiciously dim.—Selected.

Everyone Can Help.

A gentleman related once that a traveler stood outside a splendid cathedral in Germany, expressing his admiration of its beauty. "Yes," said a laborer, who happened to hear him, "it's a fine building, and took us many a year to finish." "Took you," exclaimed the gentleman, "why what had you to do with it?" "I mixed the mortar that's in it, sir," was the modest yet proud reply. That laborer had a right to feel he had some share in the grand work now complete, his part, though humble, had been well done, and he was not ashamed of it. In the struggle of Right against Wrong, every one can help; your place, dear reader, may be lowly, but if you are diligent and trustworthy, if you fulfill your daily work as in the Master's sight, you are a fellow-laborer with him, and you will yet hear him say to you, "Well done, good and faithful servant."—Young Reaper.

Something Unusual,

as a medicine, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And, because of that, there's something unusual in the way of selling it. Where every other medicine of its kind only promises, this is guaranteed. If it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

It's the only guaranteed remedy for every disease caused by a disordered liver or impure blood. Dyspepsia, biliousness, the most stubborn skin, scalp and scrofulous affections, even consumption (or lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages, are all cured by it.

It purifies and enriches the blood, rouses every organ into healthful action, and restores strength and vigor. In building up both flesh and strength of pale, puny, scrofulous children, or to invigorate and brace up the system after "grippe," pneumonia, fevers, and other prostrating acute diseases, nothing can equal the "Discovery."

Catarrh is positively cured by Dr. Sage's Remedy.

Surprises, like misfortunes, seldom come alone.

Children Need Sleep.

Children, until they are twelve or thirteen years old, should have at least ten hours sleep, eleven is better; until eighteen or nineteen, nine hours is none too much, writes Mrs. Scovil in her valuable department, "Mothers' Corner," in the Ladies' Home Journal. In this country our children inherit nervous temperaments. No hygienic measure soothes, quiets and strengthens the nerves like plenty of sleep. Children should never be wakened in the morning. Yet the demands of house-hold convenience and the claims of school make it necessary that they should be out of bed at a certain hour, usually not later than seven. To make this possible, and give them their fair share of sleep so that they will be ready to waken of their own accord, they must be in bed between eight and ten, according to their ages. If bedtime is made pleasant to them, as mother love can make it, with a story, a little talk over the events of the day, with loving words and ministrations, the hardship of banishment to bed will be robbed of most of its bitterness.

As baldness makes one look prematurely old, so a full head of hair gives to mature life the appearance of youth. To secure this and prevent the former, Ayer's Hair Vigor is confidently recommended. Both ladies and gentlemen prefer it to any other dressing.

Plainness, gentleness, firmness are the main ingredients of reproof. We must be plain that there may be no mistaking our meaning; gentle that neither self nor passion may be in the reproof. Firmness will enable us to persevere till the cure is effected.—Exchange.

There is truth in the statement that there has never been wisdom enough in the world to know how to help a man who does not try to help himself.

BROKEN DOWN

—by disease is the natural result if you allow your liver to become inactive, your blood impure, and your system run down.

The germs of Consumption, Grip, or Malaria, wait for this time of weakness—this is their opportunity.

If you rouse the liver to activity, so it will throw off these germs, purify the blood so there will be no weak spots; build up healthy weight where there is a falling off, you will rest secure from disease, for you'll be germ-proof.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does this as nothing else can. That's the reason it can be guaranteed. In convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, it's an appetising, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength.

For all diseases of the liver or blood if "Discovery" fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

No matter how bad your case, Dr. Sage's Remedy will permanently cure your Catarrh.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders.
RALEIGH, N. C.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

MAGNETIC NERVINE.

BEFORE - AFTER

is sold with written guarantee to cure Nervous Prostration, Fits, Dizziness, Headache and Neuralgia and Wakefulness, caused by excessive use of Opium, Tobacco and Alcohol; Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, causing Misery, Insanity and Death; Nervousness, Impotency, Lost Power in either sex, Premature Old Age, Involuntary Losses, caused by over-indulgence, over-exertion of the Brain, and Errors of Youth. It gives to Weak Organs their Natural Vigor and doubles the joys of life; cures Leucorrhœa and Female Weakness. A month's treatment, in plain package, by mail, to any address, $2 per box, 6 boxes $5. With every $5 order we give a Written Guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circulars free. Guarantee issued only by our exclusive agent.

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

DO not be deceived.—The following brands of White Lead are still made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion. They are standard, and always

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

The recommendation of any of them to you by your merchant is an evidence of his reliability, as he can sell you ready-mixed paints and bogus White Lead and make a larger profit. Many short-sighted dealers do so.

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead, and mix your own paints. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

Philadelphia Branch, 1qt South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

AGENTS $75 A WEEK AT HOME PRACTICAL PLATING DYNAMO. ... W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clark St. 95, Columbus, Ohio

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1894. Number 41.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY,

OFFICE:

Hill (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$2.00
One copy, six months.....1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender).....20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send change.

"MR. CLEVELAND'S . . . . FAILURE" is the popular title of an article in a recent number of the Forum. On reading it we were surprised to learn that the author really thinks that Cleveland is more of a successful man than one of failure; in fact, he accords the President a place among the world's great ones—and the writer is said to be "an independent," too. Cleveland's mistakes—the causes of his loss of popularity,—if we are to believe this writer, are innate, a part of his mental make-up. Dealing with the people, those who are in opposition, who desire change, he was a leader with few peers in our history. The North and West voted for him instead of the Chicago platform last election; the South had followed him with little regard to his principles twice before. These facts are testimony to his power as a leader in opposition. But he failed in that the popular hopes so riotously reposed in him could not but be vain on account of their variety. To please New England in governmental politics is to displease the South, and Cleveland was expected to please both sections, displeasing none. In the minority he retained his popularity, because he was unable to influence legislation; but when entire success was attained he was forced to displease one part or the other of his followers, and thus he has fallen in the popular estimation of the sections which he displeased, and risen in that of the people of the North.

The South idolized Cleveland as the personification tariff—and all other reform. While he was powerless either to please or displease, he had our confidence, hopes and sympathy; but when power came, hope and confidence seemed misplaced—it appeared that the idol had a mind of its own, and people would destroy it because it is contrary to theirs. Moreover, too much was expected of one man; he was too popular to remain so in a country of varied tastes and occupations; the press was too full of his praises, prophecying all things good of him; the man was made to think too much of himself; he, it is said, believed himself to be "a man of destiny." There is no doubt but that Cleveland thought in March, 1893, that any combination of cabinet officials he might make would please the people who had voted so overwhelmingly for him the November preceding; in his greatness he forgot Tammany and Hill and the small schemers, having become a national and not a local or municipal character. He thought that his will, of which a majority of his fellow citizens had expressed their approval on three occasions, would, as a matter of course, continue to be the popular will. The people had followed him in conquest—should they not follow him in success? But they didn't. Politicians in his own party began criticising him in the beginning, office-seekers became disgruntled. But Cleveland still counted on the popular approbation; he thought himself too great to suffer harm from small politicians. He was started down hill by these men, and popularity he has never stopped, and now no party seems anxious to support his policy in the next campaign. We believe that Cleveland is a great man; that he is self-confident and independent; that he has made mistakes of judgment in common with all mankind; and we prefer him to Hill or Gorman or Reid or McKinley or Harrison. A great deal of his present unpopularity is a consequence of his great popularity; some of it is due to the machinations of his enemies, other to the general discontent, and other to his mistakes. No one man caused the financial depression, no one man could have remedied it once set in, and no one man in the position of President could have undergone the past few months without losing ground with the great body of the people. "Mr. Cleveland's failure" to retain his popularity of November, 1892, was inevitable. That this failure is so great and so palpable is the cause for surprise, and if he does not redeem himself before final retirement it will be the more surprising.

THE "Seventh Annual Report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the State of North Carolina" has been before us several weeks, but as its author—Commissioner Lacy, who will send any one a copy upon application—confesses in the first few words of his introduction that it "is sadly incomplete," we have not thought it advisable as a basis for reflections. Yet the fact of its incompleteness, which the Commissioner is frank enough to attribute to his own inexperience, the death of an able assistant, and the meagreness of the annual appropriation, coupled with a seeming reluctance on the part of employers to divulge facts regarding their industries which might not meet public approbation, is worthy of consideration. So the "report" is a matter of interest, not so much for what is in it, as for what its author thinks ought to be, his opinion as to why it is now incomplete, and how it may be made complete. The report was made in accordance with the law; otherwise we might have had only a very suggestive introductory at considerably less expense and of equally great value. But we wish to commend Mr. Lacy for getting up even a sadly incomplete report, even though the law did demand it,—for you know there are some things that the law cannot do, among them, it may be refreshing to recall, getting "blood out of a turnip." So now Commissioner Lacy has done the best he could in the circumstances, which were, to speak concretely, $2,000. It was an impossibility to get complete, or even approximately reliable statistics of North Carolina labor, but he has strained a point and collated a part of a report, which we hope "his excellency" will kindly consider a report, though an incomplete report is not a report, if the latter term means something useful. However, we leave this to "his excellency." Let us say in passing that the report is well arranged and perspicously stated, so far as it goes; the trouble is it doesn't go far enough, and Mr. Lacy went as far as one could without railroad fare. He needs appropriation for this purpose; he must travel to factories and mines and make personal investigation; he must have inquisitorial authority, the same which they call outrageous tyranny in South Carolina, to force people to give information when they pursue Mr. Gresham's prized policy—the policy of reticence. But a dreadful contingency arises here. At least $5,000 is needed in addition to the $3,000 now appropriated, not to mention the power and authority needful; else Mr. Lacy, who, indeed, is "a plain, blunt man," says the Bureau may as well be abolished so far as thorough work is concerned. But that grave and dreadful contingency: $7,000—think of it, and forget the inquisitorial authority,—would make the Bureau more desirable than the gubernatorial office; and if the authority were added our Commissioner would be a greater man than Tillman! Can our State undergo these transitions unshaken? Really, our Bureau seems to be leading a doubtful existence. We would be glad to see it well equipped; but we know the people of North Carolina are not in a mood for increasing taxes just now. The Bureau has a capable chief, and it might be very useful with $7,000 with which to perform its functions; but if it is this or abolition, there is no choice; unless the voting public is in much better mood than we presume, the latter is inevitable.

WE HAVE also received the "Annual Report of the Board of Directors and of the Superintendent of the State's Prison." We commend it unreservedly to the morbid figure-gatherer. It tells us how many felons are on our hands, how long they will remain; how many are to the soil indigenous, for how many we are indebted to sister States, and how many hail from foreign climes; how many came to grief in a twelve-month, and whether by malaria and other ills of the flesh or "gun-shot;" what they have attempted to do in an effort to be self-supporting, and what their superintendent would have them do in the same honest cause; what they have eaten, and how; but more important than these, the number of their servants and the hire thereof; the horses they work, and the mules, the cattle, the swine, and how many, and how low the condition of the broad dominions, in the name of the State, over which they roam, when the waters are not over-high—all these and other things are told us between the covers of the report. Surely it possesses the merit of completeness; whether by reason of a convenient appropriation, we know not.

The prison population is 1,183 felons, keepers of felons in the twelve-month 317, with wages ranging from $306 33 to $14 a month, and four directors whose railroad fares were occasionally paid: it is evident that the State's prison is more favored than the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The report also states that the convicts really supported themselves last year, yet further on we find that $10,000 on appropriation was conveniently drawn. It may have been because lots of produce has not been sold; that the penitentiary has a real sub-treasury plan of its own, and draws money without interest while its produce awaits a favorable market. It is startling to think that we have a palpable example of the sub-treasury plan right before our eyes. It may be of interest to know that the convicts have labored—like the rest of folks, honest or not—under sore disadvantages. Floods have come destructively eight times, and miasmic marshes have caused many cases of sickness. We begin to feel like commending the gentlemen for getting out any report at all; yet there is a vague and perhaps uncalled-for desire within us to question why they—they who had public money wherewith to buy and slaves wherewith to develop—should have undertaken to dam the Roanoke's long unharrassed floods! Why didn't the State buy of the hill-country! Why didn't it attempt to dyke the tides of Bogue Sound, if its object was none other than to apply the wasting energy of the convicts! May Mr. Leazer sell his forage and his produce as he has estimated, may his mules come to $100 a head, and his calves to two; may the health of his charges continue to improve, and may he learn the ancient parable of the foolish man, the house, the sands, the winds, the waters and—the downfall. 'Twas and 'tis true. But let us contemplate some figures: 1,182 felons require 217 public servants and four free-mileage directors, and a palace that rivals the Queen's Windsor, and low ground domains noted for the waters that sweep over them Nile like in their vast expanse, but unlike the Nile flood unheralded by a kindly Sirius. Suppose we had 200 teachers and a great building, and several farms for every 1,182 school children now untutored in our borders, and suppose salaries of the former ranged from $306 to $14 per month, and suppose we were expending $188 on each of those children every year. These are the rewards of a felon. He has a castle, four directors, a superintendent, a warden, a matron and body-guards; the school boy and girl endure the damp and the chill of log-cabins and grope in the darksome tutelage of poorly paid teachers—only eighty days in 365. We pay more for the felon than we do for the enlightenment of the growing youth—a potential felon. Is it the felon's fault? or should he have reared himself aright? Or should his State have given him a few timely lessons for its own sake in his formative years?

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. R. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

(NOTE.—The writer regrets that the apparent, if not the real continuity of his argument, is necessarily broken by its publication in serial form. The unity and cumulative force of the argument would, he believes, be more evident if the whole discussion could be read at a single sitting. As this is impossible, he ventures to express the hope that final judgment will be suspended until the whole series shall have been read.)

If it be right and expedient for a State to furnish higher education under Christian auspices to all applicants, it is hard to see the need for private and corporate institutions or to entertain much hope for their continued prosperity. In the last article it was argued that it is not right, because, in doing so, the State is inconsistent. It commits itself to a line of policy which, if carried out logically in all directions, would revolutionize all our economic conditions. But, if the principle on which State control of higher education is based be a correct principle, it ought to be generally applied. If its general application cannot be defended, on what ground is its special application to the higher education based? Not, surely, on the ground of necessity, for it will be shown hereafter that better results in both higher and lower education have been reached in those States which do not undertake to furnish higher education, but endorse the voluntary principle.

Another ground for questioning this right would seem to be the fact that, while all the people are taxed for the support of State universities, colleges, and academies, only a few, in the nature of the case, can avail themselves of the privileges thus afforded. And this comparatively small number could certainly secure similar opportunities for higher culture without the people being taxed for the purpose.

In an Address at Mont Eagle, Tennessee, Bishop Atticus G. Haygood, of the Methodist church, expressed his views on this point as follows:—

"The arguments that sustain the principle of elementary education at public expense do not apply to the luxuries of education. The support of colleges and universities by taxation is foreign to the principles which underlie the Common School system. College education at public expense is un-American; it is at home in monarchical countries; it does not belong to us. Higher education is not a legitimate function of government. College training is not necessary to qualify the people to be good citizens; the arguments that demand the public school for the elementary education of the whole people, forbid the education of a few in college or university at public expense. * * In any country, the constituency of the college is a very small one compared with the masses of the people. I have in mind a State college that registered last year 204 students in a State whose population is well on to two millions. Yet the whole people, rich and poor, white and black, were taxed to give free college education to these 204 youths,—most of them sons of rich or well-to-do people. Tuition is the least part of college education; it would be more righteous to tax the people to pay for the board and clothing of these students, for then the poor as well as the rich would have a chance at the benefits of college or university education provided for by the taxation of the whole people.

"Higher education there must be, else there will presently be an end of all efficient elementary education. If it could not be provided except through colleges and universities supported by the State, then the argument for taxing everybody to give free tuition to the children of a few comfortable citizens would be stronger. But higher education does not depend upon State colleges and universities.

"What are the facts in the case? First, the colleges and universities that are not in any way related to the State educate vastly more students than the State institutions educate. To say the least, they do as good work as the State schools do. The facts require a stronger statement: with only two or three exceptions in the United States, the State colleges do not rank with institutions not connected with the State. To mention three of the older and one of the new, where many might be mentioned, how many State institutions rank with Yale or Princeton or Harvard or Johns Hopkins, either as to the number of students or the quality of the work?"

President Dreher of Roanoke College, Va., referring to this last remark, says: "And it may be added that a higher degree of confidence is felt by the public in the continued good management of Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Johns Hopkins by their Boards of Trustees than would be felt if these institutions were placed under the control of the political parties in power in the States in which these universities are situated."

The amount which it costs a State to educate each student at one of its institutions may be known by dividing the amount of the annual appropriation by the number of students in attendance. Where the appropriation is for plant or betterments, it would not be right to count it as expended for any one single year. Be the amount of expenditure on the individual student small or large, is it an equitable use of money raised by taxation? Certainly it is, provided that the voters of a State are thoroughly informed on the whole subject, and then, with their eyes wide open, voluntarily tax themselves. And if, after thorough discussion of the whole question from various points of view, the people who ultimately constitute the State, decide that they wish the State to undertake to furnish higher education for all, and that they are willing to pay the expense of supplying it, then the expression of their wish ought to be accepted by all as a decision of the question, whatever damage may be wrought thereby to other interests.

But is it at all an open question as to how they would vote, if after considering the matter in all its bearings, they had an opportunity to vote on this single question, unembarrassed by any other question of public interest?

Dr. Nunnally, late President of Mercer University, Georgia, has expressed the following views which apply to the point under consideration: "State education should never have advanced to a grade of scholarship in which the recipient is more benefitted than the State. That education which blesses the recipient, the individual, more than it blesses the State is evidently a boon, a luxury, an accomplishment, which the State is under no obligations to bestow. The State ceases to aim simply at self protection, and becomes a dispenser of alms, a distributor of favors; and the government degenerates into an administration of partiality. Higher education by which the recipient is more benefitted than the commonwealth that bestows it, is but a species of refined, legalized communism. The true province of the State is to protect; when it proposes to do more, it is guilty of usurpation. * * The State should confine its course of instruction to a curriculum, the attainment of which would benefit all the people, and be equally attainable by every citizen. To feed the poor may possibly be the duty of a good government, but to feed them on costly dainties and lodge them in residences of palatial luxury would evidently be transcending the limits of a wise administration. I ask what right has the State to tax its citizens to clothe the bodies of a few in purple and fine linen, and fit them up to fare sumptuously every day? What better right has it to levy a tax to clothe the mind in mental broadcloth and feed the intellect on rare dainties? * * The higher education of the people by the State is a fearful mistake. It is impossible to make it universal, and it is therefore unfair and unjust."

The late Bishop McTyeire, of the Methodist church, has expressed very nearly the same views: "Not a few thoughtful persons take the ground that States should confine their work to common school education, and that with colleges and universities they properly have nothing to do. Primary instruction, including what has facetiously been called the three R's, reading, riting and rithmetic, is almost a natural requisite for citizenship. * * People must not starve, but the public purse may not be drawn upon to feed them on turtle soup and plum-pudding. The key of knowledge has been put into their hands by the public schools. If they have taste or aptitude for greater things, they may be left to make their way up."

It may be considered by some a sufficient answer to the views which have been presented to say: "The right of the State to supply higher education has long been more or less generally recognized, and it is too late to raise the question now."

The truth seems to be that the long history or traditions of no merely human institution afford sufficient reason for its continued existence. Its permanence ought in every case to be justified by considerations of present right and expediency.

The constitutions of some of the States say that the legislatures of these States may make provision for universities, and that so far as practicable, the latter shall give free tuition to the students who attend them. But it should be remembered that many of these constitutions have undergone great modification from time to time, according to the will of the people, in order to adapt them to changed or changing conditions. Very many illustrations might be given. The Constitution of North Carolina, for instance, for many years prohibited any man from holding certain offices unless he were a Protestant. This restriction has long since disappeared.

No constitutional change, however, is needed at present. The Article in our own State Constitution which has reference to provision for higher education is not mandatory but permissive. The legislature may or may not make appropriations for higher education. In this matter, as in others, where the Constitution is not mandatory, legislators must carry out the wishes of the people whom they represent.

If in any State, after a trial for many years of the support, at least in some extent, of the higher education by taxation, it should be deemed wise to rely upon the voluntary system, which has succeeded so well in other States, the way is open for the trial to be made.

Nor will it avail as a valid argument against the position which has been taken to say that some of the Fathers of the Republic gave countenance to State and Federal aid to universities. The fact is granted, but the argument is not. They also believed in lotteries. We do not.

A sufficient answer has come down to us from Thomas Jefferson himself. Writing to his friend Cabell in 1816, he said, referring to "the form of public instruction," "Our descendants will be as wise as we are, and will know how to amend and amend until it shall suit their circumstances." No one among us is as wise as Jefferson, probably, but we know our present circumstances as he could not possibly know them.

It must be confessed that, after a long, long trial of the old Southern system, the masses of the people still remain in a most illiterate condition. One may seem presumptuous, but he is at least honest in questioning whether it is right to continue longer a costly method which has left the masses of the people in comparative ignorance.

The writer is especially desirous, however, of being understood to say that he would deplore the abolition or destruction of any existing institution of learning. But he cannot help believing that it would be better for the State and for these institutions themselves, if they should be freed from all political relations and controlled by self-perpetuating trustees under liberal charters, with the expectation that they would be largely endowed and amply equipped by their alumni and other friends of education.

There can be little doubt that they would be well provided for. In his message to the General Assembly, in January, 1893, the Governor stated that one of these institutions already "embraces more than half a million of dollars in property, of which not twenty-five thousand dollars came from the State treasury." The writer remembers to have read in one of the papers of the State, in February, 1893, a suggestion that, if, in the past, this institution had received this large sum from the bounty of philanthropists, it would be reasonable to expect that it would in the future receive far larger sums from its friends, many of whom were abundantly able to aid in supplying all its needs.

Of course the bare suggestion of such a course will appear startling to many. It would have been so to the writer before he had been led to think over and study the whole question very carefully. But this idea is by no means so startling as was the proposition to sever the connection between Church and State, when it was made in this country more than a hundred years ago. There were not wanting those who honestly believed and did not hesitate to say that if such "narrow" views should prevail, all religion would perish out of the land.

Everybody knows what the results have been. When the responsibility of supporting religious institutions was thrown upon the people, they showed themselves more ready to sustain them out of a "willing mind" than they had ever been when they were taxed for the purpose. And the writer believes that the same results would follow, if all higher education should be "disestablished."

Eugene Lawrence, in "The First Century of the Republic," (page 479, Harpers, 1876,) says: "With the total abandonment of all evil provision for the salaries of the clergy, began the real or positive development of the religious life of the people; and the whole subsequent history has shown that, however much of a prophet Cotton Mather

[CONTINUED ON THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 18, 1894.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Commissioner.

"UNITY IN DIVERSITY."

We remember having read sometime ago a chapter in a stirring book relating to the attitude of the various sects of the Christian religion to the problem of the times—the elevation of the lower and the levelling of the higher classes in our great cities,—which pleaded for unity of aim in the diversity of creeds and sects. The author thought unity in work and final object could be attained as well among diverse sects as in an individual sect. Let us say we differ here, as it is written "how can two walk together except they be agreed," and no man has yet answered the question in practical application. But this is not the aspect of the matter in which we desire to view the question of denominational work: We have diversity in our own denomination, a fortunate diversity attendant on a God-approved independence; yet we need unity.

Some months ago we attempted to show the power of union. We may now recall in illustration the great forces which influence our times. There is union of forces towards one object—the accumulation of wealth—in all the industries. Corporations and trusts have pooled their interests to avoid the expensive friction and competition formerly existing. Everything is organized; our system of government is one combination of men, each accountable to him immediately above, and all accountable to the final human sovereign—the voting public; labor is a series of great organizations, which are becoming more popular and greater every year, for protection against corporate power; even our churches are organized to some extent beyond church lines; we have this society and that society, all for one object it is claimed,—the furtherance of our religion; and even religions made a miserable show of combining at Chicago. These things show the tendency of the times. All forces are being concentrated to avoid useless expenditure of energy and friction. There is no doubt that these combinations have shown the power of unity, whether they have applied that power worthily or not. There is human machinery, well-organized and ably directed, for almost every object; whereas in other days each industry and each laborer and each worker for an individual purpose was content to "look out for himself," trusting in the law of "survival of the fittest" in time of competition. But these things are changed; the world has learned the power of unity even in diversity of tastes and abilities.

We rejoice that our churches cannot be ecclesiastically organized; that in them there is no class, no caste, no authority save God's inspired word,—all servants of the Lord. Yet we have no fear of being questioned in the statement that these servants, diverse in degree of faith, in likes and dislikes, in ideas and opinions, in powers and weaknesses, in love and desire, and in a thousand other particulars, for no man is alike another mentally or physically,—all should labor in that powerful unity measured only by the grandeur of the commission with which the Master has endowed every one of his followers. We should "bear one another's burdens," the strong helping the weak; we should labor so as to be sure that in doing our part something is also at hand for others to do, and if it is not perceived, it should be pointed out; and whatever may be done there should be no rivalry, competition or antagonism, for these destroy rather hasten the achievement of the first and only purpose—the execution of God's will.

And here is evident one of the objectionable effects of internal organizations. They upbuild one object at the expense of another; they strengthen one worker in his favorite field, and one becomes so absorbed in that field that all one's energy is consumed in it, and others are crowded out. This is diversity that kills; a unity of purpose would lead one to endeavor to have all his brethren and sisters do something in each direction; thus roundly and completely, albeit slowly, developing the interest, multiplying the work and increasing the activity of the whole flock.

There is need for the prayers and the sympathy of every member of a church in every cause; and no one should be made to feel out of place in any particular relation. An individual worker may do well, one's work for any one object may be blessed, one's efforts in all directions may be very gratifying; yet an individual worker is not sufficient in himself; there is need of counsel, or advice, of sympathy, of co-operation. "It is not well for man to be alone;" no man is entirely successful until he has gained an interest in others and led them to follow him in his efforts. We are individual; but at the same time we are servants of the Master and workers of the same kingdom. We are a brotherhood in more than name: we are children of a common Father.

We do not believe in "fads" and idiosyncracies. There is but one ground on which to stand, and that is broad enough for men and angels—the whole word of God, the example of Jesus Christ. A half-developed Christian, that is, one who observes the ordinances and follows a part of the Example, is like anything else half-developed; he is not doing his full work. We long to see every one of our brethren and sisters imbued with a sense of their obligation to take a part—however small, and indeed smallness is of little consideration when numbers are so great as ours—in every work of the Baptist brotherhood. There is but one aim, and there are numerous and various efforts toward its achievement, and we wish to see every one assisting those efforts. The world is united, in politics, in industries, in labor, in good and evil causes,—why cannot Baptists all strive with one accord for our own objects as well? We do not need organizations, we do not need other central authority than that of God; we all, speaking generally, serve the Lord in one respect or other; yet there is palpable evidence that a broader and better service is needed from many. When a pastor sets his flock in motion, and they cease to become querulous in their absorption in good work, he is called a good organizer; that is what we need in many fields, a pastor who will not do all the work himself, but who encourages and leads each of his flock to take some part in all work. That is unity in diversity.

BOARD MEETINGS LAST WEEK.

The attendance on the meetings of the meetings of the Boards of Trustees of Wake Forest College and the proposed Baptist Female University were unusually full, and the work executed was very gratifying. The election of Dr. Durham to the chairmanship of the Trustees of Wake Forest College to succeed the lamented Col. Heck meets with general approval. The position is a very responsible one, and just at this period its duties are more exacting than ever. There are barriers to progress to be removed, professorships to be equipped and added, and the endowment of the College must be increased. We are informed that in present conditions the College is not living within its income, though, be it said, this is attributable to conditions which had not been anticipated, and not to extravagant management. There can be no doubt that Wake Forest's force of professors is too small to do the great work which may be required of it. Enlargement and not retrenchment is the order of the day. A committee has been appointed to consider the advisability of making a decided effort to increase the endowment fund, and another to properly adjust the matter of professorships so as to bring the expense within the income. They will report regarding this in June next. Wake Forest needs immediately a chair of Bible study and larger provisions for the study of modern languages. It needs and deserves, moreover, a larger patronage. Dr. Durham is capable of adding great impetus toward the achievement of these things; he is well-known and widely popular, he is energetic, industrious, forceful and determined. His positions in all relations are well-defined and unmistakable, and he may be expected to maintain them in any presence. His success in other undertakings is surety of progress in this new relation. He has always labored with the upbuilding of our denomination under God in his heart.

It may be added that the Board approved the publication in pamphlet form of Dr. Taylor's article now running in the RECORDER. It seems inevitable that the North Carolina public will know at least one side of this question.

The Board of Trustees of the Female University met on the 11th, President Poteat in the chair. It was decided to pay off the $2,000 debt now on the Pullen property. The Adams building will not be purchased, and while this occasions a change of plans and necessitates the immediate erection of a brick building, we have no reason to think that it is not fortunate. There is plenty of room for buildings and grounds on the land already in hand; and a building designed for school-purposes is much more desirable than an adapted one. Secretary Stringfield was authorized to make a thorough canvass for funds to meet the expense of building and equipping which will have to be met this summer and fall. The spirit of the meeting was very encouraging, and we now feel that we are in sight of a useful institution owned by the North Carolina Baptist Convention and conducted for the higher education of girls and young women. The building committee, it is true, is too wise to go into debt if it is apparent that funds will not be forthcoming, yet the expense is really slight compared with the work which such a school will do. We hope we do not seem to reflect on or antagonize any one when we say that the University is designed to serve the Baptists of the State, if they desire its service; it is not local,—in fact our Convention is not implicated in any local work in the sense that it confines its beneficence to any particular quarter.

SENATOR VANCE DEAD.

Zebulon Baird Vance, aged nearly sixty-four years, died in Washington City, D. C., whither he had returned a few days ago from a vain quest for health in Florida, in the night of the 14th inst.

We have not words to express our admiration of this man in life, nor to signify our sense of loss in his death. As his life was devoted to the common weal, as he loved and was loved by every citizen of North Carolina, so is his death a public and a personal calamity, of which none is more sensible than we.

Senator Vance was a man of the people in every relation; he was indeed North Carolina's Commoner, the tribune of her people, the conservator of their interests and their honor. In our opinion from first to last—from the day of his greatest service as "war Governor," until the gradual decline of his powers as Senator—the people's will to him was duty; and whatever one may charge against him in official life is chargeable to his fellow-citizens. And he was by no means unappreciated; his life was full of honors worthy only of the grace with which he wore them. Legislator, Congressman, Governor, Senator,—honor such as has been bestowed upon no North Carolinian has been his. The day will not come until this and another generation have passed when North Carolina will honor and trust and love a man as it loves Vance; and the memory of no man is more deserving of our reverence; and no man's memory will be revered as his will be.

"Zeb. Vance" is now a symbol of what was the inspiration of the man in every relation of life, a symbol of patriotism—State-love—in war and strife and trials and peace; and we thank God that such a symbol is our heritage: as such we would inscribe it on the heart of every citizen of the State, which he has served for more than a generation as only wisdom, purity, honor and nobility could serve.

In this week's instalment of "How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate" a question is asked, which we hope every citizen may put to himself: If it is right for a State to afford the means of higher education by general taxation, should not the State place that education—toward which all must contribute—in the reach of all? Or is it right for a State to give education to the young man or woman, who has sufficient means to pay for board and travelling expenses, and the time to spend in pursuit of higher education, when the young man, who cannot afford either the time or the money, remains at home and pays taxes, part of which educate and elevate those already more fortunate than himself? Surely if it were right to aid any one, it should be the "man who is down." It can be seen how under the present arrangement the rich may become richer and the poor poorer. But such advantages should be offered to neither by a State, if we are to have an equitable government. Dr. Taylor showed in a preceding instalment that such a policy can be reconciled only to a Paternal theory of government, and the Paternal theory is as far from our Constitution as can be. A State should make especial provision only for the afflicted; its proper functions are "to provide for the protection of its citizens, to administer justice and insure the preservation of the liberties of the people." It has already been shown that higher education by the State is not essential to the performance of these functions. He has shown also that the initiation of such a policy may lead to a centralized form of government identical with that of Old World monarchies. Our people have already become too dependent on the central government. A State is not a charitable institution, nor should it be expected to appropiate education to its citizens other than that which is essential to citizenship. What do we think of taxing ourselves for the benefit of students of other States, as is now the case? They pay tuition, but that is comparatively a small matter in the cost of higher education.

In the instalment in this issue Dr. Taylor states his opinion as to the maintenance of State institutions after the State has withdrawn its aid and legislative control, and we desire especially to call to it the attention of those who have spoken of the present discussion as "a fight," a "blow aimed at destruction," and as antagonistic to any institution. It is antagonistic thereby to a policy and not any institution. He has something of vital relevancy to say regarding "traditions" and constitutional interpretation, also.

Now that the weather is more seasonable, we desire to suggest to the brethren that the system of institutes for the instruction of colored preachers be revived with more vigor than ever. We have never tried to settle the "negro problem," believing it a matter that must settle itself. The negro is with us and is going to remain,—for better or worse depends on the amount of attention we give to his moral and intellectual elevation. The gospel of Jesus Christ would settle all problems, and it will settle this one very quickly if it is properly and persistently applied; and the negro pastors are the means through which we must apply it. The negro is naturally religiously inclined, being both emotional, appreciative and a believer in Providence from the beginning; there are no infidels among them. They need more stability, and this will come with greater knowledge.

Institutes for colored pastors conducted in recent years have proven the most inexpensive of mission work, and this is one point greatly in their favor just now. The work, too, is not without earthly as well as spiritual recompense. An instructor learns much from teaching any one, and one learns much more than usual from teaching a colored pastor, who is naturally inquisitive and sometimes deeply philosophical. It is our duty to help these brethren for our own sake as well as theirs. The negro needs the gospel, needs it with more force, and he needs to learn how to study and apply it. The negro pastor may now be doing good and faithful work, but a broader acquaintance with men of experience helps any one, and will help him especially.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS

....Reader, write us of the good things going on in your church.

....Pastor Saunders is holding a protracted meeting with his congregation at Murfreesboro.

....We were glad to have a short visit from Bro. H. C. Dockery of Rockingham last week.

....We were glad to have visits from brethren Marsh, Taylor, Poteat, Hobgood and others last week.

....Rev. J. J. Hall, D. D., will deliver the annual address at the closing exercises of Dr. Lewis' school at Kinston this year.

....We were glad to see Elder John Mitchell in a hopeful mood on his return from a trip west in the interest of his Board.

....The Enterprise states that the Newton Baptists will be able to occupy their new house of worship the latter part of this month.

....The Baptist brethren at Union, Lane's Creek township, are contemplating building a brick house of worship.—Monroe Enquirer.

....Twenty-two members of the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest Colleges were in attendance upon the late called meeting in this city.

....Rev. J. W. Watson of Chapel Hill has received a call to preach at Swepsonville, Alamance county, the first Sunday in each month.

....Bro. J. H. Mills has been appointed by the Governor a State delegate to the meeting of the National Board of Charities and Corrections.

....The brethren who have expressed their desire that Dr. Taylor's article be published for general distribution, may rest assured that it will be so published.

....It will be seen from the letter in another column that Bro. R. L. Patton of Morganton has decided to go to China as a missionary. May God keep and guide him.

....Rev. O. L. Stringfield of the Raleigh Fayetteville Street Church left last week for East Durham, where he is now helping Bro. Blanchard in a series of meetings in his church.

....Rev. P. G. Elsom is meeting with gratifying success in his services with Bro. Van Deventer of Henderson. We hope to have a full report of the meeting from Bro. Van Deventer.

....Pastor Church of Statesville is preaching every night in Thomasville. His sermons are plain, searching and scriptural. We hope the Lord will help him and bless the meeting.—Charity and Children, 13.

....We gratefully acknowledge receipt of an invitation to attend the next meeting of the North Carolina State Dental Society at Durham May 1st to 3d. Bro. C. A Rominger of Reidsville is president of the Society.

....Rev. D. J. Harris has removed from Sparta, N. C., to Yanceyville, and now resides in the Baptist parsonage at the place. An esteemed sister writes us that Bro. Harris is the only preacher residing in Yanceyville.

....Rev. J. L. White of Asheville was in Durham last week and preached on Wednesday night for Bro. Tyree. Bro. White will resume his series of meetings with Dr. Pritchard in Charlotte the latter part of this month.

....We have received the first issue of the Atlantic Baptist, by Dr. Owen and Speight of Norfolk. It is a lively paper and full of promise, and we wish it well. Its editors need no introduction to Virginia and North Carolina Baptists.

....Let there be a full attendance on the Union Meeting at Inwood. Come praying for the work. Members of the church will be glad to entertain any on Friday night coming so as to be on hand by 10 o'clock on Saturday.—A. D. Hunter, Pastor.

....Prof. J. B. Carlyle of Wake Forest College has been secured to deliver the address before the literary societies of Turlington Institute, June 6th. Bro. Carlyle has also been engaged for a similar duty at Buie's Creek Academy May 24th.

....Moody's meetings in Richmond, Va., closed last Thursday. They were largely attended throughout, but it is manifest that "union" revival meetings in the South are not as fruitful as in the North, however great preliminary preparations may be.

....Rev. W. J. Hopkins baptized two candidates at Mooresville on the 8th inst. Two others await the ordinance. We are glad to note the prompt acquittal of Bro. Hopkins of a loathsome charge. We have known him for many years as a Christian gentleman.

....We have just received a letter, dated March 16th, from Brother E. F. Tatum of Shanghai, China, stating that "Mother Yates grows more feeble," and that all are very anxious about her. We hope and pray that she may be spared yet many years to her Master's work.

....The Mid-winter California Fair is imitating the World's Fair in many things, and is now holding a series of Congresses. It will hardly attempt to institute a "congress of 'religions,'" however, as the miserable Chicago failure seems to have been sufficient for all time.

....The American Baptist Home Mission Society closed its fiscal year March 31st with a debt of $101,456. This seems to be a year of debt, national, commercial and religious. Let us see to it that our Convention records the exception to the rule in May. We can do it.

....Rev. J. F. MacDuffie of Durham writes: "We had services in our new house at Piny Grove last Sunday (1st) for the first time. Our executive committee has had this mission point under supervision for several years. The congregation was large and the meeting was inspiring."

....Rev. Dr. C. S. Blackwell of Elizabeth City, N. C., had a glorious day last Sunday. Three were added to the church, and fifty dollars raised for State Missions——Rev. J. E. White of Edenton is greatly pleasing the Spurgeon Memorial people in the revival.—Atlantic Baptist, April 12.

....The report of the recent Georgia Baptist Convention showed that $80,505 61 had been collected for Missions (of all kinds) and Education during the year. The Convention adopted a resolution favoring numerical, the only right basis, of representation at the Southern Baptist Convention.

....The Smithfield Herald of the 12th contains some very complimentary resolutions regarding Rev. F. H. Poston's recent resignation of Shiloh Baptist church. It is announced, however, that Bro. Poston has decided to continue on in this pastorate at the unanimous solicitation of his members.

....Rev. Dr. J. W. M. Williams, pastor emeritus of the First Baptist church of Baltimore, has been re-elected president of the Maryland Tract Society, he having written a letter saying that, although temporarily residing at Chapel Hill, N. C., with his daughter, he still considers Baltimore his home.—Watchman.

....We had a very pleasant visit from Rev. C. W. Blanchard of East Durham last Monday. We do not know of a young brother who takes a more intelligent interest in Baptist affairs than he. Brother Blanchard came to Raleigh to preach for the Fayetteville Street brethren and sisters, Pastor Stringfield being in the midst of a gracious revival in East Durham.

....Rev. Chas. A. G. Thomas of Greensboro has been preaching in his church every night for twelve nights. There have been seven professions. We are glad to hear that his work is moving on well. Bro. Thomas believes in printers' ink; he has printed leaflets addressed to church members urging them to work, and tracts for those out of the church; and they are pointed and well prepared, too.

....Now is the time to help the Home and Foreign Mission Boards, if you are going to help them at all soon. Remember the burden of debt must be greatly lightened, and the time for closing the year's accounts—May 1—is very near at hand. What a blessing it would be if the Convention should meet and be presented with unburdened reports! And it may come if every one of us sends something.

....We learn from the Messenger and Intelligencer that the revival at Wadesboro continues with unabated interest. The number of converts is stated by that paper as ten. Rev. D. W. Key of South Carolina, who assisted ably in the meeting the first week, has returned home, and Elder M. A. Adams of Monroe is now doing the preaching. Bro. Adams will deliver an address at the commencement exercises of Polkton Academy.

....Rev. J. M. White of Apex sends us the following: "The saw mill, dry-kilns, etc., at Apex, owned by the Hickson Company have become quite an extensive plant. ——My churches are all moving on quietly and pleasantly.——Our Boards and denominational enterprises depend on the people for support. The question many of us would like to have answered is not exactly how 'to get blood out of a turnip,' but one closely related to it. The best I know is, 'the Lord will provide.'"

....Dr. H. M. Wharton has declined the call to the Epiphany Baptist church of New York City, and will continue to serve the Brantley church, Baltimore. He was announced to come to Raleigh last week from Danville, Va., where he had been conducting meetings, and lecture for the First Baptist church, but the engagement was cancelled on account of his sudden, and we presume temporary, illness. We hope Dr. Wharton may yet be secured to lecture in Raleigh.

....Rev. J. K. Fant writes: "We have had a blessed meeting at Enfield. Bob Poole came down and preached Christ unto us for eight days in his own inimitable, unique way. The church was gloriously revived and edified, and sinners, not a few, were moved to seek the Lord. There were I know not how many conversions, as I do not count professions until they join the church. Some were baptized, however, and others are expected. To God be all the praise."

....Rev. J. H. Lamberth writes from Greenville: "God's hand is leading me and giving me good congregations. Fourteen people have joined the Greenville church recently—six by baptism, five by letter and three by restoration. About twenty have professed faith this year at Ephesus without any especial meetings; five of them were baptized on the first Sunday. Don't you think this a better way than by 'spasmodic jerks?'" We do. Bro. Lamberth will be with Rev. Duncan McLeod at Washington in a meeting for the next two weeks.

....Our esteemed contemporary, the N. C. Christian Advocate, doesn't approve of the Baptist contention for the exact form—as they know it—in the ordinance of baptism. Formerly it was denied that the Baptist form was even according to the Bible; now this is admitted by scholars of many sects, but they question its essentiality. As we see it baptism is not baptism unless there is dipping and burial and resurrection. Let the Advocate set up its columns in broken type and words next week, and its readers will impress it with the essentiality of exactness and completeness in forms, symbols and ordinances.

....Rev. J. F. Love's meetings at the West End Mission, Raleigh, with Bro. Hunter have been very fruitful. There have been more than twenty-five professions of conversion, and the community has been greatly uplifted. There was need at the West End for just such work as Bro. Love has done, and on his return to Suffolk he will leave a stronger and more promising field for Bro. Hunter. We have enjoyed several pleasant visits from him while in the city. Up to date there have been about thirty professions, and the interest is so great that the meeting will be continued through this week. Dr. Carter said last Sunday that he had never seen young men work in a meeting as the A. & M. students are working. Bro. Hunter says he has never seen a more thoroughly orderly set of young men. These statements are very gratifying. Rev. Baylus Cade preached for Bro. Love at Suffolk last Sunday.

....Perhaps it is advisable to state for the information of those of our readers who purpose attending the Southern Baptist Convention, that there are two rival railroads competing for the travel on this occasion in our State, viz: the Richmond & Danville, which connects with a route by Birmingham and Memphis, and the Seaboard Air Line, by which one may go by way of Atlanta and New Orleans. Rates are the same, and may be seen in another column. The former road is endorsed by brethren Simms, Harris and Gregory, the latter by brethren Durham, Broughton and Hall. None of these brethren have made mistakes; both roads will carry you to the Convention, and judging by their uniform kindness to us in the past, they will take good care of all their patrons. Mr. Hopkins, the agent of the R. & D. system, called in to see us last week and gave every assurance that his road was doing all within its power to make the trip pleasant and profitable, and we feel sure it will.

From Bro. Willingham.

We are very anxious to pay all of our indebtedness before the Convention. One earnest brother, who has the cause at heart, has been writing to me in reference to the work, and says that if we will raise this money, I can count on him with one or two others around him for at least a thousand dollars, to pay the debts of our Home and Foreign Boards.

Let us press the matter all along the lines, getting funds from churches and individuals. The Baptist brotherhood can pay all of our debt, if each will do his duty instead of waiting for others to do all. I hope to hear from many in North Carolina within the next few weeks. What church or individual will speak out?

Our books close the last of April. Let us pray and pay.

R. J. Willingham, Cor. Sec.
Richmond, Va., April 9, 1894.

Rev. J. L. Sproles.

Whereas, Rev. J. L. Sproles has seen fit to resign his pastorate of the Shelby Baptist church, and has accepted a call in a distant State.

Resolved, That in his departure, the church loses an able preacher, a watchful and sympathizing pastor, a zealous, patient and aggressive worker, a staunch Baptist, a true Christian, and that we commend him to the brethren of his new field of labor, invoking the blessings of God upon him wherever he may go.

And further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Biblical Recorder for publication, and a copy of the same be spread upon the minutes of this church.

Read before and adopted by the church en masse the 28th of March, 1894.

Dr. C. L. Taylor's Articles.

In the discussion of "How far ought a State to undertake to educate," the man, the question and the occasion have met.

A number of able lawyers, educators and ministers of the gospel read carefully the whole discussion before any part of it was given to the public; and so far as I know, without an exception, they, like the Recorder, think it is "a clear-cut and logically invincible discussion." It is on the question of State policy to be settled only by the people. This question is now up and it will not down. It will never again be "patched up" or "side tracked." The highest interests of the people are involved in the conclusions. Its presentation is the best work of Dr. Taylor's useful life. It is a service to his State, to the cause of education, to the young men of the country, and to the college over which he has, with so much wisdom, distinction and success, presided for many years.

The fundamental questions, with the principles involved, and their proper application, are not now appreciated by those who have not made special investigations and careful study. But "turn on the light," and all will be bright. This will be done. The cost has been counted, the resistance measured, the field surveyed, and the strength and weakness of both sides compassed. The time is most opportune. We, however, wrestle not only against a century of traditions and legislative enactments, strongly rooted customs, deeply seated prejudices, and uncontradicted assumptions; but against the terror of principalities, against the combination of powers, against the rules of darkness in the State's educational policy, against the Winstonian blandishments, trickery, deception and arrogance—e. g., at the A. & M. College, at the Robeson Association, in the Biblical Recorder, &c. So soon as the articles are completed in the Recorder, twenty five thousand copies, in pamphlet form, should be published; and, if necessary, we can have and at once put into the hands of the people. A copy should be sent to every professor in every college, to every teacher in all of the schools, to every lawyer, to every doctor, preacher, State and county officer, to every prospective member of the Legislature, and to every man who will use them for the object contemplated.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND COPIES PRINTED

At the last session of our Convention I was made chairman of a committee "to memorialize the Legislature at the next session of that body" on these questions. But the only open door for us is to "memorialize the Legislature," through the people, before its members are elected, and not allow ourselves to be hampered by the legislative committee on education, a list of whose names might be furnished the presiding officer in both ends of the Capitol by some enemy of the denominational colleges. Begin in time.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College in this city, April 11th, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved 1. That we commend the articles by the President of Wake Forest College, on "How far ought a State to undertake to educate," now being published in the Biblical Recorder, to a most thoughtful reading.

"Resolved 2. That we would be pleased to see said articles in some more permanent form, and widely circulated among the people of the State."

It was not designed by these resolutions to commit the Board, or any member thereof, to the conclusions reached in the articles referred to, but to do only what is done—to commend their thoughtful reading, their publication in some more permanent form, and their wide circulation. The articles did not need the commendation of the Board. They stand for themselves, and will win their way wherever, without prejudice, they are thoughtfully read.

I have read, with much care, the Georgia discussion (now in book form) of these questions. There, on the one side, was the greatest constitutional lawyer in the great State of Georgia, and on the other side was the President of the Methodist College of said State.

But Dr. Taylor's discussion is a stronger and a better presentation of these great questions than I have seen elsewhere. I have addressed from thirty to fifty thousand people, in my own native State each year, for the past seven years; and, if there is any one thing I know, I know that thousands of our people are anxious for an opportunity to express themselves on these great questions. The man, if thoroughly informed, who speaks to them about these matters will have anxious, liberal and unflinching supporters.

C. Durham.

Fayetteville Street Church, Raleigh.

Dear Recorder:—We have just closed a delightful series of meetings in our church, Fayetteville Street. Eleven have been received for baptism, two or three others are expected, and others have been received into other churches. We do not count any except those who get into ranks to aid in fighting the "good fight of faith."

Eternity alone will reveal the good accomplished through the powerful presentation of the gospel by Rev. C. A. Jenkens of Goldsboro, N. C. Surely it was a feast to all of us to hear him tell the "old story" with such freshness. We want him to come again soon. That which impressed us most was his hiding himself so completely behind Christ. Truly, O. L. Stringfield.
Raleigh, April 11, 1894.

Central Association.

UNION MEETINGS.

These meetings will convene on Sunday, April 29, at 10:30 a. m., with the churches at Youngsville and New Hope. Suitable programs will be arranged for morning and afternoon. W. R. Royall.

What President Winston Says.

"Were I a Baptist, I would rejoice in the success of the State University."

This is what Dr. Winston says to the Baptists of North Carolina in his card published in the Recorder of April the 4th.

There are several difficulties in the way of some Baptists rejoicing in the success of the State University if its success is to be attained by its present policy. Its present policy is to run in competition with the colleges, even the academies, offering free tuition and other inducements to our boys. Having been over a large portion of the State three times during the last three years, and having seen scores of our Baptist boys, I have yet to find the first one who had come in contact with the head of the State University who had not the offer made him.

For instance: I met a young man at an association who told me that he expected to enter Wake Forest College the next fall, or the next fall year at furthest. He said he had had his heart set on taking a course at Wake Forest ever since he was old enough to know anything about it. That night one of the ministers told me that President Winston had that afternoon made some offers to the young man to induce him to go to the University; and that he would be glad if I would see the young man again. I saw him and asked him what offers had been made him. He said he had tuition offered him and any other help that might be found necessary to carry him through if he came and got along well with his work. Some months after this I saw President Winston and told him that we could not compete with the State in giving our boys a college education, and if they were let alone to pursue a college course in their own denominational college while their characters are forming, then we would rejoice to see them all, if they could, taking a University course. Dr. Winston said that the young man told him that he was poor and had nothing. I replied that he told me the same, but notwithstanding his poverty, he had been set on coming to his own college, and was teaching school to enable him to come.

This put me to studying this condition of things as I had never done before. I saw that the Baptists and the other denomination in the State are in competition with themselves. They are struggling to sustain their own institutions and are taxed to sustain State institutions which are in the field as their competitors doing all the work which they are doing from the very lowest to the highest. No man likes to be in competition with himself, and hence it is somewhat difficult for some Baptists to rejoice in the success of the State University achieved by its present policy.

In December, 1892, a committee of three appointed by the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College met in Raleigh. Dr. Winston asked to come before the committee and make a statement. His request was granted. One of the committee told him that it seemed to us that his policy would drive the denominational colleges to the wall. He replied "I am not trying to break down the denominational colleges. I appreciate the work they have done, but if my policy breaks them down I am not responsible for it; I am for the University. North Carolina has never had anything and I am determined that she shall have a university. I expect to have five hundred boys there soon and then soon thereafter I expect to see a thousand there." This mania for numbers is bringing the State in such sharp competition with most important enterprises of many of her citizens, that all Baptists true to their past history, are finding it hard to rejoice in any success that comes out of such a policy.

In the same meeting of this same committee Dr. Skinner asked Dr. Winston if the impression is not being made on the minds of the young men all over the State that to hope for political preferment in North Carolina one must attend the State University. Dr. Winston promptly replied, "Gentlemen, is it not so?" He then named five men who he said are Baptists, who had political honors conferred on them during the last campaign and said: "Gentlemen, I take it for granted that these men would not be where they now are if they were not University men." Dr. Skinner and Dr. Hufham will please correct me if I have misstated him.

We have other evidence in a printed circular over his own name that such impressions have been sought to be made on the minds of the young men of the State. Now such means of competition are not only unfair, but they are beneath the dignity of a State University, and University of the State that owns and fosters it. And Baptists can ill afford to rejoice in success so attained.

In December, 1892, the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College held a session in Raleigh, and the question was up as to whether any adjustment between the University and the College could be effected. One of the members told the Board that he was also a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, and that he knew whereof he affirmed when he said that leading members of the Board of Trustees of the University see no place in North Carolina for the denominational colleges and that they think that the State should educate from the University down, and that it would be useless to attempt anything of the sort. I said then, and I say now, that the present policy of the University confesses the truth of this statement.

And with State taxes to sustain it, and with State prestige behind it, the time cannot be long till the denominational colleges will be driven out of the field. Wake Forest College has done too much for the Baptists and for the world, and they have too much invested in it to feel much like rejoicing in a success by means of a policy so full of promise to bring such an end.

Baptists remember too vividly the struggles of their pastors a hundred years ago in a war against State religion to rejoice in a manifest tendency to put Christian education in the hands of the State.

Baptists cannot rejoice much in seeing the money taxed for the education of a favored few while tens of thousands of poor children are growing up in ignorance and are not having the facilities offered them by the State to acquire that degree of training necessary to make them good citizens. About one dollar spent by taxation on each poor child a year and from eighty to one hundred dollars spent on the young man who can make his own way. Some Baptists believe that when a boy or a girl gets an education above what the common schools afford, or that which they ought to afford, gets that which is worth paying for, and the getting it prepares him or her for paying for it.

Let our State University, like the great colleges and universities in the New England and some other States, look to the friends of higher education, and not to the taxes of the people, for endowment and let the friction between it and the colleges cease, and then, and never till then, can it hope for true success, and then all the Baptists will rejoice in its success as every intelligent Baptist rejoices in Johns Hopkins, Yale, Harvard, and scores of others.

W. R. Gwaltney.

From Newbern.

Bro. P. G. Elsom of Pincastle, Va., began a protracted meeting in the Baptist church here in Newbern, March 21st. The meeting continued a week and a half. I have already baptized seventeen and expect to baptize others. The Methodist and Presbyterian churches have had several additions; both churches together have had about as many as were added to the Baptist.

Our church has been very much revived, and with the hope of keeping them united and zealous, the pastor has begun a series of sermons on "vital godliness." By the way, is formal godliness a term which we can use? Is there any such thing? Mere formal godliness is no godliness. And, on the other hand, godliness cannot be godliness without being vital. So we have no more right to say vital godliness than we have to say free grace: if grace is grace, it is free, and if godliness is godliness, it is vital.

With joy mingled with sadness, I record the fact that in addition to those added by baptism, we added about a half dozen stray Baptists—people who use to be members of the church, but had left the community where they first joined without anything to show that they were "in full fellowship and good standing." What better letter of recommendation could any Baptist carry with him to a new place than a church letter?

Bro. Elsom has held a meeting in Shelby and Newbern. In both of these North Carolina towns he has had fine success. Newbern people, regardless of denominational difference, will long remember his visit to this place.

I might say many good things about my work, but since I am not anxious to leave here I will not advertise.

And now to the work of keeping the old sheep in the pasture and of feeding these lambs on the sincere milk of the Word that they may grow thereby.

Rufus Ford.

Rev. Abram Jenkins.

Dear Recorder:—News reaches me that Bro. Abram Jenkins of Bertie county, N. C., is dead. Permit me to pay a short tribute to the memory of my friend and brother in Christ.

Abram Jenkins was above the average. He possessed a fine head full of common sense. A high-tone Christian gentleman, his church and community was made better because he lived in them. He was my friend. I know he was. He made known his friendship to me when I most needed his help. Never shall I forget, when I, a struggling boy, entered the ministry, how he, with his great sympathetic heart, helped to lift me up out of discouragements into which I was thrown by those who were no helpers. He would always do his best to help me out of mistakes which I had made. I went to his home as often as I had opportunity. I invariably found Bro. Jenkins the same loving husband, kind father and Christian brother. I felt that I was in the home of a father. Well do I remember the day when he and the writer gave themselves to Christ together. And, never, as long as memory holds its seat, shall I forget that lovely Sabbath morning when Rev. Jeremiah Bunch of blessed memory led us both down into the water and "buried us with Christ by baptism." Of me he seemed to often make the anxious inquiries: "Is the young man safe? Is it well with him?" Being told it was "well," he was glad.

I loved him. And brother, as thou liest in thy grave to-day, I love thee. When I go, again, to the dear old mother church, Connaritsa, I shall not see Bro. Jenkins. I grieve because of it. But I rejoice because I shall see him "when the mists have rolled away." Yes, now, I weep. But,

"There, hand to hand, firm linked at last
And heart to heart enfolded all;
We'll smile upon the troubled past,
And wonder why we wept at all."

May our dear Father comfort the wife, the children, the relatives and many friends of our departed brother. He is in heaven. Only a little while and we shall see him. Thank God. C. W. Matthews.
Berkley, Va.

The death of Senator Vance intensifies interest in the State election this fall, as the legislators then elected will have to choose two senators, one for the regular term, Ransom's time having expired, and one to serve the remaining two years of Vance's term. Gov. Carr will appoint a successor to the late Senator to serve until the legislature convenes.

Two Important Questions.

Two questions that undoubtedly among the most vital interests of our State morally, spiritually and temporally are now being ventilated in the columns of the Recorder. One is that of the educational system of the State. Whatever changes needed to create a happier and more healthful condition in every grade of education, we hope will be shown in the fair and honest treatment of the subject now being submitted to your paper. One thing is very certain, there are very many citizens of North Carolina to-day who feel that it is time for improvement, if not for a decided change. We would not croak. We deplore fault-finding, but a faulty and burdensome system of education deserves a candid consideration from its supporters—the tax payers—and we will talk and think about it at least.

Another question, the graver of the two, and of all others as for that, is the liquor traffic. No one can follow the records of our courts without appreciating the great burden this traffic is to our government. Four fifths of the crimes are directly or indirectly attributable to this evil. And from this standpoint we conclude that at least the same ratio of expense is created by it. But in the name of Christianity we would not argue dollars and cents. When we consider the end of the criminal, and his cohort of attendants that may escape his civil misfortunes and indictment, yet, who verily do meet his final judgment, all, too, a result of legislative defalcation in a Christian land, endorsed not only by the masses of professors, but by the ministry of the gospel—the emmisaries of heaven, it appears to be time for the conservative to cast a reflection. At home and abroad this evil offers the strongest resistance to the spread of the gospel to say nothing of the unhappiness, and even misery of the millions of innocent mothers and children all over the land. It is antagonistic to every righteous claim upon humanity. The following statistics were compiled by the secretaries of the Home and Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1893 as the annual expenditures in the United States:

Home and For. Missions	$ 11,000,000
Public education	85,000,000
Boots and shoes	196,000,000
Cotton goods	210,000,000
Woolen goods	337,000,000
Meat	803,000,000
Bread	805,000,000
Tobacco	600,000,000
Alcohol	1,300,000,000

From the foregoing, and we have no reason to doubt its accuracy, we find that only eleven million dollars are annually spent for the spread of the gospel at home and abroad, and one billion and two hundred millions spent in the same length of time for alcohol. The use of arithmetic shows us that one hundred and nine dollars are expended for the deadly curse to every one spent in the evangelization of the world. Now look at it, if it would take one hundred and nine years to evangelize the world with eleven millions a year, why not expect one hundred and nine times that amount to do it in one year. And much more so when we would have the barrier of intemperance out of the way? Then, we spend about fifty-five dollars for tobacco to every one for the extention of the gospel. Take the two nuisances together and put their results to missions and it would be strengthened one hundred and sixty-four fold. We might continue to compare the above table in its rational bearings to each object and we would find it the mastodon enemy of all.

In conclusion, shall we who claim to have the weal of our race at heart, mind, body and soul, and, too, with the possible power over our common foe vested in us, stand still and see the king of terror continue to sweep his blighting hand over our homes and country and drag down at every stroke, those who would be our joy in time and eternity, into an abyss of woe and ruin?

C. W. Blanchard.
East Durham, April 7, 1894.

Bro. Patton to Become a Foreign Missionary.

Bro. Bailey:—For years I have resisted the Saviour's command, "Go ye." Though forty five years of age, I can do so no longer. The "appeal for one hundred missionaries" for interior China must not go unheeded! If God opens the way, we will go to China next fall. We will be sent direct by the churches. Any friend or church wishing to help send us, can send funds to Bro. E. A. Spainhour, Moravian Falls, N. C. He will receive and report in the Recorder all funds for our passage to China.

R. L. Patton.
Morganton, April 13, 1894.

Poe Den Union.

This meeting which is to be held with the Laurinburg Baptist church, April 27th—29th, is to be devoted to the Sunday-school work.

PROGRAM.

Friday, 27th, 4:30 p. m.—Organization.
8 p. m.—Preaching.
Saturday 9:30 a. m.—Helping the children at home in preparing the lessons. Rev. J. F. Tuttle, H. O. Dockery.
11 a. m.—How to enlist and develop the children in missionary work. Rev. T. Johnson, W. J. McLendon.
2:30 p. m.—Should we confine ourselves to the lesson helps in teaching the younger children? Rev. J. Q. Adams, Rev. C. H. Martin.
3:30 p. m.—Old folks and the Sunday-school. A. Johnson, I. S. Covington.
8 p. m.—Mission schools in our Association. Rev. T. H. Wright, J. T. Gaddy.
Exercises for Sunday will be arranged at the meeting.
The churches are requested to send a full delegation of Sunday-school workers.

Committee.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

may have been in some respects, he was a very poor one in his valuation of the straits to which preachers would be reduced who might have to depend on voluntary support."

No one can fairly raise the cry that the object of those who may favor any such views as are advocated here is to destroy any college or university. One may seek for reformation and yet be no iconoclast. And it is to be hoped that a resistance to the will of the people, if they really prefer the voluntary system in higher education, will not drive them to any extreme position.

(To be continued.)

Our Seminary Letter.

Dear Recorder:—An item or two as to happenings in this part of the country might not be altogether without interest to your readers.

One evening last week, Mr. W. D. Willard Lyon, Travelling Secretary of the Students' Volunteer Movement, lectured in Norton Hall to a mass-meeting of the students of this and the Presbyterian seminaries. Mr. Lyon was born in China, and expects to return to his native country as a missionary. He is a Presbyterian, but this does not keep him from being very enthusiastic on the subject of Foreign Missions.

The four brethren recently appointed by our Foreign Mission Board for China have been for some time visiting various churches, both in and out of the city. Their object is to excite more interest in the great mission field of China.

The first day of the month coming on Sunday this time our missionary meeting was held on the following day, Monday. It was a meeting of more than usual interest and power. Bro. R. Cohron of Mississippi read a paper on "Cuba as a Mission Field," which was both interesting and instructive. We are fortunate in having with us Bro. Chastain from Mexico. He is spending a few weeks here. He made a stirring speech for Mexico.

We are having a feast of good things these days. Not long ago, Dr. P. S. Henson of Chicago was here and gave his celebrated lecture on "Fools." Dr. G. C. Lorimer is to lecture to-night and to-morrow night. Next week Hon. Geo. R. Wendling will deliver his lectures on "Stonewall Jackson," "The Man of Galilee," and "Saul of Tarsus."

Dr. Whitsitt is away now at the Georgia State Convention in the interest of the Students' Fund.

The scheme of the final examinations have already been posted. No rest for "theologues" now until they are all over.

Bro. H. Morris, one of our North Carolina students, finds that he will have to leave the Seminary before the close of the session. He is a good man, and some of the pastorless churches in the State would do well to secure his services.

There are nineteen who hope to be full graduates in June. Of this number, Missouri has four, Tennessee three, Virginia, South Carolina and Alabama, two each, and Maryland, North Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Texas and Kentucky, only one each. The prospect now is that North Carolina will make a better show as to numbers next year as it ought to do.

JAS. I. KENDRICK.

New York Hall, April 6, 1894.
Louisville, Ky.

Some Objections to Young People's Societies Answered.

Dear Recorder:—Allow me to thank Bro. Van Deventer, and my old pastor, Brother Brown, for their timely articles on young people's society. The effort to get the people to think on the subject, will, I judge, be successful by and by, and all the people will then fall in with the movement.

But some objections need to be answered. What Paul says about "divisions among you," strange to say by one of your correspondents writing in opposition to societies, has been construed as authority for disapproving of societies in the churches. Can it be that any one is so much in error as to the apostle's meaning as to seriously so interpret his words? Do we not all know that he is referring to schisms, contention, alienations and strife? This is so evidently the meaning of the apostle that it is impossible to inspire any man of reasonable intelligence, thinking for a moment, that the apostle's words have even the remotest application to such organizations in the church as are under consideration. When a passage in the Word of the Lord is thus violently wrenched from its true place in Scripture teaching and made to serve as an argument against all decisions that may be made for the purpose of developing greater spirituality, harmony and efficiency among the workers of the kingdom, our sense of right and justice rebels. Let us beware of wresting the Scriptures to our destruction in our eagerness to make a point in an argument with those who have respect for God's Word and regard it as infallible authority in all matters of faith and practice.

I protest against the above use of Corinthians, and respectfully suggest that such use of it exposes the weakness of the opposition to young people's societies.

2. Another very weak argument is that made by those who say, "The church is the only society needed by Christians. It is a missionary society, young people's society," &c., ad nauseam. To express one's self in this way is about as absurd as to say that man does not need any hands, feet or eyes since his body is sufficient for all purposes. Pray tell me are not the hands, feet and eyes parts of the body? And are not missionary societies, young people's societies, &c., parts of the church? "For the body is not one member, but many. If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body? If the ear say, because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body? If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were hearing, where were the smelling? But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him. And if they were many members, where were the body? But now are they many members, yet but one body. And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again, the head to the feet, I have no need of you. Nay, much more those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary. And those members of the body which we think to be less honorable, upon these we bestow more abundant honor; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness."

After saying this, the apostle mentions the different divisions in the church of God. He speaks of "apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, gifts of healing, helps, governments, diversities of tongues"; and asks, "Are all apostles, are all prophets, are all teachers? Are all workers of miracles? Have all gifts of healing? Do all speak with tongues? Do all interpret?" His whole argument is in favor of division of labor among the members of the church according to the respective gifts of each member. Possibly his word for missionary societies, or young people's socities, is "helps." And this might be a good name for some young people's societies to adopt, so as to legitimately overcome any prejudice that may be in the minds of some good brethren against "societies" in the church. Call them "helps", and you at once have a Scripture name.

To speak of societies in the church as if they were not parts of the church is as ridiculous as it would be to speak of the cavalry or infantry of an army as if either were no part of the army. If it is thought wise to do so, the officers and committees of all societies might be elected in a regular church meeting and be required to make regular reports to the conference or business meetings of the church. This would enable the older brethren and sisters to keep track of the young people. In our church the superintendent of the Sunday-school is elected by the church and makes monthly reports of the condition of the school to the church. All the societies in the church likewise report their work. It is a good thing to do. There ought to be a monthly report from pastor, deacons, trustees, Sunday school superintendent, ladies' aid society, woman's missionary society, society of Christian Endeavor, and also from the president of the junior society of Christian Endeavor. By this arrangement a practical and regular recognition is made of the fact that we are not divided in spirit or purpose, but can sing:

"We are not divided;
All one body we,
One in faith and doctrine,
One in charity."

The opposition offered to young people's societies reminds me of a statement made by Prof. Huxley. He says: "I know no study which is so unutterably saddening as that of the evolution of humanity, as it is set forth in the annals of history. Out of the darkness of prehistoric ages man emergies with the marks of his lowly origin strong upon him. He is a brute, only more intelligent than the other brutes; a blind prey to impulses which, as often as not, lead him to destruction; a victim to endless illusions, which make his mental existence a terror and a burden, and fill his physical life with barren toil and battle. He attains a certain degree of physical comfort, and develops a more or less workable theory of life in such favorable situations as the plains of Mesopotamia and of Egypt, and then for thousands and thousands of years, struggles with varying fortunes, attended by infinite wickedness, bloodshed and misery, to maintain himself at this point against the greed and the ambition of his fellowmen. He makes a point of killing and otherwise persecuting all those who first try to get him to move on; and when he has moved on a step, foolishly confesses post mortem deification on his victims. He exactly repeats the process with all who want to move a step yet further."

This being the nature and history of the race, let us be patient with one another, brethren; by and by, we may all come to see eye to eye, and "all speak the same thing."

PHILOGENET.

For Indigestion and Nervousness,
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate,

Dr. W. O. Hoyt, Rome, Ga., says: "I have found it both an agreeable and useful remedy in many cases of indigestion, and also in nervous troubles attended with sleeplessness and a feeling of exhaustion."

"Slow to Speak."

Scarcely do you hear the ungracious word before your more ungracious answer rushes to your lips. And does it pause there? Do the faithful lips keep the door shut and prevent its egress? Probably not. You must "answer again." And your answer provokes a rejoinder. Every word on either side is a fresh fagot for the flames. And presently, where there were only a few embers, not enough to light a candle, there is now a conflagration. Peradventure it may die down as suddenly as it sprang up; but it is more likely to last, and as it burn on it may spread into a huge prairie fire. And all this because you would not heed the caution—be "slow to speak." This is one of the various rules the Scriptures give us for avoiding anger and strife, none of which can be of any radical and permanent efficacy unless the grand motor, the heart, be brought under the power of Divine love.—H. Boardman.

If you desire a luxurious growth of healthy hair of a natural color, nature's crowning ornament of both sexes, use only Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

Talks on Medicine—No. 5.

BY A RETIRED PHYSICIAN.

SORE THROATS.

This is perhaps one of the most common affections, at least with some people. There are several kinds of "sore throats"—first, what is known as the "bad-cold throat," caused usually by cold. It does not amount to much usually. Sometimes it calls for treatment, when in my judgment the best thing is a gargle of hot water and salt, as hot as can be borne and strong with salt. In order to get the least results, it should be gargled freely every few minutes. By the way, let me say here that for any sore throat this is one of the best remedies which can be used.

TONSILITIS.

Many people are predisposed to this form of throat trouble. It may be caused by a number of things. Perhaps, the most frequent cause is a "gouty diathesis." Frequently associated with tonsillar troubles is gout or rheumatism, either in the patient or the back family. So sometimes in order to prevent the attacks in such a patient, treatment directed to the patient's constitution would have to be given. But we are supposed now to be dealing with a case of acute tonsilitis, and something must be done for it. The books on medicine make a number of distinctions as to kinds, but for us they are not necessary. It is sufficient to know that enlarged or acutely swollen tonsils, very sore throat, fever, aching limbs with perhaps a chill in the outset is tonsilitis, and whether it be complicated with something else or not, calls for treatment. Now in almost every case I should begin my treatment by a full dose of calomel ranging from 2½ to 5 grains for an adult and follow it by a large dose of salts. This reduces fever and equalizes circulation, and in this way prevents in part the extent of the inflammation. Follow this by large doses of quinine ranging from ten to twenty grains in the twenty-four hours. Also, if patient is thin, as is usually the case, give five to ten drops of tincture of iron every two or three hours. If possible, also add to each dose from 2½ to 5 grains of chlorate of potash. This will usually be sufficient for the internal treatment. Locally, I would recommend in every case the hot salt-water gargle every few minutes. It is the best thing to use. The following also is good not only for tonsolitis, but in any sore throat, even diphtheria:

Take Chlorate potash	120 grains.
Carbolic acid	30 drops.
Listerine	2 ozs.
Lime water	4 ozs.

Mix. Dissolve the potash thoroughly by constant shaking, and gargle or spray, if for a child, every two hours. In my judgment, it is the finest "all-round" gargle which can be used. This course, if followed, will always cure without much trouble provided the treatment is begun in time. Of course, when there is much swelling of the tonsils and pain in them, external applications will do good. The best thing for this purpose is usually hot cloths on which a little sweet oil and laudanum is placed. Leaving this form of sore throat, I want to speak of what is known as

"PREACHERS' SORE THROAT."

It is not at all uncommon. Many a preacher has given up his commission because of this trouble. Sometimes, too, I expect that it has had to bear the blame, when in reality the cause was in the head or heart. At least, I think I have heard so. It is an easy thing to jump on a poor, weak, defenceless throat. If the ministry was made up of more brains and less pulp, more work and less "gad," and more heart and less self, there would not be quite as many cases of "preachers' sore throat."

Another prominent cause of "preachers' sore throat," in my judgment, is "forced emotion." I cured a man once by the following simple prescription: 'Quit trying to cry when you don't feel like it, and you may dump out all your gargles." I knew him. He was a good man, but no man felt like crying as much as he cried. It is strange to me why preachers do this any way. A tear is a good thing when it comes, but O me! when a preacher has to grabble out the very bottom of his lachromals to get up a little eye-juice, I think he is getting very near out of "soap," as the preachers call it. A preacher's business, it seems to me, is to deal with life, living facts and issues, not sentimental gush. To remedy ministerial customs, then, would be largely to remedy this disease. But there is such a thing as a "preachers' sore throat" sure enough, which may have a real cause—weak parts, or a want of a proper understanding as to how to speak. Such a man ought to learn to use his chest and bowels more in speaking, and never rely on his throat to perform a work that it will not support. To acquire this power may take practice, but it will pay the preacher to do it. Let him, however, practice in his study by reading aloud, &c.

Now I know no better special treatment than the remedy just suggested—potash, listerine, carbolic acid, and lime water.

It may surprise many people that decay of the teeth is largely due to breathing through the mouth, and that irregularity in the formation and arrangement of the teeth may often be ascribed to the same cause. When the lips are kept closed by day and by night, growing teeth will meet by natural occlusion, and will become adjusted as they should be, except in very rare and curious instances of malformation. When a person breathes with open mouth during the hours of sleep, the mucous membranes become dry from exposure, and the gums and teeth are injured by the consequent lack of saliva. Facial neuralgia is also due to open mouths, declare the most advanced physiologists. In fact, few teeth are so hard and strong, and few systems so liberally endowed with reconstructive force, that such unnatural exposure can be endured without detrimental effects. A hale cobbler is better than a sick king.—Cor. Delineator.

Making the Best of Things.

It is not by regretting what is irreparable that true work is to be done, but by making the best of what we are. It is not by complaining that we have not the right tools, but by using well the tools we have. What we are, and where we are is God's providential arrangement—God's doing—though it may be man's misdoing; and the manly and the wise way is to look your disadvantages in the face, and see what can be made out of them. Life, like war, is a series of mistakes, and he is not the best Christian nor the best general who makes the fewest false steps. He is the best who wins the most splendid victories by the retrieval of mistakes. Forget mistakes; organize victory out of mistakes.—F. W. Robertson.

The infinitely little have pride infinitely great.—Voltaire.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, P S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Asbe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Briar Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W G Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

"For Years,"

Says CARRIE E. STOCKWELL, of Chester, Said, N. H., "I was afflicted with an extremely severe pain in the lower part of the chest. The feeling was as if a ton weight was laid on a spot the size of my hand. During the attacks, the perspiration would stand in drops on my face, and it was agony for me to make sufficient effort even to whisper. They came suddenly, at any hour of the day or night, lasting from thirty minutes to half a day, leaving as suddenly; but, for several days after, I was quite prostrated and sore. Sometimes the attacks were almost daily, then less frequent. After about four years of this suffering, I was taken down with bilious typhoid fever, and when I began to recover, I had the worst attack of my old trouble I ever experienced. At the first of the fever, my mother gave me Ayer's Pills, my doctor recommending them as being better than anything he could prepare. I continued taking these Pills, and so great was the benefit derived that during nearly thirty years I have had but one attack of my former trouble, which yielded readily to the same remedy."

AYER'S PILLS

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Every Dose Effective

$12.00 to $35.00 a week can be made working for us. Parties preferred who can furnish a horse and travel through the country; a team though, is not necessary. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Men and women of good character will find this an excellent opportunity for profitable employment. Spare hours may be used to good advantage. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 11th & Main Sts., Richmond, Va.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 85. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 p m
Leave Wilson	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro	3 00 p m		7 23 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 18 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro	12 00 a m		9 45 p m
Arrive Wilson	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson	11 28 p m	1 15 p m	10 45 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon	12 50 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p. m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.39 a m, Greenville 8.23 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.30 p m, arrives Washington 7.55 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.40 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.20 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.20 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.00 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4 10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.30 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Sup't.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

You Shiver

and say: "I'm taking cold." But you shiver because your system is weak and cannot resist outside influences.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil and hypophosphites will clothe your bones with solid flesh and build you up so you won't take cold easily. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

The Way for Church-members to Right their Wrongs.

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: and if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother." Matt. 18: 15.

This may not be your way, but it is God's way, and his way is the best way. It may be a very hard thing for you to go to one who has done you an injustice, and yet it is the right thing. There are several reasons why you should go to your offender and speak with him face to face.

First, he may be ignorant of having offended you. Second, you might be able to wield the pen with more force than he, and thereby you would be taking advantage in writing him. Third, writing does not portray our feelings as plain as our spoken words, for the tongue is a much truer index to the heart. Fourth, it is Christ's way. Fifth, it proves to your offender and the world that you have the spirit of Christ. Sixth, it is evidence of true manhood.

After you have gone to your offender and talked the matter over face to face, and settle the matter between yourselves, then the hatchet is buried, and the difference goes no further. "But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that every word may be established." If the matter is thereby settled, then let it drop. "But if he shall neglect to hear them, then tell it unto the church." But it is not to be carried into the church until the foregoing Scripture is complied with. If the matter could not be settled before it goes to the church, and if the offender is willing to abide by the decision of the church, then let the hatchet be buried. "But if he neglect to hear the church,"—then and not till then—"let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican." Matt. 18: 15—18.

Not only is it the duty of the offended to go to the offender, but it is also the duty of the offender to hunt for the offended just as soon as he knows that his brother has aught against him. This duty is so urgent upon the offender, that he is not even to take the time to go to church, nor even to pray, until he hunts up and makes peace, if possible, with his offended brother. Matt. 5: 23, 24.

We have no account in the Scriptures where any of God's people in olden times went to law against a man to have his wrongs righted. I think that Abraham and his nephew Lot came as near going to law before the heathen as any of the Old Testament saints; but they never got into a lawsuit. Abraham gave Lot the first choice, saying to him, "You go to the right hand and I'll go to the left, or you go to the left and I'll go the right"—"let there be no strife between me and thee."

As a general thing, church-members of this day make for the court-house to have their wrongs righted—the just before the unjust, and thereby bring disgrace upon themselves and the church of Christ. "Know ye not that ye (the saints) shall judge angels" (much less the smaller matters of earth).

I don't mean to do away with our system of laws, courts, &c., but I do mean that church members should live above such things and not condescend to their use. The church to which I belong should not only be the dearest, but the highest tribunal on earth to me. Some may say, "I can't get revenge on my enemy in the church." Well, if you are fit to belong to Christ's church here on earth, you don't want revenge, you only want to receive as you are willing to give. Some one may say that the church is not capable of judging in certain cases. This is a mistake. The law is or ought to be according to common sense, and I believe Judge Winston would concur in this statement. Most any little country church has at least twelve sensible men in it. If you carry your wrongs to the law, are they not settled by twelve men who act as jurors? Very likely a majority of the jurors will be church members; but if not, I am sure it would be better if they were such, in the interest of truth and justice. If you win your case in the courts, such triumph is attended with much expense: you lose the lawyer's fee and also your time, which is worth money to you; and besides all this, you will lose the good-will of your adversary in court and his friends.

Some may say that such a course would blend the Church and State. Not so. Let the State continue to have its laws, courts and prisons for the ungodly, and Christians should help to bear the burden of such continuance; but Christians among themselves should not arbitrate their differences in the civil courts.

Some may ask how are Christians to settle their misunderstandings with those not Christians? I advise, in such instances, that the Christian seek the advice of his church; and I venture to say that in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred that the matter at issue would be settled without going to law. If the outsider should be stubborn and not willing to accept the church's decision, then all the better for you and all the worse for him when you do get into the court-house.

An objector may say the foregoing course would do, provided there was but one denomination of Christians. The man with whom I differ may belong to another church; then let the different churches appoint a joint committee to investigate the matter at issue between us and agree upon a basis of settlement.

In my ministry I have advised the courses above mentioned to be pursued in the settlement of difficulties between Christians, and some have adopted my advice. When all churches and individuals adopt this plan (i. e., receive the Bible not only as the gospel of salvation, but also as the law by which to live), then, and not until then, will Jesus receive due honor from his bride, the church.

J. H. HILDRETH.

Southport, N. C.

After crosses and losses, men grow humbler and wiser.—Franklin.

Christ as Our Example.

In this progressive age when we are completely surrounded by so many modern isms and schools of vice, which appear the natural outcome of so heterogeneous a population as that of our country, it is often very perplexing as to the wisest, most Christian course in dealing with such evils. In fact, a profound knowledge of the principles of the Bible along with a watchful, devotional spirit is manifestly needed to maintain our integrity as Christian workers. And the more we read this Bible, and reflect upon a personal application of its principles, the more we must feel the need of intelligent thinking to carry out its precepts. It is easier to say, "Take Christ for your example and go ahead," than to tell just where, how, and under what circumstances we should initiate the different steps in our Saviour's life. Indeed, some of these, though very instructive when properly considered, were not given for imitation. For instance, our Lord claimed the authority to forgive sins, would it not be blasphemy for us to do likewise?

Again, in the life of Christ there are examples which should be observed as such by us all, and yet these are often imitated almost to the letter, while owing to a difference of circumstances, their spirit is violated. And hence, to avoid such gross errors, and to acquire a more spiritual comprehension of our Saviour's life, every one should study the four gospels in connection with the rest of the Scriptures. A mere fragmentary method of viewing his course of life often proves misleading to even intelligent readers. This method, however, is usually pursued by the majority of professing Christians. In fact, in observing the various examples of Christ's ministry, many of us are too prone to leap at convenient conclusions without making thoughtful discriminations as to the circumstances under which these examples appear. And without these discriminations, we are sure to imbibe erroneous conceptions of much of his work. For instance, at the marriage in Cana of Galilee, Jesus made wine for the guests (John 2: 1—10); can this exonerate the distillers and liquor-sellers of our day, when drunkenness is the moral curse of our nation?

Again, the Saviour in antagonizing some of the learned Jews of his day, called them hypocrites, serpents, vipers, and pronounced upon many the sentence of death, does this authorize the eloquent (!) modern preacher, one who has never clearly understood the theory of "natural selection," to pour out the vials of his wrath upon Darwin and his disciples, and with an assumed authority, send them all to hell? As widely as we may differ with this celebrated naturalist as to the creation and development of the world, yet when we hear of such indiscreet denunciations, do we not feel a strong temptation to reiterate the skepticism of the Jewish scribes, "By what authority doest thou these things?"

Once more, Christ in seeking to save that which was lost, sought the despised and neglected, and even mingled with the most degraded of his people: can this be an example to a weak, stumbling brother who naturally loves the company of low society?

Ah! to take the Saviour as our example means a great deal. It means more than an indiscriminate accommodation of each isolated act of his life to our conveniences. When we consider the life of Christ, we should take care to learn, if possible, the various objects of his discourses, the specific object of each act in his ministry, and all the circumstances under which he taught and worked, comparing our interpretations with the general tone of the Scriptures whenever there is the least doubt as to the meaning of the inspired record. This takes thought, patience and perseverance; but it is the only safe way to take Christ as our example. And even after pursuing this method in studying the life of our Saviour, his example will often appear hard to follow; yea, when we are fully aware of our duty, we are often sure to feel the power of human depravity, "When I would do good, evil is present with me."

JOSEPH HIDEN.

Morehead City, N. C.

Itching, burning, scaly and crusty scalps of infants cleansed and healed, and quiet sleep restored by Johnson's Oriental Soap Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drugstore, Raleigh, N. C.

From Bro. Williams in Arkansas.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I am still in life and am able to be about as others.

The dear old paper, the RECORDER, regularly finds me every Saturday morning, and I take great pleasure in looking over its columns. There is no failure perceivable by reason of its age, but on the contrary manly growth, and that growth manifested by Apostolic speech in its able teachings.

In my old age I am very pleasantly situated with my daughter in her home, and have every comfort that I could ask.

Our little city of Arkadelphia is quite a pleasant place of about 4,000 inhabitants, and directly located on the Ouachita river, quite healthy, and free from the saloon nuisance.

We have two colleges—the Ouachita Baptist College with about 275 pupils and a good library, and the Methodist College in the northern part of the city with about 150 pupils. Also we have a Business College, four churches (two Baptist, one Methodist, and one Presbyterian). The First Baptist has a fine brick house neatly finished on the inside, though rather small for our Sunday-school and regular service. Our present pastor, Rev. E. B. Miller of Mississippi, preached his anniversary sermon last Sunday. In the past year, 130 have been admitted to membership, and the church is in good working order. The Second church is quite youthful, is doing reasonably well, and has a prospect of future growth. The other denominations are making but little progress.

I have been in Arkansas thirty-six years, and my hopes have been realized in point of educational facilities. Though I enjoy the privileges of a good church and the society of Christian brethren, yet I am lonely. I look over the population of our city, and all who were here when I came, with but few exceptions, have passed away, and those who were members of the church only two or three are living. I am said to be the oldest man of our city. And when I look over the RECORDER for the names of my old brethren, I see that they, with one or two exceptions, are gone, too. Yes, dear reader, I feel lonely. I am living in another generation—Christian brethren gone, parents gone, wives gone, children gone, friends gone—but not lost. O no! bless God, they are not lost but gone before, to live in the mansions above prepared for them. Rest, dear ones! My father's God will take me home soon, and then I will rejoice with you and with all the dear brethren and sisters of my old churches in my native State and of those of Arkansas, whom I expect to meet in glory. I say again, dear old brethren, rest, and praise God for his redeeming grace! I will come to you as soon as my Father calls, and join you in praising our common Redeemer as long as eternity shall last!

D. S. WILLIAMS.

Arkadelphia, Ark.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

One reason why many a boy wants to quit the farm is that while the drudgery is the boy's share all the management falls to the father's lot, and in it the boy is given no part. Give your boy something he can call his own, and you greatly decrease the danger of his leaving the farm.—Ex.

Beecham's pills will save doctor's bills.

The dominion of any sinful habit will fearfully estrange us from his presence. A single consenting act of inward disobedience in thought or will is enough to let fall a cloud between Him and us, and to leave our hearts cheerless and dark.—H. E. Manning.

He that embarks in the voyage of life will always wish to advance, rather by the impulse of the wind than the strike of the oar; and may founder in their passage, while they lie waiting for a gale—Johnson.

The fraction of life can be increased in value, not so much by increasing your numerator, as by lessening your denominator. Nay, unless my Algebra deceives me, unity itself divided by zero will give infinity.—Carlyle.

People are always talking of perseverance and courage and fortitude, but patience is the finest and worthiest part of fortitude. Patience lies at the root of all pleasures as well as of all powers. Hope herself ceases to be happiness when impatience companions her.—Selected.

The essence of true nobility is the neglect of self. Let the thought of self pass in, and the beauty of great action is gone, like the bloom from a soiled flower.—Froude.

The golden moments in the stream of life rush past us, and we see nothing but sand; the angels come to visit us, and we only know them when they are gone.—Geo. Eliot.

Men do not sin because they are blind, but because they shut their eyes.—L. C. Randolph.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

THIS CURIOUS THING

MAGNIFIED.

Is a Sweat or Excretory Gland. Its mouth is called a Pore. There are 7,000,000 in the human skin. Through them are discharged many impurities. To close them means death. Sluggish or clogged pores mean yellow, mothy skin, pimples, blotches, eczema. The blood becomes impure. Hence serious blood humors. Perfect action of the pores Means clear, wholesome skin, Means pure blood, Means beauty and health.

Cuticura Resolvent

Exerts a peculiar, purifying action upon the skin, and through it upon the blood. Hence its cures of distressing humors are speedy, permanent and economical. Like all of the CUTICURAS, it is pure, sweet, gentle, and effective. Mothers are its warmest friends.

Sold everywhere. Price, $1. POTTER DRUG & CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

VITAL TO MANHOOD.

DR. R. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain, causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses, Involuntary Losses, Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of brain, Self-abuse, over-indulgence. A month's treatment, $1, 6 for $5, by mail. With each order for 6 boxes, with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantees issued by agent. WEST'S LIVER PILLS cure Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Constipation.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 10 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 00 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*5 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	8 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 26 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 50 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	3 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 03 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*6 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	1 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 50 a m	2 50 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 55 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 08 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a. m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 3. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville Junc	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 45 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 38 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 13 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 55 a m
Lv Rameour			8 30 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 5 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 43 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 53 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 13 p m
Ar Fay'ville Junc	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 08 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 20 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 35 p m
Ar Rameur			4 25 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. C. & W. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. R. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.			No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar 11 45 a m
3 30 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar 12 35 a m
3 53 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv 11 08 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv 10 29 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv 10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv 9 25 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar 9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv 7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv 6 00 a m
8 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv 5 30 a m
8 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar 5 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv 4 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv 3 23 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv 2 35 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv 5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv 10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar 1 30 a m
11 30 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv 1 15 a m
11 59 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv 12 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv 1 55 a m
2 03 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv 12 18 a m
3 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv 11 07 p m
3 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv 10 25 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv 10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv 9 00 p m
6 18 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv 8 05 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv 7 28 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'n	Lv 6 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Centr'l	Lv 4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.		No. 38.
9 00 p m	Lv	New York	Ar 1 20 p m
4 30 p m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar 10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv	†Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar 7 00 a m
7 05 a m	Lv	Old Point	Ar 7 00 p m
5 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth	Lv 6 00 p m
9 35 a m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar 5 45 p m
12 03 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv 3 09 p m
12 15 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar 3 00 p m
12 39 p m	Lv	D Henderson	Lv D 1 09 p m
4 10 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv 11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar 11 00 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv 9 31 a m
7 50 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv 7 20 a m
7 30 p m*	Ar	Fayetteville	Lv 8 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar	Wilmington	Lv 5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv 10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 4.00 a m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers, Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 194, Raleigh to Charlotte; No 41, Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B, Breakfast. D, Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, &c., apply to Ticket Agent, or S. J. Coues, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
JNO. C. WINDER, Gen. Man.

Eastern Baptist S. S. Association.

The Eastern Baptist Sunday-school Association will convene at Magnolia on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April. The following is the PROGRAM.

Friday, 27th, 11 a. m.—Opening sermon by Rev. W. B. Oliver.

Afternoon.—Organization and reports from schools.

Topic: Orphanage. L. R. Carroll.

Saturday, 28th, forenoon.—Topic: The urgent need of a Sunday-school colporter missionary within our bounds. Rev. J. T. Albritton, Rev. A. A. Butler.

Afternoon.—Topic: The duty of Sunday-schools to missions. Rev. S. D. Swaim.

Topic: The relation of the Sunday-school to home life. Rev. R. E Peele.

Sunday, forenoon.—Mass-meeting and sermon.

O. P. Meeks,
L. R. Carroll,
S. M. Carlton,
Committee.

Clinton, April 10, 1894.

Rates to Southern Baptist Convention.

This body meets in Dallas, Texas, commencing May 11th, 1894.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THE BOARD.

The Board of Missions and Sunday-schools have appointed the following-named delegates to this Convention:

C. E. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Jordan, J. S. Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. G. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. H. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O. L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, R. Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, S. F. Conrad, J. B. Boone, G. M. Hackler, J. H. Morrisette, A. W. Early, O. J. Carroll, R. H. Moore, J. H. Austin, J. D. Hufham, G. M. Duke, J. T. J. Battle, W. P. Covington.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATION.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honeycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Keeler; Raleigh, N. B. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

A ROUTE TO DALLAS COMMENDED.

After carefully considering the various lines with a view to securing the best possible route to our next annual Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, 1894, we have determined to use the following lines:

Richmond & Danville to Birmingham, Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham to Memphis, the Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas, M. K. & T. to Dallas.

There is no "Official Route" for delegates to this Convention, statements of railroad agents and others to the contrary notwithstanding. This route via Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, (The Cotton Belt), Texarkana and Greenville, with its double daily through train service to and from Dallas, affords superior facilities for handling our people.

The Maryland and District of Columbia delegations will leave Washington May 7th, via Richmond & Danville R. R. Vestibule Limited, at 10:48 p. m. and be joined at the various points below by delegates from Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia.

The following will be the schedule of this vestibule train, round trip rate:

Leave Washington, R. & D. R. R. 10:48 p. m. May 7, $38.30; Charlottesville 1:55 a. m. May 8, 36.60; Lynchburg 3:43 a. m. May 8, 36.30; Richmond 12:50 a. m. May 8, 37.90; Danville 5:40 a. m. May 8, 36.30; Raleigh 1 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Goldsboro 4:54 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Salisbury 8:18 a. m. May 8, 35.10; Charlotte 9:35 a. m. May 8, 33.65; Spartanburg 11:37 a. m. May 8, 31.10; Greenville 12:28 p. m. May 8, 30.00; Gainesville 3:29 p. m. May 8, 26.50; arrive at Atlanta 6:55 p. m. May 8, 24 90; Anniston, Ga. Pac. R'y, 7:55 p. m. May 8; Birmingham 10:20 p. m. May 8; Memphis, K. C., M. & B. R. R. 7:25 a. m. May 9; leave Memphis, Cotton Belt route 7:45 a. m. May 9; Dallas, M. K. & T. 7:00 a. m. May 10.

There will be special Pullman cars on this train for the accommodation of delegates and their friends. Those desiring sleeping car berths will please notify the undersigned at once in order that sufficient accommodations may by provided. The rate will be one first-class fare for the round trip as above, and sleeping car berths about two dollars per night.

At Memphis we will be joined by the Tennessee and Kentucky delegations, and from starting point to destination will be accompanied by experienced passenger agents of the several lines, who will see to our comfort and every convenience on this, which promises to be indeed a pleasant trip.

Fraternally,

Rev. H. H. Harris, Richmond, Va.
Rev. A. M. Simms, Raleigh, N. C.
Rev. O. P. Gregory, Baltimore, Md.

REDUCED AIR LINE RATES TO DALLAS.

Round-trip tickets at rates of one first-class fare over the route to Dallas will be sold as follows from points named: From Weldon, $36.80; Suffolk, Va., 37.30; Henderson, N. C., 36.30; Durham, 36.30; Raleigh, 36.30; Sanford, 35 80; Maxton, 34.55; Wilmington, 35.30; Wadesboro, 34 25; Charlotte, 33 45; Lincolnton, 34 75; Shelby, 34 65. Tickets will be sold May 7th, 8th, and 9th, with final limit thirty days from date of sale.

The Seaboard Air Line, with its magnificent vestibule train service, offers unsurpassed accommodations to all delegates and visitors to Dallas on this occasion. Choice of routes from Atlanta, either via New Orleans or Memphis. For further information, address T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., or A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh, N. C.

SEABOARD AIR LINE COMMENDED.

The North Carolina delegation to the S. B. Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, to 15th, can move solid via the Seaboard Air Line. The fine vestibule train service of this line, with quick schedules and sure connections, affords to delegates unsurpassed accommodations. Choice of routes are given from Atlanta, via Memphis or New Orleans. Through Pullman service to Atlanta and from Atlanta to Dallas by Convention Special Train. For full information, delegates should address

Rev. C. Durham,
Cor. Sec. Bap. St. Convention,
N. B. Broughton,
Rec. Sec. Bap. St. Convention,
Raleigh, N. C.,
Or, T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., and A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh.

On the Look-out.

BY M. P. M.

"THIS AND THAT."

Week before last you "poked fun" at the Baptist (Baltimore), for their "Easter issue," and last week you scored the Baptist Union for the same thing. Wherefore this difference? Why use the one to prejudice the churches against the young people's movement and not the other to prejudice the churches against Maryland Baptists? One is as much Easter as the other. The truth is that each of them put on the extra cover "for advertising purposes" because there are some people who will advertise on such an occasion. In neither of them is there any Easter program or commendation of "Easter observance," only a reference to the same truth which you commend in your paragraph in last week's issue: "Baptists have a perpetual reminder of our Lord's resurrection in their baptism."

I am not a defender of the papers mentioned, neither do I believe in the "nonsense" practiced at Easter, but I am very much interested in the movement among our young people, and am not willing to see an advertising scheme of any paper turned against that movement.

Bro. S. M. Brown's article of this same issue I have read carefully; but while very forcible, it proves nothing against young people's societies that it does not prove against against every organization of Baptists for missionary or benevolent work, and I submit that Bro. Brown ought to cease attending associations and conventions.

"THAT ORIGINAL IDEA."

On the question of representation in the Southern Baptist Convention, I was guilty of an "original idea" in suggesting the organizations of two more conventions, but really did not touch the question of "basis" after all. On that question I agree with Bro. Carroll that the financial basis is the fairest. The truth is there is no authority for "delegated power" from the churches in this matter, and as it is a mutual co-operation for specific purposes, the people making the contributions should decide where and how that money should be expended. If ours was an ecclesiastical organization which arrogated to itself the privilege of saying how much each member should contribute and that every member should contribute, it would make some difference, but such is not the case. I am coming more and more to believe that in all of our gatherings for "mission purposes," that those who contribute the money should say how and where that money should be used—this in our associations as well as elsewhere. I know churches entitled to two representatives in the Associations which give ten times as much money as some which are entitled to eight representatives.

"PROPHET C. C. BROWN."

Bro. Brown of Sumpter, S. C., is preaching a series of sermons on "living questions," and these questions are being published in the Baptist Courier. Bro. Brown talks interestingly or nothing, and you can always promise yourself a good time when you start out after him. His last sermon was on the "Negro question," in which he turns prophet and gives us the benefit of his prophecy. He tells us that the Negro is to be the bond which is to bind the Baptists North and South, or the people, rather. As they have been the occasion of much strife and heart-burnings between the sections, so they are to be the occasion of cementing the sections together, and that in the future we will see them earnestly united in their effort to solve this great question.

In writing on this question, I am reminded of the position taken by the Greenville Daily News of South Carolina on the "Negro question." He says there are but three solutions of the question—colonization, amalgamation or annihilation.

"WILLIAM COLGATE."

You did well to transfer to your columns the story of the great soap manufacturer of New York. His was a very simple business and not very promising, but he flourished. Why? Because he kept God's "rule of giving. "The tithe is the Lord's," not that we should give it to him, but it already belongs to him, and whoever uses it for himself is a robber, a robber of God, which is the worst sort of robbing. I am convinced that every man who appropriates the Lord's part to his own use, not only looses one-tenth of the result of his labor, but is under the chastening rod of the Almighty at the same time.

"Oh, that is a part of the Mosaic dispensation and does not apply to me," some one is ready to say. Not so fast, my friend; this law is much older than the Mosaic dispensation, and is also enforced by Christ and the apostles—"Ye pay tithes of mint," &c. "On the first day of the week let every one of you lay by in store as the Lord hath prospered him." Whose measurement? God's, of course.

"ONE PRINCIPLE."

Much is being said in these days about Baptists and what "they stand for," and what they could afford to give up in order to secure union with other Christians. The Examiner submitted to the Independent what they considered the "Baptist ultimatum," but that did not please the Independent, of course; nothing would please them but a tirade against the South. The most satisfactory statement to this scribe is from the Watchman of Boston in which they say, "Baptists do not stand for any one thing; whether it be immersion or believer's baptism, or anything else: they stand for the principle of the supreme authority of the Word of God in all matters of Christian faith and practice." It occurs to me that "literally covers the ground" and expresses in the fullest sense the difference between us and all other people. A great principle it is, and one worthy of a contention involving even centuries of persecution and bloodshed. In this mighty principle may be found every phase of doctrine and practice which differentiates us from others. In many things they seem to be faithful, but wherever the Word of God comes in conflict with their creeds, they do not hesitate to stand by the creeds.

Sunday-school Association.

A Sunday-school Association meets with Green River church, Green River Association, April 27th, 1894. The following is the program:

1. Introductory sermon by C. B. Justice.
2. Reports from the delegates of the condition of Sunday-schools.
3. The importance of doctrinal teaching in the Sunday-school. Speakers—C. B. Justice and H. Portium.
4. Exegesis of 1 Cor. 10: 7. Speakers—M. M. Landrum and A. L. Rucker.
5. Prov. 20: 1. Speakers—C. E. Gower and J. C. Sorrells.
6. Is it better to continue the S. S. Association with the present rate of attendance? Speakers—N. J. Rollins, R. K. Wilson and Wm. Whitesed.

H. D. Hamill,
C. E. Gower,
J. G. Logan,
Committee.

Absolutely Free.

A BUSINESS EDUCATION TO ONE WORTHY GIRL OR BOY IN EACH COUNTY.

The Georgia-Alabama Business College, Macon, Ga., which is heartily endorsed by press and pulpit, now generously proposes to give to one worthy boy or girl in each county of North Carolina a thorough business course without charge, as it has recently done for those of Georgia. All interested should apply at once.

Caldwell County S. S. Association.

This body will convene at Rocky Springs church on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April. The program is as follows:

Introductory sermon by J. F. Crisp.

First query: Origin and progress of the Sunday-school. Speaker, W. L. Beach.

Second query: Woman's work in Sunday-schools. Speaker, M. N. Harshaw.

Third query: What would be the best means of increasing interest in our Sunday-schools? Speaker, R. L. Moore.

4. What are the proper qualification for a Sunday-school superintendent. Speaker, J. V. McCall.

M. G. Shearer,
Wm. R. Beach,
Committee.

LADIES
Needing a tonic, or children who want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Orphanage church, Thomasville, $1.12; R. J. Buffaloe, 4.00; Jesse Flowers, 10.00; Mrs S E Roller, Oxford, N C, 1.00; Enfield ch, 1.00; J P Mitchell, Winton, N C, 10.00; May's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, 6.04; Macedonia ch, Union, 5.00; Wake Forest ch, 4.05; W M S, Henderson ch, 1.45; W M S, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, 6.00; Holly Springs ch, Raleigh, 1.64; W M S, by Miss Lillie H Hewlett, 1.58. Total, 62.88. Previously reported, 5,405.08. Total this year, 5,467.96.

Foreign Missions—Orphanage ch, Thomasville, $2.61; Cedar Falls ch, Sandy Creek, 1.41; W M S, Newbern ch, 7.25; Cashie ch, West Chowan, 13.89; Forestville ch, Central, 15.50; Monroe ch, Union, 12.00; Hopewell ch, ditto, 4.85; Rock Spring ch, Flat River, 11.00; Mt Airy W M S, 5.00; W M S, Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, 7.80; Oakdale, Columbus, 25c; Flat Rock ch, Yadkin, 2.00; Macedonia ch, Union, 2.25; Union ch, West Chowan, 12.00; Deep Creek ch, Pee Dee, 2.67; Wake Forest Mis Soc, 10.98; Inwood ch, Raleigh, 5.00; Ditto, ditto, D. W. Herring, 2.00; Mt Gilead ch, Centennial Fund, 9 97. Total, 127.06. Previously reported, 1,289.83. Total this year, 1,416.89.

Home Missions—Orphanage ch, Thomasville, $1.53; Norwood ch, Pee Dee, 1.60; Cashie ch, W Chowan, 1.62; S S, French Creek ch, Bladen County, 4.00; Rose's ch, West Chowan, 15.00; Macedonia ch, Union, 3.21; Deep Creek ch, Pee Dee, 1.63; Brown Creek ch, ditto, 3 09; Hickory ch, Tar River, 3.00; Inwood ch, Raleigh, 5.00; Tally Ho ch, Flat River, 3.10; Third ch, Durham, 2.35. Total, 46.40. Previously reported, 587.02. Total this year, 633.42.

Education—Orphanage ch, Thomasville, 44c; Monroe ch, Union, 7.00; Corinth ch, Tar River, 1.00; Bay Leaf ch, Central, 2.75; A F Purefoy, Wake Forest, 50c; Jackson ch, West Chowan, 3 67; Macedonia ch, Union, 1.00; Deep Creek ch, Pee Dee, 40c; Bethany ch, W Chowan, 3.00. Total, 19.86. Previously reported, 880.27. Total this year, 850.09.

Orphanage—R J Buffaloe $4.00; Macedonia ch, Union, 1.95; Deep Creek ch, Pee Dee, 1.79. Total, 7.74. Previously reported, 328.17. Total this year, 335.91.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Orphanage ch, Thomasville, $2.33; Deep Creek ch, Pee Dee, 75c. Total, 3.08. Previously reported, 142.27. Total this year, 145.35.

Sunday-schools (Bible distribution)—Mt Pisgah S S, Mt Zion, 3.00; Mt Carmel S S, 30c; Woodville S S, 1.00. Total, 4.30. Previously reported, 455.26. Total this year, 459.56.

CORRECTIONS: Sunbeams, Goldsboro ch, Atlantic, $1.00 for State Missions, should have been 2.00. Tryon Street ch, Charlotte, 10.00 for State Missions, should have been W M S, Tryon Street ch, Charlotte. Elam ch, West Chowan, 7.00 for Home Missions, should have been 1.00.

J. D. Boushall,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, April 14, 1894.

MELLIN'S
FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS.
FOOD
THE ONLY PERFECT
Substitute for Mother's Milk.
West Liberty, Ia.
We have a baby 10 months old who was raised on Mellin's Food; she was so delicate that no one thought she could live; Mellin's Food saved her. Mrs. A. J. Westland.
Wilmington, Del.
I have been using your Mellin's Food for my boy, nearly two years old, for the last month or so, and it has improved him wonderfully; he is just recovering from a severe illness and could not digest milk at all before using the Food. Mrs. Wm. J. Quinn.
SEND for our book, "The Care and Feeding of Infants," mailed Free to any address.
Doliber-Goodale Co., Boston, Mass.

Don't Lose Heart.
PLANT FERRY'S SEEDS
this year, and make up for lost time. Ferry's Seed Annual for 1894 will give you many valuable hints about what to raise and how to raise it. It contains information to be had from no other source. Free to all.
D. M. Ferry & Co.
Detroit, Mich.

In the Spring
Those who would insure to themselves the greatest degree of safety, and the enjoyment of that good health which is life's greatest blessing, should be careful to do these two things:
PURIFY THE BLOOD
AND
TONE UP THE SYSTEM
For doing these things in the safest, surest and most pleasant way
Dr. King's Royal Germetuer
is pre-eminently the greatest of all medical remedies. It is as pleasant to take as lemonade, acts like magic upon the blood and nervous system, expels all the waste, stimulates digestion and gives appetite, puts roses on the cheek and joy in the heart.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
$1.00, six for $5.00.
Manufactured only by King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Musicians, Read!
By Julian Edwards. not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print.
Lessons in Singing By Emma Spencerian. A book on a new plan, to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical language. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.
St. Cecilian Collection By C. F. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.
Anthems Grown By E. P. Danks. The finest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.
Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be entirely saleable.
John Church Co., Cincinnati. New York. Chicago.

HIRES' Rootbeer
makes the home circle complete. This great Temperance Drink gives pleasure and health to every member of the family. A 25c. package makes 5 gallons. Be sure and get the genuine.
Sold everywhere. Made only by The Chas. E. Hires Co., Philada.
Send 2c. stamp for beautiful Picture Card and Book.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Asst. Sec'y.
HOME OFFICE. RALEIGH, N. C.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
209 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere, such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in flat.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, sundry brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

CHAS. M. WALSH
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE & GRANITE MONUMENTS, TOMBS
AND GRAVE STONES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address free of charge. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first-class and entirely satisfactory.
CHAS. M. WALSH.

Hard Times Fertilizers
To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct for cash
Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices.
per ton
For Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.00
For Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.00
For Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00
Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars.
W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers. Baltimore, Md.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE
Box 378, Richmond, Va.
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers of proved merit at cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

Some Notes on Ex. 35:4 to 36:8.

BY R. T. BRYAN.

Please read carefully the Scripture referred to, before reading the notes.

1. Ex. 35:4-20. Moses calls on all the children of Israel to make an offering to build the tabernacle for God.

Notice that Moses does not beg, nor plead, nor tell jokes to laugh an offering out of them, nor tell sad stories to cry it out of them, nor did he use eloquence to stir them up to the fever heat of a momentary enthusiasm, and thus force them to give what they would afterwards regret, but simply said, "This is the thing which the Lord commanded."

Moses tells the people what work is to be done, what materials are needed for its accomplishment, and lays the responsibility upon them with a thus saith the Lord by saying, "Whosoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it."

1. Ex. 35:20, 29-99. "Every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whose spirit made him willing," brought an offering in response to the call of Moses.

They had been but recently emancipated from slavery, but they did not plead poverty; they were wandering in the wilderness, often hungry and thirsty, depending upon the nightly fall of manna for bread, but they did not cry hard times. They did not excuse themselves by saying, "we are afraid that too much will be paid to the laborers, nor that there will be too many high salaried officers, conducting the work on such an expensive plan that only a small per cent. of our offerings will be used for the actual work; but stirred by their own hearts, and made willing by their own spirits, each one came bringing an offering of such things as he had; and those who had nothing wrought wisely with their own hands and brought such things as they could make, a willing and cheerful offering to the Lord. The women that were wise hearted brought offerings. They deprived themselves of their jewelry, and spun with their hands. I wonder if any were so foolish as to take no part in that great work!

1. Ex. 35:21. "And they brought the Lord's offering." They were God's chosen people what they had, and what they could make, were not their own, but God's. They simply took from what was God's, and brought it, not as their offering, but as "the Lord's offering."

If we were God's people, "bought with a price," what we own and what we make also belong to him. We have no right to spend even our own property on ourselves as we please, except as we can by so doing in some way glorify God. "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." We often feel proud of what we have given, or of what we have done, when in reality we have given nothing and done nothing, but simply brought "the Lord's offering," and even feel that so small that the Lord is ashamed of it, and of us. O that God's people could realize that, not only themselves, but also all they have belongs to God! Our Father wants us to use of his goods all that is necessary to make us comfortable and happy, to expand our hearts and minds, to beautify our characters and better fit us to serve him. More than that we have no right to use.

4. Ex. 35:30 to 36:4. The Lord called Bezaleel and Aholiah and filled them with his Spirit. His spirit gave them wisdom, understanding and knowledge, not only to do all manner of work, but also to teach others. Moses gave over all the offerings to them, and trusted them, guided by God's Spirit, to carry on the work to completion. Let us pray God to call our preachers and missionaries, and give them his Holy Spirit to fill them with wisdom and knowledge and understanding to work, to plan, and to teach others. Then we can trust our offerings to them to be economically and wisely used to carry on God's great work, the evangelization of the world. Instead of being ever ready to suspect and criticise them, and to withhold our offerings, let us constantly pray God to give them his Holy Spirit, to give them all needed grace and wisdom. I suspect that very little time is given, very little money is contributed, and but few prayers are made for the Lord's work and the workers by the critics.

5. Ex. 36:5-7. The people gave more than was necessary, and Moses had to restrain them from giving. The world has made rapid progress since that time, but O how God's children have retrogressed in giving! Bear testimony ye empty treasuries! Just think of Brethren Durham, Tichenor, McConnell and Willingham restraining the people from giving!

If our people would only respond to the present calls as those poor wandering Israelites did to the call of Moses, and coming stirred by their own hearts, and made willing by their own spirits, bring a willing and cheerful offering for the Lord's work, what a glorious time we would all have! All our Baptist host with hearts full of joy would join in one glad hallelujah, and we could then truly sing, "The morning light is breaking!"

Our Foreign Board would pay its debt, and send out next fall all the God-called men and women!

What we do in April will largely determine, what the Board is to do this year in sending out new missionaries.

O that our Baptist people would respond to this call, as the children of Israel did to the call of Moses! If God has called men and women to go as missionaries, has he not also called the money to support them? Dear reader, has he called any of your money? If so, will you send it? What answer shall we give to those who are begging to be sent out? How shall we answer the cries of the perishing millions? O my brethren and sisters let us pray now and give now!

In Davie county, M. A. Foster's barn and contents, including three horses, one cow, three wagons, etc. were burned recently.

Literary.

The Sunday Problem; published by James H. Earle, Boston, Mass.

Among the congresses connected with the exposition in the "White City" was that of the "International Congress of Sunday Rest," conducted by leading thinkers and officials, Cardinals, Rabbis, College presidents, statesmen, men of business, Railroad officials, Labor leaders, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish officials—all of them, from their various standpoints in the world's crowded life, working toward a common basis of agreement and support for the World's Rest Day. The committee of the Congress have placed the official reports, papers and addresses, with the well-known Boston publishing house of James H. Earle, for immediate publication.

In the Physiological relation of the Rest Day to human needs, Dr. Lyon, Superintendent of Bloomingdale Asylum, has a remarkable paper; and this is supplemented by a paper from Dr. Davis of Chicago. In the industrial relation are papers by W. J. Young, Vice President Forest Oil Company; Thomas Weir, Superintendent of Monte Christo Mining Company; E. C. Beach of the Penn. R. R. Company; George E. McNeil, the well-known Labor leader of Boston; Ed. Boumgartner of France on Sunday in the industries of France. In other departments are papers by Cardinal Gibbons, Rabbi Felsenthal, Gen. Howard, Wm. A. Butler, LL. D.; President Rogers; the Lutheran Professor Spaeth; Dr. Huntington; Alice Woodbridge, Secretary Working Woman's Society; Frunier and Gibbon of France; Archbishop Ireland; Manager on our leading railroads, and others.

It is a handsome 12mo, with between 300 and 400 extra-sized pages; and to bring it within reach of everybody it is issued in cloth at the very low price of $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

Little River S. S. Convention.

The Little River Sunday-school Convention meets with Dunn Baptist church, Harnett county, N. C., on Friday, April 27th, 1894.

PROGRAM.

Friday 11 a. m.—Sermon by Rev. C. V. Brooks.

2 p. m.—Organization, reading letters, &c.

3 p. m.—What relation does the Sunday-school sustain to the success of missions? Opened by Rev. A. N. Campbell.

8 p. m.—The Orphanage and the Sunday-school. Opened by J. H. Mills.

Saturday 9 a. m.—Devotional exercises.

9:30 a. m.—The rewards of the work. Opened by Rev. J. M. Holleman.

11 a. m.—Sermon.

2 p. m.—What just claims have the scholars upon the teacher? Opened by J. A. Cates.

3 p. m.—Opening question box.

8 p. m.—Address. The Sunday-school and the home, and the Sunday-school and the church. N. B. Broughton.

Sunday, 9:30 a. m.—Mass meeting.

11 a. m.—Sermon.

3 p. m.—Address to young people. N. B. Broughton.

8 p. m.—Sermon.

Other visiting brethren have been invited and are expected to be present.

Let every church or Sunday-school send three delegates with letter, giving full and accurate statistics concerning your school for the last twelve months.

In your letter give the superintendent and his postoffice, number of officers and teachers, number enrolled, average attendance, verses of Scripture memorized, number of quarterlies and papers taken, conversions from school last year, number of months school is kept open, branch schools, and any other items of interest concerning your school.

Let especially every superintendent and teacher be present.

The Executive Board will meet during the Convention.

Let us daily pray that God's blessings may be upon the meeting.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOARD.

Stanly Union.

This Union meets with Corinth church on the fifth Sunday in April.

Introductory by Rev. E. D. Tutor; alternate, Rev. G. W. Henderson.

1. How can we raise the standard of Christian conduct? Speakers—Rev. D. S. Morton and Rev. P. G. Harteell.

2. How can we arouse our churches to a sense of their duty? Speakers—Rev. G. W. Henderson and Rev. E. D. Tutor.

3. How can we get our people to read and study the Bible more? Speakers—J. F. Hodge and E. F. Eddins.

COMMITTEE.

To Down Speaks.

A wealthy bachelor declared that a horrid hag had glared at him through the night. His friends laughed at him but he insisted that the house was haunted. He grew ill, complained of extreme heaviness in the stomach, his appetite failed, he grew sallow, emaciated and despondent, believing he was going to die, the spook being a warning, and declared he could hear funeral bells ringing in his ears, and even hinted at suicide. A friend induced him to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and he rapidly grew well, spooks and all his distressing symptoms disappearing. A torpid liver and dyspepsia caused his suffering and the medicine cured both. The "Discovery" is the only remedy for biliousness and indigestion, or dyspepsia so certain in its curative action as to warrant its sale on trial. A guarantee, in print, wraps every bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, biliousness and derangements of stomach, liver and bowels.

Confederate Veterans' Reunion.

To the Confederate Veterans' reunion, Birmingham, Ala., April 26th and 26th, 1894, the Richmond & Danville Railroad will sell tickets to Birmingham and return at rate of one first-class fare for the round-trip. Tickets to be sold April 23d and 24th, limited continuous passage in each direction; good for return trip within fifteen days from date of sale. For further information, apply to any agent of the Company, or to W. A. Turk, General Passenger Agent, Washington, D. C.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

The sale of the Raleigh Street Railway has been postponed until May 2.

Dr. F. L. Reid has been re-elected president of Greensboro Female College.

A new cotton mill is to be erected on Rocky river near Concord, says the Standard.

Eight young ladies will graduate from the Greensboro Normal and Industrial School this year.

The Enterprise says the Friends have bought property near High Point and will build an orphanage upon it.

The State Board of Pharmacy met at Raleigh last week to examine fourteen applicants for pharmacists' licenses.

The Eagle cotton mills in Iredell county were destroyed by fire on the 12th ult. loss $30,000; no insurance. The mill will be rebuilt.

The Roman Catholic church at Belmont, near Charlotte, at the dedication of which Cardinal Gibbons officiated last week, cost $70,000.

A school for teachers will be conducted by the faculty of the State University with assistants from elsewhere at Chapel Hill this summer.

A hosiery mill will be established at Valdese, near Morganton. It will employ only Waldensians in consideration of cessions of land by them.

Evangelist Moody, for whose presence in Raleigh some efforts were recently made, has declined to come on account of pressing engagements.

Over 1,000 acres of land were burned over by a forest fire in Wilkes county recently. It is stated that these fires have been more frequent than usual this spring.

Charles Crabtree, the Durham book keeper who has been missing several weeks, has been seen near Durham, but has not been secured. He is thought to be in an irresponsible condition.

Receipt of a valuable historical paper, consisting of an address on the revolutionary history of Chatham county, delivered twenty years ago by editor H. A. London of the Pittsboro Record is gratefully acknowledged.

General News.

Four men were killed and thirty injured last week at Pittsburg, Pa., by the bursting of a tremendous pot of molten iron.

Mr. Bland promises to have a free coinage of silver measure before the House of Representatives by the end of next month.

In a conflagration in Buffalo, New York, last week there was consumed one million two hundred thousand dollars worth of property.

The Delaware fruit crop is destroyed this year for a verity. In fact, the fruit all over the country has been damaged to a greater extent than in many years.

Great distress is prevailing all through Australia. It is ascribed to the sudden growth of that country and consequent inflation of values, the revulsion having now set in.

Judge Goff of the United States Circuit Court has entered a decree for the foreclosure and sale of the Richmond & Danville Railroad. It is thought that the sale will take place before June 1st.

Gov. Tillman of South Carolina is reorganising the militia of that State, and is dismissing the companies which refused to respond to his orders in the recent troubles at Darlington.

An explosion and subsequent fire in a fireworks factory of Petersburg recently resulted in the loss of ten lives and the serious injury of many others. Several of the dead were prominent citizens.

There are fifty-six strikes now going on in this country, involving 55,000 laborers. Considerable trouble is anticipated among the miners of Pennsylvania and other States, as the month of May is noted for outbreaks among those people.

Coxey's army of the commonweal was snow-bound in Pennsylvania last week, and has made slow progress. It numbers now a few less than five hundred. Recruits are said to be coming from the West, Southwest and North.

In the suit instituted by Madeline Pollard against the Kentucky Congressman W. C. P. Breckenridge for breach of promise to marry has been decided favorably for the plaintiff, she being awarded fifteen thousand dollars, instead of fifty thousand dollars, which was asked.

It is stated that more than twelve Republican senators will vote for the income tax measure, while there are eight Democrats declared against it. The Populists will support it. If these surmises are correct the income tax bill will pass independently of the tariff bill.

A terrific gale swept the New Jersey coast on the 10th inst. A large schooner was wrecked and a dozen lives lost, in addition to considerable injury of many houses.

The sessions of Congress last week were, as usual, barren of material results. Several resolutions are being considered whereby Representatives will be made to be present or give good excuse for absence, and to compel them to vote. It is a sad reflection that there is need for such measures; yet it is manifest that something must be done to secure quorums and expedite legislation.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will ease you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

MARRIED.

RICHMOND—WALKER—On April 4th, 1894, at the residence of the bride, in Caswell county, N. C., by Rev. Thomas W. Strowd, Mr. James H. Richmond and Miss Mary E. Walker.

HOLLOWAY—FERRELL—On April 10th, 1894, in Oak Grove township, Wake county, at the home of the bride's father, by Rev. J. F. MacDuffie, Mr. Thos. J. Holloway of Oak Grove township, Durham county, N. C., and Miss Alice Ferrell.

Tributes of Respect.

The angel of death, executing the command of an Allwise God, called to the regions beyond the spirit of Alsey Holland of Bradley's Store, Harnett county, N. C., on March 7th, 1894. Bro. Holland was born November 2d, A. D. 1800, and was at the time of his death aged ninety-three years, four months and five days. He united with the Holly Spring Baptist church, Wake county, when a young man; was married to China Jones on Feb. 11th, 1824, with whom he lived till June 20th, when she died. Some years after his marriage he moved his membership to Piny Grove church, Wake county, where he remained an active, consistant and leading member till he left there to join in the organization of Kinney's Creek Baptist church on October 30th, 1869. He served as deacon of the churches to which he belonged for about sixty-five years, always leading an humble Christian life; therefore Resolved, That we, the members of Kinney's Creek Baptist church, individually, will strive to emulate the Christian example of our deceased brother.

Resolved, That these proceedings be entered in our record book, and that a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication.

W. H. HOLLAND,
Y. Q. UTLEY,
J. C. HODLAND,
Committee.

Kinney's Creek church.

AN ESCAPE
—is made from all the diseases that come from tainted blood if the liver is roused to vigorous action, the blood purified and the system braced up with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Languor and loss of appetite, with or without indigestion, warn you that graver ills are close behind. The "Discovery" will sharpen the appetite, improve digestion and restore health. A positive cure for "Liver Complaint," Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Biliousness.

Mr. J. P. McADAMS, of Elon College, N. C., writes: "A few of my symptoms were, Heart-burn and fullness after eating, sometimes pain in my bowels, headache, poor appetite and bad taste in my mouth. At night I was feverish, with hot flushes over skin. After taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I was relieved of all these symptoms and I feel perfectly well to-day."

J. P. McADAMS, Esq.

PIERCE'S CURE.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."
BEECHAM'S PILLS
(Tasteless—Effectual.)
For Sick-Headache, Impaired Digestion, Liver Disorders and Female Ailments.
Renowned all over the World.
Covered with a Tasteless & Soluble Coating.
Ask for Beecham's and take no others. Made at St. Helens, England. Sold by druggists and dealers. Price 25 cents a box. New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

Notice.

NORTH CAROLINA, WAKE COUNTY. } IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

J. D. Boushall, Admr. Turner Wilcox, deceased, vs.
Bettie W. Dawson, Earnest F. Dawson her husband, Clara Wilcox and Benj. Wilcox.

Bettie W. Dawson and Earnest F. Dawson her husband, now residents of the State and city of New York, defendants above named, will take notice that an action entitled as above, has been commenced in the Superior Court of Wake county to make sale of real estate, for assets, situated in Raleigh township in said county, and the said defendants will further take notice that they are required to appear at the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Wake county, in North Carolina, on the 11th day of April, 1894, and answer or demur to the complaint in said action, or the plaintiff will apply to the court for relief demanded in said complaint.

JNO. W. THOMPSON,
Clerk Superior Court.

This March 5th, 1894.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.
Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Price & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

PIANOS ORGANS
Times Hard
Prices Low

Only $60 for a Superb MASON & HAMLIN Organ. 4 sets Reeds, 10 Stops, Rich Case. $5 cash and $2 monthly. Reduced from $115. WRITE US.

Beautiful STERLING Mirror Top only $80. 4 sets Reeds, 11 Stops. WRITE US.

Lovely New Styles at $60 and $70. WRITE US.

Elegant New Pianos only $250. WONDERFUL at the PRICE. WRITE US.

Tremendous bargains in nearly new Pianos and Organs, used a trifle only. WRITE US.

If you want a Piano or Organ now is the time to buy it RIGHT. WRITE US.

Write us anyhow. Trade is dull and you can't ask more questions about Pianos and Organs than we want to answer. Try it, please.

Ludden & Bates S.M.H.
SAVANNAH, GA.

Is Your Life Worth Anything

to others? Are there not persons dependent on your earnings for their support? Are they provided for in case of your death? The simplest and safest way of assuring their protection is life insurance. Business, professional, and working men generally, should insure, for their brains or their muscles, are their capital and income too. Death stops them both. Insure in the and death cannot stop your salary or steal your capital, and your loved ones will be safe from want.

Equitable Life

W. J. RODDEY,
ROCK HILL, South Carolina.

The Home Circle.

The Little Worn Shoes.

A mother stood by an open drawer
"These now are two small to use."
And she laid away, with a careless hand,
A little worn pair of shoes.

Then she took baby up in her tender arms;
She knew 'twas her rightful place,
And the mother imprinted a loving kiss
On the upturned baby face.

Little soft golden rings of hair,
And blue eyes open wide,
A sweet little mouth and a dear little nose—
A baby who never cried.

But tired of laughing and toys and fun,
And tired of trying to creep,
The little head dropped on the mother's arm
And baby was fast asleep.

A year rolled on, and the mother's heart
Was chastened beneath the rod,
The house was still, with no baby voice,
For the baby was home with God.

The mother tried to forget her grief,
But she did not attempt to pray;
"She could not love God," she bitterly said,
"Who had taken her child away."

Again at that drawer the mother stood,
With a worldly and careless face,
But at something she saw a tear dropped down,
And hid in the folds of lace.

The little old shoes she held in her hand,
As she stood in the twilight there.
"I must see my baby again!" she cried,
And she fell on her knees in prayer.

In a sobbing voice she softly said,
"O God, thy way I choose!"
And she tenderly kissed, and she clasped them close—
The little worn pair of shoes.

—Selected.

A Young Man Should Remember.

1. That, whatever else he may strive to be, he must first of all, be absolutely honest. From honorable principles he can never swerve. A temporary success is often possible on what are not exactly dishonest, but "shady" lines; but such success is only temporary, with a certainty of permanent loss. The surest business success—yes, the only successes worth the making—are built upon honest foundations. There can be no "blinking" at the truth or at honesty, no halfway compromise. There is but one way to be successful, and that is to be absolutely honest; and there is but one way to be honest. Honesty is not only the foundation, but the capstone as well, of business success.

2. He must be alert, alive to every opportunity. He cannot afford to lose a single point, for a single point might prove the very link that would make complete the whole chain of business success.

3. He must ever be willing to learn, never overlooking the fact that others have long ago forgotten what he has still to learn. Firmness of decision is an admirable trait in business. The young man whose opinions can be tossed from one side to the other is poor material. But youth is full of errors, and caution is a strong trait.

4. If he be wise he will entirely avoid the use of liquors. If the question of harm done by intoxicating liquor is an open one, the question of actual good derived from it is not.

5. Let him remember that a young man's strongest recommendation is his respectability. Some young men, apparently successful, may be flashy in dress, loud in manner, and disrespectful of women and sacred things. But the young man who is respectable always wears best. The way a young man carries himself in private life often-times means much to him in his business career. No matter where he is, or in whose company, respectability and all that it implies will always command respect. And if any man wishes a set of rules even more concise, here it is:

Get into a business you like.
Devote yourself to it.
Be honest in everything.
Employ caution; think out a thing well before you enter upon it.
Sleep eight hours every night.
Do everything that means keeping in good health.
School yourself not to worry; worry kills, work doesn't.
Avoid liquors of all kinds.
If you must smoke, smoke moderately.
Shun discussion on two points—religion and politics.
And lastly, but not least, marry a true woman, and have your own home.—Edward Bok, in Cosmopolitan.

The Faults of Children.

It may be well to drop a hint against the folly and impropriety of making the faults of your children the subject of conversation with other people. Nothing can be more unkind and injudicious. If you wish your children to reform and improve, you must throw a shield around their character. However foolishly they may have acted, let them see that you are anxious to keep open the way for their return to propriety and respectability. Many a youth has been driven to despair by being tauntingly upbraided before strangers with misconduct, which never needed and therefore never ought to have been known beyond his own family. On the other hand, many a wanderer has been encouraged to return, by observing in those most injured by his follies a general readiness cordially to reinstate him in their esteem, and to shield his reputation from the reproaches of others.—The Worker.

Henry Ward Beecher once informed a man who came to him complaining of gloomy and despondent feelings, that what he most needed was a good cathartic, meaning, of course, such a medicine as Ayer's Cathartic Pills, every dose being effective.

Early Rising.

A person should never be waked except in cases of urgent necessity. When a man falls asleep, he is in a shape for repairs. All the intricate machinery of his body is being overhauled and put in order for next day's work. Nature knows what the tired body needs. She lays it on the bed, surrounds it with the refreshing air of night, covers it with darkness and lets the man rest. "Tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep," visits him, and as the hours pass by his energies are renewed, his strength comes back, and when the daylight steals through the window, he opens his eyes and feels like a new man.

If he is early to bed, he wakes correspondingly early. Now, who will go to that man's side an hour before he opens his eyes and say to nature: "Stand aside and let him get up. He has had enough rest." Nature will say: "You can take him if you will, but I will charge him with an hour's lose of sleep, and I'll collect it out of his bones and nerves and hair and eyesight. You can't cheat me. I'll find property to levy on." Nature is the best book-keeper in the world. You may overdraw, but you must pay back, even to the "pound of flesh."—Selected.

The Time to be Pleasant.

"Mother's cross," said Maggie, coming out into the kitchen with a pout on her lips. Her aunt was busy ironing, and she looked up and answered Maggie:

"Then it is the very time for you to be pleasant and helpful. Mother was awake a great deal in the night with the poor baby."

Maggie made no reply. She put on her hat and walked off into the garden. But a new idea went with her—"The very time to be helpful and pleasant is when other people are cross." "True enough," thought she, "that would do the most good. I remember when I was ill last year, I was so nervous that if any one spoke to me I could hardly help being cross; and mother never got cross or out of patience, but was quite pleasant with me. I ought to pay it back now, and I will."

And she jumped up from the grass on which she had thrown herself, and turned a face full of cheerful resolution towards the room where her mother sat soothing and tending a fretful teething baby.

"Couldn't I take him out to ride in his carriage, mother? It's such a sunny morning," she asked.

"I should be so glad if you would," said her mother. The hat and coat were brought, and the baby was soon ready for the ride.

"I'll keep him as long as he's good," said Maggie, "and you must lie on the sofa and take a nap while I'm gone. You are looking dreadfully tired."

The kind words and the kiss that accompanied them were almost too much for the mother, and her voice trembled as she answered, "Thank you, dear; it will do me a world of good. My head aches badly this morning.

What a happy heart Maggie's was as she trundled the little carriage up and down on the walk! She resolved to remember and act on her aunt's good words: "The very time to be helpful and pleasant is when everybody is tired and cross."—Christian Index.

Rheumatism, neuralgia, headache and pains of every kind instantly relieved by Johnson's Magnetic Oil. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

An Antidote for Morphine.

Dr. Wm. Moore, a specialist on therapeutics, a member of the staff of the West Side German clinic, in West 42d St., N. Y., has discovered that permanganate of potassium is an antidote for morphine poisoning, and that it will counteract, within a reasonable lapse of time, the effects of any of the salts of opium.

Dr. Moore, in the presence of twelve members of the clinic, who assembled Jan. 9th, swallowed three grains, ordinarily a fatal dose, of morphine in two teaspoonfuls of water. His fellow-physicians attempted to dissuade him. Some of them left the room, declaring they would not countenance such madness by their presence.

But Dr. Moore persisted in committing "suicide" with the utmost cheerfulness. Then he swallowed his new-found antidote. Deadly languor and death must have followed ordinarily, for Dr. Moore swallowed a positive fatal dose in his case, as he is supersensitive to the effects of narcotics.

But a solution of four grains of permanganate of potassium in four ounces of water, drank immediately, did its work well. In the business of the meeting which followed the experiment, no head was clearer that Dr. Moore's, and when it came to eating, drinking and making merry, some hours afterward, he was quoted as active a participant as there was in the party.

The experiment was so bold, the physician's faith in his discovery so absolute, and the proof so conclusive, that the physicians present were at once absorbed and delighted. The experiment, although its complete bearing upon the saving of life is not yet known, proved conclusively that the effect of an ordinarily fatal dose of morphine, opium, paregoric or laudanum, may be counteracted by a remedy at once simple, harmless and easily obtainable upon all occasions.

Of its importance in the treating of the morphine and opium habits it is too early to speak authoritatively, but if Dr. Moore's opinion is correct its usefulness in this direction will prove incalculable. Dr. Moore has been experimenting with his new antidote since early spring, but it was not until the meeting of the clinic that he felt that he had advanced far enough to permit an experiment which would instantly establish the importance of his discovery in the eyes of his colleagues. In cases where variations of opium other than the sulphate of morphine have been taken internally, Dr. Moore has found the antidote should be acidulated with vinegar in the proportion of one to five, and then it proves efficacious at once.

The lapse of an hour or two will not, it is thought, make the new antidote useless, the counteraction must necessarily be slower and less satisfactory in such cases.—Boston Herald.

She Wheeled Her Own Baby.

It was once my lot to board for a few months in a beautiful city. Every pleasant day I wheeled my baby out. On the broad, shady sidewalks which we frequented, I used to meet many other baby carriges, their little occupants in charge of girls with snowy caps and aprons. Hardly a day passed that I was not accosted by some of these girls, and always, after the first general chat, would come the question: "Where do you live?" "Say, who do you work for?" "Whose baby's that?"

The stare of incredulous astonishment which always greeted my quiet answer, "He is my baby," was very funny.

"She says it's her own baby, and she ain't workin' out for no one!" I overheard one of them tell another, in a tone of perplexed amazement.

"Why did you take me for a nurse girl? Why shouldn't it be my own baby?" I asked one of them.

"Why, nothing, only—well, the ladies round here don't ever wheel their own babies out," she answered.

"Well, I am a lady, and I wheel my own baby out," I remarked briefly.

That afternoon, one of the ladies who never wheeled her own baby out, went by with a little shaggy poodle in her arms!—National Baptist.

He that hopes to look back with satisfaction upon past years must learn the present value of single minutes, and endeavor to let no particle of time fall useless to the ground.—Dr. Johnson.

A Great Many Children—have been cured of scrofula and other skin diseases—as well as thousands of grown people, by taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up wholesome flesh and strength; not merely fat like Cod liver oils. A scrofulous condition of the blood invites Catarrh, Bronchitis and Consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip, or malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, for that's the point of entrance for these germs, then if the blood is pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk. If it fails to benefit or cure in all cases of impure blood or inactive liver, your money is returned.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers. Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 42 Maiden Lane, New York. [m r m]

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing Cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife or injections of carbolic acid, which are painful and seldom a permanent cure, and often resulting in death, unnecessary. Why endure this terrible disease? We guarantee 6 boxes to cure any case. You only pay for benefit received. $1 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Guarantees issued by our agents.

CONSTIPATION Cured, Piles Prevented by Japanese Liver Pellets the great LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR and BLOOD PURIFIER. Small, mild and pleasant to take, especially adapted for children's use. 50 Doses in vials.

GUARANTEES issued only by
JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

PAINT cracks.—It often costs more to prepare a house for repainting that has been painted in the first place with cheap ready-mixed paints, than it would to have painted it twice with strictly pure white lead, ground in pure linseed oil, forms a permanent base for repainting and never has to be burned or scraped off on account of scaling or cracking. It is always smooth and clean. To be sure of getting strictly pure white lead, purchase any of the following brands:

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead, and mix your own paints. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.
Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

Philadelphia Branch, 472 South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
FLY FANS, &c.
Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,
Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

AGENTS $10 a day at home selling LIGHTNING PLATERS and plating J. watch, Watches, Jewelry, Tableware, etc. Heavy plate guaranteed 10 years. Will plate on all kinds of metal without silver or nickel. No experience. Anyone can plate the first hour. Goods need plating in every house, dealers complete. Different sizes, all warranted. Write for terms, to operate $5 up. Big profits to operate. Circulars free. $10 outfit free. Address, Columbus, O.

M. F. Delno & Co. Dept. No. 8,

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1894. Number 42.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

118 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WEEK follows week and month follows month, and the session of Congress is not fruitful. Problems that confronted it half a year ago are scarcely as near solution or even disposal as they were at the beginning. It is not to be wondered nor regretted that the people are exasperated. They had done their part well; they had elected representatives, they have been prodigal of the salaries paid them, and they have been patient; and they have realized that prosperity will not return if it depends on Congress. Recent political "landslides" in various States are natural consequences, and they are potent warnings from the sovereign people of the Republic. We have written of conservatism and deliberation, but malicious and criminal dilly dallying and negligence can be included in the category of neither of these. Patience in the present circumstances is not a virtue; distrust and desire of change are reasonable. Our representatives seem to think that the popular will is something to be perverted and despised; they have made masters of themselves and no longer have a sense of their servitude, nor do they seem to hear the voice as of many waters that will condemn them in a hot flood of indignation as they have contemned their "chance" and their duty, so surely as they confront their constituents. And if the retirement of these inactive and obstructive legislators were the only result, we might well rejoice; but principles, good and true, are condemned in condemning these men; and principles unknown, untried and untoward may rise in their stead. The present attitude of the lawmakers is as a fever in the vitals of a party that was reared on and stands yet for principles as meritorious as they are needful; but the present lawmakers are either unappreciative and unworthy of those principles or unworthy of their position for want of capacity or honesty. The day of probation has not yet expired, but its close is approaching and it is inevitable.

THE system of rewards and penalties is being carried too far in politics. Men are holding all kinds of public offices, in the gift of the people and in the discretion of the powers that be, which they have obtained through the elevation of party service above principles. And here we may find reason for the present condition of affairs in Congress, and for the ominous tendency to defeat principles, because they are betrayed by men who were nominated for party services but who stood before the people and were elected in the name of principles, of which they knew nothing and for which they cared less. Since Cleveland last became President, North Carolina has asked him for many offices for her unemployed sons, and when he has refused, dissatisfaction has arisen. To the best of our knowledge not three men from our State have been candidates for appointment on the ground of personal fitness: the highest endorsement they asked or received was that they had done "good service for the party" in the campaign, which is not evidence that they will serve the government well; and we think Cleveland has fully paid them for this. He did not need their service, nor North Carolina's votes; he would have been President if the State had voted against him, and eleven electoral votes are not worth much anyway. There are several States that have twice the number. But it is politics these days to elect men and ask for the appointment of men for no other reason on earth than that they have done good party service. And if that party service is valueless to Mr. Cleveland, why should he be expected to reward it? We have contempt for the "silver-tongued Demosthenes" who inflicts his "eloquence" on the public in the name of principles true and good on the campaign, and after election is disappointed if he does not receive honor and money for it. If one is capable of good and honest party service, he is capable of good private work, and if he is worthy of the government's honor and money, he will be paid and honored in private life. Principles should be the inducements to campaign work. We hope that on the next campaign they who are working for a party with a view to reward will say so; and then hearers will know just how much of campaign eloquence is sincere. Party service is not a measure of anything; principles and personal worth are the only criterions of usefulness.

THE truth is, we have too many sinecures in our official government. Public offices pay too well and require too little work. This is really a government of "powers behind the throne;" and these powers are in most cases clerks and underlings in the popular view. Representatives and Senators have clerks to attend to the routine business of their positions, and we know that some of them have even employed people "to fame unknown" to write their speeches for them. The people's representatives have nothing to do except talk and vote and campaign; and they pay a great deal more attention to the latter than to the two former. The representatives who earn their bread by the sweat of their faces are usually young and uninitiated. Clerks and assistants do the sweating and earn less bread; but they earn it honestly. So also, we are bold to say, is the case with many an employee of the government. Some officers are paid $3,000 a year for the energy and brain-work involved in waiting until another officer is absent on vacation or other business before they work. The head of a department or division is paid a high salary for former party service, and his clerks serve the government. Thus have government offices been made so desirable that they "seek the man" only in a multitude of seekers. Where is the Congressman whose time is quoted in his home market at $5,000 a year with perquisites and a clerk? Which of the employees of our government could earn half their present salaries with twice the amount of labor at home? Those who pose as being anxious to serve either their party or their government are usually out of a job and too lazy to go to work. The office in its long-hindered search for good men will find them some day, and no one is going to suffer if every seeker of office is "turned down," for office-seekers were never noted for efficiency in other occupations. Cut down salaries, abolish about half of the clerkships, extend the civil service reform, and make public office a public trust and one of arduous duties, and we will have fewer demagogues, fewer candidates and better officers. But this will temporarily ruin any party that attempts it (for parties live mostly on "spoils"), and we have yet to hear of the first deliberate political suicide. Machines and spoilsmen and self-interested "patriots" are a reproach to good principles and a menace to our welfare; and their name now is legion.

BOOMS on paper or otherwise are treacherous instrumentalities. Our State was taught a dear lesson by "boom-towns" not many months ago; but it seems to have made impression only in regard to commercial speculations. If we knew whom we wished defeated for the next Presidency, we would have him boomed now. The Congressional nominating conventions are not far in the distance, and many are the booms that over-zealous and indiscreet friends are manufacturing on newspapers, hyperbolical adjectives and leather-like consciences. At least three "unanimous choices" of this district have been announced in far-fetched prose or flesh-creeping verse. The writers of these "unanimous verdicts" or "choices" or "opinions" do not seem to think that other people in their neighborhoods have minds and favorites of their own; and they are surely ignorant of the historical fact that just so often as one man attempts under an assumed name to set up a candidate for an entire community, he makes vigorous opponents to that candidate for the very reason that he presumes to manufacture other people's opinions,—an exploit to which few men are equal, and which never has been achieved anonymously. These are the booms that are boomerangs. If one wishes to compliment his fellow-citizen by the expression of high opinion, let him speak out over his signature. An assumed name—which is usually self-flattering—is less forceful than that of the least influential citizen in town. Its subject may be worthy of all high adjectives, and its writer may be as influential and "good" and "true" and "staunch" as he presumes to be; but without his name his words are unworthy of consideration so far as influence is concerned. And if his man is truly the choice of a hundred voters, how much less ashamed should one be to sign it truthfully! Anonymous nominations, however, are usually dishonest; they bear dishonesty on their face any way; for a writer never speaks for himself, he is the voice of an entire precinct at least, and his adjectives are always hyperbolical. Such writers are well aware of these things and are too regardful of their names to sign them; they seldom speak for more than one person, their eulogies are lies, and their purpose is to reap a reward "for services rendered" if their "choice" should happen to be the choice. Beware of booms, beware of "united voices" of whole districts, beware of anonymous nominations. They are presumptious and deceitful, and their writers are ashamed of them. And beware of the man who asks for office because he has supported certain tickets half a century—an idiot will do the same thing if his master shows him how and he lives long enough.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

If the people of a State are willing to furnish higher education for any of its citizens, there is no good reason why they should not furnish it for all. And it has been conceded that there is little need for and little hope for the future of corporate and private academies and colleges if the people agree that it is (1) right and (2) expedient to furnish, by taxation, higher education (3) under Christian auspices.

In previous articles the question of right has been briefly,—by no means exhaustively,—argued. In this number it is proposed to begin the discussion of the second question:—

2. Is it EXPEDIENT for a State in the present condition of North Carolina to undertake to supply all the demand for higher education within her borders?

One may clearly have the right to do what it would not be expedient for him to do. A man may have the unquestioned right to stop farming and dig for gold, but it may not be for his best interests to do so. It may not be expedient for a farmer to sell out his plantation in North Carolina and move to Texas. Yet no one will deny his right to do so. If, however, others are going to be affected by his decisions, it is clearly not right for him to take an inexpedient step unless he has given the question ample consideration and is honest in believing that he is taking the wisest course. And so, in very many cases, questions of right and expediency will be found to shade off into each other. Perhaps it may be found to be the case in the question now under discussion.

If, therefore, the argument against the right of a State to maintain higher education by taxation should have seemed to any reader to be inconclusive, he is invited to consider whether it be wise for North Carolina, under existing circumstances, to undertake to do so.

And it may be remarked that if the writer can succeed in making good any one of his three independent points, he will have established his main position. If not all, but either one of his three contentions shall prove to be valid, the State should not undertake to furnish the Higher Education.

It is believed and will be urged that in the present condition of our State every cent of money raised by taxation that is available for educational purposes ought to be expended in increasing the efficiency of the Common School System; and that all Higher Education ought to be cared for by private enterprise and supported, so far as necessary, by private munificence.

For some years three distinct methods of educational policy have been on trial in as many different parts of the United States. Sufficient length of time has elapsed since their adoption to prove their relative value. And each has prevailed over so wide an extent of territory as largely to eliminate merely local influences. The results of these experiments on so large a scale are due, mainly, not to accident, but to the working of the systems themselves. They afford excellent object lessons, and as such they are worthy of comparative study on the part of all who are interested in educational questions. It is easy to theorize about educational methods, but it would be hard to draw misleading inferences from the results of experiments on so extended a scale.

The following contrast between two of these methods is from an Address before the National Educational Association by Dr. J. D. Dreher, President of Roanoke College, Virginia:

"In the North, that great fundamental idea of the fathers of the Constitution that a republican government can rest safely only on the intelligence and virtue of the people, took practical shape in the establishment of a system of public free schools, supported by taxation.

"Higher education, though aided at times by various States, was never so controlled, until the establishment of agricultural colleges by national aid, as to make any single college in the New England or Middle States a State school. The University of Vermont, at Burlington, the College of New Jersey, at Princeton, and the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, although bearing the names of States, are nevertheless governed by close corporations or Boards of Trustees, wholly independent of State legislatures. * *

"The people of the Northern States, then, have acted upon the idea that the State should provide free elementary education so as to fit all, and especially the poor, for the duties of citizenship; and that the maintenance of higher education should be left to the benefactions of the friends of liberal culture and religion.

"Whatever may have been the views of the leaders of public opinion in the South before the civil war, the practical outcome of the Southern idea was just the opposite of that in the North. At the South almost no provision was made for the masses who could not otherwise obtain even an elementary education; while nearly every Southern State established a university, which in most cases could be attended only by those who had sufficient means to avail themselves of advantages already provided elsewhere. At the North the system seemed to embody the idea that education was regarded as a necessity and blessing to all; at the South, that it was a blessing and a necessity only to the few who were to be the social and political leaders of the people."

It was difficult for the writer to reconcile the wide generalization in the second paragraph quoted from Dr. Dreher with some of the statements in Blackmar's "Federal and State Aid," &c. All doubt is now removed by the reception of the following letter from President Chas. W. Eliot of Harvard University:—

CAMBRIDGE, April 11, 1894.

"My Dear Sir:—President Dreher is right. Until the Agricultural Colleges were established by National aid, there was no State University or College in New England. Harvard has never been a State University or College. It was aided by the Colony, Province and State from 1636 down to 1814, chiefly by small gifts, which amounted in all to $216,000; but endowments began to be received in 1638, and have always been the main support of the institution. Individuals have given to the University at least $12,000,000. * * *

"Wherever government supports universities, there endowments fail, or are procured with difficulty, and the public spirit which prompts gifts for education languishes. This effect has been produced in all our Western States which support State universities. * *

CHARLES W. ELIOT."

In the Western and Northwestern and in some of the Southern States, other conditions have prevailed. By provisions made before these States were organized, there was set aside from the public domain, to be used forever for educational purposes, an amount of land which is said to be, in the aggregate, more than half as large as France. In each township, one section (a square mile) was given by the Federal government for the support of public schools, and in each State, one township, sometimes two or three, (each containing thirty six square miles) was set apart for the support of a university. And while the legislatures of some of these States have from time to time made liberal appropriations for higher education, it should never be forgotten that the people of these States have been greatly relieved in the support of their schools by this generous provision of the Federal government. And, moreover, the proceeds of the Morrill Land Grant of 1864, which in several cases was given to the State Universities, were larger on an average in the Western than in the Old States. They were in some cases able to take up land within their own borders instead of accepting "scrip" to be sold on the market.

"Since the above was written, the following paragraph has appeared in a newspaper. The writer does not know that the figures are correct, but sees no reason to doubt their accuracy:—

"The elaborate provision for public schools is a striking characteristic of State and Territorial legislation in the far West. North Dakota estimates the ultimate amount of her school fund at somewhere between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000. Oregon's school fund is now $9,500,000. Idaho's school lands are worth nearly $7,000,000. Kansas holds nearly $7,000,000 in bonds for the benefit of her public schools. Missouri holds between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 for her schools. Oklahoma will one day have a large school fund, and half a dozen other Western States and Territories have many millions invested for the benefit of such funds."

The writer may remark, in passing, that he has long believed that a grave injustice has been done to the older States in the lavish distribution of the public domain. Some of the commonwealths which with patriotic generosity surrendered their claims to their territory in the West, have received nothing for the support of their Common School Systems, while the new States have received millions of acres. Is it too late, even now, to ask Congress for justice to the older States, especially to those which have to undertake the Common School education of the Freedmen?

But as a matter of fact, the same provision has not been made in North Carolina by the Federal Government for either higher or lower education that has been made in the West.

It is simply impossible for us to take the Western States as examples. Yet the writer has heard addresses in which one or another of the Western or Northwestern States has been presented as the standard to which our State should conform.

A further consideration of each of these three systems is desirable.

The plan pursued in the New England and Middle States seems to have borne good fruit in both lower and higher education. First, the admirable Common School systems of these States are supported by the States and are largely supplemented by local taxation. The last Report of the Bureau of Education (1889–90) says: "The tendency in the North is to regard State aid as an auxiliary agency, having a well-defined function, but to keep it within restricted bounds. In education, as in other departments of human activity, it is self-help that stimulates the healthiest and most vigorous growth and leads to the most enduring results. A realizing sense of this truth has led to the practice in the North of being somewhat chary in the matter of giving State aid. Enough is furnished to tone down the harsher inequalities of local taxation and to afford a stimulus and an encouragement to the people in the poorer localities to do for themselves," page 24. Under this system, we find that of over forty-five million dollars expended by these States upon their public schools, over thirty-seven millions were raised by local taxation.

The public schools in these States are kept open over 166 days. (In North Carolina, by same report, 59.2 days). The teachers receive sufficient compensation to warrant them in preparing for their work, and in devoting their lives to it.

To this almost universal education of the masses of the people are largely due their wonderful thrift, enterprise, inventiveness, and wealth. Despite unfavorable conditions of climate and (in many places) of soil, they can show the best results in agriculture. To their widespread general intelligence we may look for at least some of the causes of their amazing activity and success in manufacture. Of their influence in the affairs of the whole country, Governor Joseph E. Brown of Georgia has said in an Address at Atlanta:—

"There has been a great change. We have to bury the dead issues, and go forward with the living future. The statesmen of the South have no right to disregard the great question of popular education.

"Disguise it as you may, the New England States, by their broad and liberal educational system, the splendid endowments they have given to their universities, and their admirable Common School system, have educated their people up to a point which has given them great advantage in the contest for power and place in this government. Travel, if you please, over the broad plains of the mighty West, and you will find in most instances that the lawyer, the doctor of divinity, the physician, the schoolmaster, the literary man, the newspaper man, and the most prominent citizens in their cities and towns were educated in New England. They have imbibed New England ideas. By her educational influences New England has dictated laws to the continent. If we would elevate the people of the South to the true position of power and influence to which they are entitled, we must educate the masses of our people, and develop the bright intellect in the humbler circles of life, that is now left uncultivated."

And he might have added that it would be well to do it, so far as they are applicable, in accordance with the same methods which have been so fruitful in New England.

It is really impossible for one who has not traveled in the North, in the rural districts and smaller towns, as well as in the great cities, to form an adequate idea of the high level of general intelligence to which the masses of the people have been lifted through popular education, mainly in the public schools.

The policy pursued by these States of caring for primary, and, in some cases, secondary education, by taxation, local and general, and of relying mainly upon voluntary beneficence for the support of higher institutions, has produced excellent results. Second. What are some of these results in Higher Education?

The endowments of the colleges and universities of these States amount to nearly forty million dollars, and those of the South Atlantic States to about six and a half million. The college and university endowments of the single State of Massachusetts exceed those of all the South Atlantic States together by over four million dollars. Of course it is not forgotten that many Southern endowments were swept away by the civil war, and that there is far more wealth everywhere in the North than in the South. All that is aimed at in the presentation of these figures is to establish the fact that the Voluntary System in higher education is friendly to the support of universities and colleges without any necessity for taxation. If, however, one cared to make an analysis of the figures which show that the equipment in buildings, grounds, libraries, and apparatus (which were not generally destroyed by the war) are only one third in value in the South Atlantic States of what they are in the New England and Middle States, this argument could be made even stronger. The fact seems to be that when the field has been left open by a State, and when responsibility has been laid upon those who are interested in higher education, abundant means have not been lacking for either endowment or equipment of higher institutions.

Now is not the thought at once suggested that a method which has produced such admirable results, not in one single State, but in all in which it has been tried, is worthy of consideration, if not of adoption in other States?

The policy hitherto pursued in most of the Southern States does not seem to have borne such good fruit either in the higher or the lower education. The assumption by the States of the responsibility of providing the former does not seem to say the least, to have stimulated the people to give largely of their means for the endowment and equipment of private and corporate institutions.

[CONTINUED ON THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1894.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

"A LITTLE LEAVEN."

We often have evidence of the tremendous results of apparently small influences in every-day life. Men judge one another by these small things. Fortunes are made, battles are won and lost, empires builded and destroyed by small things. The despiser of the day of small things, however great one may be otherwise, never attains true greatness. They make up life, they make usefulness, greatness and success. Be faithful in that which is least, is a good rule of action for any one, whether in church-life or world-life. But after all, the spiritual life is mostly shaped and is most dependent on small things. A pastorate is made useful by the pastor, or made successful and happy by the flock by faithfulness in small things.

"A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." We do not know of a greater truth. A little leaven of unrighteousness in a church, a little indifference or carelessness or indiscretion on the part of a church member is more than dangerous. Uncorrected, it will become as a contagion and leaven the whole lump. A revival will be needed, and a strong one at that. All church troubles may be traced to this little leaven of unrighteousness. They commence at first in one member and are unheard of for the time. But as no one lives without influence, so this one member injures others. His trouble finally becomes a cause, a principle, and the number of his sympathizers immediately increases to right an imaginary wrong. The leaven works silently but surely; but it works evil only in unrighteousness, for if a Christian have a grievance, he will tell him, who has aggrieved him, of it. He will get the aid of another and another, if this fail. And by these methods no misunderstanding can exist long, and wrongs will be righted. But if they are not righted in this way, wrong will be done some one, no one will have satisfaction, and the Lord's cause will be injured.

In the outside relations of a Christian the little leaven of evil is fully as potent, though often less traceable. A church member in bad company is not an honor to his church or his profession; a church member bearing malice doesn't speak well for his religion; a church member being too "close" in business—hard-fisted—is no inducement to others to seek the way of the Lord; a church member indifferent to Christian work is contrary to the teaching of the Master whom he professes to follow. The leaven works better than we would have it. One may not intend to do injury to any one, and least of all to one's church, but we seldom look further than ourselves. The weak brother near by, or the unsaved wanderer, we do not expect to judge Christ by us; but they do. And the wilfully unchristian are only too happy to find a backslidden Christian. If a man in a high place falls, the papers, catering to the public, gloat of the fact that he was "prominent in the church." They seem to think that the bare fact that a professor of religion becomes a criminal is a reason why a church is totally bad, and an excuse for those who are moral but unchristian. It is not so. Christ anticipated that his name would be imposed on, he allowed Judas to impose on him at the very beginning. And yet the fact is no reason why we should be suspicious of one another. All sin, but all are not wantonly sinful. Yet such is the influence of a little leaven, that one crime attaches infamy to a whole church. Then how careful should church members be that they sin not, that they may not be the cause of wrong to thousands, and a reflection on Christ's name.

On the other hand, a little leaven of righteousness may work unspeakable good. The example of a good man is just as influential as that of an evil one, so far as individuals are concerned. The trouble is, good men are not written up in the papers until they die, and if they have influence in life it must be exerted personally. Within the church a faithful member can give life to a smoldering activity. One earnest, faithful worker is as the one hundredth lamb to a pastor, and if the church is pastorless one member can keep the Lord in it. And here may be mentioned influences for which Christians receive little credit. A church needs revival. Its members are careless and indifferent and engrossed with the world. But if it have one faithful Christian in it, that one can bring the Spirit and his power back by prayer. Prayers make revivals, and they are usually secret prayers, too. Communion with the Lord is the means of exerting this kind of influence. One's station may be low, one's faith as the mustard seed, but prayer long-continued in hope and faith will exert miraculous influences. We seldom think that a revival can be had without evangelists and great and ostentatious preparations; but if a pastor succeeds in getting his flock to pray for a revival, the Spirit will come. The evangelist may bring the unconverted within hearing of the word and to a state of anxiety, but it is our conviction that no influence is so great in reviving Christians as that of prayer by themselves.

To pray seems a small office, and yet it is the greatest privilege of human beings. Many prefer to lead, to be known as "prominent members," etc.; but the one who prays God to guide such members and oneself, is greater than all of these. Have we not the Father's promise that the faithful in that which is least shall be made rulers in great things? But if we didn't have this promise, is it not sufficient to know that one has in prayer the greatest of all privileges, to make one pray without ceasing.

Little things, humble offices, make a church; little things,—doubts and quarrels and sins, destroy its usefulness. There is a way by which we may regard the former and escape the latter; there is a way by which one may counteract the evil influence of the latter after they begin, if one is Christ-like enough. The leaven of unrighteousness should be removed before it begins to work.

SISTER YATES DEAD.

Previous notices had informed us of Sister Yates' serious condition, but we were not prepared for the sad news of her death, received last Monday as the RECORDER was on the eve of going to press. We have space now for only a few words.

Eliza Moring, widow of the lamented Matthew Tyson Yates, died in Shanghai, China, on March 24th, 1894, at the age of seventy-two years. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. John Stephens, assisted by Drs. Boone and Fryer, Revs. Tatum, Muirhead and Reid in the Union chapel, after which the interment took place in the New Cemetery, Shanghai.

Dr. Yates and wife went to China in 1847, under the call of God, to found the Southern Baptist mission in Shanghai. Now both are at rest, having kept the faith and fought the good fight. The name of Yates has been an honor to North Carolina and Southern Baptists for many years. And no little of it is due to the labors of Sister Yates. In all her husband's labors and sacrifices she was more than a helpmeet. Blessed of the Lord with wisdom tempered with gentleness and meekness, she was a most efficient worker among the heathen. She gave her life to them, and has now received the blessing of her Master. The influence of the lives of Dr. and Mrs. Yates cannot die. They began a work which will be carried on through the centuries, and in which their lives will be constant examples.

May God comfort the stricken ones, and may another be raised up worthy of her example. A more extended account will appear in our next issue.

THE following statement, which appeared in an exchange recently, is worthy of note:

"The experience of the first century of our existence as a State has proven beyond a reasonable doubt that if the education of the people is left to the denominations a very large majority of the children will grow up and remain in ignorance."

First, we take this occasion to say that denominational colleges are not the basis of any one's contentions. We are dealing with a matter of State policy, and in no wise is it a denominational question. No one has contended that "education of the people" should be left to the denominations. On the contrary it has been distinctly stated that free schools for primary education for the benefit of the State should be conducted by the State and maintained by taxation; moreover, no one asks that the higher education be left to denominations: it was contended that private and corporate institutions should do the latter work; and some weeks ago we claimed that a definite system of religion could not be inculcated in a State institution, but we have never questioned the right of private and corporate institutions to exist or their ability to inculcate principles of the Christian religion. But let that pass as a misstatement due to ignorance.

We wish to call the attention of our contemporary to the fact that during the century of existence to which it attributes the signal warning against ignorance, North Carolina had a University that existed thirty eight more years than any denominational college, and was the head of our educational system;—and our contemporary guilelessly states that in this century the great danger of leaving education to others than the State was made manifest!

Does any one believe that this country owes more to State conducted institutions for higher education than to private and corporate institutions? Let such recall Harvard—founded by the Puritans, and enlarged and equipped by benevolence; Yale, founded by benevolence and conducted by a denomination; Princeton, the Presbyterians' institution; Johns Hopkins, founded by benevolence and so maintained; and the two greatest of latter-day institutions, the Chicago and Leland Stanford, Jr., Universities. Let one consider the thousands of alumni of voluntarily-supported institutions before one cries that beyond a reasonable doubt were education left to them our youth would grow up in ignorance; they have done many fold more for our civilization than all the institutions for higher education supported or materially aided by States. In "the first century of our existence as a State" the State had a monopoly of higher education of males—from 1795 to 1833; and, it is needless to add, the ignorance and illiteracy of those years was as Egyptian darkness compared with the broad intelligence of to-day; and if anything was made manifest in those years, it was the utter incapacity of a State to educate its citizens.

Let us add that another contemporary, which asks why Dr. Taylor's article does not oppose State aid to the College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts and the State Normal and Industrial School for young ladies, merely shows its entire ignorance of what it is talking about. Dr. Taylor has explained why his article does not directly affect the Raleigh institution, and it has never been held that it does not affect the Greensboro school.

JUDGING from the flood of announcements and programmes that we have been publishing the past two issues, the latter part of this week and next Sunday are going to be happy and fruitful days in our Zion. While we have published so many programmes at length with some misgivings as to its advisability, we have read them with much interest. In many cases they are clear indexes of what the brethren are thinking about; we hope to have reports of some of the results of their thoughts after the meetings. It would be well to meet together more often than we do. We need a broader sense of fellowship. And since Associations have become so crowded with greater business it is needful that these union meetings be held for discussion of smaller, though important, topics. They are great instruments of education; they help those who discuss them, and they help the hearers. And moreover, they bring the lay-brethren into line, while pastors hold the field for the most part at other meetings.

The union meeting is desirable, moreover, in that it has nothing of business in it. It is purely instructive and spiritual. We hope these meetings this week will be largely attended, and regret our inability to respond to the many kind invitations of the brethren to be with them.

ZEB VANCE'S appeal to the North Carolina mothers and daughters to send means of sustenance and comfort to the soldiers thirty years ago, which we read in a daily paper last week, reminded us very forcibly of the present need of sacrifice for the soldiers in the full armor of God in the work of carrying the saving gospel to every creature. North Carolina responded so well in sixty-two that it was a common remark that her soldiers were better clothed than those of other States.

We are living in a blessed day of peace so far as ourselves are concerned; but it is a time of fierce warfare against the powers of darkness. Our soldiers of the cross must be clothed and fed and comforted; they depend on us here at home in comparative peace. Their need is very great just now. Retrenchment and temporary loss of ground is certain if means are not forthcoming. We have not much in our treasuries, the missionaries have nothing but faith in theirs; and faith means that we are to help them. They should not be disappointed. What we do must be done quickly. This is no time for retrenchment.

HOW MANY prayers are prayed in vain! Faith is wanting often. But this is no reason why we should not pray. A little faith will increase to a great force in communion with God; and a faithful prayer never ascends in vain. It is always answered,—perhaps not as we asked, but always answered for the best. It is strange that any one who believes in God's all-wisdom and kindness should doubt his wisdom and kindness in his dealings with us. An answer to a prayer may be a mere realisation of the fact that the prayer is unwise, when it is thus, we are as well satisfied as if the prayer were granted; for none of us desire to follow the ways of unwisdom. All faithful prayers are answered somehow; and the most blessed answers often are those in which we are made to see God's kindness tempered in wisdom.

To feel that one has over and about and within him a guide and comforter is the most blessed human state; to know that there is one who will be with you through the valley and the shadow, to commune with that one daily is man's highest accomplishment and privilege. Such are the rewards of Christians.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

PITTSBORO, N. C.

Recently I made my first visit here in the interest of the RECORDER. Soon after reaching the town, I found I was thought to be a post-office inspector, and that I was there to overhaul the accounts of the new postmaster. Bro. H. A. London, however, soon vanished the suspicion by informing his friends that such was not the case, and the only interest I had in the post-office business was to add some new names to the list of the BIBLICAL RECORDER. The new names I added, together with a pleasant day spent with the brethren gave me additional interest in the town, and I am not now surprised that Bro. Cobb should talk so much about his Pittsboro church. In 1889, I was in the county-seat of Northampton county. A succession of bad seasons and short crops, together with a bad system of farming, had brought desolation, and in some cases it looked almost like starvation over the entire county. The spirit of the people seemed to have been crushed, and there was apparently not enough energy left to try one more time. They did, however, make another heroic effort, and in 1890, the land which was well and faithfully cultivated, yielded a fine crop, and since then the prosperity of the county has not been surpassed by any other section of the State. There is now plenty of meat, corn, hay and oats in the hands of the farmers, and the people are cheerful, hopeful and comparatively happy. The money crop of this entire eastern section is largely in the hands of the farmers, who are patiently waiting for better prices.

JACKSON,

The brethren are greatly pleased with Bro. Cree, the pastor of the church. Bro. Buxton says that he is not only a fine scholar but a hard student, and never comes before his people without the best and most thorough preparation for his work. I note with much pleasure that the people in the country are demanding better preaching now than ever before, and the preacher who fails to observe this will soon find himself out of a pulpit. I found the brethren at in the best sort of humor. Bro. Parker's school was never so prosperous as it has been this year. The sisters, through the efforts of Mrs. J. T. Maddry, have secured a splendid organ for the church. They only owed a small balance on it, and if Brother Maddry observes his former diligence in calling on the brethren who pass that way, it will not be long before the last cent will be paid. The Trustees of met on Tuesday the 10th, and failing to have a quorum present, adjourned to meet in Winton on the 18th. This was my time to be here, and the brethren were expecting me. Some people complain much of the bad schedule of the railroad. The train reaches Murfreesboro now between 11 and 12 o'clock at night. I have nothing to complain of except I have no pass over the road: so far as any other inconvenience is concerned, that is made even by the kindness of Bro. Corbett at Boykin's, Va. I was almost sorry when I heard the whistle of the engine which summoned me away. I found Bro. Scarboro waiting for me at the depot. His house which is not half as large as his heart was my home while in the town. His constant presence and zealous efforts in my behalf enabled me to do the very best work I ever did in the town.

SEABOARD

MURFREESBORO INSTITUTE

Bro. Saunders is just getting into his work. He is holding a series of meetings which promise to be of great interest to the church. Good fortune seems to follow this church in the securing of a good pastor. Few pastors were ever loved as these people loved Bro. Wood, their former pastor.

And now Bro. Saunders has shown himself to be a first-rate preacher, a man of fine judgment with a will to work, one of those all-round fellows which Virginia occasionally furnishes to North Carolina.

The dining-room of the Institute was well filled with girls, and there was nothing in this department to suggest the much talked of hard times. The contract which expires between Prof. Brewer and the Trustees will be renewed and the school conducted as heretofore.

Thursday morning, by the kindness of Bro. Scarboro, I find myself on the way to where the State Superintendent of Public Instruction was to address the people of Bertie county. The people of this section are thoroughly aroused on the subject of education. They come in crowds when it is known that this subject is to be discussed. Both at Aulander and at Republican fine audiences were present to hear the addresses of Bro. Scarborough. The people listen to him as they only will to a man who speaks out of a full heart. The best investment in this office is the money given to Bro. Scarborough to enable him to meet the people of the State and talk to them face to face on the subject of education. No little portion of the success of these educational meetings is due to the efforts of Bro. Curtis whose heart is in every department of good work in this part of the State. The three churches of which he is pastor paid one hundred dollars of the debt of the Convention which the brethren all over the State are rejoicing because it has been paid off.

AULANDER,

Bro. Boone is now in good health and succeeding well with his churches at Windsor and Union. His speech at the close of the educational meeting at Republican church added interest to the occasion. He will attend Commencement at Wake Forest in June. Bro. G. W. Harmon of Weldon says many attend the Commencement because they are alumni of the College, but he desires to attend because he was not a student there and wishes to be in the closest sympathy with every interest of the College.

There are many young men in this section who ought to go to Wake Forest next session and who will do so if the matter is kept properly before them.

The brethren are reading the articles written by Dr. Taylor with unusual interest. These papers ought to be printed in a tract and sent to every intelligent voter in North Carolina. J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Dr. Whitfield of Richmond, Va., continues very ill, we regret to learn.

....Rev. J. E. Hutson, the evangelist, is holding meetings at Elizabeth City this week.

....Rev. Josiah Elliott reports the mission work in Hyde county in an encouraging condition.

....Brethren Timberlake of Louisburg and Turner of Statesville were in Raleigh last week.

....We are indebted to the University of Rochester (N. Y.) for the annual catalogue of that institution.

....The meetings held at Dunn by Drs. Cobb and Mundy have resulted in seven additions to that church.

....Rev. James Plemmons baptized fourteen converts at Bent Creek, Western North Carolina, on the 15th inst.

....The new house of worship at Tillery's, Halifax county, will be dedicated on the fifth Sunday in this month.

....Rev. T. J. Taylor of Warrenton, N. C., is helping Pastor Hines in meetings at Curtis Bay.—Baltimore Baptist.

....Pastor R. T. Vann of Scotland Neck is down in South Carolina—at Sumpter, we believe—holding revival meetings.

....Rev. C. A. G. Thomas of Greensboro will begin a series of meetings with Bro. C. J. F. Anderson at Sanford next Sunday.

....Dr. J. J. Hall of Norfolk, Va., baptized fourteen candidates and received them into his Norfolk church on the 15th inst.

....Revs. Henry Sheets and Thos. Carrick recently held a meeting in the former's church at Kernersville with good results.

....Brethren Aydlett, Gregory, Pinner and Sykes have been added to the board of deacons of the Baptist church at Elizabeth City.

....Rev. J. M. Bennett has frequent additions to his churches, and his church at Holloway's is building a new house of worship.

....We were glad to have a pleasant visit from pastor W. B. Morton of Louisburg last week. He reports his church in good condition.

....Dr. J. A. Mundy is holding special services in his church at Wilson. The meetings are reported as well attended and promising.

....Commissioner of Labor Statistics Lacy has our sincere gratitude for an artistically bound copy of the recent report of his Bureau.

....Dr. Hufham will stop in Raleigh a few days on his way from Tarboro to Shelby the first week in May. We shall all be glad to have him with us.

....Dr. Hufham is spending this week with his brethren at Scotland Neck whom he served so long as their faithful pastor. He preached there last Sunday.

....Rev. J. L. White of Asheville resumed his meetings in Doctor Pritchard's church, Charlotte, last Monday, and will continue them until next Saturday.

....Rev. L. R. Pruitt of Mt. Airy occupied the pulpit of the Olivet church, Charlotte, which Rev. D. M. Austin recently resigned, morning and night of last Sunday.

....Prof. A. M. Yates of Ewing informs us that Prof. J. B. Carlyle of Wake Forest College will deliver the address at the closing exercises of Green Level Academy.

....To the esteemed N. C. Christian Advocate: Thanks; substitute Presbyterian or Methodist for the word Baptist in the sentence in question, and you have our meaning.

....Rev. F. C. McConnell, Assistant Secretary of the Home Board, has been called by the congregation at Lynchburg, Va., to succeed Dr. Felix. He will probably decline.

....Rev. Dr. J. N. Stallings and family moved from Low Gap to Mocksville this week, and are now occupying the Baptist parsonage. The Times extends to them a most cordial welcome.

....Work is being rapidly pushed now on the new Baptist "meeting house." It is really beginning to look like a house, and we hope to see it day by day grow more so till it is finished.—Franklinton Weekly.

....It is probable that the North Carolina representation at the Southern Baptist Convention will be smaller than usual. What we lack in men should be made up for in the reports of the Home and Foreign Boards.

....The Roman Catholic houses of worship in the United States have a seating capacity for 3,874,000 persons, the Presbyterian houses for 4,088,000 while the Baptist have capacity for 11,599,000.—Western Recorder.

....Rev. J. A. Campbell informs us that the commencement exercises of his excellent institution, Buie's Creek Academy, will occur May 23d. He has enrolled 176 students this year, and says it is the best he has ever had.

....E. R. Logan of Dallas, Texas, an ex-North Carolinian, writing to Bro. Durham about the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention, says: "Bring along a bit of roain as some of us would like to taste it once more before we die."

....Bro. W. A. Albright has retired as Secretary of the Board of Ministers' Relief, and Rev. J. F. MacDuffie has been chosen to succeed him. Bro. Albright has been an efficient officer, and we are glad to know that he remains on the Board.

....We regret to learn that Rev. R. B. Collier of Broadway church, Baltimore, is suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis. He will come South—we presume to his former home, North Carolina—in hopes of entire recovery, says the Baptist.

....Dr. Thos. Hume of the Chair of English at the State University delivered three lectures at Salisbury last week, and occupied Bro. Jones' pulpit on Sunday. Dr. Hume has become the most popular lecturer in the State, and his services are always in demand.

....The Lord be praised for his goodness. Bro. Durham deserves the hearty thanks of the entire denomination for his untiring and unceasing efforts to raise "the debt." I know of no other man that could have succeeded in these hard times as he did.—J. W. Thomas.

....We enjoyed a pleasant visit from Bro. J. F. MacDuffie, the pastor of the Second Baptist church of Durham, last week. The cause in Durham is moving forward. Bro. MacDuffie reported Bro. Stringfield's meeting with Bro. Blanchard, East Durham, as of great hope.

....President John B. Brewer of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute has declined the proffered presidency of the Baptist Female University. The action is generally regretted. It is a back-set. The Board of Trustees will take action in the matter at an early date.

....Two students of the University were baptized by Dr. J. L. Carroll at Chapel Hill on the 15th. He also baptized a very worthy woman of the same village on the 18th inst. Dr. Carroll informs us that the two young men who won the debaters' and the declaimers' medal on the 20th in the Philanthropic Society contest were Baptists.

....Dr. H. M. Wharton of Baltimore is now holding meetings at Fort Worth, Texas. He was in Chicago not so very long ago, has written a book since, however; has held meetings for many days in New York City, then in Danville, Va., and now to Texas! Let him complete his campaign in California.

....It was stated in a recent issue of the RECORDER that Dr. H. M. Wharton was prevented from lecturing for the First Baptist church, Raleigh, on account of sudden illness. We should have had it Dr. M. B. Wharton of Norfolk, our school-mate and friend; and we are happy to state that he will come to Raleigh and lecture for us in the near future.

...."The corrected report of the Missionary Union leaves the deficiency for the year ending April 1st, 1894, $203,595 89." That means our Northern brethren have a great burden to begin this year's work on; but they have the advantage of a minimum of complainers and accusers, and a maximum of workers and prayers. And they will "balance even," yet.

....Rev. Mr. Church of Statesville has been conducting a series of meetings in Thomasville during the past week.——Three boys and ten girls were baptized last Sunday by pastor J. D. Newton. How good to see the little ones following Jesus. After the baptizing, the congregation repaired to the chapel and enjoyed a talk about heaven by Mr. Church.—Charity and Children, April 20.

....We recently received an invitation from Rev. L. M. Berry and wife of Booneville, Mo., to the celebration of their golden wedding. Bro. Berry will be remembered by the older generation of our readers as a good and faithful North Carolina preacher. He writes that he still loves the people of this State, and keeps up with them through the RECORDER. We wish him many happy returns of his wedding day.

....Dr. Carter of the First Baptist church, Raleigh, announced on Sunday last that he would preach in his church every night this week except Saturday on various phases of the subject, "The Holy Ghost." These services have especial relevancy to Christians, being preliminary to the protracted meeting which Rev. P. G. Elsom will conduct beginning next Monday; but they will be of interest to the unsaved as well.

....We hope our brethren who are so intensely interested in the South Carolina dispensary law will not fight the battle over again. The law has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of South Carolina, and that should settle the matter until they get a better law or a better court. North Carolina needs a better law than it has. We think the Mississippi plan—which we recently published—both desirable and practicable.

....The annual catalogue of our Southern Baptist Theological Seminary ('93–'94) has been received. It contains much interesting matter, and is illustrated with three excellent pictures of the buildings of the institution. Two hundred and sixty-seven students have been enrolled during the year from thirty-three States and foreign countries. Fourteen of these were from North Carolina, eleven of whom had attended Wake Forest College. At the coming commencement degrees will be conferred on thirty-nine young men, two of whom are from North Carolina, namely, George Vance Tilley and Charles Judson Thompson. The commencement occurs May 31st. We advise every young preacher in North Carolina to obtain a copy of this catalogue, which will be forwarded on request.

....A headline in our last issue was incorrect: Bro. Abram Jenkins, of whose death Rev. C. W. Matthews wrote, was not a minister. Bro. Matthews, who is now situated at Norfolk, informs us that several have been added to his church recently, and congregations have doubled. One candidate awaits baptism and another was expected to join his church last Sunday.

....Rev. J. F. Love's meetings at the West End, Raleigh, with Bro. Hunter, have been the occasion of eighty professions of religion, and more than twenty renewals of faith. The meetings were very largely attended, and the power of God was very manifest. Bro. Love left for Suffolk, Va., his home, last Friday, carrying with him the love and esteem of many newly-made friends.

....The RECORDER columns have contained a letter from a foreign missionary each issue for more than two months, and we have a good one this week from Brother Chappell; and one next week from Brother Tatum. We hope our brethren and sisters will keep this up; no letters are so appreciated as from those with whom we cannot communicate otherwise, and the RECORDER is proud of the number of excellent letters which it has given its readers.

....Send us your subscription or a part of it as soon as you can. We can wait, if you are not able just now; but we cannot wait unless those who are able do send something. Our friends have added a gratifying number of new subscribers to our books recently; they have our thanks, and we will appreciate any effort you may make to increase the number. Pastors are authorized to take subscriptions, old and new. It has been said many times that a denominational paper is an able pastor's assistant.

....Rev. Duncan McLeod writes from Washington April 19th: "Bro. Lamberth came down last Monday, the 16th inst., to assist me in a series of meetings, and has preached every night since. The congregations are good, and they listen attentively to the preaching of the word. A number have asked for prayer, though he has not as yet preached what is generally known as "revival" sermons. His preaching is clear and forcible, and I am quite sure that very much good will be accomplished. Pray most earnestly that God will bless us and the town of Washington."

....We publish in this issue another article on co education by Dr. Pritchard. The Doctor comes out and tells us just what he meant by his articles, and puts the matter in his usual strong way. President Hobgood of Oxford Female Seminary has given notice to the Board of Trustees of Wake Forest College that he will introduce a resolution looking to the opening of the doors of Wake Forest to women desiring higher education than that offered at the female colleges of the State. He will probably elaborate his plan in the RECORDER columns next month. President Crowell of Trinity College—we have heard—favors a similar arrangement at the Methodist institution. A professor at Wake Forest says he will approve the opening of the College to young ladies if he is given the privilege of holding the entrance examinations!

From Bro. Watson in Norfolk, Va.

Dear Recorder:—Since first coming to Norfolk, it has been my intention to communicate with my brethren in the Old North State, but press of work has prevented up to this date.

The Baptist cause was, possibly, never in a better condition, in these cities by the sea, than at present. The churches are well manned, the present writer excepted, with wise, conservative, consecrated leaders, and the weekly reports at the ministers' conference are most inspiring and helpful.

Dr. J. J. Hall, who made for himself an enviable reputation as preacher, pastor, lecturer, in your own city while in charge of the Tabernacle, is prosecuting his work with marked ability and decided success. Constant additions are being made to his church membership, and his people are enthusiastic over their growth under his leadership and justly proud of their talented pastor.

My work with the Spurgeon Memorial church has been abundantly blessed and most gratifying to me. I give God all the glory. Not two years old yet, our church is vigorously prosecuting her work and independently looking to her own members for her sustenance. Not one dollar has ever been donated for her benefit outside of the contributions of her own flock. I have never had the pleasure of serving a people previous to the present pastorate, so thoroughly imbued with the spirit of liberality.

Nearly two years ago the church was organized with thirty-one members. The membership has grown from that time to one hundred and eighty odd, fifty-seven of whom have been added since the writer has had charge of the church.

In our recent meeting, in which I was most ably assisted by the popular and talented young pastor of Edenton in your own State, twenty-two made a profession of faith, and up to this time fifteen have united with the church.

Let me say, before I forget it, that Bro. J. E. White, while he may not be exactly orthodox in his views on a call to the ministry, is a fine preacher, and any people are to be congratulated who have the opportunity to sit under the sound of his voice. My people were greatly delighted with him and want him to come again. W. F. WATSON.

Norfolk, Va., April 17, 1894.

East Chowan Association.

This body meets with Shady Grove church, May 20th, 1894. Brethren coming by rail will be met at Moyock. This station is only three miles from the church. We hope to see all the churches in the Association represented. N. P. STALLINGS.

Coinjock, April 16, 1894.

Co-Education—No. 6.

BY T. H. PRITCHARD.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A SCHOOL IN RALEIGH.

I said before the late Baptist State Convention that I regarded it as a matter of the gravest importance that we should have a good school for girls in the Capital; that I thought our people had lost a great deal—far more than they had any appreciation of by having no school there for these many years, and that such was my recognition of the necessity for such a school that if I were pastor there I would have a school if I had to organize and run it myself. I still adhere to these opinions, and do not wish to be understood, in all that I have said as antagonizing a school in Raleigh. I hope that an institution of good grade will begin operations there next fall, but while I say this, in good faith, I must maintain, at the same time, that the place for the Female School of the grade we need for the whole State is Wake Forest, and in organic connection with our College there.

This opinion I base upon the following considerations: first, economy demands it. On the fine square, in the northern part of the village, the property of the College and beautifully located, or within the spacious College campus, of twenty odd acres, buildings could be erected—all that are necessary,—for not more than $50,000 which would accommodate 150 students. This school would be supplied with nearly all its teaching force by the Faculty of the College, whose salaries are already provided for. The College library, reading-room, chemical, philosophical apparatus, and class-rooms now there, would answer for students of both sexes. For the matron, or lady-principal, and all other instructors and appliances needed the fees of the female students, even at a much lower rate than are charged at other female schools, would be amply sufficient. To provide a school with inferior advantages in any other place in the State would require an outlay, in the first place, of not less than $100,000, and an endowment of not less than $300,000 more. I am satisfied that I am within the bounds of a reasonable estimate when I say that $50,000 wisely expended at Wake Forest would go as far in establishing a good female school as $350,000 at any other point in the State.

But the ends of economy would be subserved, not only in regard to buildings, libraries, apparatus, teachers, &c., but in the matter of travel, no small item by the way, where the boys and girls of a family attended the same school, a large amount of money would be saved in a few years.

In the second place, I do not doubt but that we would have a better school—one in which the grade of instruction would be higher, more comprehensive and more thorough, from the very beginning, at Wake Forest than would ever be attained elsewhere; certainly for many years to come. I need not elaborate this point; those who know the grade of teaching now done at this College, and that which obtains at any other school for girls of any denomination in North Carolina do not require argument to prove my proposition.

And in the third place, the establishment of such a school at Wake Forest would concentrate the Baptist educational interests of the State largely at one point, and in my judgment, would greatly increase the number of both sexes, who would wish to pursue a generous course of study and obtain a superior education. The experiment has never been tried in this State, so far as institutions of a real college grade are concerned, and I am persuaded that were our people to carry out the scheme I have projected in this series of articles, a long stride of progress in the direction of higher and more general education would be taken.

I do not expect my suggestions to be acted on now; it may be some years before our people will be prepared for putting them into execution, but that they are founded in wisdom and supported by practical and successful experience I have not a shadow of a doubt. Nor do I question but that they will gradually remove prejudices and win their way to success in the end, and I hope to see such a consummation, even before I go hence.

Southern Baptist Convention.

Perhaps it is not generally known that any person wishing to go to Texas can avail themselves of the rates to the Convention. Certainly you can. And, if you wish to see the greatest State, when in her beauty, go then in May. The tickets will be good, over all roads, for 30 days.

A trip from Dallas to the city of Mexico has been arranged for and if any one in North Carolina desires to take it, costing forty-five dollars. I shall be glad to help them arrange for it. The excursion will go out by El Paso, over the great plains, and return by San Antonio, the historic ground in Texas. Persons wishing to see that country can afford to live hard for a year that they may go. Many of the young teachers in North Carolina would find this trip a helpful educational feature in life and never regret the expense after they had seen so much of the Southwest.

Again I wish to commend the R. & D. and the Cotton Belt route to our North Carolina people. One of the most wonderful bridges in the United States, over the Mississippi at Memphis, and the great rivers of the Southwest—famous in all pioneer history—and some beautiful country in Texas are some of the features of interest on this route. No transfers, and no danger from highwater, as the Cotton Belt is the best protected in the Southwest. We have one sleeper filled already and I shall be glad to engage room for others. Free reclining chairs and a special train, from Memphis with the most accommodating officers, will help to make the trip interesting. The Cotton Belt will also land you in the only depot in Dallas convenient to the street-car system, thereby saving you back hire.

A. M. SIMMS.

An Open Letter to Rev. Dr. W. on "Regeneration."

FROM REV. C. M. DONALDSON, D. D.

My Dear Dr. W.:—Strong says: "Regeneration and conversion are but the divine and human sides of the same fact. The moment a sinner's regeneration and conversion is also the moment of his union with Christ, although only as he believes is he united to Christ. Regeneration embraces repentance and faith."

The efficient cause of regeneration is the immediate agency of the Holy Spirit, yet we do not affirm that the divine Spirit accomplishes his work without any accompanying instrumentality. God's work in regeneration is within the soul itself and must be a direct influence of the Holy Spirit on the heart, although wrought in conjunction with the presentation of the truth to the intellect.

The Scripture view is, that regeneration is accomplished through the instrumentality of the truth. Man is not passive at the time of his regeneration. Although the efficient power is divine, man is not therefore unconscious, nor is he a mere machine moved by God's fingers. We reject the "exercise system," which regards God as the direct author of all man's thoughts, feelings and volitions in its special application to regeneration.

This activity of man's mind in regeneration, is activity in view of the truth. Only as the sinner's mind is brought into contact with the truth does God exert his regenerating power.

It is an instantaneous change. Although there may be a gradual work of God's Spirit and providence preparing the change, and a gradual recognition of it after it has taken place, there must be an instant of time when under the influence of God's Spirit the disposition of the soul, just before hostile to God, is changed to love." As proof of the instantaneous change he refers to Jno. 5: 24, 25. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that heareth my word and believeth on him that sent me hath everlasting life." With the moment of belief comes the new life. Verse 25—"The hour is coming and now is when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live." The words "now is" in this verse must have reference to the morally dead, who though dead hear his voice. Thus far I think we both substantially agree with Strong. But in the following I think he parts company with you, and with him I am in full accord:

"If man is ever regenerated, it must be in and through a movement of his own will, in which he turns to God as unrestrainedly and with as little consciousness of God's operation upon him as if no such operation of God were involved in the change. And in preaching, we are to press upon men the claims of God and their immediate duty of submission to Christ, with the certainty that they who do submit will subsequently recognise this new and holy activity of their own wills as due to the working within them of divine power." Refer to Ps. 110: 3—"Thy people shall be willing in the day of thy power."

If I have understood your position correctly, you hold that no man can come to Christ sincerely with any true spiritual longings for salvation, or life, except as the result of regeneration or the new birth, and you quote in your strong proof passage: "No man can come unto me except the Father which sent me draw him." You infer that this drawing means regeneration.

While I believe all who are drawn to Christ by the Father become regenerated, I do not believe the drawing is regeneration, or the result of regeneration, but the precursor or prerequisite of regeneration. It seems to me that your logic is at fault in leading you to confound the influences which induce the soul to receive Christ and the new birth which follows his reception. The soul may be awakened to the consciousness of its guilt and danger and led to seek God by the exhibitions of his power, as in the case of the jailer who, being aroused by the mighty earthquake and seeing the prison doors open and hearing the voice of Paul, falls before him and asks, "What must I do to be saved?" This cry for help—spiritual help—came not from a regenerated man, but from one who felt its need. Nicodemus was led to seek Christ, and as a result to experience the new birth by the miracles of Christ. The Syrophenician mother by grief, and so on, yet God influenced the seeking.

It is said of Saul of Tarsus, "For behold he prayeth." Yet there is no evidence that Saul experienced the new birth till Ananias spoke to him and told him of Jesus and of his love to him.

The argument from analogy is strong, viz: If Christ conditioned the healing of men's physical maladies on faith, does it not seem that he would use the same faith as a medium of moral healing? Again, if the physically dead can hear the voice of the Son of God, may not the morally dead also hear his voice? He says they will. Does not Jesus imply the ability to hear and believe when he quotes from Isaiah, "Ears ye have and hear not," &c. "Ye will not come unto me that ye may have life."

Does not the exercise of God's punitive justice at last rest on the presumption that man might have believed and would not? Christ and his disciples always preached to men as if they were free agents, having power to accept or reject the offer of eternal life, and we must do likewise. While, as I have shown, God is in man's regeneration and salvation from beginning to end, yet it is in such a way—mysterious—as in no wise to affect his consciousness of free agency.

Permit one other quotation from Strong, and I relieve your patience:

"The appropriation of Christ and his salvation is not the result of an accomplished renewal, but rather the medium through which that renewal is effected. Otherwise, it would follow that one who had not yet believed (i. e. received Christ) might still be regenerate, whereas the Scriptures represent the privileges as granted only to believers." John 1: 12-14—"To as many as received him, to them gave he the power" right—"to become the sons of God," &c. Gal. 3: 26—"For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus." "That the object of saving faith is, in general, the whole truth of God, so far as it is objectively revealed or made known to the soul: but in particular the person and work of Jesus Christ, which constitute the substance and centre of God's revelation. The patriarchs, though they had no knowledge of a personal Christ, were saved by believing in God so far as God had revealed himself to them, and whoever among the heathen are saved, must in like manner be saved by casting themselves as helpless sinners upon God's plan of mercy dimly shadowed forth in nature and providence. But such faith even among the patriarchs and heathen is implicitly (implied) a faith in Christ and would become explicit and conscious trust and submission, whenever Christ were made known to them."

I can't see by what laws of reasoning or logic, you can reconcile your language: "Knowledge of Christ is not essential to the new or spiritual birth in man," and "The heathen cannot possibly be saved without a knowledge of the gospel or Christ."

I think, on reflection, you will revise your theology just here if not at other points.

Notes of Travel.

The church of Aboskie, N. C., was the first visited. We find here a flourishing little village which was a few years ago only a church. Bro. B. Craig is pastor here. The weather was so inclement they had no services on Sunday. The pastor rode a few miles away that morning and made a couple happy.

Next point was at Scotsville, Va., where we met and had the pleasure of hearing Rev. J. G. Chastain, missionary from Mexico. The obstacle to their work there was Catholicism, but the outlook was hopeful.

The conflagration at Money Point, Va., March 23d, was fearful in the extreme. Mothers and children's cries were heart-rending. There was $250,000 worth of property destroyed.

Our next point was at South Norfolk, Va. Here we found a Baptist church recently organized and under the pastoral care of Rev. C. W. Matthews. They have a commodious house of worship with a fair congregation and Sunday-school.

Our next stop was with Rev. P. S. C. Davis at Centerville and St. John's churches, in Virginia.

Moody's meetings in Norfolk were successful, everything being in readiness when he came. Meetings were held in the churches in Norfolk and Portsmouth a week prior to his coming. Moody is a wonderful plain man. B. GRIFFITH.

Meeting at West End Mission, West Raleigh.

Dear Recorder:—As many of your readers know, Rev. J. F. Love of Suffolk, Va., has been with me in a meeting in West Raleigh for nineteen days. He goes back to his home to day, and with him the prayers and best wishes of a large number of new friends as well as old ones.

The meeting has been an old time revival. There have been eighty-five or ninety converts, with quite a number of backsliders reclaimed. So in all it seems safe to say that, according to profession, fully one hundred precious souls have been greatly blessed. Sowing has been going on at this point for years, and this is some of the reaping.

To God be all the praise. We meet to-night. A. D. HUNTER.

West Raleigh, April 20, 1894

Literary.

What is the cause of the enormous decrease in immigration during the past year? This is a question answered by Dr. Senner, the United States Commissioner of Immigration at New York, in an article entitled "How We Restrict Immigration" that will appear in the April number of the North American Review and in which the precautions taken by the Federal authorities for barring out undesirable immigrants are fully described.

The Preacher's Magazine for April, edited by the Revs. Mark Guy Pearse and Arthur E. Gregory, is to hand. The leading sermon is entitled, "Guidance and Glory," and is by President H. C. G. Moule. Dr. George G. Findlay writes on "Faith and Duty," and the Rev. Mark Guy Pearse on "The Vision of God," being one of the chapters of his excellent series of articles, entitled "Moses: His Life and Its Lessons." The Rev. W. Hay Aitken contributes an able paper on Mission or Revival Preaching. The Homiletical Department is, as usual, complete. Among the contributors we notice, the Revs. Gordon Calthrop, W. L. Watkinson, Wm. J. Holtzclaw and C. S. Laird. The Rev. J. Reid Howatt contributes a Children's Sermon for which he has chosen the title, "Well Grounded." Notes and Illustrations, Notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons, Books of the Bible, Great Bible Words, are among the other departments and articles. One of the features of this magazine is the Outline Addresses on the Golden Texts of the International Sunday-school Lessons, they are most suggestive, and will be found very helpful to the Sunday-school superintendent and pastor. This homiletical magazine, now in its fourth volume, is a decided success. It is published monthly at 15 cents per copy, or $1.50 per year. Wilbur B. Ketcham, Publisher, 7 Cooper Union, New York.

The annual catalogue of that excellent Virginia institution, Washington and Lee University, has been received. It shows a gratifying enrollment for the year just past. At this institution this summer a law class will be organized by Hon. John Randolph Tucker and Chas. A. Graves, M. A., also a summer school in pedagogics and physics, by Prof. S. T. Morehead.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

for liberal culture. Yet during the half century before the war, many of the people of these States were prosperous. And can it be doubted that, but for the fact that the States had entered this field, abundant provision would have been made by wealthy individuals, and by every one of the religious denominations, for the support of all needed colleges and universities?

What private munificence is willing and able to do in the South was illustrated and proved in several of these States after the close of the war. Most of the State universities were closed for a longer or shorter period,—a danger, by the way, to which colleges under political control are always subject, and from which Christian and private colleges are comparatively free. Many can still remember the vigor and elasticity displayed by these corporate institutions, and the large and rapid increase of the means at their disposal. When, for a period, overshadowing influences were removed, and responsibility for the care of higher education was put upon them, they seemed to feel the infusion of a new vitality, and were beginning to prove their ability to do, and to do well, all the work in college instruction needed by these States. Our State University was practically closed for ten years after the war. (Moore's History of North Carolina, page 417.) Some of the Christian colleges of the State made more real growth, all things considered, during the years which afforded opportunity for their expansion than they had done during the same number of years before the war. Yet this growth was made in the feverish days of reconstruction, while the country was in an unsettled condition, and the people were impoverished.

If the wave of tendency toward State maintenance and control of higher education shall culminate, the gifts of individuals to private institutions will probably be, in the future, few and small. Why should it be otherwise? What motive would there be for strengthening existing colleges or building up new ones, when alike they would be hopelessly handicapped in the struggle for existence?

If some wealthy and public-spirited man were, even now, contemplating a liberal gift to one of the Christian colleges of North Carolina, what encouragement would he receive from the State? And with what degree of hopefulness and enthusiasm can those who control these colleges plan and labor for the enlarged usefulness of the institutions committed as trusts to them?

For several years the foundation of a new institution of higher learning in North Carolina has been much discussed by one of the large bodies of Christian people, and some steps toward its organization have been taken. The writer happens to know, however, that some who at first favored the enterprise are now lukewarm, and that one of the reasons assigned for decrease of interest is that, in view of a seeming manifest destiny toward State control in higher education, it would be unwise to multiply points of friction and competition, and that the expenditure would be entirely unnecessary.

Incidental reference has been made to the suspension of the work of State universities after the close of the war. It will be no serious interruption of the general line of argument to lay some emphasis upon the fact that there is an element of inherent instability in the life and working of all institutions under political control. No man can forecast the future, or tell what social and political convulsions lie behind its unlifted curtain. Is it expedient to pursue a policy which will weaken or destroy institutions which are comparatively free from dangers arising from political and social changes in the effort to build up others which in the very nature of the case are liable to be suspended or destroyed by such changes?

In his monumental work on Political Science, President Woolsey, of Yale University, sets this difficulty in clear light. (Vol. II, page 409)

"The practical difficulties * * * arise from the causes which tend to disturb the stability of State institutions of higher learning. * * * The directors of higher institutions of learning, to a degree, change with the change of politics. Some professor has given offence by his freedom in expressing his opinions on public measures, and is made an object of attack. Some politicians think that learned education ought to pay for itself, without receiving aid from the public. There is no certainty that the university will survive half a century. * * From all this it would appear that universities supported by the State cannot * * be sure of a healthy, undisturbed existence. On the other hand, universities and colleges under the management of persons acting under a private charter * * are free from the instabilities to which State institutions are generally subject."

Extended discussion might at this point be made of some grave and peculiar dangers which, sooner or later, may manifest themselves in those States which have a large colored population. The writer does not care to discuss these dangers here. It is sufficient only to suggest them, and to remark that they do not and cannot threaten the Christian and other private institutions. These dangers may not be imminent now. But many unsettled questions are to be the heritage of our children.

In Chapin's edition of Wayland's Political Economy, (Sheldons, 1886, p. 139,) the following views are expressed: "There can be no question that it is the duty of the State to provide for the gratuitous elementary education of all classes. Whether the State should set up and maintain by general taxation higher institutions, * * is a question which demands the thoughtful consideration of the economist, the statesman, and the Christian. * * Under the control of the State, such institutions must be more or less involved in the conflicts of political parties in a way unfavorable to the most successful prosecution of their work. Under such control, also, it is difficult—not to say impossible—to adjust the treatment of moral and religious subjects, which ought not to be excluded from a course of liberal education, so as to satisfy all. Moreover, it is healthful for a people that wide scope be given for the action of private beneficence in endowing institutions of learning. * * Such institutions certainly deserve the fostering care of the State, whatever it may do with respect to other institutions under its direct control."

It is very difficult to see how these institutions which are thus commended to the "fostering care of the State" can expect to maintain themselves side by side with other institutions which are subsidized by State appropriations. If, therefore, the permanence and prosperity of a number of colleges, maintained by private munificence is more desirable than the growth and influence of colossal, overshadowing institutions, maintained by taxation, then the subsidy of the latter by the State is not expedient.

In the next article, some consideration will be given to the results of the Southern System in primary education.

(To be continued.)

"Rock Me to Sleep, Mother."

The poem, "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother" was written by Elizabeth Akers Allen, known otherwise as "Florence Percy." It is a favorite for it is a sweet little touch of home life. But there is another side to the picture. Many a mother rocks her child to sleep who can neither rest nor sleep herself. She is always tired, has an everlasting backache, is low spirited, weary, nervous and all that. Thanks be, she can be cured. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do the work. There is nothing on earth like it, for the "complaints" to which the sex are liable. Guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case or money returned.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are specific for biliousness, headaches, constipation, piles, and kindred ailments.

From Bro. Chappell of China.

Dear Recorder:—Perhaps many of your readers have often felt the desire to come into closer sympathetic touch with our Chinese brethren and sisters. It is not easy to do. The barriers are not few nor insignificant. The distance between you and China, with its miles of land and water, is not the greatest obstacle. Differences of language, customs, habits of thought and feeling, religious and social environment,—the warp and woof of this fabric, Chinese life, together with the included idea of a distinct racial instinct or genius, are some of the real difficulties in the way. But we are all brethren. I feel the truth uttered by the Apostle Paul, "God has made from one, every race of men, to dwell upon every face of the earth." There is the same human heart and the same Saviour.

Intelligent social intercourse, while it does not remove social distinctions, does establish a common middle ground where all may stand; and God's Spirit will use this knowledge to quicken our heart's sympathies, and awaken a growing love for all mankind, akin to that of our Master when he said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." Interest in general mission work grows, pari passu, with information about our general work.

But more is needed. I would you could know the hearts of your Chinese brethren, so as to individualize your sympathy and love for them. How can this be done? I would not dare attempt an answer to so difficult a question. But I think the missionary is the avenue. We must try and bring you closer to our brethren through our letters. And, brethren and sisters, you must bear with us, and read prayerfully what we endeavor to present of Christian life and work on the field. Our Chinese brother is many sided. I will attempt to present one side. Much has been said about the

RICE CHRISTIAN.

1. What is he? He must be a Chinaman with chop sticks and bowl piled high with steaming hot rice, ready for a prodigious gastronomic feat. Well, yes, he is a Chinaman, and perhaps a true Christian. We hope many of those to whom we refer are real Christians. The term has come to be used with a distinct and clearly defined meaning. Some doubt whether any of these are genuine, while others think that many of them are real Christians who are placed within an environment of difficult spiritual growth and development.

The pronounced Rice Christian is most likely an unreliable man, if his character is to be measured by the present existing standards of Western Christianity. For convenience, we may speak of there being two classes.

(1) He who has by deceit entered the church for a support, in part or in whole, or for some distinct, material benefit, and for no other reason. That there are such professing Christians every missionary in China knows; and they are, perhaps, not a few. Do you ask how they got into the church? "For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinee is peculiar." He is an expert in all forms of deceit; and can tell all forms of lies, from an inadvertently (?) misplaced or omitted word in a statement, to the most bald-faced lie, without the movement of a muscle in his serene and placid countenance, or the raising of the oriental eyebrow to question your gullibility, and does it all in a way to preserve his "face" and dignity. He will come for months and study the Bible, show the deepest interest, become acquainted with its truths, talk appreciatively to you and others about the way of salvation, profess thorough belief in it all, and a personal trust in Jesus as his Saviour, applies for church membership, and is probably received and baptized, whereupon he humbly requests employment and a living salary (he is not greedy, and will do anything from preaching the gospel [?] to blacking your shoes), and if refused, will turn his back on you and disappear, or else will continually persist, by quiet planning and patient waiting, to eventually grow into some place where he can eke out a living, and calmly wait for more prosperous days. If employed he never seems to get any further along than repeating in a parrot-like way what he "crammed" for his church examination, and having passed, he has reached his goal, viz, a living, and he is satisfied. Of course sooner or later, he will act in some way so as to show how unmistakably he is "still in the gall of bitterness and in the bonds of iniquity."

(2) The second class seems to be those who do give, all along, some signs of real spiritual life, and grow appreciably in knowledge and experience; but they seem to be lacking in Christian manhood and independence. They seem to feel that because they belong to the church, they must eat the church's rice, and that if they receive no help from the church or missionary, they are not called upon to do anything towards the spread of the gospel or the help of the church. That the church was organized for the Christian's material and spiritual sustenance, and that all should eat of it, and grow fat. That all our Christians are embraced under this head, is not the case. There are those who do not receive financial help of any kind from the church, nor seek it, and yet who are self-supporting, and do more or less towards the help of the church they have espoused.

But the Rice Christians are many and give the missionary much anxious thought and many an hour of earnest prayer to God for wisdom to guide them aright.

There are reasons for the existence of this class of Christians, some of which lie in the mistakes of missionary work and experience, and others, that are entirely due to the native Christian's previous heathen environment, and over which the missionary has no control. The discussion of some of these may throw much light on a very badly vexed question of missionary work, and enable those who have not had this experience to better sympathize with their missionary brethren on the one hand, and on the other, make due allowances for and sympathize with their unfortunate brethren who have lately emerged from the grossest heathen darkness. These may well form the subject for another letter. L. N. CHAPPELL.

Chinkiang, China, March 10, 1894.

From Little Alice.

Dear Recorder:—Somehow I always feel at home in writing to the RECORDER; although I expect every letter to find its way to the waste-basket. I want the good people who have written me so many sweet letters from different parts of the State and other States, to know I am still living, and have filed their letters away as keepsakes, and will answer them all some future day.

I gave the church all the money I collected, and it is now on interest for the benefit of the church, whenever they get able to build. I don't think the good Chautauqua people noticed the bad condition of the church building. They were all so good they kept looking upwards instead of at the old place. We will be anxious to see them all back this summer. We wish so much, Mr. Bailey, you could join them.

We were pleased to have Mr. Caddell visit us; still more pleased that we did not owe him anything. We had rather live on half-rashions than not pay for our paper. I was learning to knit when Mr. Caddell was to see us, and I think from the way he eyed me he had not seen anybody knit since he saw his mother or grandmother do so when he was a little boy. I am learning to knit for my own special benefit. I think all little girls should learn to knit and not depart from it when they get older. That is one cause of the hard times on us now buying things that we can make at home.

I am sorry to tell you all the fruit is killed, but God always knows best. He don't send us fruit to be distilled, as it was last year, and maybe cause many orphan boys to fill a drunkard's grave. I have a warm spot in my heart for orphan boys and girls. I have recently heard that church-members in a certain neighborhood were putting up a still one mile from a church, expecting to get ready for the fruit. God was wise in not letting us have fruit to bring shame and disgrace in our beautiful land.

While there has been so much sickness out in the country, there has not been a single case in Mt. Vernon. Our Doctor would perish to death could he not get practice in the country. We have a very singular case of sickness in Mt. Vernon Springs. A good old gentleman in the place has been confined to his bed for ten years. Sometime he is so sick that we think he won't be with us long; then he gets better, and is lively for a while. He has his right mind all the time, and can lay on his bed and make better calculations how to manage his affairs to keep out of debt, to pay his preacher and for the RECORDER better than the most of the men who can go every day and work when they feel like it. Uncle Joe is a member of the Baptist church at Mt. Vernon Springs. I think every doctor who can should go to see him. Perhaps they may never have the chance of seeing a case like his. No other such case has ever been in this county. I am sure if any doctor were to do him any good, he would be paid.

We expect to see Mt. Vernon on a boom next fall, as Rev. O. T. Edwards contemplates starting the school then. He had success when he taught here before. Anybody who wants to go to school to learn would do well to come here; but if they want to go to have a good time, this is not the place for him. Mr. Edwards will have you to put on your "studying cap," if you never had it on before. We have already heard of some coming from a distance. It is thought that Mr. Edwards' brother, who is at college in New York and will graduate in June, will assist in teaching.

I am requested to ask Rev. A. J. Emerson to come to our next Chautauqua, as he was reared here. He can give us a letter through the RECORDER stating whether he can attend or not. Of course, he reads the RECORDER and will see in it my letter.

With love and best wishes to the RECORDER,

ALICE RUSSELL.

Mt. Vernon Springs, April 15, 1894.

It pays to be a Christian. Faith in Christ makes a man industrious and honest, prudent and thoughtful, firm and decided, patient and loving. If there was no life beyond the present, it would pay to believe and practice the doctrines of the gospel. It is a wrong idea that the Heavenly Father delights to see his children in sackcloth and poverty, and bestows all his blessings upon the wicked. And there is a better world, which can be entered only through the door of saving faith.—Our Young People.

Get into the habit of looking at the silver lining of the cloud, and, when you have found it, continue to look at it rather than at the leaden gray in the middle. It will help you over many hard places.—A. A. Willis, D. D.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Dowsing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:00 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July, and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L B Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C B Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs, Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

Germs

of disease feed on life, and are only overcome by the making of sound, healthy tissue.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, is an easy, palatable fat food that makes new tissue quickly and gives strength. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

M. Hammerly, a well-known business man of Hillsboro, Va., sends this testimony to the merits of Ayer's Sarsaparilla: "Several years ago, I hurt my leg, the injury leaving a sore which led to erysipelas. My sufferings were extreme, my leg, from the knee to the ankle, being a solid sore, which began to extend to other parts of the body. After trying various remedies, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, before I had finished the first bottle, I experienced great relief; the second bottle effected a complete cure."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 25 cts. 1 to 6 sold in a house. Sample postage paid FREE. FORGERS & Co., Cincinnati, O.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.
Best Lake Copper and E. India Tin.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m

	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		8 39 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma..		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m

	No 42. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson	12 45 a m		10 35 p m

	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 56 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.50 a m, Greenville 8.32 a m; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.30 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.50 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.30 p m, 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.55 a m and 11.45 p m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 4.10 p m. Returning leaves Clinton at 7.20 a m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.

J. R. KENLY, General Manager.

T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

Notes and Comments.

BY M. P. M.

"THAT DISAGREEMENT."

As my "disagreement" with the editor did not appear in the RECORDER of April 11th, I will say another word. The editor says that I said "I had been looking for a chance to disagree with him," but I think the editor needs to put on his glasses. "I said I had promised to disagree, and if I did not hurry up, some one would think I was joking." No, indeed, I never look for a chance to disagree with a brother. I can find plenty of chances without looking. What I said, of course, was a jest. But to the question at issue.

I have examined carefully what is said of the Mississippi local option law, but it does not solve the question. It is not to be compared with the South Carolina law about which they are having riot and bloodshed. The advantage the South Carolina law has over the Mississippi law is, that it has somebody behind it whose continuance in office depends upon its enforcement. No local option or State prohibition has ever succeeded, nor ever will, because no one will enforce it. If you put a party behind it and let the officers feel that they can't continue in office unless they enforce it, then the law will be enforced, though it causes bloodshed. The saloon will never be driven peaceably from our midst: it will die in the last ditch. If we think we can work up public sentiment to stem the tide of opposition presented by the saloon, we will find ourselves always humiliated, as thousands of others have been. All prohibitive legislation in the past, whether State or county, has been comparatively a failure, because the officers whose business it was to enforce it were interested in having the votes of the whiskey men. There is nothing that is so effective in the suppression of the liquor traffic as a vote for a party committed to the destruction of the traffic.

"BAPTISM BY IMMERSION."

Have you observed how anxious our Pedobaptist friends are to have us use such phraseology as the above caption in speaking of our baptism? Have you also noticed that a goodly number of our ministry are falling into the habit? If we use such language, does it not imply that there is some other baptism which would do as well? They say "We baptize by sprinkling or by pouring, and you baptize by immersion;" but that is misleading, and we ought not to be led into such a statement. We baptize—we would not be guilty of saying that we immerse by immersion—that would sound ridiculous, but we had as well say that as the other. I do not believe in the use of the word "immerse." King James' translators gave us a word in the place of the original, and to us it must mean the same, and I believe in saying, "We baptize, and others sprinkle or pour."

"A PASSABLE PLATFORM."

Dr. Brooks (Campbellite) and Nunnally (Baptist) of Memphis have agreed upon a platform upon which the two denominations can unite. Who authorized anybody to be-in making platforms for us any way? We have a good one and it is broad enough for the whole world to get on if they want to; but we don't propose to reconstruct it for anybody's benefit. It had been in existence for over eighteen hundred years before the Campbellites were even thought of. The only way Campbellites and Baptists can ever unite is as Jonah and the fish united, but we are not ready to unite that way yet awhile—lest we might have to "fling up" on dry ground again. Whenever they get into a condition of assimilation, then we will be ready to try it, but we want no platforms constructed.

"DR. TAYLOR'S DISCUSSION."

The first paper by Dr. Taylor on "How far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?" filled me with gratitude. First of all I was very glad that he wrote over his name in place of "A Citizen of North Carolina." Perhaps few of your readers have such strong feelings against anonymous writing as I, but I am sure that all are glad to know the man.

As to the argument, it stirred me deeply, because I feel deeply on the question. It goes to the very root of things—well done so far.

Constipation and headache positively cured by Japanese Liver Pellets; 50 pills 25 cents. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drugstore, Raleigh, N. C.

From Jonesboro, Tenn.

Dear Recorder:—Though out of North Carolina, yet by the weekly visits of the RECORDER I gladly note the progress of the Baptists in the Old North State. I often feel somewhat homesick, but I am kept so busy I haven't time for it to develop into anything serious. How gladly I have read of the State mission work as championed by that lover of the Lord and fearless Baptist, Dr. Durham. The Baptists in North Carolina are more numerous, more united and their mission work more telling, but I do love these Tennessee Baptists. We are growing here, especially in East Tennessee.

In East Tennessee the denomination has reason to be proud of the South Western Institute, a college for young ladies, at Bristol, the product of Baptist devotion and sacrifice.

I prize your paper because of the many letters from the missionaries. It keeps the people in touch with their labors of love and sacrifice and cannot fail to inspire the love for missions in the churches.

In the Holstein Association through evangelistic efforts as well as pastors, the many additions to the churches will make a cheering report for its next meeting. The work in Jonesboro is being blessed and is prospering, and I delight to present the Baptist idea which is both evangelical and evangelistic.

J. HOWELL, Jr.

Jonesboro, Tenn., April 11, 1894.

South Carolina Liquor Law.

Dear Recorder:—"I rise to a question of personal privilege," and very briefly to reply to Bro. M. J. Willoughby of Marion, S. C., in last week's RECORDER. He says I have "taken it upon" myself to say some things about the Dispensary law and people of South Carolina. Really, I had forgotten, if I ever knew, that a "Tar Heel" had to get a permit to speak of a South Carolina matter. The people of that good old State do not give "license"—not even to marry, nor to sell whiskey. I beg pardon, if I have intruded.

He also says, as I was not a partisan, belonged to neither side, while I lived there I ought to have said nothing. In my simplicity I thought that disinterested witnesses were to be preferred. In our courts, testimony by interested parties is usually and properly discounted. I think Brother Willoughby's letter illustrates the wisdom of the rule. Not that he means to misstate anything, but that prejudices tend to warp judgment; and it is very hard to know when and how much we are thereby affected.

He also says I am mistaken in saying that many once opposed after seeing the law in operation were brought to acknowledge its merits, and then he proceeds to "give some facts by those who see and know." This intimates that I did not know what I was writing about. I am not mistaken in this matter. I speak what I know and have seen. "Some of the best people" do not admit its merits. Bro. Willoughby is one of them. "Some" do, and names could be given if needful. No, I am not mistaken. I try to remember Davy Crockett's motto, "Be sure you are right," &c., and also the parting instruction of an old lawyer to his pupil just about entering the "practice," "Be sure of your evidence."

I would not for any consideration knowingly misrepresent any of my good friends in South Carolina. I stated, "They are in this matter in league with the whiskey men." I gladly modify this statement; at least I explain. I did not mean to say that these "good people" are in sympathy with liquor men in matters generally: that would be a slander. Nor that they confer and agree with them in methods in opposition to the law, but just this: The whiskey men in and out of the State are obstructing the law; and that "some of the best people" are throwing their influence in the same direction, and thus encourage lawlessness. For example: A genial gentleman, a church-member and an editor of a paper, tells the "blind tiger" men that he will not inform on them, "go ahead," &c. This is what I meant, and I still think these good people in this matter are in bad company.

A rule in war is to find out what your enemy wants you to do, then don't do it. In this sense, I am not in error, but "am sure of my evidence."

As to whether the law is a good thing or not depends upon how you judge it. "Good," like most qualifying words, is used comparatively. There is no absolute good among men. It is all comparative. A man six feet high is "tall" compared with most men; but the same man is "low" by the side of a tree. Compared with open bar-rooms, the Dispensary is "good"—very good. Brother Willoughby says "better," and we agree. Compared with prohibition, it is not "good," we both say. The few counties that had prohibition, and now have Dispensaries, are injured. We agree again.

But the "Dispensaries were forced upon them." This is unlawful; for the law provides for them only where a majority of freeholders of any town approve of them. If the law has been disregarded by the authorities, that is another matter about which "good" people will not disagree.

"The people voted for prohibition, and the Dispensary was forced on them." This, too, is not the matter under discussion. My letter was for North Carolina readers chiefly, for here we have licensed bars—legalized deviltry. I commended the Dispensary law as much better. Bro. Willoughby comes to my help—a voluntary witness, and says it is "better." "I thank him for it."

In the liquor-law business, South Carolina is ahead of us, as she was in a little matter in 1861. I hope she may be more successful in this than we all were in that.

I appreciate the kindly tone of Brother Willoughby's letter. I love him and the good people of his adopted State. I number many of them among my best friends. God bless them every one. Please forgive me for "taking upon myself" to advise you. The Dispensary is the best liquor law you have in your State. Enforce it, and if it is a bad law, it will kill itself. Recognize it until you, by legal means, can get another and a better. I ask your pardon in advance. I know it is granted. If so, I am now out of the discussion.

J. M. WHITE.

Beecham's pills will save doctors' bills.

He who prays as he ought, will endeavor to live as he prays. He that can live in sin, and abide in the ordinary duties of prayer, never prays as he ought. A truly gracious praying fame is utterly inconsistent with the love of sin.—Owen.

Departing From God.

Two young masons were building a brick wall; one of them, in placing a brick, discovered that it was a little thicker on one side than the other. His companion advised him to throw it out. "It will make your wall untrue," he said.

"Pooh!" answered the other. "What difference will such a trifle as that make? You are too particular."

"Well, if you use that brick, it will show itself sooner or later, and bring harm, if not ruin, to your wall."

"I'll risk it in this case," was the final decision. And the man worked away until the wall was much higher.

The next morning, they went to resume their work, when, behold, the wall was lying on the ground! The wall, getting a little slant from the untrue brick, had got more and more untrue as it got higher, and at last, in the night, had toppled over. In the same way, if we wilfully depart from what we know to be right and commanded by God, we shall bring trouble and sorrow upon ourselves.—The Worker.

Not Guilty.

By special invitation, the undersigned ministers and deacons met with the church at Green Springs, Robeson county, N. C., in conference, on Thursday, April 5th, 1894, to advise the church what course to pursue relative to reports against the ministerial dignity of Rev. J. G. Fisher; and after hearing all the evidence and carefully investigating the same, do hereby recommend that the church with this council vindicate the Christian character of Rev. J. G. Fisher, having found those charges utterly false. Therefore,

Resolved, That a copy of these proceedings be spread upon the church book, and one sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER with request to publish.

(Signed) REV. J. W. COBB,
" M. A. STEPHENS,
" J. D. CLARK,
" C. P. MCGUGAN,
" W. C. WEST,
DEACON W. S. JOHNSON,
" J. M. JOHNSON,
" G. D. M. HOWARD.

REV. J. W. COBB, Chairman.
M. A. STEPHENS, Secretary.

 N. C. Presbyterian and Christian Advocate, please copy.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.

A great Grant number, apropos of General Grant's birthday, is announced by the editors of McClure's Magazine for May. With an unequalled series of portraits of Grant, covering the whole term of his manhood from his cadetship at West Point to his closing days at Mount McGregor, will be presented a series of studies and reminiscences from his son, Col. Frederick D. Grant, and his friends and fellow-soldiers, General Horace Porter, General O. O. Howard and General Ely S. Parker. An autograph letter by General Grant's father, written in 1865, giving new glimpses into the General's career and character, will appear in facsimile. [From S. S. McClure, Limited, 743-745 Broadway, New York.]

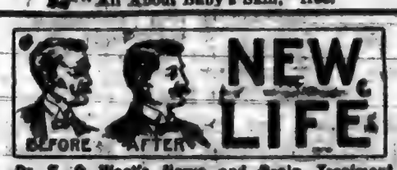
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion & Debility.

It is the personnel of successes that interest us as well as the material fact. Much has been said about the man who has made The Cosmopolitan, also about Edwin Bok's power behind the Ladies' Home Journal; but aside from the connection of that gallant Confederate and finished scholar, General Basil Duke, the public has not been informed as to who is supplying the manifold requirements to get out so complete a literary success as The Southern Magazine. The associate editor is Colonel T. E. Spencer, a scholar ripe before his years; and the general management is under the direct charge of a young man, Sam Stone Bush. They already have the material assurance from the public that "nails" success.

Three things to wish for—health, friends and a contented spirit.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder



ABSOLUTELY PURE

From the MOMENT OF BIRTH use CUTICURA SOAP

It is not only the purest, sweetest and most refreshing of nursery soaps, but it contains delicate emollient properties, which purify and beautify the skin, and prevent skin blemishes occasioned by imperfect cleansing and use of impure soap.

Sold throughout the world. Price, 25c. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.
"All About Baby's Skin," free.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old 25c. size, now 10c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MACRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, E. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 00 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 20 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 35 p m	5 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 36 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 06 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12.
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 08 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 05 a m	5 55 a m
" Raleigh	10 00 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 05 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 06 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 5.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.06 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a. m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:30 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL. HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.
In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville June	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	3 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	3 50 p m
Lv Stokesdale	5 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	6 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	6 35 p m
Lv Rural Hall	6 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 35 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 50 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 37 p m
Lv Sanford	3 19 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 35 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 50 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 45 p m
Ar Ramseur			3 55 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 15 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect May 7, 1893.

ATLANTA AND WASHINGTON SPECIAL.

No. 117.				No. 134.
3 00 p m	Lv	Norfolk	Ar	11 45 a m
3 30 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 30 a m
3 58 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 02 a m
4 29 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 22 a m
4 54 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	10 03 a m
5 35 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	9 23 a m
5 50 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
7 07 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	7 37 a m
8 45 p m	Ar	Durham	Lv	6 00 a m
9 15 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	5 30 a m
9 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	5 15 a m
9 36 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	5 05 a m
10 16 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	4 23 a m
11 00 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	3 30 a m
5 00 p m	Lv	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 p m
10 00 p m	Lv	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m
11 10 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	3 30 a m
11 30 p m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv	3 15 a m
11 52 p m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	2 41 a m
12 50 a m	Lv	Monroe	Lv	1 55 a m
2 00 a m	Lv	Chester	Lv	12 18 a m
2 14 a m	Lv	Clinton	Lv	11 07 p m
2 57 a m	Lv	Greenwood	Lv	10 35 p m
4 21 a m	Lv	Abbeville	Lv	10 00 p m
5 19 a m	Lv	Elberton	Lv	9 00 p m
6 13 a m	Lv	Athens	Lv	8 05 p m
6 54 a m	Lv	Jug Tavern	Lv	7 25 p m
8 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, East'n	Lv	5 45 p m
7 30 a m	Ar	Atlanta, Cent'l	Lv	4 45 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.			No. 38.
3 00 p m	Lv	New York	Ar	1 20 p m
4 30 p m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar	10 47 a m
7 00 p m	Lv	†Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar	7 00 a m
7 00 a m	Lv	Old Point	Ar	7 00 p m
5 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth	Lv	6 00 p m
9 35 a m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	3 45 p m
12 03 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	1 00 p m
12 15 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	12 00 p m
12 39 p m	Lv	Henderson	Lv	11 35 a m
4 10 p m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	11 15 a m
4 30 p m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	11 00 a m
6 00 p m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	9 31 a m
7 30 p m	Ar	Hamlet	Ar	7 30 a m
7 20 p m†	Ar	Fayetteville	Lv	8 27 a m
11 00 p m*	Ar	Wilmington	Lv	5 00 a m
5 00 a m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv	10 00 p m

The fast mail leaving New York at 3.00 p m connects with No. 117 at Washington.

No. 134 has Pullman Buffet Sleepers, Atlanta to Washington; Parlor cars, Washington to New York.

No. 117 has Pullman Sleepers New York to Washington, and Pullman Buffet Sleepers Washington to Atlanta.

Parlor car between Portsmouth and Weldon. Sleeper, No. 134, Raleigh to Charlotte; No 41, Hamlet to Wilmington.

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, etc., apply to Ticket Agent, or S. H. Green, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

O. V. SMITH, Traffic Manager.
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
WM. C. WHITE, Gen. Man.

Southern Baptist Convention.

This body meets in Dallas, Texas, commencing May 11th, 1894.

Delegates and visitors are notified that they must send in their names by May 1st to Bro. C. L. Seasholes, Dallas, Texas, or they will have difficulty in securing entertainment. Assignments to homes and hotels will be made by mail. After 4 p. m. Friday, May 11th, all assignments to homes and hotels not taken will be forfeited. No delegate will be provided for after May 6th—positively, so send in your names at once. If a delegate, after an assignment to a home, decides not to go, he is requested to inform Bro. Seasholes of such decision. Hotel rates are from $1.00 to $2.50 per day according to hotel selected, and whether you have one or more up to four and six in a room. Boarding house charges are from 60 cents to $1.00 per day. Great preparations are being made for the entertainment of the Convention by all classes and conditions of the citizens of Dallas, and all are assured of a cordial reception; but don't forget the statements and directions of Bro. Seasholes.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THE BOARD.

The Board of Missions and Sunday-schools have appointed the following named delegates to this Convention:

C. E. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Jordan, J. S. Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. G. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. H. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O. L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, R. Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, S. F. Conrad, J. B. Boone, G. M. Hackler, J. H. Morrisette, A. W. Early, O. J. Carroll, R. H. Moore, J. H. Austin, J. D. Hufham, G. M. Duke, J. T. J. Battle, W. P. Covington, C. C. Curlee, W. T. Faircloth, C. H. Holland, C. J. Parker.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATION.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honeycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Kesler; Raleigh, N. B. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

A ROUTE TO DALLAS COMMENDED.

After carefully considering the various lines with a view to securing the best possible route to our next annual Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, 1894, we have determined to use the following lines:

Richmond & Danville to Birmingham, Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham to Memphis; the Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas, M. K. & T. to Dallas.

There is no "Official Route" for delegates to this Convention, statements of railroad agents and others to the contrary notwithstanding. This route via Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, (The Cotton Belt), Texarkana and Greenville, with its double daily through train service to and from Dallas, affords superior facilities for handling our people.

The Maryland and District of Columbia delegations will leave Washington May 7th, via Richmond & Danville R. R. Vestibule Limited, at 10:48 p. m. and be joined at the various points below by delegates from Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia.

The following will be the schedule of this vestibule train, round trip rate:

Leave Washington, R. & D. R. R. 10:48 p. m. May 7, $38 30; Charlottesville 1:55 a. m. May 8, 36.80; Lynchburg 3:43 a. m. May 8, 36.30; Richmond 12:50 a. m. May 8, 37.30; Danville 5:40 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Raleigh 1 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Goldsboro 6:54 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Salisbury 8:13 a. m. May 8, 35.10; Charlotte 9:35 a. m. May 8, 33 65; Spartanburg 11:37 a. m. May 8, 31.10; Greenville 12:28 p. m. May 8, 30.00; Gainesville 3:29 p. m. May 8, 26 50; arrive at Atlanta 5:55 p. m. May 8, 24 90; Anniston, Ga. Pac. R'y, 7:55 p. m. May 8; Birmingham 10:20 p. m. May 8; Memphis, K. C., M. & B. R. R 7:25 a. m. May 9; leave Memphis, Cotton Belt route 7:45 a. m. May 9; Dallas, M. K. & T. 7:00 a. m. May 10.

There will be special Pullman cars on this train for the accommodation of delegates and their friends. Those desiring sleeping car berths will please notify the undersigned at once in order that sufficient accommodations may be provided. The rate will be one first-class fare for the round trip as above, and sleeping car berths about two dollars per night.

At Memphis we will be joined by the Tennessee and Kentucky delegations, and from starting point to destination will be accompanied by experienced passenger agents of the several lines, who will see to our comfort and every convenience on this, which promises to be indeed a pleasant trip.

Fraternally,

Rev. H. H. Harris, Richmond, Va.
Rev. A. M. Simms, Raleigh, N. C.
Rev. O. F. Gregory, Baltimore, Md.

REDUCED AIR LINE RATES TO DALLAS.

Round-trip tickets at rates of one first-class fare over this route to Dallas will be sold as follows from points named: From Weldon, $36.80; Suffolk, Va., 37.30; Henderson, N. C., 36.30; Durham, 35.30; Raleigh, 36.30; Sanford, 35 30; Maxton, 34.55; Wilmington, 35.30; Wadesboro, 34.95; Charlotte, 33 65; Lincolnton, 34.15; Shelby, 34 65. Tickets will be sold May 7th, 8th, and 9th, with final limit thirty days from date of sale.

The Seaboard Air Line, with its magnificent vestibule train service, offers unsurpassed accommodations to all delegates and visitors to Dallas on this occasion. Choice of routes from Atlanta, either via New Orleans or Memphis. For further information, address T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., or A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh, N. C.

SEABOARD AIR LINE COMMENDED.

The North Carolina delegation to the S. B. Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, to 15th, can move solid via the Seaboard Air Line. The fine vestibule train service of this line, with quick schedules and sure connections, affords to delegates unsurpassed accommodations. Choice of routes are given from Atlanta, via Memphis or New Orleans. Through Pullman service to Atlanta and from Atlanta to Dallas by Convention Special Train. For full information, delegates should address

Rev. C. Durham,
Cor. Sec Bap. St. Convention,
N. B. Broughton,
Rec. Sec, Bap. St. Convention,
Raleigh, N. C.,

Or, T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., and A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh.

They Want Names.

The Russell Art Publishing Co., of 928 Arch St., Philadelphia, desire the names and address of a few people in every town who are interested in works of art, and to secure them they offer to send free, "Cupid Guides the Boat," a superbly executed water color picture, size 10x18 inches, suitable for framing and sixteen other pictures about same size, in colors, to any one sending them at once the names and address of ten persons (admirers of fine pictures) together with six two cent stamps to cover expense of mailing, etc. The regular price of these pictures is $1.00, but they can all be secured free by any person forwarding the names and stamps promptly.

Southern Baptist Educational Conference.

The Southern Baptist Educational Conference will hold its annual meeting at Dallas, Texas, May 10th, 1894, the day before the regular opening of the Southern Baptist Convention. The meeting will be called to order at 9:30 a. m. by the President, Prof. W. R. Rothwell, D. D., of William Jewell College, Mo., and the following programme observed:

9:30—9:45. Religious exercises.
9:45—10. Enrollment of delegates and election of officers.
10—11. The education of girls, including the question of co-education. A discussion led by representatives of Baylor Female College, Belton, Texas, and of other Texas Baptist schools for girls.
11—11:25. The academy as a factor in our educational system, by President J. F. Forbes, Stetson University, DeLand, Fla.
11:25—11:50. The proper curriculum for secondary schools.
A discussion of the report of the Committee of Texas, by Prof. W. A. Harris, Baylor University, Waco, Texas.
11—12:00. General discussion of the two foregoing papers.
Adjournment.
3 p. m.—3:15. Miscellaneous business.
3:15—3:45. Shall the denominational College supply a theological course to those who do not attend the Seminary? By a speaker to be announced next week.
3 45—4:30 General discussion.
Adjournment.
8:30. Some democratic tendencies of higher education. By President J. B. Gambrell of Mercer University, Georgia.

Delegates will be welcomed by the Committee on Hospitality, if they report the time of their coming well in advance.

Thos. Hume, Sec S. B. Ed. Conf.
University of North Carolina,
Chapel Hill, April 17, 1894.

Absolutely Free.

A BUSINESS EDUCATION TO ONE WORTHY GIRL OR BOY IN EACH COUNTY.

The Georgia-Alabama Business College, Macon, Ga., which is heartily endorsed by press and pulpit, now generously proposes to give to one worthy boy or girl in each county of North Carolina a thorough business course without charge, as it has recently done for those of Georgia. All interested should apply at once.

Our Meeting in Henderson.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—In some respects we closed last night the best meeting I ever saw.

The church is more generally revived than I ever saw it. Many who had grown so cold that they were but little if any help, have been quickened and lifted to a higher Christian life. For twelve days the building was filled twice a day. On two days all the stores closed up at the afternoon service, even the bar-rooms.

Brother Elsom is a bold, earnest, sincere preacher. He may offend some, but he succeeds in stirring them up. We feel very thankful that the Lord sent him to us.

There were more than thirty professions of faith. I expect to baptize some of the most promising young people in town next Sunday. We thank the Lord and take courage.

R. Van Deventer.
Henderson, April 16, 1894.

From Hyde County.

Dear Recorder:—Since you last heard from me, some progress has been made in the Missionary Baptist church.

This is a new field and time is necessary to reap the harvest, the seed of which is being sowed by the hands of Rev. W. R. Carawan, an instrument in his Master's hands.

Rev. Josiah Elliott and Rev. Mr. Carawan held a series of meetings at Rose Bay two weeks ago. Great interest was manifested in the meetings, judging from the large and attentive congregations.

Miss Mattie Carawan, daughter of Mr. Carawan, a very bright and intelligent young lady, made a profession of faith.

Rose Bay is the contemplated place where the Missionary Baptists will erect their first church-house in this missionary field. Notwithstanding the Primitive Baptists have a stronghold in this community, Mr. Carawan has worked up a fine Sunday-school and is fast gaining the confidence and esteem of the children and youth of the community.

We once thought some other place than Rose Bay would be more suitable to plant the first church in this missionary field, but we now believe it is the place. The home influence that the pastor has worked up will follow him in his various labors elsewhere, and the new church will speak not only volumes to his praise, but send out an influence that will hasten on the good work already begun. There is no better time for the planting of a church here than now, a work which, for some cause, has been too long neglected.

W.

Hyde County, April 17, 1894.

The Haseley Family; or, Hard but Wholesome Lessons. By Mrs. A. E. Johnson. 16mo, 193 pp. Price, 90 cents. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

This story by Mrs. Johnson is the account of the experiences, some of which were very bitter, through which the heroine, Flora Haseley, was called to pass. The influence of Flora as it touches her own immediate family, from which she had been separated when a child to live with her aunt, is one of good; and her Christian character and implicit trust in her Heavenly Father, are brought out very clearly. The lessons taught are those which any girl might be called upon to learn, and the narration of Flora's course may be of great assistance. The characters are those of the every day world, and therein lies one of the charms of the book—things are described as they are.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Rev Z D Harrill, Ellenboro, $1.00; Mrs G W Greene, Canton, China, 10.00; Antioch ch, Yadkin, 1.71; First ch, Raleigh, Central, 6.00; Second ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 5.20; Piny Forest ch, Columbus, 1.03; Ramseur ch, 2.60; Wells Chapel ch, Eastern, 1.47. Total, 29.00. Previously reported, 5,457.96. Less, W M S, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion (reported twice), 6.00. Total this year, 5,490.96.

Foreign Missions—Hickory church, $12.10; Pinkney Oliver, Dalton, N C, 5.10; Catawba ch, So Fork, 1.35; W M S, Greensboro ch, Beulah, 5.00; Cane Creek ch, Mt Zion, 5.25; Matthews ch, Meck and Cab, 1.60; Mt Zion ch, So Fork, 4.00; Mrs E A Bennett, Lilesville, 2.50; Cross Roads ch, Pilot Mountain, 5.76; East Bend ch, ditto, 5.19; Mt Airy ch, ditto, 1.35; W M S, Rennert ch, 4.00; Sunbeams, Reedy Creek (Pine Grove), 1.75; W M S, Tryon Street ch, Charlotte, 23 00; Pleasant Grove ch, Pee Dee, 5.00; Coleraine ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Cross Roads ch, Columbus, 7.00; Mt Olive ch, Pee Dee, 2.17; S S, West Washington Street ch, Greensboro, 1.55; Third ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 3 33; Henderson ch, 19.71; Piny Forest ch, Columbus, 2.76; S S, ditto, ditto, 66c; Ramseur ch, 2.66; Wells Chapel ch, Eastern, 1.40; Piny Grove ch, Liberty, 6.76. Total, 140.75. Previously reported, 1,416.80. Total this year, 1,557 64.

Home Missions—Tabernacle ch, Raleigh, $34.00; Mountain Creek ch, 6.70; Mrs E A Bennett, Lilesville, 2.50; Rev Z D Harrill, Ellenboro, 1.00; Pleasant Grove ch, Pee Dee, 2.50; Coleraine ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Scotland Neck ch, Tar River, 10.00; Sunbeams, ditto, ditto, 10.00; Mt Olive ch, Pee Dee, 2.79; Macedonia ch, Chowan, 4.00; Gethsemane ch, Tar River, 1.71; Canetuck ch, Eastern, 2.00; Piny Forest ch, Columbus, 1.22; S S Ditto, ditto, 66c; Wells Chapel ch Eastern, 1.50. Total, 75.58. Previously reported, 633.42. Total this year, 709.00.

Education—Pinckney Oliver, Dalton, N C, $5.00; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 37.50; Second ch, ditto, ditto, 4.30; Third ch, ditto, ditto; 3.85; Carey ch, Raleigh, 5.62; W M S, ditto, 2.00; Dr R D Fleming, Warrenton, 25.00; Mrs G W Greene, Canton, China, 5.00; Mt Olive ch, Pee Dee, 1.00; Bethel ch, Chowan, 10.00; First ch, Raleigh, Central, 39.67; Wells Chapel ch, Eastern, 1.03. Total, 139.97. Previously reported, 850.09. Total this year, 990 06.

Orphanage—Mrs G W Greene, Canton, China, $5.00. Previously reported, 335.91. Total this year, 340.91.

Ministerial Relief Fund—Canetuck ch, Eastern, $2.00. Previously reported, 145.35. Total this year, 147.35.

Students' Aid Fund, Louisville—Piny Grove ch, Liberty, $3.00.

J. D. Boushall,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, April 21, 1894.

Correction: W M S, Mt Pisgah ch, Mt Zion, $6.00, for State Missions, twice reported, should have been only once.

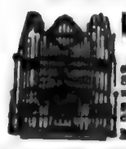
Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
BreakfastCocoa

which is absolutely pure and soluble.
It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.
Sold by Grocers everywhere.
W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

A New York Estimate of the Electropoise.
(TRADE MARK) "ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN" BY ABSORPTION

An advertisement of the Electropoise appears in another column. There have been so many curative instruments put upon the market, ostensibly merely to cure disease, but really to cure the leanness of the manufacturer's pocket, that this article deserves a special word of praise. Not wholly convinced by what the Electrolibration Company's agent said, the Observer's representative sought an interview with Dr. De Puy, of the New York Christian Advocate. This gentleman said that with no personal interest in the Electropoise, save that inspired by the wonderful good that it had done him, he gave the Company the letter published in another column of the Observer. He was enthusiastic about the system; and has recommended it very heartily to others. Accounts of similar enthusiasm come from other quarters, and as far as we can learn, we feel sure that our readers may safely and with great benefit use the Electropoise. Mr. Du Bois, the Company's agent, at 345 Fourth avenue, New York, will cheerfully forward all information.—N. Y. Observer, Feb. 22, '94.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.



Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

World-wide, means world-tried. The high reputation and enormous sale of Beecham's Pills
(Worth a Guinea a Box.)
(Tasteless)
reflect the wisdom of two generations.
25 cents a box.

Moller Celebrated Pipe Organs
From $600 to $10,000.
All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eighteen States and cities. Established 1850. Address
M. P. MÖLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

THE TIRED BRAIN and NERVES
Find Sweetest, Safest and Best Relief by using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer.

As a Nerve Tranquillizer and Tonic it never has been equalled.

Dr. L. D. Collins, Goldthwaite, Tex., says of it: "It is the finest Nerve Tranquillizer I have ever used."

L. C. Coulson, Deputy Clerk, Jackson county, Ala., says: "I commend it for Nervousness above anything I have ever tried."

Geo. W. Armstead, Ed. The Issue, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Germetuer is an invaluable Builder and Invigorator of the Nerve Forces."

Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, Ex-Auditor, N. C., now 3d Auditor, Washington, D. C., says: "I have never found a better Nerve Tonic and General Invigorator.

Contains no Bromides, Cocaine, Chloral or other injurious drugs. Always safe for all ages and sexes.

$1, 6 for $5. Sold by druggists. Manuf'd only by King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Musicians Read!
SUNLIGHT and SHADOW. By Julian Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Price, $1 Postpaid.
LESSONS in AUDITION. By Helene Spermann. A book on a new plan, to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical memory. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.
ST. CAECILIAN COLLECTION. By C. F. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price, 40 Cents Postpaid.
ANTHEMS GROWN. By E. T. Danks. The latest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.
Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be perfectly saleable.
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
Cincinnati. New York. Chicago.

AT THE RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers,
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere, such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. H. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE, - RALEIGH, N. C.

Hard Times Fertilizers
To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash
Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices.
Per ton.
for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00
Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars.
W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 373, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BELLS
Best Alloy Church and School Bells. Send for catalogue. C. S. BELL & Co., Hillsboro, O.

The Warren Union.

This body will meet at New Bethel Friday before the fifth Sunday in April, 1893.

11 a. m.—Sermon by G. W. Harmon.
1:30 p. m.—Organization.
2:30 p. m.—Orphanage, J. H. Mills, R. D. Fleming.
3:30 p. m.—Education, John Mitchell.
7:30 p. m.—Pastor's relation to the work of the church, W. B. Morton, G. W. Harmon.
Saturday, 9 a. m.—Devotional exercises.
10 a. m.—Missions, R. Van Deventer, C. Durham.
11 a. m.—The church and its young people, N. L. Shaw, J. K. Fant.
1:30 p. m.—Report of the Executive Committee.
2:30 p. m.—Relation of the individual to the church, T. J. Taylor, L. C. Perkinson, Kera Bowers.
3:30 p. m.—Question box.
7:30 p. m.—The social mission of the church, J. K. Fant.

COMMITTEE.

University of North Carolina Summer School for Teachers.

A summer school for teachers and others who desire to study will be held from July 9 to July 28 in the University buildings at Chapel Hill, N. C. The tuition fee is five dollars, which admits to all the instruction. The Faculty includes sixteen professors selected from the Faculties of the Universities of North Carolina, Texas and Louisiana, the State Normal and Industrial School for Women, and the Graded Schools of Charlotte, Wilmington, Raleigh and Goldsboro.

The following subjects will be taught: Latin, Greek, French, German, English Language and Literature, Anglo-Saxon, Civics, History, Pedagogics, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, Land Surveying, Road Construction, Political Geography, Physical Geography, Botany and Political Economy.

Methods of teaching will be discussed theoretically and illustrated practically by means of model classes.

Board and furnished room may be had for the month at the hotels for fifteen dollars, more cheaply at private houses.

Reduced rates will be granted by all the railroads.

For circulars with full details, address PRESIDENT WINSTON, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad.

REDUCED RATES ACCOUNT GRAND COUNCIL ROYAL ARCANUM, RALEIGH, N. C.

For this occasion tickets will be sold April 30th, May 1st and 2d, limited to May 17th, 1894, to Raleigh, N. C., and return at following rates for round trip, from points named: "Charlotte, $7.30; Greensboro, 4.05; Winston-Salem, 5.05; Marion, 9.20; Durham, 1.50; Selma, 1.50; Goldsboro, 2.50. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

NORTH CAROLINA DENTAL ASSOCIATION, DURHAM.

Tickets will be sold April 28th to May 1st, inclusive; limited to May 5, 1894, to Durham, N. C., and return at following rates for the round trip from points named: Charlotte, $6.50; Greensboro, 2.75; Marion, 9.10; Winston-Salem, 4.05; Henderson, 2.25; Raleigh, 1.50; Selma, 2.75; Goldsboro, 3.65. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

In the May number of The Forum, Edward Atkinson writes "The True Interpretation of Farm-Mortgage Statistics," explaining in full for the first time the results of the census investigation. So far from proving disaster, these statistics show great thrift and prosperity. The remarkable fact is brought out that twenty-one per cent. of mortgages on real estate in the whole Union is on property in and adjacent to New York City.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters Rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

Two Mormon preachers were driven out of Mecklenburg county last week.

Woody, the leader of the Alleghany county lynchers, has been captured in Tennessee.

The Rockingham Rocket states that the old Hamlet woolen mill was destroyed by fire on the 15th.

Oil has been "struck" in Pender county. It is not stated whether there is sufficient flow to make oil-wells valuable.

Three new mines have been recently opened in Chatham county and are now shipping coal with good orders.

A railroad from Bristol, Tenn., to Asheville is being built. It will complete the new route from Cincinnati to Asheville.

William C. Etters, white, indicted for the killing of Dr. David Hogue was tried at Shelby last week, and convicted of manslaughter.

Mr. S. H. Conway, a section master on the railroad, was killed in an attempt to remove a hand-car before an approaching passenger train on the 19th inst., near Greensboro.

Memorial services in respect to the late Senator Vance were held in almost every town and village in the State last week. The funeral at Asheville was attended by more than 10,000 people.

The mountain land in Western North Carolina has not depreciated in value to an extent comparable with other localities. One hundred and fifty acres near Asheville sold for $50,000 recently.

A man named Bailey in New Light township, Wake county, died last week from injuries inflicted on his throat and head by one Wyatt Perry several weeks ago. The assailant has not been apprehended.

Efforts are being made to have the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley R. R., extended to Southport, below Wilmington. It is thought that this move would increase the coal shipping business of the railroad. Norfolk, Va., is now the greatest Southern seaboard coal-shipping point.

It is stated that Mr. G. W. Cochrane of Maryland has been at Wake Forest in recent days with a view to investing in property in the village. He has several sons whom he desires to have educated at Wake Forest. It is stated also that Mr. Cochrane is a man of wealth, being one of the stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Meetings in various parts of the State are being held in memory of the lamented Col. L. L. Polk. Some were held on the 24th, others will be held on the 29th. This is a worthy movement of the Farmers' Alliance to honor their dead organizer and leader. It is thought that sufficient means to erect a monument to his memory will be accumulated at an early date.

The executive committee of the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts has decided to build a new black-smith and wood-working shop. The military equipments have been received, and aparatus for a regular system of physical culture have been ordered. There are now about 160 students at the institution.

Gov. Elias Carr appointed Ex-Governor Thomas Jordan Jarvis of Greenville, on the 19th inst., to serve as United States Senator from North Carolina until the next Legislature elects some one to serve out the remainder of Vance's term. Senator Jarvis has announced that he will not be a candidate before the Legislature for Vance's term, inferring that it should be filled by a Western man, and that he will stand for the long term against Ransom the present incumbent, and others.

Preparations are being made in Raleigh to lay the foundation of the twenty-odd thousand dollar monument to our Confederate dead. The following announcement is made by the Association of ladies which has the matter in charge: "The Ladies' Monumental Association of North Carolina having at heart the erection of a monument in the Capitol square to the Confederate dead, appeal to her citizens, one and all, to contribute their mite to this noble undertaking. There is not a son or daughter of our good old State who did not feel the bitter pangs of the Civil war. We feel proud of the stand North Carolina took, proud of the action of her troops, revere and honor the names of her sons who so heroically laid down their lives in her defence, and feel sure there is not one of her children who would prove so ungrateful to the memory of these men as to refuse to contribute their mite to perpetuate their deeds in monumental stone cut from her own native soil. According to an Act of the Legislature, every man, woman and child can become a member of said Association by contributing the sum of one dollar, but larger or smaller amounts will be thankfully received. All who contribute one dollar will be entitled to a very handsome certificate of membership, which will be forwarded you upon receipt of said sum."

General News.

Exports of gold from New York City last week aggregated $3,000,000.

Ex-Gov. Throckmorton of Texas died last Saturday at McKinney, Texas.

A cablegram announces that a severe earthquake occurred in Greece last week, killing many people and destroying much property.

The action of Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle in removing certain Republican office-holders from his department is to be tested by suit in the courts.

The Supreme Court of Colorado has decided that Gov. Waite was justifiable in his recent efforts to remove certain officers and install others, which efforts caused great excitement.

Virginia is still having a great deal of trouble with oyster pirates from Maryland. A battle occurred between the officers and the pirates on the 20th, but it was without serious results.

Congressman Adolph Meyer of Louisiana has introduced a bill to coin the seigniorage and to issue low interest bearing bonds. The measure is in accord with the suggestion of Cleveland's veto message; but will meet severe opposition from other directions.

One hundred and fifty thousand men are on a strike for better wages in various parts of the country. They are distributed so widely that no serious trouble is anticipated. It is stated, on the other hand, that there is need for thousands of farmer laborers in the Central and Western States.

A bill to repeal the State Bank tax has been introduced by Hon. Claude A. Swanson of Virginia in the House of Representatives. It is a certainty that it will pass the House. It will not receive the sanction of the Senators without restrictions, and can hardly come before them until July or August.

Coxey's army purposes reaching Washington in the first week in May. Congress has become much interested in the movement, and gave considerable time to it last week. Coxey's army proper numbers only about 500 men, but there are said to be 2,000 in Chicago, 2,000 further West, 2,000 in New York, 1,000 in Washington, and smaller gangs from other localities on the way. It seems to be their purpose to stay at Washington quite a time, and that city is making preparations to entertain them.

Major-General Henry Warren Slocum died in New York City of pneumonia on the 14th. He was one of the best known survivors of the civil war, having commanded one wing of Sherman's army on the "march to the sea." He had also served as Congressman.

A caucus of Democratic members of the House of Representatives agreed last week that arbitrary rules for counting quorums were necessary to the transaction of their business. Indifference and insincerity on the part of some Democrats and filibustering on the part of Republicans made the obnoxious step necessary. It is thought that pay will be withdrawn from those members who are absent without excuse, and all present, whether they vote or not, are counted to make quorums. This will expedite matters. It is a direct admission, however, that "Czar" Thos. B. Reed of Maine, ex-Speaker of the House, was justified in his rulings when Speaker.

A Rare Opportunity.

The meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, affords an unusual opportunity for those desiring to do so to visit our Southern cities and the great State of Texas. The round-trip tickets from Raleigh are only $36.30, just one-half the usual rate, and other points at correspondingly low rates. These tickets are not confined to delegates to the Convention and therefore any person may enjoy the benefit.

The Seaboard Air Line offers every inducement for the comfort of their passengers. Solid trains will run over this road from Atlanta to Dallas. Tickets will be placed on sale May 7th, 8th and 9th. The main party will leave Raleigh at 2 a. m. on May 8th, and reach Dallas at 7.00 a. m. Thursday, May 10th.

A special excursion has been arranged from Dallas to the City of Mexico at a very low rate, and a great opportunity is thus afforded to see that wonderful and interesting country.

This train will run on the following schedule: Leave Washington, 4.52 p. m.; Richmond, 9.00 p. m.; Portsmouth, 8.30 p. m.; Weldon, 11.30 p. m.; Raleigh, 2.20 a. m.; Sanford, 3.40 a. m.; Hamlet, 5.20 a. m.; Monroe, 7.42 a. m.; Charlotte, 9.45 p. m. Arrive at Atlanta, 8.30 p. m.; Dallas, 7.00 a. m.

Parties intending to avail themselves of this trip to the South should inform either of the undersigned.

T. J. ANDERSON, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va.
B. A. NEWLAND, T. P. A., Charlotte, N. C.
A. J. COOKE, S. P. A., Raleigh, N. C.

MARRIED.

TUDOR—BROWN—On the 18th of April, 1894, at the Arlington Hotel, Goldsboro, N. C., by Rev. C. A. Jenkens, Mr. Furman E. Tudor and Miss Lena Brown, all of Goldsboro.

DIED.

ATKINS—At her home, near Love Station, on April 14th, 1894, Mrs. J. D. Atkins, widow of Dr. W. S. Atkins. She was born near Chapel Hill, N. C., April 15th, 1809, and moved with her family to near Hernando, Miss., in the winter of 1850, where she lived till her death, and was buried in the Hernando cemetery on her eighty-fifth birthday. Her husband died during the war, and the remainder of her life was spent with her two children, Mrs. Dockery and A. G. Atkins, by whom and her grand-grandchildren, her memory is revered on account of her many virtues and kindnesses. She was a prudent and frugal woman, a true and loving wife, an affectionate and devoted mother and grandmother, an earnest and consistent professor of religion and member of the Baptist church, and died in full confidence that all was well.

T. C. DOCKERY.

CHAMBERS—Died in Charlotte, on the 18th of March, 1894, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Chambers, relict of the late Thomas Martin Chambers, in the 63rd year of her age. She was not called on to pass weary months of helpless suffering, having been confined to her bed but a short time before death came to her relief. The Christian character of this good woman was pronounced, and she illustrated in her daily life those elements of piety which had distinguished her family—the Buchanans of Person county—for generations. I conversed with her often and freely about her spiritual condition during her last illness, and can bear testimony to the unfaltering faith which sustained her in her trials and enabled her to triumph over all fear of death. Her only concern seemed to be a deep anxiety for the salvation of her children. Two of her sisters and five of her six sons were with her when she was called home. Blessed in her life, she was happy in her death, and "having served her generation, by the will of God she fell on sleep."

"She rests in peace, hushed is her voice,
Dim is her eye of light and love;
But let one thought your heart rejoice,
She's happy in the courts above."

T. H. PRITCHARD.

THINK 2 THINKS
IN CHOOSING DRINKS AND HIRES'
Rootbeer
WILL LINK YOUR THINKS.
Deliciously Exhilarating, Sparkling, Effervescent. Wholesome as well. Purifies the blood, tickles the palate. Ask your storekeeper for it. Get the Genuine.
Send 2 cent stamp for beautiful picture cards and book.
THE CHAS. E. HIRES CO., Philadelphia.

GENUINE ENGLISH
ONLY 99c
FORMERLY SOLD FOR $9
HOW WE ARE ABLE TO DO IT!
These spoons were made up especially for the World's Fair trade, by THE ONEIDA COMMUNITY Ltd., and were left on their hands. In order to dispose of them Quickly we make this unheard of offer. SIX SOUVENIR SPOONS after dinner coffee size HEAVY COIN SILVER PLATED with GOLD PLATED BOWLS, each spoon representing a different building of the World's Fair. The handles are finely chased, showing head of Columbus, and dates 1492-1892 and wording "World's Fair City." They are genuine works of art, making one of the finest souvenir collections ever produced. Sold during the Fair for $9.00; we now offer the balance of this stock at ONLY 99c. Sent in elegant plush lined case properly packed and express prepaid to any address. Send Postal Note, or Currency. Money cheerfully refunded if goods are not as represented. LEONARD BRO'S CO., Sole Agents, Dep. A 121 & 123 Adams St., Chicago, Ill.
What the "CHRISTIAN AT WORK" of New York, has to say in their issue of March 22, 1894:
"These spoons have been submitted to us, and we say more than those who send for them will be exceedingly gratified to receive such solid and valuable souvenirs of the World's Fair as these spoons are. The Leonard Manufacturing Company will promptly and without question return the money sent in payment if the spoons fail to give satisfaction. We do not believe, however, that they will ever be called upon to do so."

CARTER—In Danville, Va., on Thursday night, April 12th, 1894, probably without a moments warning, Claude Carter, son of Rev. V. E. Carter, was hurried into eternity. It was on his way to the post of duty in the service of the R. & D. R. R. that he met this sad and terrible end. No one saw the struggle of death, but it is thought that in passing along the road just before an approaching train he made a misstep and fell, and before he could recover, the engine had done its terrible work of death. A young man in the midst of life, being only about twenty years old, was thus taken from a devoted father and mother. It is said that he was a great favorite among all who knew him best. He leaves behind him a record of faith, having made a profession of religion early in life and uniting with the Baptist church at Palmerville, Stanly county, N. C.

We shall miss thee a thousand times along life's weary track,
Not a sorrow or a joy but we shall long to call thee back;
Yearn for thy true and tender heart, long thy bright smile to see,
For many dear and true are left, but none are quite like thee.
Not upon us or ours the solemn angel hath evil wrought,
The funeral anthem is a glad evangel, the good die not;
God calls our loved ones, but we lose not wholly what he has given,
They live in thought and deed as truly as in his heaven.

He was laid to rest in Salisbury cemetery Saturday April 14th, 1894. J.

Lovely Complexion.

Pure, Soft, White Skin.
Have you freckles, moth, black-heads, blotches, ugly or muddy skin, eczema, tetter, or any other cutaneous blemish? Do you want a quick, permanent and absolutely infallible cure, FREE OF COST to introduce it? Something new, pure, mild and so harmless a child can use or drink it with perfect safety. If so, send your Post-office address to
MISS MAGGIE E. HILETTE,
184 Vine Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.

Are You—
out of employment, or in a position that you do not like? Possibly the soliciting of Life Insurance is your special forte. Many people have, after trial, been surprised at their fitness for it. To all such it has proved a most congenial and profitable occupation. The Management of the Equitable Life
in the Department of the Carolinas, desires to add to its force, some agents of character and ability. Write for information.
W. J. Roddey, Manager,
Rock Hill, S. C.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY CO. CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BOYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM &c.
Catalogue with 2000 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

OH! IF I ONLY HAD HER
Complexion! Why it is easily obtained. Use Poussoni's Complexion Powder.

For Spring Weddings.
W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.,
Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.
They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.
Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.
Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.
W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co

PIANOS ORGANS
Times Hard
Prices Low
Only $90 for a Superb MASON & HAMLIN Organ. 4 sets Reeds, 10 Stops, Rich Case. $5 cash and $5 monthly. Reduced from $115. WRITE US.
Beautiful STERLING Mirror Top Only $80. 4 sets Reeds, 11 Stops. WRITE US.
Lovely New Styles at $65 and $75. WRITE US.
Elegant New Pianos only $175. WONDERFUL at the Price. WRITE US.
Tremendous bargains in nearly new Pianos and Organs, used a trifle only. WRITE US.
If you want a Piano or Organ now is the time to buy it RIGHT. WRITE US.
Write us anyhow. Trade is dull and you can't ask more questions about Pianos and Organs than we want to answer. Try it, please.
Ludden & Bates S. M. H.
SAVANNAH, GA.

CHAS. M. WALSH
MANUFACTURER OF MARBLE
MONUMENTS, TOMBS
AND GRAVE STONE
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
GREENSBORO
I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory.
CHAS. M. WALSH.

The Home Circle.

All for the Best.

Secure is that soul in the midst of affliction,
Who sees in each sorrow the hand of his God,
And knowing all things for his good, work together,
Unquestioning bows 'neath each stroke of the rod;
Oh! blessed is that heart that when toss'd by the tempest,
Can cling to this hope as a bird to its nest,
And say, with a faith by each trial made stronger,
"The dear Father knows—it is all for the best."

Each blossom of hope in our lives may be blighted,
Swept by adversity's pitiless blast;—
Clouds of misfortune o'ershadow our pathway,
Friends of a lifetime prove false at the last;—
The heart may be sad, and the way may be lonely,
And rough be the path by weary feet prest'd,
Yet faith pleadeth over, Oh, fail not to trust Him,
"The dear Father knows—it is all for the best."

The seed, that with weeping, we sowed for the Master,
Unquickened, may lie where it fell by the way;
Prayers that were wrung from our heart's deepest anguish,
Unanswered remain, though we cease not to pray;
The Father may hide for a moment His presence,
And the soul by its doubts, and its fears be distress'd,
But faith whispers low, "Though He slay thee, yet trust him,"
"The dear Father knows—it is all for the best."

These light afflictions, which but for a moment,
The Father hath sent us His promise to seal,
Are naught to the weight of the glory eternal,
And far more exceeding, which God shall reveal;
Some day we shall know why the crosses were given,
For the angels will summon us home to our rest,
Where with faith lost in sight, and with vision grown clearer,
We shall see as God sees; and shall know it was best.

—Lilla M. Alexander, in Christian Herald.

What Mable Earned.

It was the closing day of Miss Clancey's school. The exhibition was to be held in the chapel, and the prize essays read, and then!—there would be one proud, happy girl in that school!

How much Mable Harrison desired to win that prize, nobody knew, except herself.

"But, oh, dear! I haven't a ghost of a chance!" she said, with a little sigh, and a face half laughing, half ready to cry. "I might, if it wasn't for Hattie—all the girls say that. But I never, never could write like Hattie can, and so I may as well give it up."

Hattie Loomis was Mabel's cousin, and as her parents were both dead, she lived with Mabel's father and mother. And that was how it chanced that when Mable came down into the library to ask her papa how he liked her, in her pretty new dress, that she found not her father, but a little white paper, tied with a white ribbon, lying on the table.

She caught it up with a little cry: "Why, what is this! Did I leave my——no! as sure as I live, it is Hattie's essay! She has gone to the chapel, and forgotten it! Now, what ever will she do? Oh! if I only could think of some way to win that lovely, little silver watch! I do so long for a watch of my own! No one knows how badly I do want one!"

She hesitated a moment, with the paper still in her hand, and then said, slowly:

"What if—what if Hattie couldn't find her essay, when the time comes! She will send back for it, when she finds she has forgotten it, and nobody knows I found it. What—if I—was—to—the fire is so handy!—and—nobody will know!"

Oh, what a mighty temptation wrung her young heart. But only for one second, thank heaven. Then she suddenly cried:

"No, no! I will not do such a wicked thing! I will not! Perhaps, if I run fast, I may catch her yet, before she is out of sight! I will go and give it to her, and I hope, oh, yes, I do hope she will win the watch!"

And then she fairly flew out of the side door, calling "Hattie! Hattie!" at the top of her voice. And the moment she had left the room, her father stepped out of the library closet, with a queer smile on his face, actually wiping the tears from his eyes.

Hattie was not too far gone, and Mabel succeeded in restoring the forgotten essay before the writer even knew she had left it behind her. Hattie won the prize, and nobody gave her more hearty congratulations than did her Cousin Mabel.

"Oh, Mabel! I did want to get it, but I am sorry to take it from you!" whispered Hattie.

"No, no! I did not deserve it! I am so glad you got it!" answered Mabel, with a fervent squeeze of her cousin's arm.

The next morning, Mabel's father called her into the library, and put into her hand a small velvet case, saying, with a smile:

"There, daughter, is a present for you."

"Thank your, papa! But what is it?"

"Open it, and see!"

Mabel did so, and there lay a lovely little watch, just the counterpart of the one Hattie won at school.

"Why, papa!" began Mabel. But her father stopped her with a kiss, as she flew to his side, and said:

"I was in the closet, yesterday, and heard all you said. And I am proud to give you this reward, prouder of my little daughter's honesty, than if she had won a hundred prizes at school."

How happy was Mabel now. But, after all, it was not so much the beautiful watch, as the knowledge in her own heart that she had not yielded to temptation, which made her so glad.—Mattie Dyer Britts, in Young Reaper.

"Half a span of angry steel" will produce no more fatal results than a neglected cold or cough. For all throat and lung diseases, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy. It is invaluable in cases of croup, whooping-cough, bronchitis, and in grippe.

Make the most of your opportunities.

Low Spirits.

"Low spirits" is one excuse for much selfishness. It is doubtful whether any one has a right to be melancholy in a world so full of joy, and there is so much to live for; besides, it is a miserable piece of egotism to thrust one's low spirits upon others. Melancholia is undoubtedly a disease, but it is one of those diseases which are largely, if not wholly, under the control of the will. There are many diseases brought about purely by people allowing themselves to drift into morbid conditions. Even dreaded scourges are often induced by fear. Constantly brooding over fancied wrongs or imaginary slights will induce that condition of mind called melancholy. The selfish idler is condemned by every one; but the one who wastes his time in groaning and complaining until he becomes a chronic hypochondriac, is a hard worker from the trouble. Such people accomplish little work in the world. They are greater wasters of time than the most flippant idler, because they take away from the nerve-force and the life of others. They reduce the working power of all around them, enervating them by their continuous dole and plaint.

The best prescription for depression of spirits generally is work—work which is all-absorbing. The poor who drudge for a living seldom develop chronic diseases of the nerves and mind, despite the greater hardships to which they are subjected. How often it happens that the woman of wealth who believes herself to be an invalid, and who is suddenly thrust into poverty, is able to meet the emergency, and forgets all the morbid tendencies in the necessity which calls forth her supreme strength.

One way of paralyzing our faculties is to allow them to waste with disuse. Employment keeps away the rest. It keeps the mind and heart alive to the interests of the day. It has been said that the reason why so many old men break down and become childish is because they abandon business, and thus lose much of their every-day interest in the world around them. It is no uncommon thing for people who are quite advanced in life to take up courses of study and successfully pass through them. All such occupations serve to keep the interest alive in something besides mere selfishness, and do more to ward away the "fumes of dusky melancholy" than all the herbs in the old wife's pot on which our ancestors relied or all the drugs of the modern pharmacopœia.

A case in point: A few years ago a dear friend came to spend a few days with us. He was in a most melancholic state of mind. We were at that time engaged in microscopic research during the leisure hours of the day. To take his mind from his own troubles he asked to join us in the study. He became so enthusiastic that within a week he had forgotten his unhappiness and became a joy and delight to us all. At the end of three months he left in perfect health of body and mind, and said, "These have been the happiest weeks I have ever known. —Journal of Hygiene.

The Naughty "Think."

How sweet it is to see children with tender consciences.

A little girl one day said to her mother:

"Papa calls me good, auntie calls me good, and everybody calls me good; but I am not good."

"I am very sorry," said the mother.

"And so am I," said the child, "but I have got a very naughty "think"

"A naughty what?"

"My 'think' is naughty inside of me."

And on her mother inquiring what she meant, she said:

"Why, when I could not ride yesterday, I did not cry, nor anything; but when you was gone, I wished the carriage would turn over, and the horses would run away, and everything bad. Nobody knew it; but God knew it, and cannot call me good. Tell me, mother, how can I be good inside of me?"

Then the mother took her little girl upon her knee, and told her how Jesus could drive away all her naughty thoughts.—The Sunlight.

A Delicious Drink,
Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

For a right good and lasting cool drink, take Horsford's Acid Phosphate with ice-water and sugar.

Talking too Much.

Many a person talks too much, and finds when too late that silence would have been golden. The Mongols have a story on this wise:

"Two geese, when about to start southward on their autumn migration, were entreated by a frog to take him with them. On the geese expressing their willingness to do so, if a means of conveyance could be devised, the frog produced a stalk of strong grass, got the two geese to take it, one by each end, while he clung to it by his mouth in the middle.

"In this manner the three were making the journey successfully, when they were noticed from below by some men who loudly expressed their admiration of the device, and wondered who had been clever enough to discover it. The frog opened his mouth to say, 'It was I,' lost his hold, fell to the earth and was dashed to pieces.

"Do not let pride induce you to speak, when safety requires you to be silent."—Exchange.

A farm lying five miles from market connected by a bad road, is of less value than an equally good farm lying ten miles away from market connected by a good road.—Col. A. A. Pope.

Hall's Hair Renewer enjoys the confidence and patronage of people all over the civilized world, who use it to restore and keep the hair a natural color.

He had Forgotten.

It is related of the late Dr. Hodge of Princeton Theological Seminary that he once asked a student for a definition of eternity. The student, after some hesitation, replied that he used to know the definition, but had forgotten it. "O my, my, my!" exclaimed Dr. Hodge, bringing his hand down forcibly upon the table. "What a calamity! The only man in the universe that ever knew what eternity is has forgotten!"—Ex.

Be Clean.

Sir Lyon Playfair, in an address before the British Association, of which he was President, said that the whole of sanitary science could be compromised in two words, "Be Clean!" Most fortunately, this condition is placed with in man's reach. The clean man, other things being equal, will be the healthy man and the moral man. To attain this condition he must secure pure air, pure water, cleanliness in and around the house, cleanliness of person, dress and food, cleanliness in life and conversation; in other words, purity of life and temperance in all things to the end, that his days may be long, and that these days may be productive of good to his fellow-men.—Journal of Hygeine.

Fits, dizziness, hysteria and all nervous troubles cured by Magnetic Nervine. Sold and guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

The world is anxious to employ
Not just one, but every boy
Whose heart and brains will e'er be true
To work his hands shall find to do,
Honest, faithful, earnest, kind;
To good awake, to evil blind;
Heart of gold without alloy,
Wanted—the world wants such a boy.
—Chicago Post.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD.

The change is fraught with dangers. If there be pain, headache and nervous disturbances, or the general health poor, the judicious use of medicine should be employed. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nervine at this time. It brings about a regularity in the womanly functions, cures female weakness, catarrhal inflammation, and uterine derangements.

Seaview, Northampton County, Va.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—After taking your medicine I feel like a new person. I shall recommend you and your medicine wherever I go. Your medicine has worked wonders for me and I can not praise it too much. All of my old symptoms have disappeared.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. WILLIETTA DOUGHTY.

Pierce Cures. Cure
OR MONEY REFUNDED.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers. Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 45 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

MAGNETIC NERVINE.

BEFORE - AFTER

Is sold with written guarantee to cure Nervous Prostration, Fits, Dizziness, Headache and Neuralgia and Wakefulness, caused by excessive use of Opium, Tobacco and Alcohol; Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, causing Misery, Insanity and Death; Nervousness, Impotency, Lost Power in either sex, Premature Old Age, Involuntary Losses, caused by over-indulgence, over-exertion of the Brain and Errors of Youth. It gives to Weak Organs their Natural Vigor and doubles the joys of life; cures Leucorrhœa and Female Weakness. A month's treatment, in plain package, by mail, to any address, $1 per box, 6 boxes $5. With every $5 order we give a Written Guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circulars free. Guarantee issued only by our exclusive agent.

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

REMEMBER there are hundreds of brands of White Lead (so called) on the market that are not White Lead, composed largely of Barytes and other materials. But the number of brands of genuine is limited. The following brands are standard "Old Dutch" process, and just as good as they were when you or your father were boys:

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

If you want colored paint, tint any of the above strictly pure leads with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a pound of color to 25 pounds of lead. The best merchants sell them, the best painters use them.

A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.

Philadelphia Branch, 421 South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES
RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

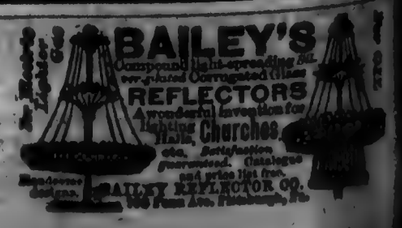
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES



Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
FLY FANS, &c.
Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,
Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Ass'n., Raleigh, N. C.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1894. Number 48.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WE do not know what our steady-going old North Carolina is coming to. We hear some new things these days—absolutely new, Solomon and all his wisdom to the contrary notwithstanding; and we are becoming very solicitous of the old original commonwealth.

A good brother was in to see us recently; he had labored, he said, in this district as school teacher, merchant and farmer "nigh on to forty years, and been a magistrate besides." But he was a back number now and didn't have "anything to brag on but a good conscience." The old State in which he had lived since 1830 was getting beyond him. The realization of the fact came about in this way: They had a public school—one of the four months kind—up his way, and as a former teacher of free schools, he sorter kept an eye to it. But he couldn't keep the pace of present methods, he couldn't catch on to what they were driving at. He could calculate fractions, percentage and "partial payments," and wasn't as rusty on "quadratics" as some people might think; he had read the "bridge chapter" in Cæsar till he knew it by heart; but all this was of no avail now. He thought his old books were good enough for his two children; but they came back from school with a whole list to be bought, and they told him that the teacher said his old blue back was out of date, his Cæsar didn't have notes, and the arithmetic was too hard. He let this pass, thinking it was natural that the ways of learning had improved since his day. As the spring came on, he noticed that the children were not studying, but he thought that the new fashioned learning wasn't so hard, perhaps as that which he had dug and dug for. The whole thing came to light the other day, however, when the young collegian, who had been running the school, sent him an invitation to commencement. They never had commencements to speak of in his day except at the University, and he thought he would see about it. The children had been preparing for two solid months; they had gotten their Ma to cut up all the old family clothes into all sorts of shapes, and they were just wild for the time to come. They never thought of studying; their whole idea was in the great blow-off-tableau, they called it. The time came, and as he had two children's time and all the family heirlooms invested in the occasion, not to speak of his office as a former teacher, the old man went. And the like of marching and singing and waving of flags and ribbons, and speaking of Fourth of July pieces and such dressing he never saw in all his "born days." Then the collegian made a grin and a bow, and said how he hoped all had enjoyed themselves, and how great a success he had made. The farmer thought differently. His children had learned how to blow-off in exhibitions, but they didn't know a fraction when they saw it. They had learned lots. They could make "funny" speeches and bows, and sing songs and march and cavort, but they knew about as much grammar as a jay-bird does about melody.

The old man was red in the face when he stopped telling us about the "blow-off." He had sent his children to school four months, and they had spent half of the time practicin' for commencement. Such schools were better closed, and such teachers should stay in college or join a military company. Commencements and exhibitions are barely tolerable in any institution, and in schools for boys and girls they generate deceit and vainglory; they make young folks forward and high headed and impertinent; they often ruin college graduates; and the idea of an ignoramus devoting half his school's time to a "blow-off!"

SPEAKING of free-schools, we are reminded that the constitution of our sovereign State says that they shall—which is mandatory, remember—be kept open four months in the year; and this is the duty of the county commissioners. But our constitution is self-contradictory, according to our Supreme Court, first under Smith with Merrimon dissenting, and now under Shepherd with Avery dissenting. We are not questioning decisions, but we have a vague idea that Merrimon and Avery will be found to have been right some fine day. The contradictory clauses in our constitution are, that which says the limit of taxation shall be sixty-six and two thirds cents on the one hundred dollars' worth of property and two dollars on the poll, and that which says that the free-schools shall be kept open four months in the year. In present conditions the limit is reached without the free-schools in some counties, and in a majority of them the limit would be exceeded were taxes levied to "keep" the schools according to the constitution. The decision depends on whether or not we regard free-school education as a special or a general purpose; if the former, Merrimon and Avery are right, for taxes may be levied beyond the limit for special purposes; for instance, bridges, etc.

From the report of the U. S. Commissioner of Education (1891-'92), we take the following statistics relating to North Carolina: Number of pupils enrolled in free schools, 335,358; average daily attendance, 198,747; teachers, 6,950; average number of days schools were kept, sixty two and a half; total expenditure, $760,991. It is probable that there are 500,000 children in our State who would attend public schools and who are not able to get a rudimentary education otherwise. At present the schools are in reach of only 335,358 of these, and are situated so far from probably 200,000, that they cannot attend regularly. At least 100,000 are growing up in illiteracy. And moreover, the schools "keep" but little more than half the length of time ordained by the constitution. These statements are estimates, but they are conservative and are now set forth advisedly. A conservative estimate also places the proportion of children that rely on the State for rudimentary instruction at nine in each ten. Such are the conditions.

These facts and figures are sufficient to persuade any one—whatever his opinion as to the function of the State in higher education—that we are sadly in need of more and better schools for the education of boys and girls who cannot, by reason of poverty or distance from villages, avail themselves of village academies. If one should ask us why North Carolina, with her boasted blank-filling agricultural resources, mineral wealth unexplored, water power, climate, etc., is in the rear of her sister "originals," we would lay the reason at the door of the undeveloped minds of her children and citizens. It is the ancient warfare of mind and matter, and matter will not yield to mind in the present stinting conditions of human development. Develop the minds of our State and the resources of her soil will be utilized. When we have a free school in every district six months in the year, and when we are able to supply them with efficient teachers, we may be said to have taken a step which will establish us in whatever position among the States we may deserve. We have the soil and the climate, the railroads and rivers; we have the men of brawn and energy, and do not need immigrants; but we do need a wider and a broader and a higher intelligence. And we may add, our State is spending money now to comparatively insignificant advantage for other objects than education, that would do much to develop this intelligence. If we had fewer Bureaus and Departments, if we practiced strict economy in various public offices, the schools could be supported almost according to the constitution, and the tax limit would not be reached. Many departments and offices have been instituted without specific constitutional requirement, and these are sapping the blood of the free-schools, which by virtue of the constitution should take precedence over them all.

RAILROAD trains have been racing through our confines in these struggling days of competition, and they are making columns of pure-reading advertisements thereby. We have read them with a repulsive interest. One road beat the other by fifteen minutes in a thousand miles in the first race, but on the second race the vanquished "rolled in" more than an hour ahead of its former conqueror. "Hot boxes were the cause," said one special position advertisement; "fine road-bed and short route," said the other. Both made good time—"unprecedented," the advertisement had it,—but neither were raised in our estimation. We would rather take the slow route and lose a few minutes except in cases of sudden illness, hasty funerals and elopements. Our time is not so valuable that we care to risk our mortal remains to save fifteen minutes between Florida and Washington. We admire the American spirit, which has made the thousand-mile telephone and the world-encircling telegraph needful; and the quick transportation in the North over pavement-like road-beds and through level country; but we do not admire even this over much. Haste often makes waste. We can overdo things. Railroads anywhere are not the safest things on earth, and we would rather join King Wilhelm's army than become a trainman on our Southern roads, which must, now and forever, run through inconsistent hills and over uncertain rivulets. And the wrecker and the rock thrower are not quite extinct. Traveling seventy miles an hour is like living thirty hours in a day; it kills, it blows out the cylinder head. A Bostian bridge and Rachel's tears are close attendants on railroad races; a collision or an explosion is ever near at hand, and when either of these occurs, it does not excuse the railroad to say that it was a work of Providence. We prefer the road that is noted for care and certainty; for really on "lightning expresses," there's no telling where one's journey may end. Speed is a good thing, but care is a cardinal virtue and security the most prized of conditions and certainly the mind's most blessed state. Still we expect to hear of races and wrecks until rival roads are forced into permanent receiverships by competition.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK]

In the last article the Voluntary Principle in higher education as illustrated by the practice of the New England and Middle States, was contrasted with the plan of State support of higher education as illustrated in the Southern States. It was claimed that the voluntary system has proven itself more friendly to the development of a large number of strong and self-supporting colleges than the other plan had done. Reference was also made to the extraordinary efficiency of the Common Schools in those States where the voluntary system has been adopted. Enquiry will now be made as to the results of the Southern system in the education of the masses of the people.

The picture is on one side bright and hopeful, on the other, dark and discouraging.

There are more school-houses and more teachers than ever before. There is a large increase in the enrollment of the school population. There were five times as many children attending the public schools in 1890 as in 1870. Very much good work is done in private schools. The graded schools of fifteen towns and cities, supported by local taxation and the Peabody fund, are probably unsurpassed in any State.

On the other hand, the public school term is shorter in North Carolina than in any other State or Territory of the Union.

The average salaries of teachers in the public schools in North Carolina is $23 10.

The expenditure per pupil is less in North Carolina than in any other State, except South Carolina.

In 1890 the total expenditure per capita of population for Common Schools in the New England and Middle States was $3 76. In North Carolina it was forty-four cents. State aid to public schools is about the same in both. But (report of Bureau of Education, '89-'90), "the States of the Northern divisions raise on an average over two dollars per capita of population in local taxes, and those of the two Southern divisions, on an average, about thirty-six cents."

There can be no question that better provision ought to be made for our public schools, if not by local taxation, then by larger State appropriation. Would it not be better to use revenues available for educational purposes to increase the fund for our common schools rather than to expend these revenues in such a way as incidentally to weaken private institutions which would care for higher learning without cost to the State?

Until after the close of the war, little provision of practical value had been made for the masses of the people by most of the Southern States. The majority of those who controlled public policy seemed to have felt that they had done their whole duty in making provision for State universities.

Jefferson was as anxious for a public school system in Virginia as he was for the success of the University. On Jan. 13th, 1823, he wrote to his co-worker Cabell, "Were it necessary to give up either the primaries or the university, I would rather abandon the last, because it is safer to have a whole people respectably enlightened than a few in a high state of science, and the many in ignorance. This last is the most dangerous state in which a nation can be." Yet there was no real common school system in Virginia till 1870.

In North Carolina the University was opened in 1795, but it was not until 1840—forty five years later, and after several of the Christian colleges had been founded—that a system of public schools was inaugurated. The occasion for their establishment seems to have been the transfer of nearly a million and a half of dollars of surplus deposit fund to the State by the Federal Government. Before the breaking out of the war North Carolina was ahead of all the slave holding States in her system of public instruction and compared favorably in several respects with some of the other States.

The present Constitution of the State requires that "each county of the State shall be divided into a convenient number of districts, in which one or more public schools shall be maintained at least four months in every year;" and also, after specifying other sources of revenue, that "so much of the ordinary revenue of the State as may be by law set apart for that purpose shall be faithfully appropriated for establishing and maintaining in this State a system of free public schools."

This Constitutional requirement as to the length of the public school term is not obeyed. Is it expedient that a legislature should make appropriations for higher education which could be provided otherwise, while thousands of children are growing up in comparative ignorance, and while the requirements of the Constitution are not obeyed?

But it will be said, higher education is also in the Constitution. That is true, but the language of the Constitution with reference to public schools is mandatory, "Shall be maintained at least four months," while Art. IV, sec. 6, is permissive stating that "the General Assembly * * may make such provision * * as may be necessary and expedient for the maintenance and management of said University."

In the last report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of North Carolina, (page 10), "special attention is called to the fact that thirteen weeks of annual school term is not enough, and is not even up to the required minimum of sixteen weeks." And, again, (page 45), "the general system is working well, so far as the money goes; what is specially needed is larger appropriation by the General Assembly, and a liberal provision to allow communities to vote additional taxes."

It will be easy for any one to make the calculation which will show how far the money spent annually by the State on higher education would go in increasing the number of schools with the present length of term or in increasing the length of term of the present number of schools.

We must not allow ourselves to be blinded to the real educational condition of multitudes of our people by what we see along the railroads, and in the towns and cities where Graded Schools are doing their admirable work. Those who travel to any great extent in the State, and are brought into contact with the people in the rural districts know far better what the real illiteracy is than they can discover from any tables of statistics. There are multitudes, white as well as black, who can neither read nor write. And many of these people have little desire that their children shall learn. They are content with low ideals, and know little of the higher conceptions and ambitions of life. Yet the State can never be wealthy and prosperous in any high degree until the masses of the people are better educated than they have ever been before.

The area of North Carolina is nearly as great as that of England, or as that of Scotland and Greece combined. It contains three-fifths of the population of Elizabethan England, and half the population of Holland at the time of the great Revolt. What a State it might be if the people were only educated! There must be general intelligence before there can be general thrift. And this intelligence can only be procured by wide spread popular education. And this can only be given by the State.

Bishop McTyeire has written on this subject: "It is too serious a farce; though one can hardly help smiling at the preposterous absurdity of offering free University tuition where free common schools can hardly run four months in the year. Of the over six millions of illiterates who disgrace and threaten our country, a very large portion are in those Southern States that are inviting their citizens to free university education. It sounds well to say, 'Our State University is open to the poor as well as the rich. The farmer and mechanic can educate his son there on the same terms with the millionaire.' Look at this a moment. The farmer wants his son to chop out cotton and help gather in the crop. The mechanic wants his son in the shop. Offer to them a common school, within reach, for nine or ten months in the year, and you offer them what they want, and what they can accept. Moreover, could these boys be spared for two or three years from the plow and anvil and work-bench, their parents cannot afford the expense of board and travel and books and suitable outfit for the University. It is mocking them to say it is open and free."

Dr. Warren Candler, President of Emory College, Georgia, delivered an Address, three or four years ago, before the Legislature of Georgia, in which he had the courage to say: "The Church in the United States (meaning by that all the churches) has a right to be heard upon this subject, and her opinions are much to be valued, for she may be regarded as an expert in higher education, however unable she may be to take care of the primary schools. There are 365 colleges and universities in the United States. Of these, 278 belong to the churches. Of the 65,000 college students in the United States, 50,000 are in church schools. These colleges do not ask of the State appropriation or any other help, but they do ask of the State that she will give them the protection of good government, and enact no legislation unfriendly to them. They think they have a right to ask this much. They know they serve the country well. * * Can the State or anybody in the State who really loves the State, whatever be his theory of education, refuse to foster these religious institutions that do the work of higher education as well as any, and cost the State nothing for the doing of it? * *

"As we have it to-day, what is the best method of fostering higher education in Georgia? My opinion is, the best way to do this is to appropriate every dollar that you have to appropriate to education, to the education of the common people—to our common schools. (Applause.) * * Our University has reached a point where it owns property to the amount of $683,000, and has an annual income of $30,000. Has all this produced common schools? I think we are all familiar enough with the facts to know that this method has not built up the common schools. Virginia tried the same policy with much the same result. The University of Virginia has had under its tuition 9,000 students, and it has made in the course of its history only about 500 teachers. It has produced in that time about 2,000 lawyers. This process does not make teachers, but it does create a ruling class. * * We may prize the upper part of our population higher, and press the lower part lower, until there is a yawning chasm between them which will not be good for any of us. But if we work upon the common school, we will lift all together. If you will give a boy the keys that will unlock the vestibule to education, depend upon it, if he is fit to be initiated into the inner shrine, he will find the pass words, grips, and signals, and secure admission into the higher degrees. * *

"There are half a million children in Georgia between six and eighteen years old who need to have a chance to enter this struggle. If we send down to them through the common schools all the money that we can spare, we shall stimulate these young lives to thoughtfulness, to thirst and hunger after learning. But if on the other hand we give sparingly to them, and follow the old ante-bellum policy, that before the war was adopted all along the South Atlantic slope, we shall continue to have multitudes unlearned, and a few taught at the expense of the many. I think we are less alarmed in the United States when we ruin a crop of children than when we lose a crop of cotton or barley. What must become of the crop of 460,000 children down yonder in the country unless something is done? If it were 460,000 colts I think our friends of the Farmers' Alliance would have something to say about it. If it were 460,000 sheep that were being slain by the dogs, the dog-law would stand a better chance of passing. But it is 460,000 children, and we say, 'If they can get to school, it is all right, and if not, it is all right.' We must not waste children that way. There is where the money of the State should go to day. * * * Our rich people have means abundant to take care of the higher education, at least for awhile, until the State has given us common schools for eight months in the year, which is much more urgent. This work will tax every resource of the State. When the thought comes to me of what the State can do if she will build up her common schools, my emotions are unspeakable."

Whatever else it has accomplished, the Southern idea in education has never succeeded in educating the masses of the people. One sometimes wonders whether those who controlled public opinion in the days before the war were ever deeply in earnest in seeking to give all the children a chance to learn, at least, to read and write. That there were some who were, there can be no question. All honor to the names of Judge Murphey, Bartlett Yancey, W. W. Cherry, and C. H. Wiley. President Caldwell published in 1832 a series of letters which still do honor to his mind and heart. His appeals rang out clear and strong, like the blast of a trumpet. The following passage, written sixty-two years ago, is good reading now.

"We have a country inferior to none of the original States in soil; in climate, it is far superior to most, in the mildness of its winters, in the diversity of its productions, and in the renovation of its crops. In the midst of all these sources of wealth and opportunity, our children are left to grow up unpruned and uncultivated as the forest or the brake which the hand of industry has never touched. This continues to the present hour, while it implies an almost total exclusion of knowledge, like the opacity of incarcerating walls, in the last and most enlightened age of the world. * *

"Let us place up to the eye for our consideration the thousands, may I not say the hundreds of thousands of our people, old and young, that cannot read. With this prospect under our view a little time only, could we convey in competent expressions the reflections which it would excite in our bosoms? A wilderness of minds springing into life, and advancing through its tract of years, untaught, untutored, groping their way in darkness, except where a few rays break in upon them from the floating information of the time. * * How many more of our generations must still grow up to pass through life, surrounded with the gloom of three hundred years ago? Shall we not say with united voice, this evil is too grievous, too inglorious, and, in its effects, too mischievous to be borne? It must have a remedy, and it must have it soon. Let us bring all the resources of our minds to bear anew upon the subject, and use the best means in our power to disseminate education through every county of the State, and among every portion of our people."

Yet years were still to elapse before public schools were established. Caldwell suggests one reason for the delay. "Party spirit, which is the bane of all wise and sound policy, is perpetuated from year to year; assumes a standing character, and is propagated among the people, poisoning the fountains of legislation. The halls of the Assembly become an arena to fight over again the same battles, in which it often happens that the best interests of the country are connected with the degradation of defeat. Success is made the test of merit. The triumphs of victorious opposition, even

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1894.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

CRITICS, HIGHER AND LOWER.

The spirit of religious criticism is spreading. We do not know when it began, speaking of present times; but if one would ask us the question in a general way, we would say that it began with the first murderer, Cain; for no doubt he questioned God's goodness and wisdom. In the time of Christ the Pharisees, men of extensive learning in certain directions, but vastly ignorant in their abnormal self-esteem, were the critics; and their race is not yet run. There are Pharisees in every field now, and we scarcely expect that they will ever become extinct. There are men amongst us to-day of brilliant endowments and accomplishments whose delight seems to be to destroy God's Word of Truth in a pretended search for truth. They first received their ideas from Germany, and naturally were Northern students who were able to complete their education under skeptic teachers. But the agitation which these men began has spread to the South and, we have some reason to think, to North Carolina.

In view of these things we desire to make some observations. The more prominent of present-day critics question the inspiration of the Bible—God's Holy Word. They consider the Old Testament a somewhat colored history of Israel. They deny that Moses wrote the Pentateuch; they suspect that Isaiah wrote only half of the book which we ascribe to him; they question the propriety of some of Solomon's songs, and they criticise every thing else connected with the book that seems to them to permit of criticism. All this is done, the critics claim, in search of truth; and of course they cannot go beyond God for that, so they deny that he inspired Moses and the prophets.

If the inspiration of the Bible is denied, it is true, we have not sufficient historical evidences of the Israelities of the time of Moses to prove their existence. The Bible as a history goes nearer to the beginning than any other written record, and of course if it is said to be merely a work of men and fallible, there's no proving to the contrary. For instance, there is no way of proving that Israel crossed the Red Sea as it is written in God's Word, if we take the Bible out of consideration. Thus the critics of the Old Testament would enwrap us all in darkness as well as themselves, and at the end of their labors would not have as much evidence of the truth as they did with the Bible. Such efforts are efforts of vanity, and are prompted by no desire of truth. We would rather have faith in God than nothing at all.

The other class of critics is far more general, but more insignificant. They are not sufficiently radical in their views to attract wide attention, have some pretentions to Christianity, but at the same time are potential instrumentalities of great injury. They do not question the inspiration of God in the Bible, but think that he inspired only parts of it. They are inclined to blink at the miracles and some other parts of the Scriptures. They are co-operative with the still more general class that thinks many mistakes have been made by translators. So far as the former are concerned only the last few words in the Old and New Testaments can be quoted. To take away any part of either Testament is a damning sin; to question one verse is to remove the pillar of them all. To speak of part of the Bible as God's Word and to consider another part some human being's is to "take away from the words of the book of this prophecy," the penalty for which is the loss of the "tree of life" and the "holy city." We have often heard the expression, the Bible contains God's Word; we believe, and cannot see how Christians believe otherwise, that the Bible from the first word to the last is God's Word, and it is inspired of God from Genesis through Revelations; and any one who denies this is sinning against God in contempt of the express warning of John.

We do not believe that the King James translators made an essential error throughout their entire work. It is unusual to have such faith in men. But when we reflect that they were good men, chosen of a righteous king, educated, learned, zealous, God-serving and God-fearing; that the English into which they translated the Greek is held to-day to be the purest and the truest to be found, our admiration is such that we do not fear any mistake in this regard on their part. They were not inspired, but they were appointed and prepared. We know that a good God would not have had his children misled these centuries.

But we have not spoken of the harm that is being done by critics of all kinds. A wise man may think he has some right to question anything he pleases about the Bible,—certainly we do not deny the right of opinion to any one. Yet, the right to lead others to skepticism and agnosticism and infidelity is not possessed by any Christian. These results may not seem to follow, but they do, and naturally. To us to question the infallibility or the authority of God's Word in any particular is to let down the gap to a multitude of skeptics who would destroy the entire Word. There is as much proof that one chapter is inspired as there is of another; thus to question one is to question all, and to take from one is to admit the possibility of a removal of all. To question the Scriptures is to ally oneself with infidels,—and more, for a "Christian" critic may lead thousands to whom an infidel is an abomination. Surely of these critics, who are indeed revilers of God and agents of unfaith, the pleading words of the persecuted, dying Christ, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do," can be said as they were said of the mob at Calvary. God has blessed us marvelously in our faith, the world has grown better as the kingdom of Christ has extended through his Word; and it is too late to deny the authority or the accuracy of that Word.

ELIZA MORING YATES.

Last week we had time only to announce the sad news of Sister Yates' death. In this issue Bro. Skinner writes of her life and labors, having known her and her husband from early youth. We hope to publish something concerning her missionary work by Bro. Bryan in our next issue. We knew her only as a warm personal friend, whom our Lord brought to us long before we had seen each other, for, indeed, we never saw her until last year. But our friendship was formed many years ago, and grew warmer and warmer until her death, and even after she had been taken a tardy letter came full of faith and love.

Sister Yates possessed the advantage of a good education before she went to China. She was blessed with an apt mind, had a fine appreciation of humor, and a keen insight into character. Her letters were ever bright, interesting and instructing, and she wrote as one who brought the experience of a busy and varied life into her paragraphs, and not the least interesting of them were those in which a fine sense of the humorous in life was manifested. Her letters have been blessed lights to us along our career.

Her education, above the average among women of this country before she went abroad, was considerably extended after she left America by studies in Rome. She was conversant in several tongues and very widely read. In addition to this, her travels over three continents among people worthy of her culture and Christian character made her experience a most valuable attribute. Few minds could reap such advantages from these opportunities as did that of Sister Yates. She was by far the most cultured and experienced of our missionaries, and in addition to this it may be said, without detracting from any one, she has had few equals in piety, usefulness and faithfulness in well doing. Her service as editor-in-chief of 'Woman's Work in the Far East' is an enduring witness to her accomplishments.

We do not think we overstate the fact in saying that without Sister Yates her husband's life would not have been so abundantly fruitful as it was. He was one of the greatest of men; she was one of God's noblest women. Together as laborers the one encouraged and sustained the other through more than forty years. Their work is inseparable: we cannot say to one is due this exploit to the other that; for the hope of one was the aim of the other; and through all they worked for and through the Master. Both have now entered into that rest which remaineth for the people of God, and their works do follow them. Their influence in China can never die, though their presence will be missed for years to come. They were as parents to our missionaries, and none ever came to them in vain. They were beloved by those of the natives with whom they came in contact; they were esteemed by all who knew them, whether native or foreign; and their lives were truly cosmopolitan.

We have never known a more lovable character than Sister Yates; we have known no one who has lived so nobly and so well. Nearly fifty years spent in blessed self-sacrifice to God in humble, loving and faithful service; such a life is indeed a testimony to Christ.

It seems that the "Southern Number" of the 'Home Mission Monthly' has attained its purpose. It libeled the South, knowing that the South would respond, and thus stir up a discussion that would excite our Northern brethren to greater contributions. The wise course would have been silence, though we confess it is one of the hardest trials of life to let a wilful misrepresentation pass. At the same time we do not care for the opinion of any one who would take the word of a time pressed traveller and a biased one at that, to the disfavor of millions of good people. We believe the North has done well by the freedmen, and it has by no means finished its work. But we would remind the editors of the 'Home Mission Monthly' that money raised by misrepresentations will not be used by a wise God. We hope the next time any Northern religious publication libels the South our people will disregard it. Denials are useless so far as counteracting influences are concerned; and we are confident that the increasingly large number of Northern brethren who winter among us each year will establish the truth of these matters. It certainly cannot be established by prejudiced investigators and seekers of evil, nor can it be established by three travellers, however honest and charitable they be.

This week's article by Dr. Taylor is one of the strongest that he has placed before us so far; and it can be read independently of the others: it is complete in itself. In discussing the broad, fundamental theory of right, no one can be as interesting as in more tangible subjects. This question of expediency depends on the present condition of North Carolina, intellectually and financially, and this is a matter of general interest always. We have noticed several critical remarks by people who seem not to have read the articles, and in some cases they have shown entire ignorance of the question at issue. We earnestly hope that they who intend to take a stand in regard to the question—and we hope every one will—will not reach conclusions before they know precisely what is sought and what is proven needful. There is no excuse for ignorance in this case, and misrepresentation can only be considered as designed.

Now that our exchanges have exhausted the subject of Disciples and union, Dr. Moxom's change of base, the "Baptist Ultimatum" and the Episcopal concessions and challenges, we are at a loss to know "what next?" We have been amused to see three of the more widely circulated of our exchanges recently disputing as if their lives depended on it as to what constituted a Baptist. One of them seemed to have just discovered that baptism and close communion were not the only Baptist characteristics; another seemed not to have discovered it at all; and another, more wisely, comes forth and says that Baptists stand for the supreme authority of God's Word in all things. That is very well, but it strikes us this is a late day for Baptists to be finding it out. If they ever stood for anything else we are not cognizant of it. Perhaps the reason for this is, however, that Baptists in some localities have gotten beyond the Scriptures in certain branches of their work; and they are just now returning to the primal Baptist idea. To such people our exchanges may direct their efforts to great advantage.

A brother writes us that he has so often heard of "good preachers," he would like to know what the term means. He is a preacher himself, and should know as well as we. A good preacher preaches Christ as he knows him, and he knows nothing else but Christ in his ministry. One may not be educated, cultured, profound nor eloquent, and yet be a good preacher; yet these qualities will help one. But "Christ and him crucified," is the measure of a preacher's real usefulness and goodness.

We cannot judge preachers by their flocks, though a good flock is an unfailing sign of a good preacher; yet a disorganized one is not a guaranty that it has not been lead by a good preacher. All preachers who are called of God to the ministry are good preachers as long as God has use for them; and good preachers are good enough.

Doubtless our brother desires us to draw distinction between the words "good" and "fine," which are so often used. A "fine" preacher is one who has unusual natural or acquired ability; a good preacher has it only to a degree. Both kinds may be called of God, and we have no means of telling which of the two is more frequently called or which does the greater service for God.

A sister presents the following case and desires to know whether one or two members can keep the brother in the case out of their church. A brother belonged to a Baptist church. He offended a brother and fellowship was withdrawn from him. He has now professed repentance and asked forgiveness of him whom he offended, saying that he knows God has forgiven him. But the offended brother will not forgive.

When Christ was on earth he never had occasion to talk a great deal about church discipline or government. He laid down one rule of life that applies impressively in this and many other cases: "If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him. And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent, thou shalt forgive him." For a candidate for Baptist church membership to be admitted requires a unanimous vote of the members present. But in this case, acting on the above Scripture, the repentant one should be allowed to come back, if after investigation no further charges are found against him. He who refuses to forgive is the offender now, and the repentant one has the Bible on his side.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

The distance from one place to another depends more on the sort of road you have to travel than the number of mile posts you have to pass. After spending a second night with my old friend and college mate, W. C. Mitchell, at Aulander, I found myself behind Bro. B. Craig's gray horse,—and by the way, I have been riding behind gray horses nearly all the week, and have had no bad luck, either,—on my way to Harrelsville, where I spent Saturday with Bro. C's The town was full of measles, the window blinds of most of the dwellings were closed, and only a very few able to be at church. The health of Bro. B. B. Williams is much improved, and he seems to be anxious to resume his work again.

I was surprised to find so much fine grass and clover growing in this section. Almost everybody has a nice Jersey cow and plenty of nice milk and butter. Shad and herring are here in the greatest abundance, and to an up-countryman they seem very cheap.

Bro. Craig is encouraged in his work. His congregations are larger than ever before, and year by year there is an increase in contributions for all objects. His three country churches support two orphans at Thomasville, and find no trouble in raising this amount. Wonder how many other country churches do as well!

Sunday morning after looking in for a little while on Bro. Powell's Sunday-school, and taking my last subscriber, I take his gray horse and soon find myself numbered among Bro. Curtis' congregation at BETHLEHEM.

I had waited with interest for some years for an opportunity of visiting the homes of Bro. Adkins, who has for years stood for the Recorder in this section of the State, and of Dr. R. P. Thomas, the moderator of the West Chowan Association. After spending most of the day with Bro. Adkins, I, in company with Hon. J. C. Scarborough, spent Sunday night at the elegant home of Dr. Thomas. When I saw the evidences of industry, energy, and system, which so distinctly marked every department of his premises, I was not surprised that in the person of such a brother the West Chowan Association had found a moderator second to none in the entire State.

I have seen no better section anywhere in the State than the portions of Hertford and Bertie counties which I passed. The lands are not only fertile, but so level and smooth that you feel like exchanging places with the man who is plowing the fields you pass. I could not understand why in all of this section the fences are still retained.

Monday morning early I was in WINTON.

This was court week. I found a number of the brethren here whom I never see at the Association. Judge Armfield's charge to the grand jury was clear, simple, pointed and practical, and contained so many references to the Bible that you were at times almost persuaded that you were listening to an introductory sermon. One good brother remark that the Judge must have been a preacher before becoming a lawyer.

By Monday night the court was through with the State docket, and in order to consume this much time, several hours were taken up in trying a boy for stealing a pint of ground peas.

I met quite a number of old Wake Forest students in Winton. Several live here, and a number came from the country. J. S. Mitchell, sheriff of the county, graduated at Wake Forest about twenty years ago, and is a zealous friend of his alma mater. J. P. Mitchell, who left about the same time, is the largest merchant in the town, and one of the most liberal men in this entire section. He had not ceased to rejoice at the paying off of the Convention debt when I reached the town.

It is always a pleasure to see Judge Shaw. He seems to be recognized as the peace-maker in his neighborhood. He has for several years conducted a public business, and in all that time has never had a case in court. He invariably advises his neighbors not to go to law.

It was a real pleasure, again, to meet Bro. J. A. Vann. He said he had read the Biblical Recorder and voted the Democratic ticket for the last fifty-two years. He is well preserved, and has much to make his old age happy and comfortable.

I felt hungry as soon as I saw "Thad" Vann. I went to his house once in shad season, and if any of my readers have enjoyed a like good fortune they will understand how this is.

The whistle of the steamer "Olive" reminds me that my time is out, and soon I am quietly resting on a comfortable sofa, and the steady throbbing of the engine below is such sweet music when compared to the snoring of one of my recent companions, that soon I am asleep, and know no more till I am in Franklin, Va., where I take the Atlanta special and soon finish my nap at the Park Hotel in the capitol of our own State.

J. C. C.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Several newsy letters are crowded out of this issue.

....Dr. R. H. Marsh of Oxford has added State Line church to his pastorate.

....We were glad to see Bro. J. H. Mills of the Orphanage in Raleigh last Monday.

....Dr. Kerfoot of the Seminary is to preach the introductory sermon at Dallas.

....Fifteen additions have been made to the Wadesboro church since the recent meeting there.

....Dr. Taylor will attend the Baptist educational meetings in Saratoga instead of the Convention at Dallas.

....Rev. C. W. Williams who has been preaching at Murphy, N. C., the last few months has gone to Denver, Col.

....Rev. A. W. Setzer is encouraged to say his congregations increase at every service; the work moves on nicely.

....Rev. M. A. Adams of Monroe writes: "I go to Leaksville to aid Bro. Richardson in a meeting soon." The meeting began last Sunday.

....Dr. Durham spent the last few days with the Warren and West Chowan Union meetings. He's the busiest man in town these days.

....Dr. Pritchard will preach the baccalaureate sermon at the next annual commencement of the widely-known Salem Female Academy.

....Rev. J. F. Tuttle has given up his once a month appointment at Roberdell and will hereafter give that Sunday to the Whiteville pastorate.

....Rev. A. C. Dixon has renewed his charges against infidel Ingersoll, and defies him to bring suit. Perhaps the infidel knows the law too well for that.

....Histories of Baptist work in Virginia, Alabama, South Carolina, Mississippi and North Carolina are either being written or undergoing revision. This is hopeful.

....Dr. J. J. Hall of Norfolk delivered a fine address before the Odd Fellows of Greenville on the 26th ult. Bro. Hall lectured in Richmond last Sunday night.

....Prof. Poteat made us a pleasant visit last Monday on his return from Monroe, where he delivered a lecture on the thirty silent years of Christ's life, on the 27th ult.

....We are glad to see it stated in the Religious Herald that Dr. Whitfield of Richmond, Va., is improving, and his physician now thinks he has a fair prospect of recovery.

....There were more than thirty professions of faith in the meetings held with Bro. C. J. F. Anderson's Siler City church by Rev. J. T. Jenkins, with Bro. L. R. Carroll assisting.

....Eleven converts were baptized at Plymouth, N. C., recently as a result of a meeting held by Rev. A. R. Pittman of Rennert, with his son, A. E. C. Pittman, at the former place.

....Bro. A. D. Hunter baptized twelve converts in the baptistery of the First Baptist church of this city on the 25th ult. He baptized ten in Pullen's pond on last Sunday afternoon. Others are to follow.

....Twenty-nine persons have united with the Cascade Baptist church as a result of the recent meeting. A part of them have been baptized, and the others are to be baptized the first Sunday in May.—Leaksville Herald.

....This week the fourth series of meetings held in Baptist churches of Raleigh is in progress at the First church. Dr. Carter has labored faithfully to prepare his people for the revival, and a good meeting is anticipated.

....On last Sunday Dr. Hufham assisted in the dedication of a new church at Tillery. He made us a most welcome visit Tuesday and has now reached Shelby. May God spare him to work in the West as he has in the East.

....Bro. W. H. Davis, a ministerial student of Wake Forest College, was in Raleigh last week. Bro. Davis intends to preach in the Western part of the State this summer. He preached for Bro. Hunter at the West End on Sunday night.

....The North Carolina Teachers' Assembly, Prof. F. P. Hobgood, President, and E. G. Harrell, Secretary, will hold its eleventh annual session at Morehead City, June 19th to July 3d. An interesting programme has been arranged.

....We regret to state that the wife of Rev. G. W. Harmon of Weldon died on the 27th inst. Her remains were transported from Weldon and interred at Rutherfordton. We extend our warmest sympathy to Bro. Harmon in this sad affliction.

....Bro. J. C. Marcom, who is secretary of the committee from the First Baptist church Sunday-school, on time and place for a picnic and excursion, informs us that the committee are considering the matter, and have a number of places in view. The time will probably be the latter part of May.

....A brother desires to know what we think of a Sunday-school in which the teacher of the Bible class is not only not a member of a church, but is a "profane swearer." That Sunday-school should be abolished, the locality disinfected, and another effort made "from the ground up."

....The new chapel at Statesville was was dedicated last Sunday, Rev. G. H. Church preaching the sermon. We learn from the Landmark that it will seat about four hundred people; has cost $675, of which all but about $50 have been paid. It has been a surprisingly short time since the idea of having the chapel was formulated, and we congratulate the Statesville people on their good work.

....We return thanks to the Johns Hopkins Press for a copy of "The Constitutional Beginnings of North Carolina," by John Spencer Bassett, Fellow in History at the University, and Professor elect of that branch in Trinity College, Durham, N. C.

....We advise any one who desires to secure a teacher to communicate with Dr. Taylor of Wake Forest College. He will also take pleasure in recommending some of the students to any pastorate that may desire a preacher for supply in the summer months, or permanently.

....We have received many endorsements of Dr. Taylor's articles. We are holding them until his papers are completed, when we hope there will be a general expression of opinion from one end of the State to the other. It will pay you to read and think now, and write a little later.

....The Convention is almost on us. From the tone of our exchanges, it seems that the delegation will not be large enough to lend force to the discussion of a basis of representation. Texas has made great preparations, nevertheless, and we are sure all who attend will be royally entertained.

....Prof. Carlyle is making noble use of his talents this season. We have announced four occasions at which he will address young men and ladies, and Rev. C. B. Williams informs us that he will deliver the commencement address before the Winton Male and Female Academy on the night of May 31st.

....We have published several historical papers in the last few weeks, one of which was spoken very highly of by Dr. Whitsitt of the Seminary. There is another in this issue about an old hymn book, "Daniel's Selection." We have also in hand a historical sketch of Abbott's Creek church, which will appear in our next.

....Rev. P. G. Elsom of Fincastle, Va., whose labors in Newbern and Henderson have been so abundantly blessed in the last few weeks, began preaching in the First Baptist church of Raleigh on last Monday night. Dr. Carter has been laboring earnestly to prepare the church for these meetings, and the prospect is for a gracious outpouring of the Spirit.

....Dr. J. D. Hufham preached his farewell sermon in the Baptist church last Sunday to a large congregation. His sermon was very touching, and when he concluded there was hardly a dry eye in the church. He left Sunday afternoon for Scotland Neck, where he preached that night.—Tarboro Southernor, April 26th.

....The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church, Durham, has given its pastor, Bro. Tyree, a ticket to Dallas; and more than this, on learning that Dr. Durham had appropriated his Convention money to State Missions, the church sent him the amount. That is good all around.

... And Kentucky has a "felt need" for another Baptist paper, we hear. Experience is a great teacher, and sometimes we think it the only one. If we were asked to name the best edited and most staunchly Baptist paper, we would have to say the Western Recorder, but no one paper can relieve all the "felt needs" these days.

....Rev. C. W. Blanchard wrote us on the 28th: "An interesting revival is yet in progress in our East Durham Baptist church. It has lasted already more than two weeks and grows in power at every service. Rev. O. L. Stringfield was with us for more than a week at the beginning of the meeting and preached the gospel with great power. We were all delighted with the man as well as his services."

....Mrs. Janie Pritchard Duggan of Wake Forest has been awarded the $500 prize, offered by the American Baptist Publication Society for the best story illustrating the theme, "Christian Indebtedness, or the Obligation Resting upon Those who Possess Spiritual or other Advantage." "A Mexican Ranch" is the title of the work, and it will come from the presses of the Society May 20th. We congratulate Mrs. Duggan on receiving this signal testimony to her ability.

....A recent issue of the St. Joseph, Mo., Gazette contains a picture of Rev. N. R. Pittman and his church, the Patee Park Baptist church of that city, the occasion being the celebration of the ninth anniversary of Brother Pittman's pastorate there. Bro. Pittman is a graduate of Wake Forest College, attended the Seminary, was connected with the Lumberton Robesonian, served the Wadesboro Baptists as pastor, and went to Missouri, where he has labored for nine years with the blessing of God. He was connected with the Central Baptist for some years. His new church is a splendid edifice of which he and his large congregation may well be proud.

....We have received several letters from the brethren, and even our advertisers, containing sentiments regarding the lamented Zeb. Vance. None of them are more worthy of publication than the following from Bro. Hufham, the Baptist Nestor: "It grieves me that Vance is dead. He has gone at a time when our need of him was sorest. In these days of unrest the people would have followed him. It does not yet appear whether there is one who can take his place. The people loved and trusted him, and not without reason, for he first loved them. His career was brilliant beyond comparison. Richard Caswell is the only man in the past of our State who can be mentioned along with him; but Caswell met no such crises, passed through no trials such as came upon Vance."

The Confederate Veteran's Reunion at Birmingham, Ala., last week was largely attended and proved a very spirited meeting. More than twelve thousand dollars have been received for the Jeff. Davis monument. The reunion will be held at Houston, Texas, next year.

Dr. Taylor's Articles.

News comes from every part of the State to us about the continued deepening and widening interest created by, and felt in, Dr. Taylor's articles. They are being read, and every paper, by many, carefully filed, or loaned to those who are not now subscribers. These articles are, therefore, being seen by, perhaps,

TEN THOUSAND PEOPLE EVERY WEEK.

The people are talking about them in their homes, and with their neighbors and friends. No articles ever published in this State on education have had so many eyes turned upon them, or have made so deep an impression on those who have read them.

The brethren have written me, urging their publication in pamphlet form as soon as possible. This seems to be the desire of the thoughtful in all parts of the State. It will, therefore, be done, so soon as the series is completed. I will be personally responsible to the publishers for the first issue of twenty-five thousand copies, and will give the brethren, interested in their publication and wide distribution, an opportunity of uniting with me in the cost. The postage will be two cents on each copy sent through the mail, the expense and work of mailing will be something, and the cost of printing about three hundred dollars. The cost, therefore, of twenty five thousand copies put into the hands of the people, will be about five hundred dollars. This will be the most fruitful money ever put in education in North Carolina. If you feel that it will be a privilege to help with this work, you can send check for any amount you wish, at once, or write me what amount you will send later on—name your own time. Let every one who desires these articles in pamphlet form drop me a postal card and state the number of copies desired. If you wish to supply the demand in your town, township or county, and will agree to put them wisely into the hands of the people, so state your object and determination, and the number of copies you will thus use. We and all who wish the people to know the facts and principles brought out in the discussion, and their proper application to the questions before us, are asked to unite with us in this effort to reach the people. To all interested in the public schools, the constitutional changes, legislative enactments, the money appropriated, and how more than one hundred thousand dollars of the taxes of the people were appropriated by the last Legislature to schools other than "the public schools," these articles will be most valuable.

"ARE DEAD IN EARNEST" IN THIS WORK,

The Winstonian policy now of course, is to keep things quiet, the people from knowing, thinking and talking about these questions, to suggest the dangers of discussing these things at this time, and to frighten, or to deceptively advise Baptists and to tell of their bright boys, to flatter, to pat on the back and to use us against our own best interest.

We remember the speech at the A. and M. College and at the Robeson Association. How was the invitation to make the speech at the A. and M. College secured? Why were the Faculty and Trustees ridiculed? Why was rebellion against such men and rules urged on the students? Was not the sugar-coated hook thrown out to these students?

There are more than sixty Union Meetings to be held in July, and the same number in September—Friday and Saturday before the fifth Sunday in these months—at each of which on Saturday at eleven o'clock this educational question should be discussed. There are fifty-three Associations to be held from July 31st to Nov. 25th, and at each of these such discussions should be vigorous and intelligent. At all of these meetings there will assemble more than fifty thousand people. The opportunities, therefore, to reach the people with a discussion of these questions are most abundant. Why should not the Chowan Association, to meet in May, be prepared, and, as it does in most other things, lead off in defining its position on these questions which so vitally affect the best interest of Wake Forest College, Murfreesboro and Oxford Colleges, and five hundred thousand children in the State?

C. DURHAM.

Death of Mrs. E. M. Yates.

The death of Mrs. Yates occurred on the 24th of March, 1894, at Shanghai, China, where she had lived for forty-seven years as a missionary of the Southern Baptist Convention. She survived her distinguished husband but six years and seven days.

Never did a wife better supplement the life and work of a husband than did this excellent lady minister to and help the great missionary in his labors for more than forty years.

In her sphere she was his equal for efficiency and intelligent discretion in all those difficult and important plans and achievements incident to the establishing and maintaining a Christian mission in a heathen land. Her retiring modesty concealed her superiority over ordinary people, and this gave her easy access to the poor and helpless, while at the same time it enhanced the beautiful symmetry of her character with the grace of dignified bearing when thrown in contact with the cultured and refined foreign population.

Her friends all felt that on her late visit to America last yaar, that we were beholding her with the eyes of the flesh for the last time. The unusually stormy passage across the Pacific ocean was too much for her feeble frame, worn as it was by seventy two years of labor and anxious toil.

Happy meeting over on the other side must it have been when death's door opened and ushered into each other's presence the great missionary, Matthew Tyson Yates, and his devoted fellow-laborer and world-companion, Eliza Moring Yates!

Do we know each other there? This question is often asked, and this fact itself would seem to presuppose the reality. They do not come to us and therefore can tell us nothing which happens there; but we go to them, and therefore they may well receive information of all which happens here. They are "a cloud of witnesses" over us and around about us. Moses and Elias, Abraham, Dives and Lazarus know each other. There is only one objection, and this proceeds from the feelings. It asks how could we be happy and know the objects of our earthly love to be absent? We can only meet this with a simple, humble faith in that all providing wisdom which can enable the human soul to forget all which it might be distressed to remember and can fill it with all holy and joyous meditations, and can in a thousand ways preserve the flowers of memory without its thorns.

Perhaps our cup of blessing will be so full to overflowing with Christ and his glory, that all else will be in a state of oblivion.

It has been fifty five years since we first knew Yates at Wake Forest College, and all along through life we have kept in touch with him and Sister Yates, and it will not be long before we shall know each other there. Our sympathies and prayers are fresh and full for the beloved daughter and her husband.

T. E. SKINNER

"The Baptist Female University."

The last payment of twenty six hundred dollars has been paid this week on the location for the "Baptist Female University," and the deed in fee simple to the Trustees and their successors has been made. Several thousand dollars in good subscriptions towards the first building are in hand, and every month makes some progress. The Trustees authorized a committee to ask the next Legislature to amend the charter by striking out "Baptist Female University of North Carolina," and insert ———. The committee is to fill the blank. How would "Yates College" fill the blank?

C. DURHAM.

Cold Water on the Baptist Female University.

"If Raleigh wants a Baptist female school no one will object." This is quite cold at this late hour. If this had been said during 1890, '91 or '92 it would not have been quite so chilly. We are prepared to say that Raleigh does not want a Baptist female school.

The Baptist State Convention in four different open annual sessions ordered and encouraged the establishment of the Baptist Female University for the higher education of our girls. At each of these annual sessions the trustees were so encouraged in their work that they located the school in Raleigh, selected the site, and through their executive committee purchased the property, and have paid for it (will make the last payment in a few days) with money given to the Baptist State Convention by the citizens of Raleigh for the purposes mentioned in the chapter. Of the thousands of dollars contributed, not one cent was contributed for a Raleigh Baptist female school.

Every cent was given for the establishment of a school to answer the purposes of the Baptist denomination of the State. If the Baptist State Convention had not named the school and encouraged Raleigh to believe that the school would receive the hearty sympathy of the Convention from its infancy, surely the citizens of Raleigh would not have made the sacrifices they have made for its establishment.

Objection is raised to the name,—Baptist Female University. We have heard of children being burdened, as we thought, with a name, but we never heard of one being killed outright for having a name not exactly euphonious. That the name be changed would be more humane. Personally we like the name, Baptist Female University, and would have it retained, but the majority of the trustees are willing to select another name. All are agreed that whatever name it may have, it shall be to the Baptist girls of the State what Wake Forest is to our boys.

Co-education—Wake Forest College opened to the young ladies of the State is another chilly contrivance of recent origen among a few brethren. Dr. Pritchard has been leading in this far off enterprise. It has been a strange thing to us that he did not think of this before making his speech before the Baptist State Convention at its session in 1893, so heartily urging the establishment of the Baptist Female University. Equally strange are his actions in times past, which were calculated to discurage those institutions for the education of young ladies then in our State. There are many things that may do for Bro. Pritchard that will not do for us. It is also strange to us that the discussion of co-education should be a matter of such great importance at this particular time, and when such a thing is so unpopular among the trustees of Wake Forest College. There are thirty-seven trustees of Wake Forest College and of that number we have heard of only two in favor of co education. President Chas. E. Taylor told us that if Wake Forest were opened to young ladies he would not allow his daughter to attend. That Prof. Hobgood should think of offering a resolution to open Wake Forest College to the young ladies of the State, and begin at an early day the discussion of the measure so important to him, at least, is not at all strange, for any one well accquinted with the circumstances in the case understands. With due respect for the advocates of co-education at this particular time we understand what it means—to sidetrack the Baptist Female University if possible.

We offer you this discouragement, that if this work—the establishment of the Baptist Female University—be of God it will succeed. We verily believe that God has men enough with money enough to erect suitable buildings and endow the school so that we can, under God, do a work for the Baptist girls of the State that will live forever.

O. L. STRINGFIELD, Sec.

Gracious Meeting in Whiteville.

Dear Recorder:—Last Sunday I closed a two-weeks meeting in Whiteville. I think it was the best meeting in which I was ever engaged. Although the church has been without a pastor since November last, they seemed ready and anxious for a blessing and entered with great zeal and earnestness into the meeting. The congregations which were large at first, increased until the last. Sunday night the large church was filled to its utmost capacity. Men, who rarely attended church before, were regular in their attendance, and some of them were happily converted. The whole community was mightily moved by the power of the Spirit.

The spirituality of Christian people was greatly quickened, and many who had grown very cold are rejoicing in renewed consecration. Old feuds and misunderstandings were blotted out. It is hard to estimate the number converted. Eight were received into the Baptist church and baptized last Sunday night. I suppose there will be as many more perhaps for both of the other churches. Two years ago an "Irish evangelist" held a "high pressure" meeting in the town, during which meeting a large number "took the preacher by the hand" and joined the several churches. During the recent meeting quite a number of these made professions of religion and declared that they never before knew what a change of heart was. I suppose there were between thirty and forty professions, but God has the exact account.

I do not suppose there was a house in the whole community but felt the influence of the gracious refreshing in some way.

This meeting is a proof of the fact that the plain simple gospel accompanied by the Holy Spirit has power to save.

There was no animal excitement, no outburst of feeling, but a deep, quiet interest on the subject of religion, that swept the whole town with its blessed influence.

Some of the papers seem to have gotten the impression that the meeting was a union meeting. God be praised that it did reach the other churches and they were blessed and benefited by it. The Christian people of the town attended regularly and entered heartily into the work; but it was strictly a Baptist meeting. One of our distinctive principles, regenerated church membership, was insisted upon during the whole meeting, and on Sunday morning just before the door of the church was opened, a sermon was preached on the subject, "What is a New Testament church?" in which was set forth what we as a denomination believe.

I think the day for the modern "union meeting" has about passed and that every church of every denomination would have more satisfactory results if it would hold its own meeting. We appreciated the interest manifested by the members of the other churches, and rejoice that they felt benefited by attending.

The church in Whiteville is composed of as fine material, take it all in all, as any church of its size that I know of anywhere. There is very little, if any, "dead weight," and almost, if not quite, all of the material is available and susceptible of development.

They know just how to treat a visiting brother, and they have the reputation of treating their pastors just that way.

The church has shown its wisdom by calling a well-rounded man who has proven himself to be a "workman that needeth not to be ashamed." The man who is so fortunate as to be called to this church is Bro. J. F. Tuttle, my nearest neighbor in the pastorate. Bro. Tuttle has given up Roberdel church, and the Whiteville church has asked him to give them the spare Sunday. This arrangement is only temporary. The brethren at Whiteville felt that they need and must have a man for at least half his time, and they want him to live with them. The present arrangement is the best that can be made just now. Bro. Tuttle has only one spare Sunday, and most of his work for the year will be in the Pee Dee Association. The Whiteville church has a great work before it. Whiteville is the county-seat of Columbus county. Of course the Baptist church there will exert an influence upon Baptist affairs throughout the county. This scribe is no prophet, but knowing the church and Bro. Tuttle, he predicts a first-class love affair. May Heaven smile upon this union!

My churches in Rockingham and Lilesville gave up a Sunday each that I might labor for souls in Whiteville. I trust that the inspiration I received at the meeting may enable me to do better on my own field, and that my churches may be thus rewarded for the sacrifices they have made.

I was glad Bro. Austin gave an account of the work at Silver Run. He told me of the house that was being erected there; but I had already sent off my notes from the Pee Dee, hence the omission of the good work done there. Bro. Austin is a modest brother and does his work in a quiet way, but he has done some very self-sacrificing labor in the Master's vineyard.

Quite a sensation was created in our home this morning, among both "great and small," on discovering that a good brother had driven into our lot an animal in the shape of a Jersey cow. O, the visions of milk and butter! Fraternally,

L. JOHNSON.

Rockingham, April 19, 1894.

East Indian Opium Antidote.

Persons addicted to the use of opium or morphine should try the above remedy. The principal ingredients composing it have been used with remarkable success in the English Hospitals of China, and prescribed by the most eminent physicians of the day. Trial package by mail securely sealed for $1.00. Send money by registered letter or P. O. money order. L. N. Bembe, Chemist, Sta. 1 Cincinnati, Ohio.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

The Funeral Services of Sister Yates.

There was a very large attendance of foreigners and natives at the new cemetery yesterday afternoon at the funeral of Mrs. Yates. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Seaman were the chief mourners, and the coffin was carried to the grave by Drs. Boone and Fryer, the Revs. W. Muirhead, C. F. Reid, and E. F. Tatum, and Messrs. C. Thorn and W. H. Poate. The Rev. John Stevens, pastor of Union church, conducted the ceremony in the chapel in English, making the following very graceful and impressive address:

We meet to-day under the shadow of a great sorrow, but we are strengthened with a great consolation. Our beloved friend is no more with us, and our sense of loss is deep and painful; but we know that she has entered upon her rest and reward and therein we do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice. There is, happily, no occasion to speak now of what her life was; in the highest and best way it speaks for itself. The presence here of this great throng testifies unmistakably to the affection in which she was held and to the influence which she exerted. Although always markedly quiet and unobtrusive she, throughout her long residence in Shanghai, showed a real and practical interest in all that relates to the well-being of the people, both native and foreign; and there are few among us who have not in some way been blessed through her words or deeds. As we take up the body to bury it, let us remind ourselves that we burry nothing but the body. She has gained for herself a part in the "choir invisible," an immortality of holy influence. But beyond that, and in addition to it, she has "entered into the joy of her Lord." Christ has brought life and immortality to light in the gospel." She will not return to us, but through the grace of him, whose she was and whom she served, we may go to her. The glorious springtime is whispering to our hearts today its blessed message of hope and cheer. Where, awhile ago, we saw only bareness and death, are now see signs of newly given life and beauty. These things are a parable of the great truth of the resurrection. "I am the resurrection and the life" is the work of him who triumphed over death and the grave. Therefore faith may say, in the language of one of the early saints, as the body of our friend is committed to the grave

"Receive it earth, into thine harbouring shrine,
In thy soft tranquil bosom let it rest;
This human form we to thy care resign,
And trust the noble fragments to thy breast.

This house was once the mansion of a soul,
Brought into life by its Creator's breath,
Wisdom did once this living mass control,
And Christ was there enshrined, who conquered death.

Cover this body, to thy care resigned,
Its Maker shall not leave it in the grave;
But His own lineaments shall bear in mind,
And shall recall the image which He gave."

The services at the grave was conducted in Chinese by the Ven. Archdeacon Thomson, two appropriate hymns being sung in Chinese by the large company that had come together to see the last of their old and dearly-valued friend.—North China Daily News, March 27.

The announcement in another column of the death on Saturday at the age of seventy-two of Mrs. E. M. Yates will be read with the deepest regret. Mrs. Yates came to Shanghai with her husband the Rev. M. T. Yates to found the Southern Baptist Mission here in 1847, and has been identified with Shanghai ever since. She was a lady who made herself beloved by all who came in contact with her, Chinese or foreign; who devoted herself to good works; and whose memory will be green here for many tens of years.—Editorial in North China News, March 26.

From Salisbury, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—Doubtless you and all the Baptist host of the State will be gratified to know that our work is progressing finely at this point. It has been by hard and faithful effort that the cause has been established here, but it is now a source of the greatest joy and encouragement to know that we have splendid church property and a constantly increasing membership.

Our work is not on the sensational or spasmodic order, but with wisdom and prudence we are trying to build upon the simple gospel truths as taught by the Divine Master himself.

We are sometimes imposed upon, as other churches are, by bad people, but it is our constant prayer that God may so guard the door of his church that none but the regenerated shall enter.

Sunday, April 22d, was especially a day of joy and interest to our hearts. It was our pleasure to have with us that eminent scholar and Christian gentleman, Dr. Thomas Hume of the State University, who preached for us morning and night. It is the universal testimony that two finer sermons have never been delivered in our city. This was the second visit among us of late, and he has completely won the hearts of the people of Salisbury regardless of religious differences, yet he shows himself to be a Baptist of the true old type. In addition to these excellent sermons, we had ten good, substantial persons to join our church on the same day. "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

N. S. JONES.

Salisbury, N. C.

If you feel weak and all worn out take BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

F. J. Stimson writes a brief essay in Scribner's Magazine for May on "The Ethics of Democracy" with particular application to liberty—an essay that is of unusual significance at the present time when socialistic laws are so much discussed. Mr. Stimson has classified the laws of this kind which have been recently added to the statutes of various States.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

to an object so sacred and all important as the education of the people, are capable of covering the object itself with ignominy, through an indiscreet and persevering connection of it with loans and taxes to which our established feelings are in revolting and irreconcilable aversion."

And the men of Caldwell's day were not entirely responsible. They had inherited their opinions from the Colonial era. So far as the South was dominated by the old Cavalier influence, there was little sympathy with public schools. "In the early colonial days, when the English Commissioners asked for information on the subject of education from the governor of Virginia and Connecticut, the former replied: 'I thank God there are no free schools or printing presses, and I hope we shall not have any these hundred years;' and the latter, 'One fourth of the annual revenue of the colony is laid out in maintaining free schools for the education of our children.'" (Quoted by Bryce, Amer. Commonwealth, Vol. 1, p. 588.)

There are people in North Carolina to-day who are ignorant, as their fathers were before them, because of the petty political struggles and the little personal ambitions of those long by-gone years. The highest interests of the masses of the people, as we can see now, were lost sight of or ignored. One can hardly help imagining how differently the whole history of the country might have been written if, all over the South, for the last hundred years, as much attention had been given to educating the people up from the bottom as has been given to education from the top downwards.

We invite immigration to our State. We need not expect to succeed until we are more able to compete with other States in the opportunities offered for the instruction of the children of the immigrant. A skilled mechanic from the North who left North Carolina after several months residence told the writer that his only reason for returning was that he was disappointed in the common school education offered to his children here. Had he remained he would doubtless have been a valuable citizen. And not only will the immigrant decline to accept our invitation, though we establish bureaus, and make exhibition of our resources, but we shall not be able to put a stop to that leakage by emigration which will continue to add to the wealth and productive power of other States which it subtracts from our own. Many of the most enterprising and useful citizens of other States were born in North Carolina, or their parents were. There can be little question that many of these would still be citizens of North Carolina if better facilities had been offered for primary education.

In "Industrial Education in the South," published by the Bureau of Education, Washington, in 1888, on page 16, Dr. A. D. Mayo says: "The bottom question in Southern life is neither political in the partizan or economic sense, nor social, even including the race question, half as much as it is the educational question, in the broadest sense of the term. First, the training of the masses of both races in that elementary common school in knowledge, discipline, and the general awakening of mind which has been the largest factor in the development of the North, and the foundation of the present power of Germany, is now the hope of liberalism in Great Britain, the promise of the future in France and Italy and Austria, and the mighty agency which within a short generation, has wheeled Japan into the line of civilized nations. With all forbearance and personal respect for people of every sort who now stand in the way of the effective common-schooling of the Southern masses, it must be said that the best friend of that section is the portion of the educational American public that is pushing forward the movement to plant a good district school for six months in the year everywhere in the open country, and a good graded school for eight or nine months, with opportunity for training teachers, in every village of these sixteen States."

(To be continued.)

Which?

Reader, there are two ways of beginning the day—with prayer or without it. You begin the day in one of these two ways. Which?

There are two ways of spending the Sabbath—idly or devotionally. You spend the Sabbath in one of these two ways. Which?

There are two classes of people in the world—the righteous and the wicked. You belong to one of these two classes. Which?

There are two great rulers in the universe—God and Satan. You are serving under one of these great rulers. Which?

There are two roads which lead through time to eternity—the broad and the narrow road. You are walking in one of these two roads. Which?

There are two deaths which people die—some "die in the Lord," others die in their sins. You will die one of these two deaths. Which?

There are two places to which people go—heaven and hell. You will go to one of these two places. Which?

Ponder these questions; pray over them; and may the issue be your salvation from "the wrath to come."—Parish Visitor.

Proud of His Business Co-Workers.

"Yes, I am real proud of the splendid body of men and women we have to represent us in the various parts of the country; many of them are among the best men and women that ever walked the sod, and we wish to employ a few more." This is the explanation that Mr. B. F. Johnson of the firm B. F. Johnson & Co., Richmond, Va., gives of their advertisement.

Conscience is a great ledger book in which all our offenses are written and registered, and which time reveals in the sense and feeling of the offender.—Burton.

From Shanghai, China.

Dear Recorder:—I have not yet told you how that Presbyterian brother prayed for us (Southern Baptists), have I? It was on the occasion of our annual mission meeting held this year at Bro. Britton's house in Soochow. On Sunday afternoon in connection with a preaching service, this brother was requested to lead in prayer. In the course of his prayer, he asked that Brother and Sister Britton, who had been alone in Soochow so long, might have other workers come to be associated with them. In my heart I felt a large amen to that petition. With said petition the brother's mind and heart seemed to go out in our behalf as a denomination. He grew earnest as he besought the Lord that we might be aroused to a sense of our ability and responsibility in the matter of giving the gospel to the heathen. I wanted to say "Amen," but I could not. Without a justifiable reason, perhaps, I was ashamed. A short time previous to that, I had been reading of the "coolest" thing a Presbyterian had been known to do. As I remember, he had put down the number of North Carolina Baptists at one hundred and seventeen thousand, whereas it should have been two hundred and seventy thousand, I believe. The statement was ridiculed as displaying wilful inaccuracy on the one hand or inexcusable ignorance on the other. Nor have I forgotten that some years ago, after some annual gathering of the Presbyterians, it was significantly handed around among us that they claimed to have gained one in the State during the year.

What was it that confused me as this brother took us to the Lord in prayer? It was the thought of how little we, the misrepresented hosts, had done compared with this small despised tribe of Presbyterians. They just kept sending missionaries here last fall till the number was not far short, if any, of twenty. What did we do? Two missionaries came during the summer and went to North China. What about the fall? I had a request from the Secretary of our Board, and from a brother that I should meet him and his wife at the ship landing in Shanghai on or about a given date. Our place is off among the Chinese about one and a half miles from the wharf. Meeting friends often means waiting for hours at the wharf. Ships are subject to wind and tide. Steamers are influenced by them. At the appointed time I went to meet my friends, but they did not come. We were left to hope they would come by the next steamer, but no. Nor by the next, nor by the next. Did they ever come? Yes, the thirteenth time we went we had the very great pleasure of bringing our friends, who were for North China, back with us. And, if it is the best that can be done, I am ready to go thirteen times for some more. What was it that detained these friends? Times were hard. The financial condition of the Board did not justify their being sent at the time first appointed. How could the Presbyterians send missionaries here by the score? Two on the field have been added to our Tung Chow mission lately, and three returned with Bro. Herring last fall for the Gospel Mission. We are thankful for all these, but with them all they fall far short of twenty. Brethren, think on these things.

But we must not spend too much time in thinking of what we have not done in the past. Nor must the fear that the Presbyterians will excel us, be the motive that moves us. Let us "fear God and do good." Let us hope the Lord will raise up a goodly number for China and give us the opportunity of sending them out after a few months.

Not long since it was stated in the Foreign Mission Journal that Bro. R. T. Bryan desired to have a party of twenty to reinforce our present stations and open new ones, return with him to China next fall. The Secretary of our Board spoke of Bro. Bryan as being enthusiastic for asking for such a large number, admitting that he admired the enthusiasm. If by saying he is enthusiastic, it is implied that Bro. Bryan is asking an impossibility, I beg to submit that he ought not to be considered enthusiastic. Later he wrote me that he hoped that twenty-five would be sent to China next fall. This does not seem enthusiastic to one on the field. For if we remember our great numbers, or if we look at what other Christian bodies are doing, or if we consider what the Master has done for us, we are compelled to admit that we have not done much for China yet. Now lets begin in time. What can each church, missionary society, Sunday-school, individual do to help send these twenty-five new missionaries to China—never forgetting the regular work in hand? Suppose it takes two hundred and fifty dollars to send one, then six thousand two hundred and fifty dollars would be needed to send the entire party to the field. Can't you send or help send a man? Let the brotherhood make up the company. Please do not leave it for Bro. Bryan to do. The last I heard from him he had been sick with his old trouble from overwork. For this reason, I ask you to make up the company and let him rest this summer.

At the last may it be said of us, "They did what they could." I am afraid it could not be said of us now.

Fraternally yours, E. F. TATUM.
Shanghai, China, March 16, 1894.

Faith is not sight, but faith can be seen. The man who walks by faith cannot see what is before him, but those who see him can see that he is walking by faith. Faith which has any reality in it can be seen with the naked eye, by watches of the walker. A faith-filled man does not ask to see, but he is sure to be seen as a faith-filled man.—Sunday School Times.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

Is vitalizing in its effect on the nervous system.

The good have trials as well as others.

Baptist Young People's Societies.

Bro. Bailey:—In the RECORDER of the 18th ult., I find an article by some one whose signature is "Philogenet" (I don't know the meaning of the word), about Baptist young people's societies in our Baptist churches. He (or she) evidently believes that we should have them.

I have been watching what the brethren have had to say about such societies. There is evidently no Scripture for them. There is just as much Scripture for them as there is for the Episcopal form of church government. We find no intimation in the New Testament that Christ and his Apostles organized young people's societies or old people's societies in the churches mentioned in the New Testament. Why not? Evidently because they were not needed. But Philogenet says, "They are helps." Helps to do what? Helps to raise money? It is certainly a bad day for our churches when we need these cat's-paw societies to pull money out of people's pockets to send the gospel to the heathen.

The idea of some of our brethren appears to be that our young people should not be turned loose in the church with the old people, but we need a nice little new pen in the old church to put our young bloods in. Of course, when Christ was here and young people were saved, they were not so "artistic" and "tasty" as they are now. Then the young convert could sit side by side with the old folks, and together pray, give and exhort. But now times are different, and we need a young people's prayer meeting where the prayers are on the "hop, jump and skip" order.

I was present at a Baptist Convention last summer where the B. Y. P. societies met in a big convention with banners of silk and badges of gold, and one stated that if any of the old people did not want to attend the young people's meeting to go and drown themselves in the sea. That was certainly refreshing when none of those dear young people had been in the Convention. The old men met and talked, and wept, and prayed about the Master's work; but the young people met for boast and show. They evidently felt like they had no place among the old folks. In part, they speak of them as "fogies," "out of date," "back numbers," and other like talk.

My observation is, that those young people's societies educate the young people away from the true Scriptural idea of church work. I like the old Scriptural idea that the church is the Christian's home, whether young or old. If Pedobaptists need such societies, let them have them: they are in the society business—can't get along without them; but as for Baptists, I think they should adhere to the old way,—that is, that the church is a society of heaven-born people. Some of my brethren may think I am a "back number," but I have written what I think. With love to my brethren I write this. May the Lord direct us in all things for his glory. E. F. JONES.

Gastonia, N. C.

Hall's Hair Renewer is pronounced the best preparation made for thickening the growth of the hair and restoring that which is gray to its original color.

Where Was the Convention Organized?

Some months ago, in an article published in the RECORDER, Dr. T. E. Skinner was given as authority for saying that the Convention was organized in the private residence of a Bro. Gorham, in Greenville, Pitt county. Dr. Durham stated that the minutes of that memorable meeting said distinctly that the organization took place in the Greenville Academy, while Dr. Marsh quoted Dr. Wait as authority for the statement that it was organized in the barn of Bro. Gorham.

I wrote the sketch in Cathcart's Baptist Encyclopedia from which Dr. Marsh gets his statement, as well as every other notice of North Carolinians in that book of which there are, as well as I remember, about eighty-three, and I took the statement from the journal of Dr. Wait, now in the possession of his daughter, Mrs. John B. Brewer of Wake Forest College, and I have no question as to the truth of the statement.

Of the three places claimed for this distinguished honor, a barn is the most singular, and any expert in the sifting of evidence would tell you that that was the very spot, in all probability, where the Convention first met. It may have been that both statements are correct in a sense—that is, that the first meeting was held in the barn and the after sessions in the Academy.

It is a matter of very small moment, and I only refer to it to assume whatever responsibility may belong to me for making the statement in the sketch of Dr. Wait.

T. H. PRITCHARD.

Chowan Association.

This body meets with Shady Grove church, May 22d—24th. To reach it by rail, go on the Norfolk and Southern road to Moyock. There the people will be met and conveyed to the church which is some three miles from the station. Persons can leave Raleigh via Seaboard line in the morning and reach Moyock at 5 p. m.

Rev. Josiah Elliott will preach the introductory sermon.

E. F. AYDLETT, Moderator.
N. P. STALLINGS, Secretary.

Happy is he who has a friend. When others criticise harshly, your friend says: "Wait, there is some mistake, I know that the purpose of his heart is right." Such a friend is like gold when the paper currency of casual acquaintance proves worthless.—L. C. Randolph.

The King's highway runs by your own door: be sure that the road there is smooth

Nearly two-thirds of the population of the world are ruled by Christian governments. Considerably more than two-thirds of the population of the people of the earth also are under the rule of six governments, five of which are Christian. The Emperor of China bears away over 405,000,000, the largest number of people under any one government in the world; but after this comes in order the Queen of England, ruling 380,000,000; the Czar of Russia, ruling 115,000,000; the French Republic, with 77,000,000; the United States of America, with 65,000,000; and the Emperor of Germany, with 55,000,000; so that the indirect influence of Christianity is powerfully affecting the destinies of by far the largest proportion of the people of the world.—Ram's Horn.

There are no times in life when opportunity, the chance to be and to do, gathers so richly about the soul as when it has to suffer. Then everything depends upon whether the man turns to the lower or the higher helps. . . . . If he turns to God, the hour of suffering is the turning hour of his life.—Phillips Brooks.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell, J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Hufham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs, Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

Taste

has lost lives. In former years people wouldn't take Cod-liver Oil on account of its bad taste. Now we have the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, which is palatable and easier on the digestive organs than plain oil, besides being more effective. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Scott's Emulsion

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

"In 1868, my affianced was nearly bald, and the hair kept falling out every day. I induced her to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarrun, Bastrop, Tex.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson	1 55 a m	11 23 p m
Leave Selma	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence	7 05 a m	3 27 p m

	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson	2 05 p m	6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro	3 00 p m	7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia	4 13 p m	8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington	5 50 p m	10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson	11 18 p m	1 05 a m

	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington	9 00 a m	7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia	10 40 a m	8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro	12 00 a m	9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson	12 45 a m	10 35 p m

	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon	12 56 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.30 a m, Greenville 8.22 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 a m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 11.00 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 1.00 p m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

The Divine Organization Sufficient.

BY S. M. BROWN.

I may be permitted to add one or two other observations to what I said in a former article entitled "The church a good Society."

The causes which have led to the extra scriptural—if not unscriptural—organizations of this generation. I say this generation; for, whatever may be said in favor of these separate organizations for women and young people, they are of recent origin. The future church historian will certainly record their beginnings in the latter half of the nineteenth century.

I have no doubt but that the cause, at least in part, for the appearance of these organizations in our time is to be found in a misapprehension on the part of the Lord's people as to the importance of the work of our sisters and our young people. These organizations have arisen very much as the modern Sunday-school did. The churches had neglected the work of teaching God's Word, and as the blood rushes from other parts of the body to repair the damage of a broken limb, so the efforts of the Lord's people were concentrated upon the teaching department of the church's work, and consequently that department came to be thought of—an account of the special emphasis placed upon it—as demanding some special organization to push it forward. This notion of a Sunday-school work separate from the churches has led to the "union" efforts along this line of work—to the inauguration of Union, State, National and International Conventions. Different denominations of Christians do not, however, unite in sending forth preachers or missionaries to preach the gospel, for the reason that the preaching work of the churches has not been separated from the church as an organization as has her work of teaching.

Now I think this separation, this setting off to itself the teaching work of the churches has worked great harm. While the Sunday-school has accomplished much good, I maintain it would have accomplished far more good had it always been regarded as one of the services of the church,—a service into which the old and the young together—as I said before—to each study and exalt the Word of God. Such a view of Sunday-schools as I have set forth would relieve the Sunday-school of the most grievous charge which is now made against it, viz., that it trains our children up into the habit of going away from the regular preaching service. The Rev. Josiah Strong, D. D., the author of the wonderful book entitled "Our Country," in his later work entitled "The New Era" says: "The Sunday-school, notwithstanding all the good it has done and is doing, by being considered the "children's church" has interfered with the formation of church going habits on the part of children, and so has eventually contributed not a few to the non-church-going class." And again, the same writer says: "So far as the Sunday-school is made a substitute for the church, its influence is mischievous instead of beneficial. Usually the habit of attending church is formed in childhood if at all. Multitudes of youth "graduate" from the Sunday school every year, and most of them who have not already established the habit of church attendance drops into the great non church-going class. That class contains few who attended church regularly in childhood, but many who were once Sunday-School scholars."

A second cause for this state of things is in the modern craze for organization. The individual is being lost in the corporation. Every class of labor and profession is organized. In many instances it is, as they say, for self-protection, but it shows itself most generally in organized selfishness called "boycotting."

A third cause is in a sentiment (which is to my mind to bring disaster), viz, acquiescence in the leadership of the young (young America).

A fourth cause is in an unprofitable rivalry between different ages and sex, and a fifth is in a seeming desire for the world's livery to serve God in, to wit, "rallies," "mammoth conventions," "display of banners," "labeled trains," "salutes," &c. "He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets." Matt. 12:19. "Not by might nor by power," &c. Zeck. 4:6.

It may be claimed that our missionary organizations are not unlike these proposed organization of the young people and the sisters, that they are independent of the churches. So they are in many instances. The same reasons which led to the organization of Sunday-school conventions, &c., have led to the formation of these missionary societies. And I will venture to say, that so far as they are independent of the churches, they will finally prove disasterous. Or further, in so far as they represent only classes, or one sex, they will prove disastrous. The New Testament churches united in mission and benevolent work. Now I am in favor of organized mission work—of the co operation of the churches after the New Testament example. See 1 Cor. 16:1-4; 2 Cor. 8th chapter.

Here we have the churches united in a work of benevolence and sending their offerings through a Board of chosen messengers. But who will give a single example of the young people of the churches, or the women of the churches thus uniting in co-operative work? Our Associations, our State Conventions, our Southern Baptist Convention ought to be thoroughly and only representative of the churches, and amenable to them. If our missionary bodies are not such we will find trouble until we make them such.

Finally—what shall we do? Why, let the whole church come together and make the Sunday-school a great training school for old and young, and if that meeting is not sufficient, let us have a week-night meeting where the young and the old, the men and the women, meet together for the training of the young members—for the study of missions. Let the young have the benefit of the experience and piety of the old—and the old the benefit of the warm zeal and enthusiasm and courage of the young. And let the women be guided by the sober judgment of their husbands, and let the men be warmed and charmed by the sweet, tender, devoted hearts of our noble godly women. Let our sisters who have more time for such work prepare papers on missions to be read by their husbands to the whole school, and "What God hath joined together let not man put asunder."

Of course "train the young"—but why set them off to themselves to train them? God placed them under the care of their parents together in the family, and made parents responsible for their training. Let them go to church together, and belong to the church together—when the children are saved, and ere that time who is better fitted to bring the gospel home to their hearts than their Christian fathers and mothers and the dear old Christian men and women of the churches.

Now we all admit that the church as an organization is for all this. Shall we not try to make the church the ideal New Testament church, and then take the united strength of the entire membership, old and young, male and female into our district associations, our State Convention, our Southern Baptist Convention which we propose to make thoroughly representative of the entire membership of the churches? Or shall we break up into organizations of women, men, young people and whatnot, with extra unscriptural machinery, a printed organ of every faction weakening our State Baptist papers, &c., &c.? That is the question.

Kansas City, Mo., April 9, 1894.

"Sweeping Judgment."

In early ages the whole of North Africa, from the Red Sea on the east to the Pillars of Hercules on the west, was mainly Christian. Here lived Clemens and Tertullian, Origen, Cyprian, and Augustine—men mighty in faith and love who, being dead, yet speak. Here were flourishing churches, and here the truth seemed established beyond all the vicissitudes of time. To-day all this is changed: North Africa is now Mohammedan; the crescent is now waving where the cross once stood, and all Christianity—"save an oppressed remnant"—is gone.

The question cannot but present itself: Why was this sweeping judgment allowed? No answer can be given except that the church of North Africa had lost her first love, and had ceased to let her light shine. Careless of the great commission of her Lord, she had ceased to be missionary, and so provoked his indignation that at last he utterly removed her candlestick and submerged all her glory beneath the wave of Saracenic woe. And he who did all this still walks amid the golden candlesticks, and still tries the children."—Canadian Church Missionary Magazine.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

The Baptist Teacher for May, 1894, contains first-class matter and it would be difficult to put more within the same compass. The editorials are in Dr. Henson's best vein, especially that on "Ballooning and Building." Contributed articles entitled "The Treasure Cities of Egypt," "The Training of Moses," "Egyptian Burials," bear especially on the lessons of the month. The names of President H. L. Stetson, Dr. Lemuel Moss and Dr. Nathan S. Wood guarantee the quality of the work without further testimony, while of the other contributed article "The Neglected Sister", is treated as only Boston W. Smith, "Uncle Boston," can deal with it. It might be worth the while of some to find out who this neglected sister may be. Dr. Grenel, Mrs. Kennedy, Mr. Fennell and Miss Dimock make a strong quartette on the lessons of the quarter, each carrying his own part and carrying it well. Dr. Blacall, on whom the work of preparing this monthly mainly falls, is making it so good that no Baptist teacher can afford to be without it. Its cheapness, moreover, puts it within the reach of all. It is issued by the American Baptist Publication Society at fifty cents per annum in clubs of five or more copies.

Fan your zeal, but not your temper.

Prof. Arthur S. Hoyt of Auburn, N. Y., opens the Review Section of the Homiletic Review for April with a practical discussion of the theme "Reality in Pulpit Speech." The article deserves to be well considered by preachers, suggesting, as it does, one of the dangers that threatens the pulpit of to-day, and one of the causes which has occasioned its partial loss of influence. Dr. Arthur J. Brown of Portland, Oregon, writes instructively upon "The Homiletic Value of Historical Study." "Isaac Watts, the Founder of English Hymnody," is the subject of a comprehensive paper by Rev. James H. Ross of East Somerville, Mass.; while Dr. Wayland Hoyt of Minneapolis closes his eloquent treatment of the suggestive theme, "The Person of Christ." The various evangelical denominations are well represented in the Sermonic Section by eminent names which are a guarantee of interest and profit. "Light on Scriptural Truths from Recent Science and History" is furnished by Rev. George V. Reichel, a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, whose illustrations are worthy of careful study. Dr. Anson P. Atterbury of New York City, writes on "Mohammedanism in Africa," a Study in Comparative Religion. "How to Conduct a Revival," is the subject of an interview with Rev. Henry M. Wharton, in the Miscellaneous Section; and Rev. D. Sutherland tells of the work and trials of "The Highland Minister."

Published monthly by Funk & Wagnalls Company, 18 and 20 Astor Place, New York, at $3.00 per year.

The groves were God's first temples. Ere man learned
To hew the shaft, and lay the architrave,
And spread the roof above them—ere he framed
The lofty vault, to gather and roll back
The sound of anthems; in the darkling wood,
Amidst the cool and silence, he knelt down;
And offered to the Mightiest solemn thanks
And supplication.

—William Cullen Bryant.

If thou expect death as a friend, prepare to entertain him; if thou expect death as an enemy, prepare to overcome him; death has no advantage but when he comes a stranger.—Quarles.

The Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister. It is the great example; it is the law of the highest life. He who would be great must serve. He rises highest who does most to lift others.—Standard.

Our daily life should be sanctified by doing common things in a religious way. There is no action so slight or so humble but that it may be done to a great purpose, and ennobled thereby.—George Macdonald.

Remember that we have no more faith at any time than we have in the hour of trial. All that will not bear to be tested is mere carnal confidence. Fair weather is no faith. —Spurgeon.

Japanese Pile Cure is an unfailing cure for every kind and stage of the disease. Guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Wisdom says: "Honesty is the best policy." Virtue says: "I do not care whether it is the best policy or not; it is right, and therefore I will be honest."—Lyman Abbott.

The dews and rich showers of God's grace slide on the mountains of pride, and fall on low valleys of humble hearts and make them pleasant and fertile.—Leighton.

Johnson's Oriental Soap imparts a delicate odor and leaves the skin soft and velvety. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

It does not require great learning to be a Christian, and to be convinced of the truth of the Bible. It requires an honest heart and a willingness to obey God.—A. Barnes.

The thoroughly great men are those who have done everything thoroughly, and who have never despised anything, however small, of God's making.—Russell.

O power to do! O baffled will!
O prayer and action! ye are one
Who may not strive, may yet fulfill
The harder task of standing still,
And good but wished with God is done!

I wonder why it is we are not all kinder than we are. How easily it is done. How instantaneously it acts. How infallibly it is remembered.—Drummond.

The gate of heaven is love. There is no other. When generous act blooms from unselfish thought the Lord is with us, though we know it not.—Lucy Larcom.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cuticura

Works Wonders
In Curing
Torturing Disfiguring
Skin Diseases

Sold throughout the world. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Proprietors, Boston.

VITAL TO MANHOOD.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain, causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses, Involuntary Losses, Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of brain, Self-abuse, over-Indulgence. A month's treatment, $1, 6 for $5, by mail. With each order for 6 boxes, with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantee issued by agent. WEST'S LIVER PILLS cures Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Constipation.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MACRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 55 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	+6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	5 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 36 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 30 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 03 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	3 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 30 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a. m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m	....	....
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m	....	....
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m	....	....
Lv Fay'ville Junc	10 30 a m	....	....
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m	....	....
Lv Climax	1 43 p m	....	....
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m	....	....
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m	....	....
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m	....	....
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m	....	....
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m	....	....
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m	....	....
Ar Mt Airy	5 25 p m	....	....
Lv Bennettsville	....	6 25 a m	....
Lv Maxton	....	7 37 a m	....
Lv Red Springs	....	8 17 a m	....
Lv Hope Mills	....	9 12 a m	....
Ar Fayetteville	....	9 35 a m	....
Lv Ramseur	....	....	6 50 a m
Lv Climax	....	....	8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro	....	....	9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro	....	....	9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale	....	....	11 00 a m
Ar Madison	....	....	11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m	....	....
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m	....	....
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m	....	....
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m	....	....
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m	....	....
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m	....	....
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m	....	....
Lv Climax	1 27 p m	....	....
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m	....	....
Ar Fay'ville Junc	4 25 p m	....	....
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m	....	....
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m	....	....
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m	....	....
Lv Fayetteville	....	4 50 p m	....
Lv Hope Mills	....	5 13 p m	....
Lv Red Springs	....	6 06 p m	....
Lv Maxton	....	6 47 p m	....
Ar Bennettsville	....	8 00 p m	....
Lv Madison	....	....	12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale	....	....	1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro	....	....	2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro	....	....	3 00 p m
Lv Climax	....	....	3 55 p m
Ar Ramseur	....	....	5 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. E. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect January 28, 1894.

No. 127*	ATLANTA SPECIAL.		No. 134*.
*8 45 p m	Lv	Norfolk (via S A L) Ar	*11 45 a m
8 35 p m	Lv	Portsmouth Ar	11 35 a m
9 54 p m	Lv	Suffolk Lv	11 04 a m
10 30 p m	Lv	Franklin Lv	10 30 a m
10 58 p m	Lv	Boykins Lv	10 08 a m
11 20 p m	Ar	Weldon Lv	*9 25 a m
11 30 p m	Lv	Weldon Ar	9 00 a m
12 50 a m	Ar	Henderson Lv	7 39 a m
2 05 a m	Ar	Raleigh Lv	6 30 a m
2 20 a m	Lv	Raleigh Ar	6 15 a m
3 40 a m	Lv	Sanford Lv	5 10 a m
4 23 a m	Lv	Southern Pines Lv	4 20 a m
5 20 a m	Ar	Hamlet Lv	3 25 a m
5 43 a m	Lv	Rockingham Lv	3 15 a m
6 20 a m	Lv	Wadesboro Lv	2 42 a m
7 15 a m	Ar	Monroe Lv	2 00 a m
8 40 a m	Ar	Charlotte *Lv	9 15 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.		No. 38.
*8 30 p m	Lv	New York (PRR) Ar	6 53 a m
11 33 a m	Lv	Philadelphia Ar	3 45 a m
2 20 a m	Lv	Baltimore Ar	12 49 a m
4 00 a m	Lv	Washington Ar	11 10 p m
8 25 a m	Lv	Richmond (A C Line) Ar	6 50 p m
9 25 a m	Lv	Petersburg " Ar	5 30 p m
11 27 a m	Ar	Weldon " Lv	*3 37 p m
*8 00 p m	Lv	New York (PRR) Ar	7 45 a m
9 10 a m	Ar	Portsmouth Lv	*5 55 p m
†2 10 p m	Lv	New York (P R R) Ar	1 23 p m
7 00 p m	Lv	Baltimore (Bay Line) Ar	7 00 a m
8 30 a m		Portsmouth " Lv	†6 00 p m
*7 00 p m	Lv	Washington, N & W S S Co Ar	6 30 am
8 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth Lv	5 50 p m
†9 00 a m	Lv	Norfolk, via S A L Ar	†6 00 p m
9 15 a m	Lv	Portsmouth " Ar	5 50 p m
9 54 a m	Lv	Suffolk " Ar	5 14 p m
10 58 a m	Lv	Boykins " Ar	4 06 p m
†11 43 a m	Ar	Weldon " Lv	†3 23 p m
†11 54 a m	Lv	Weldon " Ar	3 10 p m
2 09 p m	Lv	D Henderson " D Lv	†1 14 p m
‡4 07 p m	Ar	Durham " Lv	†10 50 a m
†3 50 p m	Ar	Raleigh " Lv	†11 35 a m

No 43.			No 35.
†10 15 a m	Lv	Raleigh Ar	†6 00 p m
1 43 a m	Lv	Sanford Ar	4 30 p m
12 43 p m	Lv	Southern Pines Ar	3 35 p m
1 45 p m D	Ar	Hamlet D Lv	2 35 p m
12 25 p m	Ar	Rockingham Lv	3 01 p m
3 02 p m	Ar	Wadesboro Lv	1 25 p m
3 57 p m	Ar	Monroe Lv	12 30 p m
4 45 p m	Ar	Charlotte Lv	11 40 a m
3 06 p m	Ar	Laurinburg Lv	1 07 p m
3 29 p m	Ar	Maxton Lv	12 58 p m
6 25 p m	Ar	Wilmington Lv	10 00 a m
2 30 p m	Lv	Hamlet Ar	1 47 p m
2 57 p m	Ar	Gibson Ar	1 20 p m
3 21 p m	Ar	Bennettsville Lv	12 56 p m
4 12 p m		Darlington Lv	12 03 p m
5 27 p m		Sumter Lv	10 47 a m
8 45 p m		Charleston Lv	7 30 a m

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

No 127 and No 134 "Atlanta Special" are solid Pullman Vestibule trains, composed of elegant day coaches and palace Buffet Sleepers, without change between Washington and Atlanta. No extra fare. Connects at Washington with Congressional Limited for New York, and at Atlanta for all points South and Southwest.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, etc., apply to Ticket Agent, or S. J. Coors, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

JNO. C WINDER, Gen. Man.
U. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
T. J. ANDERSON, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Southern Baptist Convention.

This body meets in Dallas, Texas, commencing May 11th, 1894.

Delegates and visitors are notified, that they must send in their names by May 1st to Bro. C. L. Seasholes, Dallas, Texas, or they will have difficulty in securing entertainment. Assignments to homes and hotels will be made by mail. After 4 p. m. Friday, May 11th, all assignments to homes and hotels not taken will be forfeited. No delegate will be provided for after May 6th—positively, so send in your names at once. If a delegate, after an assignment to a home, decides not to go, he is requested to inform Bro. Seasholes of such decision. Hotel rates are from $1.00 to $2 50 per day according to hotel selected, and whether you have one or more up to four and six in a room Boarding house charges are from 60 cents to $1.00 per day. Great preparations are being made for the entertainment of the Convention by all classes and conditions of the citizens of Dallas, and all are assured of a cordial reception; but don't forget the statements and directions of Bro. Seasholes.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THE BOARD.

The Board of Missions and Sunday-schools have appointed the following named delegates to this Convention:

C. E. Taylor, W. R. Gwaltney, Rufus Ford, C. W. Blanchard, T. H. Pritchard, R. H. Jordan, J. S Hardaway, J. L. Carroll, C. Durham, J. C. Scarboro, J. A. Mundy, T. J. Taylor, J. B. Richardson, C. A. G. Thomas, G. M. Webb, J. H. Edwards, M. M. Edwards, O L. Stringfield, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, N. B. Cobb, J. D. Boushall, R. M. Johnson, J. C. Caddell, C. C. Haymore, H. A. Brown, J. C. Walker, J. Q. Adams, G. P. Hamrick, N. S. Jones, C. A. Woodson, W. B. Morton, R Van Deventer, R. T. Vann, J. A. Smith, J. N. Page, J. L. Memory, C. S. Blackwell, Martin Simpson, A. M. Simms, H. T. Chapin, L. M. Curtis, M. A. Adams, S. F. Conrad, J. B. Boone, G. M. Hackler, J. H. Morrisette, A. W. Early, O. J. Carroll, R. H. Moore, J. H. Austin, J. D. Hufham, G. M. Duke, J. T. J. Battle, W. P. Covington, C. C. Curlee, W. T. Faircloth, C. H Holland, C. J. Parker.

Others desiring to attend the Convention will be appointed on application to the Board.

DELEGATES APPOINTED BY THEIR ASSOCIATION.

Alexander, J. A. White; Atlantic, C. A. Jenkins; Caldwell, H. M. Croom; Central, J. W. Carter; Chowan, A. W. Burfoot; French Broad, T. M. Honneycutt; Green River, C. B. Justice; Mt. Zion, Thos. Hume; Pee Dee, M. L. Kesler; Raleigh, N. B. Broughton; Robeson, F. H. Martin; Sandy Creek, J. M. Griffin; Sandy Run, J. T. Alexander; South Yadkin, Jacob Stewart.

A ROUTE TO DALLAS COMMENDED.

After carefully considering the various lines with a view to securing the best possible route to our next annual Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, 1894, we have determined to use the following lines:

Richmond & Danville to Birmingham, Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham to Memphis, the Cotton Belt to Greenville, Texas, M. K & T. to Dallas.

There is no "Official Route" for delegates to this Convention, statements of railroad agents and others to the contrary notwithstanding. This route via Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, (The Cotton Belt), Texarkana and Greenville, with its double daily through train service to and from Dallas, affords superior facilities for handling our people.

The Maryland and District of Columbia delegations will leave Washington May 7th, via Richmond & Danville R R Vestibule Limited, at 10:48 p. m. and be joined at the various points below by delegates from Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia.

The following will be the schedule of this vestibule train, round trip rate:

Leave Washington, R. & D. R. R. 10:43 p. m. May 7, $38 30; Charlottesville 1:55 a. m. May 8, 36.80; Lynchburg 3:43 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Richmond 12:50 a. m. May 8, 37.30; Danville 5:40 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Raleigh 1 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Goldsboro 6:54 a. m. May 8, 36 30; Salisbury 8:13 a. m. May 8, 35.10; Charlotte 9:35 a. m. May 8, 33 65; Spartanburg 11:37 a. m. May 8, 31 10; Greenville 12:28 p. m. May 8, 30 00; Gainesville 3:29 p. m. May 8, 26 50; arrive at Atlanta 3:55 p. m. May 8, 24 90; Anniston, Ga. Pac. R'y, 7:55 p. m. May 8; Birmingham 10:20 p. m. May 8; Memphis, K. C., M. & B. R. R 7:25 a. m. May 9; leave Memphis, Cotton Belt route 7.45 a. m. May 9; Dallas, M. K. & T. 7:00 a. m. May 10.

There will be special Pullman cars on this train for the accommodation of delegates and their friends. Those desiring sleeping car berths will please notify the undersigned at once in order that sufficient accommodations may by provided. The rate will be one first-class fare for the round trip as above, and sleeping car berths about two dollars per night.

At Memphis we will be joined by the Tennessee and Kentucky delegations, and from starting point to destination will be accompanied by experienced passenger agents of the several lines, who will see to our comfort and every convenience on this, which promises to be indeed a pleasant trip.

Fraternally,

REV. H. H. HARRIS, Richmond, Va.
REV. A. M. SIMMS, Raleigh, N. C.
REV. O. F. GREGORY, Baltimore, Md.

SEABOARD AIR LINE RATES TO DALLAS.

Round-trip tickets at rates of one first-class fare over this route to Dallas will be sold as follows from points named: From Weldon, $36.60; Suffolk, Va., 37 30; Henderson, N. C., 36 30; Durham, 36 30; Raleigh, 36.30; Seaford, 35 30; Maxton, 34 55; Wilmington, 35 30; Wadesboro, 34 25; Charlotte, 33 65; Lincolnton, 34 15; Shelby, 34 55. Tickets will be sold May 7th, 8th, and 9th, with final limit thirty days from date of sale.

The Seaboard Air Line, with its magnificent vestibule train service, offers unsurpassed accommodations to all delegates and visitors to Dallas on this occasion. Choice of routes from Atlanta, either via New Orleans or Memphis. For further information, address T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., or A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh, N. C.

SEABOARD AIR LINE COMMENDED.

The North Carolina delegation to the S. B. Convention at Dallas, Texas, May 11th, to 15th, can move solid via the Seaboard Air Line. The fine vestibule train service of this line, with quick schedules and sure connections, affords to delegates unsurpassed accommodations. Choice of routes are given from Atlanta, via Memphis or New Orleans. Through Pullman service to Atlanta and from Atlanta to Dallas by Convention Special Train. For full information, delegates should address

REV. C. DURHAM,
Cor. Sec. Bap. St. Convention,
N. B. BROUGHTON,
Rec. Sec. Bap. St. Convention,
Raleigh, N. C.,
Or, T. J. Anderson, G. P. A., Portsmouth, Va., and A. J. Cooke, S. P. A., Raleigh.

A Worthy Cause in Need.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I want to impress upon the minds of the brethren and sisters of the State the importance of contributing to the support of our dear old preachers and their families during these stringent times of oppression. I suppose all of us are feeling it more or less, but none, I dare say, are feeling it more than these. Dear brethren and sisters they have been very patient. I have not heard of but one murmuring or complaining, yet I know most of them, if not all of them, would appreciate so much a liberal appropriation at our next meeting of the Board which will be the fourth Wednesday in May. Brethren and sisters can't we gladden their hearts and send a gleam of sunshine into their homes which will vanish the shadows and make them feel that we are taking some interest in them?

We can't, brethren, appropriate unless we have it in the treasury, and how glad we will be to make the appropriation as your Board, and gladder still will those be who receive it, if you will all help a little. It will cost us but little, but will help them much. One good sister writes us: "I have been getting along somehow, but the future is all dark. Have not yet paid my husbands burial expenses," &c.

These old veterans have nobly and faithfully held up our cause when it was in its infancy, and we have "entered into their labors." Shall we not take their temporal interests to heart, and make their last days their best days? They feel neglected. Let us apply the "golden rule" and make the application.

Let me make a special appeal to the pastors. Brethren in the ministry, yours is a noble calling, but none the more so than your predecessors. Can't you bring these needy ones before your congregations and send us from your church or churches for this very worthy object before our next meeting in May one contribution? May the good Lord, by his Spirit, lay upon your minds this good cause.

Fraternally,
J. F. MACDUFFIE

From Wadesboro, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—As a result of my meeting, I have received fifteen for baptism. Bro. D. W. Key of Society Hill and Bro. M. A. Adams of Monroe did some faithful preaching. The church was greatly refreshed and encouraged.

We have recently received by letter two strong men into our church in Bro. T. J. Covington of Florence, S. C, who comes here to go into the mercantile business, and Bro. S. W. Norwood of Greenville, S C., who has been elected cashier of our new bank. The outlook for the Baptists here is flattering indeed. We have two flourishing mission Sunday schools connected with our church, one in South, and the other in North Wadesboro, and these are doing a much needed work among a class of people who will not attend the up-town churches.

Our young people are doing some faithful work in their young people's union. Many of the older people attend their meetings and greatly enjoy them. They say they can't stay away.

I never lived among a kinder and a better people. The young men of the church have ordered me to join "The Baptist Train" for Dallas at their charges. Of course I go.

J. Q ADAMS.

Wadesboro, April 26, 1894.

From Miss F. S. Knight in China.

Dear Recorder:—I have a long letter in my mind and heart for you, but I cannot write it out to-night. I have had but little time for writing since the China New Year came.

I came in yesterday from a visit to Saling. Mrs. Crawford and I are going to make a visit to a country village south of our city to-morrow. This village is called "Fengtaip'u." We have a great many invitations. We met some interesting people and saw some strange sights during the New Year holidays. I think any of the little folks who read the RECORDER would have been interested in the Dragon lanterns and paper steam(?)ships which went floating along the streets of our city during the holidays.

The Gospel Mission workers will be reporting to you from several different stations, I presume, before long.

Yours sincerely, F. S. KNIGHT.

Chefoo, China, March 12, 1894.

Acknowledgments.

State Missions—Mill Creek ch, Flat River, $4.05; Bethel ch, Green River, 2.15 Total, 6.20. Previously reported, 5,490.96. Total this year, 5,497.16.

Foreign Missions—Johnson's Missionary Soc, Eastern, $1.10; Robert's Chapel ch, West Chowan, 10.00; W M S, Gum Spring ch, Pee Dee, 1.48; Antioch ch, Eastern, 1.15; Bethel ch, ditto, 50c; Lebanon ch ditto, 1.00; Southport ch, ditto, 1 15; Bethlehem ch, W Chowan, 5.00; Mt Zion ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Ballard's Bridge Mis Soc, W Chowan, 10 20; Wadesboro ch, Anson, 40 00; Brown Creek ch, ditto, 78c; J P Pritchard, Winton, 5.00; W M S, Kiser ch, Sandy Creek, 2.00; Spring Hope ch, 1.23; Aberdeen Mis Soc, 3.00; S S, Reynoldson ch, Chowan, 5.00; Cool Spring ch, ditto, 1.65; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 5.25; Flat Creek ch, 1.50; Trinity ch, Beulah, 1.50; Brassfield ch, Central, 16.50; Sandy Spring ch, Yadkin, 4.00; Sharon ch, Tar River, 6 25; Bear Swamp ch, Tar River, 2.07; Macon ch, ditto, 2.00; Ahoskie ch, W Chowan, 30.00; W M S, ditto, ditto, 10.00; Peachland ch, 3.50; Meadow Branch ch, Union, 3.81; Kernersville ch, Liberty, 7.77; W M S, Warsaw ch, Eastern, 5.00; Yanceyvill ch, Beulah, 9.28; Chapel Hill ch, Mt Zion, 19.10; W M S, ditto, ditto, 3.00; Edenton ch, Chowan (Miss Knight), 45.00; Rolesville ch, Central; 1.87; Sunbeams, ditto, ditto, 5.68; Enon ch, Yadkin, 1.35; Old Fort ch, 1.23; Milton ch, Beulah, 7.45; Providence ch, ditto, 6.45; W M S, Second ch, Goldsboro, Atlantic, 3.00; Barlow's Chapel ch, 2 00; First ch, Goldsboro, Atlantic, 35 00; Beulah ch, Hamer, N C, 1.00; Bethel ch, Union, 5.00; Marion ch, Green River, 2.50; Bethel ch, ditto, 19.20; Munford's Cove ch, 2.30. Total, 360.75. Previously reported, 1,557.64. Total this year, 1,918.39.

Home Missions—Robert's Chapel ch, West Chowan, $6 00; Antioch ch, Eastern, 70c; Bethel ch, ditto, 50c; Lebanon ch, ditto, 1.00; Southport ch, ditto, 81c; Mt Zion ch, Sandy Creek, 1.00; Wadesboro ch, Anson, 20.00; J P Pritchard, Winton, 10.00; Western Prong ch, Cape Fear, 1.75; Reynoldson ch, Chowan, 5.70; W M S, ditto, ditto, 4.30; Cool Spring ch, ditto, 5.00; Bethel ch, Montgomery, 5 25; Flat Creek ch, 1.50; Trinity ch, Beulah, 1.50; Sharon ch, Tar River, 6 25; Bear Swamp ch, ditto, 2.07; Mt Gilead ch, Montgomery, 3.87; Manly ch, Sandy Creek, 4.67; Meadow Branch ch, Union, 5.00; Hickory ch, Catawba, 7.00; Mt Hermon ch, Pilot Mountain, 3.00; Rutherfordton ch, Green River, 3.00; Providence ch, Pilot Mountain, 3.75; Beulah ch, Hamer, N. C, 1.00; Madison ch, Pilot Mountain, 2.50; King's Mountain ch, King's Mountain, 1.50; Barlow's Chapel ch, 1.00; Bethel ch, Union, 2.83. Total, 112 45. Previously reported, 709.00. Total this year, 821.45.

Education—Robert's Chapel ch, W Chowan, $6.00; Southport ch, Eastern, 97c; Clinton ch, Eastern, 2 40; Perry's Chapel ch, Central, 6.70; Franklinton ch, ditto, 13 47; Rutherfordton ch, Green River (for Walker), 1.00; Elbert Jackson, ditto, ditto, 1 00. Total, 31.54. Previously reported, 990.06. Total this year, 1 021.60.

Orphanage—Antioch ch, Eastern, $1.00; Bethel ch, ditto, 1.17; Lebanon ch, ditto, 1.50; Southport ch, ditto, 1.51; State Line Sunday-school, 1.04. Total, 6.22. Previously reported, 340.91. Total this year, 347.13.

Sunday-schools—Weldon church, Tar River, $3.99.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, April 28, 1894.

Raised on a Bottle.

Raised from infancy to healthy, happy childhood, upon the only perfect substitute for mother's milk—MELLIN'S FOOD. This food contains all the nutritive properties of breast milk, without any of the injurious farinaceous substances found in many other infants' foods.

Mellin's Food

will make the weakest infant happy, robust and vigorous.

Our Book for the instruction of mothers, "The Care and Feeding of Infants," will be mailed free to any address, upon request.

DOLIBER-GOODALE CO. Boston, Mass.

The Leading Conservatory of America. Founded by Dr. E. Tourjée. Carl Faelten, Director. Illustrated Calendar giving full information free. New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

Law School
University of North Carolina.

42d Regular Session begins Sept 6th, 1894. 14th Summer Session begins July 2d, 1894. For particulars address JOHN MANNING, LL D., Chap l Hill, N. C.

Judge Walter Clark.
Uses and Endorses the Electropoise.
(TRADE MARK)
"ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN" BY ABSORPTION
Investigation Courted---Book by Mail Free.

North Carolina Supreme Court.
WALTER CLARK, ASSOCIATE JUSTICE.
RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 26, 1894.
We have found the Electropoise very valuable—especially for children. I got one last May, and I am sure I have saved three times its cost already in doctors and drug store bills. From my experience with it and observation, I can safely recommend it. Yours truly, WALTER CLARK

ELECTROLIBRATION CO.,
345 Fourth Ave., New York,
Successors to ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."
Covered with a Tasteless and Soluble Coating.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
are a marvellous Antidote for Weak Stomach, SICK HEADACHE, Impaired Digestion, Constipation, Disordered Liver, etc., found also to be especially efficacious and remedial by FEMALE SUFFERERS.
Of all druggists Price 25 cents a box.
New York Depot, 365 Canal St.

CHAS. M. WALSH
MANUFACTURER OF
MARBLE & GRANITE
MONUMENTS TOMBS AND GRAVE STONES
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION
PETERSBURG, VA.
I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory
CHAS. M. WALSH.

THE TIRED BRAIN and NERVES
Find Sweetest, Safest and Best Relief by using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer.

As a Nerve Tranquillizer and Tonic it never has been equalled.

Dr. L. D. Collins, Goldthwaite, Tex., says of it: "It is the finest Nerve Tranquillizer I have ever used."

L. C. Coulson, Deputy Clerk, Jackson county, Ala., says: "I commend it for Nervousness above anything I have ever tried."

Geo. W. Armstead, Ed. The Issue, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Germetuer is an invaluable Builder and Invigorator of the Nerve Forces."

Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, Ex-Auditor, N. C., now 3d Auditor, Washington, D. C., says: "I have never found a better Nerve Tonic and General Invigorator.

Contains no Bromides, Cocaine, Chloral or other injurious drugs. Always safe for all ages and sexes.

$1, 6 for $5. Sold by druggists. Manuf'd only by King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Musicians, Read!
SUNLIGHT and SHADOW By Julian Edwards. A collection of high grade but not difficult songs, that have never before appeared in print. Each is a gem. Price, 61 Postpaid.
LESSONS IN AUDITION By Helene Sparmann. A book on a new plan, to be used in private or class instruction for the development of musical language. Price, 50 Cents Postpaid.
St. CAECILIAN COLLECTION By C. B. Steele. A collection of sacred music arranged for male voices. Will be especially acceptable in Gospel Meetings and the Y. M. C. A. Price 40 Cents Postpaid.
ANTHEM CROWN By E. P. Danks. The latest anthem collection by this celebrated church music composer. Price, 35 Cents Postpaid.
Any of the above books will be sent to responsible parties for examination, conditional upon postage or express charges being paid by the one ordering, and that copies returned to us shall be perfectly saleable.
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
Cincinnati, New York, Chicago.

— AT THE —
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers,
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades.
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
— IN THE —
N. C. Home Insurance Co.
This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.
INSURE AGAINST FIRE
W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.
HOME OFFICE. - RALEIGH, N. C.

Why Is It?
That the most successful business men are the strongest believers in Life Insurance? That they are, is attested by the following letter from a well known business man who held a Tontine Policy in the
Equitable Life
POWELL & SNIDER,
STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,
GRAIN AND FLOUR.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., Jan 18, 1894.
MR. W. J. RODDEY, Rock Hill, S. C.
DEAR SIR:
I have accepted the cash value of my Tontine Policy in the "Equitable," which matured Jan. 3d, 1894. I desire to say that I am very well pleased with the results, as an evidence of which I have applied for more assurance on same plan.
Respectfully, W. F. SNIDER.
If you are interested send your age and let us give you figures on a Tontine Policy. Address
W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
Department of Carolinas,
Rock Hill, S. C.

FOR BEAUTY
For comfort, for improvement of the complexion, use only Poeoni's Powder; there is nothing equal to it.

THE BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Successors to E. Ind. Vanduzen & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A., and E. India Sq., London, England.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Daniel's Selection.

Mrs. Wm. H. Faison of Sampson county, N. C., gave me an old hymn-book, with the above title, several years ago, and I have, since that time, spent many a pleasant hour in reading the excellent hymns it contains. About eighty of the hymns are original, having been written by Robert T. Daniel and Mrs. Hardy Saunders, the former the founder and first pastor of the First Baptist church of Raleigh, and the latter a leading member of the same.

The book was printed in Raleigh by Thos. Henderson in the year 1812. It is probably the first hymn-book ever printed in the State.

Dr. S. B. Weeks in his valuable work, "The Press of North Carolina," mentions T. Henderson & Co. as publishers of the Raleigh Star in 1810. In Dr. Weeks' Bibliography, appended to his history of the North Carolina Press, several books on various subjects are mentioned as having been printed during eighteenth century; but I failed to find the name of any hymn-book.

Daniel's hymn book contains many typographical errors, but I know of no book that surpasses it in depth of spirituality and soundness of doctrine. The hymns written by Daniel and Mrs. Saunders are full of the doctrines of divine sovereignty, total depravity, predestination, election and final perseverance—doctrines that are conspicuously absent from many of our modern hymn-books. In this old volume are many things of interest of which I might speak. Some things are of local interest, and some things are quaint and curious.

Mrs. Saunders wrote one long hymn of twenty-five stanzas, addressed to John McCabe, under whose ministry she was led to peaceful trust in her Saviour. McCabe was a leading Baptist minister in North Carolina from about 1776 to 1811. He preached in Wake, Johnston, Chowan and Craven counties, was twice moderator of the old Kehukee Association, was pastor of Ballard's Bridge church in 1803 and for some years before that date, and was probably the founder of Fort Barnwell church, Craven county, near to which was his plantation.

She also wrote a hymn addressed to the Raleigh Baptist church; also, a hymn to the female members of the same, besides many other hymns that appear in the book

I hardly expected to find an acrostic in the book. There are two of them, however, one on the name of Robert Thomas Daniel, and the other on the name of Mrs. Hardy Mary Saunders.

The widower's hymn is so long, that I will not transcribe it. It is a serious, mournful composition, and I presume it was sung in public meeting as occasion required it.

Of course, this hymn, written by Burkett, was intended for such widowers as had lost good wives and had not repaired their loss. As there are many such widowers in the land—several of them around me—I will neither give the hymn nor loan my hymn-book, lest they should cultivate their vocal powers beyond endurance. Between them and Robert Burns' "Joyful Widower" there is such wide contrast, that I have no fear of their trying to sing it; and, therefore, I cheerfully re-produce it:

"I married with a scolding wife,
The fourteenth of November;
She made me weary of my life
By one unruly member.
Long did I bear the heavy yoke,
And many griefs attended;
But, to my comfort be it spoke,
Now, now her life has ended.

"We lived full one-and-twenty years
As man and wife together;
At length from me her course she steered,
And 's gone I know not whither.
Would I could guess, I do profess,
I speak, and do not flatter,
Of all the women in the world,
I never could come at her.

"Her body is bestowed well,
A handsome grave does hide her;
Be sure her soul is not in hell,
The Devil could ne'er abide her.
I rather think she is aloft,
And imitating thunder,
For why, methinks I hear her voice
Tearing the clouds asunder."

JNO. T. ALBRITTON.

Mt. Olive, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad.

MEDICAL SOCIETY OF NORTH CAROLINA—GREENSBORO.

To this body tickets will be sold to Greensboro, N. C., and return at following rates from points named: Charlotte, $4 45; Goldsboro, 5 85; Marion, 6 50; Selma, 5.05; Durham, 3.75; Henderson, 4 85; Raleigh, 4 05; Winston-Salem, 1.50. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

GRAND LODGE I. O. O. F. OF NORTH CAROLINA—GOLDSBORO.

To this body tickets will be sold May 7th to 9th, limited to the 15th, 1894, to Goldsboro, N. C., and return at following rates for the round trip, from points named: Charlotte, $9.00; Marion, 11.20; Greensboro, 6.85; Winston-Salem, 6.85; Henderson, 4.75; Durham, 3.65; Raleigh, 2.50; Selma, 1.05. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

GRAND CHAPTER ROYAL ARCH MASONS—CHARLOTTE.

To this body, held May 8th and 9th, 1894, tickets will be sold May 6th to 9th, inclusive; limited May 12, 1894, to Charlotte, N. C., and return at following rates from points named: Marion, $5.00; Hickory, 3.35; Newton, 2.85; Greensboro, 4 45; Winston Salem, 3.65; Henderson, 7.90; Durham, 6 50; Raleigh, 7.30; Selma, 8.20; Goldsboro, 9.00. Rates from intermediate points in same proportion.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—NASHVILLE, TENN.

To this body tickets will be sold to Nashville, Tenn., and return, at rate one first class fare for the round trip. Tickets on sale May 14th to 16th, inclusive; continuous passage in each direction; final limit June 2, 1894.

From Granville County.

Dear Recorder:—Rev. J. E. Smith, the new pastor at Tally Ho church, Granville county, N. C., is greatly pleasing and profiting the members of that church.

Rev. R. H. Marsh has accepted a call to the pastorate of State Line Baptist church, Granville county, N. C.

The churches that have tried it are much pleased with the change of the time of meeting from eleven o'clock a. m. to two o'clock p. m. on Saturdays. It greatly increases the Saturday congregations.

The wheat crop that seemed to be so much injured by the cold snap has greatly improved. It looks well now.

There is a prospect for some strawberries, blackberries, whortleberries, and late apples.

GRANVILLE.

The New England Conservatory of Music.

The stability of many educational institutions has been severely tested during the recent period of financial depression, and those that have weathered the storm have done so on account of their exceptional merits. During all this season of commercial disaster the New England Conservatory of Music has had an attendance but little, if any, below the normal. The majority of its students are there to prepare themselves for their life's work, and the recent valuable additions to the courses have served to stimulate ambition, and to give further desirable qualifications to those who are now ready to teach. There is to be a special summer term this year, of unusual value to music teachers.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

A new steam laundry has been established at Raleigh.

A destructive fire occurred at Greenville on the 27th.

A flouring mill of large capacity is to be established at Raleigh.

Maj. James Turner, a leading citizen of Stanley county, is dead.

The North State Music Co. of Raleigh has assigned. Liabilities $4,600.

The North Carolina Press Convention meets this summer at Morganton.

A telephone line from Raleigh to Durham is an assurance of the near future.

It is stated that the Raleigh Street Railway will begin to run again this month.

The Reformed church of North Carolina was in annual session at Concord last week.

A youth, Jno. Pankey, was drowned near Rockingham while seining for fish recently.

Plans have matured for the establishment of a new cotton mill near Raleigh. Three are already in successful operation here.

Lawyer Robert O. Burton of Raleigh is sueing the State for a fee of $5,000, charged for services in the Wilmington & Weldon R. R. suit.

Silas Nicholson, aged about 60 years, dropped dead in court at Asheville last week, where he was on trial for the murder of his son.

The foundation for the Confederate Monument at Raleigh is being laid. The corner stone will be laid with appropriate exercises, Tuesday, May 22d.

It is said that the prospects for a good apple, berry and grape yeild in this State are better than was anticipated immediately after the frost in March.

The remains of William Hooper, of Declaration of Independence fame, have been removed from the old church yard at Hillsboro to the Guilford battle ground.

J. F. Smith shot and mortally wounded his brother-in-law, T. B. Sellers at Wadesboro last week with but a moments warning. Both are residents of Anson county.

From the various meetings over the State in memory of Vance it is judged that sufficient money will be raised to build a handsome monument. It will probably be situated at Asheville.

Congressman Alexander has introduced a bill in the National Congress authorizing the sale of the United State Mint property to the city of Charlotte, which desires to use it for park purposes.

North Carolina produces the finest wheat in the world. Wheat raised by H. G. Thomas, near Thomasville, was awarded the first premium at the World's Fair, says the Greensboro Record.

Gov. Tillman of South Carolina will deliver an address in Charlotte the 21st inst. The anniversary of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence will be celebrated with unusually attractive ceremonies in that city on the same date.

Revival meetings are being held with unusual frequency by the various denominations over the State. In addition to those held in Baptist churches, which are mentioned elsewhere, we note, meetings by three denominations in Durham, Evangelist Lee holding meetings at Greensboro, Methodists recently in Raleigh and Wilmington, and also at Wilmington a stirring meeting in the Advent church.

The tone of the State press leads us to state that North Carolina is in better condition financially and morally than is generally believed. Failures are few, and new enterprises are announced on every hand; crime, so hard to repress in some portions of the State, is not so frequent as it has been, and in most cases culprits are receiving the penalty of the law. No one can read the papers containing news from other States and not perceive that North Carolina is far better off than many of her sisters.

General News.

Two cases of small pox have broken out at Gadsen, Alabama.

The Southern steamship line from Port Royal, S. C., is in regular operation.

The hosiery works in the South Carolina State prison was burned last week. Loss, $20,000.

Richard M. Taylor has been nominated to succeed Hon. J. T. Ellyson as mayor of Richmond.

It is now stated on high authority that the tariff bill will be enacted in some shape or other by June 1st.

Editor Frank Hatton of the independent Washington Post has been stricken with paralysis, and is seriously ill.

The national agricultural appropriation bill carries $3,450,000, being a reduction of $148,000 on the present appropriation.

A Richmond, Va., preacher, Dr. Moses D. Hoge of the Second Presbyterian church, is now serving that church for the fiftieth successive year. That is a good record.

The annual epidemic of cholera has made its appearance in Lisbon, Spain. The national quarantine system of the United States insures immunity to our people.

It is stated that Senator Jarvis will vote for free silver coinage, low tariff with income tax, and favors more stringent Senate rules. His attitude toward the Simmons appointment is variously stated.

It is stated on authority that there are now 800,000 more pensioners than there were soldiers on the Union side at any one time the war. When it is remembered that there were more than 260,000 deserters from Union armies the significance of the above statement is most impressive. Hundreds are being exposed in various directions, however, and a general correction of abuses seems probable.

Members of Congress are now required to testify on their pay blanks the number of days in which they have been absent from regular sessions of the House during the month, and $14 are deducted from their salary for each day absent. Pleasure or personal business will henceforth cease to be regarded as sufficient reason for neglecting public duties. This rule is just and salutary; and it is hoped a similar one will be adopted by the Senate.

For Malaria, Liver Trouble, or Indigestion, use BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

"Coxey's army" will have reached Washington City before this issue is read. The army numbers only 400 men; but other armies are coming from various parts of the country. It is thought, however, that the latter will to a great extent disband before reaching their destination. It is the purpose of the "commanders" to remain in Washington City "all summer" if they are not starved out or arrested. No serious trouble from these men is feared; but the country regards with great apprehension the recent strikes among railroad and mine employees. The number of strikers is more than 200,000, and unless adjustment of wages is quickly made, trouble will ensue. Negotiations between employers and labor unions are pending.

MARRIED.

BOSWELL—MAYNARD—On April 8th, 1894, at the residence of the bride's parents in Durham, N. C., by Rev. Geo. J. Dowell, Mr. L. O. Boswell and Miss Myrtle Maynard.

McKEE—WYNNE—On April 19th, 1894, at the parsonage of the Second Baptist church, Durham, N. C., by Rev. Geo. J. Dowell, Dr. W. T. McKee and Miss Beulah F. Wynne.

BRYAN—GLASS—On April 12th, 1894, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. B. B. Glass, by Rev. L. R. Dixon, Mr. Daniel L. Bryan and Miss Susan Glass, all of Chatham county, N. C.

STRAUGHAN—ROBERSON—On March 28th, 1894, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia Roberson, by Rev. L. R. Dixon, Mr. Isaac H. Straughan and Miss Allen Roberson, all of Chatham county, N. C.

DIED.

McGLAUGHON—On the night of March 27th the spirit of Bro. L. A. McGlaughon was freed from its mortal casket to find its home in the land of happy spirits.

He was the oldest member of Winton Baptist church; was one of the original twelve who organized it, and was also a deacon. In his manners he was calm and quiet; in disposition, gentle and peaceable; in character, pure and holy; in conduct, upright and godly.

In his death he calmly laid his head on Jesus' bosom and serenely went to sleep to wake in the glory land.

WELDON—Miss M. Frances Weldon exchanged the sufferings of this present time for the glories to be revealed in her, April 14th, 1894, aged fifty-five years. She was the oldest of a large family of children to whose comfort she had devoted herself with singular constancy and self-forgetfulness. She provided well for her household, and managed to secure a comfortable living.

Thirty-five years ago she was received into the Baptist church at Tanner's, and baptized by Bro. Purefoy, since which time she has adorned the doctrines of God, her Saviour, with extraordinary consistency. She was ready for her Saviour's calling, her only regret being she didn't see how she could be spared. J. K. P.

SINGLETON—Sister Lucy Palmer Singleton was born Feb. 24th, 1856, and died March 29th, 1894. Thus, in her thirty-eighth year, in the prime of her womanhood, God called her home to heaven. Becoming dissatisfied with her connection with the Methodist church, she left them and joined the Baptists. She died an honored and beloved member of Rock Spring Baptist church, Vance county, N. C. She was a woman of deep-toned piety. She loved her Saviour, her church, her family, her neighbors. It seems mysterious that she should have been taken from her devoted husband and loving children at a time when the children are all so young as to greatly need her tender care and her moulding influence. But God knows best. May the bereaved ones all meet her again in heaven.

PASTOR.

NELSON—The people of this county (Polk) were shocked when the tidings spread that Sheriff Otis L. Nelson was dead. His illness was very brief, lasting but little over forty-eight hours, and at 3 o'clock p. m. Tuesday, April 17th, 1894, his spirit took its flight. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. T. Jones, pastor of White Oak church, of which the deceased was a prominent member. He was born Nov. 30th, 1839. He entered the Confederate army in the spring of 1861 and served as a member of the 15th N. C. Regiment until the close of the war; had been Sheriff of the county two full terms, and was serving the third at the time of his death.

He enjoyed the confidence and esteem of the people of his county to a degree seldom attained by any. Mr. Nelson was twice married, his first wife having died February 18th, 1893. He afterward was married to Miss Mattie Egerton Nov. 27th, 1893. He leaves four daughters, all children of his first wife. He joined White Oak Baptist church at an early age and lived a consistant Christian life. He served his church as clerk for several years, and was then ordained deacon, in which capacity he served until his death.

In the death of Bro. Nelson his family sustain an irreparable loss—an affectionate husband and father being taken, his church loses an active, energetic member, and his county an honest, efficient officer, whose place will be hard to fill, but we know "our loss is his gain." To the bereaved family the hearts of all go out in sympathy. May the Lord comfort them. W. M. JUSTICE.

Mills' Spring, N. C., April 20, 1894.

Tributes of Respect.

After two days confinement to her room, sister Martha Jones fell asleep in Christ on March 29th, 1894, aged nearly seventy-eight. She was born in Isle of Wight county, Virginia, and at the age of sixteen professed faith in Christ and united with the Christian People. After a few years she and her husband came to Northampton county, N. C., and were baptized by Elder B. B. Williams into the fellowship of Galatia church. She has beautifully adorned her profession for a long term of years. If manifested love for Christians, and loud rejoicing when sinners would publicly confess Christ, and telling all how happy she was, are worth remembering, dear Sister Jones should not soon be forgotten. A very industrious, pious mother has passed away, leaving one son, a leading worker in our Sunday-school, and four daughters, all members of Galatia. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord; * * they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

Ordered to be prepared in conference April 7th, 1894, and sent to the RECORDER for publication, and also to be recorded in our church book.

K. DAVIS,
J. C. FLEETWOOD,
Committee.

TAPE-WORMS

Promptly, Painlessly Expelled. A Pleasant, Harmless, certain Vegetable Cure. Expulsion guaranteed. Sent postpaid for $5.00, or C. O. D.

KAMFOL A family remedy. Kamfol is not merely a palliative, but a healing antiseptic oil. For fever blisters, pimples, chapped skin, cuts and abrasions, milk crust, and prickly heat; burns, bruises, sprains, erysipelas, ringworm, barbers' itch, boils, carbuncles, hives, ulcers and insect bites, Kamfol affords instant relief and a sure cure. Gentlemen will find that it at once removes the irritation caused by close shaving. No other preparation before the public is as effective in curing bunions, chilblains, and ingrowing nails. Kamfol will cure all local inflammation of the skin. Full directions accompany each bottle, which if followed will infallibly cure. Sample bottle mailed for 50c., large bottle, $1.00.

KERLEN'S TONIC BITTERS.

For indigestion, consumption, chills, malaria, anaemia, la grippe, and as a tonic and appetizer, use Kerlen's Bitters. Quart bottles to any address on receipt of $1.00. These preparations are new and not handled by the drug trade.

KERLEN CHEMICAL CO., Cincinnati, O.

IT POPS.

Effervescent, too.

Exhilarating, appetizing.
Just the thing to build up the constitution.

Hires' Rootbeer

Wholesome and strengthening, pure blood, free from boils or carbuncles. General good health—results from drinking HIRES' Rootbeer the year round.

Package makes five gallons, 25c.
Ask your druggist or grocer for it.
Take no other.

Send 2-cent stamp to the Charles E. Hires Co., 117 Arch St., Philadelphia, for beautiful picture cards.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash

Good Fertilizers at the Lowest Wholesale Prices, per ton.

for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars

W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

Goes regularly to Hot Springs for GOUT, RHEUMATIC GOUT, RHEUMATISM.—How this Water is valued there in BRIGHT'S DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS and STONE OF THE BLADDER.

Dr. Algernon S. Garnet,
Surgeon (retired) U. S. Navy, Resident Physician, Hot Springs, Ark., says:

"My experience in the use of

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

is limited to the treatment of Gout, Rheumatism and that hybrid disease, "Rheumatic Gout" (so-called), which is in contradistinction to the Rheumatoid Arthritis of Garrod. I have had excellent results from this Water in these affections, both in my own person and in the treatment of patients for whom I have prescribed it. Of course the remedial agent is its contained Alkalies and their solvent properties. Hence it is a prophylactic as well as a remedy in Nephritic Colic and forming Calculi, when due to a redundancy of Lithic Acid."

Dr. Wm. B. Towles,
Professor of Anatomy and Materia Medica in the Medical Department of the University of Virginia, former Resident Physician, Hot Springs, Va., says:

"I feel no hesitancy whatever in saying that in Gout, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Stone in the Bladder, and in all Diseases of Uric Acid Diathesis, I know of no remedy at all comparable to

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

"Its effects are marked in causing a disappearance of Albumen from the urine. In a single case of Bright's Disease of the Kidneys I witnessed decided beneficial results from its use, and from its action in this case I should have great confidence in it as a remedy in certain stages of this disease."

The late Dr. Wm. F. Carrington,
Resident Physician, Hot Springs, Ark., Surgeon (retired) U. S. Navy, says:

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

has signally demonstrated its remedial power in Gout, Rheumatic Gout, Rheumatism, Uric Acid, Gravel and other maladies dependent upon the Uric Acid Diathesis. It not only eliminates from the blood the deleterious agent before it crystallizes, but dissolves it in the form of Calculi, at least to a size that renders its passage along its ureters and urethra comparatively easy. Send twenty cases No. 2."

Dr. T. B. Buchanan,
Resident Physician, Hot Springs, Arkansas, says: "Send me five cases of

BUFFALO LITHIA WATER

I have made use of this Water for Gout in my own person and prescribed it for patients similarly suffering, with the most decided beneficial results. I take great pleasure in advising Gouty patients to these Springs.

This water is for sale by druggists generally, or in cases of one dozen half gallon bottles $6.00 f. o. b. at the Springs. Descriptive pamphlets sent to any address.

THOMAS P. GOODE, Proprietor,
Buffalo Lithia Springs, Va.
Springs open June 15th.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,

RALEIGH, N. C.,

Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

The Home Circle.

The Preacher's Bible.

My Book! my Book! my grand old Book!
By inspiration given
Thy every page from age to age
Reveals the way to Heaven.
My Lamp of Light, in Nature's night!
Thy unbeclouded ray
Has turned the gloom of death and tomb
To everlasting day.

My Chart! my Chart! my changeless Chart!
By thee I guide my bark.
A sinner vile on ocean wild,
O'er mountain billows dark,
By thee I steer in safe career
With canvas all unfurled,
And onward sail before the gale
To yonder blissful world.

My Staff! my Staff! my trusty Staff!
I'll grasp thee in my hand,
As faint and weak on Pisgah's peak
I view the promised land;
Not sadly told, as one of old,
To see but not explore;
My hold I'll keep through Jordan's deep
Till safe on Canaan's shore.

My Sword! my Sword! my two-edged Sword!
By thy unerring might
I'll deal my foe the deadly blow
In faith's unequaled fight;
Thy tempered blade, that lent me aid
In every conflict past,
Shall make me more than conqueror,
Through Him that loved, at last.

My Book! my Book! my grand old Book!
Heaven speed thee on thy way
From pole to pole as ages roll,
The harbinger of day;
Till Christ, "the light, shall banish night
From this terrestrial ball,"
And earth shall see her jubilee,
And God be all in all.

—Anonymous.

Aunt Ruth's Story.

"Duty is a tiresome word," said Helen Kent. "If I had my way I should spell it pleasure every time."

"What a topsy-turvy world you would make of it!" said Aunt Ruth.

"I shouldn't care," returned Helen, flippantly; "so long as I could do whatever I liked."

"Oh, my dear!"

Aunt Ruth cried out as if Helen had hurt her.

"Don't say such things," she said. "I knew a girl once who put pleasure before her duty, and she has had to repent of it all her life."

"Is it a story?" asked Helen. "Tell me about it, auntie."

She stopped her sewing, and nestled down on the sofa beside her aunt, whom she dearly loved, as in fact every one did who knew her. She was one of the people who never seemed to think of themselves, but spend their lives in saving others; and Helen said of her, when her mother held her up as an example:

"It's no use trying to be like Aunt Ruth. She was born an angel."

"Tell me the story, auntie," Helen repeated.

"I give you warning that it is a sad one," her aunt replied. "The girl was young, like you, and people called her pretty."

"Like me," said Helen, merrily.

"And she thought more of her pleasure than she ought to have done."

"Like me again, I suppose. But I can't help it, auntie!"

"She had one duty, which she often found a burden," continued Aunt Ruth, "because it interfered with her pleasure. Her mother was in feeble health, and there was a little brother, the care of whom came mostly upon his sister. She loved him dearly, but she was often impatient with him, and she sometimes neglected him. One day—her mother had kept her room that day with a sick headache—she left him asleep in the hammock, while she went out on the river in a boat with some young men. The river was at the foot of the garden, and the young men were her cousins. She only meant to go a little way with them; but it was pleasant on the river, and she went a long way, forgetting her mother, and her baby brother, forgetting everything but her enjoyment.

"She came back at last, however, and just as the boat was drawing near the shore, a dog came bounding down the bank, and leaped into the water.

"'What's the matter with black Tom?' said one of the young men. 'He's after something in a hurry.'

"Another one sprang to his feet. 'There's a child in the water!' he cried. 'Pull the boat across to the bushes yonder. It's caught in the bushes.'

"They rowed to the place, but the dog got there first, and began to howl. The girl knew what he had found, even before she saw the little white face and the streaming yellow curls."

"Oh, auntie! But her little brother wasn't drowned!" cried Helen. "He wasn't dead, truly?"

"He was quite dead," said Aunt Ruth, gently. "He never breathed again. And the dreadful news was too much for his delicate mother. She died of the shock. And the girl was freed from her troublesome duties. But she never cared for pleasure again, Helen. She would have given all the pleasure in the world—all she ever had, or ever hoped to have—to get her duties back."

"Auntie, that is the saddest story I ever heard," cried Helen. "Is it really, really true? Did you know the girl yourself?"

"I knew her very well," was the answer.

"She has tried to be more faithful to her duties since. And her name was Ruth.—Mary E. Bradley, in Young Reaper.

A child was cured of croup by a dose or two of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. A neighbor's child died of the same dread disease, while the father was getting ready to call the doctor. This shows the necessity of having Ayer's Cherry Pectoral always at hand.

The Eagle on the Coins.

If you have a silver dollar of 1836, 1838, or 1839, or one of the first nickel cents coined in 1856, you will find upon it the true portrait of an American eagle, which was for many years a familiar sight in the streets of Philadelphia.

"Peter," one of the finest eagles ever captured alive, was the pet of the Philadelphia Mind, and was generally known as the "Mint Bird."

Not only did he have free access to every part of the Mint, going without hindrance into the treasure vaults where even the Treasurer of the United Stated would not go alone, but used his own pleasure in going about the city, flying over the houses, sometimes perching upon the lamp posts in the streets.

Everybody knew him and admired him, and even the street boys treated him with respect. The government provided his daily fare, and he was as much a part of the Mint establishment as the superintendent or chief coiner.

He was so kindly treated that he had no fear of anybody or anything, and he might be in the Mint yet if he had not set down to rest on one of the great fly wheels. The wheel started without warning, and Peter was caught in the machinery. One of his wings was broken, and he died a few days lates.

The superintendent had his body beautifully mounted, with the wings spread to their fullest extent; and to this day Peter stands in a glass case in the Mint's cabinet, where you may see him whenever you go there. An exact portrait of him as he stands in the case was put upon the coins named. —Harper's Young People.

How to Draw a Will.

The wisdom of having the will drawn while in health, when the nervous and morbid fears engendered by illness are absent, and the person making it is able to order a clear and reasonable distribution of her property, should appeal to every one, writes Mrs. Hamilton Mott in an article entitled "Making a Will" in the Ladies' Home Journal.

The fear that the attorney's fee will be exorbitant, or even that it will be large, should be neither excuse nor reason for delay. All professional work is done on the basis described in the old saw:

"When you find a fat goose pluck it clean,
And let the fat goose fry the lean."

And legal charges are regulated not only by the amount of work done, but by the ability of the client to pay.

Go to any reliable attorney and tell him that you wish to have your will drawn, and that you can only afford to pay a certain sum for a fee. If he has reason to believe that you have stated your pecuniary position truthfully he will become your adviser no matter how small his recompense is to be. Determine in advance exactly what you wish done with your estate; make careful memoranda of all the points, the full names of all who will appear in the document, and of anything else which may seem to you as of importance. Take this data with you to the lawyer; tell him clearly what you wish done. Answer without questioning whatever he may ask you; avoid irrelevant remarks, and then lead him to prepare the document, after making an appointment to return with your witnesses for signatures, etc.

Test Questions as to the Worth of Amusements.

First. Do they rest and strengthen or weary and weaken the body?

Second. Do they rest and strengthen or weary and weaken the brain?

Third. Do they make resistance to temptation easier or harder?

Fourth. Do they increase or lessen love for virtue, purity, temperance, and justice?

Fifth. Do they give inspiration and quicken enthusiasm, or stupefy the intellectual and harden the moral nature?

Sixth. Do they increase or diminish respect for manhood and womanhood?

Seventh. Do they draw one nearer to or remove one farther from the Christ?—Christian Commonwealth.

"Now good digestion wait on appetite,
And health on both,"

says the great Shakespeare, but he did not have in mind a coated tongue and torpid liver, with all the symptoms of biliousness, so common in this country. All this, and more, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a purely vegetable compound, which restores the action of the liver, gives tone to the flagging energies of the dyspeptic's stomach, and thus enables "good digestion to wait on appetite, and health on both." By druggists.

Asthma, and hay fever cured, by a newly discovered treatment. Address for pamphlet, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Too Much Woman.

For conscience sake, let us cease this everlasting prattle about the present being "woman's century" and "woman's age," implying each time that we say it that the women of any previous age were driveling idiots, and casting a slur upon the very women who gave us our being, writes Edward W. Bok in a vigorous defense of the woman of a generation ago, in the Ladies' Home Journal. Why is this "woman's century" any more than was any century before it? Just because a few thousand more women are engaged in business? Does that fact make a "woman's century?" We haven't determined yet, by any means, whether the present tendency of woman going into the rougher commercial pursuits is to her interest or to the benefit of those who will follow her. A little caution here is a very good thing. What sense is there in this constant ding-donging into the ears of our girls that they are born at the "dawn of woman's emancipation?" Emancipation from what? Will this sort of thing teach our girls to have a greater respect for the women of past generations? If we keep up this harangue much longer I shall not blame our youngest girls if they get the notion that the world only began about forty of fifty years ago. If we expect children to have a respect for their mothers, and their mothers' parents, we cannot enshroud the times in which they lived with the darkness of ignorance and bigotry. The women who lived before the present agitators of the "woman's century" were born did a thing or two in the world's history, far more, I venture to prophesy from their present talk, than the women of to-day will do in these latter days if they pursue their present course.

The Model Maiden.

She helps "mother" in looking after the house, and carries many of the domestic burdens on her strong shoulders.

She devotes a portion of her time daily to the improvement of her mind.

She is much too sensible to imagine that if a man shows her any ordinary amount of attention he is so smitten with her charms that he is only waiting for a suitable opportunity to throw himself at her feet and propose marriage.

She makes her own bed, keeps her room in order, and is always ready to lend a hand in any household emergency.

She places implicit truth in her parents, and thinks "mother" the dearest woman in the world, and "father" the best and most sensible man.

She does not waste the eyesight over useless fancy work, but takes a pride in keeping the household linen and her own clothes in good repair.

She is never unsympathetic with her brothers in their love affairs, on which a man's whole future life may depend. She makes herself happy and contented at home, and is not perpetually pining for pleasures and things beyond her reach.

She refrains from "talking over" either real or imaginary home troubles with her intimate girl friends.

She is always neatly dressed, cheerful, good tempered, smiling and contented, filling the home with sunshine.

BELONGS TO A PAST AGE—the great, griping, nauseating pill.

In this enlightened age you have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets — better because they're the smallest, easiest to take and easiest in their action; better because they do lasting good.

They have a tonic effect on the lining membranes, and permanently cure Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick or Bilious Headaches, Nervousness, and every derangement of the liver, stomach, and bowels.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

DR. R. V. PIERCE: Dear Sir—My whole system seems to have undergone a change—since taking "Pleasant Pellets." My nerves are wonderfully improved and I no longer have attacks of "the blues." It is wonderful, the good the "Pellets" have done my liver complaint.

I. B. Bolton

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing Cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife or injections of carbolic acid, which are painful and seldom a permanent cure, and often resulting in death, unnecessary. Why endure this terrible disease? We guarantee 6 boxes to cure any case. You only pay for benefits received. $1 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Guarantees issued by our agents.

CONSTIPATION Cured, Piles Prevented, by Japanese Liver Pellets the great LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR and BLOOD PURIFIER. Small, mild and pleasant to take, especially adapted for children's use. 50 Doses in vials.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

THE best investment in real-estate is to keep buildings well painted. Paint protects the house and saves repairs. You sometimes want to sell—many a good house has remained unsold for want of paint. The rule should be though, "the best paint or none." That means

Strictly Pure White Lead

You cannot afford to use cheap paints. To be sure of getting Strictly Pure White Lead, look at the brand; any of these are safe:

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.

A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.

Philadelphia Branch, 531 South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 13 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.

Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr.
Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1894. Number 44.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WE are inclined to think that a brother who wrote us an admonitory letter recently, saying that we "had better be careful, as the country is in a bad fix generally, and there is danger of bloodshed," is either nervous or dyspeptic; and he may be a little suspicious of our politics. The country is just now in a comparatively "bad fix"; but it has been worse off before, and it is not half so badly off as it might be, nor as some other countries have been and are. It is true that an unusually great number of laborers are out of work or receiving reduced wages; that the yield of the earth is selling for less money than ever before; that many laborers are "striking," and more are "kicking" for higher wages; and that some of the unemployed are marching on the National Capital. Some factories are idle, and Congress is comparatively so; and the "unrest, unrest, unrest" that we have been preaching for five years is upon us. But these conditions are temporary at best. "The country's safe." It is in the power of no man nor set of men to ruin the Republic or retard its progress for many months. Ours is yet the greatest nation on earth, and its people are the best provided for, if we make comparisons by decades instead of months. And we should not judge any one's health on "off days."

We anticipate insurrection and bloodshed. It would be extraordinary if the month of May, the striking-foreigners' month, should pass without the necessity arising for ordering out some State's militia to quell some local insubordination. There will be but little more than usual.

No man nor country has enjoyed a sequence of prosperous years without a temporary turn backward. Revulsions are inevitable: they follow everything that is very good or very bad; and one will follow the present hard times as surely as times are hard. Discontent in a period of unfavorable revulsion is not going to hurt any one. It makes us work harder and think deeper. We Southerners have been preaching discontent for a generation, and the last political victory, as are all political victories, was a victory of discontent. Discontent is the motive force of revolution, but they are bloodless ones in free countries. Ballots answer the purpose in one day of a million swords in a year. We have supreme confidence in the American people. They will not divide organically again; and, to be sure, we are glad they will always be divided politically, and that one half or the other will be discontented; for discontent is the keynote of progress.

THE determination of the dominant party in the House of Representatives to adopt rules for counting and keeping quorums, receives the approval of the whole country, a great deal of which is unexpressed for political reasons. It requires more moral courage than is characteristic of the usual human nature to resort to measures which one has denounced throughout a congressional campaign. It will be remembered that the anathemas hurled at ex Speaker Reed had much to do in the election of the great Democratic majority of Representatives and the elevation of a Southerner to the Speakership. Now they who denounced Mr. Reed are upholding the identical policy which he pursued. A party that can go back on itself thus in the face of a world of sneers deserves hearty congratulations. It thereby admits that Reed was wronged, and it does all within its power to right the wrong. No one can do more. So far, however, the Senate has not changed the abominable tenor of its way. The obstructionist still holds away there, and his ilk are prepared to do the Nation a decided injury before the tariff bill becomes a part of our laws. We hope it may yet adopt the ruling of the ex Speaker of the House,—and more than this, force a square vote on the issue, before the obstruc-ments—there are three hundred of these already—that it will not be recognized as a tariff-reform measure. We have but one objection to the bill—and be it said, we have "looked over" the entire 290 pages of it—and that objection is, its tariffs are not low enough. However, it is a step in the right direction, and we are inclined to "let well enough alone." Moreover, the present suspense occasioned by probable amendments to the bill and possibility of months of obstruction is more injurious to commerce than the certainty of a great increase on the present tariffs would be. Vice-President Stephenson has now the chance of his life. He may not get the nomination for the Presidency by any means; but if he will use all the privileges of his office to force the tariff bill—income tax and all—through his branch of the National Legislature, he may rest assured that he will have the gratitude of every merchant in the country for relieving him of a grievous suspense. It is often the case that certainty of disappointment is more salutary than entire uncertainty; and the present time with regard to the tariff bill offers one of those cases.

THERE is at least one propitious sign of the times—a redeeming feature of the final years of the century, which we have been looking for, and dyspeptics have been fearing many days. A revolution is on hand—the inevitable follower on and destroyer of froth-raising cults and "rages." Edward W. Bok, than whom no man has exerted a more wholesome or greater influence on womankind, has declared that the times are feverish to nausea with "too much woman"; and his tones herald a revolution. Moreover, "Ouida" (a woman!) has declared in the North American Review that she abhors "the woman of the day,"—the woman who is going—ever going—to supersede man, the woman would relegate man to the nursery and the cradle, and go out into the world, a political redeemer, evolving a civilization quite undreamed of by male beings. And there are evidences that many other influential women before the public are tired of this species of her kind. It is time they were for the sake of their name. As Mr. Bok says, "the woman of the day" would have us think that our mothers and grandmothers were the veriest nonentities, untrue to themselves and their duty; that never a good thing have they done, and that they are really unworthy to be mothers of the luminous "woman of to-day." There are hundreds of women's journals in the land, and most of them are devoted to the woman-of-the-day idea; they are leading a generation astray; but we rejoice to know that the first and best woman's periodical—The Ladies' Home Journal—is proving a Joshua. The froth-born journals may live vigorously for a day; but their influence will disappear finally. "Ouida" has not the best reputation; much of her work is unwholesome, but no one has spoken a greater truth than this: "Every word, whether written or spoken, which urges the woman to antagonism against the man, every word which is written or spoken to try and make of her a hybrid, self-contained opponent of men, makes a rift in the lute to which the world looks for its sweetest music." "The woman of the day" is an infrequent species in the South, and she will disappear from all sections eventually. The woman of the future will be as our mothers—the better half of the race indeed and in truth; which cannot be said of that limited present class which dresses like men from the waist up, smokes cigarettes—which men do not do, be it said—and walks the streets insusceptible to shame, incapable of modesty.

SARAH GRAND, mother of the 'Heavenly Twins,' attempts to counteract the influence of Ouida's article in the same number of the "Review." She is absolutely hair-tearing—we may say, heart-rending—in her denunciations of "the man of the moment." He is quite unworthy of her sovereign contempt. He has not half the wit of woman; not a mustard seed's measure of the moral courage; he is utterly devoid of anything worth having except masculinity, and that in the caustic writer's opinion is desirable only as a quality of which tolerable good might be made in proper hands. Sarah Grand is right—so far as she knows; she has lived quite a time and is a good judge of human nature; but her fault is, she has not seen a man that "is a man for a' that." She speaks of 'gentlemen' throughout her tirade, and her "man of the moment" is the 'gentleman' whose daily occupation is amusing frivolous girls, who apes English dukes and devotes his energies to changing apparel and smoking cigarettes. She has known several of these enervated creatures, but she is vastly ignorant of men. This is a danger of the moment: American boys are growing up to become gentlemen, afraid to soil their fingers save with nicotine, and ambitious only to toady to that contingent of "the women of the day," which is found in "higher" circles, and which puts a premium on brainlessness of habit and idiocy of dress. Sarah Grand is entirely correct, but she is wofully unfortunate in that her acquaintance with male kind has been limited to "gentlemen" who, she writes, live in idle luxury having princely incomes. Surely these men are so few that they cannot be regarded as the men of the moment, by whom all men must be judged and condemned.

"Male and female made he them." That is all that is necessary. God made both sexes, and he never made a useless thing. There are spheres and spheres, and no one can say to man or woman "thus far shalt thou go and no farther." They are not antagonists, but co-ordinates. They are mutual indispensables, and so ordained by the Creator. Both have great mental powers; neither has all nor too great. Both need and seek a higher intelligence and a betterment of conditions; but if the quest of these things will cause a declaration of independence on the part of either, they had better remain in their primal state of ignorant simplicity. But it will not be. There will be froth as there are mushrooms; but it will pass before the first pure breeze. The turbid yellow flood, which has come upon us in the shape of "the woman of the day" and her journals, is even now so diffuse in the vastness of the good and pure in woman that but an effort is needed to drive every appearance of it hence. The nausea of enervated male beings, who claim to have letters patent on society and gentlemanliness, will pass too—when vagrant laws are enforced, not only according to the letter, but the spirit.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

But may not the control and support of higher education by our State be rendered expedient by a necessity for the supply of teachers for public and other schools?

This argument, more than any other, seems to be relied upon to justify the expediency of State control and support of the higher education. It ought, therefore, to be carefully considered.

If there were no other way to secure a supply of teachers, and if this method would secure the supply, there would be force in this objection to the position assumed in the last two articles.

There is good ground, however, for believing that this is neither the only way nor the best way.

The Law of Supply and Demand is as applicable to schools and teachers as to any other department of human industry.

The demand for teachers will surely create a supply of teachers; and it will do this without any care or expense on the part of the State.

What is needed in North Carolina is better pay for the teachers and longer school terms. When this great and crying need is supplied, the whole matter of supply of teachers will take care of itself.

State control and support of higher education is not the only way to supply teachers. The great majority of teachers in our public and other schools have not come, hitherto, from our State institutions. So far as they have had higher education at all, the majority have come from the Christian and other private colleges.

So far as the higher and better paying places are concerned, there will probably always be more applicants than there will be vacancies. The books of the numerous "School Agencies" are filled with the names of well-prepared men and women who are anxious to secure positions in graded school and academy work.

These numerous candidates for employment are so much in excess of existing demand for their services, and they are so eager to get places, that they are ready to pay not only a registration fee to the "Agency," but also a considerable percentage of their first year's salary.

As to teachers for the public schools, is it not true that the more of the higher education a man or woman receives the less likely it is that he or she will ever teach in a public school?

If the State will pour all the money it can spare into its common schools, and thus pay teachers something like living salaries, it need give itself no concern about an ample supply of teachers.

And, on the other hand, the teachers educated by the State will for the most part decline to teach unless the schools afford more pay or else have longer terms. They can make more money at other occupations.

The range of average salaries of public school teachers in North Carolina is from $26 20 per month for white males to $20 14 for colored females. The length of the public school term is about thirteen weeks.

Is this compensation likely to be attractive to those upon whom the State spends its revenues for higher education?

At a meeting of the Southern Educational Association in Louisville, Ky., President Candler expressed the following views on this subject: "Some have made the mistake of supposing that we can improve the grade of our common school teachers by the endowment of normal schools and the like, without increasing the appropriations to our common schools. This is a delusion which we should dismiss without delay. If we could restrain the advancing years as Joshua made the sun to stand still, so that the present generation of children should grow no older while waiting for their teachers to be trained, and if, all the while, the normal colleges and all the other colleges were turning out graduates by the thousand, we could not draw these qualified men and women into the common schools, when the machinery was again set in operation, unless we paid them living salaries. On the other hand, if our colleges were to turn out no more graduates for the next ten years, and we would raise the salaries in the common schools to the level of a decent support, we would secure for most of the schools competent instructors. There is not a school in the South which offers a respectable salary which does not, in the case of a vacancy, have more applicants than it knows what to do with. But capable men and women will turn to other employment rather than enter schools which do not give the teacher a living. The more capable we make our college graduates the more surely they will go into other lines of labor, as long as the pay of teachers in the common schools is less than the salaries of dry goods clerks and base-ball players."

President Caldwell, of Chapel Hill, in the letters which have already furnished quotations, argued for the establishment of a "Central School" for the training of schoolmasters. In letter XI, he referred to "two or three well written pieces published some time since in one of the weekly prints" in which "the writer recommended to prepare teachers * * by availing ourselves of our university for their education."

In opposition to this view, he took the position that education at the University positively unfitted a young man from teaching a common school. He says, "To educate a young man in a college is to disqualify him almost with certainty for the permanent business of an elementary schoolmaster. * * * To educate a youth in college is to spoil him for the occupation of a primary schoolmaster. * * * He will soon be tired of being an abodarian, if he can teach Virgil and Homer, or hope for distinction in one of the learned professions. His tastes, his desires, his habits, the scope of his mind, his expenses and modes of living, have all been formed entirely at variance with the ends proposed."

The writer believes that the position taken by this eminent man is still true in its essential principles, and that it will apply to all colleges of high grade.

If this be true, it would seem that the State if it is going to undertake to educate teachers for its common school system, would do better to establish high schools and academies. The same objection would not lie against these. Indeed, if the general plan for State control of education shall be carried out, the State will ultimately maintain a system of academies which will make all private academies unnecessary. And Dr. Dreher says in the Address to which reference has already been made, "There is far more reason why the States should provide high schools than that they should maintain universities, since a great many more children would be educated in the former than in the latter. The high schools would meet the wants of nearly all classes; the universities, even with free tuition, do not meet the wants of those who are not able to bear the expenses necessary to bring the free tuition within their reach."

The present writer need hardly say that he can see no sufficient ground for the maintenance of either by a State. He believes that the whole matter of supply of teachers, all along the line, from top to bottom, may safely be left to self-interest on the part of the individual and to the laws of supply and demand.

The same principle, it is believed, will apply with equal force as an answer to the argument that the State is under obligation to educate men for social and political leadership in the State.

Any young man who has within him real capacity for leadership and a worthy ambition for advancement, if he shall receive from the State a good public school education, will surely make his way up. Assuredly he must have a chance to get education,—the best education. But this can be afforded under the voluntary as well as under the State-support system.

And there are really some serious objections to, if not dangers in, the encouragement of the idea that it is desirable for the rulers and leaders of the future all to be educated together and to be imbued with the same traditions. The writer is prepared to discuss this objection from a practical point of view, but prefers not to do so unless it should be rendered necessary hereafter.

If the State accepts the responsibility of providing higher education in order to supply teachers for all lower institutions, will it not naturally come to pass, more and more, that it will secure a sort of monopoly in filling desirable positions to the practical exclusion of applicants from all other institutions? The institutions which stand as "Logical Heads" of the State system will, as a matter of course, come to possess the nominating, and practically, in the course of time, the appointing prerogative. No others need apply. When this shall have come to pass, the colleges, male and female, can hold out, little hope to those whose patronage they solicit that they can expect positions as principals or assistants in the graded schools or State academies. And those in charge of these schools and academies will naturally, so far as they can, induce the young, as they pass from their higher classes, if they enter any higher institutions, to repair to those maintained by the State. And will not the ultimate result be that, as the system becomes more complete and compact, the children, as they grow up, will pass, with infrequent exceptions, into the State colleges and universities, and that these, in turn, will supply teachers for all the more desirable positions? Signs are not wanting that such a tendency has already begun to operate.

And is it not likely that in a somewhat similar manner political influence in a State will have a tendency to pass more and more, though quietly and unobtrusively, under control of the institutions of higher learning conducted by the State? Less and less, when the system is complete, will any one be likely to look hopefully for promotion to positions of honor and emolument, unless he shall have been a student at a State university. And all ambitious youths will naturally choose to enter the institutions whose halls are commended to them as the surest avenues to political promotion.

As to what the result of the full development of this tendency will be to the private colleges of the land, no prophet is needed. And yet it would be difficult to overestimate the value of the services which have been rendered by them to the whole cause of education. And this has been done, not only through the work in their class-rooms, but also in the stimulation of widespread interest among the people. By addresses and discussions before Synods, Conferences, Associations, Presbyteries, Conventions, Union and Quarterly Meetings, and Sunday school Institutes, more people have been reached, wider public opinion created, and greater stimulus given to desire for education than in any other way.

This work has been largely done in the name and under the leadership of the several Christian colleges. They are prepared for better organized and more persistent work in reaching the masses of the people, and for promoting a revival in popular interest in education than ever before. Is it expedient for the State to expend, in such a way as will injure these colleges, the money which would open more public schools or lengthen the terms of those now in operation? The people must answer.

Would it not be better to come back to the Voluntary System, which, it will be seen, is no new and untried experiment, even in North Carolina?

Before the Revolution there were eleven colleges in the American Colonies. Each of these was in a true sense a denominational college. They were also connected with government, because the churches were not yet disestablished.

During and after the struggle for Independence, all the logical demands of complete religious liberty were not recognized immediately. And the Voluntary System had received little recognition in the Old or the New World. It was an experiment. It is not surprising, therefore, that the patriotic men of the early years of the Republic sought in some cases to assume State control and support of the higher education.

In North Carolina more emphasis seems to have been laid on State control than on State support of the University during the first seventy years of its history. Indeed, before the war there was far more recognition, at least in practice, of the Voluntary System in higher education than there has been since the civil war.

The charter of the University (Code of N. C. Sec. 2610) enacted in 1789, empowers the Trustees * * to take * * all moneys, goods, and chattels that shall be given them for the use of the said university, and to apply the same according to the will of the donors."

Sec. 2612 says, "* * every Treasurer (of the University) shall receive all monies, donations, gifts, bequests, and charities whatsoever," &c.

Of course these paragraphs include money, &c., given by the legislature, but the enumeration of donations, gifts, bequests and charities is at least suggestive.

It becomes more than suggestive when we read (Blackmar's Hist. of St. and Fed. Aid to Higher Ed. in the U. S.) how the legislature interpreted this charter before the civil war.

The Trustees of the University were "authorized to purchase a site and erect a building as soon as sufficient funds could be collected, and hold all subscriptions to the university as a permanent fund for the use and support of the said university forever." (Blackmar's Hist. p. 194.)

The State loaned the University $10,000 in 1791 for the erection of buildings. This loan was afterwards made a gift. And this ten thousand dollars, originally a loan, is the whole amount given to the University by direct grant from the State Treasury by the legislature from the date of the charter in 1789 until 1866, a period of seventy-seven years. (Id., p. 198.)

The State gave the University escheats of lands, including land warrants granted Revolutionary soldiers. The total amount from this source is estimated at $300,000. Of this, $150,000 went into endowment and was lost as a result of the war. The other $50,000 was spent in paying professors and for other current expenses. (Id., p. 198.)

After the University had been in operation for twenty years, Hon. A. D. Murphey reported as follows to the legislature, after speaking of the usefulness of the institution to the State in high terms: "Unfortunately, the nature of the funds with which it was endowed in a short time rendered it odious to some and cooled the ardor of others. The torrent of prejudice could not be stemmed, the fostering protection of the legislature was withheld, and the institution left de-

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1894

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

INACTIVE MEMBERS.

In the allegory of the body and its members it is presumed that each member usually performs its functions. In the allegory of the True Vine and its branches our Lord presumed that each branch would draw sustenance from the Vine and live to its purpose growing stronger and stronger and more and more fruitful. But just as a member of the body may become weak or inactive, or a branch of a vine wither and become barren, so do members of the true Vine become apparently so nearly unconnected with the source of life that they are barren and even burdensome. An active member helps in being an agency of returning life and yielding fruit. But all members are not active; we have burdensome ones in nearly every flock who demand our prayerful attention.

A church member may become "cold"—if we may express it that way—through a retiring nature; for the human in man is with difficulty overcome. A young convert naturally feels that he is unable to take the place or even assume to aid an old and experienced church. Such a one rather regards himself as one to be led and not to lead. This spirit is commendable; but it should not be permitted to become a rule of action for one's life. The retiring young convert should be made to know that a "little child shall lead them." It is not the man of brains; nor he of brawn who leads in Christ's kingdom; but it is he who has become as a little child whom Christ leads, and through whom Christ leads. Young people should yield to the advice of older heads; but by no means should they be burdens. There is work in a church for every one of them; and that work should be given them to do. There is obvious reason why youth should not exert a predominating influence in a church in which there are older members; but that is no reason why it has not its field of usefulness.

It is a matter of frequent comment that there are too many inactive members in churches of all kinds. Could we find the cause of this it would be a great blessing. If it is worldliness or selfishness a revival through prayer is the remedy. If it is ignorance, the pastor must instruct them in the ways of knowledge. If it is want of spirituality, the Spirit must be brought back to them. But we have known church members who were perfectly willing to work who did not do what they could. And, perhaps, in these is the great trouble.

It may appear to some that one who was full of the Spirit of Christ would be as near the ideal church member as one could wish. Such is the rule; but it is a rule with many exceptions. In our churches many a pastor complains of lack of co-operation, when a little personal work in the way of organizing and instructing would secure unity of forces. One may be ever so faithful and pious and influential; but if the pastor has not found it out and given him a work, the execution of which depends on him, the pastor will receive little help. A church member is on equality, so far as power, is concerned, with his pastor; and yet the pastor must lead through Christ. Laymen seldom assume the duties of their pastor. And thus while they may be capable and willing to aid him in his cause they refrain from working without definite assignment for fear of intruding on their pastor. This demonstrates the need of perfect organization.

We think it highly desirable that a pastor become so thoroughly acquainted with his flock that he knows precisely for what each is fitted. They all may participate in all work; yet each may have one especial object in view. We do not believe in dividing a church, but we feel that it should be so arranged that each will be sensible of a personal burden. And we know in every day life "what's every one's business is nobody's care." So while every church member must feel that the entire work of the Lord in the world is a Christian's duty, and should do something in every possible direction, one should also be made to have an especial object in view. One thing done in the name of the Lord is a bolster to the entire work.

We do not believe in censuring inactive members until efforts—personal efforts—have been made to get them interested in some small part of their duty and to persuade them of the fruitlessness and the burden of their inactive condition. It is wholesome to have well-rounded members; that is, members who take an interest in every object; but this can be best attained through efforts to get them interested and active in [illegible] a small degree at the beginning. There of our churches at the present time who need only to be made to feel a sense of personal responsibility.

A pastor cannot do all the visiting, nor should he; a wealthy member should not do all the giving; a spiritual member cannot do all the personal aiding; they all need to help one another, and they all need the help of the inactive brother or sister who, perhaps, thinks that the church is already surfeited with workers; who may think that it is pure religion only for the pastor "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and keep himself unspotted of the world;" who may think that the rich should give, and the poor do the spiritual and personal work. None of these things apply. All need to feel a special interest, have a special object; but their prayerful co operation and sympathy cannot be spared solely to one direction. And a pastor should not complain until he has tried to make each of his flock aid him in some direction.

THE CONVENTION.

The Southern Baptist Convention meets at Dallas, Texas, this week. It has not a "great work" before it as a body; as an organization it is representative of a series of bodies before which the greatest work lies. There is but one question of general interest to be decided—that of representation. The Convention representation has grown so large under the present management that it is cumbersome to those who entertain it and to itself. A part of the denomination favors the numerical basis of representation; the others favor a financial; the question is, shall numbers or finance direct the Convention? Its settlement is of small importance, as the great number of churches make it impossible for any one church to feel personally represented, whether its number or contributions be great or small.

The reports of the Home and Foreign Boards will be read under the shadow of debt. They have been before. Our Southern churches have done better this year than in many years; we have made progress at home and abroad; and it has cost something We regret that the debt is so large, and hope that means may be devised for raising it. We do not approve of retrenchment under God's banner at any time; we do think that estimates should be made this year, considering all conditions. It is grievous enough to stand still. We would rejoice to see many workers sent to the frontier and to foreign lands in the next few weeks. God alone knows how sorely they are needed. But we cannot approve of enthusiastic methods under the present conditions. Let careful estimates be made.

As to North Carolina's part in the work to be reported this week: Our columns show how much our State Baptists have given; and investigation shows that they have done well—better than ever before since January 1st. We have raised a burdensome debt on our State work; and the contributions to other objects are not appreciably behind the usual figures. North Carolina is in tolerably good condition so far as the necessities of life are concerned, and we thank God for it. Her people have not much ready money, and we think they have given liberally. We are not disposed to complain. God only knew what the widow would have given had she been wealthy. No one, save God, can tell what North Carolina would have done if it had been able.

But, as we have said, while we have done well under pressure, it is no time for rest or retrenchment. We must certainly keep our present standard, and pray God to help us do more. Self-sacrifice will be an essential in a Christian's life so long as the world is not entirely Christian. Let us enter the work of another Conventional year with thanks and praise to God, prayers for his guidance, and the zeal and the joy of them who work not vainly. We have done well; we may try to do better.

QUERIES.

(1). Is it right for a minister to arrange to hold a meeting with a church through a private member without consulting the pastor of the church?

(2). Is it right for a private member of a church to invite a minister to come and hold a meeting, and make arrangements for said meeting, without consulting his pastor? "H."

To both questions we answer, No. And we desire to add that it is advisable that a pastor consult the deacons of his church before arranging for a special meeting in which some evangelist will assist. And the deacons are expected to know the needs and desires of the church in which they serve.

THE amount received by the Foreign Mission Board, Richmond, Va., this year, is $179,728.41. This is $11,658 80 more than was received last year. The liabilities of the Board, at the close of the fiscal year 1893, were $10,464.24, and the liabilities this

OUR Agent is laid up again. It is his foot this time. He may not be out for several days, and in the meantime we desire to impress our delinquents with the importance of paying a part, at least, of their subscriptions. Pastors are urged to help us extend our list and to send us renewals when it is convenient. These things are very important to the RECORDER.

WE should humble ourselves before the Lord all the time. We are dependents. He is the Master, Guide and Saviour. Nothing should be done without his will.

In another column it will be seen that a union meeting has resolved to set aside a day of fasting and prayer, having come to the conclusion that as God dealt with wayward Israel he deals with us. It is very well. We do not approve of special days. The Lord tells us to "pray without ceasing." But if we have not done this, we should begin as soon as possible. We would rather think that present conditions are things of the flesh. Yet we may believe that they came from the Almighty for his purposes. It matters not whence they came. If we humble ourselves in the sight of God and pray to and trust and obey him, all things will be better; and such is our duty. A special day of prayer may best be followed by another and another, at home and elsewhere. All the praying should not be done in churches.

A WRITER in The Standard suggests that as methods have to be adapted to circumstances in all other relations to obtain the widest results, so in the matter of evangelization must methods vary. God has but one method of salvation—Regeneration; but men whose work it is to impress that method on men have varying powers themselves, and deal with beings of various tastes and aptitudes. A pastor may be an excellent pastor, but, as is often the case, indeed, he may be pastor of one flock many years and fail to reach a certain class in the community which an evangelist with entirely different methods would reach. This is one of the reasons for existence of evangelists. Another is "reviving" church members. It is true Christians should not need revival; but if they do need it, and their pastor cannot revive them with his methods, there is need of an evangelist. Methods have to be adapted to men; but they should not be carried so far in the effort to reach them that they seem in discord with God.

FOR some time we have heard much of the "A. P. A."—American Protective Association. It is organized for the expressed purpose of politically opposing Roman Catholics. It is worthy of aim, but base and hideous in means. It is oath bound and secret—which is little better than Romanism It is violent and rights abridging. It is as entirely opposed to the American and the Baptist idea as is Romanism itself.

We fear Roman Catholicism. It is extremely dangerous; and we know it has too much political power right now, and that it is grasping for more. A Roman Catholic is a citizen of the United States, but a subject of Rome; and as such his citizenship should be abridged. We believe the Word of the Lord is the sword with which to fight this menace. Secret societies are menaces in themselves. We believe an American should think long before he places power in the hands of one who is bound to a sovereign other than the people. But we know that the proper educational steps on the part of Protestantism, and the use of a little energy, will be more effective in restraining Rome than an un-American secret society.

WE are informed that Dr. Taylor's article has excited interest in all parts of the State. We had surmised as much from the numerous messages we have received concerning it; and the solicitude of some of our subscribers that no issue might be lost. It is our intention to publish letters from all parts of the State after the discussion is completed; and we urge the brethren who have read the article not to hesitate to write us their views of the question in the new light. Dr. Taylor has done a great deal of thinking; he has purposed suggesting more.

Some people hesitate to express their opinions of a matter of this kind. It is so easy to provoke discord, strife, and bitterness, that the more retiring fear to take part in a public matter. But the lofty spirit of Dr. Taylor has been calculated to put aside whatever of ill-feeling may have been anticipated. We do not need a fight; and no one enters a fight when one begins thinking of the question or writing of it. The discussion is conceived and set forth in the best spirit; and we hope it might remain so, in order that the more peaceful may take part, if for no other reason.

The instalment in this issue should be read by all means. It is a little longer than usual, but it is very interesting, as it concerns the very practical question of expe-

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....If you are behind with your subscription, let us hear from you.

... Five persons joined the Raleigh Tabernacle the last Sunday in April.

....We were glad to have a pleasant visit from Rev. P. G. Elsom last week.

....Rev. R. H. Graves and wife, two of our missionaries to China, expect to be at the Convention.

....There are letters in this issue regarding Sister Yates from Bro. Bryan and Bro. and Sister Tatum.

....Rev. J. R. Jones is having the assistance of Rev. N. S. Jones of Salisbury in a meeting at Milton.

....Brethren W. Y. Chappell and W. M. Jackson were ordained to the Baptist ministry at Leesville recently.

....Rev. J. W. Daugherty of Portsmouth is aiding Rev. C. W. Blackwell of Elizabeth City in a series of meetings.

....Rev. M. A. Adams preached at Reidsville Sunday before last. Webster's Weekly speaks of his sermon in high terms.

....Rev. P. T. Hale of Birmingham, Ala., is aiding Dr. Cooper in a meeting in the First Baptist church, Richmond, Va.

....We return thanks for a copy of the report of the South China Mission, Southern Baptist Convention, for the year 1893.

....We very much regret to learn that Rev. G. W. Harmon of Weldon is quite sick. May God comfort him and restore his health.

....The Baptists of Sanford, where Rev. C. J. F. Anderson is preacher, began a series of meetings in the Presbyterian church last Monday.

....We were glad to see Dr. John Mitchell of Wake Forest on his return from a trip in the interest of the worthy object of which he is the representative.

....Rev. Hight C. Moore has brought out a compilation of North Carolina poetry. It is spoken very highly of by the Charlotte Observer, and we hope it will find a good sale.

....Rev. R. T. Bryan is able to travel again. We were glad to see him in Raleigh last Friday. He addressed the Ladies' Missionary Society of Wake Forest last week. He will attend the Convention.

....The Winston Sentinel, speaking of current events in the household of the pastor of Broad Street Church, says "its a bouncing boy, and the pastor and wife are happy." Congratulations.

....The Tarboro church calls Rev. W. V. Savage of Columbia. There is no preacher in the East more beloved than Bro. Savage, and he is looked upon as a son worthy of his honored father's mantle.

....Circular letters for subscription to the Vance memorial are out. They contain an excellent picture of Vance with autograph, and can be obtained on application to Hon. Alf. A. Thompson, Raleigh, N. C.

....Rev. W. H. Rich, recently of the W. N. C. Baptist, and Miss Mattie Haynes, were united in marriage on the 21 inst., in the Baptist church at Clyde, Rev. R. A. Sentell officiating. We extend best wishes.

....Rev. P. H. Goldsmith, Southern Baptist Missionary to Mexico, and a messenger from our workers in that country to the Dallas Convention, stopped over and made a talk to the Wake Forest people recently.

....A brother writes to an exchange that "Bro. —— has worked up a good meeting in such a church." We have more faith in a meeting which is "prayed down" than one which is "worked up."—Western Recorder.

....Shaw University of Raleigh, the property of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, is to be improved and enlarged. The president's residence will be rebuilt, and the pharmacy department will be improved.

....Rev. A. M. Simms and wife, Dr. C. Durham, Bro. N. B. Broughton and wife, brethren J. M. Broughton, O. J. Carroll, B F. Montague, J. T. Pullen, C. T. Spruill, and Prof. Parker left Raleigh Tuesday night for Dallas, Texas.

....Messrs. Jul. E. Yates and Chas. M Billings of Wake Forest College have been chosen by their respective societies as representatives in the "Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest," under the auspices of the Teacher's Assembly in annual session.

....Bro. D. E. Modlin writes from Windsor: "Our pastor, Rev. J. B. Boone, gives entire satisfaction as a preacher in our midst. This year he preaches two Sundays in each month for Cashie and Union churches in addition to his work at Windsor."

....The Piedmont Herald says Revs. F. H. Jones of Chatham, Va., M. A. Adams, J. B. Richardson and J. L. Tucker are engaged in the meeting at Leaksville, and several persons have professed faith in Christ, and a large number asked for prayers.

....Rev. L. R. Pruitt has been called to the pastorate of the Olivet church, Charlotte. Bro. Pruitt resigned the Mt. Airy pastorate some time ago, but has continued to supply it. If he goes to Charlotte he will do good work.

Rev. W. C. Tyree will preach the baccalaureate sermon, Rev. R. T. Bryan the sermon before the Maggie Nutt Missionary Society, and Hon. Chas. M. Cook will deliver the literary address at the commencement exercises of Oxford Female Seminary, May 28th.

....Rev. T. M. Honeycutt has our thanks for a neat and tasteful invitation to the commencement exercises of Mars Hill College, May 16th and 17th. The annual address will be delivered by Hon. Locke Craige, Asheville, N. C.; the sermon by Rev. H. T.

....On last Wednesday night Broad St. Church, Winston, a missionary meeting with an interesting programme, was held in place of the regular prayer meeting.

....We were glad to have a visit from one of our best laymen last week—Bro. W. E. Daniel, Esq., of Weldon. The work at Weldon is in excellent shape, but the Weldon Baptists are cast down in sympathy with Bro. Harmon in the sad death of his wife.

....It is stated that the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Oxford have arranged to hold union revival meetings. The meetings were begun in the Baptist church last week, and will be continued in the other churches for the greater part of this month.

....The Wake Forest Student for April has been received. The Forsaken Bell, a translation from the German; The Present and Future of Poetry, and Bible Study at Wake Forest are among other interesting contributions. The number is fully up to the usual standard.

....Our statement last week in reference to this year's graduates from the Seminary was a mistake. The two North Carolina brethren mentioned as candidates for degrees this year, graduated last year. Bro. Thompson is still studying at the Seminary, but Bro. Tilley is not.

....Rev. F. C. McConnell, Assistant Secretary of the Home Mission Board, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church, Lynchburg. His resignation of his present position is a great loss to the Home Board, as he had done much in recent months to strengthen and enlarge its work.

....Dr. Pritchard wrote us Saturday: "Bro. White preaches wonderfully well, and did us all good. We had a fine meeting—don't know how many converts—probably a hundred. Many will go to other denominations. We will get fifty or more. Others are from the country. Shall go to the Convention."

....Bro. R. H. Moore writes us that there is a fine opening for a doctor of medicine at Old Fort. They need one at once, and assure us that any one who looks over the field will be pleased. At the rate the colleges turn out M. D's this season of the year, we think Bro. Moore will find little difficulty in getting one.

....Dr. J. D. Hufham reached Raleigh from Tarboro on the 8th inst. He stayed with us an evening and went to Wake Forest to visit friends and relatives. He spent half of Thursday in Raleigh and left Friday morning for the "highlands." It was a great joy to us to see our old friend in vigorous health and spirits. It is hard for the East to lose him to the West.

....Dr. J. H. Hiden of Richmond, Va., is aiding his promising young son, Rev. Jos. Hiden of Morehead City, in a series of meetings. Young Bro. Hiden has been in our State some months, and despite his apparent efforts to "keep to himself," we have heard many good reports of his work, both from his members and others who had occasion to hear him. We congratulate father and son.

....Bro. T. R. Crocker, professor of Latin and Greek in Turlington Institute writes: "Our school has had a very prosperous session. Prof. J. B. Carlyle will deliver the address at commencement, June 6th. If he should fail to make an excellent one, it will be the first time. He writes also that no other word but charmed will express the effect of Bro. F. H. Martin's recent services with Bro. Poston's people at Smithfield.

....Rev. J. A. Campbell of Poe's has our thanks for a handsome invitation to the closing exercises of his excellent institution, Buie's Creek Academy, May 23d. Mr. H. McL. Greene of Lexington, N. C., delivers the salutatory, Mr. W. M. Montgomery of McLeansville, the valedictory: and Prof. J. B. Carlyle of Wake Forest, the literary address. The exercises will be extended with declamations, recitations, dialogues, music, etc.

....The courtesy of an invitation to the commencement exercises of Yadkin Valley Institute, Booneville, N. C., May 29th and 30th, is acknowledged. Rev. J. E. Green is principal of the institution. Rev. W. R. Bradshaw of Moravian Falls will preach the annual sermon on Tuesday night, and Rev. H. C. Moore, Winston, will deliver the literary address Wednesday morning. Interesting exercises by the students are announced.

....This week the Southern Baptist Convention meets for the fourth time in Texas. It met for the first time in Augusta, Ga., forty-nine years ago, and will probably meet there next year. It has met in Georgia seven times, in Kentucky five times, in Virginia four times, in Tennessee five times, three times each in Alabama, South Carolina and Maryland, and once each in Louisiana, Missouri and North Carolina.

....Rev. P. G. Elsom's work with Dr. Carter in Raleigh is fully up to the high expectations based on his work this year in other parts of the State. He is conversational in method, and his great forte is reliance on the surety of God's word and promises. He reads a promise and impresses his hearers with the absolute infallibility of it. Numbers have shown interest and there have been some professions. The church is in a state of activity, and the meetings will be continued. The attendance is increasing.

....The New Berne Journal of the 5th inst. contains half a column on the Home Mission work done by Newbern Baptists through Rev. J. W. Rose. Bro. Rose has been laboring in that section of the State sixteen months strengthening the foothold in Cove, Dover, Fort Barnwell and Vanceboro neighborhoods. A church has been built at Cove, and one is being arranged for at Spring Garden. The Newbern Baptists are among the most active Christian people in the State, Sister Yates.

Apr 20, 1894

Dear Recorder:—One Saturday in March six years ago, Dr. M. T. Yates was not, for God took him. In some respects, it has been Saturday with our dear Mother Yates ever since, and on Saturday, March 24th, 1894, she entered upon the rest that remains for the children of God. They who were the stay of the Shanghai mission through so many years are again united where Sabbaths never end and partings never come. We shall miss her so very much. She has been such a mother to us children missionaries, and some of us have been so childish in that we have received her kindness and care as if it were due us and we owed nothing in return.

Mother Yates was nearing three score years and ten when I first came to the mission. Though she was obliged to put aside some of the more active duties of missionary life, she was ever awake to the interests of the church here, and by word and deed showed her love for each member. What a blessing Dr. and Mrs. Yates have been to the Chinese and to the churches of North Carolina and of the Southern Baptist Convention. We ought to follow them as they followed the Master. Mrs. Tatum visited Mrs. Yates frequently during her last weeks with us, and has agreed to write you.

Yours fraternally, E. F. TATUM

Shanghai, China.

Death of Sister Yates

Dear Recorder:—Dear "Mother" Yates has gone to her rest and her reward. On Monday, March 26th, a large and sorrowing company, natives and foreigners, gathered in the Shanghai mortuary-chapel, while the pastor of Union church read some of these beautiful, comforting passages from God's Word, and spoke feelingly of the noble Christian life of the dear departed one. Among other things he said, "There are few among us who have not in some way been blessed by her words or deeds." His testimony was so true. My own mind wandered back over the four years I had known her and recalled kindness after kindness—one long succession of loving acts and helpful words, and I knew myself to be but one of many who had shared like ministrations.

The English service ended, loving hands bore the body to its resting-place by the side of him whose companion she was for so many long years. Archdeacon Thompson, one of the oldest missionaries in Shanghai, conducted the service in Chinese at the grave. The native Christians of all denominations were present, and their tearful eyes and sad, reverent faces told how much they loved and respected the one, who for so many years and in so many ways had showed herself their friend. We sang the Chinese version of "Heaven is my home," and then Mr. Thompson spoke to the native Christians of the life of Mrs. Yates among them, exhorting them to follow her as she had followed Christ, and reminding them that we buried but the body, while the spirit had entered upon the life eternal. After an earnest prayer, we sang "Forever with the Lord," and left the grave of our loved one was covered with floral tributes.

I need not tell you how much we do and shall miss her, to whose ready sympathy and ripe experience we have so long looked for encouragement and counsel in our work, but I do want to tell you how God crowned the last days of the long life of his servant with goodness and mercy, and how he has taken all the bitterness from the cup of sorrow of the bereaved.

When Mrs. Yates left America in November, she was so weak that it was feared she might never reach her home in the East; but God strengthened her on the journey and she reached the land of her adoption stronger than when she left her native land.

After her arrival, however, she grew gradually weaker, being confined to her room most of the time. She was not able to see many friends, but I was allowed to sit with her one afternoon each week, and how I shall always cherish the sweet memories of those afternoons! I invariably found her cheerful, and she talked of the difficulties and encouragements at home and of the interests of the work here with the same deep concern she had always manifested. One afternoon she gave me a generous check to hand to Mr. Tatum to use in meeting mission expenses, that it might not be necessary for a time to draw on the overburdened treasury at Richmond.

She said little about herself, except to speak thankfully of freedom from pain. Always thoughtful of the interests and comfort of others, this characteristic was prominent through all her days of weakness until the end.

Her decline was so gradual that not until a week before she died did we realize that she was surely going from us. I went to see her the Saturday before she died and found her very weak. She slept the greater part of the time I was there, but was awake when I left, and sent a message of love to Mr. Tatum and the children—her last words to me. Until that time her mind was perfectly strong and clear. The last week she slept much of the time and on waking was sometimes confused. She suffered no pain, however, and when she knew the end was near, never expressed a doubt or fear. She passed away peacefully and we feel that hers was an abundant entrance into the kingdom above.

Surely we have reason to praise God who permitted his servant to reach in safety the land she loved, where she might rest beside the companion gone before; Who, during the days of weakness, granted her the tender, loving, unceasing care of a devoted daughter and son; Who surrounded her with every physical comfort; Who granted her freedom from suffering; Who spared her the use of every faculty until the end, and then let her sleep to wake in heaven. A noble life! A beautiful death! A precious memory!

Our hearts go out in deepest sympathy for Mrs Seaman, who until now has known little of separation from her mother, but God has made the parting for her as easy as it could be made, and he will comfort and sustain his child.

The native Christians feel deeply their loss. In speaking of it on Sunday, they said they had lost "their mother," and truly she was as a mother to them. It was to her they were accustomed to carry their joys and sorrows, and if she could not always relieve their distress or point the way out of their difficulties, they came away stronger by reason of her sympathy and with their thoughts turned toward the great Burden-bearer.

God greatly blessed her work in the home, where she diligently taught the native women who were from time to time members of her household, both to read and understand the Word of God. These native women are numbered among the most earnest, faithful workers in our church, and they are exerting a saving influence among their heathen relatives and friends.

Until within ten days of her death, Mrs. Yates kept up the reading of a morning Bible lesson with her aman, only ceasing when when she had not strength to continue:

God has taken to Himself two of those who welcomed me to China—Mrs. Herring and Mrs. Yates, and heaven seems nearer and sweeter that they are there to welcome me when I may cross to the other shore.

Sincerely, ALICE M. TATUM

Shanghai, China, March 30, 1894.

"Mother Yates"

She called me "Son Robert," and allowed me to call her "Mother Yates." Many of the young people enjoyed this same privilege, and appreciated it as a great honor. It is very difficult to write a newspaper article about one's mother. Human language is unable to express the deep emotions and sacred feelings of the heart when mother's living, sympathetic, encouraging voice is hushed in the sleep of death. The sad news of Mother Yates' death will cause many hearts to ache and many tears to flow, both in China and the United States.

O how we shall miss her help, her encouragement, her wise counsel; and some of us, her visits to the Old North Gate in Shanghai. God alone knows the loss of her own dear son and daughter. May he who knows their sorrow comfort their hearts! May he who has weighed their burden, give them strength to carry it!

We have lost a mother! We can think of her and write about her in no other sense. She was a mother to the work, always interested in it, and growing more and more so to the day of her death. The last letters we received, written just before her death, and doubtless among the last she wrote, were almost entirely about the condition of the mission work. These letters showed as much interest in the work, and as much anxiety for its success as a mother feels for her own children.

She gave up her home at the North Gate after "Father Yates's" death to live with her daughter, but her heart and her hand still resided there. She told us just before we left China that she felt more like a missionary than ever before in her life. Nothing gave her more pleasure than to have us come and tell her about the work, our plans for the present, and the future outlook; and we were always well paid for doing so by her help, her judgment, and her encouragement. Besides her school-work and her work among the church members and heathen women, she considered her money as belonging to God, and made many liberal gifts to our mission work. She was a liberal contributor to the Shanghai Baptist church, gave the church an organ, and taught several young ladies music, one of whom is now the organist.

Whenever she made a contribution to our work, she always asked us not to say anything about it.

I understand to day, as I write about her as "Mother Yates," why she wished us not to make known her gifts to the work. No mother likes to publish to the outside world what she does for her child. I obeyed her and said nothing about what help she gave us in our work; but now that she is dead, I think it will not be wrong for me to tell of some few of her noble works since Father Yates's death:

She gave nearly a thousand dollars to help build a mission house in Chinkiang; built the mission house in Soochow, and contributed about four hundred dollars in the last two years toward the expense of our mission station at the East Gate in Shanghai.

She was a mother to the Chinese Christians. They all loved her tenderly, and felt that in her they had a friend who loved them and sympathized with them. We will miss her influence over the native Christians very much, for they were largely guided by her in their church life.

She was "Mother Yates" to many young missionaries, especially to the unmarried young men and young ladies, both in her own mission and in others.

In fact, her heart never grew old. She was the children's friend. Many little missionary children will miss Grand Ma Yates's Christmas box. It seemed to give her peculiar delight to make children happy.

Many hearts will join in thanking God for her life, and in mourning her death. God took her. We humbly submit to his will, but heartstrings have been severed and must bleed.

She has left us never more to return, but the influence of her quiet, earnest life will never die!

R. T. BRYAN.

Durham, N. C.

Read the Statement of the Union Casualty and Surety Company, to be found in another column in this issue. This Company is represented by Mr. A. E Lindsey of Raleigh; and while it is not so large as some others, it is as strong as the strongest. It has over half a million in assets, and is equally strong in other points.

Dr. Pritchard's Reply to Rev. O. L. Stringfield.

I hardly know whether my self respect should allow me to answer Bro. Stringfield's personal reflection on President Hobgood and myself, contained in a late article in the RECORDER. At first, I could scarcely determine whether he intended to insult us or not, his language will certainly bear such a construction—but supposing that there was no such desire in his heart and that he was only unfortunate in his manner of putting things, I have concluded to add a word by way of rejoinder.

There is no escaping the conclusion however, that Bro. Stringfield charges us both with being opposed to the Female University in Raleigh; we are trying to side track it, and are charged with unworthy motives in discussing the topic of co education just at this time. Bro. Stringfield asks why I said nothing about this when in 1893, before the State Convention, I advocated the establishment of the school in Raleigh. I answer that in 1894, as stated in my first article in favor of co-education, I was not converted to that theory. Now let me say right here, that with all his enthusiasm on the subject, Bro. Stringfield does not begin to see the importance of our having a college grade school for our girls as I do. I have longed for it for thirty years, and for a time, I fondly hoped that the enterprise projected at Henderson might result in the consummation so devoutly desired. When I was constrained to relinquish that hope, turning in every direction for help, and visiting, in the meantime, the Peabody College at Nashville, my mind rested upon the idea of using the appliances at Wakes Forest already provided, as the easiest attainment of the end I so earnestly longed for. I have now been preaching the gospel for forty years; I have been intimately connected with all our public measures, during all that long period and I can say with an honest appeal to my Master, that I have never favored or opposed any measure which related to the cause of Christ from selfish and sinister motives, and I believe I can modestly, and yet confidently appeal to all the brethren that have known me to bear testimony to the truth of this statement.

I have no personal feeling against any place, or person connected with this enterprise: I have no axe to grind in advocating co education. I protest that I have no other end in view than the promotion of the best interests of our Zion, and it seems to me that my good Bro. Stringfield has acted in a manner unworthy of himself in attributing to me and President Hobgood selfish and unworthy motives.

No doubt this idea of co education seems to Bro. Stringfield a far off scheme, but he will find himself mistaken about this matter, as he is as to the opinions on the subject of the Trustees and Faculty of the college, as I happen to know.

So far as I am concerned personally in this matter, let me say, in conclusion, that amid all the blunders which have been made, since this enterprise began, and its most ardent friends must confess that the enterprise has been distinguished by some sad blunders, let not the added blunder be made of advocating it in the spirit of this article of Bro. Stringfield.

Mt. Zion Union—Tickets Given to Dallas.

Dear Recorder:—The Mt. Zion Union which met last Friday and Saturday with Mt. Pisgah church was considered the most pleasant and profitable session we have had for years. As is the custom every year at this spring meeting of our Union, all the topics for discussion related to Sunday-school work. Bro. MacDuffie, our chairman, prepared an admirable program, but we were sorry he was prevented by sickness from attending. If I may be allowed I would suggest the plan we adopted this time to other Associations. Instead of having the program of our Union printed in the RECORDER, we simply announce the time and place of meeting in the RECORDER and had our programs printed, mailed a copy to each brother who had been assigned a part, and distributed these programs in the audience. This I think much better for several reasons than printing them in the RECORDER.

There were present at this meeting seven of our pastors and representatives from about twenty-five churches. The reports from all the churches indicate quite a general and deep interest in Sunday-school work, and when the delegates go home from this meeting, I am sure they will carry back greater enthusiasm. The Mt. Pisgah people come out in large numbers and entertained us splendidly.

We all felt it a great privilege to visit the old home church of Dr. Yates and to see the stone which marks the spot behind the old church where he, when a young man, was in the habit of praying, and where he probably decided the question about going to the foreign field. There was an old tree there then, and when this died and decayed, the brethren placed a stone slab to mark the place which will always be a sacred spot. During this meeting mention was made of the recent death of Sister Yates, and several brethren spoke feelingly in regard to the life and work of those two faithful and noble servants of God.

I had decided not to go to the Convention, but my Sunday-school has kindly surprised me by proposing to pay my expenses, and I now intend to go.

My people have also done another noble thing. Many friends of Dr. Durham in our church feel that he has worked so faithfully and successfully to raise money to pay off the State Mission debt, and has been so unselfish in giving his fifty dollars instead of going to the Convention, that they wanted to show their affection for their old pastor by presenting him a ticket to Dallas, and it gave them pleasure to do so.

Of course I feel proud of my Sunday-school and church, and I feel more and more that I have the best church and noblest people in all the land.

W. C. TYREE.

Durham, N. C.

About the Work.

Dear Recorder:—I write these lines with the hope that they will be of interest to some of the RECORDER readers. As some of them know, I have only been in the pastorate since September, 1893, and, of course, am inexperienced along that line of work. But I am doing the best I can and my feeble efforts seem to be appreciated. I now have all my Sundays occupied with pastoral work.

On each first Sunday I go to the brethren at Cleveland. Here we have a good house with a small membership. The membership is composed of as good people as my lot has ever been cast with. They appear to be ready for "every good word and work." I greatly enjoy working with this consecrated people. With God's help we hope to do much for his cause at this place.

On the second Sunday in each month I meet with the brethren at Thessalonica. I have but recently commenced my work at this place. I have been favorably impressed with this people and desire to do them good.

On the third Sunday I go to Catawba. Here we have a good house built of brick, but we need to have some inside work done. We could greatly improve the inside appearance by expending a few dollars, and this we hope to do. We have not a large membership, but among them are some good, substantial "stand bys."

On each fourth Sunday I go to Shady Grove. Here we have a good house with a small membership, but some good people. The outlook is now more encouraging than when I commenced my work with them. While there are huge difficulties in the way, yet by God's help we hope to overcome them.

On last fourth Sunday, after preaching at Shady Grove in the morning, it was my privilege to meet with the brethren at Berea in the afternoon. It was a great pleasure to me to meet with this people as I have some pleasant recollections of a week spent in a meeting with them last August. Bro. Wyatt is their faithful and much loved pastor. He is doing a good work here.

There was quite a large congregation out to hear me, and I felt grateful to God that he had given me an opportunity to meet with this people once more.

We spent the night at the pleasant home of Rev. J. M. Ballard. Bro. Ballard was ordained last December, and is now working up a mission point in Rowan county. He is an earnest, faithful brother and worthy of encouragement.

Bro. Ballard and I went to Mooresville next day to see Bro. Hopkins. This dear, good brother has had a great load of oppression to bear for sometime. But God has been with him and has brought him safely through all. Bro. Hopkins informed me that his congregations were now large and the work in Mooresville "looking up." He gave me a kind and pressing invitation to visit and preach to his people. I hope to do so soon. Sincerely,

A. W. SETZER.

Carson, April 24, 1894.

From Concord.

Dear Recorder:—Here in Concord we have lately enjoyed one or two ripples in the smooth flow of time.

Last Friday, April 27th, the Mecklenburg and Cabarrus Union met with the church here and held for two days, discussing questions of interest.

Dr. Pritchard, to our great regret, did not get over, as Bro. White was with him in a meeting in his church. Also, Bro. Austin's genial inspiring presence was sadly missed. I suppose that without Bro. Austin, Bro. Gresham could not come, and so we had none of the Charlotte brethren.

But we had a good meeting despite all these drawbacks. Bro. Thomasson remained over and preached for me Sunday morning and night. At the beginning of each service on Sunday I gave an opportunity for any one to unite with the church, and each time welcomed one.

We have had no pentecostal ingatherings, but have seen them come by one's and two's at shorter intervals.

Our church debt is in better shape now. I have had taken from me my reason for offering my resignation here. The brethren have gone to work on the debt, and will, I think, do something on it now. Everything seems brighter with us and promises sure though slow progress. My church has given to missions, during the last three months, about three times as much as for the same length of time heretofore.

I understand Bro. L. R. Pruitt has been called to Olivet church in Charlotte. I hope he will accept and get into our Association. I wish we had a large number of strong men.

ADVICE.

Soon after the South Carolina trouble, I preached from Titus 3: 1—"Put them in mind to be subject unto principalities and powers, to obey magistrates," &c. I tried to teach that it is a duty of every Christian to be law-abiding. Among other things I said that it was the civil and religious duty of Gov. Tillman to execute and to enforce the law so long as it was law. Some how I was very partially reported in the Charlotte Observer. Soon after some one claiming to be a Baptist and ashamed to sign his own name to his letter of advice, over the signature of "Only a Drummer" proceeded to expatiate on the South Carolina law, &c., &c., and to advice me to "keep my hands out of the Devil's business." But some how such advice has not yet convinced me that I ought to keep my hands out of the Devil's business. I think the Devil desires me to do that very thing, viz., keep my hands out of his business. At any rate I feel like doing almost anything to put the Devil out of business. May the Lord and we hasten the day when he shall be bound!

DR. TAYLOR'S ARTICLE is reaching in this town more deeply than he expected, I am sure. It has indirectly stirred several. One of our editors is holding the articles so that he can read the entire discussion at one time. He expects to speak upon the subject treated after due consideration. Many here seem to think that the question of STATE AID for the University will be thoroughly aired this year. It does seem that these are times of enquiry and change. I pray that God's cause may prosper in the midst of all this plowing and sowing. Fraternally, J. O. ALDERMAN.

Concord, May 2, 1894.

Notes from Scotland Neck.

I am just home from Sumter, S. C., where I spent twelve days in a meeting with Rev. C. C. Brown and his flock. What a sunny and sociable and inspiring soul Bro. Brown is, and what a wonderful fellow generally. Bright and tough and tireless and mighty, he is a steam engine in breeches. Wherever you gear Brown, the machine must move or "bust." It would not do to say in print that Sister Brown is the engineer. But folks, you know, will have their opinions. This gifted and versatile "son of thunder" and "son of consolation" rolled into one has been bishop of his present charge for twenty years; and very beautiful is it to observe the warm reciprocal regard of pastor and people. They both know a good thing when they see it, so each holds on to the other. A sojourn in the home of Sister Brown (meaning no harm by calling it the home of Sister Brown) and among his charming people, is an occasion to be coveted, and once enjoyed, will remain a delightful memory.

BISHOP HUPHAM'S DEPARTURE.

This war-worn veteran, having rounded up his sixteenth year in this Union, left us last week to take up the work in Shelby. His work among us has been one of almost continuous reaping following closely on his sowing. And while the toil has been severe, the harvest has been wondrously generous. It is but just to say that out of his pastorate here grew the Orphanage and the new birth of State Missions, not to mention the many new churches organized and new buildings erected under his labors in this Union. His last week among us was a fitting close to his valuable services on this field. Coming over from Tarboro last Sunday week after his farewell to those saints, he preached for us that night and again Wednesday night, when five souls professed faith. On Sunday morning last we went up and dedicated the neat and tasteful church at Tillerys, first organizing a new church there with eighteen members from Crowells, Dawsons, and Scotland Neck churches. He preached the sermon, and it was up to his best. That night he baptized for me three fine young men into our fellowship. His departure leaves Scotland Neck and Tarboro and the regions round about in tears.

TWO VALUABLE RECORDER SERIALS.

By all means let Dr. Taylor's articles be placed in the hands of every voter in the State. They strike me as cogent, convincing, overwhelming, unanswerable. Give the people the facts and they will speak in due time. Could not Poteat be induced to enlarge his "Studies" and then put them in a book? His papers are a valuable contribution to biblical literature.

I do not remember to have observed so signal improvement in any paper as the last year has marked in the RECORDER. So be it.

R. T. VANN.

Scotland Neck, May 4.

From Wadesboro, N. C.

Dear Recorder:—I write to show what we are doing in this quiet, little town.

For many weary months we were without a pastor. We felt that a crisis in the history of the church had arrived, and that we must have a spiritual leader. God graciously heard our prayers, and sent us a wise, faithful and efficient pastor, Rev. J. Q Adams. He from the first seemed to recognize the disadvantages under which we labored, and set about to remedy the defect, and as a consequence we are moving onward and upward. The congregations are good, the contributions have increased, and the prayer-meetings are well attended.

A Young People's Union has been organized, with an average attendance of between fifty and sixty. Some of the older members and deacons always cheer us with their presence. The Union has proved to be a great blessing to our young people, both mentally and spiritually.

We have just passed through a gracious revival. Rev. D. W. Key of Society Hill, S. C., assisted our pastor the first week, and Rev. M. A. Adams of Monroe the second week. Many souls were saved, and the members greatly revived. Eleven have been baptized, and others await the ordinance.

These services were continued by our pastor the following week at the "Chapel," a mission of our church, with good results.

It is the general verdict of our people that we have the right man in the right place.

R.

Wadesboro, April 30, 1894.

Chowan Association.

This body meets with Shady Grove church, May 23d—24th. To reach it by rail, go on the Norfolk and Southern road to Moyock. There the people will be met and conveyed to the church which is some three miles from the station. Persons can leave Raleigh via Seaboard line in the morning and reach Moyock at 5 p. m.

Rev. Josiah Elliott will preach the introductory sermon.

Arrangements have been made for all delegates and visitors to the Association to be returned at one-half fare on the Norfolk Southern R. R., and we are trying to make arrangements on the Norfolk and Carolina R. R., which have not as yet been completed.

E. F. AUTREY, Moderator.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

pendent upon private munificence. Individuals contributed, not only to relieve its necessities, but to rear up its edifices and establish a permanent fund for its support. * * With the aid thus derived from individuals, together with occasional funds derived from escheats, the institution has been maintained thus far." (Id., p. 196)

Between 1790 and 1797 about $60,000 were raised for the University on the Voluntary method. This sum represents the gifts of such noble spirited men as Col. Smith, Maj. Gerrard, and Gen. Person, and of citizens of Chapel Hill. Other amounts may have been given by other parties. (Smith's Hist., p. 59)

In 1811 President Caldwell made an extended excursion through the State as soliciting agent for the University. By making application to individuals, he obtained funds for the erection of buildings at Chapel Hill to the amount of $12,000. (Foote's Sketches, p. 549)

In those earlier years of the history of higher education in North Carolina the Voluntary system was to a great extent adopted by those who controlled the University. Yet it would seem that if, at any time, entire support by taxation of the University has been expedient, it would have been when no other institution existed in the State for supplying higher education.

Since the civil war, however, when other institutions, working entirely on the Voluntary system, have been ready to supply all the higher education demanded of them, without cost to the State, the idea of State support (as well as State control) has come more prominently to the front.

This more recent tendency is probably a refluent wave of influence from the West and Northwest. Theoretically, it appears very attractive, and makes a strong appeal to the imagination. But it is simply impracticable in North Carolina.

The gradual increase of appropriations from the State Treasury for higher education is one indication of the tendency referred to in the first article. Those who may discredit the existence of such a tendency are invited to compare the ten thousand dollars voted from the State Treasury between 1789 and 1866 (seventy seven years) with the two hundred and forty-five thousand dollars granted from the State Treasury during the last fourteen years, (including 1894) And if we count in the income from the land-scrip bonds (which, having been accepted by the State were properly used till the A. & M. College was founded), the State has paid the University since 1866 three hundred and forty thousand dollars.

The amount received by the institution from escheats, &c., since the war is not known to the writer.

(If any one will kindly inform him where his figures are not accurate, the writer will be glad to correct them in a future article.)

If any reader will take the trouble to add up the grants made from the State Treasury for other institutions of higher learning in North Carolina, the tendency referred to will manifest itself to him still more clearly.

There seems to be some ground for supposing that before the war the University was supported by students' fees to a greater extent than it has been since the war. But in the absence of reports, such as are published by other State institutions, one does not feel warranted in making an assertion at this point. The tendency, however, is in this direction.

This is another tendency for which we are indebted, perhaps, to the example of the Western States. The old Constitution of North Carolina did not say that "the General Assembly shall provide that the benefits of the University, as far as practicable, be extended to the youth of the State free of expense for tuition." These words are in the new Constitution which was adopted after the civil war. Efforts have been made in the past, and possibly may be again in the not distant future, to induce the General Assembly to conclude that it is practicable to give free tuition at the University to all applicants.

Even if the State should undertake, after all, to support as well as control all higher education, is there any sufficient ground for it to decline to charge tuition or other fees in the old fashioned way?

Does not all higher education, worthy of the name, enhance the earning power of the recipient? Does it not create within him the power to repay, after a time, it may be, a reasonable fee for his tuition and other expenses? Is there any more ground for the State to give a young man the use of a room free from rent, because he is a student, than there is for the State to give the same to any other young man because he may be a clerk, a mechanic, a farmer?

Even if the State maintains higher education with a view to supplying a possible demand for teachers, does any sufficient reason appear why they should not pay at least a part of what the State expends upon their education?

Those who teach do valuable work. But it is not missionary work. These laborers are worthy of their hire. And unless they receive it they are hardly likely to continue to teach at all.

No young man or woman in North Carolina ought to be, or is, debarred from securing a good college education by reason of his or her inability to pay tuition fees in cash.

As a matter of fact, generous indulgence is given to large numbers,—young women, as well as men,—by the colleges of the State. But the tendency within the last few years is toward the idea that higher education is not a valuable consideration for which money ought to be paid. Even well to do people enquire more and more, "What 'inducements' do you offer in the way of free tuition, &c?" Doubtless all the institutions need more or less toning up at this point. But it is a point at which they must all make a stand together, or no one of them can succeed.

Let a student give his note, if absolutely necessary. But the notes thus taken ought not to be regarded in a merely sentimental light, either by the creditors or the debtors, but as real business obligations.

A "scholarship" does not give free tuition. The only difference between the man who pays his own tuition fees and the man who has the use of a scholarship is that, in the one case, the student pays for his tuition himself, and in the other, somebody else pays for it. The institution gets (or, at least, ought to get,) the full amount of the tuition fees charged to the student. But instead of collecting them, however, from students, the institution collects them from the income accruing from invested funds. Provision for scholarships is a wise and beneficent use of money. But money invested to provide for perpetual scholarships is in no proper sense endowment of an institution. For it is the individual, whose tuition is paid, and not the institution, that gets the benefit.

(To be continued)

"Am I Married or Not?"

asked Mr. A, despondently, "I declare, my wife is so nervous and irritable that I don't stay in the house a moment longer than I can help. My home isn't what it used to be." "Mrs. A. is suffering from some functional derangement, I presume," said B. "Yes, she has been an invalid for years." "Exactly. Her experience is that of my wife, but she was cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Get this remedy for Mrs. A., and the happiness of your home will soon be restored." Mr. B. was right. For prolapsus, painful periods, irregularities—in short, all "complaints" peculiar to the female sex—the "Favorite Prescription" is a sovereign specific.

Rupture, or hernia, permanently cured, or no pay. For pamphlet and references address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

New Testament Studies—No. 8.

BY HIGHT C. MOORE.

THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES.

1. Title. The term used in most English versions to designate the book is so definite and comprehensive that it may sometimes be misleading. From "The Acts of the Apostles," one would infer the book to be a full account of the transactions of the Twelve; the fact is, it is no record of the apostolic body, little is said of any one of them except Peter, and the chief incidents cluster around the Apostle to the Gentiles. Hence the Greek title has by some scholars been translated "Acts of the Apostles" (American Revisers), or merely "Acts of Apostles" (Noyes), thus omitting the definite article for the sake of accuracy. Still usage is paramount, and it is well to bear in mind the scope and limits of the book.

2 Theme. Chrysostom declared Acts to be practically sealed to many in his day. To understand the book and grasp its true intent, one must resort to its careful reading and diligent study. Essential to its proper interpretation is a clear statement of its theme. This has been defined by an eminent scholar to be "The Planting and Growth of the Christian church..... It relates the birth of a witnessing church and the progress of the gospel among the Jews and Gentiles, by the power of the Holy Spirit."

3. Author. The authorship of the Acts has been attributed by some critics to an unknown writer of the second century who had access to memoranda of the apostolic age, but it may with far more reason be ascribed to Luke, the author of the third Gospel: (1) Acts is plainly a continuation of the history given in Luke. (2) The preface of Acts refers to a former treatise in terms descriptive of a gospel. (3) Both books are addressed to the same individual, Theophilus. (4) The same style, idiom and vocabulary are exhibited in the two narratives, which is accounted for only on the grounds of identical authorship. (5) Since Luke was the companion of Paul, the "we" sections in Acts (16: 10; 20: 5; 27: 1; 28: 16) furnish strong evidence in favor of Luke as the writer of the book. (6) The authorship of Acts is accredited to Luke by the unanimous consent of antiquity. [A brief biographical sketch of Luke was given in No. 6 of these studies]

4. Sources. Luke probably resorted to the following sources of information in the preparation of his work: (1) His personal knowledge supplied materials for part of the book, especially some of the incidents connected with Paul. (2) It is likely there were preserved written reports of missionaries, church letters and minutes of formal proceedings, and that Luke had opportunity to subject these to careful scrutiny and draw on them for his work. (3) Since the author certainly did not hear the discourses found in Acts, it is held that he incorporated in his own book certain portions of trustworthy documents extant in his day. (4) In every possible case, Luke resorted to reliable eyewitnesses in the preparation of both his books, and for the information conveyed in Acts, he was largely indebted to Paul, Peter, James, John, Mark, Philip, and others.

5. Accuracy. Luke is the most accurate and reliable of the New Testament historians. Trustworthiness was promised in the preface of the Gospel, and it was carried out with equal fidelity in the composition of Acts. Of the many tests made by scholars, two (abridged from Dods) will serve to illustrate the writer's accuracy: (1) Ancient historians and inscriptions confirm the titles used by Luke for the Roman magistrates and governors, terms likely to be confounded by the careless or ill-informed; for example, Sergius Paulus (17: 6) and Gallio (18: 12) rightly have the same title of governor or Proconsul; the Philippian magistrates (16: 20) are (in the Greek) properly called prætors and the Thessalonian magistrates (17: 6) called politarchs; the ruler of Melita (28: 7) is given the more correct title of "chief man." (2) The speeches of Peter and Paul are so faithfully reported by Luke as to bear in substance and diction a striking similarity to their own extant writings.

6 Composition. Various dates have been assigned to the composition of Acts from 64 A. D. to the middle of the second century. The former date is probably not far from correct. The early authorship of the book is argued from its abrupt ending; it breaks off at the close of the second year of Paul's first Roman imprisonment, and does not mention his trial, release, or death. A full account of Paul's closing days would doubtless have been given if Acts had not been written before his decease. Some believe that Luke wrote the book in Rome at the close of Paul's two years' residence; others assign a slightly later date and consider Antioch the place of composition. In the first case, Luke "tells no more because as yet there was no more to tell;" in the second, distance and lack of direct communication from the great Apostle prevented additional record and a more complete history.

7. Design. Luke's exact purpose in writing Acts has been elaborately discussed. It may be well with Dods to notice some of the theories advanced. (1) The purpose of the writer was conciliatory; he intended to unite more closely the divided Jewish and Gentile sections of the church. Hence the author enlarges on Peter's reception of a Gentile within the church, and observes that Paul appealed to the Jerusalem apostles on questions of Gentile Christianity and on various occasions observed the Jewish law. (2) The book is the endeavor of a Gentile Christian to justify the position of the Gentile church and reveal Gentile Christianity as the offspring of the Christianity of the older Apostles. (3) The writer himself in the opening paragraph of the book (1: 8) intimates his intention to tell how the gospel was received in ever-widening circles. Taking together both narratives by Luke, his chief purpose was to "sketch the progress of the gospel from its rise in the cradle of Judea to its throne in the heart of the heathen world."

8. Facts and Features. (1) Acts is properly the connecting link between the Gospels and the Epistles. (2) The book covers a period of thirty-three years, from A. D. 30 to 63. (3) It relates chiefly but not fully the acts of Paul and Peter. (4) It is a continuation of Luke and begins precisely where the third Gospel closes. (5) No complete history is given of either the Jewish or Gentile church or of any of the Apostles. (6) "Acts is a commentary on the Epistles."—Luther. (7) It gives us valuable glimpses, not obtained elsewhere, of the character and order of the first Christian churches. (8) It discloses Christ as the sole theme of apostolic teaching. (9) "Acts is pre eminently a missionary book."—Stevens. (10) Six of the longer discourses of Paul and several speeches by Peter, Stephen and others are recorded. (11) The book is remarkable for its inspiring biographical sketches. (12) The writer in three passages (16: 10 to 17; 20: 5—21: 18; 27: 1—28: 16) claims the character of an eye-witness. (13) We are in debted to Acts for what we know of the "witness of the Spirit" in the apostolic age. (14) Remarkable for purity of style and with few Hebrew idioms, Acts approaches classic Greek more nearly than any other of the New Testament histories. (15) A striking parallel has been drawn in the book between Peter and Paul: "If Peter's first first act of healing is that of a lame man at the Temple gate, so also is Paul's first act of healing upon a cripple at Lystra. Peter is delivered from prison miraculously in Jerusalem; in Philippi, Paul has a similar experience. If Peter strikes dead Ananias and Sapphira, a like power is exhibited in Paul's blinding of Elymas the sorcerer. Peter raises Tabitha; Paul raises Eutychus."

9. Contents. By the most common and natural division the book falls into two sections: (1) The first covers twelve chapters, relates largely to Peter, and occurs in Jerusalem and Palestine. (2) The second embraces the last sixteen chapters, "Paul is the leading figure, and the story moves westward from Antioch to Rome."

Angus calls attention to the fact that a threefold condition of the church is described: (1) In chapters 1—11: 18, the church is entirely Jewish with a single Roman accession at Cæsarea, and the time occupied is eleven years, 30—41 A. D. (2) In chapters 11: 19—15, the Jewish element still prevails with numerous Gentile converts, and the period covered is nine years, 42—50 A. D. (3) In chapters 16—28, the position of the Gentiles is defined and many churches formed from among the Gentiles, and it embraces thirteen years, 51—63 A. D.

From the more extended and critical analysis by Stevens, the following leading points are taken: (1) Advent of the Holy Spirit, chapters 1, 2. (2) Growth of the church in Palestine, chapters 3—8 (3) Beginnings of the Gentile churches, chapters 9—12. (4) Paul's first missionary journey, chapters 13, 14. (5) The council at Jerusalem, chapter 15: 1—35. (6) Paul's second missionary journey and ministry in Corinth, chapters 15: 36—18: 22. (7) Paul's third missionary journey and ministry in Ephesus, chapters 18: 23—21: 14. (8) Paul's arrest in Jerusalem and imprisonment in Cæsarea, chapters 21: 15—26: 32. (9) Paul's voyage to Rome and imprisonment, chapters 27, 28.

God puts his people in this world as a restraining power, to hold others back from sin, and to draw society upward. Unless Christians have themselves a strong foothold they will invariably be dragging downward into compliances and conformities with evil. Wherefore we need to be shod with obedience to God's will, and to make straight paths for our feet, lest we turn out of the right way.—T. L. Cuyler.

It seems to me that while we are waiting for the perfect order of society, it may be a good thing to lighten the burden of an old woman, to assist a hungry child to get bread, or to give a dollar to a person who needs it.—John Swinton.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Bartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell. J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; W A Albright, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, J F MacDuffie, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Hufham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, J H Lassiter, W T Faircloth, R P Thomas, C B Aycock, T E Cheek, Thos Hume.

Blood

Should be rich to nourish. Depleted blood means a pale face and Anæmia.

Scott's Emulsion

the cream of Cod-liver Oil, enriches the blood, restores a healthy color, cures Anæmia and tones up the system. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

It is now beyond dispute that

Beecham's Pills

(Worth a Guinea a Box.) (Tasteless)

are a specific in all cases of Indigestion, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and kindred troubles.

25 cents a box.

LADIES WHO VALUE

A refined complexion must use Pozzoni's Powder. It produces a soft & beautiful skin.

A Bright Lad,

Ten years of age, but who declines to give his name to the public, makes this authorized, confidential statement to us:

"When I was one year old, my mamma died of consumption. The doctor said that I, too, would soon die, and all our neighbors thought that even if I did not die, I would never be able to walk, because I was so weak and puny. A gathering formed and broke under my arm. I hurt my finger and it gathered and threw out pieces of bone. If I hurt myself so as to break the skin, it was sure to become a running sore. I had to take lots of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has made me well and strong."—T. D. M., Norcatur, Kans.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m

	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 20 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 37 a m
Leave Selma.		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m

	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m

	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 25 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 36 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m. Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.30 a m, Greenville 8.22 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.50 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.30 p m, 5.20 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 a m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9 30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 11.00 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 1.00 p m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond, and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

"The 'Christian Advocate's' Blunder."

BY M. P. MATHENEY.

A PRESBYTERIAN BAPTISMAL POOL.

There are some things in reference to the controversy in regard to baptism which are settled, and one of these is the practice of the Greek church. There are some people who never know that a question is settled, because they don't want to know it, and are determined not to know it, if one is to judge by their talk. Of this later kind is one Rev. T. R. Sampson, whose "monumental cheek" has not been surpassed by any one within my knowledge. This "cheek" is just now being exhibited in various parts of the State in lectures on the practice of the Greek church, in which he expects his unsupported statement to be taken against the testimony of scholars—the fact that every church which the Southern Presbyterian church, of which he was missionary, has in Greece has a baptistery in it, in which the children are immersed, while the adults are taken into the church on their baptism received from the Greek church. In the face of the catechism of the Greek church, suppose we put a few statements of Greeks over against this "wonderful Sampson" and see how they look along side of this "jaw-bone of an ass" with which he would demolish his opponents.

The catechism of the Greek church says: "The servant of God N. is baptized in the name of the Father, amen; and of the Son, amen; and of the Holy Ghost, amen; now and ever and to ages of ages. At each each invocation he immerses the candidate and raises him again."—Offices of the Oriental Church, pp. 88, 94. And hence the Russian catechism reads: "This they hold to be a point necessary, that no part of the child be undipped in water."

The Bishop of Cyclades says: "The word baptize, explained, means a veritable dipping, and in fact a perfect dipping. An object is baptized when it is completely covered. This is a proper explanation of the word baptizo."

These statements could be multiplied tenfold.

Dr. W. D. Powell, writing in the Western Recorder of Jan. 8th, 1891, from Athens, Greece, says, "I asked a professor in one of the universities in Athens what the word baptizo meant, and he replied, "It has but one meaning, and that is to immerse. You need not ask me, go out and ask the commonest day laborer and he will tell you." He says further: "I asked Bro. Sakeloris how the Presbyterians managed the question of baptism, and he said, very easy—by having a baptistery built in their churches, in which they immerse all of their infants, and the adults they take on their baptism from the Greek church. At one time they sprinkled some babies, and it created such a scandal that it came near breaking up their church, and so they have never tried it since."

This "learned Sampson" thinks that he will put the Baptists "in a hole" on the question of infant sprinkling, because they contend for the correctness of the Greek mode of baptism, but there is no force in such a plea. We believe in the doctrine of salvation by grace as taught by the Presbyterians, but that does not compel us to endorse all the foolishness they practice in their baptism and church government.

But the North Carolina Christian Advocate wants "to have a finger in the pie," and so he announces a great and startling discovery at which he is much pained—a sort of cramp cholic, I should judge, by his contortions. What is this discovery? Hear it all ye Baptist hosts: we are "ritualists." Isn't it startling and terrible? We are "spiritually minded and magnify the work of the Holy Spirit in conversion and preach a strong spiritual gospel," but when we come to the ordinances, we go to "the full length of ritualism!" What is the foundation for this grave charge against the Baptists? What is the extent of their offending? "They contend for the symbolism of the ordinances." I should be greatly delighted if the erudite editor would tell us what there really is in baptism and the Lord's supper when he takes away their symbolism? It would be refreshing to read an exposition of these ordinances with the symbolism left out. It would be like preaching a gospel with Christ left out—the core, the heart, would be gone. Look at some of the Scriptures which set forth this great truth in reference to baptism: First, purification, see Acts 22: 16—"Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins." This is not baptismal regeneration, as the Scriptures clearly teach that we are not saved by baptism.

But, second, baptism is a symbol of the believer's death to sin and his rising to a new life. Paul, in Rom. 6: 2, 4, clearly sets this great truth forth. So in Col. 2: 12.

Third, baptism is also a symbol of the believer's participation in the death and resurrection of Christ. Says Paul in Romans 6: 5, "For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall also be in the likeness of his resurrection." I need not multiply these citations. If anything can be made plain, the Scriptures make plain the symbolism of baptism, and it is not going too far to say that he who has no Scriptural symbolism in his baptism, has no Scriptural baptism. If contending for Scriptural symbolism of the ordinances makes us ritualists, we can afford to rest under the charge.

Some History of Abbott's Creek Church.

This is amongst the oldest churches in the State. Only a few date back of this. The exact date of its constitution is not definitely known. It was probably in the early part of 1758.

Morgan Edwards, the only one from whom we can learn anything about it, says that Shubal Stearns and his company of sixteen Baptists (including himself and wife) came to Sandy Creek November 14, 1755, and on the 22d day of the same month, Sandy Creek church was constituted. He further says that in three years' time they had increased to three churches and nine hundred communicants. The first church which sprang off was Abbott's Creek, the other, Deep River.

On the second Monday in June, 1758, the Sandy Creek Association, the fourth body of its kind in America, was organized, with the three churches named above. So we see that Abbott's Creek church had an existence in June, 1758.

Daniel Marshall, a licentiate and brother-in-law of Shubal Stearns, first preached at Abbott's Creek, and was, under God, the instrument in getting up this church. After the organization of this church, he was ordained as pastor by Messrs. Stearns and Ledbetter.

How long he remained pastor, is not known. We have only this record: "It was but a few years after his ordination, before, induced by appearances of increasing usefulness, he took an affectionate leave of his beloved charge, and settled on Beaver Creek in South Carolina."

If he remained only five years, there is a space of twenty years in the history of the church that is without a single line of record. If there was a record kept of this time, it has been lost.

After we lose sight of Daniel Marshall as pastor, the very first line of history begins:

"North Carolina } Jenevary ye
Roan County } 4 day, 1783.
For the Baptis church in Abets Crick."

Then follows the Confession of Faith:

"Believing the Old and New Testament to be the perfect rule for life and practice and 2ly Repentance from dead works and 3ly Faith towards God and 4ly The doctrine of baptism and 5ly laying on of hands and 6ly the perseverance of saints 7ly The resurrection of the dead and 8ly Eternal judgment."

Immediately following the above is, "The members recorded by name—the pastor George Pope," &c.

From this time to Sept., 1813, George Pope was pastor—making about thirty one years. After he resigned and went to South Carolina, the church seems to have been without a pastor till March, 1819. At this meeting, Elder Ashley Swaim was chosen pastor and continued with them until the split in the church in 1832. I am almost certain that the church was a member of the Sandy Creek Association from its organization in 1758 to 1825, with the exception of one year. She was enrolled in the Yadkin Association held at Eaton's M. H. on 10th—12th of December, 1791, with George Pope and Christopher Vickory as delegates.

In 1825, the western portions of Sandy Creek and Pee Dee Associations met at Liberty church, Davidson county, and organized the Abbott's Creek Union Association, and Abbott's Creek church went into this new body, and worked in it till 1832, when the church divided.

The anti-mission Baptists were in the majority in this particular church, and hence held all the church property. After the antis refused to hear their brethren who were in the minority, Elders Eli Phillips and Wm. Dowd were called as a presbytery to look into matters.

The minority pleaded with their brethren to reconsider the matter of non-fellowship, as they desired to live with them in church fellowship. But our brethren say, "They refused to allow us to unite with any Baptist church except they had declared against the Baptist State Convention."

After this presbytery had examined into matters, they said substantially, "We are unanimously of the opinion that the majority is clearly in a state of disorder and have forfeited their right as members of the church by their oppressive, unchristian and ungodly conduct. * * * But the minority as we believe, being orderly in their conduct and orthodox in their principles, have remained on the old ground and is clearly the old church. We therefore recommend to all associations, churches and brethren to recognize the minority as the Abbott's Creek church, and view the majority as disorderly people, entirely unconnected with the Baptist denomination."

Notwithstanding the bitter feelings of the anti-brethren, their church about fifteen years before the split, delivered themselves thusly:

"The church took into consideration the glory redounding to God, to join in Union with our sister churches that have joined the Missionary Band of Missions in America; to send the gospel to the heathen in America and elsewhere, and for our trustee to receive voluntary contributions in this church; and without the church, we appoint our deacon William Raper to receive what money may be put in his hands for that purpose, and correspond with such missionary as is and may be appointed for the Sandy Creek Association."

Mr. Swaim was called to the pastorate some two years afterward, and no doubt was responsible in a great measure for the church going into anti ism.

About the time he assumed pastoral control, "The church took into consideration the nature of Foreign and Domestic Missions, and unanimously reject the Foreign, and agree that our representatives report to the Association that they think favorable of the Union, but want time to consider more on the subject; and for the tuition of young men we totally reject." Those who knew Mr. Swaim best—who knew his ministerial life, will hardly say that the above is unjust to him.

The two organizations have their houses in the same beautiful grove—some little distance apart. The anti-mission church and its influence is considerably on the wane: the church is small, and I am told that the congregations are small, except on "big days."

That anti influence around there has made it very much harder for our brethren there to carry forward the Lord's work. The Sunday-school and mission work feel the chill of its deadly atmosphere.

Daniel Marshall, George Pope and Ashley Swaim are the only known pastors for the first seventy-four years of her existence.

Beginning with 1832, the following brethren have ministered there: Eli Phillips, Josiah Wiseman, Enoch Crutchfield, Benjamin Lanier, Wm. H. Hamner, Wm. Turner, John Robertson, Amos Weaver, J. B. Jackson, J. B. Richardson, G. W. Harmon, R. R. Moore, S. F. Conrad, S. H. Thompson, J. N. Stallings, and the present pastor is J. M. Hilliard.

This church is now about 136 years old.

HENRY SHEETS.

Bitterness.

In beginning the important discussion of "How far may the State educate?" and in beginning also the political campaign of 1894, I want to beg all persons who believe the Bible, and who think it worth while to obey it, to read, consider, and not forget Eph. 4: 31—"Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking be put away from you, with all malice."

I rejoice that Dr. Taylor has so far complied with this Divine injunction. He discusses his subject in a calm, manly, dignified, able manner. He aims to convince, not wound others. I wish the same could be said of all the other writers who follow along with him. But already hundreds of good people have been filled with deep regret that bitter personalities have been resorted to. Kind, calm, dignified argument is always appreciated by people of sense and goodness, but bitterness can only be relished by those lacking in the better qualities of humanity. Bitterness never convinces or draws others to your belief. There are better things than vinegar with which to catch flies.

The bitterness engendered in the last political campaign is one of the saddest things connected with American politics. Discord, strife and alienations entered into families, neighborhoods, schools and churches. Friends, neighbors and Christians were divided, if not made enemies. And sad to say, all this was without any just cause. Every man has a right to have, hold, and support by his ballot the political doctrines he believes best for his country. But let him do this kindly, allowing to others the same right he enjoys.

Political views ought never to disturb friends, neighbors and churches. Let me close with a contrast.

I occasionally read two political papers. One, when it differs with men and measures, gives reasons, in a high-toned, manly way, why it differs. It never contains a word of bitterness or abuse. It relies on fairness, kindness and argument. The other, in nearly all its discussions of men and measures, resorts to ridicule, criticism and bitter abuse. The influence of the first paper is elevating and refined, that of the second, degrading and injurious. A man and his cause must both be weak, when they can present nothing in their support but abuse of others.

Let us ever in the future strive earnestly to avoid the evils of Eph. 4: 31, and cherish and practice, in their stead, gentleness, kindness, forbearance and love. God help us to "Keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

CHRISTIAN CITIZEN.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

All the sighs and supplications in the world will not bring wisdom to the heart that fills itself with folly every day, or mercy to the soul that sinks itself in sin, or usefulness and honor to the life that wastes itself in vanity and inanity.—H. J. Van Dyke.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

What Causes Pimples?

Clogging of the pores or mouths of the sebaceous glands with sebum or oily matter.

Nature will not allow the clogging of the pores to continue long, hence, inflammation, pain, swelling and redness.

What Cures Pimples?

The only reliable cure, when not due to a constitutional humor, is CUTICURA SOAP.

It dissolves sebaceous or oily matter, reduces inflammation, soothes and heals irritated and roughened surfaces, and restores the skin to its original purity.

Besides being the most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap, it is the purest, sweetest, and most delicate of toilet soaps.

Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

"All about the Skin, Scalp, and Hair," free.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP, a certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 20 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 30 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	5 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 06 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 36 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 30 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	3 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 03 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 20 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*4 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	3 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 30 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m. Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.06 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a. m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.
W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m	....	....
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m	....	....
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m	....	....
Lv Fay'ville June	10 30 a m	....	....
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m	....	....
Lv Climax	1 43 p m	....	....
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m	....	....
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m	....	....
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m	....	....
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m	....	....
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m	....	....
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m	....	....
Ar Mt Airy	5 25 p m	....	....
Lv Bennettsville	....	6 25 a m	....
Lv Maxton	....	7 37 a m	....
Lv Red Springs	....	8 17 a m	....
Lv Hope Mills	....	9 13 a m	....
Ar Fayetteville	....	9 35 a m	....
Lv Ramseur	....	....	6 50 a m
Lv Climax	....	....	8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro	....	....	9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro	....	....	9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale	....	....	11 00 a m
Ar Madison	....	....	11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			3 00 p m
Lv Climax			3 55 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & N. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L. at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. R. KYLE, Gen. Pass. Agt.
J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect January 28, 1894

No. 127*	ATLANTA SPECIAL.			No. 134*
*8 45 p m	Lv	Norfolk (via S A L)	Ar	*11 45 a m
8 35 p m	Lv	Portsmouth	Ar	11 35 a m
9 54 p m	Lv	Suffolk	Lv	11 04 a m
10 30 p m	Lv	Franklin	Lv	10 30 a m
10 58 p m	Lv	Boykins	Lv	10 06 a m
11 20 p m	Ar	Weldon	Lv	*9 25 a m
11 20 p m	Lv	Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
12 50 a m	Ar	Henderson	Lv	7 30 a m
2 05 a m	Ar	Raleigh	Lv	6 30 a m
2 20 a m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	6 15 a m
3 40 a m	Lv	Sanford	Lv	5 10 a m
4 25 a m	Lv	Southern Pines	Lv	4 20 a m
5 20 a m	Ar	Hamlet	Lv	3 35 a m
5 43 a m	Lv	Rockingham	Lv	3 15 a m
6 20 a m	Lv	Wadesboro	Lv	2 42 a m
7 15 a m	Ar	Monroe	Lv	2 00 a m
8 40 a m	Ar	Charlotte	*Lv	9 15 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.			No. 38.
*8 30 p m	Lv	New York (PRR)	Ar	6 33 a m
11 33 a m	Lv	Philadelphia	Ar	3 45 a m
2 20 a m	Lv	Baltimore	Ar	12 43 a m
4 00 a m	Lv	Washington	Ar	11 10 p m
8 25 a m	Lv	Richmond (A C Line)	Ar	6 50 p m
9 25 a m	Lv	Petersburg "	Ar	5 39 p m
11 27 a m	Ar	Weldon "	Lv	*3 37 p m
*8 00 p m	Lv	New York (PRR)	Ar	7 43 a m
9 10 a m	Ar	Portsmouth	Lv	*5 55 p m
†2 10 p m	Lv	New York (P R R)	Ar	1 33 p m
7 00 p m	Lv	Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar	7 00 a m
8 30 a m		Portsmouth "	Lv	†6 00 p m
*7 00 p m	Lv	Wash'ton, N&WSB Co	Ar	6 30 am
8 00 a m	Ar	†Portsmouth	Lv	5 50 p m
†9 00 a m	Lv	Norfolk, via S A L	Ar	†6 00 p m
9 15 a m	Lv	Portsmouth "	Ar	5 50 p m
9 54 a m	Lv	Suffolk "	Ar	5 14 p m
10 58 a m	Lv	Boykins "	Ar	4 06 p m
†11 42 a m	Ar	Weldon "	Lv	†3 22 p m
†11 54 a m	Lv	Weldon "	Ar	3 10 p m
2 09 p m	Lv	D Henderson " D	Lv	†1 14 p m
†4 07 p m	Ar	Durham "	Lv	†10 50 a m
†8 50 p m	Ar	Raleigh "	Lv	†11 25 a m

No 43.				No 33.
†10 15 a m	Lv	Raleigh	Ar	†3 00 p m
1 48 a m	Lv	Sanford	Ar	4 30 p m
12 43 p m	Lv	Southern Pines	Ar	3 35 p m
1 45 p m D	Ar	Hamlet D	Lv	2 35 p m
12 25 p m	Ar	Rockingham	Lv	2 01 p m
3 02 p m	Ar	Wadesboro	Lv	1 25 p m
3 57 p m	Ar	Monroe	Lv	12 30 p m
4 45 p m	Ar	Charlotte	Lv	11 40 a m
8 06 p m	Ar	Laurinburg	Lv	1 07 p m
3 29 p m	Ar	Maxton	Lv	12 58 p m
6 25 p m	Ar	Wilmington	Lv	10 00 a m
2 30 p m	Lv	Hamlet	Ar	1 47 p m
2 57 p m	Ar	Gibson	Ar	1 20 p m
3 21 p m	Ar	Bennettsville	Lv	12 56 p m
4 12 p m		Darlington	Lv	12 03 p m
5 27 p m		Sumter	Lv	10 47 a m
8 45 p m		Charleston	Lv	7 30 a m

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

No 127 and No 134 "Atlanta Special" are solid Pullman Vestibule trains, composed of elegant day coaches and palace Buffet Sleepers, without change between Washington and Atlanta. No extra fare. Connects at Washington with Congressional Limited for New York, and at Atlanta for all points South and Southwest.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, &c., apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cooke, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

JNO. C WINDER, Gen Man
L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.
T J. ANDERSON, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Rays out of my Reading.

BY J. M. MCMANAWAY.

Replying to the argument that the Bible nowhere claims to be the Word of God, Dr. Parker, in his recent book, None Like It, says, along with other things: "What then? Is it not, therefore, the work of God? May it not be all the more the work of God on that very account? Does the Bible ever claim to be a book at all? Then it is not a book. Does the Bible ever claim to be a unit? Then it is not a unit? Does it make any claims?"

"There are some rights which do not require to be formally claimed. They wait for recognition. They are self-revealing; they establish themselves little by little; they grow, so to say, like reason and conscience and sense of responsibility."

"The Bible cannot live upon testimonials, or claims, or official sanction; it can only live by such a supremacy of influence as entitles it to the faith, the love, and the veneration of the world. If it has exercised that influence—account for it variously as we may—that influence is the Bible's best claim."

To the dear brethren who claim that the Bible contains the word of God only, he says: "I am disposed to think that the very process by which the Bible is turned from being the Work of God into containing the Work of God might for the self same reason and without the loss of one degree of cogency be employed in an attack upon the duty of Jesus Christ. The parallel seems to me at this moment to be exact."

He does not undertake to define what is meant by the Word of God but says: "We must remember there is no final definition. No man can define God, or truth, or life, or love. They are original and indefinable terms." He would, however, describe it by its supreme purpose which he thinks is "the revelation of God in such degree and proportion as the human mind is able to receive it." "The Bible is the revelation of God—ineffable—in the only setting or framework possible in the present condition of life. To bring God into language is to bring him with limitations. Words are constantly trying to define themselves, and even to do what they were never meant to do. Words may be better used when simply pointing to what is infinitely greater than themselves, than when trying to say everything exclusively and finally. There are points in religious thinking at which reverent and adoring silence must supersede definition."

Louisiana, Mo., April, 1894.

IF YOUR BACK ACHES,
Or you are all worn out, really good for nothing, it is general debility. Try
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It will cure you, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite.

From Kelly, N. C.

Dear Bro Bailey:—Notwithstanding our great disasters last summer by hail and sickness and storms, our church and neighborhood are trying to do more and live nearer to the Lord this year than we did last year. We have for our pastor, Rev. M. C. Walton, one of the most earnest and forcible gospel preachers I ever heard. He does not "soft-sorder" his sermons. He shows that all sin is heinous in the sight of God; and that through faith in the atoning blood of Jesus Christ we can be saved.

We have several small, weak churches in our Association, and I do not believe that our Association or strong churches could do a better thing than to employ our pastor to visit and preach for them at least two or more sermons each. The hard times and lukewarmness of several of our small churches have caused them to be very careless and negligent of their Christian duties, and we common preachers seem to have failed in our efforts to arouse them.

I do not know all the causes that have brought about the state of affairs, but I think I know two of the causes:—first, a failure of the pastors to have their churches contribute as the Lord had prospered them in the time when they had more money than they now have; secondly, because for the last few years several reports detrimental to the character of at least three of our ministers have been circulated, and the churches to which they belong have failed to investigate the reports, and publicly exonerate or condemn said ministers. I believe this has a great tendency to weaken the confidence of the brethren, not only in the ministry, but in the cause of our blessed Master. As truth never loses anything by investigation, I think for the sake of the cause of Christ, and that the good name of the ministers in question might be maintained, this much ought to be done.

I do not wish to be misunderstood. I do not say the reports are true; but I do say that when grave and scandalous reports are publicly circulated against a minister or other member of a church, and he fails to ask his church to investigate them, the public generally looks on him with suspicion, and it certainly will injure him.

I think every church should keep a strict eye on the ministers belonging to it, and whenever the character of any one of them is impeached, the church (whether the accused wanted it done or not) ought to call a presbytery consisting of at least two ministers and a deacon or two and investigate the matter thoroughly, and then give the investigation to the public; and when they find that a minister has been falsely accused, and they can ascertain the name of the slanderer, let him be advertised.

I agitate this matter with the hope that good to Christ's cause may come out of it.

Your editorials and paper are getting better and better. May the good Lord spare you to a green old age, and may your last days be your best days.

Respectfully, A. J. BORDEAUX.

Japanese Liver Pellets are the best family medicine for liver complaint and constipation. 60 pills in vial 25 cents. Sold at Jno. Y. Mackie's drug store, Raleigh, N. C.

Ordination of Joseph E Smith.

At the call of Tally Ho church, Flat River Association, Granville county, N. C., Elders R. H. Marsh, J. A. Stradley and Jno. S. Hardaway met on April 28th at the residence of Bro. Washington to consider the propriety of setting apart to the work of the gospel ministry Bro. Joseph Edwin Smith. Brethren Washington and Cash of Tally Ho church sat in council with the presbytery.

The presbytery organized by electing Elder R. H. Marsh, Chairman, and J. S. Hardaway, Secretary.

After a thorough examination of the candidate as to his conversion, call to the ministry, and views of Christian doctrine, and church discipline, the presbytery unanimously decided to go forward with the ordination.

On Sunday, April 29th, at Tally Ho church the ordination services were held. The ordination sermon was preached by Eld. J. A. Stradley from Mark 1:7. "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men." The sermon was an admirable discussion of the qualifications and work of a minister of the gospel.

After the sermon explanatory remarks were made by Eld. R. H. Marsh as to ordination, and the ordaining prayer was offered by Eld. J. S. Hardaway, after which Bro. Marsh presented the Bible, and charged the candidate, and the right hand of fellowship was given. In the evening the charge to the church was delivered by Eld. J. S. Hardaway.

Bro. Smith bids fair to become a very useful minister of the gospel.

JNO. S. HARDAWAY

Literary.

The Treasury of Religious Thought for May commences the twelfth yearly volume of this excellent monthly magazine. Its issues from month to month display a vigor and versatility and a breadth of vision in the scope of its articles that commended it to the widest range of patronage and render it worthy of the highest praise.

A Harmony of the Gospels, for Historical study, by W. A. Stevens and E. D. W. Benton, Professors of New Testament Interpretation in Rochester Theological Seminary and Chicago University, respectively. Boston: Silver, Burdett & Co. Price, $1.50.

We have not seen a more complete or more perspicuous harmony than this just from the hands of two leading New Testament students. The analytical outline alone is a great aid to the Bible students, and with the harmoniously arranged gospels this work must prove an indispensable adjunct to the live preacher's library. There is evidence of greatest care on every page; and we see much to commend even in the index. This harmony will be a great help to anyone who uses it; it will save time and moreover give one a broader ground for his discourse. As an index to the life of Jesus it is equally valuable; for parallel quotations from each of the gospels are collected so that not one word or act of his life fails to be placed in the light of every verse that pertains to it.

Attention is called to the advertisement of "Position Wanted" in this issue. The applicant has had six years successful experience, and gives excellent references.

The income tax clause of the tariff bill has been amended so as to materially modify its objectionable features. It is now said that all the Democratic Senators, except Hon. D. B. Hill, New York, will vote for the entire tariff bill.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Ballard's Bridge church, Chowan, $6.94; Bethel ch, ditto, 3.29; Beulah ch, ditto, 3.35; Cool Spring ch, ditto, 6.60; Eureka ch, ditto, 2.00, Gatesville ch, ditto, 1.91; Hertford ch, ditto, 10.00; Macedonia ch, ditto, 1.00; Middle Swamp ch, ditto, 3.21; Mt Sinai ch, ditto, 1.50; Reynoldson ch, ditto 5.00; Salem ch, ditto, 3.00; Warwick ch, ditto, 8.50; Yeopim ch, ditto, 4.16; Corinth ch, ditto, 4.00; Ebenezer ch, ditto, 5.90; Powell's Point ch, ditto, 1.76; Coinjock ch, ditto, 1.00; Shady Grove ch, ditto, 2.44; Sawyer's Creek ch, ditto, 22.50; Ramoth Gilead ch, ditto, 20.00; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 5.00; Rehoboth ch, ditto, 8.40; Providence ch, ditto, 4.95; Oak Ridge ch, ditto, 2.00; Berea ch, ditto, 25.00; Republican ch, W Chowan, 20.00; Green's Cross Roads ch, ditto, 3.00; Grassy Creek ch, Flat River, 6.60; New Bethel ch, 2.30. Total, 195.31. Previously reported, 5,497.16. Total this year, 5,692.47.

Foreign Missions—Centre Hill ch, Chowan, $1.50; Great Hope ch, ditto, 1.50; Rockahock ch, ditto, 25.64; Warwick ch, ditto, 3.50; Woodville ch, ditto, 2.00; Waughtown ch, Pilot Mountain, 6.00; Jackson ch, W Chowan, 9.49; New Friendship ch, Liberty, 10.18; Lick Creek ch, ditto, 2.50; Lexington ch, ditto, 1.30; Salisbury ch, South Yadkin, 10.00; Bethel ch, Mt Zion, 2.20; Wake Forest ch, Central, 3.52; Rich Square ch, W Chowan, 3.00; First ch, Durham, Mt Zion, 43.35; W M S, ditto, ditto, 15.00; Sunbeams, ditto, ditto, 5.00; Mrs L E Riggan, 1.00. Total, 146.68. Previously reported, 1,918.39. Total this year, 2,065.07.

Home Missions—Ballard's Bridge church, Chowan, $6.94; Beulah ch, ditto, 3.25; Centre Hill ch, ditto, 1.00; Great Hope ch, 3.00; Atlantic Asso, 50.00; Sawyer's Creek ch, Chowan, 25.00; Kernersville ch, Liberty, 2.70; New Friendship ch, ditto, 5.00; Lexington ch, ditto, 1.51; Ditto, ditto, (Colored Institutes), 1.21; Salisbury ch, South Yadkin, 10.00; Wake Forest ch, Central, 3.48; Flat River Union, Flat River, 3.00; Ruffin ch, Ruffin, N C, 4.65; Corinth ch, Tar River, 1.35; Mrs L E Riggan, 1.00. Total, 123.00. Previously reported, 821.45. Total this year, 944.54.

Education—Centre Hill ch, Chowan, $1.50; Great Hope ch, ditto, 1.00; Rockahock ch, ditto, 5.00; Warwick ch, ditto, 7.00; Warren Union, Tar River, 6.10; N L Shaw, Warrenton, 6.00; Oxford ch, Flat River, 12.10; R H Jordan, Charlotte, 9.00; Rev Rufus Weaver (for R L White) 10.00; Waughtown ch, Pilot Mountain, 1.75; Kernersville ch, Liberty, 3.00; Lexington ch, ditto, 3.06; Pleasant Grove ch, ditto, 60c. Total, 78.20. Previously reported, 1,021.60. Total this year, 1,099.80.

Orphanage—Whiteville Grove ch, Chowan, $6.00. Previously reported, 347.13. Total this year, 353.13.

Centennial Enlargement Fund—Kernersville ch, Liberty, $2.55.

Students' Aid Fund, Louisville—Lexington ch, Liberty, $4.30.

Sunday-schools (Distribution of Bibles and Testaments)—S S, Lexington church, Liberty, $1.47; S S, Tryon Street ch, Charlotte, 5.03. Total, 6.50. Previously reported, 462.55. Total this year, 469.05.

Antioch, Bethel, Lebanon and Southport churches reported last week as in Eastern Association, should be Cape Fear Association.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, May 5, 1894.

Unlike the Dutch Process
No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of
W. BAKER & CO.'S
BreakfastCocoa
which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,
Manufacturing Stationers,
Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as
Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.
Writing Pads,
all Grades
PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub
PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.
Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.
Anything in our line to fit out the best appointed office or library. A call is licited.
RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

For the present we will continue the most popular premium offer yet made.

THE PRICE OF
The Southern Magazine
IS $2.50 PER YEAR.
And it is in every respect the Greatest Literary Monthly ever published outside of New York.

THE PRICE OF
THE COSMOPOLITAN
$1.50 PER YEAR.
And it is the most enterprising and popular of New York Magazines.

We will send to any address both of these great monthlies for one year for the single price of The Southern Magazine, or $2.50, payable in advance.
We are only able to offer this combination by special agreement for a limited time to sell the list of both periodicals.
There is no use saying more. The mere announcement of this combination at this price should keep our Circulation Department busy while the offer is open.
This offer is good on renewals only for those whose subscriptions to The Southern Magazine have expired, or now expire with this number, and will not apply hereafter.
Enough magazine literature for a family for a year, and of the very highest quality, as the announcements of both for 1894 are superior to anything previously offered by either.
Send $2.50 by P. O. Money Order, Postal Note or Check direct to
THE SOUTHERN MAGAZINE,
(Circulation Department) Louisville, Ky.
N. B.—This offer is entirely separate from, and does not go in connection with any other premium offers or contests advertised by The Southern Magazine and is not open to subscriptions received through agents.

Law School
University of North Carolina.
42d Regular Session begins Sept 6th, 1894. 14th Summer Session begins July 2d, 1894. For particulars address JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

Ex-Gov. Holt,
Judge Clark,
Rev. Dr. F. L. Reid,
Judge Dick,
Col. Cantwell,
Capt. McNeill,
Mr. W. R. French,
Mr. R. L. Steele, Jr.,
and hundreds of other North Carolinians

USE AND ENDORSE
THE Electrohoise.
(TRADE MARK)
"ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN" BY ABSORPTION.

Write us for all information about the instrument that "cures when all else fails."
Electrolibration Co.,
Gould Building, Atlanta, Ga.; 345 4th Avenue, New York.

ANNUAL STATEMENT
Showing the condition of the Union Casualty and Surety Company.

ASSETS. DECEMBER 31, 1893.

Loans on bond and mortgage (duly recorded and being first liens on the fee simple)	$ 16,500.00
Account of stocks and bonds of the United States, and of this and other States, also all other stocks and bonds absolutely owned by the Company	295,150.00
Stocks, bonds and all other securities (except mortgage), hypothecated to the Company as collateral security for cash actually loaned by the Company	75,000.00
Interest due and accrued on stocks and other securities	591.52
Cash in Company's principal office and belonging to the Company, deposited in bank	66,689.93
Premiums or assessments unpaid	135,686.66
Total Assets	$ 559,518.03

LIABILITIES.

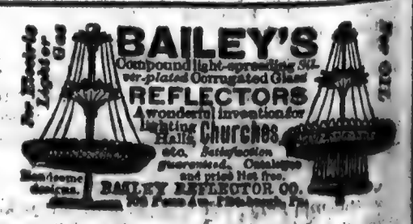
Losses unpaid, including those resisted	$ 17,865.46
Reserve, as required by law	149,381.45
All other claims	40,167.02
Total Liabilities	$ 207,413.91
Capital stock paid up	$ 250,000.00
Total income	172,561.44
Total expenditures	105,911.49

President, C. P. ELLERBE.
Vice President, D. R. FRANCIS
Secretary, J. B. WAESTNEAU
General Agent, A. E. B. LINDSAY, Raleigh, N. C.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE,
INSURANCE DEPARTMENT,
RALEIGH, N. C., December 31, 1893.

In compliance with Sec. 9 of "An Act to consolidate the Insurance Laws of North Carolina," I certify that the above is a true extract from the sworn statement of the Union Casualty and Surety Company on December 31st, 1893, now on file in this department.
OCTAVIUS COKE, Secretary of State.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.
Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.
For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.
Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.



THE TIRED BRAIN and NERVES
Find Sweetest, Safest and Best Relief by using Dr. King's Royal Germetuer.
As a Nerve Tranquillizer and Tonic it never has been equalled.
Dr. L. D. Collins, Goldthwaite, Tex., says of it: "It is the finest Nerve Tranquillizer I have ever used."
L. C. Coulson, Deputy Clerk, Jackson county, Ala., says: "I commend it for Nervousness above anything I have ever tried."
Geo. W. Armstead, Ed. The Issue, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Germetuer is an invaluable Builder and Invigorator of the Nerve Forces."
Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, Ex-Auditor, N. C., now 3d Auditor, Washington, D. C., says: "I have never found a better Nerve Tonic and General Invigorator."
Contains no Bromides, Cocaine, Chloral or other injurious drugs. Always safe for all ages and sexes.
$1, 6 for $5. Sold by druggists. Manuf'd only by King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Every Man A Capitalist.
You can become a capitalist at once by laying by a small part of your yearly income and investing it in a Tontine policy of the
Equitable Life
For $20 you can instantly secure a capital of $1,000 (or for $200 a capital of $10,000), thus acquiring an estate which you may leave to your heirs, or retain as a fund for your own support in old age, if your life be prolonged.
Such a step will prompt you to save, will strengthen your credit, will increase your confidence, will preserve you from care and will give you lasting satisfaction.
The Plan is Simple.
The Security Absolute.
It is the perfect development of the life policy. To-day is the right time to get facts and figures. Address
W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas.
ROCK HILL, S. C.

AGENTS $75 A WEEK AT HOME using or selling PRACTICAL PLATING DYNAMO. The modern method, used in all factories to plate new goods. Plates gold, silver, nickel, etc., on watches, jewelry, table-ware, bicycles and all metal goods; fine outfits for agents; different sizes; always ready; no battery; no test; no experience; as limit to plating needed; a great money maker.
W. P. HARRISON & CO., Clerk No. 16, Columbus, Ohio

Moller Celebrated Pipe Organs
From $400 to $10,000.
All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eighteen States and cities. Established 1850. Address
M. P. MÖLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails 25 cts. 2 to 6 sold in a house. Sample postage paid FREE. FORSHEE & CO., Cincinnati, O.

BAILEY'S
Compound light-spreading Silver-plated Corrugated Glass
REFLECTORS
A wonderful invention for lighting Halls, Churches, etc. Satisfaction guaranteed. Catalogue and price list free.
Handsome designs.
BAILEY REFLECTOR CO.

Another New Jersey Miracle.

A STORY FROM NEW JERSEY WHICH WILL INTEREST EVERYONE.

A MAN WHO WAS CURED OF RHEUMATISM AND PARALYSIS AFTER SUFFERING FOR TWENTY-SIX YEARS.

(From the Philadelphia Record.)

A very interesting story comes from Cape May C. H., N. J. The chief character in the story is John L. Steel, who has lived in that town for thirty years, and is one of the best known men in Cape May county. To a reporter, Mr. Steel said: "Certainly, I'll tell you the story. I am 54 years old and was first attacked with the rheumatism twenty-six years ago. I suffered all that mortal man could stand. The medicine and the doctoring I have had has cost me at the very least $2,500, but they were all like so much water in my case.

"One day, in 1883, I was taken with a chill up and down the back, my leg gave out at the knee and I fell like a log. Never shall I forget the agony I suffered. I thought I would go crazy. I could not walk, and my legs were all drawn up at the knee and felt as if dead. It was without feeling and without power. I called in Dr. Alexander Young, one of our town physicians. He capped and blistered me without success. I went to Dr. Downs, a physician of the old school. Dr. Downs took my leg and pulled it out straight, then he laid it over the arm of the sofa on which I was reclining, and from it suspended two bricks. The pain was almost unbearable. The battery was applied, and the result was that I was just as bad as ever. As a last resource I went to the late Dr. Pancoast, then of Jefferson College. He pronounced my case chronic rheumatism, and said that he could relieve the pain but could not cure me. He gave me sarsaparilla and iodide of potassium, of which I had already taken a quantity. I felt that I was going from bad to worse. The pains were growing more intense, my body was growing weaker and I had to crawl up stairs on my hands and knees. I was as white as a sheet, and at times nearly frozen to death. I slept under enough covering to crush me, and was cold then. I had to lift my leg around wherever I wanted it, but at night it would twitch and jerk as though possessed by some fiendish power.

"Well, to cut a long story short, I read in the Philadelphia Record of a man who had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The story appeared to be an authentic account, and with a ray of hope I sent for two boxes of Pink Pills. This was about six months ago. As soon as I began to take them they began to do me good. I felt as though I had been given fresh blood and new muscles When the two boxes were finished I sent for six more, and under this treatment continued to improve. I began to regain the use of my limbs and I could soon get around with the aid of a crutch and cane. Now I have discarded the crutch. I have an excellent appetite and feel first-class all over.

"Why Pink Pills have done more for me than all the rest of the medicine and doctors put together, and my recovery is due solely to them. I have taken in all twenty boxes of Pink Pills and you can see for yourself what they have accomplished."

Suiting the action to the words Mr. Steel placed his cane over his shoulder and walked off like a man who had never had an hour's sickness in his life. Some idea of the severity of his case can be had from the fact that his leg has been shortened nearly an inch by the ravages of the disease. The following affidavit was made before John Spalding, Justice of the Peace, who has known Mr. Steel during his entire illness.

Sworn and subscribed before me this 26th day of May, A. D. 1983.

JOHN SPALDING,
Justice of the Peace.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are not a patent medicine in the sense that name implies. They were first compounded as a prescription, and used as such in general practice by an eminent physician. So great was their efficacy that it was deemed wise to place them within the reach of all. They are now manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont., and are sold in boxes (never in loose form by the dozen or hundred, and the public are cautioned against numerous imitations sold in this shape) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. from either address. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment inexpensive as compared with other remedies or medical treatment.

Request of the Robeson Union.

As a result of the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted by the Robeson Union at Mt. Eliam church on the 28th of April, 1894, all the churches in the bounds of the Union are hereby requested to set apart and observe Friday before the third Sunday in May as a day of fasting and prayer:

"WHEREAS, We feel that some pending judgment or calamity overshadows our country; therefore,

Resolved, That the Robeson Union in session at Mt. Eliam church, recommend the churches constituting this body, to humble themselves before God and seek his mercy and protection and that some definite plan be now suggested."

Johnson's Magnetic Oil cures cramps and colic and internal neuralgia; 40 and 75 cents. Sold at Jno. Y. MacRae's drug store, Raleigh, N. C.

The North Carolina Press Association will meet at Morganton, June 13 and 14.

For a disordered liver try Beecham's Pills.

A Curse.

I have been of late in two neighborhoods where two murders have recently been committed. Upon careful investigation I found that whiskey was a prime factor in both murders. The parties to the crimes were so far under the influence of whiskey that they allowed passion to eclipse reason. Had the parties been sober, bloodshed would have been avoided. These murders will no doubt cost taxpayers several thousand dollars. I once heard a prominent lawyer say that he had appeared in twenty-seven cases where persons were tried in court for their lives, and that twenty-three out of the twenty-seven were the result of strong drink.

A poor man collected a $50 00 debt due him. He began at once to drink, and did not do a lick of work, or get sober, until the last cent was gone.

People fret, complain and abuse the President and others for hard times; but really whiskey makers, sellers and drinkers are the chief causes of hard times. A vast amount of time and money are wasted by drinking. Taxes are nearly doubled by this curse.

In a certain county one negro killed another. It was done in a drunken row. The case went into court. It was continued from court to court until it cost the county about $3,000.

Whiskey is almost an unmitigated curse. It may do a little good as a medicine in a few cases. But it brings ten thousand curses to where it gives one blessing. It destroys a thousand lives to where it saves one.

In the neighborhood where one of the murders above alluded to was committed, a good brother said to me: "I am greatly troubled by the dreadful effects of the whiskey traffic. I have studied a great deal to try to find a remedy for it. I can think of but one; it is this: If all church-members would quit drinking, and use their influence against it, this evil would soon be killed out."

This brother is right. Whiskey sellers often say that they could not keep up their business but for the patronage of church-members. How sad it is that church-members are keeping alive the greatest curse of the age. What a dreadful responsibility rests upon them! TEETOTALER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA,
Indigestion, and Stomach disorders, use
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
All dealers keep it, $1 per bottle. Genuine has trade-mark and crossed red lines on wrapper.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

A charter for a National Bank at Wilmington has been issued.

C. H. Fletcher of Newbern, a bar keeper, committed suicide last week.

Efforts are being made to establish a Female Methodist College at Raleigh.

Harmond & Justice, hardware dealers of Charlotte, assigned last week. Liabilities $15,000.

Mr. Paul Wilkes, an esteemed citizen of Charlotte, died in Washington City, Saturday last.

A new court house for Mecklenburg county will be erected at Charlotte. It is planned to cost $50,000.

Raleigh has made it a law that minors shall not be permitted to enter saloons. Let other towns follow her example.

Hon. George Gray, the distinguished Senator from Delaware will deliver an address at Trinity College commencement.

Dr. G. H. West of Newton has been chosen to succeed Dr. Chas. Gee, deceased, as physician in charge of the convict farms.

The city of Raleigh has appropriated $500 for the occasion of laying the corner-stone of the Confederate Monument, May 22d.

General Superintendent, L. T. Myers of the Seaboard Air Line R. R., has resigned, and John H. Winder has been chosen his successor, with officers at Atlanta, Ga.

The Rex Hospital has been opened at Raleigh. It is endowed with an estate; and receives $2,000 a year from the city of Raleigh. It replaces the St. John's Hospital.

Fire destroyed the academy building at Grifton last week; loss $2,000, with a $1,000 insurance. The Lyon & Bro. lumber mill at Selma was also destroyed by fire. Loss $5,000.

Dr. Jno. F. Crowell has resigned the Presidency of Trinity College. His resignation will lie on the table until June, by which time it is hoped he will have been persuaded to reconsider his action.

J. F. Smith who deliberately killed his brother-in-law, by name, Sellers, near Wadesboro recently, has been released on the ground that the dead man's conduct justified the action.

Two large boilers at Robertson and Godwin's lumber mills at Williamston on the 1st inst., killing one man outright and fatally wounding two others. There were fifteen people in the mill at the time and all were injured.

General News.

The strikes in various parts of the country are having little effect. Adjustments are probable.

Editors Hattoń of the Washington Post and Geo. W. Shell of the Baltimore Sun died last week.

A great bridge is to built across the Mississippi river near New Orleans. At present the nearest one to its mouth is at Memphis.

Hon. Jere Simpson, Congressman from Kansas, has been very ill. He is convalescent.

John Potter, Jr., Republican, has been appointed to fill temporarily the place of the late Senator Stockbridge of Michigan.

Red river, in Arkansas is at higher flood than in many years. Crops have been destroyed, and other damage done. It is feared that the Mississippi will get beyond its banks.

"Coxey's Army" reached Washington City five hundred strong last week. They were met by police, and prevented from any demonstration on the Capitol steps. Coxey, Chief-Marshal Brown, and Jones, the leader of the Philadelphia contingent, were arrested on charge of walking on the public grass plots and disorderly conduct. The evidence was taken Saturday, when court adjourned till Monday morning.

MARRIED.

MEDLING—O'DANIEL—On April 25th, 1894, by Rev. J. W. Atkinson, Mr. G. H Medling of Granville county and Miss Stella I. O'Daniel of Wake.

DIED.

WILLIS—Our Sister Willis, wife of Mr. Joe Willis, departed this life on April 7th, 1894. She was a consistent member of the Smyrna Baptist church. May the Lord comfort the husband and the several children that are left. The funeral services were conducted by the writer. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." E. C. BOBBITT.

FORRESTER—Johnnie Forrester, son of Rev. Manly Forrester, at Ramseur, N. C., March 16th, 1894, in his eleventh year. Johnnie was an intelligent and good boy, and we have good reason to believe understood the way of eternal life. This is the third time death has come in Bro. Forrester's family in the last three years. Wife, daughter and son, all taken up above. PASTOR.

WHITE—Some days ago, after arriving at Green's Cross Roads Church, Bertie county, (the church of which I am pastor), the sad news reached me that my own dear uncle, Alfred J. White, was dead and laid in the old family burying ground. He leaves a wife and eight children to mourn their loss. He was a good father, devoted husband, and a consistent member of Ross church, Bertie county.

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep;
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Unbroken by the last of foes."

I remember when a struggling boy entering the ministry how he encouraged me by comforting words. I shall go to him, though he can't come to me; therefore I sorrow not as those who have no hope. Thank God we will meet again in that bright and sunny clime and join in singing the morning light is breaking. G. W. WHITE.

Rockyhock, N. C.

PERKINS—The sun shined bright and clear on the morning of Dec. 16th, 1893. But little of its brightness cheered the hearts of Bro. W. W. Rosser and his afflicted family. Sister Mary A. T. Perkins had gone to join her Saviour. Only the body remained with her youngest daughter. A Christian of more varied experience was never known to the writer. Cradled in the lap of luxury, yet, in her old age, she lost the bulk of her property, with everything in early life calculated to make her pathway bright and joyous; yet the Saviour said "follow me," and he was "a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." But God be praised for the gift of such a woman. Amid all her varied experience her unswerving devotion to Christ was well known by all her acquaintances. For half a century she endured "the burden and heat of the day" in the Master's vineyard. But at last he says to her,

"Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy."

When pastor of her church at Antioch, the writer ever found her house to be the preacher's home, and herself never better pleased than when making the preacher feel that he was at home. She was born Feb. 14th, 1815, and died of consumption at Bro. W. W. Rosser's on Dec. 16th, 1893, leaving two daughters and several grandchildren to mourn while she rejoices. For fifty years she was a member of the Missionary Baptist denomination. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

"Oh for the death of those
Who slumber in the Lord,
Oh be like theirs my last repose,
Like theirs my last reward."

JAMES A. PITCHFORD.

Littleton, N. C.

Tributes of Respect.

Departed this life at his home near Cary, Wake county, Feb. 13th, 1894, Brother Willis Sorrell, in the seventy-second year of his age. He was a consistent member of Reedy Creek Baptist church for many years. He had been suffering for several years from a stroke of paralysis from which he never recovered.

Resolved 1. That Reedy Creek church deeply feels the loss of such a valuable member, the community a good citizen and a kind neighbor, his children a loving father.

Resolved 2. That we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to the God of their fathers who alone can heal their broken hearts.

Resolved 3. That a copy of these resolutions when approved by the church be spread upon the records of the church, a copy be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

R. A. YOUNG,
J. J. MARCOM,
YOUNG STONE.
Committee.

Ayer's Pills are recommended by leading physicians and druggists as the most prompt and efficient remedy for biliousness, nausea, costiveness, indigestion, sluggishness of the liver, jaundice, and sick headache; also, to relieve colds, fevers, neuralgia, and rheumatism.

The Great Health Drink

Safe, sure and reliable. Always on time. A pleasure and a delight. Comfortable, enjoyable.

HIRES' Rootbeer

A 25c. pkg. makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere. Send 2c. stamp for beautiful picture cards and book. The Chas. E. Hires Co., Philadelphia.

Wanted.

A private school from about the middle of June (or later) until middle of September, by a teacher of six year's successful experience in teaching. Address, LOCK BOX, Chapel Hill, N. C.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE. RALEIGH, N. C.

Musical Entertainments

for Young Folks. For use in public and private schools, and the home. Tableaux, Marches, Drills, etc.

A Capital Song, A lesson in geography, 40 cents.
Ball Tossing, A series of evolutions, 40 cents.
Heroes, A marching song for boys, 75 cents.
Japanese Parasol March and Drill, 50 cents.
Song of the Rain Drops, A motion song, 30 cents.
Tambourine March and Drill, 40 cents.
Today, A character sketch with tableaux, 40 cents.
Tomorrow or the Music of the Future, 50 cts.
The Ten Little Sunflowers, A humorous chorus and encore. Very entertaining. 50 cents.
Yesterday or Grandma's Dream, A beautiful little sketch with old time costumes. 50 cents.
Theory and Practice, A singing class lesson, 60 cts.
The Jolly Little Waiters, 60 cents.
The Little Turkkee Turks, 50 cents.
I'm Ashamed to Look my Dolly in the Eyes, A cute song for a bright little girl. 40 cents.

SEND FOR COMPLETE CATALOGUE FREE.

Sample copy of Musical Visitor containing Choir Anthems for 10 cents.

—PUBLISHED BY—
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
CINCINNATI, - - NEW YORK, - - CHICAGO

I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory.
CHAS M. WALSH.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash
Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices,
per ton.
for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for [illegible] 14.50
for Potato Tobacco and Grass 16.00
Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars
W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers. Baltimore, Md.

THE CINCINNATI BELL FOUNDRY
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
SOLE MAKERS OF THE BLYMYER BELLS
FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, FIRE ALARM, &c.
Catalogue with 2500 testimonials. Prices and terms FREE.
Please mention this paper.

BELLS
[illegible] Alloy Church and School Bells [illegible]
[illegible] C. S. BELL CO., [illegible]

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.,
Cincinnati, Ohio, U.S.A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

Leaksville Woolen Mills,
LEAKSVILLE, N. C.,
are at the old place, under the old management, making the same line of excellent goods. Write us for information and samples if you have any wool to be manufactured into Blankets, Fancy Bed Spreads, Cassimere, Jeans, Flannels or Yarns.

Lovely Complexion.

Pure, Soft, White Skin.

Have you freckles, moth, black-heads, blotches, ugly or muddy skin, eczema, tetter, or any other cutaneous blemish? Do you want a quick, permanent and absolutely infallible cure, FREE OF COST to introduce it? Something new, pure, mild and so harmless a child can use or drink it with perfect safety. If so, send your Post-office address to
MISS MAGGIE E. MILETTE,
134 Vine Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

The Leading Conservatory of America.
Founded in [illegible] Tourjée, Carl Faelten, Director.
Illustrated calendar giving full information sent free.
New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, Mass.

The Home Circle.

On Every Sea.

The waves ran high upon the sea,
And bravest hearts were tried,
When o'er the waves of Galilee
One walked upon the tide.
The men who saw that wondrous sight
Now rest eternally;
But still, as on that awesome night,
Christ walks on every sea.

Disease and storm and harrowing care
Smite us on every side,
Danger and death come everywhere,
And will not be denied.
How could we bear affliction's wave,
Or whither might we flee,
Did Christ not stand beside each grave
And walk on every sea?

Yes, He is there! His form of light
Our eyes may not discern,
Yet howsoever dark the night
To Him our hearts may turn.
As once He made the waters bright
When night swept Galilee,
Supreme in mercy as in might,
Christ walks on every sea.

—Julia May Williamson, in Zion's Herald.

Ernst and his Model

"Oh, Ernst, it is beautiful! Is it like me? Is that the very way I stood? I could fancy it is me but for one thing—it has not life. It is only a piece of clay, after all, and cannot hear the music of my dear violin."

"But I can, Thekla," returned her brother, with a laugh, "and perhaps that inspired me to put such good work into my statuette."

"But you are not the statuette, and your work is not you," persisted Thekla.

"Yes, it is," replied the boy, with flashing eyes. "It is the expression of what is in my very heart and mind. I love my sister and choose her for my model. I love my art, and mean to go to Berlin some day, and perhaps may see the old specimens of Greek art in other lands. Who can tell? I shall learn all I can from these our masters. My whole heart and soul—the very best that is in me—shall come out in my work. Oh, it is grand!"

And Ernst Ulbrich put aside his image as Thekla turned away and began to play the Vaterland.

"I am so glad that when the great God formed a man out of clay he breathed a soul into him," she said as she finished her piece. "Ernst, your work is just perfect, so far as terra-cotta can be. But I have something in me which your dear little figure has not got. I feel and see and love my brother who has molded me here. Yes, Ernst, I love you, and know you will become famous some day."

The workshop, in which much of the brother's and sister's time was spent, was simple and rude, but without was bright sunshine, and the peaceful residences and beautiful gardens of a German town. Their father, who had died two years before, had been a poor musician, and had taught his little daughter to play on the instrument she loved so well. Her talent was as pronounced as her brother's, though in a different line.

Ernst's work was now the sole support of his mother, sister, and two little boys, but before his father's death he had begun an apprenticeship to an artist in terra-cotta. At first, he learned to examine the material out of which the figures were made, then to prepare the colors with which they were often painted. He understood all about the baking of the clay when it was molded, and what a delight it was to him to make his first venture in the plastic art in the rude figure of a horse.

"You are not the statuette, and your work is not you."

Though Ernst had the cares of a family upon him, he was still a boy in many things, and the words lingered unpleasantly in his memory. Boy-like, he could not refrain from sending a passing shot after unconscious offender; so he said:

"Your violin is not you."

"Yes, it is," cried Thekla, hastily. "It speaks out exactly what I feel, as my own tongue could not do. If I am glad, it goes like this." And she played a few bars of a gavotte. "If I am ugly, why there!"

She drew the bow across the strings, producing a sharp, discordant wail. Ernst stopped his ears, with a laugh, put aside his image to cool, and, taking his hat from a peg, prepared to go out.

Thekla approached the table after he had gone, violin in hand.

"I am afraid he did not like what I said," she murmured to herself. "But I told the truth; it has not life. It is but a piece of clay, molded by clever fingers, pinched into lines, and smoothed into curves that look like life. But only the great God can give life. And our pastor says we must have a higher life still, a life in the soul, if we would know God and enjoy him forever. Yes, I spoke truth; my violin always speaks truth, and it will not say what I do not feel. God requires truth."

How it was she never knew, but just then she gave herself a sudden twist, the violin in one hand and the bow in the other. Which came in contact with the statuette she could not tell, but in a moment it had turned over and the figure lay broken, flattened, and defaced upon the stand. Only the face was not marred, and it lay happy and serene, as if smiling at the wreck of hope and beauty.

With a despairing cry, Thekla threw her once-loved instrument on the floor, as if in anger for the mischief it had wrought. She raised the image carefully, and tried to put it together again. But no! The ugly dents and cracks remained. It was hopelessly injured.

"I cannot tell him! I dare not tell him!" she exclaimed, as sobs broke forth. "He will be so very angry and not love me any more. Oh, how careless and wicked I have been!"

She picked up her violin, almost hating it, in that moment of supreme despair, for the mischief it had been the means of working.

Away she stole, upstairs to her own little room, drawing a rough bolt across the door to secure her from intrusion. Then, throwing herself on her knees, she gave way to a perfect storm of weeping.

Two hours passed. Ernst must have come in. What had he done? Had he told their mother? Had he destroyed the image? Curiosity was awakened; suspense became intolerable.

And with it came back the echo of her own words: "My violin always speaks the truth." Was she less honorable than that wondrous mechanism of man's devising, the chords of which thrilled beneath her fingers?

Leaving it on the bed, she stole downstairs to the workshop.

Outside the half-closed door she paused. No sound came from within. He could not be there.

No sound! Yes, a smothered sob met her ear! The bitter disappointment and sense of failure, the hours of toil wasted, had been too much for poor Ernst, and his wounded feelings found boyish vent.

In a moment she was beside him, her arms about his neck.

"Ernst, dear, dear, Ernst, I did it. It was very, very wrong, but I went to look at it and the bow must have knocked it over. Oh, I am so sorry! My heart is breaking! Ernst, can you forgive me?"

The true hearted brother turned and caught her in his arms, and forgot his own trouble in trying to sooth hers. He told her he would re mold her image, correcting its former mistakes, for he had seen many faults after the first was finished. And so would he produce a better work, a work that should live in the minds of men, as this might never have done.

"I have read that 'the best men are molded out of failures,'" he said. "And so our greatest gain often comes to us through loss."

"And, oh, Ernst, I will never again say it is not you, for I shall always see in it my brother's noble nature, his love and patience and power—and, oh, ever so much besides!"

Many years afterward, in a studio in Berlin, one lady asked another: "Have you seen Ulbrich's great work, 'The Broken Image'?"

She led the way to a farther corner, and the two joined a group standing in rapt admiration.

It was the figure of a young girl of life-size. The lower portion, with its exquisitely-poised foot, the simple but graceful drapery of the short skirt, was complete, but the head and shoulders had been broken off and lay on the pedestal, the face upturned and smiling.

It was a curious fancy, perhaps an ungraceful one. Was it only an eccentricity of genius, or what story did it tell? Had the original been injured like this in envy or rage?

As the ladies questioned thus, a quiet voice said:

"The original was a statuette, destroyed by an accident. The artist tried to rise through disappointment and pain, as we all must do if we would make life lead to something better. This figure is at once the monument of his failure and success."

He bowed and passed on, and the ladies afterward learned that the story of this strange work of art in terra-cotta had been explained to them by the greatest artist of his day—Ernst Ulbrich.—Emma E. Hornibrook, in Our Young People.

Why Not?

"Please help me just a minute, will you, mamma?" Lucile held up the bit of bright red satin on which she was outlining, in simple stitch, a quaint old teapot, for a pretty holder.

Mrs. Harmon laid down her sewing instantly, and carefully showed the little needlewoman where the mistake had been made.

"Can she sew patchwork?" asked Mrs. Davis, a neighbor who had "run in" with her own sewing for an afternoon's chat.

"Not yet," replied the young mother, glancing rather anxiously towards the little maiden by her side. "Lucile, will you please bring mamma a glass of water?" She did not mean to discuss the question in the child's presence, evidently. Lucile ran obediently away, and her mother was free to continue.

"I am going to let her begin on plain sewing later, but she is not ready yet, I think."

"But, Mrs. Harmon, I always thought children had to begin on patchwork and plain seams. I did!" rather sadly.

"So did I!" responded Mrs. Harmon with a merry laugh. "And I cordially hated sewing until I was a grown woman. And I don't mean that Lucile shall go through such an experience. The bit of work she is doing is teaching her simple stitching, and it is bright and pretty. She dearly loves to do it, and begs for it every rainy day when she can't play out of-doors."

"I do believe it is a good plan." Mrs. Davis spoke regretfully. "I do not like any kind of needlework even now. The memory of those hateful seams and quilts is undimmed, and I'm afraid will always be!"

"Try my way with your Maud," suggested Mrs Harmon.

"Don't you fear it is unsafe to make life too easy for the children? Trouble's bound to come some day. I've always tried to brace Maud for it," with the conviction of the right on her side.

"I think," replied Mrs. Harmon quietly, for Lucile's step was heard outside the door, "that a happy childhood and a faculty of finding the 'silver linings' of all the clouds that rise day by day will be the best strength for future trouble that I could give my little girl."

"You may be right," sighing a little, "I know Lucile is a happy child, and wonderfully sweet and bright."

"Just as long as God puts sunshine and flowers into his world, I'm going to pick out the sunny ways of doing things for my little one's world. Honestly, Mrs. Davis, is there anything particularly praiseworthy in making sewing, or anything else, disagreeable, when it might, and ought, to be pleasant?"

Hasn't Mrs. Harmon the right of it? Let's try her plan, mother.—Jean Halifax, in New York Observer.

Looking Forward.

Never attempt to go into the poultry business in a hurry. Begin at the foot of the ladder and progress gradually. Aim to breed for the kind of hens you wish, instead of purchasing them, for when you buy you are liable to bring disease and vermin into your yards. There is always something to learn, and the risk of loss is small if a beginning is made with a few fowls only. It is well to look forward for success with large numbers, but success is only attained by gradual approaches.—Farm and Fireside.

Water Proof.

Common paper may be converted into a substance resembling parchment by means of sulphuric acid. The acid should be of an exact strength, and mixed with half its weight of water. A sheet of paper placed in this solution becomes hard, tough and fibrous, yet its weight is not increased and it is far better for writing purposes than animal parchment.—Exchange.

For Indigestion and Debility
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.
Dr. Leonard Zepp, Westminster, Md, says: "I have used it in cases of deranged digestion attended with nervous debility, with satisfactory results."

If the Christian course had been meant for a path of roses, would the life of the Author of Christianity have been a path strewed with thorns?—H. Moore.

Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers does its work thoroughly, coloring a uniform brown or black, which, when dry, will neither rub, wash off, nor soil linen.

I always discount the opinion of a man who thinks he knows everything.—Dr. J. W. Carter.

THE RACE IS WON
—over to good health and the system rendered impervious to disease when the blood is pure and the liver active. For the liver is the sentinel which permits or forbids the germs of disease to enter the circulation of the blood. To a congested, torpid and diseased liver can be traced many dangerous diseases affecting various organs.
PIERCE Guarantees a CURE.

MR. J. BENTLY.
I was taken sick with congestion of the liver and the doctors could give me no relief, but after using five bottles of "Discovery," I regained my health and I am now a well man.
I weighed 183 pounds before taken sick, and I was reduced to 130 pounds in sixty days time. For any one suffering with liver trouble as I was, I would advise them to use the "Golden Medical Discovery" at once, before it is too late.
THOMAS J. BENTLY,
Randolph, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.
Fresh Type and Papers Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.
EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders.
RALEIGH, N. C.

MAGNETIC NERVINE.

BEFORE - AFTER.
Is sold with written guarantee to cure Nervous Prostration, Fits, Dizziness, Headache and Neuralgia and Wakefulness, caused by excessive use of Opium, Tobacco and Alcohol; Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, causing Misery, Insanity and Death; Barrenness, Impotency, Lost Power in either sex, Premature Old Age, Involuntary Losses, caused by over-indulgence, over-exertion of the Brain and Errors of Youth. It gives to Weak Organs their Natural Vigor and doubles the joys of life; cures Leucorrhœa and Female Weakness. A month's treatment, in plain package, by mail, to any address, $1 per box, 6 boxes $5. With every $5 order we give a Written Guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circulars free. Guarantee issued only by our exclusive agent.
[illegible] MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

IN paint the best is the cheapest.—Don't be misled by trying what is said to be "just as good," but when you paint insist upon having a genuine brand of
Strictly Pure White Lead
It costs no more per gallon than cheap paints, and lasts many times as long. Look out for the brands of White Lead offered you; any of the following are sure:
"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.
FOR COLORS.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors. These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.
A good many thousand dollars have been saved property-owners by having our book on painting and color-card. Send us a postal card and get both free.
Philadelphia Branch, 231 South Front Street, Philadelphia. NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES, RALEIGH, N. C.
Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:
We Want
YOUR OLD BOOKS.
The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.
TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:
You Exchange Even for Live Books.
We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.
ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.
HARDWARE
Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.
STOVES
Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,
224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,
OFFER AT LOW PRICES
Refrigerators,
Ice Cream Freezers,
FLY FANS, &c.
Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,
Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.
HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.
Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers
DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr.
[illegible] Raleigh, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?
TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1894. Number 46.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months.....1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender).....20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

WITH many a laugh in their sleeves, with many a reassuring chuckle, and with fulsome sighs of relieved suspense, do Prince Albert of England, Wilhelm of Germany, and Alexander of Russia contemplate our marching "Armies of the Commonweal." They have often been subjected to such demonstrations, and no doubt they feel better now that they are shown to be possible in a "government of, for, and by the people." To know that a government founded in defiance of the "Divine right of kings" is not altogether free from the charge of oppression, should be cause for congratulation among them. And, indeed, Coxey's armies are having an influence in Europe that is far more lasting than in the United States. Four hundred men crying for "relief" here becomes four hundred thousand men when the papers of monarchial governments speak of them, and one man killed is a bloody revolution when Europeans hear of it. It is a fact that the people of the United States have not enjoyed life as they confidently hoped when freed from the oppression of a tyrant. We have expected the supernatural of human beings; and we have been disappointed. The European press says our government is a failure, and a revolution is on hand; that kings are divinely sent beings, and that we will yet have to import one. While this seems ludicrous to us, it does much to persuade the Englishman, German or Russian to retain his present form of government. They are lead to believe that our system of government is not any better than theirs, notwithstanding our freedom and our wealth of land and resources; and they conclude that a revolution is too costly to undergo for nothing. They see the army of the discontented, but are blind to the millions of happy citizens. Yes, the Divine right of kings has been strengthened in the European popular view in the last few weeks; and the kings are rightly rejoicing over it. The army of the Commonweal has added years to the existence of monarchy, even if it has failed to accomplish its purpose in America. It has made it possible for monarchy to say that people cannot govern themselves, and therefore need a "divinely sent" king to shape their destinies.

FOR the last two years the Nicaragua Canal Company has been endeavoring to persuade our government to virtually become responsible for $100,000,000 worth of its bonds—paper based on the hope of cutting a canal for ships through the strip of mountains that connect North and South America, which would permit ships sailing from New York to San Francisco to save several thousand miles in the course. Suez canal is a magnificent success. Panama is a dismal failure, as is witnessed by the bones of many men who gaves their lives to the phosphorescent scheme. The Panama canal with its crumbling excavations, rusting machinery, repudiated bonds and dead men; with its ruined and disgraced De Lesseps, its colossal robberies of the people and its nation-tarnishing scandal, is a monumental warning to all governments not to meddle with private affairs. If the Nicaragua canal were a possibility—and if it is impossible now, it is a surety of the future, it should be cut by all means. It would help America from Terra del Fuego to Alaska; it would save millions of money and decades of time; it would increase commerce in both continents. But our government cannot afford to meddle with the bonds of any corporation. It does well to keep its own above par. If the United States is to have anything to do with the canal, it should have all; it should buy out the present company, issue its own bonds and dig its own canal. Private affairs are private affairs, and the government cannot consistently endorse any one's notes, however promising be the premiums, however lasting the results. It would be more just and more practicable to issue $500,000,000 in bonds and pay them to a Coxey's army to build better public roads. Failure of private companies is too probable; corruption is too frequent. Our National Treasury is not yet a speculator; the public moneys are not to be expended on chances and hopes; and, we may add, neither the people of the country nor the government has enough money or sufficient credit to become security to the amount of $100,000,000 for any one or any uncertain object.

SOME weeks ago we read with a satisfaction akin to joy that the Attorney-General of Illinois had decided that the American Tobacco Company was a trust of the most pronounced type. Coming from a State officer, it is something quite startling. We and almost every one else in North Carolina have considered it to be a trust since its inception. We also know that our State Legislature has declared trusts inimical to the interests of its citizens, and enacted laws to prohibit their operation in North Carolina. But the great trouble has been to prove that a trust is a trust. We know them when we see or feel them, and one might define them; but in this day of lawyers devoted to invalidating instead of upholding law, few can write or do anything to which money and power can not take technical exception. There are loop holes in our enactments. But if a far off public attorney has declared that the company is a trust, we do not perceive why North Carolina—which has suffered more than any other State from its oppressive work—cannot take the Illinois man's word for it. Certainly we must rid our State of the operations of the American Tobacco Company by some way or other. It is a trust, if we know what a trust is. It is a combination of buyers and sellers, which has depressed the price of tobacco by destroying competition. Even if it were not a trust, some means should be devised for preventing it from selling cigarettes and lewd pictures to youths.

It is a reflection on the present administration in this State that a trust, which another State Attorney-General recognizes as such, is permitted to exist in defiance of our law. If the law is weak, let the next Legislature strengthen it. But if it is not weak save in its executors, a test should be made, if nothing further.

Trusts may be good things; a professor of political economy has said that they employ labor, buy produce, and reduce prices; also, they sometimes become "benevolent" and endow colleges with insurance policies bought with their ill-got gains; and there is a man in our State who has declared that such endowments are "more enduring monuments than classic piles." These things may be true. Perhaps our college boys should be taught to admire the operations of trusts. But they are unlawful in North Carolina, and as such should be destroyed, whether they be useful to needy institutions or instructive to college students or not. Let a test be made.

THINGS are often carried too far. Some highly civilized—too highly, indeed—apostle of etiquette has been sending the RECORDER columns and columns of polite literature, with the hope that we will subscribe to his work, or give him a good "reader," we presume. Among other interesting departments of this work are the queries. There's a young girl who desires to know how long her skirts should be; another is in doubt as to whether her commencement slippers shall be white satin or vermilion kid; another apparently is in distress because red gloves are not "in style." A young man desires to know whether his love is old enough to correspond; another is very reasonably confused by the red-tapeism involved in the system of cards, "at homes," etc. Mothers, and not query columns, should answer these questions.

This etiquette business is getting so intricate that, we fear, its hair-brained disciples will not be able to master all its "rules of politeness;" certain it is that they are unequal to anything else already. A person who has to read a book of etiquette to be a man—in all that the word implies—reflects on his parents and himself; one who submits to half the modern social laws and forms should be disfranchised. The laws of God and country and common sense are sufficient for well meaning people. Any one who seeks or formulates other laws is uncultured and presumes that his characteristic quality is rampant. Neither manhood nor womanhood are made or measured by books of etiquette. Some of the most consummate scoundrels alive are most polite and gentlemanly in appearance. While the qualities are not inate, they are not difficult of attainment. If one does one's best to be oneself, he is more cultured than the disciple of etiquette who sneers at his awkwardness. The former comes by his qualities honestly; the latter is a hypocrite. Tennyson expressed it precisely when he wrote:

"Cursed be the social wants that sin against the strength of youth!
Cursed be the social ties that warp us from the living truth!
Cursed be the sickly forms that err from honest
Nature's rule!
Cursed be the gold that gilds the straiten'd forehead of the fool!"

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

Those who may have been so patient as to pursue with the writer the line of thought suggested in his first article will remember the original proposition.

It was agreed that if it be (1) Right, (2) Expedient, and (3) Possible on Religious Grounds, for the State to provide the higher education, there is simply no need at all for citizens in private or corporate capacity to go to any trouble or expense in providing such education.

But if, on the other hand, on any one of these three grounds, the State be estopped from making this provision, then higher education must be provided for, not by taxation, but on the Voluntary principle.

The State policy now in vogue and the tendency which it reveals assume that it is right, expedient, and possible for the State to control and supply all demands for higher education.

The Voluntary system, which has been put upon the defensive by this policy, and whose very existence is threatened by this tendency, challenges the right, the expediency, and possibility of the supply of the higher learning by the State.

The questions of right and expediency have been discussed. It is now proposed to seek an answer to the last question:—

THIRD. IS IT POSSIBLE FOR A STATE TO FURNISH THE KIND OF HIGHER EDUCATION WHICH IS MOST DESIRABLE FOR ITS YOUTH, WITHOUT COMMITTING ITSELF TO SOME SPECIAL FORM OF BELIEF,—A THING WHICH A STATE IS NOT AT LIBERTY TO DO?

This question is neither local nor little. In one form or another it has for years agitated the public mind in many communities. In the effort to give wise solutions to the practical problems involved, great cities have been stirred from centre to circumference, the secular and religious press of large sections of the country have been filled with discussions, and the highest State courts of appeal have recorded their judgments.

And wherever an issue has been squarely made, there has been only one answer. And, so long as our Constitutions remain unchanged, there can be only one.

The question may be delicate and difficult to discuss; but it cannot be laughed down or otherwise ignored. The truth is, no question before the American public is likely to demand for its ultimate solution more of the tolerance of charity or of the wisdom of statesmanship.

The question will be answered by the establishment of two propositions. The conclusion follows necessarily.

1. The desirable education must contain religious elements.

2. The State is debarred by its fundamental law from furnishing these religious elements.

3. Hence, the State is debarred by its fundamental law from supplying the desirable education.

(1). To the truth of the first proposition, no one will be likely to raise serious objection. Everybody will agree that a desirable education must contain religious elements. There will be a wide diversity of opinion, however, as to what these religious elements should be.

To give to a youth in the formative period of life the best physical culture, the highest intellectual training, and the widest attainments in secular knowledge, and at the same time to ignore and neglect his spiritual nature is surely a fatal error. Such an education cannot develop the highest type of symmetrical manhood, but will produce an incomplete and distorted being, in whom most important organs and functions have become atrophied from disuse.

Professor Huxley will not be suspected of prejudice in favor of religion; and his testimony is worth all the more on this account. "My belief is," he says, "that no human being, and no society composed of human beings, ever did or ever will come to much, unless their conduct was governed and guided by the love of some ethical ideal. If I were compelled to choose for one of my own children between a school in which real religious instruction is given, and one without it, I should prefer the former, even though the child might have to take a good deal of theology with it."

Dr. Whewell of the University of Cambridge (England) bases a strong argument for union of Church and State on the relation of religion to education. The State must educate. Religion is essential in education. The State, unless connected with a form of religion established by law, may not give religious education. Hence establishment necessary for higher education. It can easily be seen how his argument can be turned around so as to prove that without an established religion, the State may not give the higher education. (Elements of Mor. & Polity, Bk. V. Caps. 15 & 16. passim.)

He presents strongly the importance of Religion in Education.

"Mans duty, his destiny, * * the precepts of religion have so much more interest for the intellects of men in general than any other subjects, that any intellectual teaching which excludes these subjects, would, on that account, fetter and narrow the mind, far more than enlarge and elevate it. Moreover, the intellect could not be much exercised on mere material subjects, to the exclusion of moral and religious ones, without giving an undue estimate of the comparative value of the former, and a false view of their bearing and connexion." (Vol. 2, p. 341.)

Again, "Intellectual, moral and religious education are so closely connected, that they cannot be kept permanently separate. If we take the higher degrees of education, we find it impossible to carry them on without teaching either religion or irreligion. * * A person cultivated to the highest degree in a knowledge of physical science, without any moral or religious education, would be a powerful intellectual machine rather than an educated man. Thus education cannot go on, so as to answer its purpose, without including in it religion as a leading element." (Vol. 2, p. 345.)

Man is essentially a religious being: no wise system of education can ignore the fact. Mere moral instruction or the presentation of ethical truth is not enough. This will not satisfy the deeper needs of the nature. Religious truth, in some definite, clear cut form, ought to be presented. Generic religion is an absurdity.

If a system were to be framed which embraced the doctrines of all sects, these would be found mutually antagonistic to such an extent that only a very small skeleton of Natural Religion would remain. If, on the other hand, a State should frame a system which rejected the peculiar doctrines of all sects, nothing would remain as an object of belief.

If a State is to take any cognizance of sects at all in deciding what religious elements should enter into its education, the disciples of Comte, Haeckel, and Ingersol, are just as much entitled to recognition by the State as are Jews, Catholics, and Protestants.

The term "Religion" must not be used in this article in any equivocal sense. Fortunately, it has been defined for us by the advocates of State education in North Carolina. Their definition is, "The religion of our own Bible,—the Christian Religion."

This first proposition will receive incidental notice again further on.

(2) I may take more time and trouble to show that the State has no right to furnish education which contains religious elements, i. e. Christian Education.

It is true that very much of really valuable Christian education has been given in the past by State institutions. And it is also true that in several States they have been for years together, under the dominant influence of one or another of the Christian denominations. And there can be no doubt that far better ends have been attained than if religion had been ignored. North Carolina is doubtless better off to-day because, as Dr. Mangum says, the State university was for many years virtually a Presbyterian institution. Georgia has probably been the gainer because her university was for a long time largely under Baptist influence. And so other States and other denominations might be mentioned. The results were good. The means were unjustifiable. Christian education is always and everywhere a good thing. But no State in the Federal Union has any right to give or authorize it.

Unless they be made absolutely secular, it will be almost impossible, however great may be the efforts made to do so, to prevent State institutions from drifting under the influence of one or another of the religious denominations. Yet unless this almost impossible condition of stable equilibrium be permanently maintained, there will certainly be more or less of a sense of injustice felt by the less influential bodies of Christians.

While the considerations just mentioned are a real and serious objection to State control and support of higher education,—an objection of the same general nature with that which is urged against the union of Church and State—no special stress will be laid upon them in this argument.

But great stress will be laid upon the fact that there may not be in any State institution any discrimination for or against any form of religion whatever.

Protestants, Catholics, Israelites, Agnostics and Infidels are all to be on equal footing. If they are all taxed alike for the support of an institution, there may be nothing taught in it which would oppose the religious views of any. A State can set up no religious standards, and is not at liberty, even indirectly, to favor one form of religion more than another.

"But the majority of the people of North Carolina are Christians, nominally, at least." That makes no difference. This matter is not affected by what happen to be majorities in any State at any given time. Minorities, also, have their rights. The Bill of Rights protects them in the assertion of these rights. And the argument implied by the objector would prove too much. Suppose, as is possible, that Catholics or Baptists or Methodists or those holding any other form of belief or unbelief, should become more numerous than all others combined, what then?

If Christianity may be taught because Christians happen to be most numerous, Catholicism may be taught in a State institution when Catholics become most numerous. And if this dominant influence may be exerted in one institution on the ground of numerical majority, it may be with equal propriety exerted in all State institutions and in all departments of government.

If it be granted that the education which is most truly good and useful to the individual and to society must contain branches of study which discuss religious questions and must be thoroughly interpenetrated with decided religious influences, then the State is debarred from furnishing the education which is best and most useful. For in giving such education it interferes with the rights of conscience; and this it is forbidden to do by the Constitution.

Hon. W. T. Harris, U. S. Com. of Ed., has said, [Cir. of Infor. No. 6, 1888,]: "The separation of Church and State is an acknowledged principle in our National Government, and its interpretation from generation to generation eliminates with more and more of strictness whatever ceremonies and observances of a religious character still remain attached to secular questions and usages. * * All thoughtful persons look with solicitude on institutions of an educational character in order to discover what means, if any, can remain for moral education after ecclesiastical foundation has been removed. * * It happens quite naturally that some of the best people in the community struggle to retain the ecclesiastical forms and ceremonies in the secular. They find themselves unable to discriminate between the provinces of morality and religion. With them education and morality means education is performing religious rites. But this view certainly does not harmonize with the political convictions of our people."

Of course these principles are equally applicable to all education undertaken by the State, to public schools as well as colleges and universities. So far as the former are concerned, however, there is little practical difficulty. The child is at home a large part of the time and religious instruction can easily be imparted there. The writer does not care to make any practical issue at this point, but whenever the issue is made, as it surely will be, sooner or later, neither prayer nor the reading of the Bible can be allowed in any school supported by general taxation. Morality may be inculcated, but the instruction given must be absolutely and entirely secular, as opposed to religious.

This seems to be the only ground on which it is possible to answer Catholics who may claim a division of the public school money in such a way as to enable Catholic schools to be supported by it. But, on this ground, the solution of this troublesome problem seems to be very easy. If the State furnishes secular education which is absolutely colorless as to religious instruction and influence, the Catholic may avail himself of it or not, but he cannot say that there is any discrimination against him. And, if he wishes, he can easily arrange, as many do, to supplement the secular education given by the State with religious instruction elsewhere.

Rev. Howard Crosby says: "The public schools have no more right to teach religion than has the Military Academy or the Coast Survey."

President Payne of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The genius of our institutions seems to require that our public schools should be purely a lay institution. In Cooley's Constitutional Limitations we find that the compulsory support, by taxation or otherwise, of religious instruction is named as one of those things which are not lawful under any of the American Constitutions. * * With the State as an educator, the school becomes a civil institution, and, as such, must abandon religious instruction, which must be relegated to the family and the Church. * * To conclude, the manifest destiny is to a secularization of the school."

President R. A. Venable, of Mississippi College, published a few weeks ago in a Tennessee paper the following statement of the argument:—

"I do not believe the Bible should be read in the public schools. The Jew, the Roman Catholic, the Protestant, all pay taxes to keep up the schools. The Jew does not believe the New Testament is of divine origin. He does not believe in it. I take it he is sincere. He does not want his child to believe it. The Catholic does not believe in the Protestant Bible. Nor does the Protestant believe in the Catholic Bible. These both pay taxes. Read the Catholic Bible and you do violence to the Protestant. Read the Protestant Bible and you do violence to the Catholic. Read the New Testament and you hurt the Jew."

In The Outlook of January 27th, 1894, is an article by E. B. Dahlgren. He gives the Catholic point of view: "Let there be no infringement of the religious rights or the wounding of the conscience of any of our people, be they Catholics, Protestants, or Jews. The Bible should be excluded. It properly belongs to the religious field of education. You have no more right to impose upon the Catholic the Protestant version of the Bible than he has to make you read his. Besides, the Catholic does not believe that every one is capable of expounding the Bible, much less that children of all ages are capable of proper reception of its contents. Nor should the Jew be compelled so listen to the New Testament which he does not consider inspired. It would seem beyond cavil that the Bible belongs to the religious field of education, and, as such, has no mission to fulfil in a purely non-sectarian school system."

On the ground which has been assumed, all difficulties in dealing with Catholic claimants for public school money will vanish. But the conditions are different, and the question is far more difficult to solve, if

[CONTINUED TO THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 16, 1894.

Rev. C. T. BAILEY, Editor and Proprietor.
J. C. CADDELL, Agent and Correspondent.

THE ABUSING PREACHER.

In a recent issue of the RECORDER appeared a short clipping—"Hitting or Feeding,"—which we thought very pertinent. It merely asked the question: "Shall preachers 'hit' their flocks with pungent remarks or feed them with the Word of God?" At the time it was published a pastor in conversation with us decided it so far as he was concerned in the affirmative. He thought slow and sleepy flocks were best aroused by sudden and curt "hits," such as all of us have heard. We differed with him, and differ now.

Christ had occasions for rebuking men in his earthly ministry. But they were addressed to defilers of the temple rather than its members. His ministry was essentially one of feeding. And we are sure modern shepherds would find it both more congenial and useful to lead and teach and feed those who are placed under his guidance, than to be forever accusing them of neglect of duty, albeit it is apparent that they are neglectful. When Thomas doubted, Christ showed him the marks and the scars; when Peter denied, he was lead to a greater faith. So now with church members who are weak and neglectful of their duty, we believe that the policy for the pastor to pursue should be one of personal and direct instruction and prayer; and by no means a general "slap" at the entire congregation. In the first place public abuse seldom reaches the mark. Some good, faithful soul—sensitive of its unworthiness of Jesus—may take it as a rebuke, but the one who is careless seldom considers anything unpleasant as addressed to himself. Again, it is unjust to those who do their duty as well as they can to make them feel a "fling" that is intended for only one or two who need correction.

Consider the matter in an every-day light. No man is brought to his duty by abuse. No animal is trained to work by cuts and scolds so well as by kindness. To abuse one blunts his sense of right and wrong and makes him indifferent to duty. We have all seen sullen servants; and in nine cases out of ten they become sullen through abuse. It is gentleness and kindness that makes one aware of the evil of one's way; and for the sake of gentleness and kindness many a man has felt obliged to do better. People should be made aware of their wrongfulness; but a quicker and a surer and a more lasting way than abuse is found in charity of manner and intent. A "fling" may hurt and it may awaken; but when it is forgotten its object falls asleep.

However, "hitting" is the particular forte of undenominational evangelists. Some of them seem to carry a stock of hard sayings with them and deal them out indiscriminately wherever they go. They are persuaded that no Christians on earth are doing half their duty; and we know that one evangelist, who has achieved quite a name in our State, has told the citizens of a dozen towns that they are the worst people he has encountered in all his campaign. Many of those to whom he spoke were good men; but they were not advertisers of their goodness, and therefore seemed to the evangelist to be totally inactive. We believe with all our soul in an active Christian life; we know many Christians are not doing their full duty. But we protest that a travelling evangelist has little right to judge of these things. He may "stir up" some people, but he disgusts more, and eventually those whom he excites fall back into former ways, as far from the spirit of God as ever.

Moreover, abuse of church members cannot but have an evil effect on the anxious seekers of Christ and all others who are not Christians. Calling a church cold and unworthy does not argue well for the value of church membership. And whether it should be considered so or not, many and many a "professor of religion" under travelling undenominational evangelists makes this an excuse for not joining the church. It is so. We have seen it time and again. And to be candid, we would dislike very much to join some churches, if what evangelists said about them were true.

There is but one way to secure the presence of the Spirit—and that is prayer. Abuse may stir us up, it may shame or frighten us; but it will be forgotten. Abuse does not bring the Holy Spirit's power. It is prayer and faith; and no revival is possible without these. None of us do our full duty, nor do evangelists. But if one does his best, that's all that can be asked. If one fails to do one's best, it may be through ignorance of duty. If it is, it can be pointed out personally; one can be asked to read the Bible more, to pray more; and never a word of rebuke be said. Yet we are sure such a course will have far greater effect than "flings." Let us feed and be fed, as Christ very emphatically urged. It is easy to abuse; no one is perfect. But it requires one endowed with the knowledge of the grace of God to feed year in and year out.

SYSTEMATIC CHARITIES.

It has long been a question whether or not the world is growing better. We noticed in a recent review a discussion of the question, "Is Faith in a Future Life Declining?" We think not. We know the world is growing better. We have certain evidence that the world is more benevolent now than ever before; and benevolence is the fruit of Christ's commandment of brotherly love.

The bread funds, clothing bureaus and relief organizations of the greater cities last winter are a testimony that the world is more benevolent than ever. Tens of thousands of dollars were collected and publicly acknowledged for these objects, and we have no reason to believe that an equal amount was not given privately. No charity organization or bureau was forced to close doors during the entire hard season for want of funds. And no worthy one applied to them in vain. The gospel of brotherly love showed itself plainly here. As the summer comes on we will hear of free ice and "fresh-air" funds for sick people; and they will save many lives and soothe many a heated brow before the season is passed.

But over and above these things there are organizations—only a few now—that are attempting to rescue children from iniquitous environment. And this is a work of greater promise than any mere physical efforts. To rescue the mind of a child from the influence of unworthy parents is to protect the community, and to prepare a soul for salvation. It is said that one viceful family has cost the government more than a million of dollars. The generations grew up without wholesome influence and followed the way of its father. But if these children can be removed from their environment, sufficient influences can be brought to bear to overcome the tendency of heredity. We believe this is the only way to remove the human "scum" from our cities. The elder generation is so steeped in sin that it cannot be rescued, though the Salvation Army is doing good work with this view. But there is hope for the children. If they are brought within good influences, and if they are trained and educated, it is probable that they will be good citizens. At least a large percentage of them will be saved from vice.

Another evidence of the betterment of the world is found in an organization founded two years ago in Rev. A. C. Dixon's Brooklyn church—"The Open Air Worker's Association." Its object is the more active work of evangelization among those beyond reach of churches. The gospel is preached as of old, in the open air, where any one can hear without hindrance. It is supported by benevolence and the energy of its workers. It has been the agency of the salvation of many souls; and has resulted in the establishment of many mission chapels and stations. The gospel is now preached in the United States with more force and effect than ever before; and the complete evangelization of our land is not far off, if the present vigorous efforts are not abated.

THE number of histories of the life of Christ is worthy of note. They have all been written in comparatively recent years, for in other days the Bible narrative was considered sufficient. To-day no history excels that of the Gospels. Yet men of all beliefs have felt the importance of taking Christ's life from the Holy Book and writing of it as they would any other biography. There is a profane history of Christ's life; and it was a very popular work once. There are man histories; and these are most important. People who would not read the Bible are often attracted to these histories of Christ. They bring the Saviour nearer all classes not reached by the Bible; and they often help Bible readers. It is strange that a life of which there is real record of but three years should be so popular for book-making. Beyond the human interest which attaches to mere speculation in regard to the first thirty years of Christ's life, there is a broad desire among men to know more of the Son of Man. His life, simple and bold, lowly and powerful, has stood without a peer through the centuries, and it is not to be wondered that books and books are written, and read widely, on the history of so marvellous a being.

AT the close of one of the paragraphs in Dr. Taylor's article for this week the sentence "But it is doubtful if, in that case, States could continue to provide higher education," should be changed so as to read "the higher education which is most desirable for their youth."

IT HAS always been past our understanding that a Christian professor can believe that certain statements in the Bible are untrue and have any reliance in the whole Word. To say that the Old Testament contains myths; that Moses lived less than one thousand years before Christ; that as a history and a prophecy the Book is incorrect, and then to be a believer in the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, is more than we can grasp. To our thinking, to doubt a part invalidates the whole.

Certain it is that the revelations of these skeptical professors has this effect on unbelievers. Certain it is that a higher critic is an aider of infidels and agnostics. The Bible—God's Word from beginning to end—is in our opinion above the investigation of men. To investigate is to doubt; and doubt is unbelief; and unbelief is agnosticism and infidelity. The Bible should be studied; it has something "new" and something "higher" in it every time one reads it closely and faithfully. But no one, however learned he is, should attempt to disintegrate it. It must stand, not by parts, but as a whole. A critic may not injure his faith in Christ, but he is sure to injure that of some one who does not investigate for himself.

JUST as John the Baptist proclaimed the coming kingdom in the wilderness, godly men are proclaiming it now,—not only in China and Africa and India, but even in the United States, yea, in North Carolina. A wilderness of sin is not far from any of us. Wildernesses of ignorance are but too frequent. But we rejoice to think that in our country each of these wildernesses has its proclaimer of the kingdom; we would rejoice more if such were the case the world over.

John the Baptist was in a wilderness, but he was not oppressed and cast down. He had a cause and a mission, and a Spirit to guide him, and he never faltered. So now with modern preachers of Christ there is never cause for faltering. They have their mission and their comforter and guide. The wilderness may be ever so dark and lonely, but he who can preach Christ is never without a companion. Christians, least of all men, should be in "bad spirits." When they are, it is a dangerous sign. It is a beginning of unbelief, a basis of distrust. The voices in the wildernesses, our State missionaries and others, deserve much sympathy and encouragement. Many of them are proclaiming the kingdom almost as newly as did John the Baptist. They have a great work before them—one that, when accomplished, will not be least on the final record book.

THE CONVENTION.

BY THE WAY.

Our train—the "Seaboard Air Line Convention Special"—due at Raleigh at two a. m.—was somewhat more than three hours behind the schedule. So it was a matter of sleeping in a railroad depot, with its inevitable draughts and hard and misfit seats, or walking away the listless "watches of the night." We chose the latter per force, and it is scarcely desirable that one should attempt to express brethren Durham's and Broughton's thoughts during those hours.

But the train did come as the sun rose; and once aboard, the splendid equipment of the cars, the kind attention of the railroad agents, and the general good spirits of some Virginia brethren—among them, Speight of the Atlantic Baptist, and Ferguson of the Religious Herald, and Dr. M. B. Wharton—notwithstanding their small number as compared with the North Carolina delegates, and the obvious disadvantages under which they labored, made the trip through North Carolina very pleasant.

In South Carolina our number was considerably augmented. We dislike to say much about this State. Its delegates told us we were passing through the worst part of it. We hope so; but we do not think railroad men have that way of doing things. But we take the South Carolinian's word for it—in charity. The State may lay claim, at least, to having more muddy creeks and rivers, small towns and lazy-looking people who live on lazy-looking hills than any State we saw.

Georgia is not unlike North Carolina. The growing cotton and corn, the lofty pines, and the rolling sand hills made us feel quite at home. It is difficult to see why Atlanta is a greater city than Raleigh, both being capitals of very similar States. Atlanta, "the Gate City," is indeed more than a rival of the "Old Dominion's" proud capital. Its appearance is one of business from the word "go." Its buildings are beautiful and substantial. It is the city of the South.

We dreamed through Alabama to the music of the rails with its inevitable accompaniment, the music of the nose. Dr. Durham is thinking of petitioning our paternalistic Legislature to appropriate $90,000 to educate people to sleep laying on their sides, and $10,000 to repair damages to people already injured. The petition has no traditions, but it will get them—if we wait long enough, and that is all it lacks.

We wake up for breakfast at dirty and busy Mobile. It is a Chicago-like place—on a bay, a railroad centre, populated with "hustlers" and dotted with saloons. At this point the breezes from the Gulf of Mexico relieve us of the pelting sun of South Carolina and Georgia, and the presence of a gentle dampness in the atmosphere reminds one of early mornings in April, despite the fact we are closer to the equator than we have ever been. The route along here is inspiring; acres and acres of growing cotton, marshes of beautiful flowers and trees—palms, mosses in greatest abundance, and here and there a glimpse of the Gulf; a breeze from New Orleans is busy in dust and heat. The Mississippi is lower than usual at this season. It is full of dingy-looking, old time paddle-wheel boats. Our cars—there were twelve of them—were carried bodily on a ferry across the river. We felt relieved to get away from New Orleans. It looked heathenish from the cars. Its people are peculiar; its houses are Romish; its ways are sullen. But the State is decidedly the opposite. Every foot of land is planted in either sugar-cane or corn, and cane mills, around which are employees' houses, are seen every few miles. This is the richest section of country through which we passed; and the people were busy and happy looking.

As night comes on, it leaks out that our train is "a racer," and is hard pressed by its competitor by way of Birmingham and Memphis. It has orders to run through the day and night "regardless," as a trainman put it. And on through the sugar State to the plains of Texas we "make time" lost along the uncertain Gulf lands. We awake in the morning and see the prairies of the "Lone Star," on which afar off appear now and then a contented herd of cattle. The "cow boys"—farm hands, really—waive their hats at us, but wake no attempt to "hold-us-up." They were much alike other people who live in the sunshine with probable advantage in comparison to the "other people."

We are now in Dallas, our train a winner, her crew happy, her travellers thankful for the pleasures of the trip and the opportunity of stretching their legs. We are received as Baptists receive guests everywhere. Committees, walking bureaus of information, cabmen, and newsboys, all raise their voices in a medley of uproarious welcome. Dallas is quite a city. Electric cars, elegant hotels, accommodating and energetic people, are her features. There is room here for many more than will come; and there are at least nine hundred (delegates and visitors) already. The Convention building is splendidly appointed, convenient, roomy, and arranged with due regard to acoustics.

To-night Dr. J. William Jones delivers one of his famous lectures; and Dr. T. T. Eaton also lectures.

The Convention meets to-morrow.

OPENING SESSION.

DALLAS, TEXAS, May 11, 1894.—Promptly at the hour of 10 o'clock, a. m., President Haralson called the forty-ninth session of the Convention to order. There were present in the building—"The Sam Jones Tabernacle,"—which was handsomely decorated in the National colors, about 5,000 people.

By request of the President, Dr. Pritchard conducts religious exercises. "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" was sung. Dr. Pritchard reads a Psalm, and prays, thanking God for his many blessings and asking his guidance in the present meeting.

Secretary Burrows reads list of delegates. There are many absent.

Preliminary business having been disposed of, President Haralson states that nominations for President of the Convention are in order. Dr. Gambrell nominates the present incumbent, and he is unanimously elected, the Secretaries casting the vote.

The election of Vice-Presidents resulted as follows: Number of votes, 458; Dr. F. M. Ellis receives 379; Dr. J. W. Jones, 331; Dr. S. H. Ford, 321; Hon. W. J. Northen, 320; and are elected. The other candidates were Judge W. T. Faircloth of North Carolina, J. B. Cranfil and J. S. Coleman.

Dr. Hawthorne, who nominated Gov. Northen, made the latter's recent appointment of Roman Catholic Patrick Walsh to the Senate—and the subsequent utterances of Editor Cranfil of the Texas Baptist Standard—an issue in the election. In the nominating speech Dr. Hawthorne said: "Gov. Northen is a man who has discharged the duties of his office so as to deserve the approbation of every intelligent citizen. He is a Baptist who has never lowered the Baptist flag,—whose Christian influence has always been used in the cause of his denomination." This was quite a blow to Editor Cranfil; and his defeat and Gov. Northen's election showed clearly the Convention's sentiment.

Dr. H. H. Harris introduced the following resolution which was referred to the proper committee: "Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to confer with a similar committee of the American Baptist Home Mission Society to effect co operation in Home Mission work between Northern and Southern Baptists, and to break down other territorial barriers." It is also Resolved, That the time has come for this body to enter New Mexico as a mission field.

At this period, the President introduces Rev. C. L. Seasholes, pastor of the First Baptist church of Dallas, the man who has labored so earnestly—and well nigh successfully—to make this Convention the greatest in our history—who welcomes the body to Dallas with fitting remarks. He is responded to by Rev. E. Y. Mullins of Maryland, who is equally fortunate in his speech.

Dr. Tichenor reads report of Home Board. The following is a summary: Number of missionaries, 381; churches and stations, 1,329; baptisms during the year, 4,470; total additions, 8,509; houses of worship built, 67. Total receipts, cash and vouchers from May 1, '93, to May 1, '94, $187,629.18; cash expenditures, $79,886.72; expenditures on field, $107,544 73. Cash on hand, $247.83. Amount raised and expended on fields for mission work, $54,800.83; amount for houses of worship, $52,784 90.

Dr. Bell read report of Sunday-school Board. This Board has this year collected $50,426 92, and has expended $46,958.75; leaving a favorable balance of $3 468.17.

Dr. Willingham offers his report, making feeling remarks in respect to Sister Yates. He stated that Sister Knight and Bro. King had resigned their work under the Board, and were now laboring with the "Gospel Mission."

The report shows the receipt of $179,782.41 from May 1st, 1893, to same date this year, and an expenditure of $175,567.15, leaving a balance in the hands of the Treasurer of $4,165 26.

The reports having been read and approved, the hour for adjournment is announced. Just before the benediction, Bro. N. B. Broughton is appointed chairman of a committee to preserve order in the Convention. Every one is in good spirits so far, and but one discordant note has been heard, a letter from a Kentucky church, condemning several matters. It was referred to a committee.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Discussion of the basis of representation consumed the afternoon. Rev. E. E. Folk submitted the report of the majority of the committee appointed by the last Convention, and defined the two ideas of representation. His report held that the constitution should be so changed as to read that the Convention shall consist of ten delegates from each State, and five each from District of Columbia and Indian Territory; in addition there should be one delegate from each Association co operating with the Convention.

A minority report was introduced. It provided that the last three lines in article three of the Constitution should be stricken out, and in the first clause $300 should be substituted for $250. Dr. Carroll favored the latter.

The question was discussed by Editor Folk, for the majority, Dr. Penick of Louisana for the minority, Dr. Hawthorne for the majority, Dr. Harris for the minority. Dr. Nunnally favored neither, but made a good speech.

On vote the entire question was laid on the table, leaving the matter as it has been, except that the clause which reads, there shall be "one representative for every $500 collected and expended conjointly with either of the Boards of the Convention, by any State Convention or General Association," was stricken out. The vote was 449 against 142. The speeches were pointed and contained much of interest. We will publish extracts from them in another issue.

It was also decided by vote that when Associations fail to elect delegates, executive committees cannot fill their places; and that each Board had the privilege of making one man its secretary and treasurer.

The Convention sermon, delivered by Dr. Kerfoot, attracted an audience of 8,000 people. Every inch of the Tabernacle was packed. It was one of the finest pulpit efforts ever listened to in the South.

The Convention was partially organized on the 11th. From telegraphic reports of the proceedings of the body on the 12th, it chose Drs. Lansing Burrows of Augusta, Ga., and Oliver Fuller Gregory of Baltimore, secretaries: Mr. George Norton of Louisville, treasurer; Rev. William Patrick Henry of Louisville, auditor.

A collection was taken up to build a church at Paso del Norte, Mexico, for a Catholic priest who had become a Baptist.

Wednesday morning the excursion for Mexico will leave over the Texas and Pacific in charge of Dr. Bates of the Western Recorder, and Dr. Nicholas of Dallas. Between one hundred and two hundred delegates will go. At El Paso the excursionists will be met by Rev. Dr. Park who is in charge of the Baptist Missionary Work in Mexico. The excursionists will visit the city of Mexico and other points of interest, including the volcano of Popocatapeti.

The remainder of the proceedings of the Convention will appear next week.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING AGENT.

OXFORD.

I found a crowd waiting when I reached Oxford last Monday—not for me especially, but for Judge Shuford, who was detained two days waiting for the verdict of a hung jury in Roxboro. This gave the medicine men, horse swappers and patent needle threader a fine chance to get in their work. Newspaper men, likewise, came in for their share of the spoils.

I noted marked improvements in the town for the past few months. The warehouses had good breaks of tobacco, and where the quality was good, prices were satisfactory to sellers.

Dr. R. H. Marsh was quite cheerful. He has stopped chewing tobacco, or at least had when I was there. I noticed he was not very pronounced in his determination not to fall, but seemed to be feeling his way to final security by the aid of chewing gum.

Prof. Hobgood says his school has paid expenses the past session. With a good crop he looks for much better results next session. Hon. C. M. Cook will deliver the literary address, and Rev. W. C. Tyree, pastor of the First church in Durham, will preach the sermon to the graduating class this commencement. This insures interesting closing exercises.

Judge Winston was home for a few days from his circuit in the western part of the State. The readers of the RECORDER are looking with interest when he will resume his correspondence.

Bro. Hardaway is much encouraged with the recent progress made toward the completion of the new church. His brethren have been zealous and faithful, and have done this work at a real sacrifice.

The Roxboro brethren are much pleased with Bro. H. T. Williams. By the way, Bro. Williams is finely hedged. Bro. Lansdell has him in his home, and will have a fine chance to plumb his theology if it should need anything of the sort. And then Bro. Williams is just now enlarging his hope, strengthening his faith, and reinforcing his patience in the new role he is playing in the nursery. It is always a delight to be with a happy man; it helps to make hard work light and difficult tasks easy. Bro. Williams helped me greatly in my work, and did it with such hearty good will that I was inclined to suspicion that his interest was growing not only in the "family page" of the RECORDER, but in other departments as well.

One day is a short time to spend with brethren like Dowdy, Kitchin, Morris, Couch, Foushee, Noel, and others, but the promptness with which the brethren settled, and the special kindness of Bro. Dowdy in giving me an early supper, enabled me to be at the depot when my train came.

I am not sure it increases a man's piety to be called at half past two o'clock in the morning to leave Durham for Greensboro, but, on reflection, I found I had nobody to blame but myself, and not being inclined ever to do that, with eyes half opened, and wondering if I couldn't get something to do that didn't have this in it—you know most of us, from United States Senators down, want other peoples jobs, especially till we get them,—I soon found myself in at the splendid home-like boarding house of sister M. A. Allen, known by some as Batchelor's Retreat. The last time I was here there were just a half dozen of these odd fellows, commanded apparently by the Hon. J. R. Webster, whose long and persistent service had entitled him to this recognition. Scott's place is vacant, but he is still a batchelor, so his last state is no better than the first.

REIDSVILLE,

If I could afford to violate newspaper ethics to an extent to write the news before it occurs, I might write some things that would be good reading to some people in Sampson and Warren counties. But since lovers themselves can afford to watch and wait, so also must my readers.

The brethren here are hoping to get a pastor soon. Bro. M. A. Adams was to preach for them on Sunday after I was there. Good news had preceded his coming, and I shall not wonder if he is their next pastor. The church has kept up all services except the regular preaching at eleven o'clock, and the contributions have been regularly made. I know of no church in the State composed of better material than is in the Reidsville church, and I shall be delighted to hear that they have secured a man who will be suited to the development of all the best interests of the church. Bro. Webster always places me under new obligations for his kind attentions while in Reidsville. I meet few men who have clearer views, or who are better posted on public matters. It was as it always is to work among the brethren for the RECORDER. I was specially pleased to put on some new names of brethren who have not heretofore taken the RECORDER.

Friday evening I find myself at the foot of the Pilot Mountain, where the brethren are already in session with the Sunday-school Association. Bro. W. H. Wilson was elected moderator, and Bro. Cooper secretary.

One of the prime objects in the establishment of this Sunday-school Association was the carrying on of the colportage work in its bounds. We did not reach the Association in time to hear this discussion, but we were sorry to learn that satisfactory arrangements could not be made between the executive committee and Bro. Conrad, the former colporter, for the further prosecution of the work, and so it has closed, for the present at least. The attendance was not so large as we wished to see, but the discussions were practical, and were listened to with interest by all present. I have not heard better preaching at any Association. Bro. J. B. Richardson was at his best in the introductory; then Bro. Wilson preached a sermon of great power on Saturday night. On Sunday Bro. Brown preached to a full house, and all showed that they felt the power which comes from an earnest, simple and honest presentation of the gospel. Bro. Conrad preached the closing sermon Sunday night in his usual vigorous and earnest manner. We would like to notice in detail some of the speeches made by the brethren, but this would involve more than my allotted space, and so we must forego this pleasure. The Association, we think, did good, and especially we were glad this meeting was held at Pilot Mountain. The interest of the Baptists has for years been a struggle here, and we are prepared to hope that some new life was infused into the church and the Sunday-school.

The town here is growing rapidly. Several factories are already in operation. Quite a number of new dwellings have recently been built; young people and children are abundant, waiting to be moulded and trained for usefulness.

J. C. C.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Bro. T. G. Kiser of Granite Falls, Caldwell county, paid the office a visit on Tuesday last.

....Hon. W. A. Montgomery delivered the memorial address in Metropolitan Hall, Raleigh, on May 10th.

....Rev. John F. Crowell has resigned the presidency of Trinity College, and contemplates doing literary work in New York.

....We thank Bro. G. C. Briggs for an invitation to the commencement exercises of North Missouri Institute, June 3rd to 7th, at Salisbury, Mo.

....Dr. Pritchard of Charlotte opened the exercises of the Southern Baptist Convention. The Doctor has enjoyed this honor on several occasions.

....The annual exercises of the ninety-ninth commencement of the University at Chapel Hill will begin Sunday, June 3d, and continue till the 6th.

....Our readers will find several articles in this issue of unusual merit, Dr. Taylor's continuation of "How Far Ought a State Undertake to Educate" being very readable.

....Among those appointed as delegates to the Southern Interstate Immigration Convention to be held at Augusta, Ga., on the 30th, we see the name of Dr. Taylor of Wake Forest.

....Rev. Thos. Dixon, Sr., sends us a statement of the contributions both by churches and individuals to the Drewry Dobbin monument, which cost $326 00. It will appear next week.

....Rev. L. R. Pruitt of Mt. Airy has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Trade Street Church, Charlotte. He expects to report on his new field of labor about the middle of June.

....In the absence of Pastor Simms, Dr. Gwaltney filled the pulpit both morning and night at the Raleigh Tabernacle last Sunday. Dr. Mitchell occupied Pastor Gwaltneys pulpit at Wake Forest.

....We acknowledge an invitation to be present at the commencement exercises of the Sylvanus Erwin Normal Institute of Waco, May 23d and 24th, at Waco, N. C. Dr. Pritchard of Charlotte delivers the annual address.

....Rev. Mr. Eaton, the returned missionary, who conducted the prayer meeting service at Tryon Street Baptist church Wednesday night, delighting all who heard him, will occupy the pulpit of the church Sunday, in Dr. Pritchard's absence.—Charlotte Observer.

....At the commencement of Pinnacle Academy, which takes place May 23d and 24th, Rev. H. A. Brown of Winston will preach the sermon on Wednesday, 23d, and Prof. W. J. Ferrell of Wake Forest College will deliver the annual address on Thursday, at 11 a. m.

....The man who travels over this State and sees the great number of poor children who have utterly no hope within themselves of bettering their condition intellectually, will not be surprised at the great and sudden uprising of the plain people on this subject of education for the masses.

....The following are the names of the North Carolina delegates at the Convention: Dr. J. L. Carroll, Rev. A. M. Simms (and wife), Rev. C. Durham, Rev. A. B. Wester, Rev. L. M. Curtis, Rev. J. Q. Adams, Dr. Pritchard, Bro. N. B. Broughton (and wife), Judge W. T. Faircloth, Bro. O. C. Curlee, Dr. Battle of Wadesboro, W. C. Tyree, R. T. Bryan, and Bro. Spruill.

....Rev. W. D. Powell of Mexico writes: "I earnestly beseech pastors to bestir themselves for Foreign Missions. It distresses us to feel that we are fed with borrowed money. Then the banks at any time might refuse to lend, and what would we do in a land of strangers? We beg for prompt action all along the line. Our work continues to prosper. We will report this year more than three hundred baptisms."

....Rev. J. R. Jones of Milton writes: "We closed a meeting of ten days in our church here last night. Two candidates were received for baptism, and there are one or two others that we hope may join soon. While the meeting was not what we had hoped it might be, yet it was a good one, and helped us all. Bro. N. S. Jones of Salisbury did the preaching, and did it well. His style is plain, practical, and forceful, just the kind of preaching most needed. His services gave, I think, entire satisfaction."

....The series of meetings at the First Baptist church of Raleigh closed last Sunday night. Bro. Elsom of Fincastle, Va., faithfully preached the Word for two weeks, resting only on Saturday preceding the closing day. He is an earnest gospel preacher, and our people will long remember his visit and labors in our midst. Next week we will give an extended account of the meeting and its results. Bro. Elsom left on Monday afternoon for his home, carrying with him the prayers of our people for his future welfare.

....The Shelby correspondent of the Charlotte Observer writes as follows in regard to Dr. Hufham's first Sunday with his new charge: "Rev. Dr. J. D. Hufham preached his introductory sermon as pastor of the Shelby Baptist church Sunday. On Sunday night the pastors of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, with their congregations worshipped with the Baptist congregation, complimentary to Dr. Hufham's assuming the pastorate of that church. The Doctor is an exceedingly amiable man, and to know him is to love him. At the close of his Sunday night service, Revs. Messrs. McCorkle and Thompson, of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches respectively, in well chosen remarks tendered cordial and Christian greetings to the new pastor. Dr. Hufham was pleased and touched by this greeting."

....The forty-sixth annual commencement of the Chowan Baptist Female Institute, Murfreesboro, take place May 28th to 30th, 1894. We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend.

....Rev. J. B. Richardson of High Point will preach the annual sermon, and Rev. Dr. W. S. Creasy of Charlotte will deliver the address at the closing exercises of the Marshville Academy, Beaver Dam, N. C. Prof. H. E. Copple of the class of '67 of Wake Forest is the principal of the school.

....Dr. W. H. Strickland, of Madison, Fla., writes as follows in regard to matters now of so much interest to the denomination: "I do rejoice that Dr. Durham has had his heart and all your hearts made glad by getting your debt on the Board paid off. Dr. Taylor's articles now coming out are classics. You got a giant when you put him at the head of Wake Forest. My! but how can any one read him and still want citizens taxed to support State colleges. And Dr. Hufham goes to Shelby. May the Lord go with him. In the King's Mountain Association 'no pent up Utica will circumscribe his powers.' Success to you."

....Cards are out announcing the commencement of Wake Forest College for June 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th. The programme is as follows: Monday, 8:15 p. m., Class Day; W. L. Foushee, President; R. H. Carter, Secretary; J. D. Robertson, Orator; J. E. Yates, Prophet; R. W. Haywood, Historian; R. F. Beasley, Poet. Tuesday, 8:15 p. m., Alumni Address, E. B. Jones, North Carolina; Wednesday, 11 a. m., Address to Societies, Rev. F. C. McConnell, D. D., Georgia; Wednesday, 8:15 p. m., Baccalaureate Sermon, Rev. E. M. Poteat, Connecticut; Thursday, 11 a. m., orations by the class. Marshals—Philomathesian: J. C. Howard, W. J. Christian, J. M. Holding. Euzelian—H. W. Early, J. L. Cornwell, F. M. Lee.

Bro. Stringfield's Explanation.

Dear Recorder:—In justice to myself and the Board of Trustees of the Baptist Female University. I disclaim the least intention to insult my dear Bro. Pritchard by my reference to him in your issue of May 2d. If I ever offered an insult intentionally to any one, I do not remember it. No one would be further from offering an insult to Doctor Pritchard than I. Surely his kindness to me while I was at College, his interest in me since I've been facing the storms of life, and his honored and useful life, all preclude the possibility of an intention to insult him. It was true when I wrote the article to which he refers, it is true now that we (the Trustees of the Baptist Female University) do not understand the position Bro. Pritchard has taken in discussing co-education at this time, unless it be to side-track the school, and this he declares is not the case. It seems to us unfortunate for Bro. Pritchard to have his attitude towards the Female University so misunderstood.

My enthusiasm on the subject of female education was not born with my connection with the Baptist Female University, but during the twelve years that Prof. W. J. Ferrell and I spent thousands of dollars in the preparation of young ladies for usefulness in life.

My opposition to co-education, which will last during my life, is a result of twelve years' experience in a mixed school. I have a personal knowledge of the advantages and disadvantages of co-education.

Yours in good humor,

O. L. STRINGFIELD.

Eastern Baptist S. S. Association.

The fifth annual session of the Eastern Baptist Sunday-school Association which has just been held at Magnolia, consisted of a goodly number of devoted representatives of the Sunday-school cause, who evidently came together for business. The opening sermon by Rev. W. B. Oliver was a clarion call to personal duty.

The chief topic about which centered the absorbing interest of this meeting was the urgent need of a Sunday-school missionary colporter within our bounds. This was felt by all to be the supreme need of the hour in our Association. The alarming fact that less than 2,000 out of a church membership of 6,000, and a Baptist constituency of at least 18,000, are enrolled as Sunday-school scholars and teachers, reveals how low our churches are sunk in any due knowledge of truth and duty and the demands of the Lord's kingdom.

The best possible agency to move up our people along all the lines of church and denominational work would be a well-equipped man to visit churches, schools and families, arousing them to Bible study, organizing new schools where needed, and carrying a few well chosen books for religious information. This has been found in other sections to be most effective in bringing the churches to a higher plane of action.

An Executive Committee, consisting of W. B. Oliver, O. P. Meeks and B. S. Montford, was instructed to group the churches and appoint some brother to visit each group and solicit a monthly contribution from the members of the Sunday-school and church for this object, and when a sufficient amount was pledged, then to employ a suitable man. This man must be well paid. An average of two cents per month from each of those enrolled in the schools in addition to other individual pledges would support a good man and give us a book fund for his supply. We do not propose for him at all to depend upon the sale of books for his support. The books are to be at our disposal.

After a most excellent and finished discourse by Rev. Chancy Wells on Sunday, a good collection was given for our colportage work.

O. P. MEEKS.

The future post office address of Rev. Samuel J. Porter will be Rio de Janeiro, Caixa 852. (Caixa means post office box).

Dr. Taylor's Articles.

It was stated last week that Dr. Taylor's articles would be printed in pamphlet form so soon as the series is completed in the RECORDER; that the cost of twenty-five thousand copies for general use would be about five hundred dollars; and that I would be personally responsible to the publishers, but would give the friends of the proposition an opportunity to jointly bear the cost of their publication and distribution.

Since that time, brethren, preachers and business men from different parts of the State, have written stating that it would be a pleasure to aid in this work, and they have named amounts to be paid when needed.

The entire expense should be provided for in the next twenty days. For this work I had rather have one hundred men to give five dollars each than to have five men pay the whole amount. I will keep a book, open to inspection at any time by the donors, showing all receipts and disbursements. Let me hear from you, brethren, at once. The way is now open to all to write me and name the amount to be paid for this desirable object. By the last of July, in North Carolina ought to read this discussion; and this number of people will read them if we are wise in our plans.

FIFTY THOUSAND VOTERS

Ministers and business men in other denominations are sending in their orders. One of the most successful and wealthiest business man in the State, in another denomination, sends the following message: "Tell Drs. Taylor and Durham I am with them in all they have written. It is possible, under the circumstances, that our denominational paper will be kept quiet; but, when the time comes for action, four-fifths of the rank and file of our denomination will be with them."

A WISE SUGGESTION.

A brother says: "Please put me down for five dollars towards the expenses of printing Dr. Taylor's articles. Would it not be wise to have a brief, clear statement of the questions involved. If left to each Union Meeting and Association, I can see how many things might be discussed and time and opportunity lost. I wish, therefore, that some one would give in the RECORDER, at an early day, a short, clear cut statement of the questions to be discussed in our Union Meetings and Associations."

This shows that our brethren are going to get down to practical work. This statement can be given later. In the mean time let every brother read, re-read, and really study the question as discussed by Dr. Taylor. Since an Episcopalian has addressed a letter of advice through the RECORDER "to the Baptists of North Carolina," does not common courtesy require that some Baptist should address a similar letter through the RECORDER "to the Episcopalians of North Carolina"? A series of letters to these non-progressive brethren, who, as a denomination, I believe, own no school property in this State, for male or female school, could be made interesting reading to them and to our own people. I am impressed with the importance of such letters that, if no one else will prepare them, and I can find time for the work, I will, after a few weeks, have some letters addressed "to the Episcopalians of North Carolina."

In December, 1892, I made an effort to save one of these brethren from the mistakes into which he had fallen, and I will give to the public that letter which speaks for itself. If he had heeded the suggestion in that letter, the speech at the A. & M. College would not have been made.

C. DURHAM.

Our Seminary Letter.

Dear Recorder:—Everything about the Seminary is bright, busy and hopeful. Preparation for the close is monopolizing both students and professors; hence the Seminary representative at the Southern Baptist Convention will not be large, especially from the students.

The present session of the Seminary, which has been in some respects the most successful in its history, will close on May 31st.

To-day was our last missionary day of the session. Notwithstanding the fact that every one is in a busy hour now, we had a good attendance and a meeting of much inspiration. The conviction that the preaching of the gospel is God's means to convert the world is gradually deepening, but as yet much lacking in general by the masses of God's people. Almost all acknowledge it freely, but it has become a conviction of only a few comparatively.

Five letters from missionaries on the foreign field were read to-day, which gave us varied views of the field, and therefore very helpful and necessary to the best information.

"Brazil as a Mission Field" was discussed in our meeting to-day by a well-written essay and several pointed speeches, which brought out the evil effect of the United States of Brazil on the United States of America if not Christianized by a continual influx of Catholics from there to this country, and the assistance it can give in the evangelization of the rest of the world if it is Christianized.

Also the real and genuine fruits of Romanism shown by the condition of Spain, South America and Mexico, after centuries of control by that erroneously called Christian organization. The foot-prints of Romanism can be traced the world over by ignorance and superstition. Moral degradation and ignorance are proportional in every country as Romanism has predominated. A mention of the per cent. of people who cannot read and write in several countries is convincing. In

United States	8 per cent.	can't read and write.
England	15	"	"
Austria	89	"	"
Hungary	43	"	"
Italy	43	"	"
Spain	62	"	"
So'th Amer.	83	"	"

There can be no mistake about the matter, for Roman Catholics had a fair test in these latter mentioned countries.

Dr. Whitsitt called attention to the fact that North Carolina not only gives of her money to mission, but her men also, hence she has more missionaries on the foreign field than any other State of the Union. He urges that other States shall come up with North Carolina.

There are twenty-four men now in the Seminary who are decided to go the foreign field, and half as many more who are considering the matter. This means that God would stir every church and individual Christian, especially every Baptist, to a greater consecration of the means with which he has entrusted them.

May this call of God be heeded by all of us. Would that God lay the burden of lost souls upon the hearts of his people till something of the same compassion for souls and spirit of self-denial, so prominent in our Lord and Master, shall possess our hearts and move us to a like activity. When he lifted up his eyes and saw the multitudes as sheep without a shepherd, his soul was filled with compassion and went out for them. Love for human souls is a great secret of positive Christianity. With a reasonable degree of the same compassion in God's people, a period of ten years could see the Lord's last command, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation," fulfilled.

We are proud of North Carolina for what she has done this year.

A good number of the North Carolina students now at the Seminary will not return next year. Who among our young brethren are to furnish a good representation from our State next year? Young men of the ministry, let me beg you to consider well the matter of coming to the Seminary before you enter upon your life work. The present age certainly expects and requires more of the minister than the past. The future will require more than the present. Then why not give yourselves the opportunity of the best advantages? The missionary spirit, which is the spirit of Christ, has revolutionized the methods and spirit of church operation, and is to be even more so in the near future. The minister who does not prepare himself to push above the front lines of this advance movement, will necessarily fall behind and fail in that proportion. Brother, if God has honored you with such a high calling, make the best of yourself—come to the Seminary.

Sincerely,

C. J. THOMPSON.

May 1, 1894.

P. S.—Your statement that Bro. Tilley and myself will be awarded degrees at the coming commencement is a mistake, taken from the catalogue of last year. Bro. Tilley is not in the Seminary this year, and my studies are extra.

From Monroe.

Dear Recorder:—I believe all things are moving along the even tenor of their way throughout the county. Our work here still grows. It is developing more internally than it is being added to externally. Of late we have been pruning out, and it looks now that we will have to prune some more before we are done. We have a great many names that we do not know anything about and cannot find out where they are; so we think the best thing to do with them is to withdraw fellowship from them after a reasonable notice. You need not be surprised if we report fewer members at the next Association than at the last. Be sure of one thing—we will know the whereabouts of those we do report. When a person remains from church so long, that nothing can be known of him, and he wilfully has not furnished such knowledge, it seems to me that a charge of "contempt," or at least of "gross neglect" would be in order.

Our people are very much exercised over the parsonage question just now. I think they will have one by fall completed. I have never seen more unanimity and enthusiasm over anything.

Our young people are doing excellent work. I never heard better papers than were read at our last meeting. They would do credit to the columns of the RECORDER.

Altogether our work and congregation are better than since I came, though hard work and constant vigilance are the prices paid for it. It is by no means an easy work, though a very promising field.

LIBERTY.

Some two or three years there has been a sentiment at Pleasant Grove, so far as the preacher is concerned, to set aside the camp-meeting in August, with a corresponding resistance on the part of the church and community. This year it was exceedingly warm when they came to decide the matter. Last year the church was overruled and there was no camp-meeting. This year, however, the decision is reversed. They have the same pastor, too. It is certainly a victory for the liberty of the individual church in Methodism. We believe in the liberty of the individual church, too, provided it does not go too far. All that we are afraid of is the excess. We are not hurt by not having enough, but too much, so some feel, and some others feel that they have a right to all the liberty that the individual church may see fit to exercise. May it not be a question of serious doubt whether or not we Baptists do really believe in the liberty and independence of the individual and individual local church after all? May it not be that said independence and liberty would have to be defined and limited before we could accept it? I am not casting any slurs or insinuations, but simply asking some questions for information, for I must confess, as I see it it looks to me that we are depending more on the machinery at large than the local church, and that the local church is shorn of her power, and so she has largely cast down the responsibility that rests on her. It may largely be the fault of pastors for aught I know. Just that the matter looks to me in this part of the State, and it is a question that bothers me more than it can be solved at all, in the case of higher education by the State, where students are boarding away from home and from family influences. If a Catholic appeals for division of funds raised by taxation, that he may support a Catholic University, he cannot be told that the instruction and influences in a State Institution are religiously colorless. And he has the right to demand that they shall be made so absolutely. If this is not done, he has good ground for claiming his proportional part.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

The doctrine of civil and religious liberty, fully recognized and carried out to all of its legitimate logical conclusions, will surely settle all these questions raised by the Catholics. But it is doubtful if, in that case, States could continue to provide higher education.

A very widely published report on our State University, submitted last summer by a Committee of Trustees, contains the following remarkable language: "There is,"—in the University,—"a bias for religion, the religion of our own Bible, the Christian religion. Why should it not be so biased? Our civilization is a Christian civilization. Our school system is a Christian civilization. Our Constitution, which is a religious constitution, declares that 'religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government, and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged.' Does any one suppose that any other religion than that of our own Bible, or that any morality, except that of which our Bible is the best teacher, was in the minds of the men who framed this Constitution?"

The language of Art. 9, Sec. 1, of the Constitution of North Carolina, which is quoted in the above report, is found, word for word, in Art. 3, of the Ordinance of 1787 for the Government of the Northwest Territory. Nathan Dane is said to be its author. This fundamental declaration in regard to "religion, morality and knowledge" has been incorporated into nearly all of the State Constitutions. Now, if the men who framed and passed this famous Ordinance, which, in the opinion of Daniel Webster, "has produced effects of an distinct, marked, and lasting character, as any single law of any law-giver ancient or modern,"—if these men intended by "religion" any one special form thereof, Christian or Jewish, or any other, they were out of harmony with the Constitution which was adopted the same year, and with the first amendment thereto, which was declared in force four years afterwards. If religion in our State Constitution means the Christian religion, and no other, this section is not in accord with Sec. 26 of the North Carolina Declaration of Rights, which declares that, "All men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences, and no human authority should, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience." And Sec. 19 declares that "A frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty." It is surely time for such a recurrence when it has been advertised in very many of the papers in our State that an institution, supported by taxes raised from Jews as well as from Christians, and provided for under a Constitution which forbids, in any case whatever, control or interference with the rights of conscience, is, practically, a Christian institution.

It is difficult to believe that the men who originated and first adopted this famous clause which has, by degrees, been incorporated into the Constitutions of many States, and which was transferred into the Constitution of North Carolina at the time of reconstruction directly from the Constitution of one of the Northern States,—it is hard to believe that these men had in their minds exclusively the religion of the Bible, the Christian Religion, in their own use of the word "religion." In 1785, an Act for establishing Religious Freedom was passed by the Virginia Legislature. This was drawn up by Thomas Jefferson. Its passage was highly gratifying to its author, not because of the liberty which it gave exclusively to Christianity, but because of its impartiality between all faiths, its indifference to any faith. In Jefferson's own words, (Baird's Religion of America, page 235,) it comprehends "within the mantle of its protection the Jew and the Gentile, the Christian and the Mohammedan, the Hindoo and the Infidel of every denomination."

On June 30th, 1835, in one of the most eloquent speeches ever made on American soil, William Gaston, said to the North Carolina Constitutional Convention, "I trust that we shall act up to the axiom proclaimed in our bill of rights, and permit no man to suffer inconvenience or to incur incapacity, because of religion, whether he be Jew or Gentile, Christian or Infidel, Heretic or Orthodox. * * Dare not to define divine truth, for it belongs not to your functions. * * Prohibit, restrain, and punish, as offences against human society, all practices insulting to the faith, the institutions, and the worship of your people, but * * make no distinction of ranks and orders in the community because of religious opinions." (Debates of Conv. of 1835, p. 392.)

And we find that this principle for which we contend is recognized among those very States which have been created in accordance with the Ordinance which first contained this language. Three or four years ago, in Rock county, Wisconsin, application was made for a mandamus commanding the reading of the Bible in the public schools to be discontinued, on the ground that it is a sectarian book, and that, as such, the Constitution forbade its use in the public schools. The Supreme Court of the State, on appeal, decided that the Bible is a sectarian book, and directed that the writ of mandamus should be granted. Suppose that a Jew should carry up to our own Supreme Court a case involving the question whether our State University or our public school system are distinctively Christian, what decision would have to be rendered in accordance with the Constitution?

And yet there is reason to believe that money raised by taxation from the people has been expended in advertising in the papers of the State—secular and religious—that there is a bias in our State University for the Christian religion, and that this bias is justified by the State Constitution. And it may be doubted whether any advertisement has ever been more potent in drawing to that institution those who would otherwise have entered other institutions which have a legitimate right to claim to be Christian colleges. Little by little we are going to learn in this country to render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's. Our own constitution at one time, very inconsistently, as Judge Gaston showed, imposed religious tests and qualifications for some of the higher officials of the State. By degrees these have all disappeared. The people will yet insist that the State shall have nothing to do with religion at any point, except to protect all men alike in their beliefs and worship, so far as they do not infringe on the rights of others. The truth seems to be that a State is neither Christian nor unchristian, but has relations exclusively to the secular affairs of government.

(To be continued.)

Climatic Influence on Health.

It cannot be denied that the influence of climate on health is great, and it is in recognition of this fact that physicians send patients with pulmonary diseases to great distances for "change of air." But when the sufferer happens to be too poor to act upon the advice his lot is hard indeed. But it is not necessarily hopeless. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery can be had at any medicine store, and to it thousands whose cases were considered desperate owe their lives.

Up to a certain point in the progress of consumption, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a positive remedy. But delay is dangerous with consumption In all the conditions that lead to it, the "Discovery" is the remedy. With severe lingering coughs or weak lungs, nothing acts so promptly. Every disease that can be reached through the blood yields to this medicine. The scrofulous affections of the lungs that's called consumption is one of them. For this, and for every other form of scrofula, for all blood taints and disorders, and all chronic bronchial, throat, and lung affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Can anything else be "just as good" for you to buy? Don't you believe it.

Echoes from the Ministers' Conference and Union Meeting of the Robeson Association.

The Ministers' Conference met with the church at Mt. Eliam on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April, at eleven o'clock a. m., and Rev. V. J. McLeod preached the opening sermon, from Matt. 7:26, 27; the text was well handled and the sermon much enjoyed by all present.

After a recess of one hour the Conference reassembled and three important subjects were ably discussed. The first subject was "What is required to constitute a scriptural presbytery for the ordination of a minister or deacon." The discussion was opened by Rev. F. H. Martin and followed by Revs. M. A. Stevens, J. A. Smith, and others. Space will not allow me to tell what was said by the speakers, but will say that the speakers were to the point, showing conclusively that while under certain peculiar circumstancies, less than three could ordain a brother, but that it is unsafe to have less than three, and that seven, and even all the ministers in the Association in which the candidate lives or to which he belongs, would be better so that no unworthy or unqualified person would be turned loose upon the churches and the world with all the rights of a minister of the gospel.

The second subject was "What are the Scriptural duties and authority conferred on deacons in the government of churches?" Discussion opened by Rev. A. R. Pittman and followed by Martin and Smith. The speeches on this subject were of unusual power, and they brought out some great truths concerning the deacon and his work, unthought of before by even some of our oldest and most learned brethren. The conclusion arrived at was that the deaconship increases the duties of a brother without increasing his authority, and that deacons have no right to take final action in any matter pertaining to the church; that the work of the deacon is to attend to the finances of the church and to stand by and assist the pastor in every way possible, when the pastor tells the church what ought to be done it is the deacons duty to see that it is done, and if a deacon does not try to do this he is a failure and unworthy, and unfit to hold the office.

The third subject was "What are the causes of unfruitfulness in our churches? Discussion opened by the writer and followed by Smith, Martin, Stevens and Pittman. The discussion proved very clearly that the main cause of unfruitfulness in the churches is the lack of a regenerated membership and the next to it, the lack of necessary information from the ministry to the members.

The meeting from the beginning was made awful on the account of the presence of the Holy Spirit and as the day passed by and as one subject was discussed after another, and as one thrilling speech was delivered after another, the presence and power of the Spirit grew more and more perceptable, so that when the discussion of the subjects closed every heart was filled with the divine Spirit and lifted to God, burning with a desire to do something for the Master that would bring great glory and honor to his holy name.

And as the meeting was about to adjourn without any definite arrangement for a special effort in this direction, a proposition was made that we meet the next day one hour before the time for the Union to convene in order that some plan might be devised and that special prayer be made that God would make known to us what he would have us do, for we felt that we must do something but knew not what. And is it strange that when we assembled again the brethren from three or more different homes had identically the same, heretofore unthought-of, plan to suggest? Such was the case and here is what we unanimously agreed to do. To appoint a committee to designate time and place and make such other arrangements as would be necessary for a meeting known as the Robeson Association Ministers' Institute, where all of the pastors of the Association and all other Christians together with every body else who would attend could meet, for at least ten days, and discuss every subject pertaining to revivals and all kinds of Christian duties and every phase of church work, &c. A committee consisting of A. R. Pittman, J. A. Smith, F. H. Martin, E. K. Proctor, R. D. Caldwell, R. A. Moore, M. A. Stevens and M. L. Kesler were appointed. And it is in place just here to state that said committee met the same day and decided to hold the proposed meeting at Lumberton, N. C., beginning on Monday night after the second Sunday in July and that distinguished brethren all over the State and sister States be invited to attend and aid in the great work.

The Conference then adjourned and the Union immediately convened. The first part of the programme was a sermon by Rev. F. H. Martin, and he used as a text Prov. 4:18 and if space would permit we would like to give some of his thoughts but we must forbear; I hardly think the sermon was ever equalled by himself or any one else in our bounds. At the close of the sermon a good collection was taken for Ministerial Education and the Union adjourned for one hour.

At the close of the hour the Union reassembled and the subject of Ministerial Education was discussed by Rev. J. A. Smith with more than even his usual ability, he said "the man who opposed Ministerial Education was an enemy to God and man."

The subject "What principles should govern the granting and receiving of letters from one church to another?" was discussed by Col. T. F. Toon, E. K. Proctor, and others. The discussion showed that the old custom was defective and that it would be better to send the letters directly to the clerk with which the party desires to unite, and if any considerable length of time had expired after the granting of a letter before the applicant presented himself for membership, or if the applicant was not well known, that careful investigation be made as to the Christian character and conduct of the same, and if found unworthy, that the letter be at once returned to the church granting it, with the reason of its rejection.

After an earnest appeal by Col. T. F. Toon in behalf of the aged and infirm ministers, and some statements by Bro. Proctor concerning the Robeson Institute, the Union adjourned till 9:35 o'clock a. m., Sunday, and at that hour Prof. John Ducket, principal of the Robeson Institute, made an excellent Sunday-school address; he laid special stress on the importance of a good library in every Sunday-school, he said that "the mind must have food and if it could not get that which was wholesome it would take the poisonous." Col. Toon followed with a short practical speech, he said "It is wrong for parents to send their children to Sunday-school because it was their duty to go themselves and take their children with them."

A resolution, recommending humility, &c., was adopted and a day of fasting and prayer appointed to be observed by all the churches constituting the Union. Rev. R. A. Hedgpeth then preached from 1 Peter 2:9 to a large and waiting congregation. At the close of the sermon a collection for Ministerial Education was taken and after singing "Dismiss us with thy blessings Lord," &c., the Union was dismissed by Rev. D. C. Britt.

W. A. HUMPHREY, Sec.

From Thomasville.

Dear Recorder:—Bro. G. H. Church of Statesville came to Thomasville April 9th and preached eleven very stirring sermons for us. Our membership were thoroughly aroused by the preaching of Bro. Church, and many sinners were awakened, and some trusted in Christ. We will have baptizing soon, and then we will know how many to count.

Bro. Church is a real gospel preacher and depends on the Word and the Holy Spirit to save men and women. The brethren say our church here is in the best working order it has been for twenty years. I have been preaching one and a half years, and while Thomasville has always been a hard place for Baptists. I find some of God's noble servants here, and especially would I mention brethren Reinhart, Morton and Strayhorn among the faithful workers. We also have some noble sisters to help us in the Lord's work here.

The RECORDER is a great help to me in my work here and at my other churches, and if I could only get all of my members to read the RECORDER, I would be one of the happiest pastors in the State, for then I would have plenty of good workers.

Fraternally, J. M. HILLIARD.

A Mother's Practicing.

A young man, who was being examined preparatory to uniting with the church, was asked, "Under whose preaching were you converted?" "Under nobody's preaching," was his reply; "I was converted under my mother's practicing." What a tribute of a consecrated motherhood was that young man's answer! How very near to Christ must that mother have lived!—Ex.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Boushall, L O Lougee, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Bartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Dowaing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell. J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; J F MacDuffie, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, W A Albright, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, C M Cooke, W E Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Hufham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY —LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs, Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, W W Kitchin, W T Faircloth, Prof J B Brewer, C B Aycock, J Y Joyner, Thos Hume.

The Lining

to Throat and Lungs must be preserved or sore spots appear and invite the consumption germs.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, heals the lining, strengthens the lungs and even overcomes diseased spots in their early stages. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

"WORTH A GUINEA A BOX."

BEECHAM'S PILLS

COVERED WITH A TASTELESS AND SOLUBLE COATING.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE FOR

Indigestion, Want of Appetite, Fullness after Meals, Vomitings, Sickness of the Stomach, Bilious or Liver Complaints, Sick Headache, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Lowness of Spirits, and All Nervous Affections.

To cure these complaints we must remove the cause. The principal cause is generally to be found in the stomach and liver; put these two organs right and all will be well. From two to four Pills twice a day for a short time will remove the evil, and restore the sufferer to sound and lasting health.

Of all druggists. Price 25 cents a box.

New York Depot, 365 Canal st.

COMPLEXION POWDER

Is an absolute necessity of refined toilet in this climate. Pozzoni's combines every element of beauty and purity.

A FRIEND

Speaks through the Boothbay (Me.) Register, of the beneficial results he has received from a regular use of Ayer's Pills. He says: "I was feeling sick and tired and my stomach seemed all out of order. I tried a number of remedies, but none seemed to give me relief until I was induced to try the old reliable Ayer's Pills. I have taken only one box, but I feel like a new man. I think they are the most pleasant and easy to take of anything I ever used, being so finely sugar-coated that even a child will take them. I urge upon all who are in need of a laxative to try Ayer's Pills. They will do good."

For all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, and Bowels, take

AYER'S PILLS

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Every Dose Effective

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n p m]

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 30 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma.		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 48. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 48 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 24. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 35 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 50 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leaves Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.30 a m, Greenville 8.22 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.10 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.30 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.25 a m and 11.45 a m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 11.00 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 1.00 p m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMERSON, Traffic Manager.

The "Rice Christian."—No. 2.

Dear Recorder:—To continue our theme, "The Rice Christian," at the point where our last week's letter concluded, we shall notice:

1. Some of those causes that produce his environment which makes this state of Christian life reasonable, and almost necessary, and for which the missionary is in part responsible.

(1) The first historic efforts towards Christian missionary enterprise in China form an interesting chapter; but time forbids our speaking of this subject now. The Portuguese Catholic missionaries eventually established themselves at Peking, which we may refer to A. D. 1552 when Francis Xavier died a martyr in his attempt to enter China. But it was no Ricci, a Portugese Roman Catholic missionary, who established himself in the good graces of the "Son of Heaven," through his knowledge of the sciences, giving much help to China in astronomical matters and in other directions. These, the first permeating impressions as to the nature of Christianity made upon the minds of the Chinese nation, have been zealously, by every possible means, followed up by the unremitting labors of these missionaries, whereby China has been furnished in every part with teachers of the Romish church. Their policy in China, as everywhere, has been to make proselytes by every conceivable means—good, bad and indifferent; and many of the inducements they have held out to the heathen, to secure their alliance, are utterly unworthy the name of Christian. These have done much to beget in the minds of the Chinese people untrue conceptions as to the spirit and work of Christianity. From the first all kinds of material benefits were freely offered those who would become adherents and be "baptized." These, the Chinese had come to regard as the essentials of the Christian religion.

While the efforts of the Protestant missionaries have been to disabuse their minds of these erroneous views; it is important to emphasize this point which is fruitful in suggestions, viz., the Chinese, even to this day, do not trouble themselves to distinguish between Catholic and Protestant missionaries. To the body of the people they appear only to differ in minor particulars, and in reality they believe we are essentially the same in character and purpose. This has had much to do in giving rise to the general idea that those who became Christians might look to the church for a support. So, that never does an inquirer come to us, whose mind is entirely freed of this false idea.

(2) This misconception has been unwittingly fostered, many suppose, by the abuse of certain legitimate means to be used in the diffusion of the gospel. Among these we may enumerate schools, hospitals, the employment of native helpers and others. The sole trouble, as regards the subject under discussion, is the way in which inducements have been held out to those who would come to hear the gospel, and the unwise manner oftentimes followed in doing acts of charity.

There is certainly a wise use to be made of these as accessories to the preaching of the gospel. But heretofore, and even now, these have, one and all, been given too prominent a place in the missionary's work, and the gospel as the power of God unto salvation has oftentimes not been made as prominent as it should have been. The consequence has been that the false views of Christian work produced by the missionaries of the Roman Catholic church have been fostered by the abuse of legitimate means in the hands of various Protestant missionaries. As an example, as far back as the time of the sainted Robert Morrison, the inception was given, in Protestant mission work, to the mistake, afterwards imitated by missionaries of other societies, in connection with school work, of giving to their pupils their food and a certain sum of money as an inducement to attend school, where the Bible was taught them daily. It gave rise to a painful question, why, from their hundreds of pupils scarcely any were converted into sound and useful Christians; but after a few years those who received a knowledge of English and the sciences all gladly made use of their acquirements in various occupations which enabled them to acquire wealth; but no use was made of their acquirements in preaching the gospel unless good pay was to be secured.

Quite recently, a prominent missionary, not many miles from here, protested before a conference of brother missionary schoolteachers, that the Bible should not be made the most prominent teaching; but that a thorough curriculum of studies in the sciences, English language, &c., should be offered, and the study of the Bible made optional. Of course, this school makes free tuition very prominent; and the work is carried on with funds contributed by the churches of that denomination for missionary work. I am glad to say it is not a Baptist school.

Another school guarantees to every graduate pupil some sort of occupation after graduation. Free tuition is prominent; and this mission uses many native helpers. Such a course fosters the idea of the church being a home and refuge where the body is fed and clothed as well as the soul saved free of charge.

And yet with all of this, the schools and medical work are doing much towards the spread of the gospel; and they will always be helpful in the diffusion of Christian truth. Great wisdom is needed in so using these as to further God's cause, rather than hinder it, by securing the accession of members without spiritual life, or Christian manhood. Our churches must not become foundling hospitals for lazy, able-bodied men who look to this source for support.

(To be continued.)

Being in Christ, it is safe to forget the past; it is possible to be sure of the future; it is possible to be diligent in the present.—A. Maclaren.

Happiness is to be found in duty's path.

In Midnight Darkness.

On the morning of March 6th, after an early breakfast, Bro. League and myself packed our baggage on donkeys, for that is the way we travel, and turned our faces to the southwest. The stars had not ceased to shine, though the first rays of the morning in the eastern horizon were stretching across the blue dome of heaven. The pedlers had already started on their accustomed beat, and their voices echoed in the air, "Hot potatoes, hot bread, hot soup," and various other eatables they had to sell.

We, as soldiers, had started forth almost into the unknown to meet our foe. While to some it may look dangerous and impossible, but our Commander said, "Forward, march," so we go forth with the "conscious tread of a conscious conqueror." We had scarcely started ere we saw the enemy, but we did not hear the clatter of horses' feet, nor the music of the fife and drum; neither does our armament consist of swords, cannon and ball, but of the simple truth of our Saviour; neither do we depend on what we can do, but on the Holy Spirit of the living God, after we have delivered the message. On every side of us the enemy are entrenched, their fortifications are stone images and costly temples, also of stone or brick. We hear the tramp, tramp of the enemy, company after company, battalion after battalion, keeping step together, all well marshalled and being deceived by the wary words of Black-death. We can almost hear the bitter wail and the heart-beats of the people—men and women, noble men and women, and boys and girls—as they fall victims to that old fiend Satan, who claims to be a friend.

We travel over an unbroken plain and through great wheat-fields. The monotony is broken by a sparkling stream of water which in summer swells into a large river. It has no banks—just a little depression; it is not a marsh or a swamp; there are no trees by its side, and its bed is sand.

We meet a long line of wheelbarrows laden with paper, wood or other wares, sails like a ship at sea and drawn by donkeys or men, and the weary traveller sits by the road-side and smokes his pipe. We stopped at an inn and ate a lunch of hot bread, eggs, pork and cabbage and tea.

In the afternoon we had only gone a short distance, in front of us and on either side was what seemed to be the great sea and a man walking about in it, looking like old Neptune rising up out of the water, and the wheat-field extended right up to it. When we reached the place, it was still in the distance. It was what thirsty travellers do not like to see—a mirage. The Chinese call it "sun-air."

We travelled till a late hour at night in the midst of the ranks of the enemy, and the darkness was intense. At the villages and at the grave mounds could be seen the faint glimmer of lights that reminds one of "will o' the wisp." We arrived at Kiao Cheo, a city of more than a hundred thousand people, at a late hour. This city is not less than six days' journey from Chefoo, the open port. One Swedish Baptist is here at present. After negotiating for several days, Bro. Blalock and myself decide to locate here.

A week has passed and we have settled down to work in the city of Kiao Cheo. We have been in China now three months, but a part of the time was spent in coming to our field of labor. How time goes, the days pass swiftly, but one day is no more than another to the Chinese. They don't even know of the Sabbath. They don't know of Jesus. Each day I see a throbbing mass of humanity—your brothers and sisters, helpless and hopeless, without God and without Christ. Is the responsibility yours? These people will meet you before God. Will you be able to say that you did all you could to bring them to Christ? A lady with whom I was travelling recently, told me that her "daughter died in Paris, and she had her body embalmed and carried to America." It was her child, she loved her, and she gave the money willingly for that purpose. My friends, what will you do now to save these people who are living, from banishment from God—yes, from a seething, burning hell, and to bring them to a heavenly home? Will you march into the ranks of the foe with us? Will you help us to hew down the enemy? Will you continue to sit still and let Satan claim these people as his own? How sad their condition in gloom and darkness and despair! "The harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few."

Fraternally, F. M. ROYALL.

Kiao Cheo, China, March 20, 1894.

P. S.—While we are in the interior, our address will still be Chefoo, China, and postage is five cents for a half ounce. Address via San Francisco. F. M. R.

Thin or gray hair and bald heads, so displeasing to many people as marks of age, may be averted for a long time by using Hall's Hair Renewer.

In a world where there is so much to be done, how happy that there is so large a portion of daylight; in a world where there is so much to be suffered, how merciful that there is also so much night.—Blunt.

"God Bless Our Cause"

The following song was sung with great effect at a recent "Temperance Rally," by the "Silver Lake Quartette." It breathes the sentiments of every true man and woman in all the land, and its publication is requested for the BIBLICAL RECORDER:

"God bless our sacred cause!
We plead for righteous laws,
Our homes to shield.
Our land has suffered long,
From an accursed wrong,
Whose roots are deep and strong,
Nor do they yield.

We plead! but all in vain;
The people's deep felt pain
Finds no redress.
This deadly upas-tree,
Spreads out, despite our plea,
And plants its rootlets free,
To our distress.

Now let the people come,
And vote for God and home,
And temperance laws!
We'll be no more deceived;
Our land must be retrieved,
And from this curse relieved,
God bless our cause!"

W. B. HARRELL.

A Meeting at Smithfield.

A meeting was commenced in the Baptist church at this place on Monday, April 9th; closed Friday, April 20th. Our pastor, Rev. F. H. Poston, and the church were very fortunate in securing the services of Rev. F. H. Martin, pastor of Lumberton church. Bro. Martin did the preaching and did it well, and the pastor and Rev. O. C. Horton aided in the other work.

Bro. Martin preached in the evening and at night during his stay with us and greatly endeared himself to the people of the town of all denominations by his earnest and effective presentation of the Word. We can truthfully say that Bro. Martin has succeeded in captivating our people. He is not only earnest and consecrated to the work, but is one of the most able preachers we have ever tried. His sermons were clear, forceful and logical. We congratulate our Lumberton brethren on having such a pastor to lead them. The last week of Bro. Martin's stay with us we were delighted by the presence of his amiable wife, who came to be with us.

There were some additions to the church, and we think more will follow soon: besides the Christians not only of our church, but of the town generally were greatly revived and strengthened. Long may our dear brother live to do such valiant service for the Master in pointing sinners to their Saviour and in strengthening Christians in his love.

J. M. BEAAY.

BRO. MARTIN'S ACCOUNT OF THE MEETING.

In some respects the meeting was one of the best I ever saw. The church was greatly revived. Some who never attended revival meetings were present at almost every service. Several were converted.

MATTERS IN LUMBERTON.

We had a good day in Lumberton last Sunday. Four united with the church (by letter) at the close of the morning service. Everything is hopeful with us. The Lord continues to bless us abundantly.

Our Baptist school here is one of the best in the State, or at least some of our best brethren say it is. Our teachers have given satisfaction, and in the church they have been a great help to the pastor. The members of the church have in many ways shown their appreciation of the pastor and his wife. They have recently furnished for the parsonage many useful articles. We are happy in our work here. I feel to say, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places."

F. H. MARTIN.

Lumberton, April 25, 1894.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Industry is more profitable than dependence, more honorable than inheritance, and produces more true content than all the gifts of fortune.

Contentment is a pearl of great price, and whoever procures it, at the expense of ten thousand desires, makes a wise and happy purchase.—J. Balgay.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Beauty and Purity

Go hand in hand. They are the foundation of health and happiness; Health, because of pure blood; Happiness, because of clear skin. Thousands of useful lives have been embittered by distressing humors. CUTICURA RESOLVENT Is the greatest of skin purifiers As well as blood purifiers. Because of its peculiar action on the pores It is successful in preventing And curing all forms of Skin, Scalp, and Blood humors, When the best physicians fail. Entirely vegetable, safe, and palatable, It especially appeals to mothers and children, Because it acts so gently yet effectively Upon the skin and blood, as well as the Liver, kidneys, and bowels. Its use during the winter and spring Insures a clear skin and pure blood, As well as sound bodily health.

Sold everywhere. Price: RESOLVENT, $1; OINTMENT, 50c.; SOAP, 25c. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

"How to Cure Skin and Blood Humors," free.

VITAL TO MANHOOD.

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a specific for Hysteria, Dizziness, Fits, Neuralgia, Headache, Nervous Prostration caused by alcohol or tobacco, Wakefulness, Mental Depression, Softening of Brain, causing insanity, misery, decay, death, Premature Old Age, Barrenness, Loss of Power in either sex, Impotency, Leucorrhœa and all Female Weaknesses, Involuntary Losses, Spermatorrhœa caused by over-exertion of brain, self-abuse, over-indulgence. A month's treatment, $1, 6 for $5, by mail. With each order for 6 boxes, with $5 will send written guarantee to refund if not cured. Guarantee issued by agent. WEST'S LIVER PILLS cures Sick Headache, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia and Constipation.

GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MacRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 34 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 00 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 30 p m	5 20 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	*6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 36 p m	6 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		12 05 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 35 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 50 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	3 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 06 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		2 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*6 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	3 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	7 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	12 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 30 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R. leave Oxford 5.00 a m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D. C.

W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

JOHN GILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect Dec. 3, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville Junc	10 30 a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	3 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	3 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	5 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 38 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	6 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			6 55 a m
Lv Climax			8 40 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 35 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 30 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 49 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 37 p m
Lv Sanford	3 19 p m
Ar Fay'ville Junc	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 06 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 09 p m
Lv Madison			12 10 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			2 35 p m
Lv Greensboro			2 50 p m
Lv Climax			3 35 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 25 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. C. & E. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. E. KYLE, Gen Pass. Agt.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect January 28, 1894.

ATLANTA SPECIAL.

No. 127.			No. 128.
*6 45 p m	Lv	Norfolk (via S A L) Ar	*11 45 a m
8 35 p m	Lv	Portsmouth Ar	11 35 a m
9 54 p m	Lv	Suffolk Lv	11 04 a m
10 30 p m	Lv	Franklin Lv	10 30 a m
10 58 p m	Lv	Boykins Lv	10 03 a m
11 20 p m	Ar	Weldon Lv	*9 35 a m
11 30 p m	Lv	Weldon Ar	9 00 a m
12 50 a m	Ar	Henderson Lv	7 30 a m
1 05 a m	Ar	Raleigh Lv	6 20 a m
2 20 a m	Lv	Raleigh Ar	5 15 a m
3 40 a m	Lv	Sanford Lv	3 10 a m
4 38 a m	Lv	Southern Pines Lv	1 30 a m
5 20 a m	Ar	Hamlet Lv	12 25 a m
5 43 a m	Lv	Rockingham Lv	12 15 a m
6 20 a m	Lv	Wadesboro Lv	11 42 p m
7 15 a m	Ar	Monroe Lv	10 50 p m
8 40 a m	Ar	Charlotte *Lv	9 15 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.	No. 38.
*6 30 p m	Lv New York (PRR) Ar	6 55 a m
11 38 a m	Lv Philadelphia Ar	3 45 a m
2 20 a m	Lv Baltimore Ar	12 48 a m
4 00 a m	Lv Washington Ar	11 10 p m
8 25 a m	Lv Richmond (A C Line) Ar	6 50 p m
9 25 a m	Lv Petersburg " Ar	5 39 p m
11 27 a m	Ar Weldon " Lv	*3 37 p m
*8 00 p m	Lv New York (PRR) Ar	7 45 a m
9 10 a m	Ar Portsmouth Lv	*5 50 p m
†2 10 p m	Lv New York (P R R) Ar	1 35 p m
7 00 p m	Lv Baltimore (Bay Line) Ar	7 00 a m
8 30 a m	Portsmouth " Lv	†6 00 p m
*7 00 p m	Lv Washington, N & W R R Co Ar	8 30 a m
8 00 a m	Ar †Portsmouth Lv	5 50 p m
†9 00 a m	Lv Norfolk, via S A L Ar	†6 00 p m
9 15 a m	Lv Portsmouth " Ar	5 50 p m
9 54 a m	Lv Suffolk " Ar	5 14 p m
10 58 a m	Lv Boykins " Ar	4 06 p m
†11 42 a m	Ar Weldon " Lv	*3 22 p m
†11 54 a m	Lv Weldon " Ar	3 10 p m
2 09 p m	Lv Henderson " Lv	†1 14 p m
†4 07 p m	Ar Durham " Lv	†10 50 a m
†3 50 p m	Ar Raleigh " Lv	†11 45 a m

No 43.			No 36.
†10 15 a m	Lv	Raleigh Ar	†5 00 p m
1 45 a m	Lv	Sanford Ar	2 30 p m
12 43 p m	Lv	Southern Pines Ar	1 33 p m
1 45 p m	Ar	Hamlet Lv	12 33 p m
12 26 p m	Ar	Rockingham Lv	11 [illegible] p m
3 02 p m	Ar	Wadesboro Lv	1 [illegible] p m
3 57 p m	Ar	Monroe Lv	12 [illegible] p m
4 45 p m	Ar	Charlotte Lv	11 40 a m
3 06 p m	Ar	Laurinburg Lv	1 07 p m
3 39 p m	Ar	Maxton Lv	12 38 p m
6 25 p m	Ar	Wilmington Lv	10 [illegible] a m
3 30 p m	Lv	Hamlet Ar	1 47 p m
2 57 p m	Ar	Gibson Ar	1 20 p m
3 21 p m	Ar	Bennettsville Lv	12 36 p m
4 19 p m		Darlington Lv	12 05 p m
5 27 p m		Sumter Lv	10 47 a m
8 45 p m		Charleston Lv	7 30 a m

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

No 127 and No 128 "Atlanta Special" are solid Pullman Vestibule trains, composed of elegant day coaches and palace Buffet Sleepers without change between Washington and Atlanta. No extra fare. Connects at Washington with Congressional Limited for New York and at Atlanta for all points South and Southwest.

†Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to schedules, rates, apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cooke, Traveling Agent, Raleigh.

JNO. C. WINDER, Gen Man.
L. T. MYERS, Gen Supt.
T. J. ANDERSON, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Co-Education at Wake Forest.

"The castle which conservatism is set to defend is the existing state of things; good and bad. The project of innovation is the best possible state of things. Conservatism goes for comfort, reform for truth."—R. W. Emerson.

The recent discussion of co education by Dr. Pritchard has led me to investigate it anew, and I purpose to state briefly the conclusion reached and to offer a plan, materially different from his, for opening the doors of Wake Forest to women desiring higher education than that offered by the female colleges of North Carolina. His plan proposes receiving girls into all the college classes, while mine proposes receiving them into the Junior and Senior only.

Omitting professional and technical schools, we have four grades; primary for children of seven to twelve years of age, high schools or academies for students of twelve to sixteen years of age, colleges for those of sixteen to twenty-one and universities for those more than twenty-one. Now I do not claim that these devisions correspond with the real state of things, for the colleges too often have students that should be in the academies, and the universities have those that should be in the colleges. But for the purports of this article these decisions are sufficiently exact.

Most of the primary schools, almost without exception those in the country and small towns, admit both boys and girls; and to this arrangement there is no objection.

Now is there valid objection to co education in academies or high schools that have altogether local or day patronage, because the pupils when not in school are under home influence and restraint. But to co-education in schools of this grade whose patronage is boarding, there is, in the opinion of many, a well founded objection.

And the objection holds to the system in colleges, the average age of whose students on entrance is not more than sixteen. This is the thoughtless age of girls, when they need the watchful care of the mother, or of those appointed to stand in her place under conditions specially adapted to their needs. I must not, however, be understood as saying that a co-educational college or academy cannot be conducted without prejudice to girls, but that to do this the most anxious care is necessary under even perfect arrangements.

Another objection to the system in colleges is that it stimulates girls to study beyond their strength. Whatever may be said of the capacity of women in the co educational universities and in the great colleges for women like Vassar, Wellesley, &c., to pursue without danger to health as extended courses of study as men pursue, wise fathers and mothers will not be willing for their daughters of fourteen to eighteen years of age in point of health the most critical period of their life, to attempt to do as much mental work as boys. Some might not be injured by the effort, but many would be. Those who have had the care of girls of this tender age will be prepared to appreciate such fears.

But neither in theory can objection be sustained, nor has any been found in practice, to admitting women to the privileges of Universities. The conditions here are different from those at Colleges. The average age of the three hundred women at Cornell University, and of the more than five hundred at the Michigan University, is nearly twenty. Those who have reached this age are matured in body and in mind, and are supposed to take serious views of life, and can surely be trusted to take care of themselves. To the ability of women to take these extended University courses without danger to health, comes the strongest testimony from the two Universities just mentioned, as well as from Brown, which also is co educational under certain limitations. Like testimony comes from Radcliffe College of Cambridge, and from Barnard of New York City. The women of these Colleges receive instruction from the Professors of Harvard and of Columbia respectively, and have the same examinations that the male students have. A few years ago, as pointed out by Dr. Pritchard, a commission was appointed in England to investigate the effect of University courses upon the health of the women in four Colleges situated near Oxford and Cambridge, England, who received from the University Professors the same lectures and are offered the same examinations that the men have here. It was found that the women stood the work as well as the men.

Connected with the higher education of our women, then, three points seem to be settled,—that some women desire and need higher education than that offered by any Southern female College; that some women master these extended courses with as much ease as men, and that they do this without injury to health.

I would like to turn aside here to discuss briefly the work of the female Colleges of North Carolina. From a wide survey of the field, I believe that, on the whole, they are the equals of any schools of like character in the South. Further, they are doing just as faithful and as thorough work as the male Colleges are doing, and they are doing this, some of them at least, for a less price than that charged by the male Colleges. It is not contended that their courses of study are as extended as those of the boys, neither indeed can there be; for girls give at least one fifth of their time to the study of music and art. Nor is the time thus given wasted; for apart from the pleasure which the ability to sing and perform well on a musical instrument gives, the mental discipline is not to be despised that comes from mastering a scientific course in music including the theory, principles and history of the science. And as the ear is trained to the perception of harmony of sounds, so the eye by a course in art should be trained to the perception of the harmony of color and form.

Now while it is true that the female Colleges of the Baptists are furnishing to a large majority of girls all the facilities desired by them, and all that are necessary to enable them to fill worthily their stations in life, and while daughters of these Colleges are walking by the side of the sons of Wake Forest in full sympathy with them and no whit their inferiors. Yet there are some girls who desire and who need higher training than that now possible to them in the female Colleges of this or any other Southern State. To these the advantages of Wake Forest should be offered. Bear in mind that I do not say open the doors of Wake Forest to girls of any age; but to those desiring higher education than can be obtained in the female Colleges, say to those prepared to enter the Junior Class. Some may strive to enter the Senior Class with the purpose of taking the A. M. degree in two years. Many more will be able to stand the examination required to enter the Junior Class, and take A. B. in two years. Now the requirements for admission will determine the age and the character of those who apply. I suppose that the average age of women able to satisfy the requirements will be at least nineteen. This is about the average age of the graduates of the female Colleges of North Carolina. Now whether they be seventeen or eighteen or nineteen, those who possess mental training sufficient to enter the Senior or the Junior Class, and are so deeply in earnest as to go to Wake Forest can be trusted to observe the proprieties of life, and to take care of themselves in every respect.

What outlay will be necessary to prepare for accommodations for those who come? Under the plan here proposed, not a dollar. For the present and possibly for a few years to come, they will be able all to obtain good board in one or more of the excellent boarding houses on the Hill. In time, as the number increases, some friend or friends will provide for their use a well-appointed building, as was done at Cornell and at Brown.

Will the Trustees have to provide additional force? No, the women will take their places in the lecture rooms with the men, and in my opinion the teachers now employed can instruct at least 150 or 200 more students than are present now.

Will the adoption of the plan cripple existing female Colleges or prevent the building of new ones in other portions of North Carolina? If so, it should not be adopted; and because I believe that Dr. Pritchard's plan for the admission of girls to any of the classes, including the Freshman, would seriously affect all our female Colleges, I am decidedly opposed to it.

A school of high grade in any section creates a demand for education and brings it within the reach of a large number of persons, who because of their nearness to it are able to make easy financial arrangements for patronizing it. So because Dr. Pritchard's plan would tend to destroy these, I oppose it. On the plan here proposed, Wake Forest is to take up the work near the point at which the female Colleges of the State leave it off. It will be conceded that their courses of study are, on the whole, one year shorter than that of Wake Forest. This is true with respect to several schools of the course. Perhaps in one of the schools the course in the female colleges is longer. But I suppose that all will agree that the Science Department at Wake Forest is considerably in advance of the Science department in the female Colleges; and that they may receive the full benefit of this, it will be necessary for women students to remain at Wake Forest two years. If the female colleges have to give them up a little sooner than at present, what is thus lost to them will be more than returned in other ways. They may find it to be their interest to arrange a special course for those preparing to enter Wake Forest, retaining the courses they now have for those who will be satisfied with them, or whose means will not permit them to go further.

The plan is not a new and untried one. For some years it has been in successful operation at Brown University, the oldest, largest and most famous of all our Baptist Colleges. There "graduate women are co-educated." In the letter explaining the plan, President Andrews, one of the wisely progressive educators of the world, speaks warmly in its favor. During my investigation it was this letter which led me to conclude that this plan slightly modified would be advantageous to Wake Forest, and to existing Female Colleges, and would supply the needs of our women for higher training—to be found nowhere this side of Mason's and Dixon's line.

The advantages to Wake Forest are, (1) a larger patronage and a larger income from tuition fees. Her patronage, I believe, will be increased not only by the number of women who may enter, but also by a larger number of boys.

(2) Because of a larger interest there, a larger endowment will soon be provided.

(3) The moral tone already high will be elevated; for the testimony of all co educational Universities is that the men and women are mutually helpful, the men made more manly, and the women more womanly. The only objection I know to the location of our College is because of the small size of the village, the lack of the refining influences of woman upon the life of our boys at the period when they most need this influence.

(4) It unify our educational interests, a "consummation devoutly to be wished," specially at this juncture of affairs. Wake Forest will be the central sun, and all our other Institutions in the East, Center and West lesser lights revolving around her in beautiful harmony, and receiving somewhat of her glory.

The advantages to women consist in being put in possession of a very valuable educational plant. It is barely necessary to refer again to the plant, yet it may not be altogether unprofitable to show of what it consists.

(1) A prestige acquired through an honorable career of more than half a century. To be crowned with her degrees is no insignificant honor to women, these meaning much more than the same degrees mean from any Woman's College in all the South.

(2) An inspiring group of well arranged buildings placed in a campus growing more beautiful year after year—all valued at not much less than $100,000.

(3) An endowment fund of nearly $200,000, which makes it possible to the Trustees to employ an able Faculty of specialists.

(4) A library of more than ten thousand volumes.

(5) Appliances procured at much cost for illustrating the sciences, and manipulated by three specialists.

Why should our women be denied these advantages?

The advantages to existing Female Colleges, and to those that may be built in the future are.

(1) It will stimulate them to do the best work possible, because their work through their representatives at Wake Forest will be compared.

(2) It will help them to hold a larger number to the point of graduation or of the advanced class, because of those who will wish the degrees from Wake Forest.

(3) By the increased interest excited in the education of girls, it will lead to the opening of additional schools.

Last fall I received a letter from a recent graduate of the Oxford Seminary, who wrote that she was making preparations to go to Chicago University to obtain higher training than is possible for her in North Carolina. This young woman had two brothers educated at Wake Forest. They could find what they needed at home, while she must go from her State at very large cost and at the inconvenience of travel and of residence among strangers. She expected to pay her expenses with money she had made by teaching. All that she needs could be furnished her by her Denominational College without a dollar of expense to the College. She is one of a class. Shall we longer discriminate against them?

F. P. Hobgood.

Moneys Received for the Macon Church.

Bro. Bailey:—I acknowledge the receipt of the following amounts for the Macon Baptist church:

B. J. Edgerton, Sr., one acre building lot, valued by him at $100.00; Samuel L. Bobbitt, proceeds of festival, 22 60; J. L. Coleman and J. H. Rodwell, each 25 00—50.00; Jack Rodwell, 10 00; Miss Walter Egerton, 14 40; Mrs. Sallie N. Coleman, 6.00; Mrs. J. A. Coleman, 5 00; W. E. Brown, 5.00; Hiram A. Nicholson, 3 00; Willie May, Gus Overby, James Egerton, W. G. Egerton, Walter Egerton, W. G. Coleman, Jr, Richard D. Fleming, Jr., and John J. Nicholson, each 1 00—8.00; Jack Pegram, Abe Bobbitt, and L. W. Bagby, each 50 cents—1 50; Joseph H. Bobbitt, 20.00.

John H. Nicholson

Macon, April 26, 1894.

Gratitude Expressed.

Mr. Editor:—Will you please give me a small place in your columns for the purpose of acknowledging our gratitude to the many friends who have liberally aided us by subscriptions to the fund for building our church at New Vernon (colored).

We fully appreciate their kindness and liberality, and hope they may be justly rewarded by the Great Creator of us all.

H. C. Toms, Sup't.

Washburn, May 7, 1894.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—White Oak ch, South River, 60c; W M S, First ch, Raleigh, Central, 21.31; Central Union, Bladen Asso, 6.55; Abbottsburg ch, ditto, 77c; Bertie Union Meeting, 3.20; Corinth ch, Stanly, 1.50. Total, 33.93 Previously reported, 5,692.47. Total this year, 5,726.40.

Foreign Missions—Jane Fry, Carthage. Sandy Creek, $2.50; Pittsboro ch, ditto, 84c; Sandy Creek S S Association, 6.80; Columbus Co Union, 3 00; Piny Green ch, So River, 80c; Pleasant Union ch, ditto, 2.50; Union Grove ch, ditto, 5.00; White Oak ch, ditto, 1.22; Salem ch, ditto, 2.50; W M S, First ch, Raleigh, Central, 33.11; Central Union, Bladen, 5.05; Abbottsburg ch, ditto, 60c; Bertie Union Meeting, 3.19; Canton ch, Stanly, 50c. Total, 67.11. Previously reported, 2,065.07. Total this year, 2,132.18.

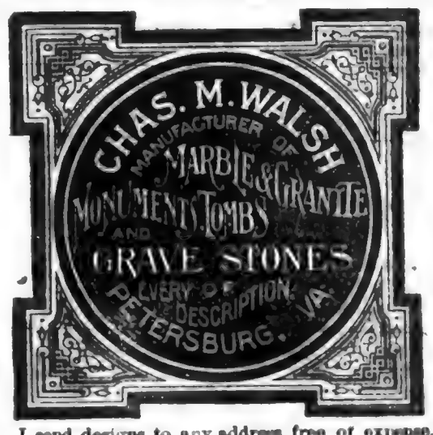
Home Missions—Pittsboro ch, Sandy Creek, 84c; Piny Green ch, South River, 72c; White Oak ch, ditto, 1.10; Jackson ch, W Chowan, 1.15; W M S, First ch, Raleigh, 21.31; Central Union, Bladen, 75c; Abbottsburg ch, ditto, 63c. Total, 26.50. Previously reported, 944 54. Total this year, 970.04.

Education—Frank Mitchell, Raleigh, $1.00; Mt Moriah ch, Raleigh, 8.74; Clayton ch, ditto, 7.50; R H Jordan, Charlotte, 9.00; C N Cowan, Webster, 5.00; Orphanage ch, Thomasville, 63c; Mill Creek ch, South River, 1.00; Union Grove ch, ditto, 1.00; White Oak ch, ditto, 76c; S S Mis So, Cashie ch, W Chowan, 1.91; Central Union, Bladen, 1.25; Bertie Union Meeting, 3.19. Total, 40.98. Previously reported, 1,089.80. Total this year, 1,130.78.

Orphanage—Pleasant Union ch, So River, 50c; Salem ch, ditto, 1.00. Total, 1.50. Previously reported, 353.18. Total this year, 354.68.

Ministerial Relief Fund—White Oak ch, South River, $1.35; Salem ch, ditto, 1.09; Samaria ch, Tar River, 65c; Fishing Creek ch, ditto, 1.19; C C Durham, Shelby, 5.00. Total, 9.28. Previously reported, 147.35. Total this year, 156.63.

Correction.—The amount reported in last Recorder for Education should have been $68.20 instead of $78.20; error in addition.



J. D. Boushall,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.

Raleigh, May 12, 1894.

LADIES'
feeding a tonic, or children who want building up, should take
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS.
It is pleasant to take, cures Malaria, Indigestion, Biliousness and Liver Complaints.

Read in this Paper a "CHAT WITH A VISITOR" ABOUT THE Electrophoise.
(TRADE MARK)
"ATMOSPHERIC OXYGEN" BY ABSORPTION
"cures when all else fails."
Information Free.
Electrolibration Co., Gould Building, Atlanta. 345, 4th Av., N. Y.

Law School
University of North Carolina.
42d Regular Session begins Sept 6th, 1894. 14th Summer Session begins July 2d, 1894. For particulars address JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory.
CHAS. M. WALSH.

Musical Entertainments
for Young Folks. For use in public and private schools, and the home. Tableaux, Marches, Drills, etc.
A Capital Song, A lesson in geography. 40 cents.
Ball Tossing, A series of evolutions. 40 cents.
Heroes, A marching song for boys. 75 cents.
Japanese Parasol March and Drill, 50 cents.
Song of the Rain Drops, A motion song. 30 cents.
Tambourine March and Drill, 40 cents.
Today, A character sketch with tableaux. 40 cents.
Tomorrow or the Music of the Future, 50 cts.
The Ten Little Sunflowers, A humorous chorus and encore. Very entertaining. 50 cents.
Yesterday or Grandma's Dream, A beautiful little sketch with old time costumes. 50 cents.
Theory and Practice, A singing class lesson, 40 cts.
The Jolly Little Waiters, 40 cents.
The Little Turkkee Turks, 50 cents.
I'm Ashamed to Look my Dolly in the Eyes, A cute song for a bright little girl. 40 cents.
SEND FOR COMPLETE CATALOGUE FREE.
Sample copy of Musical Visitor containing Choir Anthems for 10 cents.
—PUBLISHED BY—
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.,
CINCINNATI. NEW YORK. CHICAGO

THE TIRED
BRAIN and NERVES
Find Sweetest, Safest and Best
Relief by using Dr. King's
Royal Germetuer.
As a Nerve Tranquillizer and Tonic it never has been equalled.
Dr. L. D. Collins, Goldthwaite, Tex., says of it: "It is the finest Nerve Tranquillizer I have ever used."
L. C. Coulson, Deputy Clerk, Jackson county, Ala., says: "I commend it for Nervousness above anything I have ever tried."
Geo. W. Armstead, Ed. The Issue, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Germetuer is an invaluable Builder and Invigorator of the Nerve Forces."
Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, Ex-Auditor, N. C., now 8d Auditor, Washington, D. C., says: "I have never found a better Nerve Tonic and General Invigorator.
Contains no Bromides, Cocaine, Chloral or other injurious drugs. Always safe for all ages and sexes.
$1, 6 for $5. Sold by druggists. Manuf'd only by King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga.

$12 00 to $35.00 a week can be made working for us. Parties preferred who can furnish a horse and travel through the country; a team, though, is not necessary. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Men and women of good character will find this an excellent opportunity for profitable employment. Spare hours may be used to good advantage. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 11th & Main Sts., Richmond, Va.

Leaksville Woolen Mills,
LEAKSVILLE, N. C.,
are at the old place, under the old management, making the same line of excellent goods. Write us for information and samples if you have any wool to be manufactured into Blankets, Fancy Bed Spreads, Cassimere, Jeans, Flannels or Yarns.

For the present we will continue the most popular premium offer yet made.
THE PRICE OF
The Southern Magazine
IS $2.50 PER YEAR.
And it is in every respect the Greatest Literary Monthly ever published outside of New York.
THE PRICE OF
THE COSMOPOLITAN
$1.50 PER YEAR.
And it is the most enterprising and popular of New York Magazines.
We will send to any address both of these great monthlies for one year for the single price of The Southern Magazine, or $2.50, payable in advance.
We are only able to offer this combination by special agreement for a limited time to swell the list of both periodicals.
There is no use saying more. The mere announcement of this combination at this price should keep our Circulation Department busy while the offer is open.
This offer is good on renewals only for those whose subscriptions to The Southern Magazine have expired, or now expire with this number, and will not apply hereafter.
Enough magazine literature for a family for a year, and of the very highest quality, as the announcements of both for 1894 are superior to anything previously offered by either.
Send $2 50 by P. O. Money Order, Postal Note or Check direct to
THE SOUTHERN MAGAZINE,
(Circulation Department) Louisville, Ky.
N. B.—This offer is entirely separate from, and does not go in connection with any other premium offers or contests advertised by The Southern Magazine, and is not open to subscriptions received through agents.

The Fundamental Principle of Life Assurance
is protection for the family. Unfortunately, however, the beneficiaries of life assurance are often deprived of the provision made for them, through the loss of the principal, by following bad advice regarding its investment.
Under the Tontine Installment Policy of
The Equitable Life
you are provided with an absolute safeguard against such misfortune, besides securing a much larger amount of insurance for the same amount of premiums paid in.
For facts and figures, address
W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas, Rock Hill, S. C.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO., Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
CHURCH BELLS, PLAIN AND SHRINE.
Prices & Terms Free.

Pastors' Conference of Norfolk and Vicinity.

Rev. G. S. Kennard of Fourth St., church, Portsmouth, reports having held meetings with his church last week. Rev. W. F. Watson, Spurgeon Memorial, Norfolk, had Rev. J. A. Speight to preach for him in the morning. Bro. Watson baptized two at night. Next Sunday is anniversary day at his church and Drs. Wharton, Hatcher and Owen are to make addresses on that occasion. Dr. M. B. Wharton had a big day. The Silver Lake Quartette sang at his church in the morning. The church was packed to overflowing. Mr. Beauchamp preached and made a fine impression. At night Dr. Wharton preached the sixth of his series of sermon on The Ten Commandments. His church has lately sent $210 to Bro. Willingham for the Foreign Mission Board.

Rev. C. W. Matthews of South Norfolk, reports the best day of his pastorate with the church in some respects. Three were received by letter, one for baptism and Rev. W. N. Quesenbery baptized two for him in his baptistery at night. Rev. W. H. Taylor of the Scottsville church reports a splendid day at his church. He preached at the Burrows Memorial church in the afternoon.

Rev. H. N. Quesenbery, Berkley Avenue, had Dr. W. E. Hall of New York to preach for him in the morning. Bro. Quesenbery preached to the children in the afternoon and to a fine audience at night.

Dr. Hall lectured in this church last Thursday night on "How to get married and stay so." To-night he lectures in this church on "Happy Homes." To say that Dr. Hall is great only faintly expresses it. He could have held the large congregation that assembled to hear him on Thursday night, spell-bound for four hours.

Rev. A. B. Dunaway, Churchland, reports a good day with his church and at West Norfolk.

Dr. A. E. Owen received one in the morning and two at night. His church has recently given $214 to the Convention Boards.

Rev. P. S. C. Davis was present at the Conference.

Rev. C. N. Donaldson was present and manifested great enthusiasm over the prohibition movement now being prosecuted in Norfolk by Rev. Sam Small and others.

Bro. Sturdeson, one of the Court St. layman, was at the Conference and reported working with Rev. P. G. Elsom and the pastor at Newbern, N. C., in a gracious revival. He said that during the hours of meeting the bar-rooms in town closed their doors. There were sixty or seventy conversions. He expects to go with Bro. Elsom to Raleigh, N. C., soon. Bro. Sturdeson sings the gospel.

Rev. J. T. Eubank, pastor at London Bridge, was present and reported things running smoothly in his church.

The Union Meeting of the Lower District, Portsmouth Association, held a very pleasant session with the church at Pleasant Grove last Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Dr. J. A. Speight preached the introductory sermon.

Rev. E. B. Hatcher, First church, Norfolk, received two by letter and had fifteen requests for prayer last night.

Dr. J. J. Hall is away in Richmond.

Rev. T. A. Hall, Central Avenue, had a good day. Preached in the morning on the subject, "Should we carry religion into politics?"

Rev. J. W. Daugherty, South St., Portsmouth, held meetings every night last week, except Saturday. They continue this week.

Rev. W. S. Leak, Third church, Norfolk, had Prof. Taite of Nashville, Tenn., to address his people in the morning. Had a good day.

C. W. M.

Ordination of Two Ministers.

The presbytery for the examination of brethren W. Y. Chappell and W. M. Jackson, consisting of brethren W. M. Sorrell, J. H. Hutchinson and A. Betts, met at the home of Bro. W. Y. Chappell on the night of April 28th, having been called together by the Leesville Baptist church for the express purpose of ordaining these brethren into the work of the ministry.

Organized by the election of Bro. W. M. Sorrell as Moderator Bro. W. A. Crabtree, being present, was requested to act as Secretary. Then proceeded as follows:

First, a recital of the Christian experience and call to the ministry of brethren Chappel and Jackson. Then they were examined as to their beliefs in God and his Divine Word, and its relation to the human family.

The examination proving satisfactory, they were duly set apart on April 29th, 1894, in the church at Leesville, to the full work of the ministry. Bro. W. M. Sorrell preached the ordination sermon; Bro. A. Betts delivered the charge, and Bro. J. H. Hutchinson invoked the blessings of God upon them and their work in a most earnest manner.

W. M. SORRELL, Moderator.
W. A. CRABTREE, Sec.

Chowan Association.

This body meets with Shady Grove church, May 23d—24th. To reach it by rail, go on the Norfolk and Southern road to Moyock. There the people will be met and conveyed to the church which is some three miles from the station. Persons can leave Raleigh via Seaboard line in the morning and reach Moyock at 5 p. m.

Rev. Josiah Elliott will preach the introductory sermon.

Arrangements have been made for all delegates and visitors to the Association to be returned at one-half fare on the Norfolk Southern R. R., and we are trying to make arrangements on the Norfolk and Carolina R. R., which have not as yet been completed.

E. F. AYDLETT, Moderator.

Is your blood poor? Take Beecham's pills.

Chat With a Visitor to our Office.

"What is the Electropoise that I have heard so much about?"

"It is a therom-electric battery, when connected with the body of the patient."

"How does it differ from an ordinary battery or belt? I have tried different kinds and obtained no relief."

"Thermal electricity is generated by the difference in temperature. The Electropoise is made cold, and the treating plate fastened to the patient, (usually at the ankle on retiring at night) this difference in temperature puts the body in such an electrical condition as to cause the entire surface of the of the system to absorb oxygen from the atmosphere."

"Why don't the other batteries do the same thing?"

"Because they give both the positive and negative elements of electricity, while the Electropoise gives only the positive, and causes the system to attract the negative from the atmosphere, and as oxygen is one of the principal ingredients of air and highly negative in its nature, it is radically attracted through the pores and membranes, coming in direct contact with the impure blood in the veins and capillaries. It partially reoxydizes this blood, builds new tissue, tones and strengthens the entire system, putting every organ of the body in a normal condition."

"Well, with all this what diseases will the Electropoise cure?"

"It will practically cure all diseases where there is vitality to build on. All disease is but a decrease of vitality; for some reason the body fails to absorb sufficient oxygen to keep the system in an electrical 'Poise' or balance; the result is that the disease attacks the weakest point, and as it spreads and develops itself, receives different names, but as there is but one cause (decreased vitality) so also need there be but one remedy, increased strength. Oxygen is the greatest enemy of disease, and when applied direct to the cause of the disease may be said to be invincible."

"These are very broad claims you make, and you must know how the public regard a cure-all."

"Yes, we know that, but make no claim we do not substantiate. Where the Electropoise fails after a fair trial the case is practically incurable."

"What do the physicians say about it?"

"As a profession they say it is the most gigantic humbug ever sprung on the public. Quite a number of them who have given it any thought or investigation say it is a wonderful instrument, and its field of usefulness is unlimited."

"How do they account for the cures you claim have been wrought by the Electropoise?"

"They say they are 'faith cures,' forgetting or not knowing that we cure infants that have no imagination, patients who are delirious, and in some cases where they have been bereft of all reason and were applicants for the insane asylum. Dumb animals are also treated in the same magical way."

"How long will the Electropoise last, and does it need to be recharged?"

"It will last indefinitely, does not need to be recharged, as it does not lose its force; however, the wire inside of cord sometimes wears out and it is a good idea to bring or send it to us once in six months to be examined, there is no charge for this unless we have to supply new cord or plate, and the charges never exceed seventy-five cents."

"What is the price of the Electropoise?"

"The Pocket or portable size $25.00 and $50.00 for the Standard or wall size. The Pocket is cheaper, and for many purposes practically as good."

"What is the respective merit of the two kinds?"

"The Standard possesses the power to purify the atmosphere in the room, converting oxygen into ozone, this prevents malarial and contagious diseases. Two or more persons can use it at the same time, and the strength of the instrument can be regulated to a nicer degree. For general family use it is far preferable."

"Is not this a high price, and do you not find difficulty in selling them?"

"No; it is economy to possess an Electropoise. It saves doctors and drug bills, and if you will take a look at our order book it would not seem that there is a great deal of difficulty in selling them. Our New York office reports the sale of fifty-three instruments one day this week and that they have done better."

"What proof can you give me that I will be benefited by its use?"

"Just read a few of these letters from the best and most intelligent people all over the country, people you know."

"You can wrap up one for me! I see Rev. ——, Dr. ——, Judge —— and many more that I know personally recommend it highly, and the endorsements of such men do certainly carry weight.

Wine drinking is the mother of all mischief, the root of crimes, the spring of vices, the whirlwind of the brain, the overthrow of the sense, the tempest of the tongue, the ruin of the body, the shame of life, the stain of honesty, and the plague and corruption of the soul.—Chicago Standard.

MARRIED.

BALLENTINE—BELL—On May 3d, 1894, at the residence of Mr. A. T. Lambeth, near Lockville, N. C., by Rev. L. R. Dixon, Dr. J. A. Ballentine of Jonesboro, N. C., and Miss Minnie Bell of Lockville, N. C.

Tributes of Respect.

Deacon Abram Jenkins departed this life at his home near Aulander, Bertie county, N. C., on March 28th, 1894, in the sixty-third year of his age.

Bro. Jenkins was a very prominent citizen of the county, especially so in his own community. Having served as justice of the peace for a number of years, his place was headquarters for his neighbors to assemble where they sought and obtained legal counsel on any and all matters of difference between them under his jurisdiction as a peace officer, or conservative and impartial advice as a neighbor and citizen.

In his early life Bro. Jenkins was regarded as a "moralist," but was ever attentive to religious service and a contributor to the cause.

During a series of meetings with the church at Conaritsa, Bro. Jenkins made an open profession of religion, was baptized by the Rev. Jeremiah Bunch, and received into the fellowship of the church the fourth Lord's day in September, 1882, and was ordained as deacon in November, 1886, which sacred trust he filled with dignity to the church and credit to himself until stricken with some bronchial trouble that caused him intense suffering for three or four months, when in one of his resting spells, and while reclining on the bosom of his youngest son, he expired without a struggle as easy apparently as falling asleep.

Bro. Jenkins leaves a widow and several children, all of whom as a natural consequence mourn his loss. Fortunately, however, the most of the children are able to care for themselves.

A committee appointed by the church to give publicity to some expressions of sympathy for the bereaved family and friends, submit the following:—

Resolved 1. That in the death of Bro. Jenkins our church and community sustain a vacancy and loss for the time being, with no one in sight to fill the same.

2. That in his departure from the family circle his vacancy for kindness and affection as husband and father, can never be filled.

3. That this church collectively tender to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy in their great bereavement, and humbly pray that our Heavenly Father may comfort and console them with his grace sufficient for their day and time.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and one forwarded to the RECORDER for publication.

By order of the church at April conference, 1894.

W. G. BURDIN,
JNO. H. MITCHELL, JR.,
J. M. EARLY,
A. J. DUNNING,
Committee.

Many Persons are broken down from overwork or household cares. Brown's Iron Bitters Rebuilds the system, aids digestion, removes excess of bile, and cures malaria. Get the genuine.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

Mr. P. Huffman has been appointed postmaster at Hickory, N. C.

A traveling salesman by the name Orendroff was found dead in bed at Cameron on the 9th.

McCann's saw-mill at Selma was destroyed by fire a few days since entailing a loss of $35,000.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of Shaw University, Raleigh, will be held May 18th to 17th, 1894.

Memorial day was generally observed throughout the State and especially so in the larger town and cities.

Hon. F. M. Simmons has been confirmed by the Senate as collector of this, the 4th internal revenue district.

Hon. W. H. Kitchen of Halifax, it is said, will come out in this week's Caucasian declaring himself to be in sympathy with the populists.

The closing exercises of the Apex Academic Institute will take place on May 29. Editor Merritt of the Carolinian is orator of the occasion.

The public building committee of the lower house of Congress has favorably reported the bill for building a $75,000 public building at Winston.

Editor Butler, President of the Alliance, appeared before a committee of Congress last week to urge the government ownership of telegraphs, etc.

Mr. G. B. Alford of Holly Springs had the misfortune to lose his store one day during the early part of last week. Origin of fire supposed to be incendiary.

Cablegrams have reached this State to the effect that Consul General Jernigan and his party have arrived at Shanghai and have entered upon their duties.

The breaking up of the S. A. L. shops at Portsmouth is announced in the papers. Machinery and men will be brought to Raleigh, and only enough left behind to do what is necessary to be done at Portsmouth.

The following is the programme of the State Normal and Industrial School:—Wednesday, May 23d, 11 a. m., address, Hon. W. J. Bryan of Nebraska. 8:30 p.m., class exercises. Thursday, May 24th, 11 a. m., sermon, Rt. Rev. Edward Rondthaler, D. D., of North Carolina. Awarding of diplomas and certificates. 8:30 p. m., address, Senator John B. Gordon of Georgia on the Last Days of the Confederacy.

Gov. Carr appointed Friday the following delegates to the Southern Inter-State Immigration Convention at Augusta, Ga., May 30: Rev. Dr. Charles E. Taylor, Prof. Joseph A. Holmes, Charles McNamee, to represent the State at large; T. H. Blount, J. H. Dunn, W. W. McDiarmid, Arthur Arrington, Joseph P. Morehead, B. F. Rogers, F. H. Stith, Clemens Manly and John K. Hoyt to represent the nine congressional districts.

Hon. R. T. Bennett will be one of the speakers at the laying of the corner-stone of Confederate Monument on May 30th. This occasion promises to be a marked one in the history of Raleigh and the State. Twenty thousand visitors are expected to be in attendance. As before announced Hon. Thos. W. Mason, whom North Carolina has no superior as an orator, will make the speech of the occasion.

General News.

The vicious elephant "Tip" was recently killed in Central Park menagerie by a dose of three ounces of cyanide of potassium.

Recent social statistics compiled and given out show that nearly three-fifths of the population is single and one-twentieth widowed.

Richard Croker has made known his intention to resign as the leader of Tammany Hall, the great Democratic organization of New York City.

The tariff bill has been reported to the Senate and has nearly four hundred amendments. Considerable doubt of the passage is expressed, some going so far as to say that Senator Mills of Texas will not vote for it.

The monument to Mary Washington, the mother of our first President was unveiled on Memorial day at Fredericksburg, Va. The President and Vice-President were present and made speeches. Senator Daniels was orator of the day.

Gen. Roger A. Pryor, a man not unknown to the South and now one of the most distinguished Judges of New York, has declared the Ives Pool bill unconstitutional. His decision will serve, it is thought, to break up the race tracks of his State.

The average rate of duty under the McKinley bill is 49.58 per cent. The average rate under the Mills bill, which was so fiercely denounced by Republican protectionists, was 42.78 per cent. The average rate under the Wilson bill is 35.52 per cent, and the average rate under the Senate bill, which is a revision of the Wilson bill, is only 34.15, or 1.37 per cent. lower than the Wilson bill.—Knoxville Tribune.

The Standard Oil Co., of which a Baptist philanthropist is at the head, has made a deal with Russia whereby they have divided the territory for selling oil. The discovery of "gushing" oil wells in the Ural Mountains of the Czars country placed that government in a position to damage the Standard monopoly and they have gotten together and agreed to let Russia have all the East and part of Europe while the Standard people will cater to the business of the West and the remaining part of Europe.

KEEP IT COOL

And it will Keep You Cool

Drink it when you are thirsty; when you are tired; when you are overheated. Whenever you feel that a health-giving temperance drink will do you good, drink

HIRES' Rootbeer

A 5c. pkg. makes 5 gallons. Sold everywhere. Send 2c. stamp for beautiful picture cards and book. The Chas. E. Hires Co., Philadelphia.

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,

Manufacturing Stationers,

Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as]

Note and Letter Paper,
all qualities, both Folded or in Box.

Writing Pads,
all Grades.

PENS,
from the finest point to broadest stub.

PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.

Stationery Supplies
in endless variety.

Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.

RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

Hard Times Fertilizers

To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash

Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices,
per ton,
for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Trucking Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars

W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

Wanted.

A private school from about the middle of June (or later) until middle of September, by a teacher of six years successful experience in teaching. Address, LOCK BOX, Chapel Hill, N. C.

MELLIN'S FOOD
FOR INFANTS AND INVALIDS
THE ONLY PERFECT
Substitute for Mother's Milk.

Connellsville, Pa.
Gentlemen:—I have been troubled with dyspepsia for some years. I have been using Mellin's Food for some time, and find it very nourishing; being forced to live entirely on liquids, Mellin's Food is just exactly what I need. Yours truly, JAMES F. BEATTIE.

Salem, Ore.
We have a boy 9 months old who has been taking Mellin's Food for 6 months; he is healthy and happy. MRS. MCCARL.

SEND for our book, "The Care and Feeding of Infants," mailed Free to any address.
Doliber-Goodale Co., Boston, Mass.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out $600,000
to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
P. COWPER, Adjuster.

HOME OFFICE, RALEIGH, N. C.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

The Leading Conservatory of America.
Founded by Dr. E. Tourjée. Year Begins Sept. 5th. Illustrated Calendar giving full information free. New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

AGENTS $10 a day at home selling LIGHTNING PLATER and plating Jewelry, Watches, Tableware, Harness, etc. Plates best jewelry gold as new, and all kinds of metal with gold, silver or nickel. No experience. Anyone can plate the first piece. Goods need plating or your money back. Outfits complete, ready for use, all complete. Write sole to agents at once. Don't delay. Address, quick. Agents, Columbus, O.

The Home Circle.

The Boys we Need.

Here's to the boys who's not afraid,
To do his share of work;
Who never is by toil dismayed,
And never tries to shirk.

The boy whose heart is brave to meet
All lions in the way;
Who's not discouraged by defeat,
But tries another day.

The boy who always means to do
The very best he can;
Who always keeps the right in view,
And aims to be a man.

Such boys as those will grow to be
The men whose hands will guide
The future of our land; and we Shall speak their names with pride.

All honor to the boy who is
A man at heart, I say;
Whose legend on his shield is this:
"Right always wins the day."

—Golden Days.

Salutations.

Many of the Oriental salutations are in the form of a prayer. The Arabian says: "God grant thee his favor." And again, "May God strengthen your morning." The Persian utters, "I make prayers for your greatness;" the Ottoman, "Be under the guard of God." The "God guide you," of the Esthonian, "Adieu" (A Dieu, the God), of the French, and our own "Good-bye," a corruption of "God be with ye," are modern examples of the same idea.

The more colloquial and informal phrases of greeting used by different nations, offer an interesting field of study. The French ask, "How do you carry yourself?" The Arabs say, "May your morning be good." In Egypt the inquiry is made, "How goes the perspiration?" The Persians, always very courteous, ask, "Is thy exalted, high condition good?" The Swedes exclaim, "How can you?" a greeting that must be anything but comforting to a person with a guilty conscience. The Dutch, always mindful of the good things of life, solicitously inquire, "How do you fare?" And so the list might continue indefinitely.

Prostration is one of the oldest modes of salutation. The Bible abounds in instances of this. It disappears as the nations of the world become imbued with the idea of human equality. It now survives only among the least progressive peoples of Asia. The Coreans, for example, retain this old-time usage. The poor prostrate themselves in the dust before the rich. The Tartars scratch the ear, just as Americans bow to a passing acquaintance. The very polite Thibetans put out their tongues.

A very peculiar fact is noticeable, that the ceremonials of greeting among savage nations rarely permit personal contact. Mutual distrust is universal, and this may account for it, in a measure. The Maories of New Zealand rub noses, to be sure, but this is an exception to a very general rule.

The Chinese are elaborate in their salutations. They fold their hands, and raise them a little above the right shoulder. The head is bent over until the right cheek nearly touches the hands. A little more emphasis is given to the greeting, when desired, by moving the folded hands up and down a number of times.

The Mongols do not possess the polite manners of the Chinese or Japanese. Their form of salutation consists in holding out both hands, palms uppermost, bowing slightly, and uttering some informal word of greeting.

The Ethiopian will take the robe of another, and fold it around his own waist, as a mark of delicate attention. Of course, the appropriation is only temporary. The Japanese removes one slipper when he meets a superior, saying, "Hurt me not." The natives of Arracan carry this still further, and remove both sandals in the street, and their stockings in the house.

The Laplanders greet acquaintances by making battering rams of their noses, the nasal appendages meeting with considerable force. The Phillipine Islanders clasp the hand or foot of a person they salute, and gently rest it against their own faces.

Kissing is entirely unknown as a sign of affection among the Australians, the New Zealanders, the Papuans, the Esquimaux, and many other races. The Polynesians and Malays always sit down as a mark of respect in the presence of a superior. Some of the tribes in the island world of the Pacific show admiration by hissing, while the highest compliment an Esquimaux can give another is to pull his nose.

Our American customs doubtless look strange to these neighbors of ours. "Every one to his taste," the old proverb says, and thus we must leave the matter.—Our Young People.

One of the best evidences that Ayer's Hair Vigor is an article of exceptional merit is the fact that the demand for it is constantly increasing. No one who uses this incomparable dressing thinks of trying any preparation for the hair.

How much trouble he avoids who does not look to see what his neighbor says, or does, or thinks; but only to what he does himself, that it may be just and true.—Selected.

Mental depression, wakefulness, lost manhood caused by errors of youth or later excesses quickly cured by Magnetic Nervine. Guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

No soul was ever yet saved, and no good deed was ever done to-morrow. Be careful dear reader, lest to-morrow shall find you beyond the world of probation!—Dr. T. L. Cuyler.

An Idle Day.

"If I could only have one whole day to do nothing but play in, how happy I should be!" said Rosie to her mother, at breakfast time.

"Try it," said her mother. "Play as much as you like. Try it to-day."

How the children going to school envied Rosie, as she swung on the gate and watched them pass by. No hard, long lessons for her. When they were gone, she ran into the garden, picked some gooseberries for a pudding, and took them into the kitchen.

"No, Rosie! That is work. Take them away."

Rosie looked serious. She got her doll and played with it, but soon tired; her shuttlecock, but did not care for it; her ball, it bounced into the kitchen window. Rosie peeped in after it. Mother was shelling peas.

"May I help you, mother?"

"No, Rosie; this isn't play."

Rosie strolled away with slow, lagging footsteps to the garden again. She leaned against the fence and watched the chickens. Soon she heard her mother setting the table for dinner, and longed to help. After dinner, Rosie took her little bag of patchwork, and stole away to the barn with it, for she could stand idleness no longer.

"Mother," she said, as she gave her good-night kiss, "I understand now what teacher meant when she said, 'He has hard work, who has nothing to do.'"—Young Reaper.

The Choice Task.

A successful business man, recently deceased, said that one secret of his success lay in his practice of always doing the most disagreeable part of his work first.

This is a very good suggestion for any and all of us to test. In every trade and profession and avocation there are some things more disagreeable than others; and because they are so they are frequently put off and put off until they become intolerable. Now, if we would do the worst part of our work first, our enjoyment in our work would always be on the increase, and probably our satisfaction in getting done the irksome and hateful parts will make us really happier than any pleasure we may have in what we really like to do. So, my young friend, if you have a composition to write that you dread, get that done first and have it off your mind. Or is it a series of problems in algebra? Get up early in the morning, after a good night's sleep, and attack the enemy, and don't give up the struggle till the "statements" are all clear and the value of x is easily deducted from them.

Akin to the philosophy of the man above alluded to was that of a small Tennessee farmer who lived and flourished before the war. His lot was narrow in most senses, his family large, his board frugal, but generous and hospitable. He knew nothing of bills of fare arranged to correspond to the economic demands of the digestive apparatus, and he cared for none of these things. Everything provided for any one meal was brought on at one time, and then, said he, "We begin to eat the best thing on the table, and when we have eaten that we eat the next best thing, and so we are always eating the best." A more contented family it would have been hard to find than his; for he got the best things out of life, and with his merry heart had a continual feast.

If we can school ourselves to regard the most irksome tasks as the best, because most fruitful in discipline and preparation for future labors, and steadily push them behind us, we shall be surprised at the narrow proportions their irksomeness will take until we may really become indifferent to it, and prefer to do what costs self denial and persistent courage to perform.—Richmond Christian Advocate.

For Weak Nerves
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.
It is particularly useful in making weak nerves strong, as it contains necessary elements of nutrition for the nervous system, obtained from natural sources.

How His Child Led Him.

Several years ago my brother was in Springfield one cheerless day, with about half an hour on his hands before train time. Strolling along near the depot, he noticed a tidy restaurant, and went in for lunch. A bright boy came to take his order, and as soon as he brought it sat down to his lessons. A respectable man, evidently the proprietor, was seated near the fire, with a disabled foot propped up in a chair. When my brother had finished his meal he approached him, saying:

"You have a bright boy to wait on your customers."

"Yes, indeed," said the man, with parental pride, "I couldn't hire so good a boy as that; he is my son, and was the means of my opening this place instead of keeping a saloon, which was the way I got my living for some years; and I'll tell you how it was. He came from school one day heavy-hearted, and when I asked him what was the matter he began to cry, but couldn't speak. After I had urged him, he said that in recess some of the boys asked each what their fathers did. One said his father was a plumber; another that his was a carpenter; and when they came to my boy, who said his father kept a saloon, one of them said, 'That's the meanest kind of business.' And I could see they all felt the same way. That made me feel awfully ashamed; so, 'father, if you will only give up the saloon, I'll do anything I can to help you.' With that he threw his arms around my neck and, sobbing, begged me to give it up. Well, the end of it was I sold out. I don't make so much money as I did selling liquor, but it goes father, and we have a happy home; my wife can help along, because decent people come here for their meals, but before I did not like to have her around, there was so much low talk. My boy has been as good as his word. I couldn't ask for a better son."

My brother thanked the man for his confidence, and after giving his hearty approval went his way.—Julia Billings, in Little Christian.

Hisses Changed to Cheers.

One of the most popular men who has ever taught in Edinburgh University is Jno. Stuart Blackie, whose nobility of character is well exemplified in this anecdote told in the Argonaut:

Professor Blackie was lecturing to a new class with whose personnel he was imperfectly acquainted. A student rose to read a paragraph, his book in his left hand.

"Sir!" thundered Blackie, "hold your book in your right hand!" And, as the student would have spoken: "No words, sir! Your right hand, I say!"

The student held up his right arm, ending piteously at the wrist.

"Sir, I hae nae right hand," he said.

Before Blackie could open his lips, there arose a storm of hisses, and by it his voice was overborne. Then the professor left his place and went down to the student he had unwittingly hurt, and put his arms around the lad's shoulder and drew him close, and the lad leaned against his breast.

"My boy," said Blackie—he spoke very softly, yet not so softly but that every word was audible in the hush that had fallen on the class-room—"my boy, you'll forgive me that I was over rough? I did not know—I did not know!"

He turned to the students and, with a look and tone that came straight from his heart, he said: "And let me say to you all, I am rejoiced to be shown I am teaching a class of gentlemen."

Scottish lads can cheer as well as hiss, and that Blackie had learned.

An operation or injections of carbolic acid are extremely dangerous. Try Japanese Pile Cure. Positively guaranteed by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Many go to ruin before they are fully awake to the fact that they are on a dangerous track. It is their own fault if they don't read the guide posts which stand at every turn of the road.—L. C. Randolph.

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS
come to you if you're a suffering woman. The messenger in this case is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
It's a tonic and nervine, a remedy prescribed by an eminent physician and specialist for all the peculiar ills and ailments of women.

Miss Meeker.

My daughter, Miss Meeker, was sick and we called in one of the best doctors here. She got so weak that I had to help her out of bed and draw her in a chair. She then tried some of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In less than a week she was out of bed and has been working about five weeks now, and looks the picture of health. As for myself I am much better of my female complaint. Before taking the "Favorite Prescription," I suffered most of the time from catarrhal inflammation. Yours respectfully,
Mrs. NANCY MEEKER,
Dunraven, Delaware Co., N. Y.

PIERCE Guarantees a CURE.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers
Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

JAPANESE PILE CURE

A New and Complete Treatment, consisting of SUPPOSITORIES, Capsules of Ointment and two Boxes of Ointment. A never-failing Cure for Piles of every nature and degree. It makes an operation with the knife or injections of carbolic acid, which are painful and seldom a permanent cure, and often resulting in death, unnecessary. Why endure this terrible disease? We guarantee 6 boxes to cure any case. You only pay for benefits received. $1 a box, 6 for $5. Sent by mail. Guarantees issued by our agents.

CONSTIPATION Cured, Piles Prevented, by Japanese Liver Pellets the great LIVER and STOMACH REGULATOR and BLOOD PURIFIER. Small, mild and pleasant to take, especially adapted for children's use. 50 Doses 25 cents.

GUARANTEED issued only by
JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

THERE is but one way in the world to be sure of having the best paint, and that is to use only a well-established brand of strictly pure white lead, pure linseed oil, and pure colors.*

The following brands are standard "Old Dutch" process, and are always absolutely

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

*If you want colored paint, tint any of the above strictly pure leads with National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in one-pound cans, each can being sufficient to tint 25 pounds of Strictly Pure White Lead the desired shade; they are in no sense ready-mixed paints, but a combination of perfectly pure colors in the handiest form to tint Strictly Pure White Lead.
Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free.

Philadelphia Branch, 231 South Front Street, Philadelphia.
NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.

HARDWARE

Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.

Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.

Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.

STOVES

Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr.
Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 378, Richmond, Va.,
Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited.
WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1894. Number 46.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

THERE are certain expressions in the political vocabulary that are used often with great effect, but which are really understood by few. "The seignorage" is a striking example. "Free silver" was one for many months; "the people" is another. These terms have added force to arguments with many who never understood them. So now the balance of trade is often heard of in connexion with both the tariff and the coinage question. We hear that gold is being sent to Europe by the millions of dollars; it has been claimed that this is a sign of the balance of trade being adverse to the United States; and that it is caused by the tariff. We have read an excellent article on this subject recently, and shall endeavor to give the RECORDER readers some of its suggestions.

If the people of our nation buy from England more than England buys from us, the balance of trade is said to be against us; and vice versa. Thus the balance of trade is not a cause, but an effect of causes. We do not ship gold to Europe for nothing; it is in payment always for services rendered. "Loans, interest on securities held abroad, payments for freights to foreign ships, expenses of citizens on their travels, premiums to foreign insurance companies," etc., are the most frequent forces in taking American gold. Most of these things are essentials in commerce between nations, and are inevitable if we have any foreign relations, whether or not we buy a yard of goods or a pound of produce. We must pay interest on bonds, money borrowed; in lieu of an adequate commercial navy we must hire of other countries. If we owe England for any of these things—and it is a truth that she is a creditor in one way or another for each of them—we must pay without reference to what is bought or sold of manufactured or perishable goods. But these are permanent forces, may be anticipated, and are not caused by conditions that can be remedied immediately, or for which any one is responsible.

LET us consider the more vital force of international trade. Here is something suggestive: "An excess of imports does not necessarily cause a drain of currency" (gold) "and if there should be an outflow of it, the amount so exported could not be measured by the excess of imports. If the excess of imports be large, it does not follow that the exportation of gold will also be great, or that there will be any exportation of it at all." Surely we must pay for our excess of imports. The answer is that nations like men (for they are men), do business on credit; and if there is an unfavorable balance of trade against the American nation to day, we have no reason to believe that gold will be exported to pay for it. We can wait until we have some goods, say cotton, which Europe needs. Any farmer who has bought on credit in the spring promising to settle up in the fall appreciates this. So really the "balance of trade" does not necessarily have reference to exports of gold whether it be favorable or unfavorable. We have pointed out forces which may cause exports of gold; and we have shown how goods are bought without the use of money—exchanged on time. It is not denied that gold is sometimes paid for imports; but that is not so frequently the case that we can attempt to measure exports of gold by imports of merchandise. Again, an excess of exports of merchandise does not signify that imports of gold will be large. We export cotton, we import cotton goods, silk or cutlery in payment. Or we may be paying interest on securities with our cotton. We may be loaning England a large amount of capital, which she will sell and convert into gold. If the latter is true, she will pay us at a future time, perhaps in gold, probably in merchandise. Thus it becomes apparent the fact that gold is "flowing out" of the country is not evidence that we are buying, but rather that we have bought or borrowed, or are spending money for travel and other objects, the payment for which must be made in gold.

SUPPOSE a merchant in New York sends a cargo to England, which cost him $200,000. Say it is sold at a profit of $10,000, making the amount in England $210,000. The New York merchant would have credit in England for the latter amount. Instead of taking this in money, he either buys goods for the amount, or "sells on exchange," by which some other person buys foreign goods. Here is how it would appear: The New York Custom House books would show exports $200,000, imports $210,000, thus making it appear that the balance of trade was unfavorable to the United States, when there is really no balance. The United States has parted with $200,000 worth of goods; it has received in turn $210,000 in goods. It has not parted with any gold. Yet, if we were left to judge from Custom House accounts, we had paid out $10,000. We may add the historical fact—shown by figures—that the amount of gold exported does not bear any just proportion to the adverse balance of trade. We get credited for what we export, and pay only the interest in cash; we credit other countries as they credit us; and thus exports nor imports of gold are required to settle the balance of trade. So when any one tries to deduce an argument regarding exports of gold by figures of imports of merchandise, he is very probably illogical.

England's imports in 1879 cost $555,000,000 more than her exports. Yet this didn't drain her currency or give her trouble in any way. England has to import more than she exports; yet she is the richest of nations so far is credit is concerned. The subjects hold a large amount of American securities and property. She gets the interest on these in imported merchandise. And her credit is so good that very few of her debts are called for until she is ready to pay them which she usually does with merchandise. We do not intend to have any one think that cash is never paid in international transactions; for it often is. But our purpose is to show that excess of imports or exports has comparatively little to do with the amount of gold in a country; has little effect on currency circulation; and that exportation of gold is not an indication of an unfavorable condition of commerce.

SOME observations may be pertinent. If we had no foreign debt on which interest must be paid, if we dealt internationally only in merchandise and commodities—both of which suppositions ought to be true—it would make no difference what kind of currency we had so long as it was considered good by citizens of the United States. But we have debts, and we allow our securities to be sold in the markets of the world; and with them goes the honorable agreement to pay interest on and redeem them in a currency recognized by the nations, measured by the international standard, gold. Therefore, we must have a good share of gold currency so long as the present conditions exist, for the benefit of those who have international dealings. Paper would be good enough for citizens of the United States, but if European merchants refuse to take anything but gold, and United States merchants continue to buy and to borrow gold from Europeans, they must have gold with which to redeem their obligations. It is true we can get along without dealing internationally save by exchange of merchandise. But what is to be done for debts already made and securities bought along since?

A striking illustration of monetary relations come to us recently. A Baptist missionary of China wrote us—and he was not writing about financial problems—that his salary had increased from 900 to 1,200 ounces of silver in the last two years. And yet his stated salary had not changed! He was not any better paid, although if he had been paid in United States silver dollars and had spent them here, he would have been almost $300 better off. But his salary is measured by a gold standard, and 1,200 ounces in silver are not worth any more in gold than 900 were some months ago.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONTINUED FROM LAST WEEK.]

"All useful learning shall be duly encouraged and promoted in one or more universities."

This was the last clause of Art. 44 of the old Constitution of Pennsylvania. It was also the last clause of Art. 41 of the old Constitution of North Carolina. Inasmuch as the former was adopted some two months before the latter, the presumption is that the clause was taken by the framers of the North Carolina Constitution from the Constitution of Pennsylvania, or that it was derived by both from some common source.

In Pennsylvania, the State which first incorporated these words into its fundamental law, the discovery seems soon to have been made that a State could not provide "All useful learning."

Either from this or some other cause, when the Constitution of Pennsylvania was was revised, several years later, (1790), Art. 7, Sec. 2, was made to read "The Arts and Sciences shall be promoted in one or more seminaries of learning." And it has been already noticed that the people of that State have promoted and encouraged the higher education for the most part on the Voluntary system.

The clause, thus repudiated by the State which originally adopted it, was retained in the North Carolina Constitution until this was changed after the civil war.

And the right of the State educational institutions of North Carolina to give "all useful learning" is, to this day, not tacitly assumed, but openly declared.

If the doctrines of the Christian religion are any part of useful learning, then this right may be openly and fearlessly challenged.

The language of Sec. 26 (last clause) of the North Carolina Declaration of Rights is as follows:—

"No human authority should, in any case whatever, control or interfere with the rights of conscience."

Whenever the State undertakes to teach or uphold by its authority any religious opinions which may not be held by some, even a few, of its citizens, it interferes with the rights of conscience. When it uses money raised by the taxation of all for giving instruction or exerting influence, directly or indirectly, which antagonizes the religious opinions of any, it controls the rights of conscience, for a citizen is not at liberty to decline to pay the taxes which are so used.

Now, the education provided by a State must either include some religious elements or exclude all religious elements.

But if some religious elements are included, the Constitution is violated.

And if all religious elements are excluded, the education is imperfect.

Hence the education provided by the State must either be in violation of the Constitution or imperfect.

But a State may not violate its Constitution.

Therefore, the education provided by a State must necessarily be imperfect; or, in other words, the State cannot provide "all useful learning."

The above is a restatement, in a different form, of the general line of argument pursued in the last article. This paper and the next of this series will be devoted to the further discussion of the several questions involved.

On Dec. 6th, 1776, after two months of what Thomas Jefferson, the champion of the movement, declared to be the severest contest in which he was ever engaged, the General Assembly of Virginia disestablished the Episcopal church.

It was then moved that a general tax be levied for the support of "teachers of the Christian religion." Decision was postponed. In 1779 the bill passed two readings, but was defeated on the third.

In 1784, just after the close of the Revolution, the same measure was urged again in "A Bill establishing a provision for Teachers of the Christian Religion." The bill was about to pass, when Madison, who stoutly opposed it all the way through, succeeded in having the final vote postponed.

The bill was printed and generally circulated among the people. Madison wrote a Memorial and Remonstrance, which is one of the ablest State papers of an era fertile in such productions. This was so largely signed by the people that the bill was defeated. Then was carried (Dec. 26th, 1785,) "The Act for establishing Religious Freedom," which Jefferson had prepared several years before.

Every American citizen ought to read Madison's Remonstrance. Cogent in logic, transparent in style, and felicitous in the elegant use of language, it ought to stand forever as a breakwater between the secular functions of the State and the sacred rights of conscience.

Fifteen distinct reasons are adduced why the Christian religion should no more be established than any one denomination of Christians should be. The third is as follows:—

"3. Because it is proper to take alarm at the first experiment upon our liberties. We hold this prudent jealousy to be the first duty of citizens, and one of the noblest characteristics of the late Revolution. The freemen of America did not wait till usurped power had strengthened itself by exercise, and entangled the question in precedents. They saw all the consequences in the principle; they avoided the consequences by denying the principle. We revere this lesson too much, to forget it soon.

"Who does not see that the same authority which can establish Christianity, in exclusion of all other religions, may establish, with the same ease, any particular sect of Christians, in exclusion of all other sects?" * *

Who does not see that the same authority which can declare that the religion mentioned in the State Constitution is the Christian religion, may, with equal ease, declare any particular sect of Christians to be recognized by the Constitution?

In his great speech in the North Carolina Constitutional Convention of 1835, Judge William Gaston—clarum et venerabile nomen,—sought to justify himself for occupying a position on Supreme bench, though he was a Roman Catholic, at a time when the Constitution forbade the holding of office to any man who denied the truth of the Protestant religion. The following paragraph is from that speech. If one will take the trouble to put the word Christian in the place of "Protestant" as he reads, he can apply the argument to the present discussion.

"Who shall judicially say what is the Protestant religion? If the Constitution defined the Protestant religion, or if the Protestant religion were made the religion of the country, and there were organized some ecclesiastical court or other proper tribunal, to determine its tenets and to decide on heresy, there would then be the means of legally determining what is that religion. But the Constitution does not define it, nor has it been made the religion of the State. Such a tribunal has not been established, nor, under the 34th Article of the Constitution, can it be erected. Innumerable sects, differing each from the other, in the interpretation of what all deem the revealed will of God—some holding for divine truth what others reject as pernicious error—are indiscriminately called and known as Protestants."

A message to the North Carolina legislature from the Governor of the State (January, 1893,) contains these words: "The university is a State institution as fully as the * * legislature or the courts."

If, then, a committee of the Trustees of the University may decide and publish to the world that the religion mentioned in the State Constitution is the Christian religion, the legislature and the courts may do the same.

This is not the place for any expression of the opinions which the writer of this paper may hold as to the comparative truth or value of the Christian religion. The question of comparative value or truth of forms of belief has nothing to do with the point at issue.

It is simply urged that the State, or any who act in the name of the State, have no right to discriminate between sects or to erect any tribunal for adjudication upon religious matters.

We are in the habit, perhaps, of thinking of Christianity only as including sects. But Christianity in itself only one among many sects under the larger generalization of religion. It is from this point of view that the Supreme Court of Wisconsin rightly decided that the Bible is a sectarian book.

The writer does not need to be reminded of the decisions of Mr. Justice Hammond, of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, "In re King," and of the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Trinity Church, N. Y., vs. the United States. He may have something to say in regard to these decisions hereafter, if it should become necessary.

Thos. Jefferson reported to the Commissioners of the University of Virginia (October 7th, 1822,) that provision had been made "for courses of ethical lectures, developing those moral obligations in which all sects agree; that proceeding thus far without offence to the constitution, they had left at this point to every sect to take into their own hands the office of further instruction in the peculiar tenets of each.

"It was not meant, however, to be understood that instruction in religious opinions and duties was meant to be precluded by the public authorities, as indifferent to the interests of society. On the contrary, the relations which exist between man and his Maker, and the duties arising from those relations, are the most interesting and important to every human being, and the most incumbent on his study and investigation. The want of instruction in the various creeds of religious faith existing among our citizens presents, therefore, a chasm in a general institution of the useful sciences. But it was thought that this want, and the intrustment to each society of instruction in its own doctrines, were evils of less danger than a permission to the public authorities to dictate modes or principles of religious instruction—or than opportunities furnished them of giving countenance or ascendency to any one sect over another." (Randall's Life of Jeff., Vol. III, p. 468.)

It would seem, moreover, that the teaching done by a State must not only be limited to secular instruction, but that all the branches of study which contain religious elements must be either eliminated or taught only in part. There is some difficulty in apprehending how even the ethical lectures mentioned by Jefferson can be provided by a State.

President Woolsey, of Yale, gives an elaborate discussion of the whole question. The following quotation is from his Political Science, (Vol. II, page 407, Scribners, 1877):

"But, besides this unwillingness of the denominations that one should have advantages from the State which all cannot enjoy, the trenchant principle of entire separation between Church and State will involve a divorce between the State and theological science, for the science itself will have closer connections with one church than with another. * * * We can hardly conceive, then, that a complete university can exist under State patronage in the United States.

"But, still further, how can History or Ethics be taught in a university, unless the professor expresses himself on great events like the Reformation or the Papacy of the Middle Ages, which have to do with the progress of mankind? Here, if all Protestants nearly are agreed, Catholics will differ from them entirely, and may justly urge that their opinions are attacked without having an opportunity to defend them. Thus, history cannot be taught, or must be taught by rival professors. * * Again, though it would naturally be thought at first that Mental and Moral Philosophy are a field where all theists can meet together, this is not found to be the case, and especially in Ethics will the freedom and responsibility of the individual man be subjects of conflict.

"Even in Great Britain it was thought necessary in the Dublin University Bill of 1873 to exclude the teaching, not only of Theology, but also of Morals and Metaphysics as a necessary part of instruction. * * Here we see one of the most enlightened men of the age consenting to urge through Parliament a mutilated university, one that belied its name, and this, we suppose, because he thought no other plan feasible. History with even greater reason should be excluded, for who could calculate the power of a man like Ranke, to spread convictions which he could not but utter, touching the very essence of Catholicism as tested by history. * * * Hence it would seem that there is an insuperable difficulty in the way of such State institutions which no time, no compromise can remove."

But at this point some one may be ready to ask: "What shall that man do who does not happen to belong to a religious denomination which has established a college? Must his son or daughter go without the advantages of a liberal education?"

These questions are answered by Bishop Haygood in the Methodist Quarterly Review, (July, 1893, page 510.)

"In the South undenominational colleges are State institutions, a curious notion existing that such as do not wish to patronize denominational colleges must depend on the State to solve the problem for them. It is very singular, yet true, that it seems never to have occurred to the worthy people who are unwilling to send their children to church schools, that they are not shut up to the alternative of asking the State to tax their neighbors, who do approve of denominational schools, to provide them with schools. The suggestion has been made to them that there is another way: they might establish schools to suit them with their own money."

And the late Bishop McTyeire has expressed nearly the same view, as follows: "It is held to be bad political economy for the State to charge itself with doing that which, if let alone, religious zeal and private munificence can and will do as well, and even better. There is a class, not without activity and influence, who affect breadth and elevation and, in the face of this axiom of political economy, cry out: 'What! must a great State be dependent on sectarian and private benevolence for the education of its sons?' Their exclamation goes for argument, ignoring the fact that the best literary institutions of this country had that origin. The anti church sect is the most intolerant of all the sects. These gentlemen have a way of getting into the management of all public trusts, and of dispensing or enjoying the patronage. If they wish godless and unsectarian colleges and universities, this is a free country; let them build and run them at their own expense. It is asking too much of a Christian people to do this for them."

We need to get rid of the idea that a State is under obligation to furnish education to any man, woman or child, except on the ground of necessity for its own protection and preservation. And it would be absurd to claim that the higher education is in any sense necessary to fit a man or woman for the discharge of the duties or the enjoyment of the privileges of citizenship.

In an address delivered in 1889, at Tremont Temple, Boston, Dr. Geo. D. Boardman of Philadelphia said: "Remembering now, that our American theory of government disavows the union of Church and State, it is evident that the State cannot thoroughly educate. For her to attempt this would be for her to overleap her jurisdiction. She has no right to invade the empire of her inner life, or to sceptre conscience and faith. Accordingly, the education which the State gives must be necessarily defective—defective, too, at the very point which is pivotal in man's career."

Dr. Nunnally, late President of Shorter University, Ga., has said: "The State can go no further than the question of moral and mind. For in the separation of Church and State—in the organic law of the State—it was expressly agreed that the State should never by law or edict or requirement, or demand anything that would in any wise affect the moral sense. The fear of the

[CONTINUED ON THE FOURTH PAGE.]

The Biblical Recorder.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1894.

REV. C. T. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
J. C. CADDELL, AGENT AND CORRESPONDENT.

SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION.

(CONTINUED FROM LAST ISSUE.)

Saturday morning's session was opened with prayer by Dr. Burleson. Dr. Nunnally of Memphis introduces a resolution to the effect that "the time has come when delegates to the Convention should have their expenses paid by the bodies sending them, or pay them themselves," which is defeated. The same matter was brought up repeatedly, but good sense finally disposed of it after quite an interesting struggle. The great argument in its behalf was that up to that time no city had asked for the Convention next year; and it was held that this was in consequence of the great task of entertainment of the body. However, the fact is accounted for in that all other cities presumed that Augusta, Ga., had the right to the Convention next year, because it met there half a century ago. We have it on good authority that at least two other cities would have invited us if it had been known that Augusta was hesitating. Moreover, the mayor of Augusta did invite us to that city next year; and if Dr. Lansing Burrows' fears may be overcome, it is probable that the Convention will celebrate its semi centennial there. We deplore the manifest tendency to make the Convention a financial affair. To make ability to contribute to objects and pay one's railway and hotel fare a measure of representation will estrange the poorer churches. We cannot afford to have it insinuated that poor people and poor churches may have no part in the Convention.

This matter having been disposed of, a communication from New Bethel church, Kentucky, is read. It condemns many methods, and deplores debt making; it is respectfully referred to the Boards.

The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary is next in order. The Board of Trustees of this institution had met the night previous for merely routine work, and elected Dr. Charles E. Taylor to succeed the lamented Col. Heck as trustee from North Carolina. No better appointment could have been made. Dr. Whitsitt was introduced as representative of the Seminary in the absence of Dr. Broadus. He stated that while the Seminary itself is on a sound financial basis, the ministers' aid fund is not; and his object this morning is to raise a collection for it. The students' fund has $36,000 invested on good interest, but this doesn't begin to meet the demands. It is now $3,000 in debt, which must be paid by June. After a good speech by Dr. Whitsitt and additional remarks by Dr. Kerfoot, $1,600 in cash and pledges were raised, and Dr. Whitsitt went his way rejoicing.

Next in order is the report on Home Mission work among our foreign population, and Bro. G. W. Hyde offers an encouraging report, and makes remarks. Several Indians are introduced: one addresses the Convention, and another—Jno. Jumper—a Confederate soldier, Indian chief, and preacher, leads in prayer. A song in the Creek tongue is sung by a quartette of Indians. The Indians were accompanied by Bro. Compere, superintendent of missions in New Mexico. Bro. McCombs follows with a short speech, in which he said the gospel had been disseminated among the "Five Tribes" largely by the Southern Baptist Convention. Home missionary Hogue is presented, and makes remarks. Dr. J. Wm. Jones introduces Rev. Alex. Marchand—ex-priest—missionary at El Paso, New Mexico. He makes a very stirring address portraying the need of a larger church building at his station, and Dr. Hatcher raises a collection of about $1,500 for the church at El Paso. The report was adopted.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The special order for this meeting is the Sunday-school Board. Bro. N. B. Broughton offers report on finances of the Board, and speaks to the report. This Board is a money-making one; and it needs only a larger patronage—which it highly deserves,—to increase its usefulness. It has existed only three years and has made a profit of $14,000, which has been contributed to the work. On another occasion during the Convention Dr. Bell contributed $1,000 to foreign missions from the Sunday school Board receipts. Bro. D. B. Gray of Alabama reads report on missionary and benevolent features of the Board. The Board has made a yearly profit of $4,000 on a $48,000 business. If the volume of business is increased to $100,000, the profits—which go to worthy objects—will be more than proportionately larger, as the clerical expense does not be greatly increased. "Commune with the business of our Sunday-school Board is its benevolence." Speeches are made on this report by Drs. Hatcher, Ford, Frost, and Prof. Rothwell; and it was adopted.

And now we have to chronicle one of the discounts of the Convention: Justin D. Fulton is introduced; he makes some lurid remarks; he makes more on Sunday afternoon, and still more on Sunday night. We are opposed to Romanism; but we do not approve Fulton. A more ardent South-defamer never lived.

SATURDAY NIGHT

was devoted to a Home Mission mass meeting, Vice-President J. Wm. Jones presiding. Dr. D. I. Purser reads report on missions in cities, and draws practical lessons from his city, New Orleans. The two main obstacles are found (1) in the tendency of our sons and daughters to follow "society" away from the churches, and (2) in that it is sometimes believed that only those men who are unable to secure good pastorates engage in city mission work. Dr. McGregor speaks well in an effort to rouse interest in the city work. "God made the country, man made the city." He submits some interesting statistics, showing very hopeful progress, and a great Baptist increase. "Christ dictated seven letters to seven cities on earth from heaven." Report adopted.

Gov. Northen of Georgia next reads report on work among the negroes. A telegram of greeting from the Virginia Baptist State Convention (colored) is read. Gov. Northen says the proper adjustment of the condition of the negro at the South is the social problem of this country, and the most important question connected with our enterprise of Home Missions. The Convention telegraphs Ephesians 2: 15-23 in reply to the telegram of the Virginia negroes. Rev. C. C. Brown of South Carolina takes the floor in opposition to the report. He contends that the negroes do not need more preachers nor churches, but they do need an educated ministry. He asks for more work for the negroes and fewer speeches. Rev. F. C. McConnell follows in his usual vigorous style. He says "we Baptists will not be able to preach social equality in ten thousand years." The report is adopted.

At this point a resolution of regret relative to Dr. Tupper's resignation as Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, is unanimously adopted. Another, urging the advisability of beginning mission work in Palestine, is referred to the Foreign Board; and another, that means be devised to effect that church members give one-tenth of their incomes to the Lord's work, are adopted.

ON SUNDAY

the Baptists stormed and occupied the city and surrounding country, some of the brethren filling pulpits more than one hundred miles distant. There were about thirty appointments. We heard Dr. Hawthorne in the morning, and are inclined to think that he was not at his best. His sermon was a good one, however. At night we heard one of the best sermons of our life by Rev. Carter Helm Jones, at the conclusion of which there were several professions of religion.

MONDAY MORNING.

After prayer by Bro. Woody of the Pacific Baptist, the report on admitting Oregon State is read by Rev. W. C. Taylor. It is unfavorable to this State, and is adopted.

Bro. Stout of South Carolina offers a report on woman's work for Foreign Missions. There is no agency known to the committee that does more work at less expense than the Woman's Missionary Union. Total receipts from woman's missionary societies for Home Missions, $21,613; for Foreign Missions, $23,514, which makes a grand total of more than any year except the Centennial. The Woman's Missionary Union works entirely under the two Mission Boards. The work is highly commended. Dr. R. H. Graves of China spoke of the women missionaries in China in very high terms. E. Y. Mullins of Maryland made an earnest plea for that department of the work, which is devoted to distributing tracts—the Baltimore Mission Rooms. He is followed by Bro. Inman of Tennessee. [At this point D. A. Bridges of Texas, a Wake Forest graduate, loome up with a crying baby in his arms, and holds it before the view of the great crowd in hope that its mother may identify it. The lost is found, and the Convention proceeds with the report on Treasurer's report of Home Board.] The debt is stated at $6,516.61. The report is read by Bro. Almond of Lynchburg, Va., who is introduced as an "ex-Hardshell, who has become an ardent mission worker."

At this point, Dr. H. Allan Tupper of the committee on time, place and preachers for the next Convention reports Friday before the second Sunday in May as the time; place to be determined by the Boards of the Convention; introductory sermon by Dr. George B. Eager; semi-centennial historical sermon, by Dr. Whitsitt.

Dr. Kerfoot of the Seminary reports for the committee on Finances of the Foreign Mission Board. The Convention is to be congratulated on the remarkably clear statement of the Treasurer of the Board. The total amount collected is very gratifying. The Board has shown a commendable effort to curtail expenses by reducing salaries at home, and those of some of the missionaries. The committee did not approve all these reductions, while it recognized the worthy spirit which made them possible. Attention is called to the fact that pastors allow the first part of the year to pass without taking collections for the Foreign Mission Board. It is hoped they will take collections oftener, and take them at regular intervals. Only five of the States are mentioned as keeping collected money back for expenses of State Secretaries. In the Western North Carolina Convention as much as seventy per cent. of the Foreign Mission money has been used to pay expenses of collecting. This is not now the case, we believe. In Texas twenty per cent. of the money collected never reaches the Board. Every cent of money collected for Foreign Missions should be sent to foreign fields, except a necessary minimum of expense. It is recommended that the State agencies make reports to the Boards, if they continue their work. Next in the report was a timely reference to the tendency of some Vice-Presidents of the Foreign Board to become merely "ornamental." We need co-operating Vice Presidents. It is recommended that we use the excellent facilities offered by the Woman's Missionary Union for reaching the masses; that the debt be raised, and the Secretary be instructed to appeal to every Association to aid somewhat in raising it. Dr. Whitsitt, Prof. H. H. Harris and Dr. Willingham made speeches, the latter referring tenderly to the late Sister Yates. A collection is taken amounting to $15,500, including $5,000 subscribed by the Woman's Missionary Union, payable Aug. 1st. The Board is instructed to "go forward" with the work.

Dr. Cranfil tries to retaliate on Dr. Hawthorne and Gov. Northen with anti-Romanist resolutions. They are wisely laid on the table, as the Convention thinks it is rather late for Baptists to be condemning Roman Catholicism. Some counter resolutions—equally out of date—relative to the Baptist idea of religious liberty are introduced by a nervous Bro. Coleman. They, too, fall in the committee. A resolution condemnatory of the Louisiana State Lottery of Honduras and Florida is passed.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETIES

were the special order for Monday afternoon, and the discussion gave rise to the spicest contest of the Convention. The committee—Dr. Lansing Burrows, chairman—submitted a conservative, but rather loosely constructed set of resolutions and suggestions relative to the young people's work. It advises the organization of societies; it thinks them good agencies for the study of the Bible and denominational history; that they be under authority of the churches. Dr. Eaton desired to amend with the following clause: "That we recommend that the societies organized in any church exist by authority of that church; that they do such work as the church may appoint, and that they have no outside allegiance." There is very little difference between the report and Bro. Eaton's amendment; yet we believe an expressed declaration against a national organization or a State organization, would be wholesome; and that was Dr. Eaton's object. Drs. Burrows, Speight, Frost, Gambrell, Hawthorne, Cranfill, McConnell and Landrum spoke for the report, Drs. Eaton and McGregor for the amendment. The latter was rejected after a hard struggle, which might have been decided differently, had Dr. Eaton been allowed time to dispel prejudice and refute the arguments of his opponents. The vote against the amendment was 198 against, 141 for. We congratulate the Convention that it did not allow the zeal of the Y. P. S. brethren to commit it more deeply.

MONDAY NIGHT.

Signs of waning are apparent; some delegates have returned; others are on excursion trips; others are tired out. But the general audience is almost as large as ever, and it anticipates an interesting evening upon Papal and Pagan lands. Gov. Northen presides. Bro. D. M. Ramsay of South Carolina reads report on the former, Dr. Green, chairman of committee, being absent. The work in Italy, Brazil and Mexico is hopeful. In Italy and Brazil, it is seed time; in Mexico, the reapers are busy. Great opposition is met in Italy, and no little in Brazil, while Mexico is comparatively open and appreciative. Rev. P. H. Goldsmith, who has spent the last three years in Mexico, speaks to the report; he is followed by missionary C. D. Daniel.

Bro. Wall introduced Dr. R. H. Graves of China, who makes an interesting address. He is followed by Bro. R. T. Bryan, who had scarcely twenty minutes in which to speak, owing to the late hour and the additional fact that a collection was to be taken. Yet he caught the ear of the audience at once, and used his few minutes to such good advantage that at the close of his effort Dr. Hatcher succeeded in increasing the collection of the morning session to more than $18,000. Dr. Hatcher's reference to Dr. Willingham was peculiarly appropriate.

THE LAST SESSION.

Speeches are limited to five minutes. Frontier Missions is the special order. Report by R. T. Hanks of Texas, spoken to by G. A. Lofton and Millet, (missionary to New Mexico). Adopted.

In the absence of Dr. A. J. Holt, Bro. P. T. Hale of Alabama submits report on ways and means of increasing contributions. "Every member of every church, every week, every object, seems to be the apostolic idea. If Baptists gave the tithe of their incomes it would not be many years before the world would be evangelized." It is emphasized that we are not seeking increase of contributions, but of contributors. Brethren Brown of Alabama, Kerfoot of Kentucky, Ellis of Maryland, Vardaman of Kentucky, Harris of Virginia, took part in a very interesting discussion.

The committee on resolutions endorses the resolution that 10,000 copies of the minutes be printed; and it is so passed.

The committee on enrollment reports 758 delegates enrolled during the session.

At this stage a Dallas Christian pastor reads a communication from "The Christian church,"—sometimes called Disciples, and again "Campbellites,"—looking to a basis of union. Dr. Hawthorne moves that a committee be appointed to respond to the Disciples in a brotherly and courteous manner at their annual meeting in Richmond, Va., in next October, and inform them that the Southern Convention has no authority over churches; that it cannot commit any church to organic union; and to show our appreciation of the courtesy of the communication. It is adopted.

The officers of the Boards are announced as follows:—

Pres. Foreign Mission Board—Prof. H. H. Harris.

Vice-Pres. for North Carolina—Rev. R. Van Deventer.

Secretary—Dr. R. J. Willingham.

Pres. Home Board—Hon. W. J. Northen.

Vice-Pres. for North Carolina—Elder R. T. Vann.

Secretary—Dr. I. T. Tichenor.

(Assistant Secretary to be elected by the Board.)

Pres. Sunday-school Board—Rev. J. M. Frost.

Vice-Pres. for North Carolina—Dr. C. Durham.

Secretary—Dr. T. P. Bell.

The committee on resolutions recommends the resolution to appoint a committee to consider the advisability of dividing the Convention be non concurred in; and so it is. It also recommends that the resolution to consolidate the Home Field and Foreign Mission Journal, making the consolidated publication the organ of both Boards, be adopted.

All business having been disposed of, and an ineffectual attempt of Dr. Hawthorne to bring the question of representation once more before the body having been quashed after much talk, the Convention adjourned sine die.

Dallas did well by us. We wanted for nothing; and the people came away highly pleased with the city. About one hundred excursionists went on last Wednesday 1,200 miles further to the city of Mexico.

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE S. B. C.

Pres. W. R. Rothwell of William Jewell College, Mo., called this body to order on the morning of the 10th. In the absence of Secretary Thos. Hume of North Carolina, Prof. P. H. Eager of Baylor Female College, Texas, serves pro tem. Distinguished educators are enrolled representing almost every Baptist educational institution in the Convention.

"The Education of Girls" is introduced by Prof. P. H. Eager, who reviewed the history of education in Egypt, India, China, Persia, and among the Romans. He showed that in those countries female education was neglected. Catholic convents first provided for the education of women, and the Reformation multiplied them. This system was very limited; and the present system was developed at Vassar. There are yet 72 boys in colleges and universities to every 21 girls. He advocated a modified system of co education, holding that the system was yet in the experimetal stage. The question was discussed by President J. D. Robnett of Howard Payne College, and Dr. R. C. Burleson, who are radical co educationalists.

At the afternoon session the election of officers was held, resulting as follows: President, W. R. Rothwell; First Vice-President, Dr. J. B. Gambrell of Mercer University; Second Vice President, G. W. Savage of Tennessee; Secretary, P. H. Eager. Advisory Committee: Dr. Thos. Hume, Chm., Dr. F. H. Kerfoot, Prof. Chas. L. Cocke.

Prof. W. A. Harris of Baylor University on "The Proper Curriculum for Secondary Schools." He urged commercial training. Prof. Harris also spoke to the report of the committee of ten from American colleges and schools. Dr. H. H. Harris of Richmond, Va., followed. Dr. H. H. Harris was called to the chair, and President Rothwell delivered an address, "Shall the denominational college supply a theological course for those who do not attend the Seminary." He thought it would be well for the leading Baptist college in each State to do so; and he is, in our opinion, right. Dr. J. H. Luther endorsed President Rothwell's views. President Greene of William Jewell College followed, saying that a Bible, a Baptist hymn book and Webster's dictionary were a young preacher's weapons. Dr. Ely favored a theological department in all the higher institutions, whether for women or men. Dr. Burleson said he thought the Bible should be a text book in all schools, and cited several practical instances showing ignorance of Holy Writ on the part of highly educated men. After remarks by Dr. Harris of Virginia, and Dr. Jarrell of Texas, the fourth annual educational conference adjourned, having enjoyed an instructive and harmonious session.

CAUGHT FROM THE SPEAKERS.

The woman missionary workers are in many ways examples to us men.—Dr. Graves.

Their loyalty to the teaching of the word of God has made Baptists what they are to-day.—Dr. Ellis.

All the Baptists in the world are doing only 9 per cent. of mission work in China.—R. T. Bryan.

Christian science is the most unscientific of sciences, most unchristian of christianities.—J. B. Hawthorne.

What we need to-day is not more machinery, but more persistent teaching of the Scriptures.—Dr. Kerfoot.

In 1800 there was one evangelical man to every fourteen; in 1880 one to every five; in 1884 one to each 4½.—Dr. McGregor.

Others may have numbers if they want them, but in God's name let us seek Christians.—E. E. Folk on Representation.

The moment we begin to assert our ownership we misinterpret our relation to Christ. He owns us and all we have.—Dr. Ellis.

We have no creed, no authority to establish a creed. What makes Baptist unity? Not creeds, but a Life.—Dr. H. H. Harris.

Religion never hindered the progress of any important enterprise; it never hurt any man; irreligion is the great evil.—Governor Northen.

I hear three distinct voices: Send us the gospel; men and women say send me; God cries "Go forward, go forward."—Dr. Willingham.

Pastors have in their Sunday-schools—speaking wholly of human instrumentalities—the mightiest lever that there is.—J. M. Frost, D. D.

The fundamental idea in our teaching—especially of children—should be: "It is more blessed to give than to receive."—Dr. W. E. Hatcher.

From what portion of the Bible do you get the idea that pastors must look after the spirituality, and deacons after the temporality of flocks?—Dr. Harris.

The Romanists don't know the brotherhood of Jesus; they place him on crosses and in paintings, but never bring him to their hearts.—Alex Marchand.

The pastor should not treat his flock as passive beings, lacking even digestive organs. He should lead them to pastures, but not eat their food for them.—Dr. Harris.

Any man can lead a horse to water, but ten men cannot make one drink: scatter literature and people will help you—scatter it, make them pay for it, and it will be read.—Dr. Harris.

We should not forget to work and to pray for Catholics in our own land,—i. e. by increase of mission schools,—while we are sending workers to papal fields.—P. H. Goldsmith.

A young missionary who goes to China to day can learn the language in half the time it required one in former years.—R. T. Bryan. That is some of Dr. Yates' work, we presume.

There are three strands to the rope that draws the car of missions,—Knowing, Praying, Giving. We are in the preparatory department of missionary mathematics.—E. Y. Mullens.

That collection for Foreign Missions conducted by Dr. Willingham was done in splendid manner and spirit; it possessed a much more dignity than collections sometimes do.—Dr. F. M. Ellis.

The income of Southern Baptists is $300,000,000 annually. They spend $10,000,000 for churches, $1,000,000 for missions and benevolence. Where is the balance of the tithe—where is the $289,000,000?—Dr. McGregor.

Some years ago it was said that the Vice-Presidents of the Foreign Mission Board were the right arm of the Board. Can we say it now?—Dr. Whitsitt. We can say it of Bro. Van Deventer, but do not care to trust ourselves further.

We want this great Baptist host linked together in indissoluble bonds; and money will not serve that purpose;—not a mere society, not a stock company, but a great representative body that represents the Baptists of the South.—J. B. Hawthorne.

There is nothing right in religion that isn't 1800 years old. The Bible doesn't change. The most dangerous tendency of the times is that which fosters the idea that the simple plain gospel is not practical to the exigencies of these times.—Dr. Eaton.

I beg to remind you, brethren, that all the bases of representation since the day of Wm. Carey have been financial; and since this Convention organized, forty-nine years ago, it has been on a financial basis.—Dr. Harris. Perhaps it is time to change. What was the basis 1800 years ago?

I have been in the darkness of Romanism fourteen years; I thank God for the present light.—Ex Priest Marchand. The same man says we could have 100,000 Mexican converts from Romanism if we had the buildings and the proper laborers, and the testimony of those who know him is very strong in support of this statement.

EXTRACTS FROM AN UNSPOKEN SPEECH.

North Carolina should be congratulated. The Southern Baptist Convention went no further than did our State Convention in commending Young People's Societies. The resolutions are much alike.

Some people cannot get before a Convention except by introducing "big" men. This is meant for him who introduced Justin Fulton, D. D., et al.

Dr. S. H. Ford has attended the Convention forty-nine years, and last week he was young enough to make a splendid speech when the occasion arose.

Some people call it business, others energy; we call it "nerve,"—that dedication of a Convention issue of a Baptist paper to an advertiser with editorial free (?).

Baptists should not be allowed to go to the Convention to lecture, attracting the delegates from the sessions of the body. To lecture the night before is, of course, in order.

The hymns raised during the Convention were very appropriate and always restful and comforting. They seemed almost spontaneous at times. Bro. Penn's solo's were well done.

There is great need for more extensive knowledge of Mell's Parliamentary Practice among us. The president of a body is not the only one who should be thoroughly acquainted with parliamentary rules.

It has been said that there can be no greater hypocrite than he who looks as if he knew more than is possible for ten men to know. Surely all the exceptions to this rule must have attended the Convention.

That was a mighty voice that responded when Dr. Harris asked all, who were willing to put their shoulders to the wheel and say "Go forward," to rise. Dr. Ellis' prayer and the song that followed were indeed inspiring.

This Convention is more to be congratulated for what it refused to do than for what it did. Its work was for the most part routine; there were no great speeches, but it was saved from dangerous action on more than one occasion.

Dr. H. A. Tupper had served us as Secretary of the Foreign Board twenty one years. He has held the helm in trying times, and his mistakes were very few. We were not surprised that the vote of acknowledgment of regret was so hearty.

When Dr. J. A. Speight, speaking on young people's societies, stated that he would go five miles for a drink of water after preaching a sermon, a good Virginia brother near us murmured, "I wonder how far his congregation would go"!

Alas, alas, the Baptists have a heresy hunter. He sat rather high up during the Convention, and at one time in a great, gruff voice called something "rankest heresy." But no more attention was given him than usual, and the matter dropped.

Let all Baptists determine now whether Bro. Eaton of the Western Recorder is a prophet or not. He says that within one month it will be told far and near that the Southern Baptist Convention has endorsed a national organization of young people.

Should the Baptist historian of the latter days of the twentieth century happen to have to use our "great" Texas papers for reference, he would probably hand it down to twenty first century Baptists that John Milton, Lansing Burrows, and an insurance agent of Waco, named Pruett, were our greatest men.

Sometime since the RECORDER contained a number of appointments of brethren Bryan and Durham to speak in our State. A Western paper was inclined to think that we were so far behind as to need missionaries. What does the same paper have to say by way of explaining the efforts of half a dozen missionaries at Dallas?

Dr. J. B. Cranfil may be a good practitioner, but some of his theological remedies are to be guarded against. Bro. McConnell did the denomination a great service when he condemned that pusillanimous idea of "counter-irritants" in the Lord's work. Because other churches have evil things is no reason why we should adopt a counterwill.

Speaking of the Secretary of the Convention, one brother called him the Ursus Major of the body; another said his morals must be better than his manners; another, that we must overlook his faults, as they were of the de natura bestiæ type. Still some people should be made to know that some other people are accustomed to civil treatment whether they are mere reporters or not.

Woman's Missionary Union.

This body, auxiliary to the Southern Baptist Convention, met in its sixth annual session in the First Baptist church of Dallas, Texas, at 9:30 o'clock, Friday, May 11th.

After devotional exercises led by Mrs. F. B. Davis of San Antonio, Texas, the address of welcome was made by Mrs. C. H. Briggs of Dallas, and responded to by Mrs. C. J. Jones of Tennessee.

Mrs. W. J. Brown of Maryland, President pro tem., read the annual address of the President of the Union, Miss Fannie E. Heck, Raleigh, N. C., the late severe illness of the President preventing her attendance on the meeting. Miss Armstrong, Corresponding Secretary, spoke feelingly of the suffering and sorrow through which Miss Heck had passed. This began with last year and has continued for nearly the whole year. We have seen her break down, and in God's providence she can not be with us. She expressed Miss Heck's great sorrow at not being with them, and asked the Recording Secretary to read a letter from Miss Heck. Mrs. J. L. Burnham of Missouri led in prayer for Miss Heck. On motion of Mrs. Thomas Osborne, the following telegram was sent to her: "Love and sympathy. Romans 8: 28; 3 John 1: 3."

Miss Annie Armstrong, Cor. Sec., read her annual report, which showed as contributed through the "Union" to the Foreign Board, $26,516 99; to the Home Board, $21,613 60; total, $45,128.59, loss by $17,306 than the Centennial year, but $846 more than the previous year. Two hundred and eleven boxes, valued at $11,827, were sent last year to Home missionaries against 180, valued at $8,332, the year before. Eighteen beds had been furnished at a cost of $35 each in the Cuban hospital. The hospital had been moved into larger quarters and could now accommodate one hundred patients. Much work had been done among the foreign population and among the colored people, through Bible classes, mothers' meetings, sewing schools, &c. There had been 15,255 letters sent out from the headquarters in Baltimore; 52,368 mite boxes, and more than 254,000 leaflets, envelopes, programs, &c. Missionary Day, established last fall at the request of the Home, Foreign and Sunday-school Boards, was fast becoming a recognized "day" among the Sunday-schools. The Union was called to mourn the death of Mrs. L. B. Telford, Florida, former Vice-President from that State, and of our oldest missionary, Mrs. Eliza M. Yates. They welcomed their youngest member, the Central Committee of the Baptist Convention of Western North Carolina, whose consecrated President, Miss Lottie Price, was awaiting her departure as missionary to China.

Mrs. Wilson led in a prayer of thanksgiving for the good report.

Dr. F. C. McConnell, Assistant Secretary of the Home Board, spoke on the plans of work suggested by that Board to the Union.

Mrs. S. A. Moore, wife of a frontier missionary, told of the hardships and privations of that life, and the joy and comfort brought by a missionary box sent by a W. M. Society.

Mrs. Proctor spoke of the necessity of a girls' school in Cuba.

In the afternoon the ladies of Dallas gave a reception at the Oriental Hotel to the ladies in attendance on the Union.

Saturday.—The meeting was opened by devotional exercises led by Mrs. Wilson of Atlanta.

The State reports of Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland and South Carolina were read.

Miss M. A. McIntosh of South Carolina opened the discussion on State Central Committee methods, laying stress on the work of Associational Vice Presidents, the general distribution of missionary literature, the necessity of a fund for Central Committee expenses, &c. Other ladies followed giving plans which had proved especially successful in the various States. Several emphasized the advisability of personal visits to societies; others, the importance of Association Vice Presidents; and others, that all the work of the society should be regarded as church work and reported through the churches.

A most interesting feature of the day was a model Band Meeting conducted by Miss Agnes Osborne of Fort Worth, the children having come over with their leader from that city.

Recommendations of the Foreign Board were presented by Rev. R. J. Willingham, Corresponding Secretary of the Foreign Board.

Sunday afternoon was given almost wholly to talks by missionaries,—Miss J. Johnson of Brazil, Mrs. R. H. Graves of China, Rev. R. T. Bryan of China, and Rev. A. March and of New Mexico, being present.

Monday.—Mrs. Sallie Rochester Ford opened the meeting with devotional exercises.

The remaining State reports—North Carolina, Tennessee and Western North Carolina—were received.

Dr. Willingham, with apologies for again appearing before them, spoke of the debt of $30,000 on the Foreign Board. Twelve new missionaries had been sent out during the year. The debt must be taken from the Board. He was not hopeless. It would be paid. He wanted the Union to aid by raising $5,000.

Miss Armstrong said the sum asked was a large one. If we were called upon to raise it, the call was from God not man. She felt we were called to this work and could perform it. While recognizing the fact that neither the Union nor the representatives of the various States had power to pledge funds, they could pledge their earnest endeavors towards raising this amount. She suggested that the amounts be raised by appeals to individuals. Were there not women who could and would give one hundred dollars? Could you not give that? She made the following suggestion of division among the States: Alabama, $500; Arkansas, $100; Florida, $150; Georgia, $600; Kentucky, $400; Louisiana, $50; Mississippi, $250; Missouri, $300; Maryland, $300; North Carolina, $350; South Carolina, $600; Tennessee, $300; Texas, $500; Virginia, $700. A number of ladies from the different States expressed themselves as determined to do all in their power to raise the amount of the debt ask of the Union.

Dr. T. P. Bell, Secretary of the Sunday-school Board, spoke of the missionary features of that Board and of Sunday school Mission Day. In addition to the page given in each issue of Kind Words to missions, Miss Alice Armstrong, editor of that department, would have a monthly program for the use of children's missionary societies. They were to have also a special department given to stimulate Bible study.

A basket of questions asked during the meetings were answered by a number of ladies.

The annual election of officers for the ensuing year closed the proceedings of the meeting.

Miss Heck, on account of her health, had requested that her name should not be used in connection with the office of President.

The election resulted in the election of Mrs. H. M. Gwathney, Richmond, Va., President; Miss Annie W. Armstrong, Baltimore, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. F. M. Ellis, Baltimore, Recording Secretary; Miss Sarah Tyler, Baltimore, Treasurer. A Vice-President from each State was elected, Miss Fannie E. Heck being elected from North Carolina.

The sixth annual meeting of the Union closed by singing "Blessed be the tie that binds" amid many tears and farewells.

PERSONALS AND OTHER ITEMS.

....Fifteen persons were baptized in the Murfreesboro Baptist church on the 18th.

....The colored Baptists of Virginia met in annual session at Lynchburg, Va., on the 11th inst.

....We were glad to see Rev. W. C. Tyree of Durham in Raleigh on his way home from the Convention.

....Rev. L. G. Broughton of Roanoke, Va., is assisting Rev. J. L. White in a series of meetings at Asheville.

....The complete minutes of the Southern Baptist Convention reached us early Monday morning! Good work.

....Rev. J. T. Jenkins, evangelist, preached a special sermon at the Broad Street church, Winston, last Sunday.

....Rev. E. W. Oakes who held some meetings in this State not long ago has gone on a four months' trip to Europe.

....Rev. C. S. Gardner of Nashville, Tenn., has been called to the vacant Greenville, S. C., pastorate. He will probably accept.

....The National Baptist, Dr. Henry Wayland, editor, has been sold to the Examiner. For twenty years it has failed to pay expenses.

....Rev. P. H. Goldsmith, missionary to Mexico, has given up his field on account of his wife's health, and will remain permanently in this country.

....We were very glad to see Dr. Tichenor looking better than we ever saw him at the Convention. Newspaper reports led us to think him a sick man.

....Rev. A. C. Jenkins is assisting Bro. R. T. Vann in a series of meetings at Scotland Neck. Bro. Jenkins' held a meeting there about six months ago.

....The First Baptist and West End Sunday schools of Raleigh will picnic at Mebane on May 31st, 1894. The Tabernacle will have an excursion to Wilmington, June 5th.

....Rev. E. Pendleton Jones, missionary to Cuba, has returned to this country for the Summer, as the doctor thinks it advisable that he keep out of Cuba until the fall.

....Dr. Taylor's articles will be concluded in our next issue. We desire to publish many letters immediately thereafter. Brother, if you have an opinion, let us hear from you.

....Dr. J. B. Powers of Wake Forest stopped over to see us on his way home from the Convention of the State Medical Association which met in Greensboro last week.

....The Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer states that Dr. A. A. Maynard of Anson county has applied to the Foreign Mission Board to be appointed a missionary to China.

....The courtesy of an invitation to the closing exercises of the Littleton High School and Business Institute, May 30th, is acknowledged. Henry Blount will deliver the address.

....We were glad to see Drs. A. G. McManaway, C. E. W. Dobbs, Revs. G. W. Gardner, Jno. A. Wray and Oscar Haywood—all known well to our readers—at the Convention.

....Prof. J. L. Kesler, a former North Carolinian, and a graduate of Wake Forest College, has become one of the associate editors of the Southwestern Baptist, Brownwood, Texas.

....We failed to mention the names of several of the North Carolinians at the Convention. Rev. M. A. Jenkins, Brethren J. D. Boone, J. T. Jordan, Dr. H. T. Chapin and Dr. J. W. Rollins were there.

....We were glad to have a short visit last Friday from Pastor Gwaltney, who was on his return from Prof. Fox's school near Burlington, where he delivered an address to a very large audience on "Be Yourself."

....We learn from the Morganton Herald that the meeting at that place begun by Rev. E. F. Jones with Bro. Patton the first of the month was continued through last week. Thirteen candidates have been baptized.

....Dr. J. W. Justice, formerly of this county, but late of Memphis, Tenn., died suddenly at his home on the 11th inst. He leaves many friends and relatives in this community. He was the eldest son of the late David Justice.

....Rev. L. Finch writes from Biltmore: "We began a meeting here on Wednesday night last. Rev. Vernon Anson of Marion, Va., is with us and doing some fine preaching. We are hoping and praying for good results. Pray for us."

....The Winston Sentinel says that Pastor H. A. Brown went out to Walkertown Monday to assist in the organization of a Baptist church. Sunday afternoon Rev. S. F. Conrad administered the ordinance of baptism at that place.

....The Salisbury Herald of the 18th states that the meeting in Rev. N. S. Jones' church is increasing in interest. Rev. J. R. Jones, who is assisting, has been slightly unwell, but is preaching. There have been a number of conversions.

....Rev. S. D. Swaim baptized eight young men and the same number of young ladies recently as a result of a meeting at his church at Masonboro, in which Bro. L. R. Carroll assisted him. He writes: "Bro. Carroll is a power for good in the pulpit and out of it."

....Bro. J. M. Hilliard writes us a postal as follows: "Last Saturday night I baptized three sisters into the fellowship of Thomasville Baptist church. The good work commenced by Bro. Church here in April still goes on, though Bro. Church left us about four weeks ago."

....Rev. M. P. Davis of Wake Forest College preached the first sermon in the new Baptist church at Creedmoore, Granville county, recently. The building cost about $1,200 and will be entirely finished this month.

....News of a revival meeting with Bro. J. D. Moore's Beaufort church in which Rev. J. T. Jenkins assisted has reached us. It was a splendid meeting, forty united with the Baptist church; and Bro. Moore is rejoicing. We will have a letter from him in our next issue.

....The annual report credits $6,364.14 to North Carolina from May, '93, to May 1, '94 for Foreign Missions. The Western N. C. Convention contributed $248.61, of which $182.53 was retained by the Convention official. We gave to Home Missions, $2,489 00, $600 being the Centennial fund.

....President Taylor of Wake Forest College is attending a great Educational Convention at Saratoga, N. Y., this week. The question of State aid will be discussed; and we dare say there will be no more profound authority on the subject there than our brother. Read his article in this issue: it is of prime importance.

....We were glad to have a visit from Bro. Baylus Cade last week. He preached two good sermons for Bro. Simms' flock Sunday. He says the new Franklinton Baptist church, to which he is devoting his energies, will be finished this fall, and will be the nicest building of its kind in this section, not excepting Raleigh edifices.

....The following statements taken from the President's report to the Board of Trustees of our Southern Baptist Theological Seminary should be of interest: The institution has $401,502,02 in interest bearing bonds; real estate to the value of about $500,000. General receipts during the present school year aggregated $61,608.44.

....Rev. J. K. Fant while at Enfield on Sunday last awaked in the morning to find that one side of his body was paralyzed. He returned home at once. He is not confined to his room, and is able to walk about the yard. We hope with many friends and pray for his speedy recovery. He is under the care of Dr. Browning.—Littleton Courier.

....Dr. Talmage's house of worship, with a debt on it of more than $300,000 was destroyed by fire on the 13th. This is the third time Talmage has lost splendid houses of worship by fire in Brooklyn. He says he will not attempt to build another until he has $289,000 in the bank. No more debt and disgrace for him. He is now on a tour around the world, and will write another book, we presume.

....Bro. J. H. Hildreth, under date of May 15th, 1894, writes: "Bro. E. J. Edwards of Williamston, N. C., was with us in a meeting here last week. He did some good preaching, but he had to leave just as the meeting got good started. We have received one by letter and two for baptism as a result of the meeting. We want to have another meeting here (Southport) some time in the near future."

....Dr. H. A. Royster, the talented son of Bro. W. L. Royster, M. D., of this city, was among the number of those who secured licenses at the recent meeting of the State Board of Medical Examiners. He was also the successful contestant for the Appleton prize—a very high honor. Bro. Royster is a graduate of Wake Forest College and the University of Pennsylvania. We hope he will practice in our State.

....The Chowan Association meets this week with Shady Grove church, Currituck county. It will probably be largely attended, and we are sure it will repay any one to attend it. Dr. Durham and Bro. Bryan will be there. The old Chowan is a banner Baptist organization in North Carolina, and we greatly regret that we cannot accept the kind invitation of the brethren to attend. Bro. Caddell will represent us.

....Brother and Sister J. A. Beam of Bethel Hill Institute have our thanks for a beautiful invitation card, with programme, to the annual commencement of the Institute, May 30th and 31st. Rev. W. C. Tyree will preach the sermon on the 30th; an entertainment at night, same date; W. W. Kitchin, Esq., of Roxboro, delivers the address Thursday; declamation and recitations afternoon; concert, night of same date.

....Recent Society elections at Wake Forest College have resulted as follows: Representative Philomathesian orator—W. C. Newton; Euzelian, Raleigh T. Daniel; first debaters, John Kerr, I. S. Boyles; second debaters, I. M. Meekins, R. G. Rozier; Secretary of debate, Jno. R. Moore; President of debate, Wm. Royall, Jr. Brethren Yates and Billings will represent the institution at the Teachers' Assembly intercollegiate debate.

....Bro. D. L. Gore of Wilmington writes under date of May 14th, as follows: "I have read the first page, your editorials, and Dr. Taylor's letter; indeed I have read all his letters on the State's help to colleges, and I think I can say amen to all he says on the subject. Your first article on the unrest, and the next where Mr. Stevenson (V. P.) could cover himself with glory, I think both good. I hope you will put in a word for a free ballot. I want all good men to do all they can for honesty in elections."

....Bro. S. D. Swaim informs us that a presbytery, consisting of Revs. W. R. Oliver, R. E. Peele, and S. D. Swaim met on the 17th inst. at the request of Burgaw church to examine and set apart to the full work of the ministry Rev. R. W. Harrell. After a thorough and satisfactory examination the ordination took place in Bro. Peele's church. The sermon was preached by Bro. Oliver, the prayer offered by Bro. Peele, and the charge delivered by Bro. Swaim. Bro. Harrell is pastor of four churches and his people are very much pleased with his services.

....The following is the programme of the commencement exercises of Chowan Baptist Female Institute: Monday, May 28, Class Day; Tuesday, Baccalaureate Sermon by Rev. R. T. Bryan; Tuesday evening, Recital, Schools of Elocution and Delsarte; Wednesday, Delivery of Diplomas; Annual Address by Rev. A. E. Dunaway of Virginia; Annual Concert Wednesday night.

....The following is the programme of the commencement exercises of Oxford Female Seminary: Sunday morning, May 27, address before Missionary Society by Rev. R. T. Bryan; same day, 8:30 p. m., Baccalaureate Sermon by Rev. W. C. Tyree; Monday, 8:30 p. m., address before Calliopean Society by Hon. C. M. Cooke; Tuesday, Class Day at 11 a. m; 4 p. m. Art Exhibit; 5 p. m. Annual Meeting; 8:30 Social Gathering.

Rev. P. G. Elsom in Raleigh.

On the last day of April, Rev. P. G. Elsom of Fincastle, Va., began preaching in the First Baptist church of Raleigh, and continued two weeks. During the meetings congregations were uniformly large, though the great mass of those who attended were professed Christians.

Bro. Elsom believes in the Bible, in prayer, and in the Holy Spirit. As a preacher, he is faithful and fearless, earnest and effective. His sermons are thoroughly Scriptural and practical, and his style, easy and direct. He preaches the old gospel with power and pungency. He makes conscientious hearers think of themselves.

At the present time the results of the meetings cannot be accurately stated, though some facts may be given. Many church-members were spiritually quickened and strengthened. Perhaps about thirty persons professed conversion. Four have been baptized, four more have been received for baptism, and others will be received, though the number cannot be stated now.

Bro. Elsom came to Raleigh a stranger; but when he went away, he left behind him a host of friends who will remember him kindly, and greet him gladly if he should ever return.

J. W. CARTER.

Drewry Dobbins Monument.

The following amounts from churches and individuals were contributed to the Drewry Dobbins monument:

D. C. Webb, $1.00; Sandy Plains church, 14 25; Lattimore's, 12 40; Providence, 12.25; Mount Vernon, 11.40; New Bethel, 10.15; Waco, 4 50; Concord, 14 00; High Shoal, 23.55; Double Spring, 7.00; Elizabeth, 11.25; Beaver Dam, 15 50; C. C. Durham, 5 00; Sandy Run, 21 25; Mount Zion, 2.75; Big Springs, 2 90; Rev. C. Durham, 1.00; R. F. Turner, 2 00; J. B. Hamrick, 1.00; Buffalo, 14 31; Miss Nancy Putman, 1.00; Aunt Zuley Putman, 1.00; Zion, 12.10; Shelby, 40 50; Forest City, 9.75; Pleasant Grove, 2 50; Bethel, 5 00; D. B. Harrill, 5 00; New Prospect, 3 50; W. S. Wood, 1.00; Pleasant Hill, 5 75; Rev. P. R. Elam, 1 00; State Line, 2 50; Grassy Pond, 3 00; Rutherfordton, 9 25; O. E. Ford, 1 00; Wm. Covington, 1.00; S. Green, 50c; Rev. G. M. Webb, 1.00; Mary Harrell, 5.00; Jas. Harrell, 5.00; Boiling Spring, 11.00; D. S. Hamrick, 25 00.

Total amount of contributions	$353 90
Cost of monument	326 75
Overplus	27 15

I will pay the overplus to my son, A. C. Dixon, to help bear his expenses in coming to preach the dedication sermon.

T. DIXON.

To Whom it may Concern.

Editor Biblical Recorder:—Let us say to the white Baptists in this State and all others interested in the education of the colored race, that the commission given to Rev. F. R. Howell, who was appointed to solicit funds for the establishment of an academy for the colored people at Stanly Creek, N. C., has been revoked, and he is no longer authorized to collect funds for the same. This action has been taken for reasons which are satisfactory to the Executive and Educational Board of the Missionary Union of Colored Baptists.

REV. W. S. SHUFORD, Chairman.
W. A. ROBERTS, Clerk.

Attention is called to the annual statement of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company in this issue. This Company is one of the oldest and strongest companies, and is represented by Mr. H. Grimes Cowper, Raleigh, N. C.

The Sunday-school Board's Quarterlies and Teacher will have a lesson on "The Lord's Supper Denominationally Considered," at the close of the Third Quarter—July to September. The lessons will be prepared for the Teacher by Rev. Dr. J. P. Green of William Jewell College, Mo., and for the Advanced Quarterly by Rev. R. J. Forrester of South Carolina. Those who have examined the lesson on Baptism in June will be anxious to follow it up with the September lesson on the Lord's Supper.

T. P. BELL, Cor. Sec., Nashville, Tenn.

Secretary of State Coke warns all North Carolinians not to do business with "The Farmer's and Mechanics' Insurance Company of Alexander, Va." It has no license in this State.

Hon. Jas. W. Reid of Lowell, a prominent citizen of Gaston county, died last week, aged seventy-three years.

The State organization of King's Daughters met in annual session in Statesville.

The strikers in the West Virginia mines are returning to work.

(CONTINUED FROM THE FIRST PAGE.)

main of conscience, by common consent, was forever barred against the State. To complete an education, to make an educated man, the conscience, the moral sense, must be educated, as well as the muscle or the mind. But the State cannot interfere or enter this sacred territory; hence the State is incapacitated. * * But, it is argued, the State schools do teach moral science, do instruct in the Evidence of Christianity, do recognise the authority of the Bible, and recommend it as the standard of right and wrong. Admitted, but it is a usurpation, and is tolerated only by the grace of the people. No professor in a State school can claim this privilege as a right."

One occasionally sees in the announcement of a State university the offer of a course of study in the Evidences of Christianity. This subject surely ought to be taught, but what right has the State to tax Israelites and Theists for the teaching of that which tends to undermine their conscientious convictions?

No, a State university cannot consistently be in any true sense a Christian institution. Dr. A. H. Strong of Rochester, N. Y., has given what seems to the writer to be an excellent description of such a college. "A Christian college is an institution established to promote the kingdom of Christ by training young men's (or women's) highest powers, intellectual, social, and religious, for the service of Christ in the Church or in the State. That is not a Christian college in which Christianity is something merely tacit and nominal. That only is a Christian college in which Christianity is the confessed and formative principle of the whole organization, method, and life. * * The professors should be actively Christian men. Theoretical belief is not enough, Christian profession is not enough."

Dr. B. H. Carroll of Texas, in an address delivered in May, 1891, at Birmingham, Ala., spoke as follows: "Education is the proper development of the whole man—body, mind, and spirit * * Christian education is not instruction in the dogmas of the Christian religion, or in distinctive denominational tenets, but is secular education in a Christian atmosphere, and under Christian supervision. * * Denominational educational belongs to history rather than to debate. Whoever questions its propriety quarrels with the past, the present, and all the reliable forecasts of the future which experience projects. It found a place in history from a triple necessity. (1) The nature of man and his relations to divine government. (2) The full import of education itself. (3) The fact that there is no fitness nor jurisdiction in any other power to warrant supervision in this full import of the term. Therefore, Christians must intermeddle with education. To intermeddle at all, they must intermeddle much. To intermeddle much, they must intermeddle wisely, so as not to beat the air."

Such an institution as is described by Dr. Strong, such education as is commended by Dr. Carroll, can never be subsidized by any State without violating the fundamental ideas of religious freedom.

This doctrine, that a State has no constitutional right whatever to provide Christian instruction, or to give any one form of belief any advantage over another, is of such fundamental importance that some additional extracts will be given. They will serve to indicate the steady growth of the opinions advocated in this article. It would be easy to fill every column of this paper with similar expressions from eminent educators and divines, from lawyers and statesmen, from authors and editors, representing almost every State in the Union. Those are very much mistaken who imagine that the issues raised in these articles are only temporary or local.

Rev. W. T. Spear, D. D., late of Brooklyn, N. Y., (Presbyterian) says that State systems of education "should be rigidly confined to the secular sphere of knowledge, leaving religious instruction and worship to be attended to by other agencies. * * The all-pervading principle of our American Constitution is that the State, as such, has nothing to do with religion beyond affording to the people protection in the enjoyment of their religious rights, and that, too, without discrimination among them. It is difficult to see how a State established upon this principle, and for reasons of State policy conducting a school system at the public expense, can make that system the instrument of religious instruction or worship in any form. It manifestly cannot do so without contradicting the fundamental law of its own religious life."

President Folwell, late of the University of Minnesota, wrote: "The complete secularization of our schools is an essential factor in the present fairest civilization the world has ever known."

Hon. P. A. Sawyer, United States Senator from South Carolina, says: "Whenever a contest is made which involves the principle underlying this matter, those who insist upon religious instruction * * in the school must give way. * * "

Ex-Gov. Cox, of Ohio, says: "My belief is that public education, so far as supported by the State, will be secularized."

Horace Davis, of California, says: "State colleges should be placed upon an entirely secular basis."

If, at this point, reply should be made that State colleges have been committed by the legislatures to boards of trustees, and that these have the right to do what the Constitutions of the States prohibit the legislatures themselves from doing, it will only be necessary to reply that no legislature can create or delegate powers which it does not itself possess, except as authorized by a fair construction of the Constitution. And the same may be said with reference to powers delegated to officers and faculties of these institutions. And it may be further added that in our own State the Constitution does not allow that the control may pass from the hands of the legislature, for it is itself empowered to make such laws and regulations from time to time, as may be necessary and expedient for the management of the University.

Our State University system was originally moulded to a greater or less extent upon European models. It could hardly have been otherwise. Modifications, such as seemed needful at the time,—the omission, for instance, of departments of Theology, were made. But if they are to remain State institutions, further modifications will necessarily have to be made.

European countries, almost without exception, have had State Churches established by law. In Germany, it is, whether right or wrong in itself, perfectly logical for one hour every day to be given in every public school to the study of the Bible as interpreted by the State Church. It is also natural and logical for religion to be taught in all the great German universities. But in our country it is not logical. Our Constitutions must be changed before it can be made so. True, much of it has been allowed by sufferance, but it has always been illogical. The people may change their constitutions in order to secure logical consistency. But, if they do not wish to do that, the only other way to secure logical consistency is to eliminate all studies and all influences which favor one kind of religion more than another from all their institutions supported by taxation.

The writer of this paper is well aware that conclusions, legitimate and logical, in several directions, may be drawn from the position which has been assumed. But he does not hesitate to express his matured conviction that it will be far better to accept all the consequences which may flow from recognition of these principles, at every point and in every direction, than to allow the sacred rights of conscience of any man to be invaded by secular authority.

(To be continued.)

She Would Neither Paint nor Powder.

"I positively will not use cosmetics," said a lady to the writer, "yet my complexion is so bad that it occasions me constant mortification. What can I do to get rid of these dreadful blotches?" "Take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," was my prompt reply. "Your complexion indicates that you are suffering from functional derangements. Remove the cause of the blotches and your cheeks will soon wear the hue of health. The 'Favorite Prescription' is a wonderful remedy for all diseases peculiar to your sex. Its proprietors guarantee to return the money if it does not given satisfaction. But it never fails. Try it." The lady followed my advice, and now her complexion is as a babe's, and she enjoys better health then she has for many years.

To permanently cure constipation, biliousness and sick headache take Dr. Pierce's Pellets. Of dealers.

Mattie Blanche Timberlake.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—Please allow me space the lay a tribute on the new-made grave of one of the purest Christians I have ever known.

On the 26th of April, 1894, in the 22d year of her age, Miss Mattie Blanche Tim-Timberlake exchanged earth for the glories beyond the veil.

On Saturday, March 24th, she sustained painful injuries by accidental burning from which, after more than four weeks' intense suffering, she fell on sleep, and is now, as all who knew her believe, enjoying the rest that remaineth to the people of God.

She was born Aug. 4, 1872, and at the age of eighteen she was graduated with distinction from the Chowan Baptist Female Institute. Prof. J. B. Brewer, President of that institution, in a private letter of recent date, says: "I feel that nothing is too good to say about her. She was a splendid girl before her profession of religion. Her life afterwards was as nearly perfect as that of any one I ever saw. She had an unusually quick, bright mind, and was very fond of study and general reading. She was one of the best educated young ladies who has graduated from the Institute since I have been here. * * * one of the purest beings I ever knew."

The following letter to her parents on the occasion of her conversion, with no thought that it would ever be read by others, best acquaints us with the spirit which manifested itself in her after life:

"C. B. F. INSTITUTE,
MURFREESBORO, N. C., April 17, 1890.

My Dear Papa:—I can't stop to tell you another word before the good news that happened last night. At last I have accepted my Saviour, and mean to try to live for him hereafter. I have felt sometimes before that I loved him, but I could not help doubting, and I never felt like I thought a Christian ought to feel, but last night I made up my mind that I would accept him and try to live for him and like him. I do hope I am a sincere Christian and that I may hereafter live a life unlike the past. I have done so much wrong and lived only for myself, but I hope that Christ has cancelled that.

I wish I could be at home when you hear the news. I know it will gladden yours and mamma's hearts so much.

I haven't felt like shouting, or shed very many tears, but I hope, if I live a consistent life hereafter, the feeling will not be necessary. * * * I wish all of those who have so long prayed for me could know this immediately. So many of them are far away. I would like so much for Miss Flagg [now Mrs. Tatum of Shanghai, China,] to know this. * * * I thank God that I have so many kind friends.

I do wish I could be with you and mamma now! Keep praying for me.

Your loving daughter,
MATTIE."

In this letter she expressed her appreciation of Mr. Vann's preaching; Prof. Brewer's kindly interest in herself and other girls; her indebtedness to Prof. Scarboro and his wife for their kindness and example; her desire for the salvation of others, some of whose names she mentioned, and she also expressed her own determination to do all in her power to help them to become Christians. Her desires were soon fulfilled; each of those whose names she mentioned becoming Christians.

She determined to accept Him, to live for Him, to live like Him. How perfectly this beautiful ideal was realised, no human pen can tell. On her return from school she was baptized into the fellowship of the Louisburg Baptist church, where she lived for Him, and became like Him, and is now gone to be with Him.

Graduating June, 1890, she taught two years—the first near her home, the second at her Alma Mater, C. B. F. Institute, giving the most perfect satisfaction.

She loved to teach, and her services as teacher were in demand, but her father preferred for her to remain at home where since the death of her mother which occurred just three years to the day and almost the hour before hers, her presence seemed to be a necessity, for few daughters ever more perfectly filled the place of a mother than she did, and esp cially in connection with family worship.

She always opened her school with reading the Scriptures and prayer, and, like her mother, when it seemed to be desirable, she would lead the family worship. Her services in this capacity were most beautiful and so appreciated that even the children often requested it. The willingness with which she performed these most delicate and embarrassing duties from which most young Christians and not a few heads of families shrink, is the more remarkable because of her gentle modesty which amounted almost to timidity. But she had determined to live for Him, and she took up the cross.

We often regret that a young life so full of promise should be cut off just in the midst of its usefulness and lament it as untimely, forgetting that God has no broken columns in his temple. Her life-work was not unfinished. More than once she expressed her readiness and willingness to die, for she knew whom she had believed, and was persuaded that he was able to keep that which she had committed unto him against that day.

The high grade of her intellect, the keenness of her moral perceptions, as well as the facility with which she was accustomed to gather spiritual truths from books and nature are strikingly illustrated in the following lines which were composed by her when but a school girl seventeen years of age, and just about the time of her conversion:

"THE CHRYSALIS

See the golden butterfly—
Fluttering 'tween the earth and sky;
See its pinions, gauzy, shimmering,
Like the yellow sunlight, glimmering;
'Tis delightful to the eye
To mark it move so gracefully.
Once this fairy thing, supernal,
Dwelt in darkness—black, infernal,—
Was the hideous, slimy larva;
Then the silent death like pupa,—
Till the All-Wise God commanded
Freed should be the creature, banded.
And from out the ruin, lo!
Came this lovely imago.

So my soul, from out this prison,
Soon shall soar to fields elysian—
Shall tear these galling bands asunder,
When the last trump's awful thunder,
Shall bring the dead to light external
To face at last the One Eternal.
Then on wings of spotless white
I'll soar, in perfect, rapt delight,
To regions far beyond the cloud,—
Before the great White Throne of God.
Then with that innumerable throng,
With golden harp and seraphic song,
I'll stand, when free from all my woe,
In God's own glorious imago.".

W. B. MORTON.

Louisburg, May 11, 1894.

From Yanceyville.

Dear Recorder:—I arrived at Yanceyville on Monday, April 9th, 1894, and found the parsonage nicely overhauled and under a new roof. As I had to stop over at Ruffin to preach on the 7th and 8th, it was not possible for me to let the brethren and sisters here know just when I would arrive, and so took them a little by supprise. But they were equal to the occasion,—they did not mean to be beat in that kind of way. So on the night of the 13th they came in and just took possession of the parlor and kitchen, and the good things they brought and stored away. Well, they are too numerous to mention. Almost everything that a family could need to make them comfortable and happy. The good people of Yanceyville know how to make a preacher feel at home.

Bro. J. R. Jones, their pastor, certainly has a stronghold on his people here, and it seems to me that with such a host of earnest, consecrated brethren and sisters he might feel safe to undertake almost anything for Christ.

My churches are Ruffin, Trinity, Kerr's Chapel, and Beulah. I can only be with the Yanceyville church on Wednesday nights in the prayer meetings.

I find the brethren and sisters at all my churches very earnest and full of zeal for the Master. They had grown a little cold, having been without a pastor for several months, but are rising up all over my field and taking hold of the Master's work, and I am looking and praying for the early showers of God's reviving grace. May I ask those who read this to remember me and my people to the Lord in their devotions that we may be faithful in the Master's work.

May God bless the RECORDER, and you in your work. Yours fraternally,

D. J. HARRIS.

Yanceyville, May 8, 1894.

Magnetic Nervine quickly restores lost manhood and youthful vigor. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Our Boards for 1894.

BOARD OF MISSIONS AND SUNDAY-SCHOOLS—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

J C Scarborough, Chairman; C Durham, Cor Secretary; N B Broughton, G M Allen, C T Bailey, J N Holding, W N Jones, J D Bousball, L O Louges, W G Upchurch, T W Blake, J H Alford, J W Carter, T E Skinner, E McK Goodwin, W R Gwaltney, N B Cobb, M T Norris, J C Caddell, F P Hobgood, J C Ellington, C J Hunter, C W Carter, E C Holloman, T H Pritchard, H C Olive, W A Montgomery, S E Brewer, F S Biggs, H L Watson, A M Simms, R E L Yates, J Hartwell Edwards, J P Wyatt, G J Dowell, C W Blanchard.

Ashe and Alleghany, Jas Eller; Atlantic, J C Whitty; Alexander, D W Pool; Beulah, W R Brooks; Brier Creek, W A Myers; Brunswick, J M Long; Brushy Mountain, R A Spainhour; Caldwell, J V McCall; Cedar Creek, H B Downing; Central, P A Dunn; Catawba River, Samuel Huffman; Cape Fear, E W Wooten; Columbus, A McKennon; Chowan, E F Aydlett; Eastern, L R Carroll; Elkin, J S Kilby; Flat River, R H Marsh; Green River, C B Justice; King's Mountain, H F Schenck; Liberty, James Smith; Little River, J A Campbell; Mecklenburg and Cabarrus, C Gresham; Mt Zion, W C Tyree; Pee Dee, L Johnson; Pilot Mountain, H A Brown; Raleigh, O L Stringfield; Robeson, E K Proctor, Jr; Sandy Creek, O T Edwards; South Fork, J S Bridges; South Yadkin, J B Holman; Stanly, E F Eddings; Tar River, R VanDeventer and R T Vann; Three Forks, N S Farthing; Union, A C Davis; West Chowan, J B Brewer; Yadkin, J G Burrus; Montgomery, W M Bostick; Bladen, W S Meekin; Mitchell, L H Greene; Yancey, J W Biggs; French Broad, T M Honeycutt.

The Board meets on Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., after the third Sunday in January, March and July; and at such other times as its work may demand, on a call of the President, to attend to all matters pertaining to missions, Sunday-schools and colportage, that may come before it.

BOARD OF EDUCATION—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

W L Poteat, President; W R Gwaltney, Cor Secretary; W B Royall, D W Allen, C E Brewer, J M Brewer, J B Carlyle, L Chapell, P A Dunn, W B Dunn, W H Edwards, P W Johnson, W C Lankford, L R Mills, J B Powers, F M Purefoy, N Y Gulley, C E Taylor, J F Lanneau, Elder John Mitchell, R E Royal, W J Ferrell. J C Fowler, E W Sikes and J C Maske, J C Caddell, T E Holding, A F Purefoy.

BOARD OF MINISTERS' RELIEF—LOCATED AT DURHAM.

W C Tyree, President; J F MacDuffie, Cor. Secretary; H A Reams, T E Cheek, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, F P Hobgood and W N Jones, N B Broughton, W A Albright, G J Dowell.

TRUSTEES OF THOMASVILLE ORPHANAGE—LOCATED AT THOMASVILLE.

John Mitchell, President; Thomas Carrick, Secretary; J C Scarborough, C Durham, W R Gwaltney, Dennis Simmons, F P Hobgood, Noah Biggs, E Frost, R D Fleming, J L Markham, T H Pritchard, W T Faircloth, J H Lassiter, A J Montague, H F Schenck, John Brewer and J D Brevard.

TRUSTEES OF WAKE FOREST COLLEGE—LOCATED AT WAKE FOREST.

J M Heck, President; R E Royall, Secretary; C T Bailey, Noah Biggs, G W Blount, John B Brewer, H A Brown, N B Cobb, G M Cooke, W B Daniel, H C Dockery, P A Dunn, C Durham, W T Faircloth, A R Foushee, N Y Gulley, W R Gwaltney, F P Hobgood, J N Holding, J D Huffham, C J Hunter, R H Marsh, W J McLendon, John Mitchell, W H Mitchell, E S Moore, R R Overby, T H Pritchard, E K Proctor, Jr, J B Richardson, J W F Rogers, G W Sanderlin, J C Scarborough, T E Skinner, J H Tucker, W G Upchurch, W W Vass.

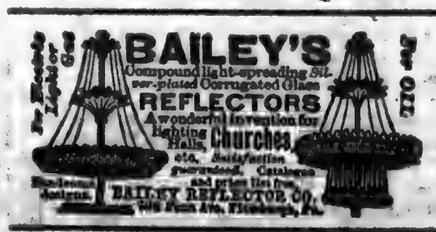
TRUSTEES OF THE BAPTIST FEMALE UNIVERSITY—LOCATED AT RALEIGH.

W L Poteat, President; N B Broughton, Secretary; F H Briggs, Treasurer; W N Jones, Auditor; W A Montgomery, Attorney; O L Stringfield, Financial Secretary; C J Hunter, J N Holding, W G Upchurch, J C Scarborough, J W Carter, E McK Goodwin, C Durham, R T Vann, A M Simms, C M Cooke, R H Marsh, R Van Deventer, W C Petty, E K Proctor, W W Kitchin, W T Faircloth, Prof J B Brewer, C B Aycock, J Y Joyner, Thos Hume.

Fat

is wanting in most foods, or, if present, is not assimilated.

The result is loss of flesh and strength.



Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, is a palatable, easy fat food that any stomach can retain and any system assimilate without effort. It gives flesh and strength. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

I LIKE MY WIFE TO
Use Pozzoni's Complexion Powder because it improves her looks and is as fragrant as violets.

AGENTS MAKE $5 a Day Greatest Kitchen Utensil invented. Retails for $1. $5 to $10 in a house. Sample postage paid FREE. FOSHEE & Co., Cincinnati, O.

Only the Scars Remain.

"Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc.," writes HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., "none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old mother urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

For the cure of all diseases originating in impure blood, the best remedy is

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Cures others, will cure you

Rheumatism

Is promptly relieved and quickly cured by DRUMMOND'S LIGHTNING REMEDY. It is pleasant to take, acts immediately, is not injurious, does not disturb digestion. It is for Rheumatism only, in all its torturing forms. Send for circular. DRUMMOND MEDICINE CO., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. [n r m]

Atlantic Coast Line.

Wilmington & Weldon Railroad and Branches.

And Florence Railroad.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 23. Daily.	No 35. Daily.	No 41. Daily.
Leave Weldon ...	11 47 a m	9 51 p m
Ar Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..	2 35 a m
Leave Tarboro...	12 07 a m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 55 a m	10 45 p m	6 00 a m
Leave Wilson....	1 55 a m	11 25 p m
Leave Selma.....	2 45 a m
Lve Fayetteville.	4 25 a m	1 15 p m
Arrive Florence..	7 05 a m	3 27 p m
	No 47. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	2 05 p m		6 35 a m
Leave Goldsboro.	3 00 p m		7 20 a m
Leave Magnolia..	4 13 p m		8 29 a m
Arr Wilmington.	5 50 p m		10 00 a m

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Dated Jan. 11, '94.	No 14. Daily.	No 78. Daily.	No 40. Daily.
Leave Florence ..	7 05 p m	7 30 a m
Lv Fayetteville..	9 20 p m	10 27 a m
Leave Selma.		12 10 a m
Arrive Wilson ...	11 18 p m	1 05 a m
	No 46. Daily.
Lve Wilmington.	9 00 a m		7 00 p m
Leave Magnolia..	10 40 a m		8 37 p m
Lv Goldsboro.....	12 00 a m		9 45 p m
Arrive Wilson ...	12 45 a m		10 35 p m
	No 14. Daily.
Leave Wilson....	11 23 p m	1 15 p m	10 40 p m
Ar Rocky Mount	12 05 p m	2 07 p m	11 26 p m
Arrive Tarboro ..		2 35 p m
Leave Tarboro...		12 54 p m
Lv Rocky Mount.	12 05 p m	2 07 p m
Arrive Weldon...	12 50 a m	3 17 p m

Train on Scotland Neck branch road leave Weldon 3.40 p m, Halifax 4.00 p m; arrive Scotland Neck at 4.55 p m, Greenville 6.37 p m, Kinston 7.35 p m. Returning, leaves Kinston 7.20 a m, Greenville 8.23 a m.; arriving Halifax at 11.00 a m, Weldon 11.20 a m, daily except Sunday.

Trains on Washington Branch leave Washington 7.00 a m, arrives Parmele 8.40 a m; Tarboro 9.30 a m; returning leaves Tarboro 4.40 p m, Parmele 6.20 p m, arrives Washington 7.35 p m. Daily except Sunday. Connects with trains on Scotland Neck Branch.

Train leaves Tarboro, via Albemarle and Raleigh railroad, daily except Sunday, 5.00 p m, Sunday 3.00 p m; arrives Plymouth 9.20 p m, 5.20 p m Returning leaves Plymouth daily except Sunday 5.30 a m, Sunday 9.30 a m, arrive Tarboro 10.05 a m and 11.45 a m.

Train on Midland, N C, branch leaves Goldsboro daily except Sunday, 6.05 a m, arrive Smithfield 7.30 a m. Returning leaves Smithfield 8.00 a m, arrive Goldsboro 9.30 a m.

Train on Nashville branch leaves Rocky Mount at 4.30 p m, arrives Nashville 5.05 p m, Spring Hope 5.30 p m. Returning leaves Spring Hope at 8.00 a m, Nashville 8.35 a m, arrive Rocky Mount 9.15 a m, daily except Sunday.

Train on Clinton branch leaves Warsaw for Clinton daily except Sunday, at 11.00 a m. Returning leaves Clinton at 1.00 p m, connecting at Warsaw with main line trains.

Train No 78 makes close connection at Weldon for all points North daily, all rail via Richmond and daily except Sunday via Portsmouth and Bay Line. Also at Rocky Mount with Norfolk and Carolina railroad for Norfolk daily and all points north via Norfolk, daily except Sunday.

JOHN F. DIVINE, Gen. Supt.
J. R. KENLY, General Manager.
T. M. EMMERSON, Traffic Manager.

This and That from Virginia.

Although one is in so good a place as Virginia, still if he ever lived in North Carolina, there is a tender feeling for and a deep interest in things in the Old North State. This is specially true if one is of North Carolina Baptist stock, for the "Tar Heel" Baptist is in many respects different from the Baptists of other sections. And yet North Carolina Baptists are interested in Baptist work outside; especially are they interested in the Baptists of Virginia. And this is not strange since North Carolina furnishes so much of the working force here. There is Bro. Wright in Richmond, who by the way is one of the mighty powers over here. His work at Leigh Street is great. It is said that he has one of the livest churches in the State. How could it be otherwise with such a bundle of consecrated nerve force to lead them. Bro. Hall is in Norfolk doing a great work. True, he is not a genuine "Tar Heel," but he stayed there long enough to learn how to do things. Bro. Battle is at Petersburg. He is a great favorite over here. Everybody loves him. Sometimes I am afraid he is not doing his duty,—all men speak well of him. There are brethren Watson and Matthews at Norfolk and Berkley. They are doing well. I heard a brother say that Bro. Watson was "getting there." Brother Love is doing a big work at Suffolk. Besides, there are a number of others in the country. So North Carolina ought to be interested in Virginia as a field of operations for her sons.

But we must not forget that Virginia has some noble sons in the Old North State. There is Bro. Tyree in Durham. Oh! how these people up here in the Old Valley love Bro. Tyree. He went from this section. You must be good to him in Durham. There is Bro. Thomas at Greensboro. By the way, they are talking about him at a certain place in the State. There is Bro. Hiden at Morehead and a number of others. So we are about even perhaps.

THE MINISTERS AND LAYMEN'S INSTITUTE.

The writer looked forward to this body with a great interest. It met at old Mill Creek church away out in the Valley. O, what a pretty country! On our way we took dinner at the celebrated Hollins Institute, where about two hundred girls were surrounding us. What a sight! This is one of the loveliest spots on the earth. Prof. Cocke, the President, is a prince of gentlemen as well as the foremost educator of girls in the State, if not in the South. A number of young ladies from North Carolina were here, and a pleasant time we spent. From Hollins we went through the country up the Valley to Mill Creek where the Institute was held.

The writer preached the Institute sermon at night. After sermon, officers were elected. There are no delegates, simply a great mass meeting for the discussion of important questions. It was a great meeting.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNIONS.

I am sorry that some of our good North Carolina brethren are getting so uneasy about the B. Y. P. U. They simply exaggerate their side of the question. To listen to them, one would certainly expect the Baptist hosts to go to pieces soon by departing from the faith once delivered to the saints in the establishment of these "human societies." Such talk is nonsense to me. When will our people learn to be consistent? That old howl "the church is the only authorized society," is but the result of a narrow conception of the kingdom of Christ. It needs no answer. It ought to be laid aside for a while. Why have a finance committee? Why have anything?—just let the church go of its own choosing. Why don't some of these kickers tell us just how to develop the great numbers in our churches? My experience in Y. P. Societies have been very encouraging. In Winston, before any Y. P. Union movement had struck the State, we organized the Broad Street Workers. It did good work. At Cavalry church we have one of the best Y. P. Unions in the South, and the progress they have made in Bible and church history, as well as in spiritual life, is amazing. Is this sin?

DR. TAYLOR.

You have no idea how Dr. Taylor's articles on education are taking. A great many of our papers are copying them. I do believe they will accomplish great good.

Dr. J. B. Taylor of Salem, Va., only six miles from us, had quite a painful accident the other day—sprained his ankle. He has not able to preach for two Sundays.

HOW THINGS ARE IN ROANOKE.

For a long time things in general have been depressed here by the financial stringency. But times are better. Things are going ahead again. The Baptists of the city are flourishing. Never have I preached to larger and more appreciative audiences. People like to hear the truth in plain, unvarnished style. We have had to tackle some giant devils in our work, but the Lord has stood by us. In the last six months we have taken in ninety-seven members into Calvary church. Our financial condition has gone up, and things are hopeful. The new church, which has been such a burden, is going right along.

I go next Monday to help Bro. White at the First church, Asheville, prefering this to going to the Texas Convention.

LEN. G. BROUGHTON.

Roanoke, Va.

Live for something! Do good, and leave behind you a monument of virtue that the storm of time can never destroy. Write your name in kindness, love, and mercy on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with, year by year, and you will never be forgotten. Your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind, as the stars on the brow of evening. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.—Chalmers.

Views Endorsed.

Dear Recorder:—I endorse what Brother Jones says on B. Y. P. S. I think that some of our people have gone so far from what our blessed Saviour taught by person and by revelation, especially our young people and old ones not a few, that anything that will make a big show will do. I don't see any account in the New Testament where Christ or his disciples organized any societies, called young people's societies, and I do think that even our churches do not adhere to the doctrine taught in the Bible. We are taught that the disciples in the first established church of Christ after Peter's sermon at Pentecost continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship (Acts 2: 41), and all that believed were together and had all things common (Acts 2: 44). Now let us all who believe in Christ come together in doctrine and fellowship and have all things common. If Christians would worship God in the way they did in the days of the apostles, there wouldn't be so many worldly people enticed to come into the church unconverted.

Will a man rob God? (Mal. 3: 8). I think that we are robbing God when we go into things that are not laid down in the Scriptures. I don't think that those societies are pleasing to our blessed Master.

Again, I believe that we are robbing our Heavenly Father when we are giving what he has blessed us with (or so much more than we give for his cause) to such objects as erecting monuments to the dead. Just think of a monumental fund of $12,000 for the Davis monument; $10,000 spoken of for one to Vance, and, say, $10,000 for one to Polk! If the people in the Southern Baptist Convention would give this $32,000 for a memorial to Him who died for the sins of all the human race, I think that it would have been more wisely appropriated. I feel that we as Baptists are neglecting our duty as professed Christians. May the God of our salvation so inspire our hearts that we may strive to do more for the cause of Him who has done so much for us. I don't pretend to say that Baptists will pay all of the $32,000; but a large percentage of the sum will be paid by them, and in my estimation to a worthless object. The men sought to be thus honored are not any better by nature than others. There have died men who were fully as good Christians; and why we should confer so much more honor on them than on others whom Christ died for, I can't see.

Let us all in Christ labor to please him more than to please self and the world. I mean by saying for a memorial to Him who died for the sins of all the human race, the sending of the gospel to the heathen and building up his kingdom here in these States of ours. Brethren, while we have the opportunity for doing good, let's be at it. Paul told Timothy, "Watch thou in all things," &c. 2 Tim. 4: 5. Watch the world. Watch Satan, watch self. Watch for opportunities to do good and make full proof of thy ministry. Brethren, pray for the writer.

W. B. PARNELL.

Voline, May 7, 1894.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

West & Truax, Wholesale Druggist, Toledo, Ohio.

Walding, Kinnan & Marvin, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

A Council of Three. By Mrs. Mattie Dyer Britta. 12mo, 256 pp. Price, $1.00. Philadelphia: American Baptist Publication Society, 1420 Chestnut Street.

This is an account of an innocent little conspiracy of three friends, who call themselves "A Council of Three," for the benefit of two others—an old man and his granddaughter, Edith Holden, who is the heroine of the story. Of course Edith and her grandfather are in ignorance of anything other than the loss of their little fortune, and the necessity to earn their own living. The difficulties through which they passed in the struggle to live, bring out the strong, self-reliant, and capable side of Edith's nature which, heretofore, had lain dormant. Her ready sympathies were touched by the lives of the mill employees among whom their new home was located. From one kind act to her washerwoman, she is interested in other families, until she accomplishes great things. What they are form part of the Story. The best lesson of all, however, is that she is taught to trust her life to God, and to decide to serve him in every way possible.

God is a shower to the heart burned up with grief; God is a sun to the face deluged with tears.—Joseph Roux.

The Work at Statesville.

Dear Recorder:—I see so many various statements about our work in Statesville, I think it necessary to write the RECORDER and give some particulars.

In February we opened a mission Sunday-school and prayer-meeting in South Statesville in a public-school building. We soon found that we did not have room for the people; so we secured a lot in a convenient place, and about the first of April we commenced to build a chapel. Bro. G. H. Brown was made chairman of the building committee, and by his untiring perseverance the work was pushed forward and completed in about five weeks. We had all the money in sight except about one hundred dollars to complete the house and open it without any debt, but just in time the Lord found the party to give that. Just three or four days before we were to dedicate the chapel, I received a check for the one hundred dollars from Mrs. E. W. Lyon of Thomasville, which enabled us to dedicate without taking a collection. The property is worth one thousand dollars. The house will seat 350 people. We had about 400 in it last Sunday p. m. There were 112 in the Sunday-school last Sunday p. m.

We are moving along in a quit way. Nearly all my people have a mind to work. The Lord has added fifty eight to our membership since I began work here the first of last September, and there are others to come. I am holding services at night in the chapel this week. The Lord is with us. One profession and three backsliders reclaimed up to date. Brethren, pray for our work.

The Lord bless the RECORDER.

G. H. CHURCH.

Statesville, May 4, 1894.

Pulmonary consumption, in its early stages, may be checked by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It stops the distressing cough, soothes irritation of the throat and lungs, and induces much needed repose. Hundreds have testified to the remarkable virtues of this preparation.

An intelligent and cultivated Christian mother, who was formerly a Presbyterian, but has lately identified herself with a Baptist church, wrote a pastor, saying, "I wish to thoroughly study the Sunday-school lessons, principally for my own instruction and also that I may be able to intelligently help my children. What Bible Helps does the American Baptist Publication Society furnish?"

Of course, the pastor was not long in placing in the hands of this inquirer The Baptist Teacher, published by the Society, and could he have better equipped her for the gracious work her heart is set upon? Before me lies the June number of the Teacher packed full of information and instruction to suit the grasp and search of every mind. Besides the lucid and helpful expositions of the Word of God by Rev. Dr. Z Grenell, there are mines of rich and varied instruction in the Lesson Topics by Dr. P. S. Henson, in the Oriental Illustrations by W. Taylor Smith, B. A., in Hints for Intermediate and Primary Teachers by Mrs. M. G. Kennedy, in Hints for Teachers of Inductive Lesson Studies by Rev. W. G. Fennell, in Hints of Primary Teachers of "Two Years with Jesus" by Miss Juliet E. Dimock, while the Editor's Drawer by Rev. C. R. Blackall is full of just such information as will improve the mind in knowledge and the heart in goodness. The June number of The Baptist Teacher is unsurpassed.

The Preacher's Advantage.

The preacher in the pulpit has the advantage of his audience in many ways. The talking is all on his side. It is not considered "good form" for his auditors to answer him back from the pews. Instead of abusing this special privilege, he should use it with the utmost care. If he is a thoroughly honest man, he will not try to palm off a fallacious argument for a valid one; and, if he is a gentleman, he will not play the coward by the reckless flinging of epithets which in the parlor or on the street would meet with swift resentment.—Nashville Advocate.

The Highest Service.

God's servants in the world are of three classes: Some are slaves, and serve him from fear. Others are hirelings, and serve him for wages. Still others, not so many, are sons, and serve him for love. It would be well for us each to ask ourselves whereabouts in this classification we belong.—Zion's Herald.

When the mind, like a pure, calm lake, reflects back the light which is shed from heaven, the image of God is upon it commensurate with its capacity; for the tiniest drop of dew images forth the truth, though not the full radiance of the sun.—Bethune.

A good way to find out how much religion people have is to watch them when they can't have their own way.—Ram's Horn.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Women and Women Only

Are most competent to fully appreciate the purity, sweetness, and delicacy of CUTICURA SOAP, and to discover new uses for it daily.

In the preparation of curative washes, solutions, etc., for annoying irritations, chafings, and excoriations of the skin and mucous membrane or too free or offensive perspiration, it has proved most grateful.

Like all others of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, the CUTICURA SOAP appeals to the refined and cultivated everywhere, and is beyond all comparison the most effective skin purifying and beautifying soap as well as the purest and sweetest for toilet and nursery.

Sold throughout the world. POTTER DRUG AND CHEM. CORP., Sole Props., Boston.

Dr. E. C. West's Nerve and Brain Treatment is sold under positive written guarantee, by authorized agents only, to cure Weak Memory; Loss of Brain and Nerve Power; Lost Manhood; Quickness; Night Losses; Evil Dreams; Lack of Confidence; Nervousness; Lassitude; all Drains; Loss of Power of the Generative Organs in either sex, caused by over-exertion; Youthful Errors, or Excessive Use of Tobacco, Opium or Liquor, which soon lead to Misery, Consumption, Insanity and Death. By mail, $1 a box; 6 for $5; with written guarantee to cure or refund money. WEST'S COUGH SYRUP. A certain cure for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat. Pleasant to take. Small size discontinued; old, 50c. size, now 25c.; old $1 size, now 50c. GUARANTEES issued only by

JOHN Y. MACRAE, Druggist and Sole Agent, Raleigh, N. C.

Richmond & Danville Railroad Company

Samuel Spencer, F. W. Huidekoper and Reuben Foster, Receivers.

Richmond & Danville & North Carolina Div.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Sept. 24, 1893.

SOUTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 9 & 35.	No. 11.
Lv. Richmond	12 40 p m	12 50 a m
" Burkeville	2 41 p m	2 40 a m
" Keysville	3 24 p m	3 17 a m
Ar. Danville	5 40 p m	5 35 a m
Lv Danville	6 05 p m	5 50 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 33 p m	7 20 a m
Lv. Goldsboro	*2 35 p m
Ar. Raleigh	4 25 p m
Lv. Raleigh	*4 30 p m	1 00 a m
" Durham	5 28 p m	2 30 a m
Ar. Greensboro	7 20 p m	5 20 a m
Lv. Winston-Salem	†6 05 p m	*4 45 a m
" Greensboro	7 38 p m	8 00 a m
Ar. Salisbury	9 10 p m	9 45 a m
Ar. Statesville		11 05 a m
" Asheville		4 00 p m
" Hot Springs		5 26 p m
Lv. Salisbury	9 17 p m	9 50 a m
Ar. Charlotte	10 50 p m	11 25 a m
" Spartanburg	1 10 a m	2 55 p m
" Greenville	1 55 a m	4 05 p m
" Atlanta	6 20 a m	10 15 p m
Lv. Charlotte	11 35 p m
Ar. Columbia	5 10 a m
Ar. Augusta	8 45 a m

NORTHBOUND.	DAILY. Nos. 36 & 10.	No. 12
Lv Augusta	5 00 p m
" Columbia	9 15 p m
Ar Charlotte	2 20 a m
Lv Atlanta	6 45 p m	9 50 a m
Ar Charlotte	2 30 a m	7 45 p m
Lv Charlotte	2 40 a m	8 35 p m
Ar Salisbury	4 10 a m	10 05 p m
Lv Hot Springs		12 44 p m
" Asheville		3 30 p m
" Statesville		7 11 p m
Ar Salisbury		8 00 p m
Lv Salisbury	4 15 a m	10 10 p m
Ar Greensboro	6 00 a m	11 40 p m
Ar Winston-Salem	*8 35 a m	†12 50 a m
Lv Greensboro	7 30 a m	12 01 a m
Ar Durham	9 28 a m	3 35 a m
" Raleigh	10 30 a m	4 30 a m
Lv Raleigh	10 35 a m
Ar Goldsboro	12 10 p m
Lv Greensboro	6 05 a m	11 50 p m
Ar Danville	7 40 a m	1 30 a m
" Keysville	10 20 a m	4 05 a m
" Burkeville	11 05 a m	4 51 a m
" Richmond	1 08 p m	7 00 a m

†Daily except Sunday.

BETWEEN WEST POINT & RICHMOND

Leave West Point 7.50 a m and 8.50 a m daily except Sunday and Monday; arrive Richmond 9.05 and 10.40 a m. Returning leave Richmond 3.10 p m, and 4.45 p m daily except Sunday; arrive West Point 5.00 and 6.00 p m.

BETWEEN RICHMOND & RALEIGH VIA KEYSVILLE.

Leave Richmond 12.40 p m daily; leave Keysville 3.40 p m; arrive at Oxford 5.55 p m, Henderson 7.10 p m, Durham 7.15 p m, Raleigh 7.30 a m. Returning leave Raleigh 1.00 a m daily, Durham 6.15 a m, Oxford 7.44 a m; arrive Keysville 10.10 a m, Richmond 1.08 p m daily.

Trains on O. & H. R. R., leave Oxford 5.00 a m., daily except Sunday, 11:45 a. m., daily, and 6:20 p m daily, except Sunday, and arrive Henderson 6:00 a m, 12:40 p m, and 7:10 p m. Returning leave Henderson 6:50 a m, daily except Sunday, 4:30 p m, daily, and 7:30 p m daily except Sunday, and arrive Oxford 7:40 a m, 5:30 p m and 8:25 p m.

Nos. 35, 36, and 38 connect at Richmond from and to West Point and Baltimore daily except Sunday.

SLEEPING-CAR SERVICE.

On trains 35 and 36, Pullman Buffet Sleeper between New York and Atlanta.

On No 37 and 38, Pullman Sleeping Cars New York to New Orleans, New York to Augusta and Washington to Memphis, and Dining Car New York to Montgomery.

Trains Nos 11 and 12 run solid between Richmond and Atlanta and carry Pullman Sleeping Cars between Richmond, Danville and Greensboro.

SOL HASS, Traffic Manager, Washington, D C.

W. A. TURK, Gen. Pass. Agent, Washington, D. C.

Cape Fear and Yadkin Valley Ry. Co.

JOHN HILL, Receiver.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In Effect Dec. 1, 1893.

NORTH BOUND.	No. 2. Daily ex. Sunday.	No. 4 Daily ex. Sunday	No. 16. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Wilmington	7 00 a m
Ar Fayetteville	10 10 a m
Lv Fayetteville	10 27 a m
Lv Fay'ville June	10 [illegible] a m
Lv Sanford	11 48 a m
Lv Climax	1 43 p m
Ar Greensboro	2 15 p m
Lv Greensboro	2 55 p m
Lv Stokesdale	3 48 p m
Ar Walnut Cove	4 20 p m
Lv Walnut Cove	4 33 p m
Lv Rural Hall	5 01 p m
Ar Mt Airy	5 25 p m
Lv Bennettsville		6 25 a m
Lv Maxton		7 37 a m
Lv Red Springs		8 17 a m
Lv Hope Mills		9 12 a m
Ar Fayetteville		9 35 a m
Lv Ramseur			9 50 a m
Lv Climax			9 43 a m
Ar Greensboro			9 25 a m
Lv Greensboro			9 40 a m
Lv Stokesdale			11 00 a m
Ar Madison			11 50 a m

SOUTH BOUND.	No. 1. Daily ex. Sunday.	No 3 Daily ex Sunday	No 15. Mixed. Daily ex Sunday.
Lv Mt. Airy	9 45 a m
Lv Rural Hall	11 06 a m
Ar Walnut Cove	11 35 a m
Lv Walnut Cove	11 42 a m
Lv Stokesdale	12 06 p m
Ar Greensboro	12 52 p m
Lv Greensboro	12 59 p m
Lv Climax	1 27 p m
Lv Sanford	3 12 p m
Ar Fay'ville June	4 25 p m
Ar Fayetteville	4 30 p m
Lv Fayetteville	4 45 p m
Ar Wilmington	7 55 p m
Lv Fayetteville		4 50 p m
Lv Hope Mills		5 13 p m
Lv Red Springs		6 08 p m
Lv Maxton		6 47 p m
Ar Bennettsville		8 00 p m
Lv Madison			12 30 p m
Lv Stokesdale			1 05 p m
Ar Greensboro			3 55 p m
Lv Greensboro			5 00 p m
Lv Climax			5 55 p m
Ar Ramseur			5 35 p m

Trains No 2 and 4 make close connection at Fayetteville Junction with the Atlantic Coast Line for all points North, and at Walnut Cove with N & W System for Winston-Salem.

Train No 16 connects at Madison with N & W for Roanoke and points West.

Train No 1 makes close connection at Fayetteville Junction with Atlantic Coast Line for Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville, and all points South.

Junction points at Maxton with S. A. L., at Bennettsville with C. S. & H. R. R., at Sanford with S. A. L., at Greensboro with the Richmond and Danville System.

W. H. KYLE, Gen Pass. Agt.

J. W. FRY, Gen. Manager.

Seaboard Air-Line.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE.

In effect January 28, 1894.

No. 137.	ATLANTA SPECIAL.		No. 134.
*8 45 p m	Lv Norfolk (via S A L)	Ar	*11 45 a m
8 35 p m	Lv Portsmouth	Ar	11 35 a m
9 54 p m	Lv Suffolk	Lv	11 04 a m
10 30 p m	Lv Franklin	Lv	10 30 a m
10 58 p m	Lv Boykins	Lv	10 05 a m
11 20 p m	Ar Weldon	Lv	*9 25 a m
11 30 p m	Lv Weldon	Ar	9 00 a m
12 50 a m	Ar Henderson	Lv	7 39 a m
2 05 a m	Ar Raleigh	Lv	6 30 a m
2 30 a m	Lv Raleigh	Ar	6 15 a m
3 40 a m	Lv Sanford	Lv	5 19 a m
4 23 a m	Lv Southern Pines	Lv	4 20 a m
5 20 a m	Ar Hamlet	Lv	3 23 a m
5 43 a m	Lv Rockingham	Lv	3 15 a m
6 20 a m	Lv Wadesboro	Lv	2 43 a m
7 15 a m	Ar Monroe	Lv	1 50 a m
8 40 a m	Ar Charlotte	*Lv	9 15 p m

No. 41.	PASSENGER & MAIL.		No. 38.
*8 30 p m	Lv New York (PRR)	Ar	8 15 a m
11 33 a m	Lv Philadelphia	Ar	3 45 a m
2 20 a m	Lv Baltimore	Ar	10 45 a m
4 00 a m	Lv Washington	Ar	11 10 p m
8 25 a m	Lv Richmond (A C Line)	Ar	6 50 p m
9 25 a m	Lv Petersburg	Ar	5 39 p m
11 27 a m	Ar Weldon	Lv	*3 37 p m
*8 00 p m	Lv New York (PRR)	Ar	7 43 a m
9 10 a m	Ar Portsmouth	Lv	*5 55 p m
†2 10 p m	Lv New York (P R R)	Ar	1 35 p m
7 00 p m	Lv Baltimore (Bay Line)	Ar	7 00 a m
8 30 a m	Portsmouth	Lv	†6 00 p m
*7 00 p m	Lv Wash'gton, N&WSB Co	Ar	6 30 a m
8 00 a m	Ar †Portsmouth	Lv	5 30 p m
†9 00 a m	Lv Norfolk, via S A L	Ar	†6 00 p m
9 15 a m	Lv Portsmouth	Ar	5 30 p m
9 54 a m	Lv Suffolk	Ar	5 14 p m
10 58 a m	Lv Boykins	Ar	4 06 p m
†11 42 a m	Ar Weldon	Lv	†3 23 p m
†11 54 a m	Lv Weldon	Ar	3 10 p m
2 09 p m	Lv Henderson	Lv	†1 14 p m
†4 07 p m	Ar Durham	Lv	†10 50 a m
†5 50 p m	Ar Raleigh	Lv	†11 25 a m

No 42.			No 35.
†10 15 a m	Lv Raleigh	Ar	†6 00 p m
1 48 a m	Lv Sanford	Ar	4 30 p m
12 43 p m	Lv Southern Pines	Ar	3 35 p m
1 45 p m	Ar Hamlet	Lv	2 55 p m
2 25 p m	Ar Rockingham	Lv	2 01 p m
3 02 p m	Ar Wadesboro	Lv	1 25 p m
3 57 p m	Ar Monroe	Lv	12 30 p m
4 45 p m	Ar Charlotte	Lv	11 40 a m
5 06 p m	Ar Laurinburg	Lv	1 07 p m
5 29 p m	Ar Maxton	Lv	12 58 p m
6 23 p m	Ar Wilmington	Lv	10 00 a m
2 30 p m	Lv Hamlet	Ar	1 47 p m
3 57 p m	Ar Hilson	Ar	1 30 p m
3 21 p m	Ar Bennettsville	Lv	12 04 p m
4 12 p m	Darlington	Lv	12 04 p m
5 27 p m	Sumter	Lv	10 47 a m
8 45 p m	Charleston	Lv	7 30 a m

Train No. 38 connects at Weldon with through Pullman Buffet Sleeper for Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

Train No. 41 connects at Weldon with Pullman Sleeper for points South, via Atlantic Coast Line.

No 137 and No 134 "Atlanta Special" are solid Pullman Vestibule trains, composed of elegant day coaches and palace Buffet Sleepers, without change between Washington and Atlanta. No extra fare. Connects at Washington with Congressional Limited for New York, and at Atlanta for all points South and Southwest.

*Daily, †Daily except Sunday. B. Breakfast. D. Dinner.

For information relative to connections, &c., apply to Ticket Agent, or A. J. Cooke, Passenger Agent, Raleigh.

JNO. C. WINDER, Gen. Man.

L. T. MYERS, Gen. Supt.

T. J. ANDERSON, Gen. Pass. Agt.

News and Views.

BY W. P. MATHENEY.

I AM GLAD.

I do not mean to say that it is anything unusual for me to be glad, but I was very glad to see Dr. Pritchard's last article on coeducation and especially the strong point which he made on the question of the economy of opening Wake Forest College for girls. I haven't but two children—a boy and a girl—but I should like to have them both educated at Wake Forest. I may be a crank on the question of economy in denominational matters. I do not want to be "penny wise and pound foolish," but I do not think that we can be too careful on matters like this. I was glad to see the announcement that Prof. Hobgood would "introduce a resolution" next June to open Wake Forest College to girls. I hope to live to see that resolution pass and our girls admitted to all the advantages enjoyed by our boys. I trust that there will be a lot of thinking along this line between this and the next Convention.

I am glad to see that the Foreign Mission Board has under consideration the reduction of salaries of at least a part of the missionaries on the foreign field. There can be no money consideration for a missionary and I do not believe in trying to make such consideration. If the Lord calls a man or woman to make such sacrafice he will see that they are rewarded, and I believe that one on the foreign field should not be paid any way different from such a worker in this country—that is, according to their ability and the necessities of the case. The demands are too large and numerous, and the case too urgent for any money to be expended that is not necessary.

OPPOSING GIANTS.

Just now things are being enlivened through the Western Recorder by the two strongest advocates of agencies and no agencies in our churches—Drs. F. M. Ellis and J. H. Spencer. The discussion was brought about by a pretty severe criticism of a proposition from Dr. Bell of our Sunday-school Board by Dr. Spencer, in which he gives the Woman's Missionary Union of Baltimore a rather severe rap because of their effort to have in our Sunday school literature a program for childrens' missionary day. The question is exceedingly interesting, and one of great importance just now in view of the discussions we are having in our denominational papers on the question of Young Peoples' Societies. The question is to be "fought out" along this line. Is it, under any conditions, admissible from a Scriptural standpoint, to have any of these agencies in the development of our people, and the carrying on of our work? If we may without violating the teaching and spirit of the Scriptures, have any of these agencies, how many, what kind? &c. There is no middle ground in the matter when I say that I do not want to be understood as saying that if we admit the wisdom and necessity of such agencies, that we are to throw aside all discretion and judgment in the matter, and have no bounds at all, but I should say that, admitting the utility or wisdom of such agencies, then every one presenting itself for adoption must stand upon its merits. That there are those who have gone to extremes is true, and that such agencies have been greatly abused is true, and yet that is not an argument against them because there is no institution which has been more abused than the churches of Christ—the very simplest of all organizations and yet recall the great number of religious hierarchies posing as churches of Christ, but we are not ready to abandon this simple organization because it has been perverted and abused. The conflict is on and must be settled on one of these lines—we must either take Dr. Spencer's position which would lead us to ignore all agencies save the preaching of the gospel or else we must take Dr. Ellis' position and say that these agencies have quickened the life of the churches and increased their efficiency, enlarged their work and they are to be recognized and used just so far as they can be used for the furthering of the Lord's work, but always under the direction and control of pastor and church and just so long as they can be used to help and not hinder the work. As for myself I believe with Dr. Ellis, and I notice, that as a rule, those who oppose these things have never tried them and do not, therefore, speak from personal experience.

At our late Sunday school Convention at Providence church we had a conference on on the work of the "Gospel Mission," and whether we would undertake to support a missionary of our own—the name of a good woman who desires to go out this fall was present and the question of adopting her as our missionary is under consideration and we hope to have her visit our Association this fall that the brethren may see, hear and decide for themselves. But one pastor in the Association expressed any dissent from the proposition, and the minutes show that although he had four churches with a larger average membership than any pastor in the Association, he did not raise one cent for Foreign Missions last year. All the active pastors in the Association save one are interested in this behalf.

From the Land of the Southern Cross.

Dear Bro. Bailey:—I have just returned from a trip to the interior. The country is simply beautiful. The farmers are gathering their corn. We went through the coffee region. There are many plantations which extend for miles. The coffee is ripe and will soon be ready to pick. There is not a more beautiful scene to be found than a large field of ripe coffee. One growth of coffee lasts and produces well for thirty-five years. The trees are planted in rows about five feet apart each way. Plows are not used, and the only cultivation which the coffee trees require is to clean the soil of grass with hoes once every year. The trees grow to a height of twelve or fifteen feet. The flowers of the coffee trees are white, and the berries, when ripe, look very much like ripe red cherries. The trees are so loaded with berries that they often bend to the ground. The coffee is gathered by hand, a good workman being able to pick five or six bushels per day. Coffee raising is a paying industry. The planters gain each year from 100 per cent. to 200 per cent. on the capital invested. In the year 1889 there were shipped from the two ports of Santos and Rio Janeiro 8,000,000 sacks of coffee, each sack bringing twelve dollars. Last year (1893) from the same two cities were shipped 6,000,000 sacks at $17 50 per sack. You see the coffee business is no small affair in this country.

The people here drink a great deal of coffee. Every time you go visiting, you are served with a cup of hot coffee, and it is a breach of politeness to refuse to drink it. Imagine what a predicament a missionary is in who tries to make a dozen calls in half a day. You get no sympathy from a Brazilian unless you drink his coffee, and as you drink the last sip you must say, "Este café esta muito bom," which being interpreted is, "This coffee is very good." I have learned to make not more than six missionary visits in one half day.

A word as to the making of coffee. They all make coffee exceedingly strong. In the country on the farms it is made by pouring boiling sugar-cane juice on the coffee, and then it is strained. It is very good and of course does not need sugar because it is already sweet; however, I would not advise the folks at home to make it this way, simply because they don't know how.

But I began to tell you about my trip. Rev. Mr. Tilly of the Methodist church was my companion. We preached several times, and the people received us kindly and asked us to come back again. What a great and open field here for the gospel!

While on our trip we saw many interesting things. Howling monkeys, screaming parrots, brilliantly colored humming birds reminded us that this is a tropical land—indeed the land of life and flowers.

Brazil is called the "Land of the Southern Cross," because here can be seen the splendid constellation of the same name. How beautiful this constellation! It is composed of four large stars, three of which are of the first magnitude. As I look at this wonderful cross of nature which adorns and brightens the Brazilian sky, my heart is filled with prayer to God that the spiritual light of the gospel cross may soon shine into the lives and souls of these lost millions.

We enjoy the RECORDER so much—it is like a letter from home. May the Master spare you many years yet to work for His cause, and to strengthen and encourage His children. Yours in His dear name,

SAMUEL J. PORTER.

Juiz de Fora, Brazil, April 14, 1894.

P. S.—Ginsburg seems to have more zeal for the work than ever before, since out of prison. He is a strong man and a good worker. S. J. P.

South Yadkin S. S. Association.

The fourth annual session of this body met with Jerusalem church, Davie county, N. C., on Friday before the fifth Sunday in April.

The introductory sermon was preached by Elder W. J. Hopkins.

There were twenty two schools represented, this being the greatest number of any previous year, and from their reports it seems that a little is being done for the Master.

Let us put forth greater efforts for the coming year, and ask God to bless our labors. There are over twelve hundred scholars in attendance in these schools.

The Association was glad to welcome our aged brother, Rev. Greene Brown, who has been in the work of the ministry for more than fifty years.

The next session will meet with the Farmington church, Davie county, on Friday before the fifth Sunday in March, 1895.

W. FRANK REECE, Rec

Sigma, N. C.

Distribution of Soy (Soja) Beans.

The North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station at Raleigh, desiring to extend the cultivation of Soy beans, proposes to distribute a quantity of seed to careful planters desiring to test their merits. The only condition is that each applicant send ten cents in postage stamps to pay cost of transportation by mail. Enough seed will be sent to each applicant to plant 1-10 acre. The first 400 applications will be filled in the order received.

The Station regards this as a very valuable forage plant. It is of upright growth two to three feet high and is a legumine capable of adding nitrogen from the air to the soil in which it grows. It is planted in hills or drills 2½ to 3½ feet apart according to richness of soil, and 15 to 24 inches apart in the row. It can be planted any time from March to July, either alone or in the corn row between the corn, and 2 to 4 beans are usually planted in each hill. Soil suitable to it and the general preparation is the same as for corn. When planted for corn both crops can be ensilaged together, and the corn ensilage will be much improved by the combination, or the plants when planted alone can be cut for forage before they get too woody. The seed are found in small pods and can be saved by cutting the whole plant when leaves and pods have turned a golden hue. They can easily be beaten out when dry. If cutting is delayed beyond this time the pods will open and some will be lost on the ground. It will not pay to pick the beans. It is also a good table bean, but requires a long time to cook. The Station urges a careful trial of this crop.

A fire in Boston on the 15th destroyed 137 buildings.

Acknowledgments.

[The Treasurer requests that when money is sent, the name of the contributing church, society, or individual, and the object for which the money is intended, be clearly stated. This will serve to prevent mistakes in the acknowledgment, and save the time, correspondence and printing to correct them.]

State Missions—Double Springs ch, King's Mountain, $10.00; Bethany ch, Sandy Creek, 1.20; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 90c; Sandy Cross ch, Chowan, 4.40. Total, 16.60. Previously reported, 5,726.40. Total this year, 5,743.00.

Foreign Missions—Double Springs church, King's Mountain, $5.00; Poplar Spring Mis Soc, 2.48; Murfreesboro ch, W Chowan, 3.75; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 90c; W M S, Middle Swamp ch, Chowan, 4.00; Harris Chapel ch, Tar River, 1.00; Rockahock ch, Chowan, 20.56; Brown Creek ch, Pee Dee, 2.60; Hertford ch, Chowan, 18.00; Berea ch, ditto, 3.94; Roxobel ch, W Chowan, 5.00. Total, 67.23. Previously reported, 2,132.18. Total this year, 2,199.41.

Home Missions—Corinth ch, Flat River, 3.86; W M S, Yanceyville ch, Beulah, 90c; Potecasi ch, W Chowan, 10.00; Harris Chapel ch, Tar River, 1.00; Rockahock ch, Chowan, 5.52; Hertford ch, ditto, 12.00; Berea ch, 5.00; Chappel's Hill ch, ditto, 6.00; Concord ch, Flat River, 5.00; Roxobel ch, W Chowan, 2.80. Total, 52.08. Previously reported, 970.04. Total this year, 1,022.12.

Education—Forestville ch, Central, $4.00; Concord ch, Tar River, 2.55; O M Saunders, Walkersville, 45.00; Wake Forest ch, Central, 5.00; Chappel's Hill ch, Chowan, 7.50; Roxobel ch, W Chowan, 3.93. Total, 67.98. Previously reported, 1,130.78. Total this year, 1,198.76.

Ministerial Relief Fund—May's Chapel ch, Sandy Creek, $1.47. Previously reported, 156.63. Total this year, 158.10.

In last RECORDER, $1.15 from Jackson ch, W Chowan, for Home Missions, should be Education.

The brethren sometimes leave us to guess what the contribution is for, and we invariably guess wrong.

J. D. BOUSHALL,
Treas. Bap. State Convention.
Raleigh, May 19, 1894.

Prayer is a key which unlocks the blessings of the day and locks up the dangers of the night.—Young People's Union.

Unlike the Dutch Process

No Alkalies
—OR—
Other Chemicals
are used in the preparation of

W. BAKER & CO.'S
Breakfast Cocoa

which is absolutely pure and soluble.

It has more than three times the strength of Cocoa mixed with Starch, Arrowroot or Sugar, and is far more economical, costing less than one cent a cup. It is delicious, nourishing, and EASILY DIGESTED.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

W. BAKER & CO., Dorchester, Mass.

The Leading Conservatory of America.
Founded by Dr. E. Tourjée. Carl Faelten, Director.
Illustrated Calendar giving full information free.
New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

Lovely Complexion.

Pure, Soft, White Skin.

Have you freckles, moth, black heads, blotches, ugly or muddy skin, eczema, tetter, or any other cutaneous blemish? Do you want a quick, permanent and absolutely infallible cure, FREE OF COST to introduce it? Something new, pure, mild and so harmless a child can use or drink it with perfect safety. If so, send your Post-office address to

MISS HAGGIE E. MILLETT,
134 Vine Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.
AGENTS WANTED EVERYWHERE.

Wanted.

A private school from about the middle of June (or later) until middle of September, by a teacher of six year's successful experience in teaching. Address, LOCK BOX 6, Chapel Hill, N. C.

Moller Celebrated Pipe Organs
From $400 to $10,000.
All persons desiring a fine Pipe Organ should not fail to correspond with us. Specifications, Drawings and all information free of charge. Our Pipe Organs are now in eighteen States and Hilton, Hawaiian Isles. Address
M. P. MÖLLER, Hagerstown, Md.

If you know all about Indigestion---its cause, inevitable results, and cure---it will not interest you to read our treatise on the subject; otherwise you will find much valuable information in it. Free by mail.

ELECTROLIBRATION CO, Gould Building, Atlanta; 845 4th Ave., New York.

The Electropoise cures Indigestion.

Law School
University of North Carolina.

42d Regular Session begins Sept 6th, 1894. 14th Summer Session begins July 2d, 1894. For particulars address JOHN MANNING, LL. D., Chapel Hill, N. C.

I send designs to any address free of expense. In writing for them, always give age of deceased and some limit as to price. All work warranted first class and entirely satisfactory.

CHAS. M. WALSH.

For Spring Weddings.

W. H. & R. S. TUCKER & CO.,
RALEIGH, N. C.,

Are desirous of particularly directing your attention to their excellent assortments of Silks, Dress Goods, Laces, Linens, Underwear, Corsets, Shoes, Parasols and other out-fittings that are by custom necessary for bridal outfits.

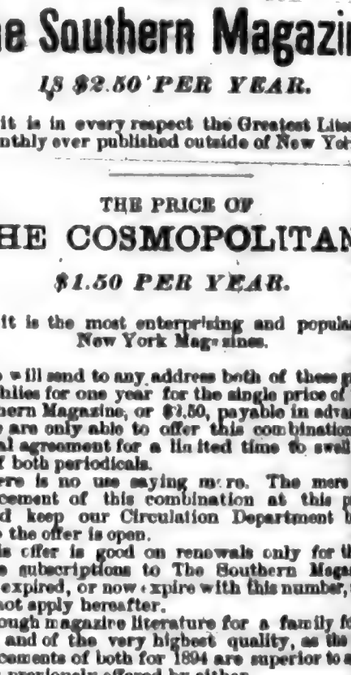
They send samples, offer suggestions, send articles on approval, and make up your dresses in the most stylish manner—equal to Paris made gowns and at moderate prices.

Ready-made tailor-finished suits are also offered in most approved styles.

Correspondence by mail, or a personal call, is solicited. Estimates furnished.

W. H. & R. S. Tucker & Co.

Hard Times Fertilizers



To meet the present Hard Times on Farmers, we will sell to farmers direct, for cash

Good Fertilizers
at the Lowest Wholesale Prices,
per ton.

for Corn, Cotton and Peanuts, at $13.50
for Truckers' Crops and Potatoes 14.50
for Oats, Tobacco and Fruits 15.00

Also Muriate Potash, Kainit, Sulphate Potash, Bone Black, Nitrate Soda, in large and small quantities. Send two 2-cent stamps for circulars

W. S. POWELL & CO.,
Fertilizer Manufacturers, Baltimore, Md.

Leaksville Woolen Mills,
LEAKSVILLE, N. C.,

are at the old place, under the old management, making the same line of excellent goods. Write us for information and samples if you have any wool to be manufactured into Blankets, Fancy Bed Spreads, Cassimere, Jeans, Flannels or Yarns.

For the present we will continue the most popular premium offer yet made.

THE PRICE OF
The Southern Magazine
IS $2.50 PER YEAR.

And it is in every respect the Greatest Literary Monthly ever published outside of New York.

THE PRICE OF
THE COSMOPOLITAN
$1.50 PER YEAR.

And it is the most enterprising and popular of New York Magazines.

We will send to any address both of these great monthlies for one year for the single price of The Southern Magazine, or $2.50, payable in advance.

We are only able to offer this combination by special agreement for a limited time to swell the list of both periodicals.

There is no use saying more. The mere announcement of this combination at this price should keep our Circulation Department busy while the offer is open.

This offer is good on renewals only for those whose subscriptions to The Southern Magazine have expired, or now expire with this number, and will not apply hereafter.

Enough magazine literature for a family for a year, and of the very highest quality, as the announcements of both for 1894 are superior to anything previously offered by either.

Send $2.50 by P. O. Money Order, Postal Note or Check direct to

THE SOUTHERN MAGAZINE,
(Circulation Department) Louisville, Ky.

N. B.—This offer is entirely separate from, and does not go in connection with any other premium offers or contests advertised by The Southern Magazine and is not open to subscriptions received through agents.

Wives and Daughters

Often lose the benefit of life assurance, taken out for their protection, because of ill-advised investments. Again, the intentions of the assured sometimes fail of realization through the prodigality of a son to whom the sudden possession of so much money proves too great a temptation.

The

Equitable Life

has provided against these contingencies by offering The Tontine Installment Policy. The premiums per thousand are much less than under older forms of insurance, and the amount is payable in 20, 25 or 30 annual payments, thus securing a comfortable income for the beneficiary. Write to

W. J. RODDEY, Manager,
For the Carolinas
ROCK HILL, S. C.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
THE VANDUZEN & TIFT CO.,
Cincinnati, Ohio, U. S. A.
CHURCH BELLS, PEALS AND CHIMES.
Prices & Terms Free. Satisfaction Guaranteed.

MARRIED.

JONES—O'BRIANT—At the residence of the groom, by Rev. G. T. Watkins, Mr. L. A. Jones and Mrs. L. O'Briant, all of Person county.

BUCHANAN—GENTRY—On March 24th, 1894, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Gentry, by Rev. G. T. Watkins, Mr. L. K. Buchanan and Miss Lorena Gentry.

MIZELL—SHEPPARD—On April 18th, 1894, in the Baptist church at Windsor, N. C., by Rev. J. B. Boone, Mr. William G. Mizell and Miss Tabitha Frost Sheppard, both of Windsor.

VEASEY—COLEMAN—On May 10th, 1894, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S Coleman, by Rev. G. T. Watkins, Mr. L. D. Veasey and Miss Nora Y. Coleman.

DIED.

ALLEN—On Friday morning, May 4th, 1894, the spirit of Miss Addie Allen returned to the God who gave it. She was the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Allen, and a consistent member of Brassfields Baptist church. Addie's life was short, being only fifteen years, but it was complete; for what she did not do in life will be accomplished in death. She was an obedient daughter, a loving and affectionate sister, and a patient and devout Christian. We will miss her sweet face and ways, but earth's loss is heaven's gain. God comfort and bless the bereaved father and mother, brothers and sisters.

PASTOR.

WOODSIDES—At 5 a. m. Saturday, the 19th inst., Mary Lizzie, the little four-year-old daughter of Capt. J. W. and Mary Woodsides, went home to him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven." The funeral and burial took place in the city cemetery at 3 p. m. Sunday. We tender our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family, and hope that they may comfort themselves with the precious thought that their little girl is at the beautiful gate waiting and watching for them.

"For yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled,
Then in heaven we hope to greet thee
Where no farewell tear is shed."

J. H. HILDRETH.

Tributes of Respect.

Sister Lelia Joyner was born July 30th, 1865, and died April 24th, 1894, after an illness of twelve hours. Taken in full health, in the prime of life, she had not time to say farewell to her loved ones, but to her sudden death was sudden glory! What a change, in the morning in the world of sin and sorrow, and in the evening in the presence of the Saviour, for he has said, "Where I am, there ye may be also." At an early age she professed faith in Christ, and was baptized by Elder M. L. Green into the fellowship of St. John's Baptist church, where she remained a faithful and active member. Her life was a beautiful example for the young she taught in our Sunday-school, as well as a benediction to all of those who came under her influence. We do not think of her as dead, but as asleep in Jesus, whose waking will be supremely blessed. Therefore be it, Resolved by St. Johns's Sunday-school 1. That we have lost one of our best workers and teachers.

2. That while our loss is great, we believe it is her eternal gain, and while there is one vacant seat, and one voice forever hushed on earth, we believe she lives in heaven.

3. That we tender our heartfelt sympathies to our brother, the bereaved husband, and sister, and pray God's blessing to rest on them and the dear little child.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the BIBLICAL RECORDER for publication; also a copy be sent to the bereaved husband, and a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Sunday-school.

W. E. JENKINS,
ELLA JENKINS,
BETTIE BRITTON,
CHARLIE COOK,
Committee.

January 13th, 1894, at the age of forty-five, sister Mary Jones exchanged the sufferings of this life for a blessed immortality. A husband, Bro. Seth Jones, and five children are left to mourn the loss of a faithful wife and an affectionate mother. For fourteen years she had been trusting Jesus as her Saviour, and she testified that he had not forsaken her in her last moments.

Sister Angeline Dodd, wife of Bro. John Dodd, after much suffering, passed away Feb. 5th, 1894, at the ripe old age of seventy-nine years. For fourteen years she had lived a consistent Christian life. Her resignation to the will of God was most complete. In the face of death she could say, "I am trusting Jesus." The Lord bless her life to the eternal profit of her loved ones.

Luther Broughton, son of Bro. George Broughton, died March 1st, 1894. For over four years he was a member of Mt. Moriah church. This young brother of nearly twenty years possessed qualities that would have terminated in a very useful Christian life. "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter."

After a few hours suffering, at the age of nearly sixty-nine years, Bro. James Bryant passed into that rest that remains for the people of God. That day, the 19th of January, 1894, was a sad day to very many hearts. For forty years he had been a faithful member of Mt. Moriah church. Only those who knew him best could estimate his worth as a church member. Ever at his post of duty with his heart absorbed in the Lord's work. With great enthusiasm he urged the claims of his Master upon the church and Sunday-school. How he would plead with God in prayer for the last ones! In his death the church has sustained a great loss, the wife bereft of a loving husband, the two sons of an affectionate father and counsellor.

R. H. GOWER,
MILTON BAUCOM,
Committee.

In ordering goods, or in making inquiry concerning anything advertised in this paper, you will confer a favor by mentioning the fact that you saw the advertisement in the BIBLICAL RECORDER.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

State News.

Only one Republican Presidential postmaster now in office in this State and he is the postmaster at Fayetteville.

M. London, the oldest lawyer of Wilmington, and one of the oldest and most distinguished in the State, died on the 9th, aged 81 years.

The campaign in the ninth congressional district, now represented by Congressman Crawford, has opened. Richard Pearson is his opponent.

The Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of North Carolina convened in annual session at Winston on the 16th. Dr. M. M. Marshall was elected president of the body.

Rev. R. L. Abernathy is out in an appeal for aid to help him meet a builder's bill on the new Rutherford College building. Unless the money is paid in a few months the property will be sold.

There will be no conflict between the date of the commencement exercises of the State Normal and Industrial School and the laying of the corner-stone of the Confederate Monument as was first supposed.

It has been decided by Gov. Carr that the encampment of the Third and Fourth Regiments of the State Guard be held this year at Morehead City at the same site as last year. The encampment will begin about July 10th.

On Wednesday morning last ten of the prisoners confined in the Raleigh jail broke out by forcing the steel cage and afterwards cutting through the brick wall. Among those who escaped was Orange Page who was to have been executed on June 1st.

The Supreme Court has given to the Governor its opinion as to the length of the terms of judges. Under it the old rule will be followed and the judges of both the Supreme and Superior Courts who are filling unexpired terms will come up this year for election.

There are many applicants for places in the government printing-office from this State and as heretofore we have had nearly a hundred representatives in this department of the government, somebody will not be disappointed. All told there are no less than two thousand five hundred men to appointed by the public printer.

The Washington Post says: The Confederate Veterans' Association at their hall, No. 910 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, held a meeting last evening in memory of the life and character of Senator Vance of North Carolina. Addresses were delivered by Senator Jarvis, Samuel Philips, and other distinguished gentlemen. The ladies of the Southern Relief Association were present together with a number of ladies and gentlemen who are not members of the society.

General News.

A section of two counties in Texas which has been drouth stricken for four years was visited by rain on Saturday last.

The Populist of Alabama have held an enthusiastic convention, and nominated a State ticket. Ex-Congressman Tom Watson received an ovation.

Congressman Oates, third Alabama district, stands the best chance for the gubernatorial nomination of his State. Convention will assemble on May 23d.

It has been authoritatively announced that efforts are being made to bribe Senator s to vote against the tariff bill. The Senate has voted to make full investigation.

Coney Island, near New York, one of the worst of resorts, has been placed in the hands of moral authorities and will be cleansed of its gambling establishments and other dens of iniquity.

The most sweeping and disastrous conflagration in years occurred in New York City in the early morning of the 16th. Washington Park and the Empire Coliseum were totally destroyed; also many houses. Loss $23,000.

The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 3,656,816 bales; of which 3,016,616 bales are American, against 3,616,311 bales and 3,003,011 bales, respectively, last year. Receipts of cotton this week at all interior towns 16,332 bales. Receipts from plantations 12,831 bales. Crop in sight, 7,994,912 bales.

Nervous Wreck From Dyspepsia.

OFFICE OF YORK ENTERPRISE,
YORKVILLE, S. C., August 14th, '91.

For the past six years my wife has been a sufferer from dyspepsia. So completely did the disease make a wreck of her former self that life was almost dispaired of. Her nervous system was almost entirely destroyed, and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for hours. Medical skill failed to bring any relief.

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we were induced to try the Electropoise. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its almost normal condition; her digestion is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful curative powers of the Electropoise, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electropoise, and its wonderful powers will quickly dispel all doubts.

Yours truly, W. M. PROPST.

December 8, 1893. Mr. Propst writes: "We still have the utmost confidence in the Electropoise and consider it invaluable."

Book free. Treatise on indigestion free. Electrolibration Co., 845 4th Avenue, New York, Gould Building, Atlanta.

As the State Intended.

Our State Normal and Industrial School has an attendance of three hundred and ninety pupils, and will graduate only eight teachers at the commencement in June! At this rate it will require more than five hundred years for the Normal School to supply enough teachers for our public schools, and each teacher supplied will have cost the State about $1,800 a year for preparation to teach! Why is this? It is because the Normal and Industrial School is simply transformed into a female seminary, trying to educate about four hundred girls each year, when it should be a normal school preparing about four hundred educated girls to teach each year. This is what the State intended.—N. C. Teacher.

The Episcopal Convention met at Winston last week. It meets at Morganton next year. 8,168 is the number of members of this church in North Carolina; value of church property, $481,870; church buildings, 113.

The widow of Senator Vance has announced that she will have published a life of her husband.

Nervous

Are you, can't sleep, can't eat, tired, thirsty? Blood poor?
It's a tonic you want—

Hires' Rootbeer.

This sparkling, exhilarating, and refreshing drink, while being far more agreeable in bouquet and flavor than the finest wine or champagne, is at the same time unlike them, being free from alcohol.

A temperance drink for temperance people, delicious and wholesome as well. Purifies the blood, tickles the palate.

Package makes five gallons.
Ask your storekeeper for it.

Take no substitutes.

Send 2-cent stamp to Chas. E. Hires Co., Philadelphia, for beautiful picture cards.

HELPLESS INVALID.

"About 18 months or two years ago my wife's health gave way, and she grew steadily worse. She could not retain scarcely anything she ate and the case finally assumed the worst form of

DYSPEPSIA and CHRONIC DIARRHŒA, and she became a helpless invalid at the age of 18. I had her under the treatment of a good physician, but his efforts to relieve her were of no avail. So, after matters had continued thus for 8 or 10 months, and my wife had given up to die, I took the case in my own hands and purchased a bottle of Dr. King's began giving it to her in water as hot as she could drink it, before and after each meal, using a mild purgative occasionally on retiring at night.

ROYAL GERMETUER,

Suffice it to say in less than a week there was

A WONDERFUL CHANGE.

She could eat a little of anything she desired, and today is a well woman. She used altogether possibly 4 or 6 bottles. In my opinion

GERMETUER HAS NO EQUAL."

HARRY L. WATTS, Winona, Miss.

Mr. Watts is traveling salesman for H. Zuberbier Co., wholesale grocers, New Orleans.
King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga

—AT THE—
RALEIGH
Stationery Co.,
309 Fayetteville Street,

Manufacturing Stationers,

Can be had the latest, freshest, and most attractive goods in this line to be found anywhere such as

Note and Letter Paper,

all qualities, both Folded or in Box.

Writing Pads,

all Grades.

PENS,

from the finest point to broadest stub.

PENCILS, all grades and prices. INK, numerous brands.

Stationery Supplies

in endless variety.

Anything in our line to fit out the best-appointed office or library. A call solicited.

RALEIGH STATIONERY CO.
W. G. SEPARK, Manager.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR HAS BEEN ENJOYED BY THE SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD OF THE
SOUTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION.

PERIODICALS
Grow in Excellence;
Grow in Favor;
Grow in Circulation.

Sunday Schools Using Them

. . . . GROW IN

Knowledge of Missions;
Interest in Missions;
Contributions to Missions.

Profits all go to Advance our Sunday School Interests.

The Young People's Leader

LEADS IN THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK.

Send for Samples of All.

PRICES.

The Teacher	50 cents a year	Kind Words, Weekly	50 cents a year
Advanced Quarterly	10 " "	Kind Words, Semi-monthly	26 " "
Intermediate Quarterly	9 " "	Kind Words, Monthly	16 " "
Primary Quarterly	9 " "	Child's Gem	25 " "
Lesson Leaflet	5 " "	Bible Lesson Pictures	65 a year.
Picture Lesson Cards	16 " "	Young People's Leader	40c " "

When ordering for one quarter, divide above prices by four. Terms cash. Broadus' Catechism, 5 cents apiece in any quantity; Manly's, larger, 75 cents a dozen; smaller, 50 cents. Reward Cards, Sunday-school Record Book, etc. Bibles and Testaments any style and price.

Baptist Sunday School Board,
T. P. Bell, Corresponding Secretary. Nashville, Tenn.

N. B.—The last Sunday in June comes on the 24th, on which day periodicals ought to be distributed. To have them on hand in time, Superintendents and Secretaries must order early in June. Don't put off till the last week.

ANNUAL STATEMENT

Showing the condition of the U. S. Branch of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company.

ASSETS. DECEMBER 31, 1893.

Value of real estate and ground rents owned by the Company, (less the amount of encumbrances thereon,)	$ 220,126.00
Account of stocks and bonds of the United States, and of this and other States, also all other stocks and bonds absolutely owned by the Company	1,998,625.00
Cash in Company's principal office and belonging to the Company, deposited in bank	129,942.45
Premiums or assessments unpaid	315,997.00
Premium or assessment loans and notes	8,434.72
All other assets, detailed in statement	2,924.82
Total Assets	$ 2,641,098.99

LIABILITIES.

Losses unpaid, including those resisted	$ 271,516.65
Reserve, as required by law	1,617,880.34
All other claims	73,809.93
Total Liabilities	$ 1,963,196.92
Total income	$ 2,199,267.02
Total expenditures	2,094,185.15

NORTH CAROLINA BUSINESS IN 1893.

Risks written	$ 666,641.75
Premiums received	11,996.23
Losses paid on risks taken	24,198.14
Losses incurred	11,641.44

Manager, JEFFREY BEAVAN.

General Agent, B. C. COWPER, Raleigh, N. C.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE,
INSURANCE DEPARTMENT,
RALEIGH, N. C., December 31, 1893.

In compliance with Sec. 9 of "An Act to consolidate the Insurance Laws of North Carolina," I certify that the above is a true extract from the sworn statement of the U. S. Branch of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company on December 31st, 1893, now on file in this department.

OCTAVIUS COKE, Secretary of State.

AS A GARMENT OF MERIT
THE GENUINE JACKSON CORSET WAIST
STANDS AT THE FRONT.
It is Rapidly Replacing Old-Style, Uncomfortable and Unhealthful Corsets.

Easy-fitting, yet giving complete support to the form. It is well made, of good material and fast colors. We ask you to try it.

For sale by leading merchants everywhere. Take no substitute. If your dealer will not get it for you, write to the factory.

Made Only by the JACKSON CORSET CO., Jackson, Mich.

ASK YOUR AGENT FOR A POLICY
—IN THE—
N. C. Home Insurance Co.

This Company has been in successful operation for twenty-two years, and paid out

$600,000

to its policy holders for losses.

INSURE AGAINST FIRE

W. S. PRIMROSE, President.
W. G. UPCHURCH, Vice-President.
CHAS. ROOT, Sec'y-Treasurer.
F. COWPER, Adjuster

HOME OFFICE, RALEIGH, N. C.

BELLS

Steel Alloy Church and School Bells. Catalogue. C. S. BELL & CO., Hillsboro, O.

Musical Entertainments

for Young Folks. For use in public and private schools, and the home. Tableaux, Marches, Drills, etc.

A Capital Song, A lesson in geography. 50 cents.
Ball Tossing, A series of evolutions. 25 cents.
Heroes, A marching song for boys. 15 cents.
Japanese Parasol March and Drill, 50 cents.
Song of the Rain Drops, A motion song. 50 cents.
Tambourine March and Drill, 50 cents.
Today, A character sketch with tableaux. 25 cents.
Tomorrow or the Music of the Future, 50 cts.
The Ten Little Sunflowers, A humorous chorus and encore. Very entertaining. 50 cents.
Yesterday or Grandma's Dream, A beautiful little sketch with old time costumes. 50 cents.
Theory and Practice, A singing class lesson. 25 cts.
The Jolly Little Waiters, 25 cents.
The Little Turkish Turks, 25 cents.
I'm Ashamed to Look my Baby in the Eyes, A cute song for a bright little girl. 25 cents.

SEND FOR COMPLETE CATALOGUE FREE.

Sample copy of Musical Visitor containing Choir Anthems for 10 cents.

—PUBLISHED BY—
THE JOHN CHURCH CO.
CINCINNATI, NEW YORK, CHICAGO.

The Cincinnati Bell Foundry Co. Sole Makers of the Buckeye BELLS FOR CHURCH, SCHOOL, ETC. Catalogue with 2500 testimonials, prices, etc., free. Please mention this paper.

The Home Circle.

Unbelief.

There is no unbelief;
Whoever plants a seed beneath the sod
And waits to see it push away the clod—
He trusts in God.

Whoever says, when clouds are in the sky,
"Be patient, heart; light breaketh by and by,"
Trusts the most high.

Whoever sees 'neath winter's field of snow
The silent harvest of the future grow,
God's power must know.

Whoever lies down on his couch to sleep,
Content to lock each sense in slumber deep,
Knows God will keep.

Whoever says, "To-morrow," "The unknown,"
"The future" trusts that Power alone
He dares disown.

The heart that looks on when the eyelids close,
And dares to live when life has only woes,
God's comfort knows.

There is no unbelief;
And day by day, and night, unconsciously
The heart lives by that faith the lips deny—
God knoweth why.

—Bulwer.

An Editorial Letter to Girls.

God has created us with temper, and it is right that temper should arise when there is an occasion for it. It is in the management of it that we are blameworthy or praiseworthy.

I had the opportunity of seeing two young ladies in terrible paroxysms of temper. The expressions upon their faces, their gestures and words, were almost frightful. I might easily have imagined them maniacs. They were not conscious of being observed, and said and did many disgraceful things. Both were members of the Christian church, had been and afterwards were intimate friends. The scene was in a hotel parlor; they were strangers to me then, but they will both read this description.

While observing them I noticed that when each raised her voice the other raised hers higher; that when one made gestures of of scorn and contempt the other followed with those still more violent. When they had vociferated and gesticulated about two minutes they ceased to complete their sentences, and made havoc of verbs and nouns so that it would have been impossible to parse anything they said. They also ceased to describe the things complained of and used epithets.

While this was going on I thought out four rules for self controls.

First. Under circumstances of provocation keep your voice low. Speak in an unusually moderate tone, especially if you are conversing with a person who is speaking in a loud tone. As her voice rises, lower yours. Then you will not lose your self-control nor stimulate her in the wrong direction.

Second. Make no gestures of any kind, even if you have to clasp your hands tightly, for these will fan the flame and intensify everything you say. I noticed in the case mentioned that one of the girls was far more offensive in gestures, including the expression of her face, than in words.

Third. Finish your sentences. There is no reason why you should be ungrammatical or incoherent because you are angry.

Fourth. Describe the things you complain of, and use no epithets. The latter are like poisoned arrows.

These rules will certainly enable you to keep your temper under control.

The effects of paroxysms of passion are bad, especially upon girls. Boys soon learn that it is dangerous to use violent language and make threatening gestures, for it tends to "a breach of the peace;" and unless one means to be a bully he is compelled to practice self control to avoid provoking his opponent to blows.

Frequent outbreaks of temper leave their traces upon the face. I have seen a woman at thirty-five who was of exceeding beauty at twenty, but the marks of temper had given her an almost demoniacal appearance. Lines were drawn upon her face, her eye had a hard and spiteful look, and she had gone so far and was so uncontrollable that, though not insane, she was incarcerated in an institution.

The marriage bells have rung at many a wedding which seemed to have every prospect of happiness, but ended disastrously because of the uncontrollable temper of the wife; and there is many a family where one of the several sisters is a constant foe to peace and love. I could say the same, of course, of boys, but this letter is written to girls.

A girl who occasionally loses her temper and is good natured the rest of the time is preferable as an associate to one who without violence is constantly nagging, irritating her friends and relatives beyond endurance. Strange to say, this is sometimes connected with unusual beauty of face and figure, charm of manner, softness of voice, and a seeming self-control. No one is so much disliked as a person of this sort. The habit often is contracted by imperceptible degrees, beginning with venting one's petty ailments or disappointments in cross looks and words, constantly criticising the taste, conduct, or words of members of the family, and finally becoming so seriously affected as to spread the contagion of sour looks and bitter fault finding words wherever she goes.—Dr. J. M. Buckley, in Christian Advocate.

For Exhaustion
Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. J. Pourness-Brice, of S. S. Teutonic, says: "I have prescribed it in my practice among the passengers travelling to and from Europe, in this steamer, and the result has satisfied me that if taken in time, it will, in a great many cases, prevent sea-sickness."

Hen Cholera.

A correspondent asks: "Will you be so kind as to tell me the symptoms of hen cholera, and its cure?"

It would be difficult to define the symptoms of hen or chicken cholera, as what is called by that name may differ in different localities or conditions. One poultry authority thinks the disorder so called is rather a protest of nature against improper feeding and housing than a well defined disease, and he goes on to say that "fowls are often in poor condition on account of the vermin they are obliged to support, or they may be in impaired health from continuous feeding on corn alone," and that "when in this weakened state a sudden change in the weather may induce diarrhœa or a cold, which attacks the flock so generally that the disease appears to be epidemic. And being generally and rapidly fatal, it is called 'cholera.'"

The first thing to be done, when such a disorder breaks out, is to separate the sick fowls from the well ones, and the next is thoroughly to cleanse the poultry house, fumigate it with sulphur, and whitewash the interior, adding half a pound of crude carbolic acid to each pailful of the limewash.

Various remedies are recommended, such as an immediate change of food, which should be of the most nourishing character, combined with some stimulant like cayenne pepper, or a tonic like iron. The latter may readily be administered by placing a few rusty nails in the drinking water. A saturated solution of alum has also been found efficacious, two or three teaspoonfuls of which should be given, and the dose repeated on the following day. If these remedies do not suffice, the surest remedy we know of is a single application of sharp steel. Its timely application to those first attacked may save trouble with the rest of the flock.—Examiner.

A Cinder in the Eye.

Nine persons out of every ten with a cinder or any foreign substance in the eye will instantly begin to rub the eye with one hand, while hunting for their handkerchief with the other. They may and sometimes do remove the offending cinder, but more frequently they rub till the eye becomes inflamed, bind a handkerchief around the head and go to bed. This is all wrong. The better way is not to rub the eye with the cinder in at all, but rub the other eye as vigorously as you like, according to a writer in the Medical Summary, who relates the following experience:

"A few years since I was riding on the engine of a fast express. The engineer threw open the front window, and I caught a cinder that gave me the most excruciating pain. I began to rub the eye with both hands. "Let your eye alone and rub the other eye" (this from the engineer). I thought he was chaffing me and worked the harder. "I know you doctors think you know it all, but if you will let that eye alone and rub the other one, the cinder will be out in two minutes," persisted the engineer. I began to rub the other eye, and soon I felt the cinder down near the inner canthus and made ready to take it out. "Let it alone and keep at the well eye," shouted the doctor pro tem. I did so for a minute longer, and looking in a small glass he gave me, I found the offender on my cheek. Since then I have tried it many times, and I have never known it to fail in one instance, unless it was as sharp as a piece of steel or something that cut into the ball and required an operation to remove it.

Johnson's Oriental Soap is far superior to all the other so called medicinal soaps for beautifying the complexion. Sold by Jno. Y. MacRae, druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

"Steer Straight for Me."

A fisherman, who drank to excess, used to sail from a small cove on the Scotch coast to the fishing grounds. There was no lighthouse to guide him, not even a beacon light, and the channel was intricate. When he had taken a drop too much, and night had fallen, it was dangerous work entering that cove.

His little son used to watch for his father's coming, and as soon as he saw him he would run down to the point, and cry out: "Steer straight for me, father, and you'll get safe home!"

The boy died, and one evening the father was sitting at the lonely fireside. His conscience troubled him, for he had been thinking over the sins of his life. Suddenly he thought he heard the voice of his boy ring out through the darkness: "Steer straight for me, father, and you'll get safe home!"

Springing to his feet he called out: "You're right this time, my son!"

From that moment he was a changed man. His sobriety and pious life attested the genuineness of his conversion.—Independent.

Admiral Farragut.

Admiral Farragut on one occasion said: Would you like to know how I was enabled to serve my country? It was owing to a resolution I formed when I was ten years old. My father sent me down to New Orleans with the little navy we then had, to look after the treason of Burr. I accompanied him as cabin-boy. I had some qualities that I thought made a man of me. I could swear like a salt, could drink a stiff glass of grog as if I had doubled Cape Horn, and could smoke like a locomotive. I was great at cards, and fond of gaming in every shape. At the close of dinner one day, my father turned everybody out of the cabin, locked the door and said to me:

"David, what do you intend to be?"

"I mean to follow the sea."

"Follow the sea! Yes; be a poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast, kicked and cuffed about the world, and die in some fever hospital in a foreign clime."

"No," I said, "I'll tread the quarter-deck and command, as you do."

"No, David; no boy ever trod the quarter-deck with such principles as you have, and such habits as you exhibit. You'll have to change your whole course of life if you become a man."

My father left me, and went on deck. I was stung by the rebuke, and overwhelmed with mortification. "A poor, miserable, drunken sailor before the mast, kicked and cuffed about the world, and to die in some fever hospital!" That's my fate, is it? I'll change my life, and change it now. I will never utter another oath; I will never drink another drop of intoxicating liquors; I will never gamble, and, as God is my witness, I have kept those vows to this hour.

There is a Boy I Can Trust.

We once visited a public school. At recess a little fellow came up and spoke to the teacher; as he turned to go down the platform, the master said: "That is a boy I can trust. He never failed me." We followed him with our eye, and looked at him when he took his seat after recess. He had a fine, open, manly face. We thought a good deal about the master's remark. What a character had that boy earned! He had already got what would be worth more to him than a fortune. It would be a passport into the best store in the city, and, what is better, into the confidence and respect of the whole community. We wonder if the boys know how soon they are rated by other people. Every boy in the neighborhood is known, and opinions are formed of him; he has a character either favorable or unfavorable. A boy of whom the master can say, "I can trust him; he never failed me," will never want employment.—Our Dumb Animals.

By using Hall's Hair Renewer, gray, faded, or discolored hair assumes the natural color of youth, and grows luxuriant and strong, pleasing everybody.

Love is the crowning grace of humanity, the holiest right of the soul, the golden link which binds us to duty and truth, the redeeming principle that chiefly reconciles the heart of life, and is prophetic of eternal good.—Petrarch.

SLEEPLESSNESS,

Nervous Debility, Nervous Exhaustion, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia, Melancholia, and kindred ailments, whether resulting from over anxiety, overwork or study, or from unnatural habits or excesses, are treated as a specialty, with great success, by the Staff of Specialists attached to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. Personal examinations not always necessary. Many cases are successfully treated at a distance.

ASTHMA. A new and wonderfully successful treatment has been discovered for Asthma and Hay Fever, which can be sent by Mail or Express.

It is not simply a palliative but a radical cure.

For pamphlets, question blanks, references and particulars, in relation to any of the above mentioned diseases, address, with ten cents in stamps, World's Dispensary Medical Association, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

School Printing.

We are now specially prepared for all classes of School Printing, Catalogues, Announcements, Circulars, Invitations, Programmes, &c., in the highest style of Printing Art.

Fresh Type and Papers
Latest styles. Work done with great despatch.

EDWARDS & BROUGHTON,
Printers & Binders,
RALEIGH, N. C.

MAGNETIC NERVINE.

is sold with written guarantee to cure Nervous Prostration, Fits, Dizziness, Headache and Neuralgia and Wakefulness, caused by excessive use of Opium, Tobacco and Alcohol; Mental Depression, Softening of the Brain, causing Misery, Insanity and Death; Barrenness, Impotency, Lost Power in either sex, Premature Old Age, Involuntary Losses, caused by over-indulgence, over-exertion of the Brain and Errors of Youth. It gives to Weak Organs their Natural Vigor and doubles the joys of life; cures Leucorrhœa and Female Weakness. A month's treatment, in plain package, by mail, to any address, $1 per box, 6 boxes $5. With every $5 order we give a Written Guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circulars free. Guarantee issued only by our exclusive agent.

- BEFORE - AFTER -

JNO. Y. MacRAE, Druggist, Raleigh, N. C.

Do not be deceived.—The following brands of White Lead are still made by the "Old Dutch" process of slow corrosion. They are standard, and always

Strictly Pure White Lead

"Atlantic" New York. "Jewett" New York.
"John T. Lewis & Bros." Philadelphia.

The recommendation of any of them to you by your merchant is an evidence of his reliability, as he can sell you ready-mixed paints and bogus White Lead and make a larger profit. Many short-sighted dealers do so.

For Colors.—National Lead Co.'s Pure White Lead Tinting Colors, a one-pound can to a 25-pound keg of Lead, and mix your own paints. Saves time and annoyance in matching shades, and insures the best paint that it is possible to put on wood.

Send us a postal card and get our book on paints and color-card, free; it will probably save you a good many dollars.

Philadelphia Branch, 631 South Front Street, Philadelphia.

NATIONAL LEAD CO., New York.

PEACE INSTITUTE, FOR YOUNG LADIES,
RALEIGH, N. C.

Advanced, thorough, select. Unsurpassed in location, faculty, furniture, and fare. Musical Director full graduate of Leipsic. Assistant a graduate of Berlin Conservatory. The Art department unrivalled. Why send out of our State when superior advantages can be obtained here at less price? Send for catalogues to JAS. DINWIDDIE, M. A., (Univ. of Va.) Principal.

TO TEACHERS:

We Want

YOUR OLD BOOKS.

The handsome "North Carolina Practical Spelling Book" is adopted by the State Board of Education for use in all the public schools. The price is 20 cents a copy. Send us the old spelling books now used in your school, and 12 cents with each, and we will send the same number of new North Carolina spellers by mail, postpaid.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO.

TO DEALERS IN BOOKS:

You Exchange Even for Live Books.

We will make even exchange with you, value for value, for all the spelling books you have in stock, supplying the handsome new "North Carolina Spelling Book," which is to be used in all the public schools. Send the spelling books you have on hand to us by Express, prepaid, and the North Carolina speller will be sent to you in the same way.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & CO., Publishers and Booksellers, RALEIGH, N. C.

Paints, Oils, Glass, Sash, Doors, Blinds.	HARDWARE	Special Large Lamps For Stores, Halls, &c.
Thos. H. Briggs & Sons, Raleigh, N. C.
Lime, Plaster, Cement, Nails, Iron, Steel.	STOVES	Best Goods, Lowest Prices, Square Dealing.

JULIUS LEWIS & CO.,

224 FAYETTEVILLE STREET, RALEIGH, N. C.,

OFFER AT LOW PRICES

Refrigerators,

Ice Cream Freezers,

FLY FANS, &c.

Bolles' Celebrated Cotton Hoes,

Garden Tools, Rubber and Leather Belting, Sash, Doors and Blinds, Lime, Plaster and Cement.

HARDWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Making Tobacco Flues a Specialty.

Notice to Teachers

DO YOU WANT A POSITION? We will help you get one for small remuneration. Do you know of a position in need of a teacher? We will provide one for nothing. Send stamp for particulars. C. J. PARKER, Mgr. Teachers' Southern Aid Asso., Raleigh, N. C.

Do You Want a Teacher?

TEACHERS' EXCHANGE,
Box 373, Richmond, Va.,

Supplies Colleges, Schools and Families with Teachers without charge. Secures situations for teachers at moderate cost. Correspondence solicited. WM. F. FOX, Manager.

BIBLICAL RECORDER.

THE ORGAN OF THE NORTH CAROLINA BAPTISTS—DEVOTED TO BIBLE RELIGION, EDUCATION, LITERATURE AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Volume 59. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1894. Number 47.

The Biblical Recorder.

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY.

OFFICE:

113 (up stairs) Fayetteville Street, Raleigh, N. C.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION:

One copy, one year.....$ 2.00
One copy, six months..... 1.00
Clubs of ten (copy extra to sender)..... 20.00

Anonymous communications will always find their way to the waste basket. No exceptions.

In sending letters of business, it is absolutely necessary that you give your postoffice address in full.

The date on the label of your paper indicates when your subscription expires, and also serves as a receipt for your money.

Obituaries, sixty words long, are inserted free of charge. When they exceed this length, one cent for each word should be paid in advance.

When writing to have your paper changed, please state the postoffice at which you receive the paper, as well as the one to which you wish it changed.

Remittances must be sent by Registered Letter, Postoffice Order, Postal Note, Express or Draft, payable to the order of the Publisher. Do not send stamps.

THE world is now in greater need of a Joshua than the children of Israel were in the days of their direst tribulation. Wildernesses of business, money, politics, society, and kindred things tainted with sin are round about every place where human beings are. Worshipers of the golden calf have increased ever since the serpent was lowered, notwithstanding that a man and a God was raised for sin-stung men more than eighteen and a half centuries ago. Most of the civilized half of the world is said to be Christian; yet no one will contend that one man in ten is Christ like. We acknowledge Christ with every breath: we cannot date a letter without certifying to his birth. Our public assemblies are usually opened with prayer for God's guidance; yet many of those prayers, if we may express our opinion, are of no more avail than were those which used to ascend to Jove; they lack just what was characteristic of the ancient pagan supplication—faith; the two are similar in that they are high-sounding and self-imbued, and in that they are forms ordained by custom. Moreover, present day public assemblies are not disposed to follow God's guidance, after they have secured it, for they have it always.

The world must believe what it pretends to believe, and must live what it believes, if it would become Christian; for Christianity is not merely a name: it is a life acknowledged by all men to have been the best of lives, often lauded, but seldom imitated. That is what the world needs; that life would bring us all things good, not only in the future, but now. Men need a leader—a Moses by day, a luminous cloud by night—some one who is powerful and authoritative, and in whom they can trust; and such a one is Christ. We are divided, one crying this, another that, all crying for something; each laying burdens upon the other, all seeking the removal of those burdens by wrong means, save those few who know the Burden-bearer. We shall always have money and business and politics and social abnormities and sin; but all except the latter may be elevated nigh unto purity, and the latter may be reduced to a minimum. The world can get better, albeit we are of the earth earthy; and it must get better, not by a general reformation such as other centuries have witnessed, but humble individual efforts on the part of each one, who would have it better, to better one's self, regardless of what others do, who would not be bettered.

WE were remarking some weeks ago upon the large part that statisticians are taking in affairs of all sorts. Everything is bounded by figures, we said; and an inclination to complain of their multiplicity and wearying frequency was manifested. But we didn't know at the time that census agents were preparing to promulgate a special bulletin of matrimonial figures, else we might have been more vituperative. We thought matters had already gone too far, but we will not be surprised hereafter to realize that the monopoly of figures relating to the stars, the sands, and the hairs of our head has been arrogated by men. We dare say there is nothing in sight of the reader that is not included in the figures of some bureau of statistics. They are usually tiresome, but this matrimonial bulletin is quite interesting, and has somehow served to relieve us of a depressing sensation: we have at least some certainty about the matter now, and, to be sure, are not timorous of it anyway.

Who would have thought that of the 63,632,350 persons in the United States, 37,139,564 were unmarried? Surely some of us can't sing that song, which has so much in it about "alone," any more. Why, we are in the majority! But alas, this consolatory number includes 22,242,200 (male and female) persons who are less than fifteen years of age. We have become lonely again. The real number of single marriageable persons is about one-fourth the total population. The number of widowers is 2.54 per cent. of the total number of males; of widows, 7.05 per cent. of the total number of females. This manifests that the proportion of widowers who marry again to that of widows is three to one! Who would have thought it! But here's consolation for the sisters: In divorce statistics women show superior fidelity to their vows. The number of men who have divorced their wives is 71,895; of divorced men, the number is 49,101. There are more married males than married females, which seems unusual, until we recall the fact that there are numerous foreigners at work here who have left their wives in the old country. However, there are 2,067,880 more males in this country anyway, but no one who has heard a woman's suffrage orator would believe it. It seems anomalous, too, when we reflect that this generation of men was lessened by the war.

THE bulletin referred to above is the first essay of the kind by our government. It is scarcely necessary to say that it has been received with so much favor by the voting majority of our population that another will be issued with the next census, in order that comparisons may be made, and that it may be seen precisely how the matrimonial world wags. As it is now, we do not know whether to commiserate or congratulate ourselves, for we do not know whether we are improving or not; and, to be sure, we could not make the statement undisputed even if we had the figures for several centuries. We deal with a subject upon which there are differences of opinion.

We venture to predict, however, that ten years from now, unless present social conditions, especially among the classes which have more claim to the title of "cultured," the statistics will show that marriages have not kept pace with the increase in population. There are too many womanish men and manish women among us to promote wholesome conditions. We need manliness and womanliness, and godliness to unite the two; and then another step will have been taken towards that general betterment of which we were speaking just now.

THE resignation of Richard Croker, for many years Grand Sachem of the Tammany Society of New York City marks an era in metropolitan politics; and is of hopeful significance to all who feel that the problem of municipal politics is the critical question of this day. We presume that there is scarcely one of our readers who has not heard of this pernicious political organization, which has controlled New York City for many years and New York State almost as long, and which threatened to exert a dominating influence over the nation. It was founded as a benevolent order more than a century ago, but became so powerful that the benevolent feature was lost sight of, as has occasionally been the case with more than one benevolent order, and it resolved itself into a political machine, after which hundreds of little ballot-stealing machines all over the land are modeled. It was in Tammany that Tweed committed his notorious outrages; and Croker is disciple and successor of Tweed, and has wielded more power than he did, although his actions have never been so flagrant. Croker is said to be the shrewdest politician living, and none shrewder than he has died. He brought Tammany to the heyday of its glory. New York City was at his feet; the public moneys were his; the police were his; he prostituted the State Legislature; he reached out for the nation, and he was humbled in a sweeping condemnation. Croker is now a race-horse owner—a gambler. But Tammany has not yet realized its end. It is trying to assume a shape of decency, and though crippled, still struggles as mighty dying things only can struggle. Religion and morality will not let it live. Brooklyn has taught her sister city and the country a lesson in municipal politics. It elected a mayor regardless of politics. It sought the best man for the place, and his merits were not measured by his opinion of the tariff, or finance, or his votes, or his ability to work for a party.

There is a Tammany in almost every locality, and every Tammany has its Croker—a political boss, who has a way of carrying elections against seemingly overwhelming public sentiment. They should be turned down as Croker has been. City elections in themselves have nothing to do with national questions; and if we are to rid us of machines and little Crokers, we must bear this in mind and vote, not for one who has been of service to a party, but for one who is capable of being of the largest service to the city. Such a consummation would be another step towards that betterment of which we were speaking; it will expel politics from our home—a demon among us, the demon who makes bar rooms possible.

How Far Ought a State to Undertake to Educate?

BY CHAS. E. TAYLOR.

[CONCLUDED]

But, even if it were possible to retain all desirable studies, could these studies be pursued, in a State institution, in the midst of a distinctively Christian atmosphere?

The question, it will be observed, is not whether an institution may be located in a community in which there are churches and pastors, &c., of all kinds, but whether religious influences may be encouraged to permeate the institution itself.

If it should be claimed that there is in several State colleges a high standard of Christianity and morality, this claim will not be disputed. Facts in substantiation of such a claim may be interesting in themselves, but however numerous they may be, they will be no answer to the argument which is here presented. For the point at issue is, not whether a State ever uses the means by which this condition is produced, but whether a State ever has the right to do so. And it might also be asked whether there is any good ground for expecting this condition to be permanent.

The late Dr. Mangum, referring to his work as a Professor at Chapel Hill, says: "I vow, and would gladly appeal to my students as witnesses, that in and out of the class-room I have found it practicable, without violation of my duty to respect the denominational rights of every student, most earnestly to inculcate Christian morals and often most urgently to press upon young men the duty to commit themselves to all that is involved in personal religion."

And the writer has again and again heard another eminent professor of Moral Philosophy in a State University insist upon doctrines, which, however admirable and true they may have been in themselves, antagonized the beliefs of large numbers of the citizens of the State that employed him.

It is not enough to "respect the denominational rights of every student" in a State college. The religious opinions of all other citizens, who may not be students, must also be respected. And, as has already been pointed out, "denominational" has a far wider range of significance from the point of view of a State than from the point of view of any Protestant church.

If the Trustees of a State school may provide a building, or even the site for a building, for any one kind of religious services, can they deny its use for any other services which may claim to be religious? Who would decide what teaching might be admitted, and what should be excluded? And what would be the criterion for a decision? Such objections as these are not visionary, as one might perhaps say in reply, for practical difficulties of this sort have actually presented themselves for solution in other States.

